FORT DODGE, Ia. —(UP)— Mrs. Otto Zimmerman, farm housewife, is operating a one-women organization for European relief.

For the past 18 months she has been sending food and clothing to 25 families in the Russian, English and French occupation zones of Germany. She mailed her 200th package recently.

Recipients are the families of her five sisters and three brothers and of nephews, nieces, grand-nephews and grand-nieces. However, she also sends parcels to several families not related to her.

Mrs. Zimmerman heard nothing from her relatives during the recent war, but in August, 1946 she began receiving letters from her brothers and sisters relating to their hardships.

She began sending food parcels through CARE. More than $300 of her butter and egg money went for the packages. Then she began mailing to her own bundles of food and clothing. In the past year she has spent more than $1,000 on the packages. Her husband and son, William, 17, a high school student, help pack and mail the 22-pound parcels which are turned out in assembly-line fashion.

40 Years a Hen House, He Makes it Home

CHATFIELD, Minn. —(UP)— After 40 years as a hen house, a building erected in 1906 by the Success Poultry Yards became the roost for Richard Schrader, who was caught in the housing shortage.

Schrader put in a cement floor, eight windows, plastered the walls, and converted the 40-by-40 building into four rooms, 10-by-10 feet.

Communist Have Seizure Plans

PARIS —(UP)— A Communist military blueprint for seizing control of a city and smashing back tanks and armored columns has been published in the party's army weekly, France d'Abord (France First).

The magazine, which was barred recently from French Army barracks by the government, but bonsts a military circulation of "nearly 100,000," published the blueprint under the title of "The Role of Cities in Modern Combat."

The article cited two rules of thumb for defending a city or any section of it. First was "Whoever controls the rooftops controls the whole street." The second maxim was "In street fighting, the shot that counts is the shot that kills."

Audacity Called For

Illustrated by diagrams, the unsigned article said:

"War in the streets is carried on by audacity, resolution, and exploitation of the possibilities of the terrain. In brief, it is carried on by offensive to the death, because more than in any other form of fighting, morale plays the decisive role. Ideological foundations for the fighting are thus essential as well as the formation of trained leaders."

The article was written more from the point of view of the population defending a city against an armed and mechanized aggression than from the viewpoint of a professional army, it said.

All Navy collectors for the March of Dimes will forward their checks to the Welfare and Recreation office at Commander Marianas immediately so that a "lump-sum" check may be sent on to the National Foundation.

Plant Expert Seeks Good Nickel Cigar

NEW YORK —(UP)— Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist, is out to give this country a good five-cent cigar.

He insists, however, that no such thing is possible as long as the tobacco plant suffers from $5,000,000 diseases.

Dr. Valleau, a veteran in the study of plant diseases, reports that progress is being made in the battle to free the nation's crop of tobacco from disease—that he has been able to develop a new kind of tobacco with resistance to not one, but four major diseases.

Starting with a wild form of tobacco with resistance to the wildfire disease, Dr. Valleau used a drug known as colchicine to induce the reluctant wild tobacco to cross the domestic tobacco.

Then, step by step, he mated the offspring with plants resistant to root rot, wilt and mosaic. Finally, he produced tobacco plants of acceptable market and agricultural qualities, with resistance to all four diseases.

Such advances, he believes will bring back the good five-cent cigar.

Fire Marshal Gives Fire Safety Hints

Mr. E. T. Peterson, Island Fire Marshall, reports that besides the General Island Fire Department regulations, a station fire bill at each command provides that various other personnel report to the scene of the fire. Among these are ambulances, duty plumbers and electricians, and Master at Arms.

In reporting to the fire, these units are reminded to carry out provisions of the regulations concerning speed of vehicles, red lights, and sirens. It is further urged that the units park their vehicles in an area distant enough to prevent their obstructing the operation of fire-fighting aparatus. The duty officer's vehicle is suggested as the point at which auxiliary units should report and await further instructions.

Another topic relating to fire safety is the installation of fluorescent lighting fixtures in buildings. According to Peterson, the fixtures are often installed in such a manner as to bring the ballast or transformer into close contact with wooden beams or bulkheads. Previous instances of fires breaking out due to faity installation of fixtures has proven that these fixtures can become hot enough to ignite the building without necessarily blowing an ordinary 15 ampere fuse.

For this reason, it is strongly urged that extreme care be used in installing flourescent lighting fixtures, or better still, have the work done by a competent "qualified" electrician.

Worker Injured as Fire Pontoon Crashes

HARMON FIELD——A fire department pontoon was damaged beyond repair and a civilian employee, Pablo Gonzales, was bruised as a result of an accident which occured Sunday, while on a routine check run with Harmon Field crash crew and equipment.

This is the first accident of its kind to be recorded at Harmon Field fire department.

The cause of the accident was attributed to a rapid turn at high speed.

No More Mail Lines At Harmon Field

HARMON FIELD —— There will be no more waiting in line for mail at the Harmon Field post office. The officer and civilian mail boxes have been transparent so personnel calling for mail may actually see if they have any. This is only one of the many alterations which have been made at the post office. Others include the completion of the package room and a new administrative office. The color scheme is bluish gray trimmed in black.

Acting F-Sgt. Jack H. Miller states that, with the new mail distribution boxes and office space, the mail handling volume has been greatly increased to expedite more mail in less time.

The good that woodpeckers do—eating destructive insects—far outweighs any pecking damage to the tree itself, tree experts say.

Guam Soldiers Make Good Use of USAFI

HQ. 46TH FIGHTER WING, Guam—A total of 123 soldiers of this command have so far enrolled in USAFI for 197 different courses since January 6.

The mobile unit of USAFI, headed by Miss Helen Nelson, a former teacher, and assisted by Cpl. Shubart, has been at Northwest Air Base this past month.

This unit has brought the schools and campus of the United States to the men on Guam to enable them to further their education and prepare themselves either for civilian occupations, or a continued Army career.

Ex-Governor Shines In Raising Funds

INDIANAPOLIS —(UP)— When you put the former governor of Indiana, Henry P. Schricker, in charge of raising funds for a good cause, you know that he is going to canvass all available sources of income.

Among the thousands of letters he signed asking for contributions to the March of Dimes was one addressed to himself. He received the letter while addressing a committee meeting. He delayed proceedings long enough to write a check, which he mailed to himself.

Ladies and Mens'

Ready to Wear

(West of 5th Service Depot)

AMES, Ia. —(UP)— From the looks of things, the woman shopper will have to look hard before she buys quality fabrics or dresses for that new look.

Lucille Rea, Iowa State Colege Extension clothing specialist, remarked that the time was when a woman could tell by "looks" and "feel" what she was buying in the way of quality merchandise. That was because cotton, silk, linen, wool and that newcomer, rayon, were the only materials she had to choose from.

Many New Fabrics

Today, Miss Rea said, many man-made fibers and special finishes often look like what they aren't and offer still more surprising uses. There are crush-resistant, water-repellent, flame-retardant, and permanent-crisp finishes — just to mention a few. There also are blended fabrics, made up of a combination of fibers. Nylon and wool, for instance.

Miss Rea recommends that you look for informative labels on all fabrics or garments, preferably those put out by a reliable manufacturer. Also take his advice to heart. Many new fabrics and finishes are still in the formative stage and haven't been proven as yet.

New Rotation Rules For Iwo Airman

HQ. 20TH AIR FORCE —— New policies and procedures for the rotation of Air Force personnel from Two Jima have been announced by Major Gen. Francis H. Griswold, commanding the 20 Air Force.

Under the new rules, personnel on the outlying base are divided into two categories. "Personnel with dependents" include those whose dependents are already on Iwo Jima or whose dependents' names appear on a transportation of dependents priority list submitted to the Department of the Army. Remaining individuals are classified as "personnel in bachelor status."

Personnel in bachelor status will become eligible for transfer to Guam after the completion of six months' duty on Iwo. Those with dependents normally will be rotated to Guam after the completion of 12 months' duty following the arrival of dependents.

Persons otherwise eligible for rotation, but having less than four months remaining in their current overseas tours or enlistments are to remain on Iwo until their dates of departure for the States.

Tour extensions for personnel with dependents may be applied for subject to medical and administrative aproval.

Rules governing replacements prohibit two tours on Iwo Jima until all qualified personnel have served one such tour, with the exception of volunteers.

Children over six years will not be transfered to Iwo, the announcement continued. Replacements must also have a minimum of seven months remaining on their current overseas tour.

Bear Plays Capt. Kidd, Gets Same Fate

SITKA, Alaska, —(UP)— Bored with his usual activities, a 700-pound brown bear turned Captain Kidd and almost got away with it.

Starved from his long winter's sleep, he swayed down to Redoubt Bay, plunged in and made for the Janie, an anchored troller.

The bear clambered aboard and had things pretty much under control until surprised by the Janie's owner, E. A. McDonald.

Levelling his .30-30 at the busy pirate, McDonald ended the bruin's plans with a single shot-his only shot.

Sports Program Set Up; Pro Football Series Likely

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 —(UP)— Some of the nation's top sports authorities today set in motion a vast program to curb and prevent juvenile delinquency through the National Youth Sports Foundation.

They named a five-man committee which, with the full backing of President Truman, will ask the major and minor baseball leagues to devote one day's gate receipts to the Foundation during the coming season.

Professional football and other sports also will be asked to contribute. The funds would be used to finance athletic facilities and training for the American youth—girls as well as boys.

A committee to administer the funds will be named later.

Chandler Endorses Drive

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler endorsed the drive. He said he thought baseball would go along with the idea of designating one day during the season for the Foundation.

Jonas Ingram, commission of the All-America Football Conference and Joe Labrum, representing the rival National Football League, promised to take the matter up with teams in their respective leagues.

They also promised to discuss with their teams proposals by Columist their Addie of the Washington Times-Herald for pro football world series, an East-West all-star game in each league, and pre-season or post-season pro football exhibitions games for the benefit of the Foundation.

Ingram, former Commander-in-Chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, endorsed the purpose of the Foundation. He said "it will do more for the future citizens of this country than universal military training."

Sultan of Swat Leaves for Miami For Rest Cure

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 —(UP)— Babe Ruth, looking more like a tired old man than the swaggering slugger who once hit 60 homers in a single season, left by train today for a month's vacation in Miami, where he hopes to "snap out of this terrible feeling."

Ruth, who will be 53 years old Saturday, admitted to a host of by-standers and well-wishers at Pennsylvania Station that "I feel like 90."

The one-time kingpin of the Yankees, always a sentimental guy, sat with tears in his eyes and said he just had to get in shape again so that he could return to his work as a representative of the Junior American Legion, making talks to youngsters and promoting juvenile baseball activity all over the nation.

"I travelled 40,000 miles last summer, and I'll do the same if not more this year," he said. "I enjoy being with those kids so much. I just must be in shape to do it."

Ruth said that as soon as he arrived in Florida he was going to "get right out and soak up that sunshine."

"I want to get rid of pain and I think that is the best way to do it, at least I hope so," he said, almost forlornly.

Ruth, who only recently underwent a physical checkup at the Presbyterian Hospital's neurological center, still suffers from almost intractable pain in his neck and head.

Although the early diagnosis of his condition more than a year ago, indicate an acute sinus condition, it later was disclosed there were other complications. The exact nature of his illness never was revealed, mainly because physicians never were able to agree among themselves on just what alled the big slugger.

Swedes Net Two Gold Medals In Winter Games

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 4 —(UP)— Sweden won two gold medals today in the fifth winter Olympic Games as its four-man relay team took the 40-kilometer (24.8-mile) cross-country ski race and Axle Seyffarth won the 10,000-meter (6.2-mile) speed skating race.

Yanks Fare Well

American athletes fared well in two other events as the U. S. Amateur Hockey Association team defeated Sweden, 5 to 2, in the non-Olympic hockey tournament and Jack (Buck) Heaton of New Haven, Conn., finished the first day's competition in the cresta (one-man) bobsled event in a tie for second place.

Seyffarth gained the Swedes their gold medal of the 1948 winter games as he outdistanced the field in the 10,000-meter skating marathon in 17:26.3, after Sweden's relay team of Nils Oestenson, Nips Thepp, Gunner Eriksson and Martin Lundstroem—each man skiing 10 kilometers (6.2 miles)—won the cross-coutry ski race in two hours, 32 minutes an deight seconds.

Ducat Hike Sought

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4 —(UP) Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus, president of the National Amateur Athletic Union, today urged that organized baseball raise all admission prices five cents to provide money to promote sandlot baseball throughout the nation.

Rhodes' plan was submitted in a letter to George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs.

Basing his figures on 1947's figure of 62,000,000 paid baseball admissions, Rhodes, a rabid sports enthusiast, said that the added nickels would raise 33,000,000 a year to be used for equipment and supervision among the young sandlotters of the nation.

The Columbus mayor added that the money could be so divided that every city in the country could be assured of a baseball promotion program benefiting its own youngsters.

Lawson Little, Sammy Snead Sign for Open

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 4 —(UP)— The names of Lawson Little and Sammy Snead today were added to the competition list for the $10,000 Fruit and Vegetable Open next week.

The entry of Little, the only man other than Bobby Jones to ever win both American and British amateur titles in a year, and Snead, the man who introduced Bobby Locke to American golf, practically completed the roster of name golfers for the Feb. 11 tournament.

Sports Beat

by Bob Crosley

Big league baseball will be a week late in getting started this year, and consequently will run even farther into football....The first games are the 24th of April and the last game is slated for October 3....That means the Series started more than half of them.... Mebbe the late start will give Joe DiMaggio a chance to get into the opener....In the 11 years Joe has been with the Yankees, he hasn't started more than half of then.... Baseball writers in the states are almost unanimously going overboard for the Red Sox to win the American League pennant, largely on their formidable stature on paper....True, they have picked up some valuable additions since last season, but a lot depends on the comebacks made by Tex Hughson and Boo Ferris and numerous others of last year's disappointments.

Bobby Riggs, busily engaged in a life and death struggle with Jack Kramer for the professional tennis supremacy of this country, is being sued by the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities, Inc., for breach of contract....Riggs defeated Don Budge last year in Philadelphia's arena and promised to compete in this year's meet, but now he says he doesn't have time....His present tour, which will include Mexico and Canada and will not be over until the middle of 1949 is not going so well as he expected....But then Kramer isn't having it as easy as he led people to believe he would....Aussie Dinny Pails and Ecuador's Pancho Segura both are involved in the suit....The inquirer says they and promoter Jack Harris persuaded Bobby to shun Philly.

Kwajalein Whallops Saipan In Series Opener, 50 to 28

Losers Fail to Click Until Final Quarter

Kwajalein took advantage of one of Saipan's off nights last night to build up a big lead and then coast in on a 50-28 victory on the ComMar court in the first game of the round robin tournament for the Marianas championship.

For the first three quarters Saipan stumbled around while Kwaj amassed a 22 point advantage, and when they finally started to play ball late in the fourth quarter, it was too late to do anything about it. Through the 30 minutes of the first three periods, Saipan could muster up only 12 points and then almost midway of the final quarter began hitting and poured in 16 points in less than 6 minutes.

Neither team showed any startling offensive play, but resorted instead to long, and in most cases wild, set shots. Both of the visiting squads used a zone defense and attempted to use the fast break, but it was stopped more often by bad passes than by good defense play.

Gerald Gunderson and Al Ring were the kingpins of the Kwaj scoring effort in the first half with four each, while Lopez had three for Saipan as the winners took 17-8 half time lead. The second period was a combination of bad luck and fumblitis as each team chalked up only four points during the ten minutes.

It was during the third quarter that Kwaj won the game as they scored 17 points to Saipan's monotonous four to increase their lead to 22 points—which was, as it happened, the final margin of victory.

Ken Scott of Kwaj led the scoring for the evening as he dumped in 11 points, followed by Earl McConaha of Saipan with 8 and P. C. Garcia with 7.

Kwajalein will play the Guam All Stars tonight in the second round, with the loser to meet Saipan tomorrow night.

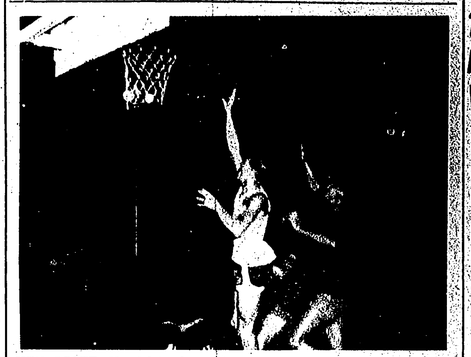
West Kentucky Coach Dislikes Zone Defense

NEW YORK, —(UP)— Ed Diddle, elderly but dynamic coach of Western Kentucky's excellent quintet, admitted that he would like to see the "zone defense" in basketball banished to the Canal Zone or even to the Ozone.

Being a tolerant man, however, the great towel-tosser from Bowling Green, Ky., will not campaign for elimination of the zone defense.

"No, sir," Diddle admonished reporters. "Don't put me down as crusading against that type of prevention. As long as the rule books permit zone defense, it's a coach's own business if he uses it.

"But I will say that I don't like it. It's contrary to the modern trend in basketball—the speedy game that provides so much fun for the players and so much entertainment for the spectators. It slows up the game."



KEN SCOTT, Kwajalein forward, goes in for a layup shot in last night's Marianas championship series opener against Saipan. Scott took scoring honors in the contest with 11 markers to lead the Kwaj outfit to a 50 to 28 victory. Kwajalein battles the Guam All-Stars tonight. (Guam News Photo)

Twenty-Nine Nations to Compete With U.S. for Cup

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 —(UP)— A total of 29 nations will attempt to wrest the Davis Cup from the United States in 1948, it was disclosed today by Walter Merrill Hall, chairman of the Davis Cup Committee of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The official draw to decide the order of play will be made this week. All but four of the challengers have chosen to compete in the European zone.

Mexico, Canada, Australia and Cuba have entered in the North American zone, while European zone competitors will be Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Egypt, France, Great Britain, Hungary, India, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

The United States, which captured the cup from Australia in 1946 at Kooyong Stadium, Melbourne, following the resumption of the series which was interrupted by war, has won the Davis Cup more times than any other country.

Since the start of competition, American teams have won the international matches 14 times, Great Britain nine times, Australia seven, and France six.

Yankees Sign 13 Gridders to Squad

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 —(UP)— The New York Yankees of the All-America Football Conference today announced the signing of 13 additional college players for the 1948 season.

The Yankees, who had previously announced the signing of new comers Pete Layden of Texas and Lowell Tew of Alabama, revealed that two recruit backs, four tackles, three centers, two guards, and two ends also had agreed to terms for next season.

The new Yankee backs are Bennie Reigres, U.C.L.A. passing and kicking ace, and Arnie Weinmeister, Washington University's fleet fullback.

Tackles signed were Carl Butkus of George Washington, Bill Chambers of U.C.L.A., Nelson Greene of Tulsa and Marion Shirley, Oklahoma City standout.

Lanky Bill Hoyt of U. C. L. A. and James McLeod of Louisana State are the new Yankee end candidates, and Burly Dick Werder of Georgetown and Ray Drost of Tennessee will be seeking guard positions on the 1948 squad.

Dal Ward Signs as Coach at Colorado

DENVER, Feb. 4 —(UP)— After 11 years of coaching at the University of Minnesota, 41-year-old Dallas "Dal" Ward of Lexington, Ore., today was appointed head football coach at the University of Colorado.

The appointment was announced after a meeting of the Colorado University Board of Regents in Denver by Harry G. Carlson, director of athletics. Ward will also act as assistant professor of physical education, the announcement said.

Riggs Ties Kramer

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4 —(UP)— Little Bobby Riggs, stroking beautifully on clay courts, scored his third straight victory and evened his exhibition series with Jack Kramer today by taking a 6-4, 7-5 match here before a capacity crowd of 1,500 tennis fans.

Kramer's inability to work his smashing game on clay cost him all three of the matches in Florida and enabled his veteran professional opponent to tie the series at 12 matches each.

Liscombe Leads Puck Chasers In Scoring

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 —(UP)— Curt Liscombe, veteran forward of the Providence Reds, accounted for eight points in three games last week to widen his margin over rival scorers in the American Hockey League, official statistics revealed today.

The former Detroit Red Wing player boasted 80 total points in 50 games. He had 38 goals, the most in the league, and 42 assists.

Harvey Fraser, Liscombe's linemate, replaced Cliff Simpson of Indianapolis in the runner-up spot. Fraser, who was injured in a game at Providence last Sunuay night, was 10 points behind Liscombe with 8 goals and 37 assets.

Simpson was third with 67 points, followed by Paul Gladu of St. Louis, 66 points, and Don Grosso, also of St. Louis, 62 points.

U.S. Aid to Greece, Turkey Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 —(UP)— With its European recovery program still under heavy attack from Republican economy forces, the State Department today formally broached a new proposal for more large-scale military help to the Greek and Turkish governments.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall said the American mission in Athens has forwarded him detailed recommendations for further U. S. military aid. He added that Maj. Gen. Horace McBride of the American military mission in Turkey is enroute to Washington with similar proposals for more arms and equipment for the Turks.

He indicated that the combined Greek-Turkish program would be submitted to Congress shortly, along with recommendations for aid to China and other countries not included in the Marshall Plan. Both Greece and Turkey are ticketed for Marshall Plan assistance, but that program is limited to economic help.

Chairman Styles Bridges, (R-N.H.), of the Senate appropriations committee, said he had been informed that the new spending would run to about $1,000,000,000 but there was no indication how much would be for arms and military equipment for Greece and Turkey.

The two countries received $400,000,000 worth of American aid last year—$300,000,000 for Greece and $100,000,000 for Turkey. The Greek help was equally divided between military and economic supplies, while the Turkish program was all military.

Both have been pressing the United States recently for more military assistance. The Greeks want it to help stamp out the Communist guerrilla forces along their northern borders, and the Turks to shore up their defenses on the Dardanelles and the Black Sea.

Russia was expected to react strongly to the new bid for American military support in the eastern Mediterranean, either by formal protest or by intensifying her propaganda campaign against the United States.

Iraq Rejects Anglo-Iraq Defense Treaty

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Feb. 5 —(UP)— Iraq's new cabinet tonight flatly rejected the Anglo-Iraq mutual defense treaty signed Jan. 15 on grounds it did not "realize Iraq national aspirations."

Premier Mohammed El-Sadr said in a nation-wide radio broadcast that the vote against the treaty was unanimous.

The cabinet studied the Anglo-Iraq treaty, which was found not to realize Iraq nationhl aspirations or to promote Anglo-Iraq friendship," El-Sadr said. He said Foreign Minister Muhshim Amin El-Pachachi had been instructed to notify Britain of the cabinet's decision.

The action did not come as a surprise.

The treaty, considered the keystone in Britain's new Mediterranean policy designed to contain Russia, was signed in Portsmouth, England, by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and former Iraq Premier Saleh Jabr.

Feeling against it ran so high that Jabr was forced to flee the country after two weeks of rioting, which claimed 34 lives and injured 300. The new government headed by El-Sadr was pledged to void the treaty.

The pact called for mutual defense in event either nation were threatened by attack or involved in a war. Britain also relinquished all except nominal control of two British-built airfields in Iraq, but would have continued training and equipping the Iraq armed forces.

Emir Arsalan Willing to Surrender

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Feb. 5 —(UP) Emir Nomad Arsalan, his attempted Coup de Etat a dismal failure, reportedly sent word from a mountain hideout today that he would surrender if the government would give him one hour to find and kill the man who betrayed him.

Nohad, a Druze tribesman whose brother is Lebanon's minister of defense, apparently did not know that his betrayer, Lawyer Louis Ziadi, had been arrested here in connection with the ill-starred plot.

Ziadi reportedly egged Nohad on, promising that the masses would rise behind him and that several top-ranking army officers would cooperate.

But Nohad's revolt got no farther than the telephone building at Sofar, a mountain town on the Beirut-Damascus highway. As similar uprising in other towns failed to materialize, police drove Nohad and his 12 assistants into the hills.

Official government sources claimed that Nohad intended to assassinate Lebanese President Bisharah Kl-Khuri and Premier Riyad Alsulh, installing himself as chief of government and King Monsignor Grace Mokbarak, Maronle, archbishop of Bierut, chief of state.

Fritz Kuhn Escapes Dachau Internment

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 5 —(UP)— Fritz Kuhn, one-time head of the German-American Bund in the United States, escaped early yesterday from Dachau internment camp, American officials said today.

Authorities believe he may have fled to avoid testifying in the trials of Nazi big-wigs at Nuernberg.

To Testify

A Nuernberg dispatch said Kuhn was to have been taken there today to testify against Lt. Gen. Ernst Wilhelm Bohle, former chief of the Nazi's foreign organization which sought to establish strong fifth columns in the United States and other countries.

Kuhn, deported from the U.S. in September, 1945, and released from American custody April 25, was arrested twice by the Germans. He had been held at Dachau since July for possible trial as a major Nazi offender.

He faced 10 years in prison if convicted, but there was little evidence against him and authorities considered it unlikely he would have jumped camp to escape trial.

Dail Elections Held in Dublin

DUBLIN, Eire, Feb. 5 —(UP)— In gay election-day mood after the most rip-roaring campaign in 26 years, Eire was deciding the political future of Prime Minister Ramon De Valera today.

Beneath bright skies an estimated 80 per cent of the 1,808,376 registered voters went to the polls to elect a new Dail (parliament).

Many political experts believed De Valera, at 76, had lost his grip on the Irish and that, for the first time in seven elections and 15 years, he would fail to win a majority in the Dail.

But most political observers and most of the betting fraternity believed "Dev's" long-dominant seat in the Dail would assure another term.

Without a majority, the aging prime minister was expected to resign, giving way to a coalition government.

Ballot counting will not begin until tomorrow and because of a complex system of proportional representation, final results probably will not be known until Saturday.

GOP Prepares To Slash Truman Budget

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 —(UP)— Republican dominated Senate and House budget drafters today prepared the basis for a tax cut this year by agreeing to cut nearly $2,500,000,000 from President Truman's $39,568,000,000 fiscal 1949 budget.

In addition they figured that government tax receipts for the 12 months beginning July 1, 1948, would be nearly $3,000,000,000 more than President Truman estimated. That would mean a surplus of $10,-100,000,000 for tax cutting and debt reduction.

Wait and See

The Senate-House budget subcommittee agreed to apply at least $2,000,000,000 to reduction of the national debt. But it did not make any immediate decision on tax reduction. GOP leaders said they would wait and see if they could make the budget cuts stick before committing themselves on a specific tax cut.

This means that the $6,500,000,000 tax reduction measure passed by the House will be held up in the Senate for several weeks.

Today's action by the 20-man subcommittee will be submitted to the full 102-man House budget committee on Friday. That committee's actions are then subject to approval by both Houses, which are legally bound to set a federal spending ceiling by Feb. 15.

Allen Denounces Red Charges as Baseless

TEHRAN, Iran, Feb. 5 —(UP)— The Iranian government and U.S. Ambassador George V. Allen tonight denounced Russia's note to Iran on alleged American military activities in this country as baseless and as constituting improper interference in this country's internal affairs.

Hiding Iranian Rebels

Iran further accused Russia of hiding Iranian rebels on Iranian soil, of harboring rebel leaders in Russia, of permitting them to use a secret Russian-based radio for propaganda and of maintaining an "unfriendly" attitude by conducting "constant" army maneuvers on the Iranian frontier. Iran demanded the surrender to it of the rebels now in Russia.

Allen said in a statement read to a gathering of highest Iranian officials that the Russian note was a misstatement of facts from start to finish.

He implicitly warned Russia that the full authority of the United Nations would be behind Iran if there is any crisis due to Russian action.

Pilot Strike Grounds Twenty-Two Planes

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 —(UP)— A strike by 145 pilots today grounded all 22 passenger planes of National Airlines, which operates from New York to Florida and as far west as New Orleans, at the peak of the winter holiday business.

The Air Line Pilots Association (AFL) said the main reasons for the strike were "concerned" over safety measures taken by the airline and poor pilot-management relations. It cited specifically the "unwarranted and unjust" discharge of a pilot more than two years ago following an accident concerning a "smokescreen," adding that all its planes are checked and passed by Civil Aeronautics inspectors before they can be flown. It charged the union had chosen this "opportune" time of peak business to force the rehiring of the discharged pilot.

Russian Industries Must Cut Operating Costs

MOSCOW, Feb. 5 —(UP)— Speaker after speaker in the Supreme Soviet (parliament) warned today that Russian industries must slash operating costs—in both labor and raw materials—in order to return increased profits to the state.

The battle cry, "economy in 1948," was taken up by Communist party newspaper, Pravda.

The recent monetary reform, which resulted in a general lowering of prices, cut into the state's income from commerce and trade, it was pointed out. Speakers developed the theme that if the 1948 budget's anticipated revenue of $53,500,000,000 is to be met, industry must do it by reducing production costs and increasing profits.

(Moscow Radio, heard in London, reported that the Council of Nationalities (lower house) of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) had unanimously adopted the 1948 budget. It provides for an income of 85,600,000,000 rubles and expenditures of 75,780,000,000 rubles. The council also unanimously approved degrees issued by the Presidium, the interim executive body between the third and fourth sessions of parliament, Moscow said.)

Pravda cited "a number of enterprises" where poor management "permitted large losses in the expenditure of raw materials and fuel. Considerable are the losses from flawed goods," Pravda said. "And equipment is not utilized sufficiently..... all this leads..... to nonfulfillment of state assignments."

Restrictions Lifted On American Business in Japan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 —(UP)— The government today removed many restrictions on American businessmen who want to go to Japan. But they were cautioned that trade is still limited, and carefully controlled.

The Army, State and Commerce Departments said the 21-day limit on American business visits was being lifted by Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Along with businessmen from other Allied nations, they can remain indefinitely if their operations contribute to Japanese trade.

Families can go along later if housing can be found. Western-style hotel accommodations are available only for up to two representatives of each firm.

Payments of hotel and services must be made in special occupation certificates or in Jap yen—50 to $1. Meals and housing will cost about $10 a day.

Businessmen may take automobiles if they arrange in advance for gasoline and services. The Commerce Department noted that taxicabs are available in Tokyo and most other trading cities.

The volume of export production in Japan was said to be well below prewar levels in most lines, although it is increasing steadily. Cotton and silk textile production already is "substantial."

Marshall Definitely Not Political Candidate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 —(UP)— Secretary of State George C. Marshall feels that it is "totally, completely and utterly impossible," for him to be considered as a possible candidate for vice president, it was disclosed today.

There has been some mention recently that attempts might be made to pursuade him to share the Democratic ticket with President Truman.

But exceptionally qualified sources let it be known that Marshall's statement on politics—made when he arrived here from China in January, 1947, to become Secretary of State—stands.

He said then: "I will never become involved in political matters and therefore I cannot be considered a candidate for political office... I never could be drafted for any political office."

Weather Forecast

Partly cloudy. Few scattered light showers. Moderate easterly winds with occasional fresh gusts.

Yesterday's temperatures: Max. 85; Min. 76.

Yesterday's rainfall: .03 inches.

Rainfall for month: .44 inches.

New Rainfall Record

Rainfall for the first 5 days of February, 1948, has equaled the rainfall for all of February of 1947.

Comparison of rainfall for the last year's dry season and this year's are as follows:

October	9.59 inches	17.82 inches
November	5.58 "	11.17 "
December	2.75 "	5.33 "
January	1.47 "	8.75 "
Total	19.39 "	43.07 "

Rainfall has more than doubled this year over last year's dry season so far.

January of this year was the second wettest January since available records were started in 1919. January, 1935, had 12.5 inches for the record month of January.

Cotton Prices Drop To Lowest Level

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 —(UP)— Grain futures prices broke at three major exchanges today and cotton prices dropped to the lowest levels since mid-November.

All grain for future deliveries plunged the limits permitted in a day's trading at the Chicago board of trade. Wheat and corn futures at Kansas City and Minneapolis also broke the limits. It was the first major break in the grain futures market since mid 1947.

Rubber, hides, sugar, cottonseed oil and wool tops futures were barely steady to easy, with March hides dropping three-fourths of a cent a pound to a new low since last October. Rubber eased 25 to 35 points. Cottonseed oil lost more than one cent a pound.

Everybody' Making Snow, Rain

NEW YORK—(UP)—Vincent J. Schaefer started something when he made a super-cooled cloud produce snow last Navember.

Since then, "everybody" has been trying to make snow—or rain. Some have succeeded and others have failed.

Schaefer, who worked his way through the ranks at General Electric to become one of the company's top scientists, has revealed that since his November experiment, there have been snow-making and rain-making experiments in Louisiana, Washington, Oregon Arizone and California and in Chile, Mexico, Cuba, South Africa, Australia and Hawaii.

Schaefer in his original experiment loaded a supply of dry ice pellets into an airpane. He had the pilot fly over a super-cooled cloud. The pellets were dropped. Snow fell. The same technique is used to produce rain in warm weather.

To those who would try to make snow or rain, Schaefer offers this advice:

1. The super-cooled portion of a cloud should be at least 500 feet thick to initiate any appreciable change in the cloud. Such a cloud two miles thick can produce only about .14 of an inch of rain, or 1.5 inches of snow.

Dry Ice Pellets Used

2. Dry-ice pellets used for seeding a super-cooled cloud should be no larger than necessary to drop through the super-cooled region. Pellets the size of a pea will fall several thousand feet before evaporating.

3. Seeding of a super-cooled cloud is most effective when dry-ice is dispensed meagerly. A gradual distribution of one-and-one-half pounds per square mile proves most effective.

4. Amount of humidity or moisture in the atmosphere beneath the cloud should be determined. If this atmosphere is too dry, any precipitation caused may evaporate before it reaches the ground.

Schaefer believes that the "tremendous interest shown throughout the world is certainly a boon to quick further development," "but that it is "highly important that the techniques be followed correctly."

Radm. Stirling Dies In Baltimore Home

Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., often called "the Petrel of the Service," died at his home in Baltimore January 27. He was 76 years old.

During his 48 years of service until his retirement in 1936, he saw action in two wars and at the age of 72 sought to have a go at another.

When England went to war with Germany in 1939, Admiral Stirling became an all-out advocate of U. S. intervention.

In World War I he commanded the submarine flotilla, Atlantic fleet, and the transports President Lincoln and Von Steuben.

After World War I he served as chief of staff for the U. S. fleet and commanded the Yangtze patrol.

After his retirement he devoted his energies to writing and lecturing.

Tax Exempted for Star's 52 Orphans

HOLLYWOOD—UP—Fifty-two orphans in France were recognized by U. S. tax officials today as war-time dependants of screen actress Madeleine Carroll.

The French Catholic orphans occupied the actress' chateau outside Paris during the war.

In a circuit tax court hearing yesterday, the government conceded Miss Carroll $22,000 in tax exemptions when she in turn dropped her claim for $38,000 war damage to her chateau.

The film star offered her French home to be used by a Catholic orphanage after the children were ordered from Paris in 1939.

In her claim for exemption, Miss Carroll's attorney's said she sent the children money by way of the French underground after Germany's occupation of France.

Miss Carroll herself was serving as a Red Cross nurse in France when the children were taken to her home.

Ground Safety Program

HARMON FIELD —— "Traffic accidents at Harmon Field have dropped noticeably in the past two weeks as a result of enforced traffic regulations," says, 1st Lt. Lloyd E. Crimmins, Harmon Field ground safety officer.

The ground safety office at Harmon Field has a safety program underway to help keep ground accidents of all kinds at a minimum

A consolidated Air Force accident report for the year of 1946 shows that of all Air Force accidenal fatalities, 12.6 were automotive accidents. 10.4 were aircraft ground crew accidents, and 12.6 were basic duty soldiers involved in routine accidents.

In the five-year period from 1942-46 the number of fires in the United States increased 30 per cent, while the population increased less than five per cent.

Youth Kills Father 'By Mistake'

MT. CLEMENS, Mich. —(UP)— A terrified 17-year-old boy shot and killed his drunken father "by mistake" recently because "I thought he was hurting my mother."

Actually, said Macomb County Prosecutor Edward A. Jacob, the father was struggling with his wife in an attempt to pour hot milk down her throat because he thought she had taken poison in a suicide attempt.

Shooting Justifiable

Stephen Kalisz, Jr., tearfully told police he fired a .22 caliber bullet into his 41-year-old father's chest as the elder Kalisz fought drunkenly with his wife, Harriet, 37.

The boy was booked for investigation of homicide, but Jacob said he may contend the shooting was justifiable "after due investigation."

Statements of Mrs. Kalisz and Stephen revealed years of domestic strife that were climaxed in tragedy early this morning.

Mrs. Kalisz said that when she took the last drink out of a whiskey bottle, her husband grabbed her, believing she had taken poison. She admitted she had tried suicide five times before because her husband was "unbearable."

Old Violins to Compete With New in Test

PHILADELPHIA, PA. —(UP)— The question of whether even professionals can distinguish one good musical instrument from another will be tested here.

The Philadelphia "Pops" Orchestra announced that Anthony Zungolo will give a recital on violins of four different periods on June 19 at the University Museum.

Zungolo will have at his disposal a Stradivarius (1700), a Guadagnini (1750), a Vuillaume (1850) and a violin completed this year by a Philadelphia maker. A different instrument will be used for each group of Zungolo's program and ballots will permit the audience to guess the order in which the instruments are played.

Women Invade U. S. Police Forces

The chances of being arrested by a woman are improving.

The International City Manager's Association reports that at least 141 cities of more than 25,000 population now employ women police.

The total of "lady cops" is estimated at 1,000.

The trend is most pronounced in big cities. A survey by Detroit's Wayne University shows there are 174 police women in New York.

In Many Cities

Chicago has 79 women police officers, Detroit has 60, Indianapolis 56 and Washington, D. C., 35.

The figures do not include police matrons, who supervise women and girls taken into custody.

Most of the police women deal generally with women prisoners, girl delinquents and children. Much of their work is attending the grievances of women and girls against whom crimes have been committed.

In 40 cities, police women carry pistols as part of their standard equipment and are permitted to do so in 36 other cities. In 45 cities, however, they are not armed.

Detroit teaches its women police ju jitsu.

Camp Asan to Open for CSC Workers

COMMAR HILL—An order promulgated by Commander Marianas last week said Camp Asan will be opened in the very near future and it would be under the administrative control of the Commandant Naval Operating Base Guam, until such time as a reliable civilian concessionaire can be obtained to operate all Naval civilian camps on Guam.

Effective on the date of opening of Camp Asan, all male civilian employees, including civil service personnel, with the exceptions noted below will be required to live and have their meals at the camps provided for that purpose or by such other private arrangements from non-naval sources as they desire.

Commanding officers of Naval and Marine units were directed to discontinue feeding and housing civilian personnel other than those excepted below, within three days after the date of the opening of Camp Asan.

Only the folowing categories of civilian personnel will be expected from this order to the extent and for the time specified in each case.

1. Married civil service employes of any classification who, by official authorization, are now occupying Naval quarters with their dependnts, or whose request for same has been approved prior to this date. Excepted until such date as interim civilian married quarters are ready for occupancy.

2. Red Cross uniformed staff officials, designated by the American Red Cross National Headquarters.

3. Transient civilian personnel temporarily on Guam on official business and sponsored by a Naval activity or other U. S. government activity supported locally by the Navy. These pennel may be messed or quartered in Naval messes or quarters for periods not in excess of 15 consecutive days. For longer periods, special authority from Commander Marianas must be obtained in each case or arrangements made, by the sponsoring activity, for quartering in present civilian camps or the Asan civilian camp as appropriate.

4. Female civilian employes until such time as adequate housing and messing facilities are ready for their occupancy.

The quarters at Camp Asan are designated to accomodate two men to each room. Every effort will be made to secure congenial grouping. To effect this, it will be necessary for those applying for quarters to select a room-mate and submit applications together. Those who do not indicate a choice of a roommate will be assigned one by the camp management.

Swank Hotel Planned For Lower California

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— On the heels of disclosure that the Mexican government may permit gambling in Lower California a group of California and Mexican businessmen revealed plans for a $2,000,000 resort hotel at San Felipe.

Lower California reports are that the open dice game soon will be legalized beyond a 100-mile strip along the border and that gambling concessions already have been granted. The Mexican government is rushing a highspeed highway through the border zone to San Felipe, 14 miles to the south.

Business consultant J. C. Chambers said that if no gambling franchise materializes, yachtsmen and deep sea fishermen will support the hotel, which probably will take guests by a membership arrangement.

Smith Top Seeded as Tennis Tourney Opens Tomorrow

Over The Joepot

by Bill Jury

Pro football fans had cause to gulp and dribble coffee down the front of their vests yesterday as they scanned the papers announcing the vast sports program to curb and prevent juvenile delinquency.

Through the National Youth Sports Foundation, and with the backing of President Truman, sports authorities are preparing to set in motion a program designed to supply athletic equipment and facilities to American boys and girls throughout the country.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler endorsed the drive as did representatives of the All-America Football Conference and the National Football League. Now here's the pitch....Jonas Ingram, commissioner of the AAC, and Joe Labrum, spokesman for the rival NFL, promised to "discuss" with their teams a proposal for a world series between the champs of the two leagues.

The play-for-pay grid following salted their eggs with sugar and read further. Could this be the long awaited playoff between the two leagues' top teams? Could be.

It's a perfect setup. For a long time people have thought that the NFL has been cutting off its own pocketbook to spite the rival league, but here is a chance to agree gracefully, with no loss of prestige. With the charity angle entering into the deal, the well-established NFL takes the roll of Big-Hearted Benny, consents to play the upstart AAC in a world series, and then sits back to count the shekels. Of course, a good part of the proceeds will go toward building up the youth athletic program, but you can bet your socks that there'll be steak on the table for the pro boys too.

Ziggy Causes School Dismissal In Cedar Rapids

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., —(UP)— Ziggy Czarobski, star Notre Dame tackle last season who loves speech-making and practical jokes, emptied high school of its students four hours ahead of schedule today.

Ziggy, known as "the Alderman" by his old Notre Dame teammates, spoke at a boy's assembly at Immaculate Conception High School. The girl students had to stay in their classes.

Started Speech

Ziggy started his speech by saying:

"Well, kids, I'm going to dismiss school; when I say go—go."

He went on to tell about the Notre Dame-Iowa game last season. The students sat attentively as he described the traditional gridiron battle.

Then he cupped his hands at his mouth and shouted: "Go!"

The boys scrambled for the exits. In about five seconds Ziggy and a few instructors were alone in the hall. Ziggy was doubled over with laughter.

The confused instructors didn't know what to do.

Finally they sent the girls home, too.

Luisetti, Palmberg Named To PCL All-Time Fives

LOS ANGELES, —(UP)— Hank Luisetti of Stanford and Wally Palmberg of Oregon State are unanimous choices for the Pacific Coast Conference's all-time basketball teams.

Luisetti was selected without an opposing vote for the all-time Southern Division team while Palmberg won the same distinction for the Northern Division.

Guam All Star Quint Dumps Kwajalein Crew, 77 to 38

Looking better than in any of their practice games, Guam's Navy All Stars raced to a 77-38 rout of the Kwajalein entry last night on the ComMar court in their first appearance in the Marianas tourney.

Kwajalein suffered its first loss in the tourney, and now must repeat Wednesday night's victory over Saipan tonight to stay in the meet.

The All Stars' fast break worked beautifully on occasions, and it turned out to be their most potent scoring threat, for once the Kwaj zone defense got set, the homelings resorted to long shots and rebounds for their points.

The two Guam coaches, Lt. O'Brien and Chief Douglass, came up with a combination that had speed, brains and poise. They jumped out to a quick 20-5 lead and were never in danger. Speedy Jim Hawkins was the whole show in the first two minutes as he dumped in the first ten points for the All Stars, and went on from there to score 14 for the evening.

Hawkins and Larry Horan teamed to score 19 of the Stars' 28 points in the first period, with Bob Ziarnak and Gerald Gunderson leading the Kwaj effort. From there on the offense tapered off as the winner tallied 18 in the second period, 11 in the third and then got hot again for 20 in the finale.

Kwaj made their most convincing bid as the second half started, jumping off with seven points before the locals got going The last period was wild and wooly as the visitors had the ball stolen time and again before they got into shooting range.

Horan nosed out Hawkins for scoring honors with 15 and Ziarnak was best for Kwaj with 12.

Ref Tonie DeRose Points Out a Few Cage Rules

by Tonie DeRose
Tournament Referee

With the Marianas basketball tournament underway and the Wes-Pac tourney close at hand, we though it might be a good idea to point out a few rules to the many fans who attend the games at ComMar.

Many fans will always say referees are blind, but they have good ears, and here are a few of the cries from fans not acquainted with the rules of the game:

1. "Hey, he tapped the ball twice." Okay, so he did, but on a jump ball, both players are permitted to tap the ball twice without a penalty.

2. "Hey ref, he kicked the ball." The rule on kicking the ball states that there is no penalty if the kicking is unintentional.

3. "Come on, ref, he caught his own jump ball." On a jump ball, a player is allowed to retrieve his own tap if he lets the ball touch the floor first. If the ball does not touch the floor before it is caught by the man who taps it, then the opposing team takes the ball out.

4. THE THREE SECOND RULE. This rule takes place between the foul lanes from the foul line to the outside line behind the backboard. Any offensive player who is in this area with or without the ball for more than three seconds is violating the rule, and the defensive team is given the ball

5. UNAVOIDABLE CONTACT. When two players go after a free ball or a ball off the backboard, and grasp it simultaneously, unavoidable contact occurs and there is no foul even though one player may fall on his opponent.

There you are, fans, just a few simple rules that seem to have caused a lot of unhappy moments for fans, the players and the referees.

(Editor's Note: Other cries are heard from the stands which ethics will not permit us to discuss.)

Naval Government Courts Site for Matches

Lcdr. J.D. Smith, Captain A.P. Kohlhas, Cdr. William Seidel and Major A.I. Lyman were seeded in that order yesterday in the open singles class of the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament as the field of nearly 70 entries got set for the opening tomorrow afternoon on the Naval Government courts.

Smith and Kohlhas were champion and runner-up respectively in last year's event, and are still rated the two top players on the Island. Dr. Seidel, who did not participate in the first tourney has been holding his own with the best in play over the past year, and, though hampered by lack of practice, is expected to be among the semi-finalists.

A change in the site of the tournament, for the first matches at least, was made early this week to allow time for repairs to be made to the ComMar flag courts. In addition, it is likely that a canvas will be placed along the southeast side of the courts to break the damaging wind constantly crossing the hill.

Seeded fifth through eighth in the pairings yesterday were Mauricio Madrigal, former Philippine champion, Lt. Frank Kriz, Lt. John Tobin, winner of the recent MarBo tourney, and Lt. Morton Hanson of the Coast Guard.

California Reputation

California's reputation seems well founded if this tourney is any criterion; it led all other states in entries with 12. Nearest competitors were Georgia, New York and Illinois with four each.

Kohlhas

Smith

The novice singles, with six less entries, will probably not get started until February 14, one week from tomorrow. Because of the large number of aspirants and the length of time necessary to run off the tourney on weekends, matches will be played on Wednesday afternoons. A large majority of the military bases on the Island and several civilian concerns observe half a holiday on Wednesday, and will not interfere with the playing.

Matches for tomorrow are:

Lt. Walter Honour vs. Ltjg. Donald Edgren, E Navarez vs. Lt. Frank Kriz, Lt. Austin Perker vs. George Hullsiek, William Hastings vs. Oliver Townsend, James M. Manning vs. ChPayClk David Warfield, Lawrence J. Cook vs. M A Marsh.

The first match will get started promptly at 1230 to allow time for three matches to be played on the two courts available. Balls will be furnished for all matches.

Texas Open Slated For Tomorrow; Course Muddy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 5—(UP)— The granddaddy of the big-money golf tournaments, the Texas Open, gets underway tomorrow over Brackenridge park's sodden course with youngster Skip Alexander, foreign star Bobby Locke and veteran Ben Hogan cast in favorite roles.

Brackenridge, in normal circumstances, would be made to order for the methodical Locke, because it's a short course—6,400 yards—which demands accuracy and a fine short game.

But for the 21st renewal of the $10,000 open, the fairways were muddy and the greens were in only "fair" condition.

Florida Sun Doing Ruth Good

MIAMI, Fla., Feb 5 —(UP)— Ailing Babe Ruth seemed to find new strength in the warm Florida sun today as he walked erect and smiling from a train to begin a quiet vacation from hospitals.

Babe couldn't raise his rasping whisper loud enough to greet the half hundred persons who saw him arrive from New York. But a broad smile broke over his almost-colorless face and he waved his hand to the crowd as one of their number called:

Ruth's departure from New York was one of the saddest for his loyal followers, who wondered "if the big guy is coming back."

Even he admitted that he was in pain and was desponded. His barely-audible speech was the result of three operations in his throat and neck brought about by a complicated sinus ailment that has his doctors puzzled.

"I'd just like to get rid of this pain," he whispered, rubbing his neck. "I'd be all right if I could get this neck straightened out. I don't feel good. I'm weak and I've got no strength."

Kramer's Contract Security for Life

CHICAGO, —(UP)— Jack Kramer, America's leading amateur tennis player for the past two seasons who turned pro this year for a guarantee of $50,000, had no regrets for his decision.

"No," he said, "I'm satisfied. And professional tennis may make it possible for me to live comfortably for the rest of my life."

Kramer, the star of the United States Davis Cup teams for the past two years, signed a contract with Promoter Jack Harris for a $50,000 guarantee against a percentage of the gate. But financially, both Kramer and Harris agreed, he will gross considerably more than that.

"Jack told me last week that my percentage had equalled the guarantee," Kramer said, "and so I'll be over the $50,000 figure for the rest of the tour."

Harris estimated that Kramer would be paid between $110,000 and $125,000 for the season schedule, and added that the figure probably would be about $120,000.

Louis Quickly Drops New York Mayoralty; 'Fighting Much Easier'

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 —(UP)— Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis was made mayor of New York City for five minutes today, but he quit before his term expired.

Louis was visiting Mayor William O'Dwyer on behalf of an interracial fellowship group organized to raise funds for the rehabilitation of Sydenham Hospital.

"Sit In"

The mayor invited Louis to "sit in" for five minutes.

Louis sat down at O'Dwyer's big desk and asked, "Do you think if I were mayor for five minutes I could sign enough papers to get your hospital built for nothing?"

But before O'Dwyer answered, someone came in and asked the mayor for some fuel oil.

That was enough for Louis. "I'm mayor long enough," he said, "I think fighting is much easier."

New York Grid Giants Sign Joe Scott

NEW YORK, —(UP)— Joe Scott, 21-year-old University of San Francisco star who was regarded one of the West Coast's outstanding backs last season, signed to play professional football with the New York Giants of the National League.

Scott, a 197-pounder whose home is in Athens, Tex., was the Giants' second choice in the 1947 college draft, being selected after Tony Minisi of Pennsylvania. He formerly played at Texas A and M and with the El Toro Marines while in the service, before enrolling at San Francisco.

British Troops May Enforce Food Canvass

BERLIN, Feb. 6 —(UP)— British Military Governor Lt. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson said today that he had informed German state governments in the British zone that he was prepared to lend them British troops to enforce food collections from farmers.

Robertson told a press conference that, speaking for himself, he was not prepared to take over enforcement of food collections which was the responsibility of the German state governments and that he was anxious to avoid the use of British troops.

Drastic Measures

He said that the state governments would have to take drastic measures to collect food from farmers and that more imports were needed to remedy the situation. This week's food ration for the Ruhr and north Rhine Westphalia, he pointed out, would only total about 1,300 calories daily.

Robertson said the loss in the British zone from poor food collections was ec, ial to 10 per cent of the combined production of the Anglo-American zones. He said industrial strikes would only aggravate the situation.

Meanwhile in Frankfurt, capital of the American occupation zone, two top military officials of the American and British zones predicted more food strikes in western Germany and also threatened the use of allied troops to step up lagging food collections.

Truman Warns of Economic Crash

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 —(UP)— President Truman today warned that the nation faces the prospect of a dangerous economic crash unless Congress acts quickly to halt what he called the awful upward spiral of prices. He scoffed at Republican threats to cut his budget.

His new call for action to haul prices down got a chill reception, but his jab at the Republican economy drive brought GOP leaders out swinging.

They said they would do their level best to slash his fiscal 1949 budget by "vastly" more than the $2,500,000,000 originally contemplated—and cut taxes too.

Chairman Robert A Taft, (R—O.,) of the Senate GOP policy committee and generalissimo of the economy bloc, suggested that the President and Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder "ought to get together" on the inflation question.

"If you want prices to come down," Taft said, "every time they do come down you can't choke them off with anti-inflationary measures."

Eisenhower Announces Retirement; Denies Presidential Aspirations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 —(UP)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today that he will retire as Army Chief of Staff at noon Saturday, and reiterated that he has no presidential ambitions, either now or for 1952.

He also told a national press club luncheon that his recent "I am not a candidate" statement was not intended as a slap at the possible candidacy of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"I am not anybody else's keeper," the five-star general said. "If someone else feels the compulsion of his own conscience (to run for political office) that must be his guide."

Eisenhower said he will vacation until May 1, when he will take over his $25,000-a-year post as president of Columbia University in New York. He will be succeeded in the Army's top military post by Gen. Omar M. Bradley, whom he praised as "the greatest tactician of our time."

General "Ike," who led western allied armies to victory overe Germany in World War II, said he did not expect a war with Russia at this time, although he cautioned that a war could start "stupidly."

"Russia is in no position to carry on a global war," he said. "Until she thinks she can win, she won't start one."

He endorsed the European Recovery Program, saying it would help other nations remain democratic and maintain sturdy allies who would be helpful in a crisis.

It was Eisenhower's farewell public appearance as chief of state.

He took the occasion to say emphatically that there was "no limitation" on his recent announcement that "I am not available for and could not accept nomination to high political office."

He said it applies to 1952 as well as this year.

Cold Aggravates Fuel Oil Shortage In Midwest, East

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 —(UP)— More cold moved in today over most of the Midwest and East, where heavy snows hampered transportation and aggravated a critical fuel oil shortage.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Chicago reported that sub-normal temperatures prevailed over most of the nation.

Heaviest Snowfall

The heaviest snowfall was in eastern Pennsylvania, which had an eight-inch fall during the night. The snowfall ended late in the day in the eastern states, but continued in sections of the lower Ohio Valley, as far south as Oklahoma and Kansas.

Weather forecasters said the new cold front moving slowly southeastward was "hardly noticeable" in the north central states, because temperatures in most of the area were below zero.

The continued cold drained fuel oil and gas supplies still lower in many sections.

The shortage was general over most of New England and became critical because of the sub-zero cold and yesterday's snowstorms.

The Navy announced it will lend New York City and the State of New York 12,600,000 gallons of fuel oil and immediately made 4,-200,000 gallons of diesel oil available for household use. The supply is stored at Bayonne, N.J.

Police Seek Kuhn

MUNICH, Feb. 6 —(UP)— German police threw a dragnet throughout the state of Bavaria today to re-capture Fritz Kuhn, onetime leader of the German-American bund in New York, who escaped from Dachau prison Tuesday under mysterious circumstances.

Police were placed on the alert after a 36-hour search failed to uncover any clues that might lead to Kuhn's hiding place.

The police said they were making a concentrated search in the Dachau area and that the Dachau camp had been placed on an alert to prevent additional escapes.

Ex-Nazi Officer Commits Suicide At Nurenberg

NURENBERG, Germany, Feb. 6 Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, former German commander-in-chief in Holland, leaped to his death from a third-story prison gallery today two hours before he was to stand trial for crimes against peace and humanity.

The 64-year-old war-time marshal stepped out of a line of prisoners returning from breakfast and the barbershop of Nurenberg prison, climbed a seven-foot high wire "suicide" barrier and without a glance backward jumped 30 feet to the concrete floor below.

Dies of Injuries

The war crimes trial of 13 other Nazi military leaders in the nearby Palace of Justice had been in progress 50 minutes when Blaskowitz died of multiple injuries at an Army hospital outside of town.

Blaskowitz commanded the German 25th Army that capitulated to the Canadians in the Netherlands on May 5, 1945, but he himself was not captured until June 6, at his new headquarters north of Aurich.

A tank specialist, he engineered the break through at Sedan, France, which was credited with causing the collapse of French resistance.

Arabs Reported Invading Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 6 —(UP)— Great Britain informed the United Nations tonight that four bands of men—presumably Arabs—have invaded Palestine in recent weeks.

The official report, placed before the UN Palestine Commission, laid the legal groundwork for claims that Arabs are threatening the peace and must be met by an international force.

British delegate Fletcher Cooke, on the basis of information received from the Palestine government, reported these groups crossed the border into Palestine:

1. Three hundred invaders who established themselves in the Safad area of Galilee.

2. Seven hundred Syrians who entered Palestine the night of Jan. 20-21 via Trans-jordan. Cooke said these men had transport, were well equipped and supplied, and wore battle dress.

3. About 950 members of the "Arab Liberation Army" who entered Palestine the night of Jan. 29-30 via the Jiar Djamiyeh bridge.

4. A group of marauders from outside Palestine who clashed with security forces recently at Kefar Szold.

Wright Plane to Stay in London Museum

DAYTON, O., Feb. 6 —(UP)— The will of Orville Wright today directed that the famous plane in which he and his brother Wilbur made their first flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C., in 1903 should be left in the South Kensington Museum at London, England.

Wright's attorney, Charles H. Funkhouser, said that as far as he personally knew Wright never formally indicated that he wished the original flying machine brought back to the United States.

"However, I understand from a reliable source that Orville Wright had completed all the necessary arrangements," Funkhouser added.

The plane was sent to England by Orville Wright in 1928 after a dispute with the Smithsonian Institution at Washington as to whether the Wright Brothers or Samuel Langley designed the first practical plane.

Labor Problems Threaten Hawaiian Economy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 —(UP)— The Labor Department told Congress yesterday that a bitter fight over Communism in the Hawaiian labor movement threatens the Island's economy.

The department said the battle between right and left wing elements sent "tensions to such heights in 1947 that practical considerations were swept aside."

The report was prepared by Dr. James H. Shoemaker, economics professor at the University of Hawaii.

Britain Brands Russia As 'Imperialist Power'

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 6 —(UP) Great Britain branded Russia as an "expanding, imperialist power" in the United Nations yesterday and Russia replied that the British charge was "extremely hostile" to the Soviet Union.

Chistopher P. Mayhew, British Representative in the economic and social council, accused Russia of exploiting eastern Europe through commercial combines and a policy of preventing economic aid from the western powers.

"Recent developments in eastern Europe make it necessary to rank Russia as an expanding, imperialist power," he said.

De Valera Loses Power in Irish Voting Returns

DUBLIN, Eire, Feb. 6 —(UP)— First returns from yesterday's national election indicated today that the government party would not get a majority in the new Dail (parliament) and Prime Minister Ramon de Valera would have to give way to a coalition premier after 16 years in power.

That came as no surprise to political observers, but the weak showing of Dean MacBride's Neophyte Republican party, Clann Na Poblachta, amazed them.

The political rise of MacBride, 42, Dublin lawyer, led De Valera to dissolve the old Dail Jan. 14 and call yesterday's election as a test of strength. But observers said tonight that the Republicans would be lucky to win 15 of the 147 seats at stake.

They predicted that De Valera's Fianna Fail party would get some 65 seats, nine short of the 74 needed for a majority. De Valera was expected to resign, paving the way for party leaders in the Dail to choose a coalition premier and cabinet.

Averell Harriman Called 'Co-Conspirator' In Railroad Suit

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 6 —(UP) The government asked today that W. Averell Harriman, Secretary of Commerce and former ambassador to Russia, be "considered" a "co-conspirator" in the Justice Department's anti-trust suit against western railroads.

Averell Harriman

Joseph McDowell, Chief of the Justice Department attorneys handling the government's case, said Harriman was a "leading figure in the conspiracy" to stifle competition and keep railroad rates high.

"I am not at liberty to say why he was not listed as a defendant or a co-conspirator," McDowell said.

It has been suggested, however, that Harriman was not named as a defendant because he was serving as ambassador to Russia when the suit originally was brought in August, 1944.

McDowell said Harriman, then chairman of the board of the Union Pacific Railroad, was active in the so-called western agreement which he called the cornerstone of the suit. The agreement, also called the commissioner plan, was made by a former committee of railroad executives of which Harriman was a member.

The committee was formed in 1932 and disbanded in 1943. Harriman was a member throughout its existence.

Supreme Soviet Active

MOSCOW, Feb. 6 —(UP)— The dismissal of two high government officials, including Minister of Justice N.M. Rychkov, and a ban on marriages between Russians and foreigners were approved by the Supreme Soviet—the Russian parliament—at its final session last night. It was made known today.

The 1948 budget also was approved.

Giant A-Bomb Plane Carrier Included

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 —(UP)— The Navy announced today that it has halted construction on two guided missile ships to make way for the building of six new experimental-type vessels, including a giant aircraft carrier of 60,000 to 80,000 tons.

The carrier would be big enough to launch a plane carrying an atomic bomb.

Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan said the much-heralded guided missile project has been shelved indefinitely because of the "greater need" for the other vessels.

The program, subject to Congressional approval, will cost about $230,000,000 and will take five years to complete.

Biggest Vessel

The carrier would be the biggest vessel afloat, dwarfing the 45,000-ton Midway, the Coral Sea, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, which are the largest flattops in the American fleet.

The other craft will include four high-speed submarines and an anti-submarine ship, all of them faster than anything of their kind now in existence.

Sullivan said the Navy also plans to convert one of the fleet's present carriers and two submarines into more modern hitting craft.

He said the guided missile development "has not proceeded as fast as anticipated." He intimated that last year's North Atlantic tests, in which captured German V-2 rockets were launched from the flight deck of the Midway, had not been entirely satisfactory.

The new carrier will be a "flush-deck" model, more than one-fourth larger than the Navy's present heaviest ships and will be built to carrier "heavier, faster and larger anes," Sullivan said.

Senate Committee Okays Extension Of Rent Control

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 —(UP)— A Senate banking subcommittee today approved a bill extending federal rent controls for 14 months —until April 30, 1949. The vote was 4 to 0.

The Republican-sponsored bill would keep rent ceilings at present levels except in the case of apartments or houses on which "voluntary" increases were agreed under th present act.

Tenants who signed up for such "voluntary" 15 per cent hikes last year will have no rent ceiling when the leases expire.

Subcommittee Chairman Harry P. Cain, (R-Wash.), said the bill will not be made public until he presents it to the Senate Banking Committee at 3 p.m. tomorrow. But he said the extension act is designed to ultimately end rent control and "improve" the present law.

Attlee Calls for Halt In Profit Increases

LONDON, Feb. 6 —(UP)— Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee yesterday called for an immediate halt in wage and profit increases—including rents—throughout Great Britain as a means of checking inflation which is impending economic reconstruction.

He warned in a statement in the House of Commons that the full power of the government lay behind his demand and made it clear that the cabinet is prepared to take formal restrictive action if necessary.

Attlee listed four principles "as a guide to all whose deliberations and actions contribute to the settlement of the amount of personal incomes from whatever source:"

1—"In the present conditions, and until more goods and services are available for the home markets, there is no justification for any general increase of individual money incomes."

2—"It does not follow that it would be right to stabilize all incomes as they stand today."

3—"It is not desirable for the government to interfere directly with the income of individuals otherwise than by taxation."

4—"In view of the government it is essential that there should be strict adherence to the terms of collective agreements."

Why Air Stewardesses Get Married Quickly

NEW YORK —(UP)— Airline stewardesses get married too quickly, United Air Lines complained as it issued another call for girls who qualify for the job.

The company said its girls stay only an average of 18 months before they leave to get married.

The qualifications for the job may explain why.

The girl must have a year of college and a year of business experience; or two years of college or hold a registered nurse certificate. She must be between 21 and 25, between 5 feet 2 inches and 5 feet 7 inches; weigh a maximum of 135 pounds.

The poundage must be distributed proportionally," the company specifies.

Even Birds Remember Man's Hospitality

MILWAUKEE —(UP)— Officials of the Milwaukee Road find birds appreciative.

In previous years when families of birds built nests in the sides, or running gear of the company's cars, the cars were pulled out of service until the eggs hatched and the fledglings had learned to fly.

This year, however, there is a box car shortage. Officials say not a single nest has been built in any of the road's cars. They call it a case of repaid hospitality.

The hull of a modern U. S. Navy submarine is longer than a football field.

Japan's Politics Charged With Corruption

TOKYO—(UP)—A prominent American occupation official charged recently that Japanese politics is honycombed with graft and ridden with gansterism.

In a public conference with members of the Japanese press, Guy J. Swope, former governor of Puerto Rico and presently a member of Allied Headquarters' government section, uttered a vigorous warning that certain vicious elements in Japanese politics must be exterminated.

"Unless by some means or other the people of Japan can free themselves from the cancer of corruption and graft in politics, he said, "their chances to enjoy the benefits of a free government and free society are slight indeed."

Swope added that many old influences which prevented a sound, orderly development of political parties are gone.

"The Gumbatsu (military clique) has been broken. But today there are the Shin Yen Kaikyu (new rich) and Shinko Zaibatsu (new money clique), whose impact is being felt upon political parties and their operations.

"Then there are gangsters and blackmarket racketeers who wield certain influence in politics. The extent of this can be guessed when it is recalled that one of the most notorious gangsters in the nation, now in prison, was elected a member of the present Diet."

Swope charged that "there are many indications that evil and corrupt influence are playing a very important part in the policies of this nation."

Scientist Perfects New Artificial Light

BUDAPEST—(UP)—Prof. Zotan Bay, Hungary's leading atomic scientist, has invented a new source of artificial light, called the carborundum lamp.

Carborundum is a combination of silicon and carbon. It is produced by sending a powerful electric current through a mixture of coke and sand. If passed through transparent carborundum crystals, electric current is directly converted into vivid white light. There is no need to make the crystal glowing hot nor to keep them in a vacuum. An electric current of 20 volts suffices to operate the new lamps.

Much Work To Be Done

Prof. Bay thinks that his invention may revolutionize the electrical industry. It is pointed out, however, that there is considerable engineering work to be done before the invention can be applied for general lighting service.

20th A. F. NCO Club Gets Alterations

HQ. 20TH AIR FORCE — Within the coming week, the Twentieth Air Force Headquarters Noncommissioned Officer's Club expects to complete a series of alterations and new construction in and around their club house, according to 1st-Sgt. John L. Montgomery, club steward.

The front facade was completed several weeks ago and the present outdoor construction consists of a large concrete flooring which will be the "patio" between both sections of the club house. This patio will serve as an outdoor dance floor and will be an added attraction when finished.

The kitchen facilities are being altered to facilitate the serving of short-order meals. An additional storeroom is being built for that purpose. A sizeable porch was added to the back of the kitchen which greatly facilitates the storing of dry goods and staples.

Prices for commodities in the New York market as of 3 February, unless otherwise noted, were:

Copra	$290.00	per ton
Sugar	.0310	per pound
Coffee	.24	per pound
Cocoa	.4575	per pound

Sports Beat

by Bob Crosley

If the Pacific Coast League moguls begin making threats again and broadcasting the drastic moves they plan to make unless they are recognized as a third major league, they are likely to cut their own collective throat and find themselves far worse off than they have been in the past....They are hardly in a position to even ask for major league status, much less to issue ultimatums and make sly suggestions as to what lengths they will go.

Charlie Grahnm of the Frisco Seals, speaking recently for the Coast League stated that the league would not permit the drafting of any player who had not been with the loop for six years or more, and even then, he continued, that a board should be set up to dictate the draft price....From this corner he draws only a large guffaw and warning that he is getting too big for his britches.

Once the PCL were ousted from organized baseball—and such a contract violation would soon accomplish that—how many players would be satisfied with the prospect of staying in the PCL for the rest of their careers?....Mr. Graham's most humorous contention was the West Coasters would retain their players by paying salaries that would match major league stipends ...Pooh pooh....'Tis likely that you could count on one hand the PCL stars who earn in five figures ...The salary of Bob Feller, or Ted Williams or Joe DiMaggio is almost equal to the entire payroll of many of the Coast League clubs ...The highest paid players in the Coast League are under $15,000, and even the frugal St. Louis Browns forked over $17,000 for the services of Vern Stephens last year.

Even boys like Lou Boudreau, Snuffy Stirnweiss and Pete Reiser, who are not all timers, command salaries double the PCL ceiling.

Then too, there are the paying customers to consider. Are they willing to pass up forever the chance to see real major league baseball in Frisco, Portland and other West Coast towns?...How long would they be content to dish out the rubels to see the same bunch of guys play ball inferior to the brand seen in the Eastern cities....And what when the present performers are worn out?...From whence would cometh the new talent?....They could recruit them from the sandlots, but without the minor league clubs farther down the ladder to develop the stars, the quality would decrease.

The public is provoked and the seams on the britches are strained near the breaking point.

Gamecock Cager Sets New 20th AF Scoring Mark

HQ. 20TH AIR FORCE, GUAM, Feb. 6 — Last Wednesday night, Sgt. James Johnson, fast-breaking forward of the 474th's Signal Heavy Const. Co. basketball team, set a 20th Air Force tournament individual scoring record by scoring 38 points.

Smothered Opponents

His high scoring developed during the Gamecocks' tussle with the 514th's Weather Reconaissance Squadron team in which the Gamecocks smothered their opponents with a score of 88-46. Although the majority of Sgt. Johnson's shots were accurate, he made most of his points by following up a miss.

Last Wednesday's game was one of Johnson's last games on the Island as he is returning home for discharge. His absence will be a serious blow to the Gamecocks when they journey to Japan to enter the Air Forces Olympics next month.

Pro Scouts Bring About Change In School Routine

NEW YORK, —(UP)— School days aren't what they used to be!

Time was when, grammar and high school kids would stick to the routine divertisements of flinging spit-balls or tying knots in the tails of the little girl up front. That's passed today.

These days, the kids in school while away their time trying to single out which one of their classmates will turn pro next. The kids claim it's more fun than cutting classes.

The pro question may be fun for the kids, but you'll have to pardon baseball people if they fail to see the humor. The New York Yankees, for example, weren't exactly splitting with laughter over their latest escapade with a high school ballplayer.

The Yankees recently were fined $500 for signing 18-year-old Harry Nicholas, a promising schoolboy pitcher from Valley Stream, N.Y. losing title to the youngster hurt much more than the token fine imposed by head professor Albert Benjamin Chandler.

Undoubtedly the most anguished individuals of the high school rule, a regulation which prohibits the signing of a player while he still attends high school, the the baseball scouts, those grizzled bird dogs whose job it is to uncover diamond talent in the rough.

Trade Probably Best Thing for Miller

CINCINNATI, O.,—(UP)—Shortstop Eddie Miller of the Cincinnati Reds said that he "supposed it would be for the best" if the Cincinnati Reds could trade him as a consequence of his remarks about the club.

In the talk, he criticized operations of the Reds and claimed that the rookie players being signed by the Reds were not ready for major league competition.

American Olympic Games Entrants Win Two Gold Medals on 7th Day

Move From 7th to 3rd in Unofficial Ratings

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 6 —(UP)— United States Olympic forces, led by Skier Gretchen Fraser and Figure Skater Dick Button, shattered a European monopoly in the fifth winter Olympic Games today by winning two gold medals, one second place, two fourths and one sixth in the greatest single day's performance by any American team in the history of the winter Olympics.

In an amazing stand on the seventh day of the Olympaid, the Americans piled up 32 points and rose from seventh place to third in the unofficial team standings with a total of 52-½ points as:

1. The pig-tailed Mrs. Fraser, 28-year-old Vancouver, Wash., housewife who thought she was "too old for Olympic competition," won the women's slalom and became the first American ever to win a women's ski event in the history of the Olympics.

2. Button, 18-year-old star from Englewood, N. J., won the men's figure skating championship with the highest number of points ever awarded a men's Olympic skating winner.

3. Jack Heaton, 39-year-old globe trotter whose last U.S. address was New Haven, Conn., placed second in defense of the cresta (one-man) bobsled championship he won in 1928 and which hasn't been taken since Corp. Wilbur Lee Martin of the U. S. Army finished fourth.

4. Jack Lettengarver, 18-year-old St. Paul, Minn., skater, finished fourth in figure skating and 16-year-old Johnny Grogan of Oakland, Calif., finished sixth.

The only major setback suffered by the United States was a defeat in non-Olympic hockey by the Amateur Hockey Association team. A team of Royal Canadian Air Force players, led by Walter Halder who scored six goals, whipped the U.S. 12 to 3, knocking the A.-H.A. out of a chance for the championship. It was the second U. S. defeat.

Barbara Ann Scott, Canadian skating beauty from Ottawa, assumed an almost insurmountable lead in compulsory figures, an event postponed from yesterday, and was an overwhelming favorite to win the championship in tomorrow's final free skating.

Kwaj Withstands Saipan Rally To Win, 42 to 36

Kwajalein's quintet staved off a desperate rally last night on the ComMar court to defeat Saipan, 42 to 36, to earn a berth in the finals against Guam for the Marianas championship.

Saipan looked alive from the start of the game, but trailed throughout every quarter because of poor ball handling and the inability to hit the basket. They stayed within a couple of points during the first half to trail 20 to 17 at the intermission, but in the third stanza Kwajalein pulled away on the consistent shooting of Ken Scott and Bob Ziarnik.

"Jess" Jesse rang up three field goals in the fourth quarter for Saipan along with Lloyd Lenzen's two buckets to overcome a 32 to 24 deficit and close the gap at 36 to 34. Ken Scott dunked in a charity toss with three minutes remaining for Kwaj, but Lopez fired a field goal as Saipan made their bid, 37 to 36.

Lanky Bob Roesch gambled on a long one and made it good to keep the Kwaj team in front, 39 to 36, with seconds remaining.

Al Ring was fouled in a struggle under the basket and stepped up to the gift circle to salt the game away for Kwaj with a free shot as Ziarnik added a lay-up shot for good measure.

Kwajalein's victory gives them the right to battle the Guam All-Stars tonight for the Marianas championship and a chance at a ticket to the WesPac Tourney later this month.

Scott took individual scoring honors with 18 points while Jesse followed with 12.

The lineup:

Kwajalein (42)	Pos.	Saipan (36)
Ziarnik 6	F	Critchfield
Scott 18	F	Jesse 12
Roesch 3	C	McConaha 4
Ring 2	G	Hemersyak 1
Gunderson 7	G	Eagleman

Husky Coaching Staff Shaping Up

SEATTLE —(UP)— The University of Washington's 1948 football coaching staff was virtually complete with the hiring of Marvin Franklin, end coach at Yale last season, as freshman grid mentor under Head Coach Howard (Howie) Odell, late of Yale.

Odell, still in New Haven, Conn., lining up the rest of his staff, notified Athletic Director Harvey Cassill that he had signed Franklin to lead the Husky frosh team.

Odell, recently resigned as head Yale coach, telephoned from New Haven that he also had signed Reginald Root, line coach and chief assistant to Odell at Yale for three years, and Morris (Red) Badgro, end coach at the University of Washington under Ralph (Pest) Welch.

Kriz, Navarez Vie As Tennis Tourney Opens Today

Lt. Frank Kriz, sixth seeded player in the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament, will meet E. Navarez in the opening match of the first afternoon's competition today on the Naval Government courts in Agana at 1300.

Six matches, all in the open singles, will inaugurate play in the field of 67 entries as the battle for the trophies begins. Lt. Kriz will be the only one of the seeded players in action today, but five others will play their first matches tomorrow. The seedings were necessarily made on the basis of last year's tournament and will not mean as much as if they were based on more recent play. Several players have come to Guam since last year who can be counted on to give the leaders a battle.

The Kriz-Navarez match and the James Manning-David Warfield affair will be the first on the agenda. The second pair of matches will be between Lt. Austin Parker and George Hullsiek, and Lt. Walter Honour vs. Ltjg. Donald Edgen. William Hastings and Oliver Townsend and J. A. Marsh and Lawrence Cook will comprise the final duo of matches.

Tomorrow afternoon on the same courts, all seeeded players, with the exception of Lt. Kriz, and Captain Kohlhas and Lcdr. Smith, both of whom are unable to get away from duties, will play for the first time. Matches for tomorrow are:

Cdr. William Seidel vs. O. W. Stoll, Mauricio Madrigal vs. Lt. Vernon Brown, Major A. I. Lyman vs. George Slusser, Lt. M. S. Hanson vs. Lt. Homer Pettit, Captain Bob McBride vs. Christian Meyer, Henry Baird vs. Charles Egan. Lcdr. R. C. Spears vs. Robert Watts, Lt. John Tobin vs. Captain I. W. Winget.

For those unfamiliar with the Island, the Naval Government courts are located in the heart of Agana, directly behind the traffic court, and across the street from the EM club.

George Zoeterman Signs With Cubs' Decatur Farm Nine

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 —(UP)— George Zoeterman, a southpaw pitcher who threw four no-hit games while in high school and lost two of them, signed a contract with the Chicago Cubs' Decatur, Ill., farm team today.

The Cubs, to obtain his signature on the contract, paid him his second bonus for a big league baseball team, and this time the 18-year-old portsider will make the pact stick. His previous contract was with the Chicago White Sox, who paid him $1,500, and it was overturned by Baseball Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler because Zoeterman had not finished high school.

"I can't say how much the Cubs paid me to sign," Zoeterman said, "but it was less than some of the other teams offered me. But I wanted to play at home, and so my father and I thought this was the best contract."

Zoeterman began attracting big league attention last year when he pitched two no-hit games for his Christian High School and lost both of them because the catcher dropped three strikes. The runners reached base on the errors and scored.

This season he won four games, all shutouts, and lost two.

Second Baseman Plays First Violin Too

SAN FRANCISCO, —(UP)— Ordinarily music and baseball don't mix, but Eddie Basinski is no ordinary man.

He's the new second baseman for Indianapolis of the American Association—and he's a first violinist with the Buffalo Symphony Orchestra.

The slender 24-year-old infielder also has a degree in mechanical engineering from University of Buffalo—which makes him a jack of all trades and master of many.

"I don't know which I like the best," says Basinski, "music or baseball. But I do know that baseball pays better."

Last year he played part-time with the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League. He batted a healthy .278 in 59 games. Driving in 30 runs. He fielded .967.

"I feel more at home with music," says Basinski, "but I need the money and that's why I'm playing baseball."

Late in the season with Portland last year, Basinski suddenly became one of the finest fielders in the circuit. He developed a fielding technique something on the line of the "pogo pass" in football. He would spear a line drive high in the air and complete the throw to first before his feet touched the ground.

The general public worries about Basinski's fingers—especially those people who know of his violin talent.

"But I can't worry about it myself," says Eddie. "I know that if my fingers were strained or broken, I would be ruined as a musician. But a baseball player can't waste time favoring himself."

"Music and baseball aren't as different as they look. Both call for perfection. Especially in music. You can't afford errors. An error in baseball can be covered up by quick action.

"As for the audiences, I would just as soon play for one as the other."

Washington State Holds Grid Drills

PULLMAN, Wah., Feb. 6 —(UP)—Football is due here today, snow or no snow.

Washington State College, probably the first football team in the country to jump off to "spring" practice in mid-winter, will send some 85 grid candidates through opening drills in a steam-heated field house today.

The Cougars adopted the idea of snow-time practice so football players would also have time to go out for track and baseball.

Title Bout Set

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 —(UP)— Arrangements were completed today for a 15-round featherweight title bout in the Orange Bowl Stadium here Feb. 24 between Champion Willie Pep and Humberto Sierra, the Cuban challenger.

Subcommittee Rejects Rent Ceilings Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 —(UP)—A Senate banking subcommittee bill to end rent ceiling in several major cities and allow higher rents in others was rejected by the full committee today.

Chairman Charles W. Tobey, (R—N. H.,) instructed the subcommittee to redraft it while he and his colleagues consult "our consciences and our friends."

He told subcommittee Chairman Harry P. Cain, (R—Wash.,) to present a new bill on Feb. 16. This gives Congress only 13 days to act before the present rent law expires but Tobey said he was considering an emergency 30-day extension.

Quite Quickly

The subcommittee bill would have abolished all rent ceilings at once in Norfork, Va., Memphis, Denver, Tulsa, Okla., Portland, Ore., San Antonio, Seattle, Portsmouth, Va., New Port News, Va., and the entire Hampton Roads area of Virginia.

Other areas would be decontrolled when the Census Bureau found a ratio of at least one per cent vacancies in either sale or rental housing.

In addition, 15 per cent increases would be ordered in all areas where landlords could show that their operating costs had risen 30 per cent since rent control started. The bill would continue controls for another 14 months.

V-2 Rocket Flight Important Advance

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 —(UP)— The successful control of a V-2 rocket in flight at White Sands, N. M., was described by Army sources tonight as probably the most important advance in guided missile development since the end of the war.

They said the Army has concentrated many of its top ordnance experts and a number of German scientists at the White Sands proving grounds in an attempt to devise some means of flight control.

They said, however, that today's demonstration was only the first of a long series of steps that will have to be taken before a missile can be guided to its target by remote control.

The V-2 rockets used by the Germans during the war were relatively crude missiles which followed a pre-determined course and could not be controlled in flight.

U.S., Britain Give Germans Self-Government

BERLIN, Feb. 7 —(UP)— The United States and Great Britain gave the Germans in their occupation zones a charter of limited self-government today. It was a historic move to restore Germany, the economic heart of Europe, to normal after nearly three years of chaos.

Russia is bitterly opposed to the move and early reaction attacking it is expected. An attempt to force the Western Allies out of Berlin, which is a four-power island surrounded by Russian occupied territory, may follow soon.

Under the charter, which becomes effective Monday, the Germans in the Anglo-American zone are to set up by Feb. 24 the following administrative regime:

1. An economic council of 104 members which will serve as a substitute for a House of Representatives.

2. An upper house of Laenderrat or Senate made up of two men from each state in the western zones.

3. An executive committee which will serve as a substitute for a cabinet.

4. A high court with jurisdiction over economic and financial legislation.

5. Appropriate governmental agencies to carry out the administration of the western zones under the German set-up.

The present economic council, which has served under the Western occupation authorities, will be the basis of the new regime. Under the charter its membership will be doubled. State parliaments will elect the member of the enlarged council on the basis of one member for each 750,000 inhabitants.

Under the charter the council and its affiliated agencies will have all the trappings of a government, the first in Germany since the Nazi collapse in May, 1945.

Filipino Inspectors Leave Guam With Reports

COMMAR HILL—After completing their investigation of comparative wage scales and living conditions between Filipino and American laborers on Guam, Atty. Cecilio I. Lim, chief of the Philippine Public defenders, and Mr. Felicisimo Lauzon, Inspector General of Philippine Labor, will return to their country within the immediate future with reports on their findings.

These men arrived on Guam last week at the request of their government in an effort to substantiate whatever truth there has been in the widely voiced contentions that Filipino labor on Guam continually undergoes serious "discrimination and hardship."

During their brief stay, they made an extensive survey of the Filipino labor conditions on both Guam and Saipan. Special attention was paid to sanitation, food, medical service, housing, recreation, and the most important grievance of all, wage scales.

Their investigation complete, these men will return to the labor offices of the Philippine government with reports that acclaim the existing conditions for the most part are satisfactory. They said that American contractors have made promises to take steps to alleviate the poor wage scale, and to make the life of the Filipino worker a better one.

Van Fleet Named Head Of Mission to Greece

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 —(UP)— Maj. Gen. James Alvard Van Fleet, one of the U.S. Army's top combat soldiers, was named chief of the American Military Mission in Greece today, replacing Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay.

Van Fleet, a veteran of the battle of the bulge, will leave for Athens shortly. He will direct all American Army, Navy and Air Force groups attached to the aid mission.

Army sources attached the greatest importance to the shift and predicted it would open a new and more vigorous phase of American assistance to the Communist-threatened Greek government.

The 55-year-old Van Fleet is now deputy commander of the Second Army with headquarters at Governor's Island, N.Y.

Public Health Department Bulletin

For the past two months, occasional cases of a form of encephalitis have been appearing on Guam. Most of the cases have appeared in the Guamanian communities, although there have been a few cases among the non-residents. This small outbreak is by no means alarming proportions at the present time, and this bulletin is issued to accurately inform the public and to stop any wild rumors that may arise concerning the situation.

As laboratory studies indicate that this disease can be transmitted by a mosquito from an infected person to a well person, an intensive Island wide mosquito-control program is underway.

Everyone can assist us in completely eradicating this disease from the Island by complying with the following measures:

1. Eliminate all trash, garbage, tin cans and other empty receptacles which might contain stagnant water and provide a breeding place for mosquitoes.

2. Either drain, or spray with D-DT or oil, all pools of stagnant water.

3. Tightly cover all rain barrels.

4. Non-residents should avoid visiting Guamanian communities till further notice. Daytime school attendance at the high school in Sinajana is considered safe.

5. Guamanians should avoid inter-community visiting until further notice.

6. Kill all the mosquitoes you can, and protect yourself with mosquito repellant when out at night where mosquitoes are prevalent.

7. Report promptly to a doctor or clinic nurse any unusual illness. The usual early symptoms of this variety of encephalitis are fever, headache and vomiting.

Britain Charges Bulgaria With 'Serious Error'

LONDON, Feb. 7 —(UP)— Great Britain has sent a harshly worded note to Bulgaria charging that either its government deliberately connived in sending two shiploads of Jewish immigrants to Palestine or its officials made a "serious error" in giving the ships clearance, it was made known today.

The British note made no reference to current allegations that the ships in question, the Pan York and Pan Crescent, contained numerous Communists among their passengers. British Minister to Bulgaria delivered the note in Sofia a week ago.

Charging that it must have been evident that the 15,000 Jews aboard the ships were seeking to enter Palestine in defiance of immigration restrictions, the note said:

"....If Bulgaria aspires to members of the United Nations his Majesty's Government feels bound to suggest that the Bulgarian government would be well advised to acquaint themselves with the activities of that organization and with the obligations which its members are called upon to undertake."

Nation's Food Prices Nosedive on Markets

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 —(UP)— Basic food prices nosedived on the nation's commodity markets today for the third day in a row, and many experts believed that the cost of living had started downhill.

Corn, wheat, oats, butter and hogs all plunged downward. The skidding grain market carried wholesale flour prices down with it.

Stocks and cotton futures were irregular in jittery trading.

Morris Sayre, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, told newsmen at Moline, Ill., that the commodity slump may mean the end of inflation. Richard F. Uhlmann, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said the peak had been reached. Some old industry leaders and grain traders felt that the inflation food spiral, at least, had ended.

Sayre said that "anyone could see it was going to come."

"I don't know whether inflation has stopped," he said, "but I suspect that we are on our way to taking the cap off the high cost of living."

On the board of trade, heavy selling by shorting, excited traders sent prices of all wheat and corn for future delivery down the limit allowed for a single day's loss.

Wheat, with a 10-cent daily limit, has lost 30 cents a bushel in three days, with a cumulative loss of as much as 50 cents a bushel from January highs.

Greek Ships Alert For Submarines

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 7 —(UP) The Navy Ministry was reported today to have ordered all Greek ships to watch for submarines in Greek waters and to fire on them without warning.

The order followed presistent reports, some of them confirmed officially, that submarines supplied by "foreign powers" were transporting Guerillas in Greek waters and helping exiled Communists escape from remote islands in the Aegean Sea.

Afternoon newspapers said today that Greek authorities had received word that two submarines of unkown nationality had been observed separately in the Preveza port area on the west coast of Greece, 50 miles southwest of Janina, and in the Kytheran channel between Kythera Island and Crete.

Last week, authorities claimed to have information that submarines were operating somewhere in Greek waters but had no details.

The United States has an 18-ship task force operating in the Mediterranean but no submarines were included in lists released for publication.

Russian Paper Izvestiq Says Russian-Romanian Treaty Significant

MOSCOW, Feb. 7 —(UP)— The government newspaper Izvestia said today that the new Russian-Romanian treaty of mutual defense assumed especially important significance at a time when international reaction was trying to split off Western Germany and include it in a military-political bloc.

Diplomatic quarters interpreted the statement to mean that the treaty, signed here Wednesday, was the first step in a new Russian campaign to unite Eastern Europe in a fight against the plans of the United States and Great Britain for the immediate future of Western Europe.

Mutual Aid

The Russian-Romanian treaty was designed to provide mutual help in the event that either country is involved with "Germany or any other state which should directly or in any other form unite with Germany in a policy of aggression."

This fact, combined with Izvestia's statement, was taken in some diplomatic quarters to indicate clearly that the signatories had the Marshall Plan for European recovery and the Bevin Plan for union of western European countries in mind.

Southern Governors 'Up in Arms' Over Bill

WAKULLA SPRINGS, Fla., Feb. 7 —(UP)— Southern governors convene tomorrow, braced for fireworks from several of their number who are in oratorical arms over President Truman's broad civil rights program.

Regional Schools

The governors want to set up regional professional schools for Negroes, jointly supported by the states, in the hope that arrangement will fulfill the "equal facilities" requirement of the recent supreme court decision in the University of Oklahoma case.

Ringleaders of the Dixie revolt are Govs. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, Ben Laney of Arkansas and James E. Folsom, of Alabama. Folsom is coupling his denounciation of the President's civil rights ideas with his own campaign to win a "favorite son" nomination for President.

A Thrilling Saga of The Pacific

by George Wilbur

A thrilling saga of the sea, reminiscent of Nordhoff and Hall's "Men Against The Sea," recently unfolded here on Guam with the arrival of three bronze Gilbertese natives, participants in a fifty seven day odyssey of drifting aimlessly with Pacific currents in a nineteen foot whaleboat.

Discovered by the USS ROQUE AG-137 supply vessel, on one of its regular runs to the lonely island of Ngatik in the east Carolines, the three remaining men of an original four man party are now awaiting return to their home island of Maiana, which they last saw on the first day of September, 1947.

The greatly extended voyage began when the four natives, Teitikai, Teburea, Beniamina and Takeuta, set out in their nineteen foot, sail powered whaleboat from their home island of Maiana to transport a doctor to the isle of Tarawa, 28 miles away. They had made this short trip may times before and had no thought of danger, and no idea whatsoever that they would spend the next fifty seven days hoping against, but waiting for death.

The doctor was deposited on Tarawa safely and the small craft prepared to wend its way back home. Strong undercurrents and gusty winds blew them off their course, and each time they attempted to correct their position a new storm would lash out at them. When the weather finally cleared, the occupants of the midget craft had no idea where they were, and to make thing worse, their sails had been shredded by the wind, making the boat powerless. Having always sailed by the sun and stars, no navigation equipment was aboard.

A check-up divulged that their total supplies were enough biscuits little firewood, plus two dozen crude wooden matches. With the natural optimistic outlook of Pacific islanders who were long experienced with the ways of this immense stretch of water, they rigged a small jury sail and started down the wind. Running out of biscuits quickly, they reverted to fishing, and were immediately successful. However, after the meager two dozen matches and small supply of fire wood ran out, they were forced to digest their catch raw.

Near the end of September, one of the four, Teitikai, began to talk incoherently about starting homeward on the next low tide when it would be easier to walk. The others attempted to keep a strict surveillance of him, but one night he escaped their watchful eyes to walk complacently over the side. An attempt was made to rescue him, but to no avail!

From then on, existence in their narrow and weather beaten confines played heavy on the three men's minds and bodies. They were beginning to feel the effects of their unstable raw fish diet, and their constant lack of protection from the elements. They tried ta stay awake on a rotating watch basis, and lucky for them they did.

On the 27th of October, fifty seven days after they had started out from the Maiana, Teburea, the youngest of the group, saw the greenish reflection of a lagoon on the underside of a mass of low flying clouds. Before long they had drifted across the reef to the lonely island of Ngatik, into the awaiting hands of a small group of friendly natives.

From that time until late January they have been whirled from one spot to another on the wings of the Navy. After receiving medical treatment by Navy-trained natives on Ngatik, they were picked up by the USS ROQUE and transported to Truk. There they took time to build up their undernourished bodies after which they were flown to Guam.

Agricultural Agents Aid Native Farmers

New Service Boost Rehabilitation

(Ed. Note: Following is the third in a series of articles on the agricultural development and rehabilitation on Guam prepared in conjunction with Mr. Harold E. Swarts, director of the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries.)

The Department of Agriculture and Fisheries has instituted a new service to local farmers through the media of three agricultural agents, who visit local farmers in an attempt to acquaint them with more desirable practices in producing agricultural products.

Sinajana, Jesus Quinata, from Umatac, is in charge of the southern district which includes Inarajan, Merizo and Umatac.

Emphasis is currently being laid on the production of a greater diversification of crops for family consumption—such as green, leafy and yellow vegetables and fruits—instead of placing so much dependance on the starchy crops of taro, breadfruit, corn, sweet potatoes and cassava.

Before the war, roughly 2,400 families were engaged in agriculture as a full-time or a part-time proposition. Today, only about 480 families are engaged in farming as a full-time occupation. In order to make Guam more nearly self-sufficient in terms of agriculture produce, it is desirable that more families return to farming as a means of livelihood.

The agents demonstrate the value of good seeds and planting stock and advise on insect and pest problems, fertilization, crop rotation, conservation practices and improved livestock and poultry production and management practices.

Better still, would be the desirability of aiding and encouraging many laborers to engage in farming as a part-time proposition in order to produce a greater percentage of the foodstuffs required by their families and to afford a form of supplemental income through the sales of surplus produce in the local markets.

Transfer and exchange of seeds, plants, insecticides, fertilizers, hand tools and other production aids are facilitated by the agents.

Failing in this accomplishment, the alternative is to aid and encourage the fewer number of farmers in undertaking operations on a larger scale, including the use of mechanized farm equipment and labor saving equipment.

Recently some superior taro varieties were introduced from Hawaii for production by a few selected farmers, who in turn are now making stock available to a larger group of farmers. Also, just recently, sugar cane planting materials were distributed to numerous farmers throughout the Island from materials introduced into Guam from various sources in an attempt to stimulate sugar cane production by local farmers for home use.

For the most part, mechanized equipment was unknown among the local farmers before the war, so it will take time, patience and a good deal of training before the local farmers will become proficient in the use and operation of mechanized equipment.

Farmers are assisted in the sale and delivery of their farm produce to military and contractor camps and they are aided in the procurement of necessary production aids by the agents.

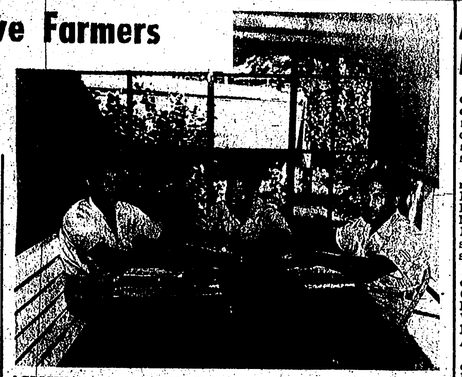
As a background information the following may be of interest as regards the number of various classes of livestock on Guam before the war as compared with the present number.

Animal	April, 1940	Dec. 1947	percent of prewar
Carabao	1,560	619	39.7
Cattle	5,845	2,797	47.8
Goats	1,353	358	26.5
Hogs	14,069	5,137	36.4
Horses	126	56	44.3
Chickens	209,483	36,255	17.3
Ducks	1,027	338	32.9

The agents visit an average of 200 farms and ranches each month. In addition to the numerous individual farm visits, the agents hold frequent community meetings to present various agricultural subjects and participate in many more community meetings to offer consultation and advice on agricultural matters.

In many respects the service afforded by the department through its agricultural agents is similar to that of the county agents and farm advisors back in the states and Hawaii. Much of our work and methods are patterned after those developed and followed back in the states under the extension program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The Island is divided into three districts, and an agent is in charge of each district. The northern district is composed of Machanao, Yigo, Dededo, and Barrigada, with Enrique Salas, from Mangilao, as the agent. The central district includes Sinajana, Asan, Piti, Sumay, Agat, Yona, and Talofofo. Jesus Reyes is the agent and he lives in Sinajana.

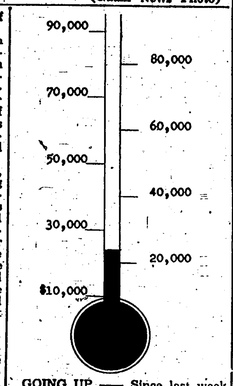


AGRICULTURAL AGENTS—Shown are the three agricultural agents from the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries, who visit local farmers to acquaint them with more desirable practices in producing agricultural produce. Left to right are: Enrique A. Salas, northern district; Jesus G. Reyes, central district and Jeses Quinata, southern district. (Guam News Photo)

At present we have no tie in of any kind with the U.S. Department of Agriculture other than informally through numerous personal acquaintances engaged in agriculture back in the states. Neither do we receive any financial aid of any kind other than through funds made available to the Naval Government of Guam for various and sundry purposes.

Beyond any question of doubt, the most effective way of reaching the Guamanian farmer, in an attempt to get various ideas across to him, is through the agricultural agent setup. No amount of newspaper publicity, radio, leaflets or anything else would be as effective as working through local people who have been trained and coached on specific matters and who are well enough known and respected in their communities and speak the Chamorro language.

It is the practice of the department to hold a short staff conference each Monday morning where the problems encountered are discussed and a solution agreed upon. At that time the other specialists sit in on the conference and offer aid and training in the specialized fields. At these meetings a program for work is agreed upon and methods of approach are discussed. Background and reference materials are presented or made available at that time.



GOING UP — Since last week the thermometer indicating the amount donated to the Guam Memorial Hospital fund has risen exactly $3,605.64. Included are donations from the following sources: $3,367.39, Guam Rotary Club Christmas carnival; $30, anonymous gift; $198.25, Department of Agriculture and Fisheries; $10, Mr J. M. Flores.

Will the following people please call at the Bank of Guam immediately to pick up mail awaiting them: Gavino M. Tacan, Charles E. Amos, Paul Ritchie, Peter A. Parker, Lavoice E. Thomas, Robert A. Oliver, Jr., Ignacio Peralta, Amy F. Mokunui, Oliver Crosby, Charles Lane, and M-Sgt. or Mrs. H. W. Brandon. 9

There comes a time when a certain phase of the subject regarding the "Gem of the Pacific" is discussed, and questions and answers become quite doubtful, and arbitrary. This has, perhaps, been my incentive for this bit of research which has developed as thus.....

For the 'new-comers' it might be well to begin with the geography of the Island. Guam lies at the southern-most end of a chain of islands called the Marianas. There are seventeen islands that make up this group, and which extends in a line almost north and south for 420 miles. Guam is the largest and most populous of the Marianas with an area of about 217 square miles, and is about 30 miles long and from 4 to 8 and one half miles wide—varying at the different parts of the Island.

All the islands are of volcanic origin, but Guam and the other southern islands of the chain have been inactive for a long time. The southern part of Guam is high and mountainous with a range of hills along the west coast from 700 to 1,300 feet high. There are numerous small rivers and their tributaries, which rise in this ridge and empty into the sea on the east coast. The northern part of the Island is a plateau, ranging from 200 to 600 feet in elevation, with only a few small brooks near Mount Santa Rosa on the northeast coast. The rapidity of jungle growth makes constant clearing necessary.

The climate on the whole is pleasant. The minimum temperature is about 70 degrees and the maximum about 91 degrees. Guam is in the typhoon belt of the Western Pacific, and is therefore, occasionally visited by severe storms.

The northeast and east-northeast trade winds prevail from December to May during which time there is comparatively little rain. The southwest monsoon blows at more or less frequent intervals, and is influenced by the typhoons, from June to November, bringing heavy rains. The average yearly rainfall is 89.13 inches, of which 65 percent falls in the two months of July and September. The hottest months are May and June.

For a little historical background —Guam was discovered on March 6, 1521 by Magellan while on his voyage around the world. At that time, he named the whole Island group "Ladrones." The Manila galleons sometimes touched the island on their voyages to and from Acapulco, but no attempts at colonization were made until 1668. On June of that year, Spanish missionaries landed on Guam with the intention of converting to Christianity the people of the islands of the entire group, which were then renamed the Marianas in honor of Maria Ana of Austria, Queen of Spain.

On the arrival of the missionaries, churches, and a school were built and the work of Christianizing inhabitants commenced. At first hospitable and peaceful, the Islanders soon turned against the Spaniards. Wars and rebellion were continual from 1670 to 1696 at which time the Island was subjugated.

Music Spotlights

by Ed Simmons

There comes that time when you don't know where, or on what to start. Well it looks like the time has come. Maybe if we ramble on for a few sharps and flats, we might find the lost chord.

I was talking to a bebop fan and a hot jazz fan, the other night. In the unimitable way that the extreme fanatic has, they told me I was mad for listening to classical music. To them hot jazz and bebop were the only type of music. While I think hot jazz and bop have their points, and multiple points at that, I also feel that the long hair stuff has its many points.

As proof of my theorem, I would recommend a recent book by Aaron Copeland. I call the book recent, although it was copyrighted in 1939, because the things that it has to say will be fresh, "not for years, not for lifetime, but forever." The majority of books written on music appreciation are written by journalists or educators. This particular book was written by one of the best known and most highly regarded of contemporary American composers, and discusses how to listen to music from the composer's point of view. It presents a fresh conception of just what we hear, and what we should hear, in listening to any type of music. Don't take my word for it, read, "What to Listen For in Music," by Aaron Copeland, and find out for yourself.

I think we've found the lost chord. How about a quick rundown of the top musical events in the year of 1947?

JANUARY: Duke Ellington set a precedent by winning both the sweet and swing top band divisions of the DOWNBEAT magazine poll, plus the top band position of the ESQUIRE jazz poll, and the top band position of the METRONOME poll. News from Chicago and 52nd street was uniformly sad, according to those in the know, jazz was blowing its final breath. (Sonny Berman, ace Woody Herman trumpeter died unexpectedly at 22.)

FEBRUARY: Billy Eckstine broke his band up, and started singing solo. Jimmie McPartland, all time jazz great, returned from New Orleans, and woke Chicago up. Riverboat King Fate Marable died in St. Louis. (Benny Goodman ended a seven-year romance with Columbia by signing with Capitol records. Nat Cole and his wife, and Stan Kenton and his wife, were divorced.)

MARCH: The happy monster, Chubby Jackson opened his own club on Long Island. Kay Kyser split top billing with Jane Russell.

APRIL: Defying doctor's orders, Kenton planned to carry on the tough schedule he'd been following for six years. Jazz concerts were keeping musicians eating during a big music slump. Earl "Fatha" Hines bought the Chicago El Grotto and moved in with his boys. (Woody Herman and Peggy Lee signed for a summer radio show. Sam Donahue records were being pushed by GAC and Capitol records.)

MAY: The Kenton band folded, and Stan took a rest cure. Butch Stone, versatile song-comic long with the Les Brown band, was signed to do a stint at Billy Berg's with his own combo. Jess Stacy, and Charlie Ventura, also opened at other clubs with their own combos.

JUNE: Billie Holiday, top torch singer, had her tale before a judge in Philadelphia and received a one year sntence. River-boat jazz was introduced on the Hudson River, by Art Hodes and Rudi Blesh. Jo Stafford, who'd stumped all on "Timtayshun," confessed all.

JULY: People tried to figure out how long the AFM would be in business, with the Taft-Hartley and Lea bills and the form decision. Jimmie Lunceford died while the band was on a one-nighter in Seaside, Oregon. Wilbur De Paris and Tafi Jordan, checked out of the Ellington band.

AUGUST: June Christy and Shelly Manne were having trouble deciding whether to rejoin the reorganizing Kenton band. Rex Stewart went on a tour of Iceland. Edwin Wilcox piloted the leaderless Lunceford band into the Appollo.

SEPTEMBER: Tommy Dorsey knocked Benny Goodman flat with a hard right to the chin. Station WMCA in New York was trying to persuade the Duke and the Horn to sign as Jocks. Charlie Parker played great bop at the Duces on 52nd street. Knton opened his new band at Balboa beach.

OCTOBER: Rudi Blesh was called more names than anyone else in October. Irving Ashby took over the guitarist spot in the King Cole Trio.

NOVEMBER: The big scramble for stockpiles of masters was on, with every disc company working a 24 hour schedule to beat the ban. Teddy Napoleon, ace pianist, returned to Gene Krupa's organization. Lena Horne went to London to sing for the folks. Chubby Jackson and Diz Gillespie prepared to go abroad.

DECEMBER: Elliot Lawrence made a big hit on the Cal coast. Sid Bechet opened at Jazz Ltd. his first Chi date since 1918. Armstrong and his combo broke all existing records, wherever he played.

Well that's the news for '47 in brief. This lad says, '48 will hold bigger and better things.

The Eastern Star Club will meet at the Masonic temple on February 10, 1948.

Thumbnail Sketches

(Editor's Note — This is the second in a series of Sunday "Thumbnail Sketches," portraying briefly the highlights in the lives of Island personalities by Mr. J. C. Johnston.

A versatile and colorful past, a career of potentious magnitude today, and a hopeful outlook that he will be a contributing factor to making his native Guam the Hawaii of tomorrow are all personal attributes that, in their intrinsic philosophy, embody the congenial Mr. Ben Zafra, Chief Commissioner of Guam.

Born in Agana in 1902, Mr. Zafra gained his schooling here on the Island. Following the completion of his education he became employed by the Public Works department, where he worked for eight years.

In 1925 he left Guam, not to return for nearly eleven years. Going to Hong Kong, he took a position as clerk with the U. S. Public Health department for over a year. Following this he was employed by the J. F. Fisher Co., in that city, and later did a hitch in the merchant marine aboard the SS PRESIDENT TAFT. Returning to Hong Kong, he became an administrator with a branch of the Texas Oil Co., both in that city and in Saigon, French Indo China.

Gets Married

Returning to Guam in 1936, he became an employe of the Department of Agriculture until 1941, when he was appointed chief commissioner. He married Miss Isabel Perez, daughter of the Governor's secretary.

During the recent war he was forced to work by the Japanese putting out a propaganda newspaper.

As chief commissioner, Mr. Zafra is the direct representative of the people to the governor of Guam. In full favor of the Navy continuing its function here until the rehabilitation is complete, he forsees Guam becoming another Hawaii when developed, and is now striving hard for that day.

Girl Selects Records For 700 Customers

PITTSBURGH —(UP)— Geography and juke boxes go hand in hand for Claire Gillott.

Claire, an attractive brunette, is employed by a juke box agency where it is her task to select records for 700 customers. All her working hours are spent listening to records and co-ordinating the selections with certain districts in th Pittsburgh area.

For example, one section of Pittsburgh is predominantly populated by Slavs. Claire has discovered that these people prefer polkas. A Negro district goes in for boogie-woogie and the blues.

Still another section prefers what Claire calls "Cry-in-Your Beer Tunes." These records are favorites in taverns frequented by older men and women who drop in "just for a glass of beer."

Teen-agers are divided, Claire discovered. They prefer either sweet or swing.

Mahatma Ghandi; Great Force Behind Indian Independence

The title of Mahatma, which the people of India bestowed on Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi, implies in a word why that inherently shy and timid man became the most powerful influence in his country for more than three decades.

Literally interpreted, "Mahatma" means "The Great Soul." If a popular vote were taken in India Gandhi, would be regarded as the greatest single force behind the events which resulted in the country's attainment of independence.

Mohandas Karamchend Gandhi was born on Oct. 2, 1869, at Poorbandar, India, the son of merchant class parents.

There was little in his early life to show that he was destined to become one of the most compelling leaders in India's long history.

It was his avowed endeavor to unite all Indians, irrespective of religion, against Britain to make them Indians first and Hindus, Moslems or Parsees second.

His anti-British activities resulted in his being sentenced to imprisonment 17 times between 1908 and 1945.

Gandhi also indulged in 15 fasts, several times "to the death." The total time spent in the fasts, which were always a source of acute anxiety to India's British rulers, was more than 129 days.

It was in 1930 that he submitted his historic 11-point demand to the Viceroy. The demands led to his famous march to the sea to break the salt laws. The movement spread like a fire. Thousands were arrested, wounded and killed in resultant riots and police attempts to break up the demonstrators.

Throughout the long and trying months of negotiations between India's leaders and Britain's diplomats, the voice of Gandhi persistently called for freedom and for the withdrawal of the British.

Although he was deeply hurt by the final decision which divided his beloved country into two dominions, Gandhi's efforts were rewarded on Aug. 15, 1947, when India became an independent dominion.

In January, 1948, the situation in Kashmir developed to a threat of war between India and Pakistan. As the situation in Kashmir deteriorated in spite of India's appeal to the UN security council, the 75-year-old Gandhi announced that he would fast "unto glorious death" rather than allow war to develop between Pakistan and India.

On January 30, Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi, India's apostle of peace was assassinated.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Sir:

In answer to Mr. Tommy Milton and his partner's letter which appeared in a recent Sunday edition of the GUAM NEWS, I feel that a few facts at this time may explain and enlighten certain points in that letter to the public and Mr. Milton.

First of all, the fight program that took place on the night of 29 December 1947 at North Field was suggested and insisted on by Mr. Milton who seemed to be quite determined to put the fight on that night even though he knew we did not have the facilities nor the necessary equipment to stage such a show.

A month before this fight took place Mr. Milton and I had a talk about staging an amateur fight. He insisted on putting it on the night of December 29, but I had told him a fight program that early. Nevertheless he went ahead with the plans of staging it. The Recreation department, which was just getting started at that time, did not propose to stage a fight program in December, but Mr. Milton was the one who insisted on having a show. I've always wondered why he was so determined to stage it on that night, knowing very well that we did not have the proper equipment or facilities ready.

As for the incident regarding the loss of Mr. White's purse, the Recreation department was regretful and surprised when we found out what had taken place. The Recreation department, nor the writer had any knowledge of the search conducted by Mr. White, nor was he authorized to do so. Evidently he took it upon himself to carry this out.

As to the feeding of the participants after the show, I am sure it was an oversight on the part of Mr. White, who had neglected to arrange for the feeding of these men and it was unintentional, I assure you.

I am surprised to hear Mr. Milton say that we tried to take the full credit for the show. If he remembers, he will recall on the night of the show Mr. White announced to the 6,000 spectators —"full credit goes to Mr. Milton and Mr. Sylva for putting on this show." I am also sure that the spectators will bear me out on this statement. The MKK weekly paper also carried the story of the fight program and in writing gave Mr. Milton and Mr. Sylva full and due credit for this event.

Yours Very Truly,

There are times when we are left behind,
In this sinful world we are trodging,
Because of "pool system" to us existing
That emerge us in the doom of living
Yet, I beg you my dear soldier,
Don't be discouraged, neither murmur
For all these things shall pass away
As the dreary path glides everyday
There are ups and downs in life you know,
You may be cursed today but not tomorrow,
So, strive the best of all you can
To encounter the worse that will come.
But I warn you my dearest comrade—
Never attempt to quit from your job;
Although the work given is damn hard,
Do with a will and never be so sad!
Aren't you glad the day is drawing
When we, Christian soldier, no longer sigh?
For sure, you and I, will soon go home
In the land where flowers bud and bloom.

Guam All Star Quint Romps to Marianas Title

Locals Defeat Kwajalein, 84 to 19; Horan, Arey Set Pace in Rout

Not since the days of Jesse Owens has a crowd witnessed such running as was performed last night on the ComMar court when the Guam All Stars rambled to a lopsided, 84 to 19, decision over a game, but outplayed Kwajalein quintet.

Playing their best ball to date, the Guam aggregation of stars could do no wrong as they hit from all corners and with both hands to compile the highest score in the Marianas playoffs to win them a berth in the coming WesPac tourney.

Kwaj's first field goal came at the eight and a half minute mark of the first quarter after Guam had rolled to a 17 to 1 lead. Bob Ziarnik broke the ice for the visitors, but Buzzy Squires added another for Guam to make it 19 to 3. Gerry Gundarson added a gift toss for Kwaj to end the first stanza scoring at 19 to 4.

Larry Horan, the local center with the peep-sight eyes, came back fast in the second period and dumped four field goals in a row through the bucket, waited while Cy Cassidy contributed two points, and then added one more two pointer and a charity toss.

Continued to Roll

Guam continued to roll as Gene Holdren sank Kwaj's only second-quarter field goal and added a free throw in the last fifty seconds of the quarter. Horan rounded the scoring out, 38 to 8, at the intermission with his ninth field goal of the evening.

In the third quarter Guam poured their reserves into the game and the onslaught continued. Lew Arey went on a scoring spree and hit six field goals in nine attempt. He completed a perfect night at the charity circle, getting two for two.

Ken Scott, Kwaj forward, began finding the hoop and hit the net for seven points, but trailed far in the distence behind a 63 to 18 deficit as the quarter whistle blew.

Kwajalein was held to one point in the last chapter as the All-Stars poured a stream of 14 points through the basket in the last four minutes alone.

The Lineup:

Guam (84)	Pos.	Kwaj (19)
Squires 6	....F....	Ziarnik 3
Hawkins 7	....F....	Scott 8
Horan 19	....C....	Roesch 1
Edwards 2	....G....	Ring 1
Cassidy 4	....G....	Gundarson 2

Subs: Guam—Arey 14, Argotsinger 13, Whiteley 2, Christianson 1, Buum 11, McHale, Marlowe 5. Kwaj—Garcia, Holdren 3, Henry 1, Mooney.

Barbara Ann Scott Captures Women's Figure Skating Crown for Canada at Winter Games

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 7 —(UP)— Beauteous Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's sporkling ballerina of the ice, won the women's figure skating championship at the fifth winter Olympic Games today before 7,000 dazzled admirers who hailed her performance as superior to Sonja Henie's best as an amateur.

Her superb skating climaxed the eighth day of the Olympiad on which Sweden regained the lead in the unofficial team standings and the United States, still in third place, put two daring teams among the first six at the end of the first heat in the four-man bobsled race.

Spectacular showing of the American bobsledders indicated the U. S. may win its third gold medal in the final three heats tomorrow. An American sled driven by Francis Tyler of Lake Placid, N. Y., was second in the first heat and was leading eight other teams in the second when all second runs were cancelled because a water main had burst above the course, flooding the chutes.

The only point scored by the U.S. today was a sixth place in figure skating by little Yvonne Sherman of New York, who carried on valiantly after Eileen Seigh of Brooklyn had fallen three times during difficult jumps and Gretchen Merrill of Boston had spilled twice.

Parker in Second Round of Guam News Tennis Tourney After Beating Hullsiek

Lt. Austin "Ace" Parker, former 1st Marine Brigade cager, calmed down after dropping behind in the first set yesterday to defeat young George Hullsiek of BPM, 6-4, 6-2, and advance to the second round of the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament on the Naval Government courts.

Leading 4-2 in the first set, Hullsiek, who competed in the National Junior Doubles at Kalamazoo, began netting the ball and was caught out of position time and again, allowing Parker to use his cross court shot to good advantage, though Parker double-faulted often in the second set, he had the match under control all the way.

In the first match of the afternoon, ChPayClk David Warfield, considered by many to be the outstanding darkhorse contender for the crown, used deadly placements and passing shots to dispose of the Army Private.

Larry Cook of Pan American defeated Dr. J. A. Marsh from BPM in straight sets, 6-1, 6-0, on baseline drives and sharply angled cross-court shots. In the only other first round match yesterday, Lt. Walter Honour bested Ltjg. Donald Edgren, 6-2, 6-3. Lt. Frank Kriz and Sgt. Oliver Townsend won by default over E. Navarez and William Hastings.

Today's matches will see five more of the seeded players in action for the first time and will wind up the first round with the exception of two matches which will be played during the week.

Schedule for today:

1430: Lt. Martin Hanson vs. Lt. H. B. Pettit Mauricio Madrigal vs. Lt. Vernon Brown

Over The Joepot

by Bill Jury

If the Guam All Stars get through the WesPac scraps safely and are invited to the Pearl Hearbor shin-dig, they won't be in want of chaperons. Lew Arey, Dan Davis and H. W. Cook are all approaching the wobbly age and could probably keep and eye on the "youngsters."

Arey, who has his share of gray hairs, maintains he's been looking after the "kids" even since they got together for the Marianas series. Says the oldster from NavBks-RecSta, "I've kept them supplied with stationery, shoe polish, tooth paste, soap, bath powder, pipes, tobacco, etc. for the past three weeks."

Davis and Cook, both of them Chief Petty Officers from a-way back, seem to be standing up under the strain fairly well, but it's no telling what a couple of nights in the "big city" making whoopee until midnight would do to them.

Still, for a couple of old "geezers" they've kept end of the All-Star squad with the best of them.

U.S. Navy recruiting officers were missing a good bet when they they failed to sit in on the All-Star practices at Camp Dealy a week or so ago. What a shipping-over poster that would have made..... Up at nine o'clock, scrimmage on the Dealy court until eleven, a stroll along the beach, a refreshing swim in the surf and then chow, served family style, no less! In the afternoon it was the same thing over again. Play ball, swim, sun bathe, and play ball. Whatta life.

It paid off in dividends, though. When it rained, and it often did, practice went on as usual on the covered Dealy court. The practice time they gained was largely responsible for the scores they racked up against Saipan and Kwajalein in the Marianas finals.

W.A. Smiley well-known ComMar bos'n mate, received a letter from Ken Fons, former Guam All Star and now with the Annapolis Olympic team, the other day. Fons writes that he sprained his ankle in his first day of practice, but after a couple of days was back with the team. According to Fons he's being treated like Riley himself. He goes on to say that the Navy team is shaping up into a powerful outfit and will give the competition a lot to think about.

Yankees Seeking Waivers on Newsom

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 —(UP)— The New York Yankees tonight announced they were asking waivers with the purpose of giving an unconditional release to veteran Pitcher Louis (Bobo) Newsom.

Any club can claim the 20-year veteran for $1 but under baseball law if he does not want to go with that club he can demand to be made a free agent.

Newsom, who will be 39 next August, is one of baseball's greatest travelers, having played with eight minor league teams, two National League clubs and six American League teams. He won four and lost six at Washington last year before going to the Yankees on waivers. He won seven and lost five for the Yanks, also dropping his one start in the World Series.

Dodds May Break Own Indoor Mile Mark Tomorrow

BOSTON, Feb. 7 —(UP)— Gil Dodds, the piston-legged parson, will be shooting at his own world's indoor mile record when he goes after his 33rd consecutive track victory tomorrow in the 59th annual Boston Athletic Association Meet at the Garden.

It may be the last time Dodds appears on an indoor Boston track, since he has announced his intention of retiring from running next year.

That Dodds, will win the Hunter Mile, is considered the surest thing since swifty started pacing the greyhounds. The question is whether Dodds can beat his Wanamaker Mile of 4:05.3.

North Field Quint Takes Guam AF Cage Crown

HQ. 20TH AIR FORCE, Feb. 7— Sparked by the aggressive play of "Red" Butler, North Field's basketball team downed the 474th Gamecocks, representing Headquarters Twentieth Air Force, on the Headquarters court Friday night by a score of 59 to 49 to cop the Guam Air Force title. Since each quint entered the game with a record of ten wins and one loss, the championship rested on the outcome.

North was runner-up in a previous basketball tourney won by the Gamecocks which ended in December.

Jumping off to an early lead, North held the edge throughout the contest. Two points ahead at the quarter by a count of 13 to 11, they widened the margin to 34 to 19 at the half. In a desperate third stanza, the 474th men scored an unavailing 20 points.

High man was the 474th's Wiley with 18 points while Butler and McEuen shared honors for the winners with 16 apiece.

Before leaving Guam, the Kwajalein basketball team wants to express its appreciation for the hospitality received from Lt. O'Brien and the Headquarters Command, Lt. Borcyckowski and the Welfare and Recreation Department, and the ComMar Naval personnel in general.

The team appreciated the avid sports interest of the fans, the sportsmanship of the teams encountered and the high quality of refereeing.

The Kwajalein team hopes that the Guam All Stars keep right on going to the All-Navy championship.

Weekly Sports Roundup

by Bob Crossley

The differences and hard feelings between nations which have characterized the Olympiad since its beginning began rumbling loudly as February bowed in. Fist fights and protests were the keynote instead of athletics as the American hockey team reported some of it's gear damaged. When the athletics did begin in the winter games, the United States, though a power was not a winner among the 28 nations competing.

Herb Pennock, one of the all time Yankee greats, and more recently general manager of the Phils, collapsed in the lobby of the Waldorf in New York and died later at Midtown Hospital of a brain hemmorage.

The loud and lengthy protests from all parts of the country about the excessive whistling of the referees in basketball nowdays brought about an experiment in a scrimmage between Columbia and Manhattan this week. Also designed to slow down the game was a rule which called for the referee to hold the ball after each goal until the captain of the defensive team signalled that his team was ready.

George Sauer, who lifted the University of Kansas out of the Big Six cellar into the Orange Bowl in two years, left the midwestern school to take the head coaching job at Navy, succeeding Captain Tom Hamilton.

Skip Alexander beat out Johnny Palmer and Bobby Locke for top money in the $10,000 Tucson Open golf tourney.

Michigan took over first place in the Big Nine basketball race with a 53-37 victory over Wisconsin.

Clarence Pentress and Nestor Sola, MarBo's last two hopes in the Army Inter-command Boxing meet in Honolulu, were eliminated in the finals, leaving Marbo out in the cold of fourth place.

18-year-old Dick Button, of Englewood, N. J., clinched an Olympic title in the figure skating at St. Moritz with 594 points in compulsory figures.

The Guam All Stars, ready for the WesPac and Marianas tourneys, set a new Island scoring mark as they waltzed to a 106-22 win over the USS Chicot. Kwajalein won the first game in the Marianas meet, defeating Saipan, 50-28. The following night, Thursday, Guam dumped Kwaj even more unceremoniously, 77-38.

Babe Ruth left New York for a rest in Florida to try to regain some of his strength so he can continue his job of helping young ball players in American League Baseball.

LCDR. J. D. Smith was seeded No. 1 in the second annual Guam News tennis tournament.

Modest Bobby Riggs found the high bounce of the clay courts much to his liking and took three straight from Jack Kramer in Florida to tie up their tour at 12-all.

'Marse Joe' Makes Lengthly Spiel

BOSTON, —(UP)— Joseph Vincent McCarthy, in his first official appearance as manager of the Boston Red Sox, greeted a luncheon for sportswriters recently with the revolutionary promise that he would TRY to turn out a winning team.

Among other astounding statements were:

"I'm happy to be appointed manager of the Red Sox."

"I'll do my best to give you all I've got."

So electrifying were McCarthy's bold words that a man—identified only as the custodian of the Red Sox trunks—leaped to his feet and called for three cheers from the 100-odd sportswriters.

A few obliged. The remainder, having munched their way through shrimp a la Yawkey and radishes a la Collins, were too busy trying to shatter the rock-like ice cream al la Dowd, fashioned to represent baseballs.

Neckwear

Since McCarthy expected to remain here catching up loose ends it is possible that the long-awaited meeting with Ted Williams may take place. A number of subjects might come up at that time—particularly the matter of neckwear.

Williams, it is well known, places ties in the same category as bubonic plague. So far as is known he's only worn one once.

McCarthy is coldly efficient, brooks no clowning, and demands that his players dress with some normalcy. On the hottest days of summer his Yanks wore ties whenever outside their hotel rooms.

NavBks Softball Squad Holds Few Hopes for Title

by Bill Jury

Ltjg H. O. Ward, athletic officer at the NavBks-RecSta, lobbed a couple of pitches over the plate the other day and paused long enough to answer a question or two regarding his softball team's chances in the future.

"No," he aswered simply, "We're not going to take any championships this year." "In fact," he said, "We'll be darn lucky to end up out of the cellar."

This may be some of that Frank Leahy philosophy of underrating your team in order to get the best results, but then again he may be telling the truth.

They've got a problem down Naval Barracks way....The baseball talent is mighty slim and they don't intend on drawing any men away from the hardball team to play softball. This leaves them with but one alternative.

There was a group of officers and chiefs around those parts who used to get together on Saturday afternoons to drink beer, play softball, and generally have a good time. Well, that's the squad they're planning on using in the Intercommand softball league.

Good softball prospects for the softball club are few and far between, but there is an abundant crop of catchers turning out, surprisingly enough. As a matter of fact, while the other sports are not more than one or two deep, the slot behind the plate has a more than ample bunch of reserves. This might be attributed to the fact that a catcher spends a good part of his time in a kneeling position. Since that is about as close as a ball player can get to actually sitting down....well, you know, the old folks.....

The pitching department seems pretty well-balanced with Chief Juliana slated for a good portion of the tossing chores, while Doctor Moss, due back from the States any day now, will assist Juliana with the chucking.

Brooklyn Dodgers Have the Pitching Jitters as Season Draws Near by Steve Snider

United Press Sports Writer

—NEW YORK —(UP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers, who like to be first in everything, already are setting a record of some sort for the 1948 baseball season.

With a National League championship to defend, they're just about the most worried outfit in the business. The Bums have the pitching jitters and it's no wonder, recalling that nightmarish World Series in which not a single Brooklyn pitcher went the distance.

This is an official worry, done up in baby blue ink on glossy paper in the club's house organ—a four-page monthly appropriately called "Line Drives."

At first glance, the February edition looks about like all those other "wait till next year" prophecies turned out in the old-gray office building over in Flatbush but it also includes warnings, innuendos and notes of despair.

Leo Durocher points out that Brooklyn pitchers allowed more bases on balls than any club in the league and its hitters finished fifth in the league in slugging.

Another squib reveals that Billy Johnson of the Yankees made five World Series hits with two strikes against him, calling it "an example of spots where another good pitch or two might have changed baseball history."

Without good pitchers, you can't get those good pitches. Having traded Vic Lombardi and Hal Gregg to Pittsburgh with only Lefty Elwin (Preacher) Roe in return to make up for the pitching loss, the Dodgers apparently expect to gamble on their youngsters again.

An unidentified Brooklyn official is quoted as saying "our pitching could be the hot story of the National League in 1948" but Durocher significantly refrains from beaming praise about the four young pitchers—Rex Barney, Phil Haugs, Jack Banta and John Hall—pictured the imagination of the unidentified spokesman."

The best they could get from Leo was an admission that his young pitchers had great possibilities. Leo was more interested in in the speed and defensive equipment which helped the Bums win the pennant for Burt Shotton last fall.

Almost overnight Page changed. He kept regular hours and his work started to perk up. DiMaggio's sermons probably kept the husky southpaw from being demoted to the minors.

Another interesting combination was tempestuous Ted Williams and little Don Gutteridge of the Boston Red Sox.

"I heard so many stories about Ted's temperament that I didn't know what to expect when I began rooming with him," Gutteridge said. "But I found him a real good guy, a fellow easy as pie to get along with.

"He also is good for plenty of instruction in hitting," Gutteridge grinned.

Pairing Players On Road Trips Ticklish Job

NEW YORK, —(UP)— Birds of a feather reportedly flock together—But not in baseball.

Pairing players on road trips is a ticklish job usually delegated to the traveling secretary. If the secretary is in a hurry, he'll pick room-mates indiscriminately. If he's smart, he'll devote a little time to the job and pair the athletes judiciously.

Several clubs permit players to choose their own room-mates, often with very interesting results.

One of the most successful couplings was the one which placed Pitcher Joe Page of the Yankees together with Joe DiMaggio. Both Joes were fast friends off the field despite the fact that each had vastly different tastes.

DiMaggio, quiet and reflective, didn't "run around" much after business hours. Page, who liked excitement, did.

Page, generally acknowledged to have more "stuff" on the ball than any other Yankee pitcher, was experiencing a trying time on the mound during the early part of 1947. Much of his ineffectiveness was traced to his nocturnal carousing. DiMaggio spoke to him about it several times and finally Page listened.

Giants Sign Three Rookies

NEW YORK, —(UP)— The New York Giants have signed three rookies to contracts for 1948, two of them pitchers with top-flight records in Class AAA ball last year.

Sheldon Jones, who won 13 and lost three with Jersey City, and Earl McGowan, who won 17 and lost 11 with Minneapolis, were the pitchers who agreed to terms.

Robert Rahwn, a second baseman who hit .302 with Minneapolis last year, was the other rookie to sign.

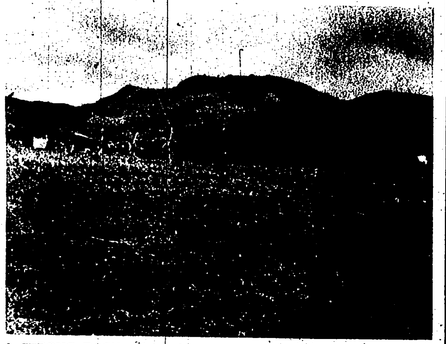
Merizo Embodies Tranquility of Bygone Era

by George Wilbur

One of the most artistically located native villages on Guam is the little toy-town of Merizo, snuggling along the south-eastern shore beneath the impressive green towers of the Island's rugged mountain chain. Merizo, though not large nor modern has an intrinsic beauty which seems enhanced by the surrounding countryside.

SCHOOL CAMPUS—The Merizo elementary school endowed with a fino campus, so to speak. This section of the village has the appearance of a park, with tall palms lining the road and the breakers surging through the submerged reef to bound into the shore line in impressive fury. (Guam News Photo)

ARM OF THE LAW—Like all villages on Guam, the town police station is one of the first stops for any visitor entering Merizo. In this quiet, peaceful town, there hardly seems need for the arm of the law, but prevention is a necessity despite lack of activity. (Guam News Photo)



A STRONG BACK—Rising from the fertile farmlands behind Merizo are the summits of Guam's southern mountain range. With their combined highlights of green and brown, they form and impressive backdrop to this shore-line village. (Guam New Photo)

Embodies Tranquility

Far away from the cry and hubbub of military operation, needing not the grind of restoration (Merizo physically escaped the wrath of war for the most part) and still largely the same in appearance as it was many years ago, this seaside village goes through its daily routine with a tranquility and acquiesence which the rest of the Island, steeped in the throes of progressive rehabilitation, is not allowed to enjoy.

One can see what is meant by the beauty of Merizo being enhanced by its surrounding countryside when he or she motors down the east side of the Island into that village. It is like awaking from a long sleep when the bridge at Talofofo is passed. Though the road is narrow, winding and precipitous, it is like a golden thread embroidered on a spectrum of magnificant color.

Nature Takes Hold

Quonset huts and the distasteful roar of jeep traffic fade into the past, the road is largely silent and undisturbed, with the exception of a lonely carabao cart ushering a load of bare-footed children from one ranch to another. Civilization seems to quickly lose its grip, and nature takes its place firmly and undisputedly.

The jungle seems to move silently overhead as one progresses. It forms an umbrella of statuesque palms and banana leaves. Tiny ferns, almost extinct throughout the world today, emphasize the shoulders of the road and convey a sense of pure coolness upon the traveler. Frequently large plantations of coconut palms line the thoroughfare, their rows as even as dominoes.

Beauteous Shore Drive

One of the most appreciative attributes of this section of the Island is the shore drive which laces its way through towering palms, their full branches leaning seaward. The reef is largely submerged along this area and the waves have full freedom to roll in and dash their salty spray upon the beach and coral rock formations, in themselves, a rare treat with their surrealistic water-hewn stature.

Portentous Summits

Coming into Merizo, the traveler cannot fail to notice the breath-taking expanse of farmland which then runs evenly up into the green-ish-brown summits of the highlands. Though not high in comparison to the accepted idea of mountains, these hills embody great beauty. They rise splendorously from behind the village to become accentuated in rocky crags and gorges, hiding mountain waterfalls and rarely seen tropical life. As the sun sets in the west, they seem to lose all physical connection with the shrouded and shadowey lowlands, but attain greater height and splendor as their prominent colored summits become portentous against the dimming evening sky.

Similiarity to Matterhorn

Though probably seldom noticed, this author has noted the similiarity between one of these peaks when viewed from a certain angle and the renown Swiss peak, the "Matterhorn." No greater tribute could be paid them.

Merizo is a one street village. Its houses are stone, wood and palm leaves, each and every one nestling amid an aurora of flowers and tropical fruits. From its old stone bell tower to the governor's week-end home, it has an atmosphere of peace and quiet, something which is easy to imagine but very hard to attain in this troubled era of ours today.

PUBLIC HEALTH—Though ancient and intriging in outward appearance, Merizo has all the facilities necessary for a modern, progressive community, as exemplified by this building housing the Public Health offices. (Guam News Photo)

PHOTOGRAPHER'S DELIGHT—This ancient bell tower, now being repaired to preserve it's beauty, is a traditional landmark in old Spanish towns such as Merizo. It offers a commanding view of the beautiful countryside and Pacific expanse. (Guam News Photo)

TROPICAL MANSION—Nestling neath tropical pines and banana plants along the shoreline is this modest mansion utilized by the governor of Guam. Most of the native housing in Merizo is of stone base, with wood and thatched toppling. (Guam News Photo)

RELIC OF BATTLE—The USS OREGON, or perhaps we should say what is left of it, is a familiar sight to visitors in Merizo. The old craft, a prominent figure in World War I, is moored a few hundred yards off shore where it rests in symbolic testimony that great heros never die. (Guam News Photo)

Six Arrested in Plot to Bomb South American Country

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Six Americans, including two former Royal Air Force pilots and a U. S. Air Force Captain, have been arrested in connection with a plan to bomb a South American country from surplus war planes as part of a revolutionary plot, the FBI announced today.

The country was not identified by the FBI, but presumably it was Venezuela and the city to be bombed was Caracas, the capital.

The FBI charged five of them with violating the neutrality act by flying two surplus four-engined B-24 "Liberator" bombers from Bush Field, Ga., to Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, earlier this week.

The six men are:

Edward Browder, Jr., 21, Amarillo, Tex., former RAF transport pilot who, the FBI said, recruited the flying group. He was arrested in Miami, Fla., and was the only one of the six who did not go to South America.

A.O.L.

Capt. Olin D. Mason, U.S. Air Force, who is absent without leave as a patient at Oliver General Hospital, Augusta. He was arrested in Nicaragua and is being returned to the U.S. via Panama by military authorities.

Harry A. Snow, Amarillo, former RAF pilot now in the U.S. Air Reserve.

Charles B. Pavlicek, New York, inactive captain in the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

Kenneth J. Newcomer, Augusta, Ga.

Henry K. Bakeer, Augusta, Ga.

The latter four men were arrested today at New Orleans when FBI agents boarded an incoming transport plane from Central America. No civilian charges were filed against Mason, who is subject to military discipline.

Republicans to Fight Marshall Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Chairman Arthur H. Vandenburg of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was informed today that a "big majority" of Republican "revisionists" are ready to wage a last-ditch fight for radical changes in the administration's version of the Marshall plan.

He talked for almost two hours with spokesmen for the Senate Republicans who are demanding "an entirely different approach" to the European program.

Assurance Given

Vandenberg, it was learned, gave his Senate colleagues assurance that the bill his committee will finally approve will differ "as day from night" from that sent to Capitol Hill more than a month ago by President Truman.

Senate Republican whip Kenneth S. Wherry, Neb., and Sens. Joseph H. Ball, Minn., and C. Wayland Brooks, Ill., laid on Vandenberg's desk half a dozen amendments which they said represented the views of a large portion of the revisionists.

Four Believed Dead In C-47 Crash

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., Feb. 8 —(UP)— An Army C-47 plane crashed and burned in heavy fog today on a mountain top two miles from Saluda, N. C., and four men were believed killed in the crash, Police Capt. C. J. Heffner said tonight.

Heffner said six survivors, including one sailor, were brought to Batton Memorial Hospital here. He quoted one of the survivors as saying there had been ten aboard the plane, so that he believed four bodies were still in the red-hot wreckage.

The hospital said the most seriously injured were T-Sgt. L. S. Bussler, S-Sgt. S. F. Holmes, and Capt. Harry B. Beck. Others less seriously injured were Maj. William Byers, Pilot, George W. Huenergs, and Seaman Second Class T. F. Gamble. No home addresses were available immediately.

Heffner said one of the injured was so badly burned that his recovery was doubtful.

The plane, believed to be from the Greenville, S. C., Army Air Base, plowed into the side of Mt. Paige, about 20 miles southeast of here. The plane, headed southeast, struck about 100 yards below the mountain top, Heffner said.

The police captain said all but the rear of the plane burned.

Democratic Governors Discuss Party Secession

WAKULLA SPRINGS, Fla., Feb. 8 (UP)— Southern governors today levelled a triple-barreled outburst at President Truman's civil rights proposals and formally considered a southwide Democratic Convention to discuss "secession" from the national party.

Three southern governors— J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, Fielding Wright of Mississippi and James E. Folsom of Alabama— introduced separate resolutions to the governors conference bitterly denouncing the President's action.

10-Point Program

Thurmond, whose resolution was the only one seconded, called the 10-point program advocated by the President in a Congressional message "an outrage and an insult by Democratic party leaders who think southern Democrats have no place to turn."

Thurmond proposed that the conference meet again within 60 days to map definite action against the civil rights "insult."

Immediately after Thurmond's resolution, Wright offered a promised resolution calling for a meeting of all "true southern democrats" in Jackson, Miss., Mar. 1 to take action.

Longshoremen Stall Work on Soviet Ship

LONG BEACH, Cal., Feb. 8 —(UP)— Work halted yesterday for two hours on a Russian freighter loading machinery and cargo until the captain hoisted the American flag alongside the Soviet ensign.

Request Ignored

A CIO longshoremen's gang walked off the ship after the dock workers said the Russian skipper ignored their request that he fly the American flag, a normal courtesy of a foreign ship in port.

"We refuse to work on all ships that do not carry the American flag," said P. B Thomas, president of the Longshoremen's Local Union.

The men returned to their jobs after the two-hour layoff when their request was met and the flag went up on the mast of the Dnester.

Metal Stockpiles Low Says McCarran

DENVER, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Sen. Pat McCarran (D—Nev.) charged today that metal stockpiles in the United States were "insufficient to meet the needs of our national defense program."

McCarran, here for the Colorado Mining Association convention, contended that the nation's metal reserves were "dangerously low," and that the United States would have to go to "great extremes" to secure metals in the event of war.

Encouraged Production

The Nevada senator called for government "incentives" to encourage production, specifically by reducing taxes on mining income and excess profits in the mining industries.

"If we can assure the investor a break," McCarran said in speaking of venture capital for new mines, "we will encourage development of new sources."

Omar Bradley Succeeds Eisenhower As Army's New Chief of Staff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Gen. Dwight D Eisenhower, who led the Allies to victory over Hitler stepped down as Army Chief of Staff today and swore in his "good right arm," Gen. Omar N. Bradley, to succeed him.

In a simply but impressive three-minute ceremony "Ike" read the oath of office to "Brad" and told him, "You have a job."

President Truman, who witnessed the ceremony at the Pentagon, commented:

"Marshall to Eisenhower to Bradley—I think that's one of the finest exchanges I know."

Eisenhower succeeded Gen. George C. Marshall, now Secretary of State, as Chief of Staff.

With one of the outstanding military careers in U. S. history now behind him Eisenhower plans to get away for three or four days' fishing in Florida and then get a good start on writing his memoirs before he takes over the presidency of Columbia University on June 7.

High-ranking generals and other military and civilian leaders watched silently as Eisenhower, Bradley, Mr. Truman and Army Secretary Kenneth Royall marched stiffly into Royall's office for the formal ceremony

Ike and Bradley, his chief lieutenant against the Nazis, made a military pivot to face each other. Bradley raised his hand and Eisenhower read:

"Do you, Omar Nelson Bradley, solemnly swear that you will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, domestic and foreign; that you will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that you take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that you will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office upon which you are about to enter, so help you God?"

"I do," Bradley said. Eisenhower grinned and stuck out his hand.

"With those words you have a job," he said.

Royall handed Bradley his commission and told him he would be "a worthy successor to a great Chief of Staff."

Mr. Truman then presented Eisenhower with a third oak leaf cluster to the distinguished service medal for distinguished service as Chief of Staff.

At a farewell news conference shortly before the ceremony, Eisenhower disclosed that he will forego an extended vacation to begin work soon on his memoirs. He said he wants to "provide some security for my family."

"I'll devote my leave to the job because it's the only time I'll have that is my own," he said. "This is the one chance in my lifetime to build security for my family. The soldier leaves the Army as poor as he enters it."

Ike said he will write his memoirs himself, without help from other writers.

"I hope I can write something my conscience will tell me is fit to come out," he said. "Otherwise it won't be published."

He made three parting recommendations as Chief of Staff—more pay for soldiers in remote stations to bolster the sag in Army recruiting, a permanent Women's Army Corps, and higher pay for officers, particularly in the lower grades.

Two Parts to be Stricken From Republican Rent Control Proposal

WASHINGTON Feb. 8 —(UP)— Democratic Senate sources predicted tonight that decontrol of rooming houses and a formula to end rent ceilings in several large cities will be stricken out of controversial Republican rent control extension proposals.

The proposal to take rent ceilings off rooming houses ran into criticism in the Senate Banking Committee, it was learned, and probably will be knocked out.

Postponed Action

The committee postponed action on the proposed law yesterday without discussing fully a subcommittee plan to remove ceilings automatically in many once war-crowded area. The proposed formula would end controls in any area where a census survey showed one per cent or more of the housing units vacant. Nine large communities would be affected at once.

The committee members, who would not be quoted, said the "one per cent vacancy" formula would "never get by," and likely will be dropped.

Economic Advisors Sitting Tight on Market Nosedive

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's council of economic advisers, said today the council has adopted a policy of "watchful waiting" on the recent stock and commodity market nosedive.

The council's "sit tight" policy set the pattern for economists throughout the government. They are hoping the market break is a sign that the cap has been put on the inflation spiral, but are awaiting further developments before recommending any new policies.

No Special Report

Nourse's council, which is President Truman's top economic staff, does not plan a special report. The next regular report is due at the end of March, when Nourse and his colleagues will draft a set of confidential recommendations for the President and his cabinet.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson said of the market break, "it's too fast for me."

"I don't think a soul understands it," he added.

27 Dead, 10 Injured In Korean Strikes

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Twenty-seven persons were killed, 10 injured and 150 others arrested during the wave of strikes, sabotage and violence which swept south Korea yesterday as a protest against the United Nations Commission now in Seoul.

An official announcement said the situation throughout the American zone had been "relatively quiet" since Lt. Gen. John R. Hodges imposed an 11 p.m. curfew and ordered arming of military vehicles late last night.

Three Day Campaign

Meanwhile it was announced that three agitators arrested in Pusan were found carrying direct orders to instigate a three-day sabotage campaign. The orders were signed by the Communist front south Korea labor party.

The first sign of anti-Americanism occurred in Seoul where an unknown number of Leftists attacked an Army post exchange warehouse, withdrawing only after the American guards fired warning shots into the air.

Bands of youths also ransacked the offices of the Right Wing daily newspaper Dongsashailbo, upsetting type, and smashing presses.

Weather Forecast

Partly cloudy with occasional light showers. Moderate easterly winds with fresh gusts.

Yesterday's temperature: Max. 82; Min. 76.

Yesterday's rainfall: 0.11 inches.

Rainfall for month: 0.67 inches.

Prices, Taxes Cause Of Current Slump

BOSTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Economist Roger W. Babson, who accurately predicted the 1929 stock-market crash, said today "there will be a bust and every year we are getting nearer to the time for it."

In a wire from his winter residence in Florida, Babson said the current slump in the commodity market resulted from high prices, high taxes and fear.

"Each year as living costs and everything else goes up in price, investors have less money left to use for buying stocks.

"Most of the stocks today are bought by well-to-do persons in the 60 to 80 per cent tax bracket These persons are buying non-taxable bonds instead of stocks—hence, each month more persons are changing from bulls to bears."

Strikers Fired by National Airlines

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 8 —(UP)— National Airlines today fired all of its striking pilots and company President George T. Baker said he had hired enough non-union airmen to resume operations "at any time" in spite of a triple walkout of clerical workers, mechanics and pilots.

It was the first time in airline history that a company had discharged striking pilots or sought to resume full operation while a strike was in progress.

Advertisement Made

Baker said he had advertised in newspapers throughout the country for experienced pilots to replace members of the Airline Pilots Association who walked out Tuesday midnight.

"We've got plenty of men who've been flying DC-4's all over the world and dropping bombs all over the world," Baker said. "We've got enough men—better men than we had before—to begin operations right now."

He refused to say when the company would resume operations but said that it would be soon."

Army Would Like Equal Benefits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, deputy director of Army personnel, said today the Army would like to see enlisted men and officers receive the same retirement benefits.

Congress is to blame because they do not, he added. He reminded a House armed services subcommittee that the Army recommended a change in the pension laws as far back as 1939.

Enlisted men are rated for pensions according to the degree of their disabilities. Their compensation checks stop if their ailments are corrected.

"The Army believes the present system is wrong," Dahlquist said. "We think the retirements should be the same. Turn the whole thing over to the Veterans Administration so that the pension stops when disability stops."

Pauley Resigns as Special Assistant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Edwin W. Pauley, whose commodity dealings are under investigation by a Senate committee looking for speculation by "government insiders," resigned today as a special assistant to the Secretary of Army.

The wealthy California oil man quit with the statement that the special job for which he was appointed last September is gone. He made no reference to the investigation of his commodity dealings.

Senator Hey C. Dworshak (R—Ida.) a member of the Senate Investigating Committee, greeted the resignation with a remark that the "timing was very, very good."

Geneticist Probes Selection Theories

Dr. H. D. Goodale, geneticist of Mount Hope Farm, Williamstown, Mass., wants to know whether Darwin was right after all. He recalls that Darwin and his followers attributed creative power to selection, and that such a theory has been denied in recent years.

However, Dr. Goodale has done experiments with mice with an interesting result.

The experiments continued for 16 years. The work began with one mouse with twelve white hairs on its forehead. The twelve hairs have been increased by selection—exclusively within the descendants of the one mouse and four related females—until some mice are 80 per cent white, Dr. Goodale reported. He said approximately 600 males and 3,000 females have been mated during the 40 generations covered by the experiment to date.

Dr. Goodale reported that so far as known, it is the only experiment on record in which a small, insignificant charter has been built up by selection to the degree obtained. The experiment poses many questions such as:

What happened to the chromosomes of the mice?

Is the increase in white due to rearrangement of the genes of the five original mice?

Dr. Goodale believes that whatever answer is found in the future, "It is apparent that selection has some, at least, of the potentialities attributed to it in the days following the publication of "The Origin of the Species."

Navy Offers Drydock For Lease

The Deputy Director Pacific Division of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, Department of the Navy, has announced that bids are open for the lease of three auxiliary floating repair docks and seven floating dry docks, all of which are located in Pearl Harbor.

The dimensions and lifting capacity of the three repairs docks will allow them to accommodate vessels of 3500-ton displacement or less. They are one-piece steel, closed bow, open stern ships.

Two of the one-piece steel floating dry docks (light) can dock vessels 180 feet long, which displace 1000 tons or less, and two can accommodate 270-foot, 1900-ton vessels or destroyer size and smaller.

The other two floating dry docks (light) are of one-piece concrete construction and can dock ships of destroyer size and smaller which do not displace more than 2800 tons.

Order Revises Rules For Beer Sales

AGANA —— An order revising the regulation of the sale of beer in restaurants has been promulgated by Cdr. F. L. Sheffield, Jr., head of the Department of Internal Affairs.

Old Rule

In the past, it has been the policy of the Naval Government to limit the sale of beer in restaurants, licensed to sell beer, to two cans per person with the requirement that beer be served only with meals.

Effective immediately, beer may be sold in unlimited quantities (on a retail basis) to restaurant patrons, provided, that food is made available for such patrons to purchase at any time if they so desire.

Previous restrictions as to the amount which may be charged for beer are also removed.

As in the past, beer shall not be sold to minors under 18 years of age.

New Look Dangerous

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The new look is catching on, but not with the American Automobile Association.

The AAA says long skirts are all right on the ballroom floor, but outdoors theyr'e a menace to motorists and a sure businese-getter for the undertaker.

Buarton W. March, director of the AAA's traffic engineering and safety department, points out that the average automobile driver has enough trouble spotting a pedestrian on the highway at night.

But when the pedestrian is a lady, draped in swirling folds of dark material with stockings to match, it's just about impossible to see her, he said.

From here in, March says, the ladies can expect their death rate to go up as hemlines go down.

Navy to Retain Reserve Officers

The Navy Department has announced that Reserve and Temporary officers now serving on voluntary active duty until July, 1948 and who do not desire release from duty on that date, may consider their retention on active duty until July, 1949 as tentatively approved.

Those officers who desire release from active duty on July 1, 1948, must submit applications for release to the Chief of Naval Personnel prior to April 1, 1948. Those who do not make application for release, will be automatically considered to have requested retention until July, 1949.

Approval of these plans must necessarily remain tentative until the appropriations for Naval personnel in the fiscal year 1949 are known.

The announcement was made to all Naval activities, but does not affect cetain reserve aviators, medical and dental officers who are now being retained on active duty under separate contracts or obligations.

There are about 6,000 reserve and 9,000 temporary officers now serving on voluntary active duty, most of whom are expected to remain for the extended period.

Meeting once a month for the purpose of discussions on flight saftey regulations and other criteria, are the flying officers of the Marianas Air Materiel Area.

Directing this activity is Capt. Robert L. Janes, Harmon Field flying safety officer. Capt. Janes states, "Less than one per cent is the rate of flying accidents at Harmon Field." This point is noteworthy, in view of the amount of flying done at this installation. The accidents are attributed to the following: fifty per cent to mechanical failure, and fifty per cent to pilot error.

Local Warden Studies U.S. Prison Methods

AGANA —— Raimundo D. Camacho, warden, civil jail, Guam, was a recent visitor to the United States to visit penal institutions there to see the methods and techniques used in the administration of a modern prison.

He was guest of honor of Warden Clinton Duffy and associate Warden Harley D. Teets, of San Quentin prison, state penitentiary of California and he visited the Los Angeles city and county jails.

He said he was impressed with all the facilities at San Quentin for the welfare of the inmates. Especially interesting, he said, were the facilities for education and learning trades while in prison.

Part of his visit was spent with Alfred J. Roman, supervisor of education at San Quentin, who explained the methods and functions of the prison education system to him.

Camacho visited honor farm and said he considered it a good project because the prisoners raised the majority of the vegetables, fruits, poultry and meat for the whole prison on this farm.

His visit took him to the juvenile jail for inmates under the age of 21. He said he thought the division of young boys from hardened criminals was a good idea.

Camacho was made honorary sheriff of Los Angeles during his visit there by Eugene W. Biscailuz, sheriff of Los Angeles County.

He said he felt that his visit there would be of great aid in administrating his duties now and in the future when the new jail will be built.

Investigators Probe Guam Working Conditions

A sore spot in Island affairs for many months came to a head here recently with the presence of two representatives of the Republic of Philippine's Department of Labor, here for the purpose of investigating the comparitive wage scales and living conditions between Filipino and American laborers contracted to speed ahead Guam's rehabilitation.

Atty. Cecilio I. Lim, Chief of the Philippine Public defenders, and Mr. Felicisimo Lauzon, inspector general of Philippine Labor arrived last week at the request of their government in an effort to clarify the "atrocious conditions" which have been so widely objected to by returning native laborers and in the Philippine Free Press.

Mr. Lim and Mr. Lauzon have since then conducted a research among the contracting camps on Guam and Saipan which employ Filipino labor, taking special note of wage scales, sanitation, food, medical service, housing and recreation. By the time this article is published, they will be on their way home with reports on their findings.

In recent talks, both men stated that the conditions they found were for the most part, satisfactory, although there was some basis for the serious contentions made. Wage scales were the biggest problem, as most Filipinos were making eight dollars a day less than their American counterparts working in the same capacity, but the two men said most American employers promised to alleviate such conditions.

When asked what other major grievances were under their investigation, the labor representatives were diplomatically evasive, although they did hint that they intended to look into the report that some Filipinos were as much as "Shanghaied" from their home country to come to work on Guam. They claimed that they had heard of men being smuggled out of the Philippines without registering with the Department of Labor because they had been lured by "big money" here on the Island—money that was seldom seen on arrival.

Other contentions voiced in the Philippine free press in connection with these conditions were: invalid contracts, refusal of emergency leave, racial discrimination, and the open operation of American gambling sharks resulting in the loss of wages to the unknowing, already underpaid Filipino. In reference to these things, Mr. Lim and Mr. Lauzon merely said that all conditions other than wage levels were "satisfactory."

While on Guam, these gentlemen were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francisco De La Cruz, Mrs. De La Cruz being the cousin of Mr. Lauzon. They also had visits with Governor C. A. Pownall and other Island dignitaries.

AMERICA, Ill. —(UP)— The honeymoon dreams of the newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Harve Calvin, Jr., went up in smoke when their new home here, financed by a GI loan, burned to the ground while they were being married in a church a few miles away.

Cigarette Listed as Chief Fire Hazard

The No. 1 offender in causes of fires, whether in "fire-resisting" construction or homes, business houses, in the brush-covered areas, or even in automobiles, is the cigarette tossing person who never looks where the "butt" landed, whether it was out or lighted, or cares what the results of his carelessness and indifference may be.

One type fire which causes much excitement and some casualties is caused by the office worker who habitually throws the cigarette butt out the window to land on awnings, clothing of passers-by, automobile tops, waste paper baskets or waste accumulations in gutters.

Another cause is a smoke sneaking a "quicky" in a "No Smoking" area spotting an official and surreptitiously "shooting the butt" as far away as possible to prevent being caught.

Another source of fire is caused by persons who leave their homes with electric heating units turned on (flat irons, curling irons, cook stoves and the like), depending on automatic devices to "cut off." A million-dollar hotel in Florida was burned down because a woman left her electric iron on before she left her room. All people on Guam are well aware of the dangers of exposed "heat locker" lamps, but again, most people have the idea that their locker won't catch fire. Failure to take proper precautions to eliminate these hazards and depending on some one else to guard against fires results very often in personal injury. Another very important thing to remember is that a fire extinguisher normally used or supplies for your protection will not extinguish fires of large proportions—they do not "prevent" fires.

AKRON, O. —(UP)— Miss Eleanor Heard charged in court that Robert Fields, her suitor, clouted her with a three-foot board and then carried her "like a sack of grain over his shoulder." Fields was fined $50, given 30 days in jail to modernize his courting tactics and placed on probation for three years.

Bashful Bobby Riggs, after a bad start, has caught Jack Kramer at 12 matches all—taking three consecutive matches on the clay courts in Florida....Kramer has had to modify his smashing offensive game to overcome Riggs' faultless retrieving strategy.

A recent story by AP from South Orange, N. J. quoted Kramer as saying that the hardest thing about the tour is getting used to the lights and the smoke in arenas.

Most of the matches are being played indoors, on a canvas that is carried with the troup, and Big Jake claims that he likes the tarp court. "For one thing," Jack said, "the bounce on canvas is faster than on any surface with the exception of wood, and sometimes is even speeded up more when it is stretched out on the concrete bottoms of the arenas." Kramer's main gripe about playing indoors is the difficulty of seeing the ball in the smoky halls.

About Bobby himself, Jack had this to say: "Maybe he can't hit as hard as some of the top-notchers but his is certainly consistent. If you're not at the top of your game on any given night, he'll trim you, and sometimes when you are at your best, he'll beat you anyhow."

ON LOCAL TENNIS....The GUAM NEWS tennis thing is going along well, and has already accomplished one of its main objectives—bringing together the players on the Island and increasing interest in tennis....Fourth seeded Major Andy Lyman had a tougher match yesterday than the score would indicate....Mr. George Slusser had a fine collection of shots, but Lyman's placements were beautiful and his power was something else....Lt. Hanson had little trouble with Lt. Pettit....Hanson has had a great deal of experience in tournament play, and puts plenty of steam on his shots..... Pettit made some nice placements but his game showed lack of practice.

Walcott Probably Will Sign for Re-Match Monday

Negotiations were practically completed last night after a long conference at 20th Century headquarters.

Only one disagreement remained to be settled. Walcott wants 30 per cent of the movie receipts. The 20th Century Club is offering only 22½. They'll probably compromise at 25. Walcott has agreed to accept 20 per cent of net receipts from the gate, radio and television.

A major obstacle was removed when Felix Bocchicchio, promoter of Camden, N. J., agreed to waive his exclusive contract for Walcott's services so that the June match could be made. Joe Webster, the Camden tavern proprietor who manages Walcott, will compensate Bocchicchio for his withdrawal.

Grid Browns Sign Heaviest Player

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Bill (Earthquake) Smith, 260-pound tackle from the University of North Carolina, has signed a contract with the Cleveland Browns, the All-America Football Conference champions announced recently.

Smith, biggest player ever signed by the Browns, was the club's third choice in the recent AAC player draft. The huge lineman played for the Tarheels in 1944 and 1947, and served in the Navy in between.

Smith was an All-Southern Conference choice in each of his two years at North Carolina. He stands six-feet, three-inches tall and is only 21. His home is in Lexington, North Carolina.

Smith was second draft choice of the Chicago Cardinals, National League champions.

'Hoop Hoopla' 5's Almost Certain Barring Upsets

NEW YORK —(UP)— Basketball's annual "hoop hoopla," the National Tournament whirlwind still is a month away, but barring a lot of late season crackups it seemed safe to predict just what teams will be battling for the championships.

In the Madison Square Garden Invitational Tournament, where a capable selection committee handpicks eight teams with outstanding seasonal records for a four night show, the best bet right now is that last year's champions, the "Blitz Kids" of Utah won't be around to defend their honors.

Utah, which had a disastrous nationwide road trip and hasn't managed to settle down since getting back home, already has lost as many games as it did during the entire 1946-47 campaign. But while the Utes are out of it, there are plenty of other invitational favorites of other years ready, willing, and apparently able to land in the tournament swim.

For the invitational, which opens on March 11 at Madison Square Garden and winds up on March 17, here is an early prediction on the lineup of the teams.

Kentucky, St. Louis University, Bradley University, Rhode Island State, New York University, Western Kentucky, Duquesne and Kansas State.

All but two of that array have had invitational tournament teams here before although Kentucky is the only past winner, taking the invitational title in 1946. Western Island was second in 1946. Western Kentucky was second in 1942 and Duquesne finished second in 1940. The only newcomers would be Kansas State and St. Louis. Rhode Island has made four tournaments, Kentucky, Bradley and Duquesne three each, Western Kentucky two and New York University one.

Ward Still Against Tennis Open

MIDDLETOWN, N. J. —(UP)— Holcombe Ward, on the eve of retirement as president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said today he was convinced there would be no national open tourney in his sport "for a long, long time."

"During my 11 years as president of the association there have been many suggestions—from professionals and others—that we stage an annual open tournament in which both pros and amateurs could compete, as is done in golf," Ward explained.

"I have always opposed this, and I still do; for such an event would harm the morale of amateur players."

Ward, the ex-Harvard player who won the National Singles Championship in 1904 and who was on six doubles championship duos and on four Davis Cup teams, pointed out that amateur tennis performers have their expenses paid at a dozen or so tourneys each year. Amateur golfers, however, receive no expenses except for play on the Walker Cup team.

Five more players advanced to the second round of the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament yesterday afternoon on the Naval Government courts in the second day of competition in the open singles class.

The two first seeded players, Lcdr. J. D. Smith and Captain Albert Kohlhas, will play their first round matches during the week and will meet their second round opponents next weekend.

Lt. Frank Kriz, sixth seeded player, received a scare in the final match of the day when he met STic Elpidio Navarez in a match he had previously taken by default. Navarez did not show up for the match on Saturday, but Lt. Kriz consented to play him yesterday instead. Kriz, a picture player, lost the first set 4-6 but settled down and stroked out a decision, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

After a delay of nearly two hours, because of rain, Major Andy Lyman blasted out a 6-2, 6-1 win over George Slusser of Pomery camp 3. Slusser showed a well-rounded game, but was no match for Lyman's powerful serve and ground strokes.

Mauricio Madrigal, former Philippine champion, made his first tournament appearance and most fans got an eyeful as Madrigal scored an easy 6-0, 6-0 victory over Lt. Vernon Brown.

ManBo champion Lt. John Tobin outsteadied L. W. Winget to win his first match of the tourney, 6-1, 6-0 and advance to the second round.

Big red-headed Lt. Martin Hanson, seeded eighth, used a wicked, American twist service and power plus to smash out a 6-1, 6-1 win over Lt. H. B. Pettit of the First Marine Brigade, and earned himself a shot at Pettit's friend, Lt. Ace Parker, in the second round.

Mr. Charles Egan and Lcdr. R. C. Spears both advanced by default when their opponents failed to appear for the matches.

Matches for Wednesday will be announced in tomorrow's paper. Watch your GUAM NEWS for Saturday's matches, which will be announced on Wednesday.

Snead in Front At Half-Way Mark In Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 8 —(UP)— Slammin' Sam Snead grabbed the lead at the half-way mark in the $10,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament today with a six-under-par 65 which gave him a 36-hole total of 131.

Dick Metz, veteran Kansan who flirted with a course record by getting a sizzling 63 the day's best round, gave Snead his hardest workout.

Snead linked a 33-32—65 with his first round 66 to stand at 131—11 strokes under par 142 for muddy Brackenridge Park course.

But Metz, who posted an inconspicuous 69 for the opening 18 holes, found his stride in the second round and posted a tremendous 8-under par 63, only a stroke off the record set by Jim Demaret in the Texas Open of 1947.

His great round put Metz in second place at 32, one stroke behind Snead.

In announcing his resignation, the academy said that in his request to resign, Foldberg said he desired to assist in alleviating family financial difficulties.

U.S. Tops Off Best Olympiad Showing in Finale

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 8 —(UP)— The United States wound up its official part in the fifth Olympiad in a blaze of glory today, capturing its third gold medal with a daring bobsled run that climaxed the best showing America ever has made in the winter games.

A dare-devil quartet piloted by Francis Tyler of Lake Placid, N. Y., zoomed through a driving blizzard with reckless speed down the treacherous one mile bobrun to win the four-man bobsled championship as U. S. athletes picked up a total of 20 points to clinch third place in the final unofficial team standings.

Won Gold Medal

Sharing honors with the American stars as all but the hockey competition came to a close in the Olympiad were Peter Hugsted, a 26-year-old machine technician from Norway who won the ski jumping championship, and Belgium's world championship ice artists, Micheline Lannoy and Pierre Baugniet, who won the gold medal in pairs figure skating.

Teaming with Tyler to bring the U. S. its third winter games title—two more than it ever had won in any winter Olympiad before—were Pat Martin and Bill D'Amico, his fellow townsmen from Lake Placid, and Ed Rimkus of Schenectady, N. Y., forming the American No. 2 team.

Finished Third

The No. 1 quartet, piloted by Jimmy Bickford of Saranac Lake, finished third, while Gordon Wren of Winter Park, Colo., finished fifth in the ski jump and U. S. pairs finished fourth and sixth in the figure skating. Yvonne Sherman of New York, who finished sixth in the Women's figure skating yesterday, and Robert Swenning of Greenwich, Conn., captured the fourth place with the Seattle, Wash., kid team of Karol and Peter Kennedy winding up sixth.

It added up to the second best day the U. S. ever experienced in the winter games—topped only by the performance of American athletes on Thursday.

Jake Caulfield Sent To San Diego Padres

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— William Starr, president of the San Diego Padres, announced purchase of shortstop John (Jake) Caulfield from Sacramento in a straight cash deal, terms of which were not revealed.

Caulfield, who started with Oakland in 1943, went to Sacramento this year after playing with Rochester in the International League and Columbus in the American Association.

He batted .239 and drove in 16 runs in 48 games with Sacramento last year.

Coach Fox Denies Reports Of Protest of Postponement

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 7 —(UP)— John J. (Donna) Fox, coach of the United States bobsled team, tonight denied reports that the U.S. had protested the postponement of the four-man bobsled heats today after the course was flooded following a water main break.

"There was no protest made or considered," Fox said. "The decision of the Olympic officials to re-run all second heats tomorrow was in accordance with Olympic rules."

Dodds Breaks Own Boston Record For Fifth Time

BOSTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Gallopin' Gil Dodds ran against the stopwatch tonight to win the Hunter Mile in 4:08.1—a new Boston record—and lead a field of six starters to the tape by 80 yards in the Boston Athletic Association meet at the Garden.

The victory, coming one week after Dodds set the world indoor mile mark of 4:05.3, was his last indoor Boston appearance, since he intends to retire in 1949.

The previous Boston record—set by Dodds two weeks ago—was 4:08.4. Tonight was the fifth consecutive time the flying parson has lowered the Boston mark.

The victory was the 21st consecutive mile win for Dodds and the 33rd race he has won in a row. He was clocked at 3:49.7 in the 1,500 meters mark—two seconds behind Gundar Haegg's 3:47.9.

Professor Charges Russia Preparing Youth for War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— A Columbia University professor who has studied Russian life charged that the Soviets "are preparing their young for war."

"Our American democracy faces the supreme challenge of its history," George S. Counts asserted in School Life, monthly publication of the U. S. Office of Education.

Other articles in the publication similarly stressed the damages of totalitarianism. Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker said American democracy must be strengthened "to meet the threat of Communism and Fascism."

"If Democracy is to win by peaceful means in the current world-wide struggle for the loyalties of man," Counts said, "it will have to marshal all of its moral and intellectual resources for the vigorous affirmation and fulfillment of its basis principles."

Opposes Democracy

Counts said that Russia is trying to forge weapons against democracy in its classrooms, stressing military as well as ideological training.

"Formal military training begins in the fourth grade," Counts said. "Emphasis on military games is found in the nursery school and the kindergarten and all subjects of study are supposed to serve this purpose.

Experts Foresee Possible Drop in Food Prices

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— The trend of commodity market prices will indicate whether a general decline in retail food prices is to be expected some experts said today.

Commodity prices, led by a severe break in grains, registered huge drops during the past week and there were a few cracks in scattered cities in some retail food prices. However, retailers and economists said it was too early to determine whether the retail reductions, mostly on perishable and other quick turn over items, resulted from consumer resistance or from the market slump.

A spokesman for the Chicago Association of Retail Grocers said that this week may tell the story. If wheat prices stay down or drop further, a drop in prices of other commodities, principally bread, probably will follow, he said.

Miami-Bound Eastern Airlines Plane Narrowly Averts Watery Disaster

BUNNELL, Fla., Feb. 9 —(UP)— An Eastern Air Lines Constellation with 69 persons aboard miraculously averted a crash at sea and rode into a safe landing near here yesterday after an engine exploded and flying metal tore into the fuselage, killing a steward.

The airmanship of famed flier Henry T. (Dick) Merrill, who as senior pilot aboard automatically took charge, and his co-pilots prevented what could have been the worst disaster in commercial aviation history. Winthrop Rockefeller of the noted financial family was among the passengers. Also there were three babies among the passengers.

News that the plane had landed successfully ended two hours of frantic suspense at the Coast Guard had reported the four-engined plane plunged into the sea far off the Florida coast.

The plane, a "60-seater" with a capacity for a crew of six, was bound from LaGuardia Field, N.Y., when 40 of the passengers boarded, to the Miami-Palm Beach resort area with a full load.

Merrill was riding as a "check" pilot in a jump-seat directly behind the regular pilots when the inboard engine disintegrated. Details of the accident caused by the flying metal were still scant but when the big plane came down on a tiny CAA strip near here with a wild screech of its brakes two of the motors were out witnesses said.

Negro Confesses to Train Holdup

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— The first major train hold-up in the last 35 years was solved today when a 24-year-old Negro confessed he was the bandit who held up the passengers on a New York Central train en route to Chicago.

Police identified the man as Willard Ousley, a former employe of the New York Central lines.

Ousley was captured yesterday when he was shot in the neck and wrist by a traffic patrolmen as he fled from the office of a finance office where he had taken $500.

Under questioning Ousley said he boarded the train at it's South Chicago stop, the last before the train enters the main station.

Three Illinois judges, a former Congressman, and a professor of law at the University of Minnesota were among the passengers who lost $1500 in cash, jewelry, and valuables which Ousley took from the train.

He went through several cars to the rear of the train, brandishing a nickel-plated revolver, and swung out onto the side of the car as it approached the Chicago station. He jumped from the last car as the train slowed down.

House Committee Says Wallace's Third Party Communist-Backed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— The House Un-American Activities Committee today produced what it said was proof that Henry A. Wallace's third party is Communist-backed. A member challenged Wallace to repudiate the party's support.

The committe office released a document purporting to be an official circular of the Communist party of Georgia. It was dated Jan. 1 1948, and discussed Wallace's third party candidacy. The document denied that the new third party organization would be Communist controlled, but went on to say:

"But the Communists as loyal American citizens tremendously interested in their neighbors and fellow Americans, will not be denied the privilege of helping the new party.

"They will contribute their experience and devotion of the working class to this new party."

Rep. John McDowell, (R—Pa.) a member of the Un-American Activities Committee, said the document "should remove any doubt that the Communist party is the dominating factor in the Wallace campaign."

"It is up to him to clear himself with the nation by affirming the fact or repudiating their support," he said.

The document was released on the heels of a recommendation by a prominent New York labor lawyer that political candidates supported by Communists or subversive groups be compelled either to renounce them or publicly accept their principles.

Royall to Make Panama Inspection Tour

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall left by plane today on an unannounced inspection trip to U. S. bases in the Panama Canal zone, concurrent with reports that the State Department objects to the trip.

But a State Department spokesman denied that any dispute took place between high defenses and diplomatic officials over Royall's plans.

An Army source said Royall left without the customary advance announcement to the press because the State Department had asked him not to go to Panama at this time. This source said diplomatic officials feared the trip might stir up new political feeling in the tiny republic which recently refused to let the United States keep the defense bases it built on Panama soil, outside the 10-mile canal zone, during the war.

While overriding the State Department's suggestion that it would be better for high U. S. military officials to stay out of Panama until the dispute over bases had simmered down, the Army source said, Royall agreed to go as "quitely" as possible.

Sailor Dies in Accident

A Navy man was killed Sunday afternoon when a recon truck which he was driving left the road near Santa Rita village and plunged down an embankment. Of eleven other sailors on the truck, two were seriously injured.

The recon was coming down the hill from Santa Rita, when it went off the road, tearing down almost 100 feet of safety posts.

At least ten accidents occurred during the past week, with eight taking place over the weekend—three on Saturday in which two persons were seriously injured, and five Sunday, one of which claimed a life, and in which two others were seriously injured.

Pope Pius XII Denounces A-Bomb

Rome, Italy, Feb. 9—(UP)—Pope Pius XII, calling the atomic bomb "the most terrible arm which the human mind has this far conceived," urged today that the use of atomic energy for warlike purposes be outlawed.

But in a scholarly address to the pontifical academy of sciences, the Pope warmly praised those men who harnessed atomic energy, and those extending back for 100 years whose pioneer work made the harnessing possible.

"What disasters should humanity await from future conflict if it should prove impossible to halt or brake the use of newer and more scientific inventions?" the Pope asked.

The Pope pointed out that man's knowledge of the disintigration of the atom thus far was not complete, though a way had been found to unleash its energy. He expressed the hope that atomic energy would be used solely for peace and "give to the progress of civilization its rich resources of energy."

Japan's Coalition Cabinet Plans To Resign Soon

TOKYO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Premier Tetsu Katayama's coalition cabinet has decided to resign "in the very near future," Cabinet Secretary Suehiro Nishio announced today at a news conference.

In the first report from the cabinet itself on the political crisis in Japan, Nishio said the government "saw no alternative but to resign" in view of current political difficulties.

The announcement followed an informal conference of key cabinet ministers.

Nishio's "very near future" was interpreted in Japanese political circles to mean two or three days, and formal action probably will be taken after the next regular Diet session scheduled for Tuesday.

Nishio said he had no comments to offer about the succeeding government in Japan.

The Social Democratic Party which Katayama heads and which controls 124 out of 465 votes in the House of Representatives will function as the opposition party after the cabinet has resigned, Nishio said.

Japanese political circles said it would be "most natural" for Katayama to call on Gen. Douglas MacArthur before formally taking the step.

Observers speculated that it was "not likely but possible" that Katayama might head the next cabinet himself with a stronger right wing lineup after the present coalition cabinet resigns enmasse.

Anti-Communist Military Aid Urged For Iran

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee said today the United States should "consider seriously" extending its anti-Communist Greek-Turkish military aid program to Iran.

Also, the subcommittee said, the country should take steps to achieve air supremacy so it could move quickly to the defense of middle east oil fields "in the event of trouble."

What Iran needs, the subcommittee said, is help in building its 100,000-man army into an effective fighting force. At present the country could easily be overrun, the subcommittee added.

The subcommittee's report was made public in the wake of Iran's rejection yesterday of Russian protests against 'undue American activity' in the strategically located middle east nation.

Storms, Sub Zero Cold Grip Nation

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— A storm hit the northwest Pacific coast today and a severe cold wave swept across the midwest into eastern states.

Six seamen were reported to have drowned in the northwest storm, which battered shipping and disrupted communications. Three of the men were reported lost in the sinking of the fish packer Columbia coast when the storm swept out of Alaska last night.

The cold spreading eastward caused a heavier drain on short fuel supplies in midwest and eastern states where thousands of workers were idle because of shutdowns in gas-consuming industries.

Temperatures plunged below zero in the midwest and were expected to touch close to zero in eastern states tonight. The mercury dropped to -34 early today at International Falls, Minn.

A special weather bureau bulletin warned residents of New York metropolitan area to expect a low five degrees above zero by early tomorrow.

Many New York families were hit hard by the fuel oil shortage. Gov. Thomas Dewey appealed to the federal government for 30 railroad tank cars to help move fuel to upstate areas. He said the tank cars were needed to transport oil to storage plants along the Hudson River and the Barge Canal system.

Headline Highlights

UNDATED NORTHWEST STORM—The S. S. Colorado, a victory type cargo vessel, was blown aground last night near Coos Bay, Ore. by a gale-force storm which already has swept at least five crewmen from the decks of their small craft. The Colorado, out-bound for Guam, is a 464-foot vessel carrying a normal complement of 45 men. The Coast Guard cutter Bonham and a motor lifeboat were racing to the vessel's aid from Coos Bay.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 9 —(UP)— The United Nations Palestine Commission expressed alarm today over an apparent plan by Great Britain to leave large stocks of arms and military equipment unprotected when it ends the mandate over embattled Palestine May 15. The commission also agreed, at a private meeting, to put heat on London for its adaniant opposition to advance formation of a Jewish home defense militia in the Holy Land.

Mail Chief Seeks Higher Mail Rates

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson today called on Congress to raise mail rates so the postal service can "pay its own way."

In his first major policy speech since becoming a cabinet officer, Donaldson told the New York Postal Supervisors Association at its annual dinner that the postal service "should be placed on as firm a business basis as humanly possible."

The former letter carrier and first man to become chief of the mails said it is the duty of Congress and not the Post Office Department to decide "whether the postal establishment should be operated as a service institution without regard to a profit motive or whether it should be made to pay its own way."

Farming Company Formed on Tinian

AGANA, Feb. 9—The Marianas Trading and Steamship Company has been named the sole agent of the Tinian Produce Company, it was announced today by W. E. Thompson, manager.

The Tinian Produce Company, which recently secured a lease from the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands to farm Tinian, is composed of four Americans in charge using native labor from Yap, Rota, Saipan and Guam.

Thompson, who recently returned from Tinian, said plowing had already begun using mechanized equipment, and the first shipment of fruits and vegetables was expected to arrive on Guam around April 15.

Crops which are to be raised include corn, bananas, pineapples, chard, tomatoes, watermellons, cantolopes, sweet potatoes, lettuce, egg plant, radishes and onions.

Naval and military camps will have first priority on the purchase of these products. Contractor camp will have second priority and the remainder will be put on the local markets, Thompson said.

He requests all persons concerned, (Army and Navy supply and commissary officers and civilian purchasing agents) to contact him at the Marianas Trading and Steamship Company in the Triangle Building, Agana, immediately, or call Atlanta 3278 for further details.

Bashful Bobby Riggs, after a bad start, has caught Jack Kramer at 12 matches all—taking three consecutive matches on the clay courts in Florida....Kramer has had to modify his smashing offensive game to overcome Riggs' faultless retrieving strategy.

A recent story by AP from South Orange, N. J. quoted Kramer as saying that the hardest thing about the tour is getting used to arc lights and the smoke in arenas.

Most of the matches are being played indoors, on a canvas that is carried with the troup, and Big Jake claims that he likes the tarp court. "For one thing," Jack said, "the bounce on canvas is faster than on any surface with the exception of wood, and sometimes is even speeded up more when it is stretched out on the concrete bottoms of the arenas." Kramer's main gripe about playing indoors is the difficulty of seeing the ball in the smoky halls.

About Bobby himself, Jack had this to say: "Maybe he can't hit as hard as some of the top-notchers but his is certainly consistent. If you're not at the top of your game on any given night, he'll trim you, and sometimes when you are at your best, he'll beat you anyhow."

ON LOCAL TENNIS....The GUAM NEWS tennis thing is going along well, and has already accomplished one of its main objectives—bringing together the players on the Island and increasing interest in tennis....Fourth seeded Major Andy Lyman had a tougher match yesterday than the score would indicate....Mr. George Slusser had a fine collection of shots, but Lyman's placements were beautiful and his power was something else....Lt. Hanson had little trouble with Lt. Pettit....Hanson has had a great deal of experience in tournament play, and puts plenty of steam on his shots.....Pettit made some nice placements but his game showed lack of practice.

'Hoop Hoopla' 5's Almost Certain Barring Upsets

NEW YORK —(UP)— Basketball's annual "hoop hoopla," the National Tournament whirlwind still is a month away, but barring a lot of late season crackups it seemed safe to predict just what teams will be battling for the championships.

In the Madison Square Garden Invitational Tournament, where a capable selection committee handpicks eight teams with outstanding seasonal records for a four night show, the best bet right now is that last year's champions, the "Blitz Kids" of Utah won't be around to defend their honor.

Utah, which had a disastrous nationwide road trip and hasn't managed to settle down since getting back home, already has lost as many games as it did during the entire 1946-47 campaign. But while the Utes are out of it, there are plenty of other invitational favorites of other years ready, willing, and apparently able to land in the tournament swim.

For the invitational, which opens on March 11 at Madison Square Garden and winds up on March 17, here is an early prediction on the lineup of the teams.

Kentucky, St. Louis University, Bradley University, Rhode Island State, New York University, Western Kentucky, Duquesne and Kansas State.

All but two of that array have had invitational tournament teams here before although Kentucky is the only past winner, taking the invitational title in 1946. Western Island was second in 1946. Western Kentucky was second in 1942 and Duquesne finished second in 1940. The only newcomers would be Kansas State and St. Louis. Rhode Island has made four tournaments, Kentucky, Bradley and Duquesne three each, Western Kentucky two and New York University one.

Walcott Probably Will Sign for Re-Match Monday

Negotiations were practically completed last night after a long conference at 20th Century headquarters.

Only one disagreement remained to be settled. Walcott wants 30 per cent of the movie receipts. The 20th Century Club is offering only 22½. They'll probably compromise at 25. Walcott has agreed to accept 20 per cent of net receipts from the gate, radio and television.

A major obstacle was removed when Felix Bocchicchio, promoter of Camden, N. J., agreed to waive his exclusive contract for Walcott's services so that the June match could be made. Joe Webster, the Camden tavern proprietor who manages Walcott, will compensate Bocchicchio for his withdrawal.

Grid Browns Sign Heaviest Player

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Bill (Earthquake) Smith, 260-pound tackle from the University of North Carolina, has signed a contract with the Cleveland Browns, the All-America Football Conference champions announced recently.

Smith, biggest player ever signed by the Browns, was the club's third choice in the recent AAC player draft. The huge lineman played for the Tarheels in 1944 and 1947, and served in the Navy in between.

Smith was an All-Southern Conference choice in each of his two years at North Carolina. He stands six-feet, three-inches tall and is only 21. His home is in Lexington, North Carolina.

Smith was second draft choice of the Chicago Cardinals, National League champions.

Ward Still Against Tennis Open

MIDDLETOWN, N. J. —(UP)— Holcombe Ward, on the eve of retirement as president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said today he was convinced there would be no national open tourney in his sport "for a long, long time."

"During my 11 years as president of the association there have been many suggestions—from professionals and others—that we stage an annual open tournament in which both pros and amateurs could compete, as is done in golf," Ward explained.

"I have always opposed this, and I still do; for such an event would harm the morale of amateur players."

Ward, the ex-Harvard player who won the National Singles Championship in 1904 and who was on six doubles championship duos and on four Davis Cup teams, pointed out that amateur tennis performers have their expenses paid at a dozen or so tourneys each year. Amateur golfers, however, receive no expenses except for play on the Walker Cup team.

Five Seeded Players Advance to Second Round in Tennis Tourney

Five more players advanced to the second round of the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament yesterday afternoon on the Naval Government courts in the second day of competition in the open singles class.

The two first seeded players, Lcdr. J. D. Smith and Captain Albert Kohlhas, will play their first round matches during the week and will meet their second round opponents next wekend.

Lt. Frank Kriz, sixth seeded player, received a scare in the final match of the day when he met ST1c Elpidio Navarez in a match he had previously taken by default. Navarez did not show up for the match on Saturday, but Lt. Kriz consented to play him yesterday instead. Kriz, a picture player, lost the first set 4-6 but settled down and stroked out a decision, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

After a delay of nearly two hours, because of rain, Major Andy Lyman blasted out a 6-2, 6-1 win over George Slusser of Pomery camp 3. Slusser showed a well-rounded game, but was no match for Lyman's powerful serve and ground strokes.

Mauricio Madrigal, former Philippine champion, made his first tournament appearance and most fans got an eyeful as Madrigal scored an easy 6-0, 6-0 victory over Lt. Vernon Brown.

MarBo champion Lt. John Tobin outsteadied L. W. Winget to win his first match of the tourney, 6-1, 6-0 and advance to the second round.

Big red-headed Lt. Martin Hanson, seeded eighth, used a wicked American twist service and power plus to smash out a 6-1, 6-1 win over Lt. H. B. Pettit of the First Marine Brigade, and earned himself a shot at Pettit's friend, Lt. Ace Parker, in the second round.

Mr. Charles Egan and Lcdr. R. C. Spears both advanced by default when their opponents failed to appear for the matches.

Matches for Wednesday will be announced in tomorrow's paper. Watch your GUAM NEWS for Saturday's matches, which will be announced on Wednesday.

Snead in Front At Half-Way Mark In Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 8 —(UP)— Slammin' Sam Snead grabbed the lead at the half-way mark in the $10,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament today with a six-under-par 65 which gave him a 36-hole total of 131.

Dick Metz, veteran Kansan who flirted with a course record by getting a sizzling 63, the day's best round, gave Snead his hardest workout.

Snead linked a 33-32—65 with his first round 66 to stand at 131—11 strokes under par 142 for muddy Brackenridge Park course.

But Metz, who posted an inconspicious 69 for the opening 18 holes, found his stride in the second round and posted a tremendous 8-under par 63, only a stroke off the record set by Jim Demaret in the Texas Open of 1947.

His great round put Metz in second place at 32, one stroke behind Snead.

U.S. Tops Off Best Olympiad Showing in Finale

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 8 —(UP)— The United States wound up its official part in the fifth Olympiad in a blaze of glory today, capturing its third gold medal with a daring bobsled run that climaxed the best showing America ever has made in the winter games.

A dare-devil quartet piloted by Francis Tyler of Lake Placid, N. Y., zoomed through a driving blizzard with reckless speed down the treacherous one mile bobrun to win the four-man bobsled championship as U. S. athletes picked up a total of 20 points to clinch third place in the final unofficial team standings.

Won Gold Medal

Sharing honors with the American stars as all but the hockey competition came to a close in the Olympiad were Peter Hugsted, a 26-year-old machine technician from Norway who won the ski jumping championship, and Belgium's world championship ice artists, Micheline Lannoy and Pierre Baugniet, who won the gold medal in pairs figure skating.

Teaming with Tyler to bring the U. S. its third winter games title—two more than it ever had won in any winter Olympiad before—were Pat Martin and Bill D'Amico, his fellow townsmen from Lake Placid, and Ed Rimkus of Schenectady, N. Y., forming the American No. 2 team.

Finished Third

The No. 1 quartet, piloted by Jimmy Bickford of Saranac Lake, N. Y., finished third, while Gordon Wren of Winter Park, Colo., finished fifth in the ski jump and U. S. pairs finished fourth and sixth in the figure skating. Yvonne Sherman of New York, who finished sixth in the Women's figure skating yesterday and Robert Swenning of Greenwich, Conn., captured the fourth place with the Seattle, Wash., kid team of Karol and Peter Kennedy winding up sixth.

It added up to the second best day the U. S. ever experienced in the winter games—topped only by the performance of American athletes on Thursday.

He batted .239 and drove in 16 runs in 48 games with Sacramento last year.

Coach Fox Denies Reports Of Protest of Postponement

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 7 —(UP)— John J. (Donna) Fox, coach of the United States bobsled team, tonight denied reports that the U.S. had protested the postponement of the four-man bobsled heats today after the course was flooded following a water main break.

"There was no protest made or considered," Fox said. "The decision of the Olympic officials to re-run all second heats tomorrow was in accordance with Olympic rules."

Dodds Breaks Own Boston Record For Fifth Time

BOSTON, Feb. 8 —(UP)— Gallopin' Gil Dodds ran against the stopwatch tonight to win the Hunter Mile in 4:08.1—a new Boston record—and lead a field of six starters to the tape by 80 yards in the Boston Athletic Association meet at the Garden.

The victory, coming one week after Dodds set the world indoor mile mark of 4:05.3, was his last indoor Boston appearance, since he intends to retire in 1949.

The previous Boston record—set by Dodds two weeks ago—was 4:08.4. Tonight was the fifth consecutive time the flying parson has lowered the Boston mark.

The victory was the 21st consecutive mile win for Dodds and the 33rd race he has won in a row. He was clocked at 3:49.7 at the 1,500 meters mark—two seconds behind Gundar Haegg's 3:47.9.

Professor Charges Russia Preparing Youth for War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— A Columbia University professor who has studied Russian life charged that the Soviets "are preparing their young for war."

"Our American democracy faces the supreme challenge of its history," George S. Counts asserted in School Life, monthly publication of the U. S. Office of Education.

Other articles in the publication similarly stressed the damages of totalitarianism. Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker said American democracy must be strengthened "to meet the threat of Communism and Fascism."

"If Democracy is to win by peaceful means in the current world-wide struggle for the loyalties of man," Counts said, "it will have to marshal all of its moral and intellectual resources for the vigorous affirmation and fulfillment of its basis principles."

Opposes Democracy

Counts said that Russia is trying to forge weapons against democracy in its classrooms, stressing military as well as ideological training.

"Formal military training begins in the fourth grade," Counts said. "Emphasis on military games is found in the nursery school and the kindergarten and all subjects of study are supposed to serve this purpose.

House Committee Says Wallace's Third Party Communist-Backed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— The House Un-American Activities Committee today produced what it said was proof that Henry A. Wallace's third party is Communist-backed. A member challenged Wallace to repudiate the party's support.

The committe office released a document purporting to be an official circular of the Communist party of Georgia. It was dated Jan. 1 1948, and discussed Wallace's third party candidacy. The document denied that the new third party organisation would be Communist controlled, but went on to say:

"But the Communists as loyal American citizens tremendously interested in their neighbors and fellow Americans, will not be denied the privilege of helping the new party.

"They will contribute their experience and devotion of the working class to this new party."

Rep. John McDowell, (R—Pa.) a member of the Un-American Activities Committee, said the document "should remove any doubts that the Communist party is the dominating factor in the Wallace campaign."

"It is up to him to clear himself with the nation by affirming the fact or repudiating their support," he said.

The document was released on the heels of a recommendation by a prominent New York labor lawyer that political candilates supported by Communists or subversive groups be compelled either to renounce them or publicly accept their principles.

Royall to Make Panama Inspection Tour

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall left by plane today on an unannounced inspection trip to U. S. bases in the Panama Canal zone, concurrent with reports that the State Department objects to the trip.

But a State Department spokesman denied that any dispute took place between high defenses and diplomatic officials over Royall's plans.

An Army source said Royall left without the customary advance announcement to the press because the State Department had asked him not to go to Panama at this time. This source said diplomatic officials feared the trip might stir up new political feeling in the tiny republic which recently refused to let the United States keep the defense bases it built on Panama soil, outside the 10-mile canal zone, during the war.

While overriding the State Department's suggestion that it would be better for high U. S. military officials to stay out of Panama until the dispute over bases had simmered down, the Army source said, Royall agreed to go as "quitely" as possible.

Experts Foresee Possible Drop in Food Prices

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— The trend of commodity market prices will indicate whether a general decline in retail food prices is to be expected some experts said today.

Commodity prices, led by a severe break in grains, registered huge drops during the past week and there were a few cracks in scattered cities in some retail food prices. However, retailers and economists said it was too early to determine whether the retail reductions, mostly on perishable and other quick turn-over items, resulted from consumer resistance or from the market slump.

A spokesman for the Chicago Association of Retail Grocers said that this week may tell the story. If wheat prices stay down or drop further, a drop in prices of other commodities, principally bread, probably will follow, he said.

Pope Pius XII Denounces A-Bomb

Rome, Italy, Feb. 9—(UP)—Pope Pius XII, calling the atomic bomb "the most terrible arm which the human mind has this far conceived," urged today that the use of atomic energy for warlike purposes be outlawed.

But in a scholarly address to the pontifical academy of sciences, the Pope warmly praised those men who harnessed atomic energy, and those extending back for 100 years whose pioneer work made the harnessing possible.

"What disasters should humanity await from future conflict if it should prove impossible to halt or brake the use of newer and more scientific inventions?" the Pope asked.

The Pope pointed out that man's knowledge of the disintigration of the atom thus far was not complete, though a way had been found to unleash its energy. He expressed the hope that atomic energy would be used solely for peace and to "give to the progress of civilization its rich resources of energy."

Sailor Dies in Accident

A Navy man was killed Sunday afternoon when a recon truck which he was driving left the road near Santa Rita village and plunged down an embankment. Of eleven other sailors on the truck, two were seriously injured.

The recon was coming down the hill from Santa Rita, when it went off the road, tearing down almost 100 feet of safety posts.

At least ten accidents occurred during the past week, with eight taking place over the weekend—three on Saturday in which two persons were seriously injured, and five Sunday, one of which claimed a life, and in which two others were seriously injured.

Japan's Coalition Cabinet Plans To Resign Soon

TOKYO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Premier Tetsu Katayama's coalition cabinet has decided to resign "in the very near future," Cabinet Secretary Suehiro Nishio announced today at a news conference.

In the first report from the cabinet itself on the political crisis in Japan, Nishio said the government "saw no alternative but to resign" in view of current political difficulties.

The announcement followed an informal conference of key cabinet ministers.

Nishio's "very near future" was interpreted in Japanese political circles to mean two or three days, and formal action probably will be taken after the next regular Diet session scheduled for Tuesday.

Nishio said he had no comments to offer about the succeeding government in Japan.

The Social Democratic Party which Katayama heads and which controls 124 out of 465 votes in the House of Representatives will function as the opposition party after the cabinet has resigned, Nishio said.

Japanese political circles said it would be "most natural" for Katayama to call on Gen. Douglas MacArthur before formally taking the step.

Observers speculated that it was "not likely but possible" that Katayama might head the next cabinet himself with a stronger right wing lineup after the present coalition cabinet resigns enmasse.

Anti-Communist Military Aid Urged For Iran

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(UP)— A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee said today the United States should "consider seriously" extending its anti-Communist Greek-Turkish military aid program to Iran.

Also, the subcommittee said, this country should take steps to achieve air supremacy so it could move quickly to the defense of middle east oil fields "in the event of trouble."

What Iran needs, the subcommittee said, is help in building its 100,000-man army into an effective fighting force. At present the country could easily be overrun, the subcommittee added.

The subcommittee's report was made public in the wake of Iran's rejection yesterday of Russian protests against 'undue American activity' in the strategically located middle east nation.

Miami-Bound Eastern Airlines Plane Narrowly Averts Watery Disaster

BUNNELL Fla., Feb. 9 —(UP)— An Eastern Air Lines Constellation with 69 persons aboard miraculously averted a crash at sea and rode into a safe landing near here yesterday after an engine exploded and flying metal tore into the fuselage, killing a steward.

The airmanship of famed flier Henry T. (Dick) Merrill, who as senior pilot aboard automatically took charge, and his co-pilots prevented what could have been the worst disaster in commercial aviation history. Winthrop Rockefeller of the noted financial family was among the passengers. Also there were three babies among the passengers.

News that the plane had landed successfully ended two hours of frantic suspense. The Coast Guard had reported the four-engined plane plunged into the sea far off the Florida coast.

The plane, a "60-seater" with a capacity for a crew of six, was bound from LaGuardia Field, N.Y., where 40 of the passengers boarded, to the Miami-Palm Beach resort area with a full load.

Merrill was riding as a "check" pilot in a jump-seat directly behind the regular pilots when the inboard engine disintegrated. Details of the accident caused by the flying metal were still scant but when the big plane came down on a tiny CAA strip near here with a wild screech of its brakes two of the motors were out witnesses said.

Storms, Sub Zero Cold Grip Nation

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— A storm hit the northwest Pacific coast today and a severe cold wave swept across the midwest into eastern states.

Six seamen were reported to have drowned in the northwest storm, which battered shipping and disrupted communications. Three of the men were reported lost in the sinking of the fish packer Amaryllis which swamped and sank off Charlotte Point on the British Columbia coast when the storm roared out of Alaska last night.

The cold spreading eastward caused a heavier drain on short fuel supplies in midwest and eastern states where thousands of workers were idle because of shutdowns in gas-consuming industries.

Temperatures plunged below zero in the midwest and were expected to touch close to zero in eastern states tonight. The mercury dropped to -34 early today at International Falls, Minn.

A special weather bureau bulletin warned residents of New York metropolitan area to expect a low five degrees above zero by early tomorrow.

Many New York families were hit hard by the fuel oil shortage. Gov. Thomas Dewey appealed to the federal government for 30 railroad tank cars to help move fuel to upstate areas. He said the tank cars were needed to transport oil to storage plants along the Hudson River and the Barge Canal system.

Farming Company Formed on Tinian

AGANA, Feb. 9—The Marianas Trading and Steamship Company has been named the sole agent of the Tinian Produce Company, it was announced today by W. E. Thompson, manager.

The Tinian Produce Company, which recently secured a lease from the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands to farm Tinian, is composed of four Americans in charge using native labor from Yap, Rota, Saipan and Guam.

Thompson, who recently returned from Tinian, said plowing had already begun using mechanized equipment, and the first shipment of fruits and vegetables was expected to arrive on Guam around April 15.

Crops which are to be raised include corn, bananas, pineapples, chard, tomatoes, watermellons, cantolopes, sweet potatoes, lettuce, egg plant, radishes and onions.

Naval and military camps will have first priority on the purchase of these products. Contractor camp will have second priority and the remainder will be put on the local markets, Thompson said.

He requests all persons concerned, (Army and Navy supply and commissary officers and civilian purchasing agents) to contact him at the Marianas Trading and Steamship Company in the Triangle Building, Agana, immediately, or call Atlanta 3278 for further details.

Negro Confesses to Train Holdup

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— The first major train hold-up in the last 35 years was solved today when a 24-year-old Negro confessed he was the bandit who held up the passengers on a New York Central train en route to Chicago.

Police identified the man as Willard Ousley, a former employe of the New York Central lines.

Ousley was captured yesterday when he was shot in the neck and wrist by a traffic patrolmen as he fled from the office of a finance office where he had taken $500.

Under questioning Ousley said he boarded the train at it's South Chicago stop, the last before the train enters the main station.

Three Illinois judges, a former Congressman, and a professor of law at the University of Minnesota were among the passengers who lost $1500 in cash, jewelry, and valuables which Ousley took from the train.

He went through several cars to the rear of the train, brandishing a nickel-plated revolver, and swung out onto the side of the car as it approached the Chicago station. He jumped from the last car as the train slowed down.

Mail Chief Seeks Higher Mail Rates

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson today called on Congress to raise mail rates so the postal service can "pay its own way."

In his first major policy speech since becoming a cabinet officer, Donaldson told the New York Postal Supervisors Association at its annual dinner that the postal service "should be placed on as firm a business basis as humanly possible."

The former letter carrier and first man to become chief of the mails said it is the duty of Congress and not the Post Office Department to decide "whether the postal establishment should be operated as a service institution without regard to a profit motive or whether it should be made to pay its own way."

Dietrich Gives Word on Legs

United Press Staff Correspondent
By Patricia Clary

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Marlene Dietrich, who owns two of the world's lovliest legs, believes they got that way because her mother made her wear high shoes lacing halfway to her knees until she was 18.

Modern mothers, she said, are ruining their daughters' legs by letting them wear low-cut shoes without heels.

"Many girls in Germany used to wear high shoes until they were 12, but my mother made me wear them until I married," Miss Dietrich said. "I am convinced they were responsible for shaping my legs."

"The shoes girls wear these days make their ankles and feet, as well as their legs, completely shapeless. They all grow up to look like pianos."

Lack Proper Display

The American women who do have beautiful legs, Miss Dietrich added, don't know how to display them.

"They should study their walk and posture," she recommended. "I've noticed that many women let their toes point out. Its surprising how much it helps the legs to walk with the feet pointed straight ahead."

Miss Dietrich said her mother didn't prescribe the high shoes in any attempt to beautify her legs.

"I had extremely weak ankles," he said. "My mother thought the shoes would straighten them."

She took the shoes off when she was 18, and she still had weak ankles. So much for that.

Miss Dietrich is currently displaying her legs as a night club entertainer in Paramount's "A Foreign Affair." They are encased in silk stockings.

"There are many beautiful stockings made in America," she said. "I happen to prefer silk simply because nylon wrinkles around my knees."

Panama Evacuation Nearly Completed

(SEA) — U. S. armed forces —both Army and Navy—have completed evacuation and closing out of twelves of fourteen defense locations in the Republic of Panama, acording to the Department of the Army.

The twelve stations, mostly radar, communications and aeriel navigation installations, reverted to Panama on 16 January 1948, and the National Assembly of that country rejected a proposed defense site agreement which would allow U. S. installations to continue to function.

The two remaining sites, San Jose island and Rio Hato Air Base, are now being evacuated, and will be turned over to Panama soon. now resting here, awaiting return to their home island of Malana.

He turned around and raced back to his office.

Battle Leader With Survey Board

Much has been written about the battles of the Pacific islands, but the memory of most of these battles remains only in the hearts of the officers and men who fought them.

One such battle, the invasion of Tarawa, remains forever etched in the memory of Col. David M. Shoup, USMC, who went ashore in command of the assault combat group on Betio and later took charge of numerous landing teams and other units that were thrown into the battle.

Col. Shoup is currently on Guam with the chief of Naval operations on-site survey board making an inspection of the installations of the Island.

For his part in the battle of Tarawa, Col. Shoup was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. He said, "it was a privilege to wear this medal of honor of those who gave their lives in order that success at Tarawa might be had. This victory was the announcement to the American people and the world, that the present generation of young Americans were capable of overcoming the greatest of obstacles and that final victory was only a matter of an opportunity to close with the enemy."

Robert Sherrod, famous war correspondent for Time magazine, who waded in water up to his neck in keeping up with the Marines in making their landing, said of Col. Shoup, "I did not know it was possible for a man to be so brave, to be so calm in shouting commands at his Marines at a time when Japanese machine-gun bullets were hitting almost close enough to kick up dust at his shoes."

Concerning his views on world peace, Col. Shoup said, "it appears to me to be a sad commentary on so-called civilized progress that we have not yet reached the state where it will not be necessary to kill millions of men and women in war. This is a challenge to all of us. We must do something."

A farmer had a square plot of land. He also had four sons who were to share equally in the land. But just before he died, the farmer sold one fourth of the land to a neighbor. His will stipulated that each of his sons was to receive a piece of land in exactly the same size and shape. How was this land divided?

Navy Supersonic Ram Jet Tested

The largest supersonic ram jet engine ever flown attained a speed far into the supersonic range in its first test flight at the Naval Ordnance Test Station, Inyokern, Calaf., Rear Adm. A. G. Noble, USN, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, announced recently.

Pound for pound of engine weight, this large ram jet, popularly known as the "flying stovepipe," delivered about 25 times the power available from the best aircraft reciprocating engines. By comparison, the power developed by this simple engine was considerably in excess of the combined horsepower of the largest four-engine planes.

The ram jet, a duct open at both ends and with no moving parts, was developed by the applied physics laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, Silver Spring, Maryland, and a group of associated universities and industrial organizations, as the propulsion unit for a guided missile program sponsored by the Navy Bureau of Ordnance.

Dogs 'Noseprinted' For Identification

GALVESTON, Tex. —(UP)— Something new in identification data has been added at the Galveston police headquarters—a dog's "nose print."

Miss Dora Mace asked police to noseprint her pedigreed cocker spaniel after three attempts were made to steal the pet. A finger-print card at the local police station bears the following description.

"Blond and white, male with long ears, about 28 inches high and weighs about 30 pounds, name of "Crackers."

Charles E. Bock, police identification expert, explained that dog's noses have a definite pattern much like the arrangement of lines and whorls on human fingers.

Owners of a cactus garden at Edinburg, Tex., scrub the cactus with toothbrushes and toilet soap when the plants become dirty.

Arms, Supplies Reach Greece

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 31 —(UP) Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay, chief of the United States military mission in Greece, said today that 50 shiploads of American arms and supplies had arrived at Greek ports and that the national army now is equipped for a successful offensive against the guerrillas.

The national army, as now equipped, "is superior in every respect" to the rebel forces, Livesay said.

"It will, of course, be even better equipped when all the supplies we have ordered arrive," he added.

Home Fire Safety Rules Listed

Here are a few important rules to remember after a fire has occurred and you are involved:

1. Don't take any chances with fire, because even a little one can get out of control before you get your startled wits together.

2. If you are in a room where a fire starts, get out quickly; shut the door to confine the blaze to that one room as long as possible—and "CALL THE FIRE DEPARTMENT IMMEDIATELY." Too many people forget that "The first five minutes at a fire are worth the next five hours," and the firemen are not informed until it is too late for them to do anything except "to save the lot."

3. Make sure that all persons in the house are aware that a fire has been discovered. If it is the house next door, awaken everyone within shouting distance, call the Fire Department, and then decide what is the best thing to do to protect yourself, your family and your possessions. But take it easy—don't rip out stoves, ice-boxes and other appliances which may be connected to tanks, pipe lines or electrical outlets. You may create a condition which may cause another fire.

No building is any more fireproof than its contents. Clutter up a properly constructed reinforced concrete structure with highly inflammable or ordinary combustible materials, and have a careless employe wander about smoking or making amateur repairs to electrical equipment within the structure and 40 percent of the fires will be accounted for, whether the structure is fireproof or not. The word "fireproof" is a misnomer—"fire resisting" is a truer expression.

Guam BSA, Plans Fund Campaign

SINAJANA—At a committee meeting last Wednesday ,Frank D. Perez, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Guam Council, Boy Scouts of America announced that his committee is completing plans for a fund-raising campaign.

The committee agreed upon a long-ranged sustaining membership campaign which pledges the donors that they will not be approached for a three-year period for the same purpose. Funds sought in this coming campaign will include additional funds necessary for the 1948 budget, a tentative amount for the 1949 and 1950 budgets, capital funds to cover erection of a permanent Boy Scout camp on Guam, and purchase of other properties and equipment for the scout office.

"In the matter of financing of a local council of scouts, it should be recognized," Mr. Perez said, "that it is the responsibility of the whole community within a local council territory to help finance the program which benefits not only the boys themselves, but all who come into contact with them. If a scout program is well administered, the general benefits to the community at large become evident. This everyone on the Island of Guam, whether he or she be Guamanian or from the United States, has a stake in the future of the Island. This future rests squarely on the youth of the Island. However, if the youth are forgotten in the free spending of money for personal desires, then the future of the youth is indeed a dark one."

The Finance Committee of the council is composed of Frank D. Perez, chairman; Charles J. Elliott, Jesus Barcinas, Judge Manibusan, and James B. Butler, with Monsignor O. L. Calvo, the council president and Gene Krapf, scout executive as advisors.

Greece, Turkey to Get U.S. Vessels

As authorized by Public Law 75 of the 80th Congress, certain vessels are being made available to Greece and Turkey.

Six motor gunboats were delivered to their Greek crews at Norfolk, Virginia during November.

The transfer of the following vessels to the Turkish Navy will be completed some time in April: one gasoline tanker, one repair vessel, eight motor minesweepers, one net laying vessel, and four submarines. All vessels except the submarines, will be delivered to Turkish crews at the United States yards preparing them.

The submarines, all of the fleet type, will be delivered by United States crews to a Turkish port.

Meanwhile, approximately 350 officers and men of the Turkish Navy are in the United States now or will arrive shortly for training preparatory to accepting delivery of these vessels.

New 7 1/2 Cent Coin

SAN DIEGO, Cal. —(UP)— A Nickel isn't enough and a dime is too much for a bottle of pop.

So a beverage company asked recently that new coins worth 7 and one-half and 12 and one-half cents be coined. That, it said, would be the right price and would fit in the mechanical beverage dispensers.

Edwin W. Mehren, president of the South Beverage Co. of Beverly Hills, said pop companies couldn't make profit on a nickel drink any more because the nickel was only worth three cents. He told the California Manufacturers of Carbonated Beverages yesterday that a coin that was more than a nickel and less than a dime would help the industry and other businesses.

'Git-Gat-Gittle' Man Crashes London

LONDON —(UP)— Hollywood comedian Danny Kaye took his place alongside the American musical comedies "Oklahoma!" and "Annie Get Your Gun" as one of the outstanding successes of the London theater season.

The city's usually hard-boiled critics and a capacity audience of 2,500 at the Palladium were equally enthusiastic about the antics of the "git-gat-gittle" singer.

After the show, a mob of autograph hounds kept Kaye busy signing his name until well after midnight—an hour when the London theater district is usually as dark and deserted as a tomb.

The Daily Express reported Kaye's debut on page one, saying that the "only really satisfying idiot in show business" had enjoyed the "greatest success in 30 years."

MARBO — A preliminary report made by the MarBo base command indicated that more than $2,000 has already been reported for the March of Dimes campaign.

Meanwhile, the seven-man Naval aerological unit stationed on Ulithi contributed $1?75 to the March of Dimes campaign.

Over The Joepot

by Bill Jury

On the sports page of the "Constructionaire," Brown-Pacific-Maxon's tri-weekly sheet, Bill Lipscomb is quoted as saying that his BPM cagers will add "two more scalps" to their string of two victories when they play the VR-6 Zoomies and the Guam All-Stars in the near future. Here! Here! That's strong tobacco you've got there, Mr. Lipscomb.

Just for the record. . .The construction outfit squeezed past Saipan 29 to 28 and then dropped Kwajalein 32 to 29. The All-Stars' record was just a mite better . . .Although they didn't didn't run up against Saipan, they trampled Kwaj, 77 to 38 and 84 to 19.

The BPM squad may defeat the All-Stars, but they're going to catch them when they're sound asleep to do it.

Word has gotten around that Japan won't have a team here for the Western Pacific tourney, the latter part of the month. Don't know just why, but that'll be just one less hurdle to get over and the Guam officials aren't bemoaning the fact one bit.

The chief bugaboo is China's team. Ever since it was learned that they were ordering uniforms for players of 6' 6" and 6' 4" proportions the lights over the strategy boards of the All-Star coaches have burned long into the night.

They've tried about everything in the book to combat the storks from the Orient. . . .They switched Lew Arey to forward from his regular center slot; moved towering Dan Davis up to work with Larry Horan to get the height element into the picture and finally switched back to the fast break.

Larry Horan

The combination of Buzzy Squires and Jim Hawkins at forwards, Horan at pivot, and Cy Cassidy and Red Edwards at guards seems to be just what Mentors O'Brien and Douglass have been looting for. Lanky Larry's pivot shots from the center slot are enough to give any team the heeby jeebies and if the opposition gets too concerned with his antics the Squires-Hawkins combo streaks in with the two points. If the defense pulls in then who's going to stop Cassidy and Edwards?

Don't reserve a room at the Royal Hawaiian yet, but things are looking up for Guam's chances in the coming WesPac convention.

Smith, Seidel Clash on Naval Government Courts Tomorrow

Top seeded Lodr. J.D. Smith and third seeded Dr. William Seidel will make their first appearance in the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament tomorrow afternoon on the Naval Government courts.

Smith, whose first round match was postponed because of a scheduled trip to Manila, will meet Maj. Sgt. Arthur Lovering of the 74th Fighter Sqdn. at Northwest Field in a 3:00 match. Smith defeated Captain Albert Kuhlhas in the finals of last year's meet.

Advanced on Default

Seidel, who advanced to the second round on a default, will meet another Army sergeant, Oliver Townsend at 4:00. Major Andy Layman, seeded fourth, will meet Charles Egan in his second match of the tourney. He defeated George Slusser in Sunday's first battle.

One of the best matches of the affair so far seems to be in the offing when David Warfield and Mauricio Madrigal meet at 2:00 tomorrow. Warfield looked impressive in beating James Manning on Saturday, and Madrigal was nearly mechanically perfect as he disposed of Lt. Vernon Brown Sunday afternoon.

Schedule for tomorrow's matches:

1400: Lyman vs. Egan
Warfield vs. Madrigal
1500: Smith vs. Lovering
Hanson vs. Parker
1600: Seidel vs. Townsend

Canadian Sextet Captures Hockey Title With 3 to 0 Win Over Swiss

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Canada defeated Switzerland today, and that automatically gave Sweden the unofficial team championship in the fifth winter games.

But as the Olympic flame died and the five-ringed flag came down signaling the end of history's most turbulent international games, the loudest cheers were for a young American Army lieutenant who led his team in last in an unofficial military ski patrol race.

Lt. Donald Welhs of Sherman, Tex., tramped the last six miles amid blinding snow with a broken ski in the 29-kilometer (17.5 miles) march to bring his U. S. team in eighth in the eight-team competition.

It was Canada's win over Switzerland and the 4 to 3 triumph Czechoslovakia scored over the United States that enabled Sweden to clinch team championship today.

As the day's last program got under way, second-place Switzerland's only hope of winning the team title was a hockey tournament victory—and that would have required both Canada and Czechoslovakia to lose.

Britain defeated Italy, 14 to 9, and Sweden downed Poland, 13 to 2, in the other hockey games which concluded the 10-day winter games.

Czechoslovakia scored over the lashed the team standings in the hockey tournament in a tie, both undefeated and tied once. But Canada took the title on the basis of a goal average: the Canadians scored 69 goals and yielded of five, while the Czechs scored 80 but conceded 18.

Washington State Jumps Into PCC Cage Lead

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9 —(UP) Washington State took command of one of the most jumbled Pacific Coast Conference basketball races in history today, hitting the Northern Division backstretch with a virtually clear track ahead.

As Washington and Oregon State blasted themselves out of competition, the darkhorse Cougars squeezed into first place in the turbulent northern pennant chase via the backdoor route—without scoring a point.

And they get a golden opportunity to fatten their margin Tuesday night against the last place Idaho Vandals.

While Washington State was idle over the weekend, Washington handed a surprising double licking to USC, knocking the defending coast champs down into second place and automatically elevating Washington State to first.

On the previous weekend it was just the opposite, with Oregon State handing the Huskies a double shellacking.

Another weekend double bill in the North saw Oregon and Idaho split their battle for the cellar championship. Oregon won, 64-46, Friday night, but lost to the last-place Vandals, 55-52, on Saturday.

The Southern Division quintets, who resume conference competition this week after a three-week layoff, fared well over the weekend.

The University of Southern California won twice, defeating Santa Clara, 54-52, on Friday and downing University of San Francisco, 52-43, on Saturday. University of California broke a long-standing jinx Saturday night by defeating the Oakland Bittners (ABL), 77-56.

Louis in Exhibition

BALTIMORE, Feb. 9 —(UP)— Leo Matriccianni, shifty Baltimore heavyweight, said today he would try to baffle Joe Louis with fast, elusive tactics tomorrow night in their four-round exhibition at the Coliseum.

A sell-out crowd of approximately 5,000 was expected to watch the 210-pound Italian square off against the champion in Louis' last ring appearance before he sails for England on Feb. 19. Louis will scale about 223.

Snead Equals Record to Take Texas Open Title

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 9 —(UP)— Slammin' Sammy Snead, the Hot Springs, Va., hillbilly whose game was as hot as the day was cold, staved off a desperate threat from Texas-born Jimmy Demaret to cop the Texas Open Golf Tournament title with a record-equalling 284 today.

Snead, who said his putter was working the "best in two years," put together rounds of 65-68—133 today to go with his 131 of the first two rounds for the $2,000 top money in the $10,000 event. It boosted his earnings for the year to $3,527.50.

Snead was two strokes up on Demaret, the Texas-born pro who now registers from Ojai, Calif., and who finished second to Ed Oliver with a similar 286 last year.

Diminutive Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kan., was third at 289, and Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist, fourth with 271.

Par Vulnerable

So vulnerable was par on the muddy and wet Brackenridge Park course that a score of 281—four under par for 72 holes—was good only for 20th place in the money, $100, which was split four ways.

Demaret got $1,400 for his efforts, Metz $1,000 and Middlecoff $800.

A major disappointment was Bobby Locke, the pre-tournament favorite from Johannesburg, South Africa, who wound up with John Palmer of Baden, N. C., in a tie for fifth place at 273. Each won $650.

R. E. McCreary of Houston, Tex., was the low amateur for the 72 holes with a 282, two under par.

Chicago Stags Triumph

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 —(UP)— The Chicago Stags overcame a 31-17 halftime deficit to defeat the Philadelphia Warriors, 80-74, in a thrilling two overtime game at the Stadium today.

It was the 18th victory of the season for the Stags and moved them into second place in the Western Division of the Basketball Association of America.

Wheelchair Vets Play Revised Cage Game

RICHMOND, Va., —(UP)— A red-shirted team that takes its basketball sitting down has elevated the cage game to a new sporting high.

And these war-wise Charioteers from the paraplegic ward at McGuire Veterans Hospital here are proving to the customers—and opponents—that theirs is no armchair outfit.

A varsity spot on the McGuire five calls for a game-wise athlete with an educated arm and an eye for the goal. Legs don't count for a thing.

Wheelchair basketball was introduced by a Navy doctor, Commander Gerald Gray, who made sure that the young athletes who failed to walk away from the war could still play the game. Birmingham General Hospital at Van Nuys, Cal., started the ball rolling and the word soon got to energetic Bill Prickett at McGuire's.

Prickett is a 24-year-old ex-Army sergeant who lost the use of his legs in a glider crash at Dayton, O., during the war. He now blows the whistle and the vets roll up for instruction.

The Charioteers, coached by Clair Kaltreider, a member of the hospital corrective therapy staff, play to win. Take a look at the record—two games played, two games won. They walloped their more able-bodied colleagues at McGuire 30 to 8 and handed the same treatment to a team from nearby Hopewell, 22 to 10.

The rules have been revised slightly but the rugged spirit of the game remains uncharged. A week before a scrimmage is slated, wheelchairs are sent to the Charioteers' opponent for practice purposes.

The 10-second rule is not observed and the player is permitted to put the ball in his lap, take two forward pumps in his wheelchair and then coast with the ball as far as the chair will roll. No more pushing. After two, the player must pass or dribble.

It takes a sharp-eyed referee to keep pace. Fouls are called when players hold, push or deliberately ram another player's chair. Able-bodied players who use their feet lose possession of the ball.

Free throws are made with the back of the player's chair on the foul line. Only three players from each team are permitted in the area under the basket at any time. But still the going gets rough and the Charioteers like it that way. They have learned to fall without hurting themselves.

Last night on the ComMar court, the Guam All Stars basketball team whipped an outclassed 22nd Station Hospital quintet, 81 to 16. The All Stars led all the way with the halftime score 41 to 8.

Frank A. Klaus Dies of Heart Attack at 61

BRADDOCK, Pa., Feb. 9 —(UP) —Frank A. Klaus, ex-middleweight died today at his home here. He was 61.

A heart attack took the life of the rugged fighter, who was defeated only twice in his nine year ring career. He was stricken early this morning and died shortly before noon.

Klaus was one of the leading middleweights when Champion Stanislaus Kackiel was killed in 1910. Several claimants to the crown appeared and the most generally recognized was Billy Papke. Klaus finally earned universal recognition by beating Papke on a foul in a 15-round bout at Paris, March 5, 1913. He lost the title when he was knocked out on Dec. 23, 1913 by George Chip in Pittsburgh in eleven rounds.

Quijano Knocks Out Sheridan in Fifth

An overflow crowd of some 4,000 saw the fight in the new Juarez Municipal Auditorium.

The bout was scheduled as a 10-round main event.

Nation Hit by Acute Shortage of Fuel Oil

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 —(UP)— A fuel oil shortage covered the nation from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic seaboard today, and Secretary of the Interior J.A. Krug warned that fuel oil shortages may become "even more wide-spread and severe."

Sub-zero temperatures were recorded in most states in the northern half of the country. The mercury rose slightly during the day, but the weatherman said it would drop below zero again tonight in Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, central and northern Michigan and the New England states.

"No significant change is in prospect for the immediate future," he said.

Distress Calls

Krug, testifying before the House Public Lands Committee, cited countless distress calls his department had received from fuel-short communities in recent weeks and warned:

"If further abnormally cold weather arrives—and the winter is far from over—these shortages may become even more widespread and severe."

Krug told the group that he will submit to Congress details of his proposal for a $9,000,000,000 synthetic fuel program to supplement existing supplies of fuel oil, lubricants and gasoline.

Rain fell from the Canadian border to northern California today in the wake of a storm off the coast of the Pacific Northwest in which at least 10 persons were killed.

The storm developed a bubble of warm air across the Rockies, but the weatherman said it probably would not retain its strength long enough to have any "appreciable" effect in the midwest and eastern regions.

Livestock Prices Plunge in Sharp Break

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 —(UP)— Prices of pork and beef on-the-hoof plunged today in the sharpest livestock price break in 16 months, but grains staged a strong rally to check their four-day price slump.

All corn for future delivery rose the full eight-cent limit permitted in a day's trading on the Chicago board of trade. Wheat was up as much as eight cents a bushel. The New York market was irregular.

Unusually Heavy

Market analysts attributed the speedive in livestock prices to last week's drop in grain prices. Farm-to-market shipments of livestock were unusually heavy today. The analysts said farmers apparently became jittery over last week's drop in grain prices and wanted to sell their animals before prices dropped further.

At Chicago's Union Stockyards, hog prices dropped $2.50 to $3.50 per hundred pounds. Sows sold $3 to $4 lower.

Economists, traders and food retailers disagreed on whether the price changes would mean a general drop in food prices. However, a survey showed that grocers and butchers in many cities cut prices today on meat, flour, bread and lard. Flour went down 10 per cent in some cities and lard as much as 20 per cent.

Congress Asked to Continue Controls On Certain Imports

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 —(UP)— President Truman today asked Congress to continue controls over fats and oils, rice, tin, antimony, cinchona bark, quinine, quinidine and nitrogen fertilizers to prevent "confusion at home and abroad."

He said in a special message that failure to extend the controls beyond their Feb. 29 expiration date would endanger this country's ability to obtain tin supplies and might "seriously hamper the attainment of United States foreign policy objectives."

The President noted, however, that power to control exports and transportation already have been granted in the GOP anti-inflation law.

He said he had asked for power to control the import and use of the commodities as part of his broader 10-point anti-inflation program, most of which has so far been cold-shouldered by Congress.

"It appears unlikely that a decision will be reached by Feb. 29 on the broader aspects of this program," he said. "In the meantime these limited controls over a few vital commodities, which are essential to the protection of our domestic economy and the carrying out of our international responsibilities, must not be permitted to lapse by default."

World War Dead Sail For Home

MARBO — The return of World War II dead to their kin in the United States from the Far East Command will begin February 26, when the bodies of about 2,000 American soldiers, sailors, airmen, marines and merchant marines who fell in battle in the Marianas-Bonins islands leave Tanapag Harbor, Saipan, for San Francisco aboard the Army Transport Walter Schwenek.

About 3,000 including many who met death at Pearl Harbor, arrived in San Francisco from Honolulu last October—the first to be returned to the U. S. from the Pacific area.

Most of those to be returned have been moved from military cemeteries in remote Pacific islands and brought to Saipan. The next large shipment of war dead is expected from Saipan this April, when more than 4,400 bodies are expected to be brought home.

About 84,000 Americans are buried in cemeteries on various Pacific islands, in Japan and Korea. The shipment of war dead is expected to continue into 1949, when many buried in military cemeteries in Yokohama-prisoners of war and Air Force members who were killed over Japan—will be returned.

Those bodies not requested to be returned to the States will be reburied in three large cemeteries at Guam, Manila and Hawaii. Original burials were in 31 far flung cemeteries close to the battle sites where the men fell.

Prisoners Take Control Of Italian Prison

PALERMO, Italy, Feb. 10 —(UP) —Two hundred hardened criminals revolted in Sicily's Caltanisetta prison today, overpowering guards and seizing control of the prison where they were beseiged tonight by a cordon of troops and federal police, authorities announced.

The riot began when guards attempted to remove a prisoner identified only as Misanderolino, believed to be a member of the notorious bandit gang led by Salvatore Gulliano, for deportation to the island to Elba, where Napoleon was once imprisoned.

Misanderolino yelled for help, and other prisoners kicked in the flimsy wooden doors of their cells and swarmed into the corridors. Guards were able to telephone a call for help to the local prefecture.

Hundreds of local police, Carabinieri (federal police) and troops rushed to the prison but found the doors barred against them. They opened fire on the buildings with small arms, but there was no return fire.

Police announced that they would storm the prison during the night, and wives, sisters and sweethearts immediately began a protest demonstration outside police lines.

Armed Forces to Enforce Palestine Partition

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 10 —(UP)— The United Nations Palestine commission agreed today to ask the United Nations Security Council for "armed forces" to enforce the partition of Palestine, it was disclosed tonight.

The commission wrote the forthright request into a special report on security problems in the Holy Land.

Agreement on the request for "armed forces" ended a brief controversy over how the security problem should be laid before the council.

Commission Chairman Karel Lisicky of Czechoslovakia and Per Federspiel of Denmark originally opposed specific mention of an international force.

The other three commission members, however, insisted that the report ask "armed forces" to combat Arabs who have threatened war to prevent partition of Palestine. Federspiel and Lisicky then went along with the majority.

The agreement considerably strengthened the Palestine commission's report, but final decision on action still will be up to the Security Council, the 11-member agency which has power to order economic or military sanctions.

The Palestine report was expected to ignore the question of where the requested troops could be obtained. Nobody has offered a good answer to that problem.

Most nations look to the United States and Russia to furnish any requested manpower. The United States is balking at any such prospect, and Russia is remaining silent.

Russia Charges Allies Made World War II Possible

MOSCOW, Feb. 10 —(UP)— Russia in its first reply to the secret Russian-German diplomatic documents made public by the U. S. State Department, charged tonight that the United States, Great Britain and France made World War II possible by financing Adolf Hitler's war industry and appeasing Germany.

The Soviet Information Bureau issued the reply in a 6,000 word statement entitled "Falsifiers of History and Historical Notes." The reply was marked "more to follow."

Russia complained that the State Department published only documents giving the German side of the picture.

Then going on to attack prewar policies of the present big three western allies, the Russian reply said they had aided German imperialism in preparing for World War II.

"What would have happened if the United States had not financed German heavy industry and Britain and France had not rejected collective security but on the other hand had organized resistance to the German aggressors?" the reply asked.

"The result would have been that the Hitlerites would have lacked armaments, the Hitlerite annexation policy would have been caught against collective security and the Hitlerite chances of unleashing a second World War would have been reduced to a minimum."

Economic Group Approves Truman Grain Request

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 —(UP)— The joint congressional economic committee today approved unanimously President Truman's request for authority to allocate scarce grains to the nation's distillers.

The committee did not recommend a specific program. It simply approved the controls in principle and left the actual legislative details to the Senate and House banking committees which are expected to start work next week.

Mr. Truman asked for authority to limit distillers to a total of 2,500,000 bushels of grain a month until the 1948 corn harvest is in at the end of October. He argued that the grains must be diverted from whiskey-making to provide food for foreign relief.

His temporary allocation power expired Jan. 31. The Senate voted a 30-day extension pending study of more permanent legislation, but the extension resolution was pigeonholed by the House banking committee.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.), chairman of the joint committee, said the vote was an endorsement "in principle" of President Truman's request and that it would be up to the banking committees to fix the allocation ceilings and other details.

Congress to Investigate Speculation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(UP)—Congress started a hunt today to find out if speculators with "inside information" had cleaned up in last week's falling grain markets.

Chairman August H. Andersen, (R—Minn.) announced that his special house committee on commodity speculation will make "full inquiry" into the market break and expose anyone who may have profited by speculation on the government's food buying plan.

He said Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson will be asked to explain his reported statement that word of the Agriculture Department's decision to cut its grain export buying leaked out in advance of last Thursday's official announcement.

Anderson said the "leak" led a lot of "insiders" to sell short and get out of the tumbling markets with a big profit.

Anderson, told by reporters about Anderson's statement said there never had been any leak, that the information contained in the department's export report Thursday already was well known to the commodity traders.

Japanese Cabinet Expected to Resign

TOKYO, Feb. 10 —(UP)— Premier Tetsu Katayama today was expected to inform Emperor Hirohito that Japan's Socialist dominated cabinet had resigned in the face of conservative criticism.

Katayama, leader of the Social Democratic Party and the country's first Christian prime minister, was scheduled to visit the Emperor after a special cabinet meeting to be held this morning.

The decision to surrender the leadership of the government to the conservative elements in the Diet was formally made at an emergency meeting yesterday.

The present cabinet—a coalition of the Liberal Social Democrats and the Conservative liberals and Democrats—has been severely criticized by Conservative Diet members. The basis of the criticism lay in its failure to halt inflation. The immediate cause of the cabinet crisis involved Katayama's proposed program to balance the budget with increased revenues from rail and postal rates.

Truman to Make Tour Of Caribbean Area

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 —(UP)— President Truman will leave Feb. 20 for an air-sea tour of American possessions in the Caribbean and Azores Press Secretary Charles G. Ross announced today.

He said Mr. Truman plans to spend about five days in the Caribbean and perhaps 10 days at Key West returning to the capitol no later than March 5.

The President also has decided tentatively on a short trip to his native state to speak at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., during the school's annual journalism week in May.

Mr. Truman will travel by plane on his Caribbean junket, taking in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Cuba before settling down for the vacation at the Boca Chica Naval air base at Key West.

Mine Strikes To be Treated As Violations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 —(UP)— The Southern Coal Producers association served notice tonight that they will treat "wildcat strikes" by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers as violations of their contract.

Joseph Moody, association president, said the southern mine owners had voted to "insist" that Lewis abide by the present contract which provides for settlement of all grievances through collective bargaining with his men staying on the job.

"We will insist on the return of the men to work and recognition on the part of the union of the grievance procedures outlined in the contract," Moody said.

"If the union refuses to recognize these procedures, then our members will immediately appeal to the National Labor Relations Board for relief under the Taft-Hartley Law."

The Southern Producers represent about one-third of the soft coal industry. Their announcement answered Lewis' threat that he intends to enforce—"with independent action"—his demand for $100 a month pensions for his miners.

South Threatens to Block Truman Election

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 —(UP)— The revolt of Southern Democrats flared anew today, with threats to block the election of President Truman coming soon after a White House denial that he might placate the rebels by modifying his civil rights program.

The threat was raised in a long and virulent speech by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.). He called the President's anti-discrimination program "racial demogoguery" like that of the "carpetbaggers" of Civil War days.

Eastland proposed a formula by which he said the southern states could dictate the Democratic presidential nominee or even elect its own candidate. This could be done, he asserted, by withholding the South's electoral votes.

A high Senate source close to the President might make a new statement reiterating his call for anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and fair employment legislation, but dropping his request for anti-Jim Crow laws for interstate transportation.

Communists Attempt To Control Romania

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 10 —(UP)— Romanian Communists have opened a campaign to take a complete grip on political power by discarding the present coalition bloc in favor of a "democratic people's front," dispatches from Bucharest said today.

The Communist move came after the ouster of King Michael and the proclamation of a Romanian "people's republic."

It came only one week, also, after the announcement by Premier Georgi Dimitrov of Communist-dominated Bulgaria that the coalition in that country would be dissolved in favor of a single "united" political organization.

Consolidation of complete power in Romania and Bulgaria will leave only Poland and Hungary with any vestige of formal political opposition in eastern Europe.

The campaign to concentrate power in Romania came immediately after the return of a delegation which went to Moscow to negotiate a Russo-Romanian mutual defense treaty.

Army Advocates Ground Control

HARMON FIELD—In discussing the advantages of air spray of DDT by Harmon Field operations, the medical authorities are of the opinion that an extensive ground program would be more effective in combatting insects.

Inasmuch as the type aircraft used are too large to approach close to the ground and also the fact that the chemicals used have a tendency to touch surfaces only, larger areas which should receive special attention are barely touched, while others receive more than their share of DDT.

However, medics pointed out, that since partial coverage by air at the frequency at which it occurs is definitely beneficial.

The February meeting of the executive board of the Guam Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held in the office of the Governor at ComMar Headquarters at 1000 Saturday, February 14, 1948.

Annual World Day of Prayer

AGANA—The annual World Day of Prayer is held each year on February 13 the first Friday in Lent. It is sponsored by the United Council of Church Women and is interdenominational and inter-racial. In 1946 there were fifty-one nations observing and last year there were more.

The dawn of the World Day of Prayer breaks over the Fiji Islands at the edge of the International Date line. The Christians of the Fijis (80 per cent of the islanders) lift up the first paeans of praise and thanksgiving as the world community meets on this day at the altar of God. For hour on hour the songs of prayer and praise will rise on continent and island. Together in one-thousand and sixty-eight languages and dialects they proclaim the reign of God. And when the strains of prayer and praise die away on the St. Lawrence island in the cold Arctic and in the Tonga Islands where the Christian queen Salote leads the kneeling hosts, universal prayer will have encircled the world.

Piti School Wins "E" Award

The "Governor's E School Pennant" was awarded to Piti School in January. This award was made for showing the greatest improvement among all the schools of Guam in beautification and neatness, and in health and sanitation standards for the preceding month. In awarding the pennant, Governor C. A. Pownall commented as follows:

"On behalf of the Department of Public Health, the Department of Education and the Government of Guam, I congratulate you on your achievement. We trust that you will continue in your leadership for the improvement in health and sanitation on our Island of Guam."

The Yigo School and the Asan School were awarded certificates of merit for tying for second place in the contest as being second only to Piti in the gain made in beautification, neatness, and health and sanitation.

The Department of Education and the Department of Public Health announced that changes are being made in the rules and procedures for selecting the winner of the "Governor's E School Pennant" for the period ending the last of February. The major changes are as follows:

1. The contest winner will be the one with the highest level of attainment rather than the one who has made the greatest improvement since the last contest.

2. The point system used will be modified so that 50 per cent of the points will be awarded for items related to methods of instruction and general efficiency of the school. These last items will be judged by staff members of the Department of Education during visits which they will make throughout the month.

The remaining 50 per cent will include 40 points based on health and sanitation and 10 points for gardening projects.

Harmon Rodent Control Continues

HARMON FIELD—1st Lt. Charles E. Brown, of the Harmon Field Utilities office and Harmon Field Rodent Control officer, states that the rodent control program at Harmon Field will continue in the same manner as of the past. Pointing out that rodent control is a perpetual function in the war against animal pests, Brown mentioned several ways everyone may help exterminate harmful rodents.

Rodent control methods used at Harmon Field to great advantage are: spraying under buildings; keeping garbage cans clean and covered; using of traps; poison; tree guards; and the moving of supplies and equipment to prevent rodent nesting.

NATS Completes Year With no Passenger Fatalities

WASHINGTON — The Naval Air Transport Service flew more than 320,000 passengers a total of almost 500,000,000 passenger miles during 1947 with no passenger fatalities, according to an operational summary released by Rear Admiral J. W. Reeves, Jr., USN, commander of NATS.

Route 75 Per Cent Outside U. S.

Approximately 75 per cent of the route miles flown by NATS lie outside the continental limits of the United States, and are flown in support of deployed fleet units and shore establishments.

Although figures included in the operational survey cover only scheduled flights, the Naval Air Transport Service had no passenger fatalities throughout the system during the year. Approximately 90 per cent of all transport flying done by NATS is scheduled flying, while the other 10 per cent is carried on as special missions, training, and test flights.

It's Leap Year Girls; Here Are a Few Tested Hints

by Aline Mosby
United Press Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Leap year for Jacqueline Dalya is just another 366 days. With the rest of womankind taking tentative pokes at the telephone dial to ring up the boy of its choice, Miss Dalya just yawns.

She's been doing the dating for years.

Jacqueline Daya says, "that every year is Leap year. Why wait till '48?"

While other females waited in '47 for a man to do such an old-fashioned thing as ask 'em for a date, Jackie was on the horn filling her engagement book.

It paid off, too. You don't see Miss D's moniker in lights. She's not a big-name star. But it's in all the gossip columns. She gets to the right places with the right guys.

Miss Dalya has, of course, plenty of equipment for operating this philosophy:

(1) A little black book with the phone numbers, private, of the handsomest bachelors in town—Richard Ney, Jimmy Stewart, etc.

(2) A face and chassis that would make an elephant forget anything.

(3) A hilltop house which she shares with a pooch bigger'n the davenport for scaring off unwelcome wolves.

"If I want to go bike riding do I wait for somebody to call me? No, siree," she gurgled, curling her legs over the arm of a soft red chair.

"I call up the guy. No, don't say guy. Sounds illiterate. How about 'fellow?' No, 'chap.'

"Anyway, I call this chap and we chat and he says, well when am I going to see you. I say let's go bike riding Saturday. See? He had me on his mind, but just didn't get around to phoning."

Please notice Dalya didn't ask the chap for a date. She just gave him the idea.

Same holds true for meeting new men, added raver-haired Jackie.

"When the chap says 'hope to see you again,' most girls murmur they hope so, too. I say, 'fine—come over Friday.' Most men are shy about asking for dates. You have to help 'em along."

She once spied an actor on the street she wanted to know. She walked up and kissed him. This is not recommended for everybody, however.

Dalya had a fine time in her last movie, Warners' "Treasure of Sierra Madre." She was the only woman in the thing.

Her technique got her in pictures in the first place. Other girls waited to be discovered. She charged into Hal Roach's office and announced she wanted to be tested for a lead in his picture. Roach was so confused he gave her the part.

"I don't need an agent," said she. "I went to a New Years eve party and got four jobs, just talking to producers."

The Dalya system also snared her a husband. Ex, now. She'd rather not talk about that.

"What's his name? I've forgotten," I said.

"So have I," said Jackie firmly.

She unfurled a langorous arm and snared the telephone.

"Look. I'll show you," said Dalya, flipping through her little black book.

The first two chaps weren't home. The third was.

"Helloo, Bill," she purred. "Just called to see how you were.... have a nice Christmas..mmm.... Why I'd love to....bye...."

She hung up.

"Stick around," grinned Jackie. "I'm only in the A's. I'll be dated up for the whole week before we hit the G's."

ATC Crew Insures Safety of Baby

HQ. 46TH., FIGHTER. WING, GUAM.—Baby Wrestling, son of Captain and Mrs. Lydon Wrestling, today is an alive, brown eyed citizen of tomorrow.

He is, because,— well, lets go back to September 26, 1947 on Guam.

Weighing three pounds five and three fourths ounces at birth Frank Lydon Wrestling, Jr., is the smallest child born in the annals of the 22nd Station Hospital.

Necessity being the mother of invention and sometimes emergencies, applies to the manner in which little Frank Lyndon was fed. Capt. J. F. Watrous and his assistant Miss Delilih Emory, (1st Lt. ANC), who delivered the baby, speak of a device rigged by hospital personnel which kept this child from aspiration during feeding periods. A medicine dropper with a two inch rubber tube did the trick.

A fortunate coincidence occurred the very day the baby was born in that Captain E. J. Saslow, the hospital pediatrician returned from Tokyo.

As people discussed the event of this birth a few other people were busy. Although their "homemade" device probably could have been satisfactory indefinitely, word got to Colonel Harold L. Krieder, chief of staff of the 46th Fighter Wing that if a "Breck baby feeder" could be procured the ease and efficiency of feeding baby Wrestling would be greatly enhanced and simplified. The colonel knew a friend, Colonel Jim Demarco, in Honolulu, who might procure this "feeder," if notified.

Through the efforts of 1st Lt. Karl J. Swanson who has amateur radio station KG6CH, formerly WHKOE-KG6 at Northwest Air Base, 1st Lt. Thomas H. Miller, a U.S. Marine with ham radio station W5IKD-KH6 near Honolulu was contacted. In turn Col. Krieder's friend there was given the message.

A few hours later, through the splendid cooperation of an air transport command crew, the sought for feeder arrived on Guam with a "good luck" note attached to it from the trans Pacific flight crew. Military policemen delivered the package and it was put to use the next day at noon. Immediate results warranted the praise of all concerned.

The Breck feeder is made with a rubber syringe bulb, a special size nipple and a glass tube showing exact amount of cubic centimeters of the child's formula that is being consumed. This of course permits the proper quantity of food to be taken by the small mouth of the baby.

Now weighing 9 pounds 12 ounces and having as equal a chance of survival as any infant of this size, nothing is considered critical regarding the future growth of baby Wrestling, according to 1st Lt. Melvin L. Thorton, now the baby's doctor.

The Wrestling family live at the Northwest Air Base dependent housing area. Mrs. Wrestling has many friends in Tampa, Florida, where she resided until she joined her husband overseas. The captain is from Taylor, Texas, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wrestling, who reside at 708 Washburn Avenue.

Man is Virtual Living Atom Bomb

MARCUS HOOK, Pa.—(UP)—Each minute of each human being's life about 150,000 radicactive carbon atoms go pop in his body, and these atomic explosions release a total of 12 billion electron volts.

This calculation based on a discovery at the Houdry Process Corporation plant here that cosmic rays produce radioactive carbon, was made recently by Dr. Arlidde V. Grosse of the Houdry company.

The implications are astonishing, not because the 21 billion electron volts is in itself high for radioactivity, but because the occurrence of this charge all through the living body will result in a re-examination of such things as human immunity to radioactivity, the possible effects as a cause of cancer and whether atom bombs are likely to cause serious hereditary changes as some scientists have predicted.

May Confer Immunity

If a man is subject all his life to this carbon radioactivity, it possibly confers more immunity than has been expected, furthermore, the probabilities are that a new and radioactive form of hydrogen, known as tritium, also is manufactured by cosmic rays. Hydrogen also would find its way into the human body.

"This radioactive carbon 14," Dr. Grosse said, "is the first substance found to be created by cosmic rays. I do not think it is the last."

The carbon is created by transmission of nitrogen in the air. Plants draw in some of it in the chemical photosynthesis process of using sunlight. More falls to the earth to be picked up by plants, and thence to animals that eat the plants and to man who eats both.

Created 5,000 Years Ago

This radioactive carbon has a half-life of 5,000 years, which means that in that length of time, half of what is created on any day reverts to nitrogen by the process of giving off electrons, or beta rays. This half-life means that today there is still more radioactive carbon in man than was created 5,000 years ago.

The discovery of the carbon, announced in the Journal of Science May 30, 1947 was the work of six scientists Drs. W. F. Libby and E. C. Anderson of the University of Chicago and Drs. Grosse, S. Weinhouse, A. F. Reid and A. D. Kirshenbaum, all of the Houdry company.

Years ago, Dr. Grosse predicted that cosmic rays produced radioactive atoms. Dr. Libby more recently predicted the radioactive carbon and how much. Investigation of methane gas from Baltimore sewage showed that Libby's prediction hit the amount right on the nose.

Now it is proposed to analyze the stratosphere in planes to verify predictions that more is produced there than lower down.

A greater production also is expected to be found in polar regions because cosmic rays tend to concentrate there. The Chicago scientists are studying the meat of some seals brought back by the Navy's Byrd expedition to the Antarctic to learn whether polar animals contain more of the popping carbon.

The amount of radioactive carbon in the human body, Dr. Grosse said, is less than a millionth of 1 per cent of the total carbon.

He said the unanswered question whether this small amount of carbon may influence cancer may now be answered by taking the same kind of radioactive carbon that is made by atomic piles and feeding it to animals.

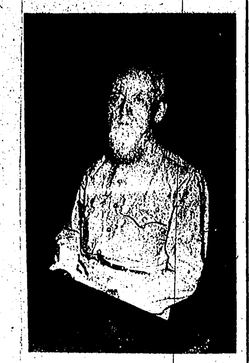
Man Collects Funeral Literature

NEW ORLEANS —(UP)— There's nothing like "funeral literature" to keep a man posted on the lives of other men, great and small.

At least, that's the idea of a New Orleans man, William C. Ehlers, who in 30 years has collected about 250 books describing the deaths, burials and funeral orations of prominent men. Add to that his collection of numerous newspaper obituaries and you have Ehler's hobby. He "sits up nights" poring over them.

"It's just a matter of taste," he explains, pointing out that he learns "a great deal about the men who helped make our history by reading post-modern biographies and eulogies written by those who knew them best."

He admits that his pastime is helpful in his capacity as a funeral orator for a Spanish-American war veterans camp of which he is commander. He borrows from eulogies of the great and from poems which he also collects, when he conducts a funeral.



E.L. Gay, going on 75 years old, owns the distinction of being the third oldest permanent American resident on Guam. Gay came to Guam on December 19, 1903, as a civil service employe from Illinois. He married the former Miss Ana Taitana and they have 9 children. Eight of their children are presently in the states and one is on the Island. Mr. Gay was taken prisoner by the Japanese during the occupation and was sent to a prison in Japan for 3 years and 8 months. He retired from the civil service in 1934 and now resides in Agana Heights. (GUAM NEWS Photo)

United Nations Invaded by Twenty Women Delegates

LAKE SUCCESS —(UP)— The United Nations sometimes looks like a woman's club meeting. During the latest session more than 20 women officially represented their countries.

In this, as in previous sessions, the queen bees of the UN were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt of the United States and Mrs. Pandit of India, both as skillful in mental fencing as any of their male compatriots.

Never one to sit quietly on the sidelines, Mrs. Roosevelt makes her presence felt in the UN, particularly in the Social Humanitarian and Cultural Committee where she was pitted this year against V. A. Zorin of the Soviet Union in debates on war mongering.

When people praise her agile debating, Mrs. Roosevelt dismisses it by saying, "After all, I've had a great deal of political experience. You must remember that I am 63 years old and that I've made a lot of speeches."

It is essential, as Mrs. Roosevelt points out, that any delegate opposing the Soviet Union on any issue be alert. "If they don't win their point one way, they'll try another. You simply have to be on your toes mentally."

The Russians appreciate Mrs. Roosevelt as a very able opponent. She tells the story of one conversation she had with Andrei Vishinsky, Russia's nimblest speechmaker, at the last General Assembly session.

Admires Fighting Qualities

"I told Mr. Vishinsky that I hoped one day he and I would be on the same side of a dispute because I admired his fighting qualities," she related.

Vishinsky's answer was "And I yours."

Mrs. Pandit, the only woman chief delegate at the UN, had devoted most of her energies at this session to problems of trusteeship. A feeling of drama raced through the General Assembly hall when this slim, dark woman, clad in a flowing gold and white sari, walked to the rostrum to plead eloquently that Southwest Africa be placed under trusteeship.

Mrs. Pandit's position as head of a delegation is unique in another way. She receives her instructions on India's position from her brother, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, head of the Indian government.

Nervous Delegate

Mrs. Gertrude Sekaninova, of Czechoslovakia, the only woman delegate from Eastern Europe, feels at home in the verbal wranglings of the political committee, for she practiced law in Prague before the war. Mrs. Sekaninova's lawyer husband was executed by the Nazis and she was interned for over two years. After her liberation in April, 1945, this intense intelligent woman, still very nervous as a result of her experiences in a concentration camp, was named counselor of the Czech Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Most of the women delegates at the UN are gathered around the oval conference table in the Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Committee.

Glamour gal of the committee is Senora Amalia De Castillo Ledon. Senora Ledon, probably the most important woman in official circles of Mexico, is both a political expert and a playwright.

A sophisticated-looking blonde with gray green eyes, Senora Ledon could win hands down in a contest for the best-dressed woman of the UN.

Mme. Marie Helen Lefaycheux of France, a sparkling, little brunette who had just left for home, is glad that men and women work together at the UN because she feels women are better off when they steer clear of the feminine approach.

There are four former school teachers on th UN Social committee—and not one old maid in the group.

Mrs. Florence Paton of the United Kingdom, a laborite member of Parliament and wife of an MP, was a history and English teacher. During the war she taught children who remained in London during the blitz.

Mrs. Enid Roberts of New Zealand, a pleasant looking white-haired woman, was a school teacher for a number of years and initiated the first adult educational program among the adults of the Maori people of New Zealand.

The other two school teachers in the committee are from the Near East. Mrs. Bdaia Afnan, before she was named alternate representative for the delegation of Iraq, was chief inspector of women's schools in her country. Mrs. Alice Cosma of Syria, who received her B.S. and M.A. degrees from Columbia University, was principal of girls schools in Syria for eight years.

Navy Utilizing Hydro-Plane Invention

WASHINGTON — The Navy will equip several of its newer land-based patrol planes with the recently developed hydro-flap, a planing surface that is swung down beneath the fuselage to serve as a hydroplane ski when making forced landings at sea.

Principal causes of personnel loss during forced landings at sea are structural failure and "submarining" which results when the plane's nose digs into the water.

The hydro-flap will be installed to keep the nose of the plane skimming along the surface of the water until most forward speed is lost. After the airplane's gradual deceleration, personnel are able to utilize escape hatches and launch survival gear in the few minutes available before the plane sinks.

The hydro-flap will be installed on the production models of the Martin P4M MERCATOR. In addition, studies are now being made to determine the type of flap best suited for the Lockheed P2V NEPTUNE. Both are long-range patrol planes, used by the Navy for over-water search and reconnaissance missions.

Design characteristics of hydro-flaps were determined by a series of experiments conducted by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

NEW HYDRO-FLAPS—Here one of the Navy's latest aeronautical inventions, the hydro-flap, designed to prevent a plane's nose digging into the water when making a forced landing, is tested on a one-eighth scale model of an XP4M-1. The lessened strain and added ease this invention will give will enable crew members enough time to launch survival gear and utilize escape hatches, thus saving many lives. (Official Navy Photo)

The All Stars, after the ridiculously easy way in which they won the Marianas Championship, would do well to schedule some tough teams in preparation for the WesPac meet instead of the setups they've had so far with one or two exceptions. . .Winning games by 60 points may or may not be good for the mental attitude of the team....Many feel that one defeat would be good for them.... Tournament time is a bad time to start losing, according to NavBks-RecSta players....They should find a little tougher competition tonight when they meet the bunch of officers from the First Marine Brigade . . .The three big guns will be Ira Norfolk, who coached the Brigade to second place in the league, Ace Parker and Grady Mitchell, both standouts over the entire season:...

The locals will have certain factors working for them here, and, if they win, working against them in Pearl Harbor.. .Aside from the fact that they have a squad of smooth ball players who are developing into a more closely-knit team with every game, they will have the advantage of playing on the home court—in this case a bigger edge than in most....The China team, and very likely the ComNavPhil team too will have been playing on a polished hardwood court all season and will be a bit wary on the asphalt at ComMar....Numerous local cagers—Ken Fons for one—have said on several occasions that they had gotten into the habit of unconciously allowing for wind on set shots....

Tonie DeRose and Gordon Smith are apparently two stauch proponents of the "give the game back to the players" movement, and that too might come as a shock to visiting teams if they are in the habit of abiding closely by the rules regarding physical contact....

If they win, the same factors will work in reverse....Playing in a gym probably would not hurt their game, but it is likely that they would be troubled with excessive fouling....Not to be overlooked is the fact that they will be back in civilization after many months on Guam and the urge to forget basketball and concentrate on a good time during their all too short stay would be strong.....It has happened in the past.. That, of course, is only judging by past actions and it is entirely possible that this team would be more interested in the basketball title....

'Harry Holdout' Scribbles Annual Note to Officials

NEW YORK —(UP)— Every year about this time, our favorite flychaster, Harry Holdout, gets the itch for pen and ink. Here is his current contribution.

Dear Sir:

The first thing that came to my mind when I received my 1948 contract in this morning's mail was that you must have mistaken me for another player on the club whose name begins with the same letter as mine. I'm positive that there was an oversight some place.

I thought maybe your secretary might have typed my name in on the wrong contract as she once told me that she is slightly near-sighted. Even if she didn't make a mistake. I'm sure you did if you think I will get out there and play 154 games for the kind of money that you are offering.

Before I left for home last September, you told me not to worry about anything this winter because everything would be okay. If this salary is your idea of "okay". it certainly isn't mine.

According to the official batting averages, I hit .269, which isn't so bad considering that I was batting in second position. My average also was eight points better than the one I had in 1946 so I guess you can't really say I'm on the downgrade, regardless of what the newspapers say.

You may remember that my pinch-single won a game against the Senators last August. When I got back to the bench, the skipper said that hit was easily worth $500. And here you offer me the same money as I got last season.

I'll either get $3,500 more than I did last season or I'll stay right here in my parlor the whole summer. There's a semi-pro ball club in this town and I know I can make almost as much money playing with them as I can playing with your outfit.

Please don't think that I am threatening you or anything like that, but my wife took one peek at the contract and said that it called for drastic action. I guess she's right, too; don't you think?

Sincerely,

Harry Holdout.

Headaches, Squawks Prevail at St. Moritz

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 9 —(UP)— United States Olympic officials dug deep into their pockets tonight to settle the mountainous bills left behind by their departed athletes, and back of their polite official smiles there was plenty of private grumbling.

Although the Americans declared officially that they are "completely satisfied with everything" in the fifth winter Olympiad, it was no secret that they felt the costs incurred in the winning of three Olympiad gold medals were somewhat exorbitant.

Chief sources of the American squawks were: 1. the bookkeeping systems employed by continental hotels; 2. the Europeans' lack of showmanship in competition; 3. Swiss gate keepers; and 4. the public address system at the winter games.

Although none of these complaints were regarded as major ones, U. S. Olympic officials hoped the situation would be improved in the 1952 winter games at Oslo, Norway.

The Americans' Olympic budget was knocked haywire by those inevitable "extras" which all American tourists in Europe learn about through bitter experience. The athletes were charged for milk they never drank, officials said along with fancy breakfast which they perhaps ordered but shouldn't have been served. There also were hosts of charges for baths and small services which ordinarily are free in American hotels.

Hank Greenberg Considers Career Finished

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10 —(UP) Hank Greenberg, veteran first baseman, has turned down an offer to play with the Philadelphia Athletics because he considers his career as an active player finished, Assistant Manager Earle Mack said tonight.

"We would like to have Hank very much, but he telephoned that he was giving up the game," Mack said. He refused to disclose the terms of the A's offer.

Greenberg's reason for rejecting the offer was somewhat surprising because reports are prevalent that he might sign a contract with the Cleveland Indians. The former Detroit slugger was in Cleveland today where he planned to confer with Tribe president Bill Veeck before appearing at the annual baseball writers' "ribs and roasts" dinner tonight.

Pat Devany, Margaret Lindsay Win Crown

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Feb. 10 —(UP)— The surprising team of Pat Devany and Margaret Lindsay needed and won just one hole today to capture the first women's international four-ball golf crown with a 2 and 1 upset over Louise Suggs and Jean Hopkins.

No Hope

Today's clean-up of the final round halted by darkness yesterday spelled sudden death for the hopes of the tournament favorites, Miss Suggs and Miss Hopkins to repeat the four-ball victory they won in 1946.

The Devany-Lindsay twosome left Suggs-Hopkins duo in the same runner-up spot they occupied last year behind Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Peggy Kirk.

'Husker Coach Quits

LINCOLN, Neb., 10 —(UP)— Bernie Masterson, head football coach at the University of Nebraska, resigned tonight.

For several years Masterson quarterbacked the Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football League as its "T" quarterback and was considered the "man behind" Frank Leahy and Johnny Lujack, of Notre Dame who became the "Prince" of all "T" quarterbacks.

The United States Coast Guard auxiliary is in process of creating an auxiliary unit on Guam. All civilians who are over 21 years of age who are interested in boating, navigation, diesel engines, flying and ham radio operating are invited to attend the first meeting to be held at the "Chapel of The Palms," BPM Camp 1, of Thursday, February 12.

Membership is voluntary, and no fee is required.

NEW YORK Feb. 9 —(UP)— The basketball campaign found its feet where its head ought to be today in the wake of a wild and wooly upset spree that left nothing sacred.

Just look at some of the results which poured in:

1. Kansas State, which had lost only once in 16 starts was toppled by Missouri, a 9-and-6 team, 48 to 46.
2. Kentucky, also a one-time loser, lost to Notre Dame, 48 to 46.
3. Rhode Island State, which spent a better part of the season among the ranks of the undefeated, suddenly dropped two in a row, the first to Villanova by 98-85 and again to Rutgers by 88-71.
4. Tulane, loser only to undefeated NYU and supreme in the Deep South, was down by Alabama, 50 to 48.

Those were the big ones, and there were a lot of lesser form reversals to add further spice to the unpredictable.

However, it was a mere almost-upset that kept the house breathless in Philadelphia last night. Undefeated NYU was up against the giant-killers of Temple, conquerors of Kentucky among others, and Temple led, 27 to 24 at half-time.

But it was not NYU's fate to lose, and with a minute 45 seconds left in the scotch-tight battle, Don Forman's set shot sent NYU ahead, 55 to 54. That was the final score, and NYU's victory string went to 15 games in 15 starts.

This week some boys face another series of harrowing engagements. St. Louis U. tackles Notre Dame tomorrow and then Oklahoma A&M Saturday.

North Carolina State, who beat North Carolina to just about clinch the southern conference crown last week, meets Duke Saturday.

Kentucky plays Vanderbilt Monday and Tennessee Saturday. Tulane meets Georgia Tech and Mississippi State Saturday.

Texas looked stronger than ever in the Southwest today after Baylor bounced off Arkansas twice, 42-38 and 53-47. However, the Longhorns, who have lost only to the Oklahoma Ags this season, must play Baylor Thursday in a showdown.

Columbia, undefeated in a dozen tries, faces Penn Thursday and Cornell Saturday while NYU meets Georgetown Saturday in the East's headliner. Columbia beat Fordham, 58-46, for Fordham's second loss of the year.

Michigan's 66-57 conquest of Illinois boosted the Wolverine hopes higher than ever in the Big Nine and they now meet Purdue Saturday. Wisconsin meets Michigan State Saturday while Iowa faces Illinois tomorrow in the Illini's last chance and Indiana Saturday.

Gil Dodds Ill With Mumps On Eve of Race

ARLINGTON, Mass., Feb. 10 —(UP)— Gil Dodds, the nation's mile king, entered a hospital today with the mumps.

The Flying Parson was strickened only two days after smashing the indoor Boston mile record with a 4:08.1 gallop around the 11-lap Garden track and only one day after announcing his intention to retire soon from the track. He said he wanted to devote his full time to preaching.

Though Dodds' performance Saturday in the Hunter mile was considerably slower than the 4:05.3 time he posted in getting a new indoor world record in the Wanamaker mile at New York, it was good enough to win him the John J. Hallahan trophy as the outstanding athlete of the B.A.A. games.

Dodds' illness will prevent him from competing in the New York Athletic Club track meet at Madison Square Garden.

Pacific Coast Pro Grid Loop to Keep Plugging

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10 —(UP)— The Pacific Coast Professional Football league club owners headed for their homes today determined to carry on with a losing proposition.

The circuit will operate next fall with San Francisco Clippers, Honolulu Warriors, Los Angeles Bulldogs, Sacramento Nuggets, Salt Lake City Seagulls and the Hollywood Bears. Hollywood returned to the fold after a year's "leave of absence."

President J. Rufus Klawans, re-elected for another term, said he also had "received strong indications" that Las Vegas and Poenix might come into the circuit for the 1948 season—making eight teams campaigning.

In the many years the loop has been in operation, club owners never have admitted a season in which they have broken even.

Cerdan Kayos Walzack In Non-title Bout

PARIS, Feb. 10 —(UP)— Marcel Cerdan, European middleweight champion, knocked out Jean Walzack of France tonight in the fourth round of their scheduled non-title 10-round bout at Palais de Sports.

Cerdan, who is scheduled to sail soon for New York, weighed 159 pounds; Walzack, 151.

MELBOURNE, Australia —(UP)— Norman Gent, highly-rated Victorian boxer, may get a crack at Ike Williams' lightweight title if he wins the Australian championship. Williams was offered a previous bout with the Gent but refused to come to Australia.

Richman Presents Baseball Blue-plate

by Milton Richman
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK —(UP)— Elongated Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's scintillating speed-ball specialist, says the roughest experience for a ball-player is his first adventure at a big league training camp.

"When I first reported to the Reds at Tampa, Florida, explained the 6-foot-5-inch right hander, "Nobody knew whether I was alive or not and it's a cinch that nobody cared.

"I hung around by myself for many days before Bucky Walters finally came over, introduced himself and began to help me with a 1,000 different things. If it wasn't for Bucky, I think I would have gotten lost. He's a great guy!!...

Proud Papa Jack Kramer of the Boston Red Sox is passing around the stogies, celebrating the arrival of eight-and-a-half pound Chrisopher Kramer. The lovely Mrs. K. is the former Dotty Dotson, who used to warble with Del Courtney and Chucklin' Chuck Foster....

This week's claim belongs to the New York Giants, who say they will have baseball's best outfield in 1948 with Willard Marshall, [illegible] (Whitey) Lockman and Bobby [illegible]. Giant Secretary Eddie Brannick goes a little further and says the club should have the finest outfield in baseball for at least five years.

If we can believe all the claims then, the Giants have the top outfield, the Philadelphia Athletics the best pitching staff and the Brooklyn Dodgers the key infield. Anybody know of a few good catchers?

Vermont, long famous for its tasty maple syrup and its picturesque ski slopes, rarely turns out many big league ballplayers, but currently two youngsters from that state are trying to make the grade in the National League.

The first is Shortstop Ralph La Pointe of the Phillies, who lives in Winooski, Vermont, and the second is Pitcher Walt Lan Franconi of the Boston Braves, born and raised in Barre, Vermont.

Lippy Durocher, Brooklyn boss who has learned all about caution the hard way, doesn't think he's taking any chances when he predicts that big Rex Barney, the Dodger fire-ball pitcher, will blossom into a 20-game winner....

Two big league receivers who are dubious about their status are hefty Don Padgett of the Phillies and [illegible] not so many seasons ago.

Money Doesn't Interest Famous Women Skaters

NEW YORK —(UP)— Barbara Ann Scott and Grtechen Merrill, a couple of curvesome cuties who cut nice figures both on ice and in "new look" dresses aren't interested in earning a million dollars apiece so they're skating for fun today at St. Moritz while Sonja Henie does it for dough in Madison Square Garden.

Miss Scott of Ottawa, Canada, and Miss Merrill of Beacon Hill in Boston, happened to be debutante daughters of wealthy parents while Miss Henie was just a pink-cheeked girl from Norway, all of which makes a big difference.

Not even the fact that Miss Henie in her annual ice revues' has grossed more than $25,000,000 interests either of them in the least.

Miss Scott, a lithe lass of 18 who holds the world championship, was reminded that Miss Henie became a movie queen and a pro show sensation directly after winning 11 world titles and three Olympic championships in a row.

"Me turn pro?" she gasped, "How could I do such a thing? Mother would just die. I want to have a home of my own and live a perfectly normal life. I hate living out of a suitcase, as show girls must do. I want to get married and keep house. That will be career enough for me."

Both girls now spend upwards of 5,000 a year for costumes and equipment for which they ask no reimbursement. Yet up to now their talent has paid off in glory alone. Miss Scott had to give back the shiny new convertible car her admirers in Ottawa gave her last year when she came home from Europe. Miss Merrill's only reward was to have a white orchid named after her by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society and she wound up in a pretty embarrassing situation on account of that.

When the Society reached this momentous decision it dispatched a courier from her Back Bay neighborhood to deliver her an officially christened "Miss Merrill" corsage. It was 9 p.m. and she had retired for the night after a particularly hard day of practice in her private rink.

Search For Method to Keep Boxing on Level

NEW YORK —(UP)— It's doubtful that Commissioner Eddie Eagan will take District Attorney Frank Hogan's tip and hire a dozen investigators of boxing: but some believe Eagan should, at least, appoint five or six gymnasium inspectors.

Eagan, who has a genuine affection for boxing, fears that the establishment of a miniature "F.B.I." in his department—as the District Attorney suggested—would lead to constant "witch hunting" in which the innocent might suffer along with the guilty.

Despite this affection the chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission has, for leather-tossing, he should have learned during the past three years that professional boxing is much like the night club business. Continuous vigilance is necessary to keep it clean.

Vigilance is needed most in the gymnasiums. Intelligent inspectors in the gyms where fighters train could get advance information on crooked deals, and they could thwart the dishonest before fixed fights could be staged. They could protect the public by locking the barn before the horse was stolen. Pre-fight prevention is a much better protection for high-paying fans than post-fight investigation.

Depot Nine Shaping up Strong

by Bill Jury

The Fifth Service Depot has earned a healthy respect around the Island for its athletic feats. Their baseball squad last season took the championship after defeating NavBks-RecSta in a two out of three game series. In the MarBo Sweat Bowl league the Leathernecks placed high in the final standings and during the recent basketball season held a spot in the first division. It's a safe bet that their softball team will go on from there.

Coached by S/Sgt. Herman

Coached by S/Sgt. George Herman, the Leathernecks will present a strong combination backed by Pitcher Bob Maula. The slugging department is well-balanced and the bright spot in the infield is Red Jennings, handling the hot corner. Jennings was a player on the Depot cage team.

George Talson, holding down one of the garden spots, will be recognized by football fans as one of the members of the strong Fifth Service grid squad last season. Big George took over the kicking chores for the Depot eleven when football was holding the spotlight and there's considerable reason to believe that he can handle the big stick at the plate as well as he can boot a pigskin.

The entire club is prepping for the coming season, but the one game that stands out in particular is the battle with the 1st Marine Brigade, arch rivals of the Fifth Service following. According to the Leathernecks, they can lose every other game, but if they beat the Devildogs from Dealy, there'll be cause for free beer and pretzels.

When you consider the Devildogs are probably planning the same thing around about this time the softball league looms as one of the biggest things on the sports scene.

American League Fiddling Second to National Loop

NEW YORK—(UP)— It looks like the American League is about to play second fiddle in the big league symphony.

American League fans, long accustomed to seeing their teams dominant, are going to be burned up before long because their club owners have fiddled while the National League went out and built up big and strong farm systems and developed star ball players.

Consider for a moment, the pennant outlook of some of the perennial "have not" teams in the major leagues next season.

Forgetting the teams which have a chance to win the pennant, consider those which have little hope even of getting into the first division.

That is the inevitable tip-off on how a league is faring, how many club owners are aggressively trying to improve their status from year to year and how many are just coasting along, hoping that they can keep the customers coming to watch a few individual stars or to see the brilliant antics of opposing teams.

As of now there are four "have not" teams in the American League with practically no chance of getting anywhere. The Washington Senators, Chicago White Sox, and St. Louis Browns are in virtually a hopeless position and the Philadelphia A's, though much encouraged by their 1947 emergence from the cellar, are not likely to beat out Cleveland or Detroit for a first division spot.

In the National League the only bonafide "have not" clubs at this time appear to be the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phils with virtually all of the others possible pennant contenders. Moreover the Phils with aggressive young ownership and a growing farm system, have an excellent chance to "muscle in" ahead of some of the other highly regarded clubs.

In the National League, five clubs, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Boston Braves, the Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Phils and Pittsburgh Pirates have undergone a change in ownership within the past four years and in each case there has been expenditure of money and long range planning in an effort to put the clubs into top contention.

The Cardinals, which had the most talent to begin with, have been the most laggardly about re-building, but under former Postmaster General Hannegan, their new owner, they can be expected to go after young talent without surprise hereout.

Ye Ship of Old Far Cry From New Plush Jobs

NEW YORK —(UP)— The day of wooden ships and iron men has gone and the time has come today when you can go down to the ship without benefit of sea.

Four points to starboard from the nor'-nor' East corner of the Empire State building by careful navigation I just covered the "waterfront" of the 38th National Motor boat show.

It requires careful navigation for the landbound regatta is at Grand Central Palace, a spot well surrounded by dangerous shoals more commonly known as bars. In this case the sand is non-existant and the water only three fingers deep.

And the whole affair is a bad commentary on the old salt. The rugged sails of canvas have been replaced by the soft shimmer of nylon wind catchers and wood which once freighted the commerce of America is passe. Now they use everything except the stuff which floats naturally, straining to produce hulls of fiberglass, aluminum, steel, plastics and plywood.

There's a lot of proof, mate, that the sailors of today are sissies, grog durnit.

For instance, chilled yachtsmen in the mode moderne can warm their drink simply by using a stirrer which has an incorporated heating unit. For shame. My granpappy tells me in the old days all they did was chip away the ice and uncork a bottle. The stuff those days was hot enough without warming.

Previously the city had condemned the stadium on grounds it was a menace to public safety and the team faced the prospect of becoming a homeless road club.

Yap: Vicious Typhoons Lay Island in Waste

Eye Witness Describes Untold Suffering

(Editor's Note — The below article was prepared for publication by Commander R. W. Kenney, USNR, island commander and civil administrator of Yap. The story brings out the highlights on Yap during the fall typhoon season, when vicious tropical storms swept over that tiny island no less than five times (Fleet Weather Central, Guam authenticates this number. However, Commander Kenny makes reference to only four, as two of the five were considered minor storms.) causing extensive damage to material and housing and unlimited hardship to the natives and Naval personnel stationed there. This is the story of one of nature's worst freak moves.

Yap was a beautiful tropical isle just a few months ago but now all about us is devastation. Four typhoons and two tidal waves in two and a half months has been our experience, and we can be thankful that we are alive. Thankful to the Japanese that they were so wise in building concrete structures after their 1925 typhoon disaster here. And thankful to American bombers that they left four concrete houses and a school partly undamaged so that we could repair them. It was in these concrete structures that all our American personnel and dependents — plus a few natives who were fortunate enough to get there in time — huddled for safety. It has been an experience that none of us on Yap care to repeat.

Typhoon Warning

It all started on 2 November 1947 when Fleet Weather Central on Guam sent us a dispatch which stated:

"Typhoon warning. Typhoon position good. Fixed by weather plane at seven point eight north one four zero point two at 020000 GCT. Movement west north west one zero knots uncertain. Wind eight zero knots near center. Radius one zero zero miles. Intensifying. High seas."

Well, it hit us on 3 November 1947, right between the eyes! The wind and rain were terrific and even if one could have stood up outside, he probably would have been decapitated by flying tin from quonsets. Such thunder and lightning I have never heard or seen and Yap was struck two or three times. The next morning I sent the following dispatch to Guam as soon as we could repair our radio:

Badly Damaged

"Yap badly damaged by typhoon between 0200 and 0400 today. Apparently hit by center with winds estimated 80 to 100 knots. All power lines down. No casualties to Naval personnel. Info lacking from native districts feared hit worst. Housing of dependents and crew damaged badly and in need of repair. Supply warehouse, trading company warehouse, native restaurant, native trade store, Navy and native dispensaries, and many other buildings caved in or demolished. No tidal wave but much damage to seawalls caused by unusually high tides and wind. Urgently require assistance to repair civil administration facilities. Native houses forty per cent totally demolished. Seventy-five per cent of remainder damaged. Food cut sixty per cent. Request Red Cross aid."

The Kenneys were fortunate—in a way. As civil administrator and island commander we have a rebuilt concrete house but the typhoon ignored the fact that rhip (rank has its privileges). Our roof went off narrowly missed hitting my jeep which was parked 25 yards from my quarters. Everything inside our house got soaked, even clothes in our hot lockers. It took days to dry everything out.

Supplies Arrive

It was rough on all hands to get out the next morning after a sleepless night and try to repair things. It rained and blew all that day, too. No sun shone until the third day. Then supplies started to reach us via two relief planes which came from Guam, and they were soon followed by a relief ship. We started to recover fast, but not for long.

At 1430 on 12 November, Fleet Weather Central on Guam warned us of a tropical disturbance to the south of us which didn't take long to reach typhoon proportions. The Palau islands got the most of this one but the 60-knot winds and high seas that hit Yap on 13 November did considerable damage to our already weakened bridges and causeways. Our other damage was comparatively light but the wind and rain lashed us for about four days and we lost a few extra pieces of tin here and there. It was most discouraging.

Typhoon Jitters

On the other hand, I have held commendatory mast following three of our typhoons because of certain outstanding performances of courage and endurance by half a dozen of my men. I have also commended a Yap man, employed at the Navy garage, who rushed out at the height of the typhoon, picked up a crippled Yap woman who was trying to crawl to safety, and carried her to the school building. It was an outstanding feat and it is a wonder that they both weren't killed by flying debris or picked up by the wind and thrown against something.

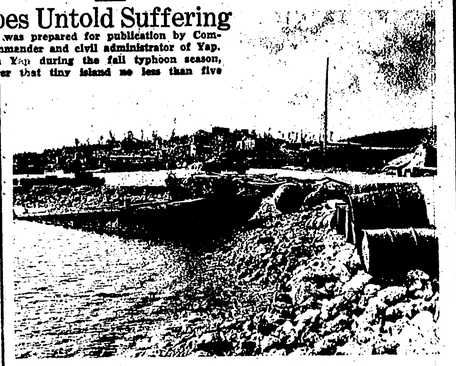
But in spite of everything I would wager that practically all of the 80 Americans on Yap today would elect to remain here rather than accept a transfer to any other island in the Micronesian area. How they do wish though that the Navy would take a hint from the Japanese and build the concrete structures for quarters instead of quonsets that "fly through the air with the greatest of ease."

Not In The Cards

Prior to 1947, Yap's previous typhoons in recent years were in 1934 and 1925, so after having been hit twice in ten days we felt rather secure. But it was not in the cards!

Two days before Christmas we got something that no one had asked Santa Claus to bring. Right! Another typhoon. But this time, after getting smacked down, it was more difficult getting up off the deck.

Storm warnings started coming in on 22 December and by nightfall we knew that another typhoon was bearing down on us. I ordered our station ship to sea at 1400 with instructions to race for Guam on a northeasterly course to avoid the typhoon track, but she couldn't get underway until 1600. At 1800 we set condition one. By this time, it had become a routine with us.



NATURE REPEATS ITSELF—Lightening strikes twice in rare occurance, but here on the tiny island of Yap, typhoons struck not twice, but five times in a period of less than three months. This photo only gives a hint of what the land of stone money underwent

Between 2200 and midnight the barometer fell rapidly and the winds began to lash us furiously. Our station ship radioed that she could make no headway. Then her port engine went out and we lost radio contact. A few minutes later we had to abandon our radio shack and retreat to a concrete house on higher ground where our radio men received blind.

Same Old Story

From 0030 to 0530 another typhoon battered poor old Yap from pillar to post with winds ranging between 80 and 100 knots. Considerable damage was done to our supply warehouses, causeways, bridges, generators, power lines, and roofs of crew and dependent quarters. It was the same old story! All our power lines went down for the third time. Our station ship, even with an 8½ hour start, was swept to the southwest and landed high and dry 100 yards up on a reef three miles north of the entrance to Yaptown (Tomil) harbor. When daylight finally arrived, we could see her being pounded by the surf but we were helpless to lend any assistance for two days because of foul weather and heavy seas. Then we took off about three quarters of her crew while she jettisoned most of her heavy equipment so a sea-going tug could pull her free. It was a marvelous piece of seamanship and we are fortunate that the ship could be saved. She is an AG type of vessel and is now drydocked in Guam for repairs. However, it was an extra burden to us on Yap as we had to go through the same old routine of cleaning up the debris, making repairs and starting new construction. And such a sorry sight the landscape of Yap was becoming! Just like a prairie.

Terrific Beating

By this time native housing and food supplies had taken a terrific beating. A total of 450 native houses had been destroyed in the first typhoon alone and 650 had been severely damaged. The second typhoon took a few homes, but the third typhoon was practically a repeat performance of the first. We distributed a thousand sheets of tin for roofing purposes after the first typhoon and also gave them two tons of rice as a relief measure. Additional relief had to be furnished after each disaster.

There was not much rain with the third typhoon so the wind picked up a considerable amount of salt water and forced it inland killing much of our vegetation. At first I thought the force of the wind had seared the trees and brush as everything was so brown and dead, but it was the salt water that did it. The prolific Yap banana and papaya were almost completely destroyed and will remain scarce for a year to a year and a half. Breadfruit will be scarce for three years and will not become sufficient for local needs for about five years. Taro will be scarce for about six months and other crops will suffer for this and longer periods.

Wrong Again

So, after three typhoons we sort of settled down and started to repair and build for keeps, figuring that even typhoons might happen in threes once in a blue moon. We had our three, surely there could be no more! But we were wrong again.

Just as we got things cleaned up and our wobbly buildings propped up for temporary use while we were building something sturdier, bingo, we hit the jack pot. Or I should say, the jack pot hit us. The grandpappy typhoon of them all arrived and down we went again, flat on our face.

Grandpappy Hits

The typhoon of 14 January 1948 hit Yap during the day, beginning at 0500 and lasting until 2000, although gusts of 45 knots were then still raging. At the height of the storm the winds reached 90 knots with gusts estimated at 110 knots. While there fortunately were no casualties, damage was again extensive. Two of our three remaining warehouses, plus seven small quonsets and two dependent quarters were damaged beyond repair. From twenty to fifty per cent damage was suffered by seven other quonsets and eight dependent quarters. The base garage was seventy-five per cent destroyed. All small boats were swamped and our channel buoys swept away. Power lines were ninety per cent destroyed. Roads, bridges and causeways again took a severe beating and will take months to repair. Some causeways and roads are impassible. One wash-out in a main road running to the southern part of the island is 30 feet wide and 20 feet deep. Telephone poles of one half inch by four inch steel angles were twisted and bent to the ground by the force of the wind.

Nine of our ten native schools and ninety-five per cent of all native housing was demolished. There is appalling devastation of vegetation, plant foods, poultry and livestock on Yap. The Island Trading company, main source of supply for the natives, suffered a loss of $40,000.

Tidal Waves

Then, as if the suffering of the Yap people was incomplete, two tidal waves of eight to ten feet struck the west coast of Yap on successive days following the typhoon. Much food and livestock were lost but again we were fortunate in that there was no loss of lives. The roar of the first of these waves was heard by many at five o'clock in the morning at Yaptown, four miles away. Some dressed hurriedly and took to higher ground fearing that the worst was about to happen. Taro pits on the coasts and west side of the island filled with salt during the tidal inundation, and a serious food shortage is inevitable when decay sets in. However, the Navy department has already allotted $150,000 for reconstruction of civilian buildings, including native schools and meeting houses, and for feeding the native population until a normal supply of native foods become available.

Quonsets Impractical

Quonsets have proven themselves to be impractical in this typhoon area. It is hoped that in the future more concrete quarters and buildings similar to the Butler type (reenforced steel building) will be erected for our use. I don't like the thought of some day seeing a neighbor sailing through the air past my quarters in his quonset.

Ordinarily, the climate of Yap can be described as delightful. Though the island is right near the equator, neither heat nor rainfall is excessive. There are very few days without a good breeze. In general, winds can be described as constant and steady. Even at its worst, the weather is by no means comparable to the humid, sultry weather endured during the summer on the east coast and in the mid western sections of the United States.

Islanders Unspoiled

Yap people present no exception to the rule that "human nature is basically the same everywhere." Their emotions and reactions are similar to ours under corresponding circumstances. Working with them is indeed a pleasant, never-to-be-forgotten experience. On the contrary, they are congenial, cooperative and good natured with a keen sense of humor. Actually, these people are "unspoiled" and they display a sincerity and appreciativeness that is seldom found anywhere.

Relations between Americans and the Yap people have been extremely cordial. There has been no evidence of antagonism or discontent. The American administration presents quite a contrast to the exploitation practice by past masters of Yap, Spanish, German and Japanese.

Yap, for a long time, has been the land of stone money and grass skirts! But now should I add—and occassional typhoons?

Navy Plans to Evacuate Americans In Tsingtao Area if Necessary

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Under Secretary of the Navy W. John Kenney said today that 84 American civilians including Navy dependants are in the Tsingtao area, threatened by Chinese Communist encirclement, and that the Navy has plans to evacuate them if necessary.

But Kenney told a press conference he had no official word regarding a Communist ultimatum and added that any evacuation plans were simply routine "as in other forward areas anywhere in the world."

The question of any U. S. decision on the reported ultimatum was, at any rate, a matter for the State Department, he said.

Present at the press conference was Vice Admiral Oscar C. Badger, who is enroute to Tsingtao to take command of the Western Pacific Forces. Badger also disclaimed knowledge of the ultimatum and said with a grin that he was approaching his new assignment "with a great deal of interest" and planned to stay as long as policies made it necessary.

Kenney said Tsingtao, where the U. S. has a naval base, was in a turbulent area and the rules applying elsewhere would not necessarily apply there.

Rear Adm. A. J. Welling, deputy commander of the Pacific Service Forces, said the roll-up of Pacific bases was virtually complete. He said the Navy has disposed of all surplus materials except a small amount on Guam and Saipan which is less than one-per cent of the orginal $666,000,000 stockpile.

Badger leaves tonight with Adm. Dewitt C. Ramsey, commander in chief of the Pacific Ocean areas who begins a three-week tour of Western Pacific bases.

Truman Asks Congress To Check Inflation

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 —(UP)— President Truman called on Congress again today to enact anti-inflation legislation and said that if the rise in the cost of living is not soon checked, "the living standard of millions of families will be critically endangered."

The President renewed his appeal in a message to the 1948 annual session of the United States conference of mayors. He called for a long-range housing program, observing that such legislation is "long overdue," and proposed a national education program.

"If education is to play its full role in creating the American future," the President wrote, "we must educate more of our people at each level of the educational program.

"We must devise types of education that will prepare them more effectively than in the past for responsible roles in modern society."

These objectives, the President said, are the joint responsibility of local, state and federal governments.

Rep. Doughton to Run for Re-Election

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Rep. Robert L. Doughton, (D-N.C.), at 84 the oldest member of Congress, said today he has decided "with much reluctance" to run for re-election this year.

He said he had hoped to retire to his North Carolina farm at the end of his present term but friends in both political parties persuaded him that his long experience would be useful in dealing with problems which will face the Congress during the next few years.

Doughton was chairman of the House Ways and Means committee when the Democrats controlled Congress. He is regarded as one of the leading tax authorities of the House. He has been in Congress 38 years.

Ewing Announces Meeting To Improve Nation's Health

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing announced today that he is calling together representatives of public and private organizatoins to work out a 10-year program to improve the health of all Americans.

This is in response to President Truman's recent request for "a comprehensive study of the possibilities for raising health levels" within the next 10 years.

Nearly 800 persons are expected to attend the assembly May 1-4. Barry Bingham, editor and president of the Louisville Courier-Journal, heads the assembly executive committee.

Ewing pictured the assembly as an attempt to by-pass the national health insurance fight and move forward "in non-controversial areas." He said the hope is "to arouse people to look after their own health." He told a press conference that he believed most proponents of better health programs agreed on the need for more trained medical personnel, more research and more diagnostic service.

Meantime he said plans to ask Congress for federal aid to medical education. He said that lack of trained personnel in all fields of medical work is "the bottleneck" to progress.

He particularly deplored the lack of medical education for Negroes. Ewing stressed the importance of research in heart ailments. Heart disease is the chief cause of death in the United States, claiming 3 ½ times as many victims as cancer.

But this country spends 10 times as much on cancer research as on heart research, Ewing said.

A sound country-wide program, in which all would work together for better health, could save $2 for every $1 it cost, he said.

Wallace Calls for Royall Resignation

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Henry A. Wallace, third party candidate for president, today called for the resignation of Army Secretary Kenneth Royall, and the dismissal of Defense Secretary James Forrestal and Commerce Secretary Averell Harriman.

Wallace, speaking at a rally of the Harlem Wallace-For-President committee, charged that Royall "reaffirmed the basic policy of segregation" less than a week after President Truman told Congress he had given instructions to end discrimination in the armed forces.

"If Mr. Truman's administrative policy is the same as his vote-seeking policy, we have the right to expect his immediate demand for the resignation of Mr. Kenneth Royall as secretary of the Army," Wallace said.

But "let's not be foolish," Wallace added. "Lets not try holding our breath while waiting for such action."

Jewish Extremists Send Warning To Foreign Consuls

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Feb. 16 —(UP)— The Jewish Extremist Stern gang sent a message to foreign consuls in Tel Aviv today asserting that some of them were "abusing their diplomatic immunity" by co-operating with Arabs and threatening to treat them as spies, a Tel Aviv dispatch said tonight.

The message was sent to the senior member of the Tel Aviv consular corps with the request that he relay it to all members.

It said, according to Tel Aviv advices, that some consuls were co-operating with Arab bands in attacks on Jews and added:

"If the situation continued these people would be considered enemy spies and suitable action will be taken against them."

An official statement said that 13 Arabs and one Jew had been killed in the last 24 hours in a new surge of violence. Thirteen Jews, nine British soldiers and an Italian civilian were wounded. There were unconfirmed reports that six Jews and one British policeman were killed in clashes in Haifa which continued all day.

Over-The-Counter Food Prices Drop

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Over-the-counter prices for many food items have dropped substantially in the past 30 days and housewives will find further reductions in some groceries tomorrow, a survey showed today.

Retail prices have raced ahead of tumbling commodity market prices in many cases, in anticipation of lower wholesale prices. A United Press survey of 16 cities showed that since the mid-January highs, prices have dropped on meats, flour, butter and many other staples of the American diet. The price cuts on certain items varied widely by geographical location.

A sampling of the average prices in the 16 cities on Jan. 16, compared to average prices yesterday, included:

Twenty Japanese Face Tribunal

COMMAR HILL—Twenty shaven-headed Japanese officers and enlisted men of the demobilized Imperial Japanese Army crowed into the war crimes "quonset" courtroom here at Commander Marianas yesterday to face the charge of murdering ten civilian temporary residents of Babelthuap island in the Palau group, among them were five Catholic missionaries of Spanish nationality, during World War II.

This is the largest number of defendents to stand trial for war crimes in nearly three years of trial operations on Guam. A previous case held the record with nineteen Japanese accused.

This is the fourth in a series of war crimes trials involving Palau island war atrocities perpetrated by members of the Japanese military.

Lead defendent among this current group is former Captain, Kazuharu Yamamoto, wartime leader of a transportation unit on the Japanese headquarters island of Babelthuap. The remaining nineteen include one first lieutenant, one warrant officer, five sergeant majors, one sergeant, six corporals, one superior private and four leading privates.

The entire group is collectively charged with the mass execution of the ten unarmed civilians in late September, 1944. In addition to the five Catholic missionaries, the victims included one Catholic brother and a family of four Filipinos, among them two small children. The specifications of the trail allege they were killed by firearms.

In addition to the charge of murder, Captain Yamamoto is being held responsible for the actions of the men under his command at the time of the alleged execution.

Today's session involved the usual preliminaries. The prosecution is expected to offer its opening argument tomorrow.

German Control Bank Established By U.S., Britain

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 16 —(UP)— United States and British authorities today set up a German central bank—the "bank of the German Laender" or states—with a capital of $10,000,000 and thus virtually completed the organization of a central regime in their occupation zones.

The new institution corresponds to a federal reserve bank. It will constitute an official bank for the recently created bizonal economic administration, the first semblance of a government Germany has had in nearly two years.

The bank will work under close supervision of an Allied banking commission but it will have considerable authority and is expected to have great influence in general German financial matters.

Cain Pledged to Fight Rent Control Extension

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 —(UP) Chairman Harry P. Cain, (R-Wash.), of the Senate banking subcommittee on rent controls, said today he would fight proposals for a 30-day extension of present ceilings, and urge Congress to act quickly instead on his law to continue modified controls for the next 14 months.

The existing rent law expires two weeks from today. Both the House and Senate banking committees meet tomorrow to discuss suggestions from both Republican and Democratic leaders that the law by temporarily extended as is, to give Congress more time to watch economic developments stemming from the commodity market price break.

Cain, who returned today from a week-long trip to the Southwest, said he "sees no reason why we can't buckle down to work and come to terms on a regular rent bill" before Feb. 29.

Atom Power 10 Yrs. Away

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 16 —(UP) Dr. Paul C. Aebersold of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said today that it may take 10 years to build the first "real industrial-type" atomic power plant.

"We are still many years from a practical and wide use of atomic energy for useful power—for heat and for electrification of farm, industry and home," he said.

He said, however, that eventually atomic power plants "will prove valuable and economical for use in regions in which there is no cheap coal and water power."

Carlson and Mr. Harold Stein, officials of the Boy Scouts of America arrived on Guam Monday morning to make a regional office check-up of the Guam Council, BSA, and to see how scouting is operating for the boys of Guam. Mr. Carlson is the regional scout executive of Region XII, one of the twelve regions into which the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America is divided. His headquarters is in Los Angeles, California, and his area of jurisdiction includes the States of Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah and the Territory of Hawaii. Region XII has just completed a conference of its executive committee in Honolulu. Among those who attended the meeting was Mr. Frank B. Leon Guerrero of Guam who attended the conference as representative of the Guam Council, BSA.

Mr. Stein is the present scout executive of the Hilo Council of Hawaii, and was formerly executive of the Maui County Council in Hawaii.

AGANA—A new office of the executive secretary was opened in the Guam Congress buildings. B. J. Bordallo, chairman of the House of Council announced yesterday.

Ersatz Gas for American Motorists

NEW YORK --(UP)-- When the American motorist buys his 1960 model he will be driving almost entirely on synthetic gasoline, an expert on fuels predicted recently.

And his car will have more pep because it will be powered by a superior quality of gasoline, according to Howard Dimmig, vice president of Hydrocarbon Research.

He told a meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers that two large plants for manufacture of synthetic gasoline already are under construction and should be in operation early in 1949. He estimated that a half dozen other plants will be started within the next six months.

In these plants, he said, natural gas is decomposed into a mixture of carbon monoxide and hydrogen and the gas mixture is then reacted over a suitable catalyst to produce a mixture of 85-90 per cent gasoline and 10-15 per cent diesel oil.

"The gasoline is of superior quality—in fact better than the present market demands and better than that presently made by convenional oil refining process," he said. "The diesel oil is also a superior product."

"The investment and operating cost are such as to make the process competitive with present crude oil refining products."

Limmig predicted that the supply of natural crude oil will be "tight" within 10 years if the present rate of consumption continues.

"In the so-called motor-age," he said, "more transportation both of materials and of people is being done in trucks, busses and pleasure cars. The daily consumption of petroleum has gone from about 4,500,000 barrels daily before the war, to 5,500,000 at the present time, with a predicted 6,000,000 barrels by 1951."

Encephalitis Discussed At Guam ARC Meeting

The existing threat of encephalitis, as well as methods being employed to combat this dreaded disease, were briefly discussed by Capt. C. K. Youngkin, (MC), USN, of the Dept. of Public Health, at a meeting last Saturday of the Guam Chapter, American Red Cross, at ComMar Hill.

Mr. Nobert Tabery, chairman of the Guam Red Cross fund raising program, called on the board members for assistance in making this year's fund raising campaign a success.

Mr. F. T. Guitorrez, chairman of the water safety training program reported that the boys of Piti were doing excellent work and that about a third will be reauy for their life-saving examinations soon.

Nebraska fed, clothed, housed, provided medical care and some recreation for the inmates and patients of state institutions in 1947 at an average cost of $10.50 a week.

'Pacific Greyhound' Headed For Scrap Pile

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)— The "Greyhound of the Pacific" is headed for the scrap pile.

The U.S. Maritime Commission has announced that the SS H. F. Alexander has been sold to the Boston Metals Corporation for scrap.

Built in 1914 as the SS Great Northern, the ship saw service on numerous routes and in both wars. She is best remembered for her record runs between the mainland west coast and Hawaii.

Her mark of three days, 19 hours and 57 minutes is believed still the fastest passage for a commercial vessel between Honolulu and the coast. She once went from San Pedro to Hilo in four days and two hours.

She was capable of 27 knots.

New Port Director For San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)— Capt. A. H. Richards, USN, has been appointed by the Navy to be port director for San Francisco.

He succeeds Capt. Duncan Curry, Jr., who will assume new duties as assistant chief of staff for logistics at Pearl Harbor.

Richards, a 1923 Annapolis graduate, has been assistant port director since last July. He formerly commanded the transport General W. A. Mann.

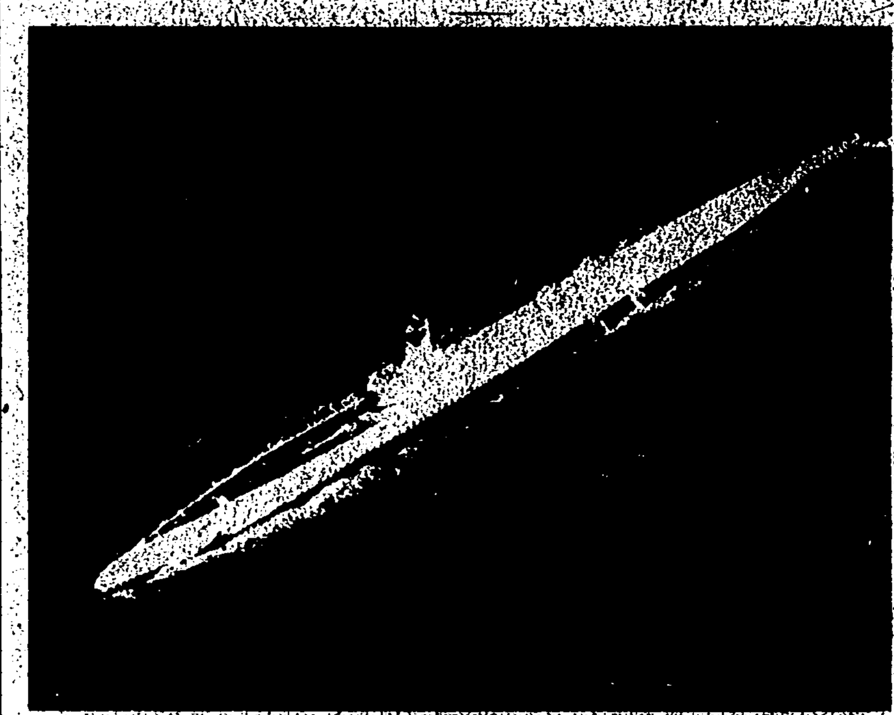
War Buddy Makes Good On Good-Time Loan

NEW CASTLE, Ind. —(UP)— Art Cabbage received a check for $5.52 in payment of principal and interest on a loan he made to a war buddy in Paris in 1944.

Cabbage, a chain store manager, got the check in a Christmas greeting card from Kenneth Dean, Philadelphia, Pa. He recalled that he lent Dean 770 francs while both were spending a weekend leave in Paris.

Later, both were wounded in the Battle of the Bulge. They never met again and lost track of each other.

Dean explained in a letter that he had been trying to locate Cabbage for three years so he could pay him the money.



"TRUE SUBMARINE"—The USS Pomodon (SS-486) embodies some of the features which the Navy is employing in its program to streamline a number of fleet submarines as the first basic step toward design and construction of a "true submarine." Among the features are reducing the size of the superstructure and removing deck guns and other topside projections in order to smooth down the hull. (U.S. Navy Photo).

Space Ships Foreseen in 20 Years

MARBO—Patti Howe, age 6 years, asked if she could mail the check for the money contributed to the March of Dimes at MarBo. Little Patti was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 1 1-2 years old and was paralyzed from the waist down. She was treated at a hospital in California, and a great deal of the money for the treatment of the children suffering from infantile paralysis at this hospital was supplied by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. She is the daughter of Chief Warrant Officer and Mrs. E. S. Howe at MarBo.

She has made almost a 100 percent recovery in her fight against the disease.

BERKELEY, Cal.—(UP)— Rocket research engineer Norton B. Moore predicted yesterday that space ships capable of interplanetary flight will be constructed within the next 20 years.

Moore said that "although many problems of navigation, flight control and instrumentation remain to be investigated," the basic obstacles of escaping the earth's gravitation field "can be overcome."

Rockets will have to attain seven miles per second—or seven times the velocity now attained by V-2 rockets—to overcome the pull of gravity, Moore said. But nuclear energy or "multi-step" rockets may solve that problem.

"Prior to attempting cosmic space travel, whether the payload is a man or a handful of micro-instruments, it is logical to suppose that more modest intermediate steps may be expected," he added.

"The first step might be an earth satellite, permamently revolving in a circular orbit just outside the atmosphere of the earth. Such a satellite could remain in its orbit indefinitely without requiring the expenditures of additional energy. Its usefulness for astronomical, meteorological, physical and other observations is obvious."

Hot-Cold Water Baffles Garageman

CENTER, N. D. —(UP)— Peter Denius was afraid his 12-foot well might blow up.

Denius, a garage man, dug the well in his basement three years ago, and rigged up a pump and pressure tank to supply water for the bath and kitchen sink.

Until two months ago the water was cold and clear—just the right temperature to quench your thirst on a hot summer day.

Very Puzzling

Two months ago the well began spouting warm water. It came out of the faucets boiling hot—so hot that it broke two milk bottles Denius had been filling.

"For the life of us," he said, "we can't figure out what happened to my well."

He then decided to take a sample of the water to the state laboratory for analysis.

"My neighbors tell me it may be poisonous," Denius said. "I can hardly believe that, because I've been drinking it. But just the same, I'm going to have it tested."

Denius said it was barely possible the water was being heated as the vein passes over a subterranean coal fire about a mile away.

MarBo Gets Medical Training Program

MARBO—A program aimed to train medical department personnel in the operation, care and repair of equipment used by medical personnel started yesterday at the MarBo Medical Maintenance shop.

The course will last six weeks and will include all phases of instruction in the use of medical department equipment.

All medical units in the command are expected to send representatives to the classes.

The director of the class, Capt. Harry Gallagher, realizes that the only way to have good equipment is to take care of the equipment now on hand. To get new equipment when that in use now wears out or gets out of order is out of the question. Therefore, the school will teach men how to take care of the mechanical equipment now in use and how to make the repairs when something goes wrong.

The course will also deal with electricity, theory of X-ray, the construction and repair of dental units, motors, oxygen therapy and anesthesia apparatus. Electro-surgical units and the principle of the electro-cardiograph are also to be included in the course.

Nation's Job Boom Declared Ended

NEW YORK —(UP)— The nation's job boom is definitely over, Lawrence W. Zimmer, director of the New York University Employment Service, believes.

Zimmer said men and women graduating from college at the end of the current semester have a fair chance of getting a job, but they must have something on the ball to do so.

A survey showed that graduates entering public and private accounting have the best job prospects. The survey found the engineering field "spotty," the merchandising field "fair," and advertising, journalistic and investment banking work very poor.

No Housing Guaranty Offered Veterans

ATLANTA —(UP)— Veterans Administration officials here are replying to complaints about poor housing construction for ex-GI's with this version of their responsibilities—"We guarantee loans, not houses."

The GI loan program administered by the VA is essentially a credit program, according to Robert J. Taylor, VA loan guaranty officer for Georgia.

"A government guaranty of a portion of the veteran's loan gives him a better rating with the private lending institution from which he seeks to borrow the money," Taylor said.

PRICE CONSCIOUS CHICKENS

HARRISBURG, Pa. —(UP)— An enterprising local market advertised that it was selling fresh country eggs at 57 cents a dozen—considerably less than the average price in other stores—because they were produced by "price-conscious" chickens.

Slays Aviator 'To Satisfy My Desire'

YOKOHAMA —(UP)— The commander of a group of war crimes suspects, all of whom have confessed the murders of six American airmen in French Indo-China, recently testified that he personally cut the throat of one Naval aviator "to satisfy my desire."

Former Lieut Hideo Ishazaki said he approached the victim—believed to have been Joseph H. Vendetti, Quincy, Mass.—who was in a kneeling position on the edge of a slope.

"With my sword—which was not my best combat sword—I struck his neck from the back and right side," he testified. "As the sword was of inferior quality the blade did not go all the way through. Realizing the prisoner would suffer, I cut the jugular vein and rolled the body over the slope."

Six Airmen Captured

He told the court the six airmen were captured after a battle in April, 1945.

"Since I was the commander of the group," he explained, "I felt I must kill one of them to satisfy my own desire as well as the desires of my subordinates."

Orders for Picnic Sandwiches And Salad Must be Made One Day in Advance of Occasion

Sports Beat

The Crump-Kamber rematch now looks like a sure thing for the first of March at ComMar....Kamber, who has been training faithfully and with a purpose in mind, has been itching for another shot at Crump, who defeated him in the semi-finals of the Golden Gloves in November... The MarBo team returned from the Army meet in Hawaii last Friday, and Mike Karvasales says Crump is in top shape and should be anxious to meet Johnny again....The Heuble Herbert-Bill Burke affair is only awaiting the approval of Burke.... Burke also defeated Herbert in the Golden Gloves....With those two fights on the card along with the Hiner Thomas-Leo Matchews shingdig, the stands at ComMar should be filled.

Karvasales also reports a good bit of partiality in the decisions at Honolulu, and says that since Hawaii is not part of the Far East command, a repeat performance of the entire tourney, with the exclusion of Hawaii, is being planned for Tokyo next month. It is an invitational affair, with only a few of the strongest men in certain weight classes participating instead of two in each class as in the recent Honolulu fiasco....Mike reports that MarBo possiblities are Roger Silva, who will train down to the 112-pound class, 120-pound Nat Montgomery, George Crump, Clarence Fentress, and Lawrence Goodwin.

It's a little out of season, but now is the time for the Navy welfare heads to order football gear if the Navy plans to have football next fall...Sporting goods companies report that with the large orders being placed by colleges and high schools in Hawaii and the States, they cannot promise anything on orders placed later than February....Another jamboree similar to the one held last December with Navy teams competing against the Army and Air Force would increase the size of the crowd by at least 50 per cent....Until last year the Navy used the excuse that the climate was too hot for football, and that equipment was too hard to get....The Army disproved that....Football can be played here....Another big thing that would aid in the development of the grid on Guam is the installation of lights on at least one of the fields here....It would not only be a boon to the players but would add a touch of Stateside glamour... ..It can be worked out if someone gets behind it.

Barbara Ann Scott Retains Crown

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Barbara Ann Scott, the pride of Canada, turned in a magnificent free skating performance on fast-softening ice to retain her world's figure skating championship today.

The honey-haired star, who earlier this year won the European and Olympic crowns, was head and shoulders above her nearest rival, Austria's Eva Pavlik, who came second. Britain's Jeanette Altwegg was third.

Miss Scott, the 19-year-old Ottawa girl who was schooled from the cradle for the triumphs she has scored, completed her last two compulsory figures and then sailed through her superb free skating performance as the ice, mirror smooth for the compulsories, began to soften badly.

Robinson, Rickey, Frick Honored

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 —(UP)— First Baseman Jackie Robinson and Club Owner Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers and President Ford Frick of the National League today were named among the winners of the Thomas Jefferson prizes for the advancement of democracy during 1947 by the council against intolerance in America.

Robinson, Dickey and Frick came in first in the public service classification "for breaking the color barrier in American baseball" in a nationwide poll of officials of 1,000 civic organizations and ditors of 500 newspapers.

Louis' Title Challenged At Ebony Club Door

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 —(UP)— Joe Louis met an unwitting challenger for his world heavyweight boxing title tonight.

The impromptu was staged in front of the Ebony Club on Broadway. Louis and a party of friends were leaving the club when a man identifying himself as Thomas Delaney stepped up and took a few tentative swipes at the champ.

The amused Louis held his challenger off at arms length, winked at his party and hastened to his car.

Police took the ambitious, 200-pound Delaney to the station house and told him whom he had been challenging.

"Joe Louis," he exclaimed. "You'd better lock me up for protection." Police sent him off with a warning.

Louis summed up the episode in two words:

"Foolish fellow."

Oklahoma Eyeing NCAA Cage Playoff; Utah, Brigham Young in Big Six Showdown

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Oklahoma A and M slow-it-down brand of play was headed straight for the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship playoff.

The Aggies defeated St. Louis University last night for the second time this season, and those are the only two losses suffered by the Missourians in 18 games. The score was 47 to 38.

That, for all practical purposes, gave the Aggies the championship of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Even after winning the league title, however, the valley champ must vie with the winner of the Big Seven pennant. And that race was tossed into a two-way fight when Kansas State lost to Oklahoma, 49 to 47, last night.

Now it's a fight between Kansas State and Kansas University, and the two teams meet Wednesday.

That game, however, is not the only one which may decide a conferenbe championship this week.

North Carolina State meets North Carolina Saturday in a duel for Southern Conference supremacy. State holds one win over U.N.C. already this season, and another would provide the clincher; State barely squeaked by Duke, 44-43, last night while Carolina downed William and Mary, 63-61.

Utah faces Brigham Young Saturday in the showdown fight for the Big Six crown in the lofty Rockies. Utah, the National Invitational champion last year, started very poorly this season but has picked up steam steadily and is geared for a do-or-die effort.

In the Big Nine, Michigan, fresh from a win over Purdue last night, stands ready to shove Wisconsin from the lead. Iowa's loss to Indiana practically eliminated the Hawkeyes from the race, Michigan, however, must face that upset-happy Indiana team tomorrow.

Texas' 48-39 loss to Baylor, the second defeat of the season for the fire-engine Longhorns, threw the Southwest Conference into a tie for the lead. The two teams meet again Feb. 25, and that should tell the tale, although Texas must meet Arkansas Friday and Saturday as a prelude.

Columbia and NYU retained their undefeated status in the East; Columbia meets Princeton Wednesday and Harvard Saturday while NYU plays Manhattan Tuesday in defense of the nation's only two undefeated records among major teams.

Valpey to Take Head Coaching Duties at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 16 —(UP)— Arthur L. Valpey, assistant coach at the University of Michigan for the past six years, has been named head football coach at Harvard, succeeding Dick Harlow, who resigned, it was announced tonight.

Valpey, a native of Dayton, O., started his football career at the Steele High School there where he won honors as an all state halfback.

At Michigan, he played end for three seasons and after he was graduated in 1938 coached high school football at Ida, Mich., Manchester, Mich., and Midland, Mich.

He returned to Michigan as freshman line coach in 1942 and has been there since. During 1946 and 1947 he was varsity end coach and developed such outstanding ends as Elmer Madar, Bob Mann and Leonard Ford.

Bingham said he was "convinced that Valpey has a sound background of football and the necessary force and enthusiam to put over this knowledge to young and eager football players."

"I have every confidence that he will make Harvard football interesting and successful," he added. "I expect that he will report at Harvard on March 1."

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 —(UP)— Coaches in the All-America Football Conference tonight selected Otto Graham, pass pitching quarterback of the champion Cleveland Browns, as the most valuable player of 1947.

Mangrum, Demaret Deadlocked in $10,000 Golf Open

HARLINGEN, Tex. Feb. 16 —(UP)— Dapper Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and genial Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., tied for first place today in the $10,000 Fruit and Vegetable Open with a 72-hole score of 269.

An 18-hole playoff is scheduled for tomorrow morning for first and second place money of $2,000 and $1,400.

Stocky little Al Smith of Winston, Salem, N.C., who's often been in the playoff but who's never taken top money, made a desperate last-day drive for first place but ended at 270, tied with Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C.

With $600, the difference between first and second place, riding on the last hole, Mangrum chipped short from a bad lie 60 feet off the green. A moment later the mustached Chicagoan who usually improves with pressure missed a 10-foot putt to bogie and go into the tie.

Henry Ransom Suspended by Schneiter

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 15 —(UP)— George Schneiter, newly-created tournament czar of the Professional Golfers' Association, today suspended Henry Ransom of Ravinia, Ill., for two weeks as the aftermath of a fist fight between Ransom and Australian star Norman von Nida yesterday in the Lower Rio Grande Valley Open.

Ransom was suspended for "conduct detrimental to golf," Schneiter said.

No action was taken against Von Nida.

"Ransom struck the first blow," Schneiter said.

Meanwhile, Schneiter, who was named tournament commissioner by PGA golfers last night after the fist fight, talked via telephone with Ed Dudley, PGA president, in New York. Schneiter said Dudley told him:

"I will back you 100 per cent in any action."

Lawson Little resigned last night as chairman of the PGA Tournament Rules Committee after two days of dispute about rules, climaxed by the fight between Ransom and Von Nida.

The two pros swapped punches after finishing their round in the $10,000 tournament. Von Nida said that Ransom stroked a putt and then hit it again. Von Nida charged that Ranson only counted it as one stroke, neither was in-

Zimmerman Upsets Brenda Helser

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 16 —(UP)— National Backstroke Champion Suzanne Zimmerman of the Multnomah Athletic Club, Portland, Ore., smashed to her second victory in two nights with an upset six-inch triumph over former teammate Brenda Helser in the 100-yard women's free style last night.

Miss Zimmerman, who last night was only 2.1 seconds off the American record in winning the 100-yard backstroke, outgunned Miss Helser, competing for the Los Angeles Athletic Club, in the final lap for a mark of 1:01.4.

Miss Helser returned to an easy victory in the 400-yard free style, coming into the finish in 5:33.6.

Ralph Sala, Stanford, established a new meet record in the men's 200-yard free style when he beat Wally Wolfe, USC freshman, in 2:17.1.

All Stars Trample Harmon Field Five At ComMar, 75-41

Like Old Man River the Guam All Stars just kept rolling along last night to defeat the Harmon Field All Stars on the ComMar court, 75 to 41.

Larry Horan was the big gun for the Navy squad as he pumped 32 points through the bucket to lead the Guam All Stars to their twelfth straigth victory.

Cy Cassidy, the ball-hawking wizard from NavBks-RecSta, gave a performance of passing witchcraft and came back for many an encore during the first half as the sailors ran up a 19 to 6 quarter lead and extended it to 41 to 19 at the intermission period.

Frank Gracewski, one of the main scoring threats for the visitors, was bottled up completely during the contest and racked up a lone field goal in the first quarter for his only success from the floor. At the charity circle he pulled down four points.

The Guam All Stars were never in trouble during the game and the only question was just how many points they could rack up before time ran out. The soldiers were fast and full of fight, but they lacked a scoring punch to equal the Navy quintet's.

The scoreboard stood at 54 to 31 at the end of the third stanza as the Navy second team continued the stampede.

Three New Marks Set In Iowa Tank

IOWA CITY, Ia., Feb. 16 —(UP) Three swimming records set by Michigan in 1941 were toppled at the Iowa-Ohio State swimming meet at Iowa City last night, as the Buckeye squad defeated the Hawkeyes, 48 to 36.

Ohio State's Bob De Groot, Earl Trumble and Bill Zemer won the 300-yard medley relay. The time—3:-2.8—bettered the American long course record of 3:4.5.

Wally Ris of Iowa won the 220-yard free style competition with a time of 2:13.7. His time bettered the National Intercollegiate long course record of 2:16.6 set by Jim Welsh of Michigan in 1941.

Iowa took the mark of the Buckeyes in the 400-yard free style relay. Hawkeyes Kenny Marsh, Duane Draves, Ervin Straub and Wally Ris swam the distance in 3:36.3, bettering the National Inter collegiate long course record and the American record of 3:37.6.

Reiser Wants Raise

ST. LOUIS —(UP)— Pete Reiser, Brooklyn Dodgers' outfielder, said the "cost-of-living" raise offered for 1948 by President Branch Rickey isn't enough.

"Living expenses in Brooklyn are high," Reiser said at his St. Louis home. "And I'm staying right here until the Dodgers come through with more money."

"Sorry, we have no authority."

Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, American commander in chief, so far has not protested the attack or the refusal of the Russians to aid their "allies." But he did point out today that Russian officers on liaison duty in the United States zone have complete liberty of movement "plus full freedom to photograph all military parades."

Arabs-Jews Dispute Number Killed

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Arab and Jewish headquarters made conflicting casualty claims today regarding yesterday's battle for strategic Tirat Tsevi, but both agreed that the Arab attack failed to open a corridor between Trans-Jordan and Palestine.

The Arab higher committee claimed that 78 Jews were killed, 150 wounded, 20 captured and that 13 Arabs were slain and three wounded.

The government announced that 33 Arabs were killed and 36 Arabs seriously injured.

The Jewish Haganah Army headquarters said 57 "foreign" Arabs were killed and 36 wounded, while only one Jew was killed and three wounded.

Commodity Break Will Not Affect USW

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18 —(UP)— The recent break in commodity prices will not affect the wage demands of the CIO United Steelworkers, President Philip Murray indicated today.

Asked what he thought of the recent break on the exchanges, Murray said: "I give no special significance to it at all. I think it is all a piece of speculative boloney, and has no relation to our interests today."

Murray said that increased prices leading to corporate profits of $17,000,000,000 in 1947 have seriously endangered American purchasing power.

Poland Releases U.S. Air Force Fliers

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Five U. S. Air Force fliers, arrested yesterday because they did not have authority to enter Poland, have been released and authorized to return to their Berlin base, the U. S. embassy announced today.

The fliers brought Ambassador Stanton Griffis here from the German capital yesterday. They were arrested and confined under guard at the Hotel Bristol when they left the flying field because weather conditions prevented an immediate return.

New York Elections Victorious; Wallace

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 18 —(UP)— Henry A. Wallace tonight hailed results of the congressional election in New York as a "real victory over bossism and machine politics."

Wallace was informed that his American Labor Party candidate Leo Isacson, had won the New York special election just before he mounted the platform to address some 3,000 persons at Plant baseball field here. Wallace said:

"It is a repudiation of the get-tough, double-standard foreign policy which has been leading us toward war. It is a real victory over bossism and machine politics."

Senate Leaders Strive For Quick Passage of Rent Control Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Senate leaders today drove for quick passage of a 14-month rent control extention bill but House spokesmen doubted that Congress could complete action by the time existing controls expire Feb. 29.

For that reason, Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the House Banking Committee said he still thinks temporary extension of the existing law will be necessary.

Acting Senate Republican Leader Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky both called for immediate action on the extension bill approved yesterday by the Senate banking committee.

The Senate GOP policy committee approved the "principle" of continuing rent control for "a year or so" and agreed to go ahead with the legislation. Taft, committee chairman, conceded that if the House is unable to pass a long-range bill before Feb. 29, the Senate probably would go along with a 30-day extension.

Taft said the extension bill approved by the banking committee probably would bring some "minor differences of opinion."

Taft also reported that the policy committee "included" to favor a temporary, 90-day extension of the second decontrol act, which provides controls over imports and allocations of tin, fats and oils and several other scarce commodities. The Senate banking committee yesterday agreed on a temporary, 30-day continuance. Taft explained that some members thought some controls might be lifted in 90 days.

MacArthur Reports to Congress on Japan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Gen. Douglas MacArthur told Congress today that Japan will be plunged into a "blood bath of revoluntionary violence" unless his occupation forces wrest economic control from its "discredited masters."

Has Japanese Cooperation

The supreme allied commander in the Far East said his efforts to tear down the "traditional pyramid of economic power" held by only a few families, has the cooperation of the Japanese people who are fully aware that they have been forced to live in "poverty and slavery."

"The Japanese people have tasted freedom under the American concept," he said, "and they will not willingly return to the shackles of an authoritarian government and economy or resubmit it otherwise to their discredited masters...."

Ramsey to Confer With Area Commanders

Admiral Dewitt Clinton (Duke) Ramsey, USN, the Navy's No. 1 aviator, arrived on Guam yesterday afternoon in the first leg of a tour of the forward areas in the Pacific. The Admiral on his first inspection tour since he became CINCPAC early last month, will confer with forward area commanders and inspect Naval facilities under their commands.

The 59-year-old flier, who took over his first non-aviation job in 30 years, relieved Vice Adm. Harold B. Sallada, USN, acting CINCPAC during the absence of Admiral Louis E. Denfield, recently named Chief of Naval Operations.

After a brief three-day stay on Guam, the Admiral and his party will fly to Manila to confer with Commander, Naval Forces, Philippines.

Meyers Indicted For Tax Evasion

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 18 —(UP)— A federal grand jury compounded Gen. Bennett E. Meyers' legal troubles today by indicting the former air force procurment officer for alleged income tax evasion.

No trial date was set immediately because the general has a prior date in Washington on Feb. 24, when a federal court will start trying him on six counts of perjury and subordination of perjury carrying a maximum penalty of 60 years in jail.

The Baltimore federal grand jurors charged Meyers with evading payment of $15,658.77 in income taxes for 1941. If convicted, he would be liable to a maximum punishment of $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

The indictment alleged that Meyers reported a net income of $3,808.70 and paid taxes of $175.63 for 1941 whereas his true income was $36,301.52 and his income tax should have been $15,834.40.

Iwo Jima Battle Bloodiest of War

by PFC R. A. Suhosky, USMC

"Among the Americans who served on Iwo, uncommon valor was a common virtue."—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander in Chief, U.S. Pacific Fleet.

At dawn on D-day, the Marines saw Iwo Jima for the first time. From the transports the desolate, almost treeless, clump of volcanic sand looked harmless and empty tip seemed much too steep, too portance.

D-day was February 19, 1945. But Iwo Jima wasn't harmless. It was close to impregnable. And Mt. Suribachi did hold important defensive emplacements, as well as being an invaluable position from which the Japanese could observe every move the Marines below made.

Paid in Blood

We wanted Iwo and we got it. But we paid for it—in blood. It took 26 days to secure the tiny island, eight square miles in area—at a cost of 19,939 casualties among the three Marine divisions alone.

Months prior to the Marines' landing, Army, Navy and Marine planes, led by Liberators and B-29's of the Seventh Air Force based in the Marianas, began pounding the rock daily with unending relentlessness. But the Japanese were dug in deep, much deeper than on Bougainville or Guam. Their defenses were the most elaborate yet to be found on the islands of the Pacific. Every square yard on the island could be covered by at least one heavy Jap gun, some by dozns of them.

The operational plan called for the V Marine Amphibious Corps, composed of the 4th (Commanded then by Major General Clifton B Cates, now commandant of the Marine Corps) and 5th Marine divisions to land abreast of each other on the sandy beach between Mt. Suribachi and the high ground to the north. The 28th and 27th Marines of the 5th would land on the southern half of the beach with the 26th Marines in reserve. The 4th division would land the 23rd and 25th Marines with the 24th in reserve. The 3rd division was designated as a floating reserve for the 5th Marine Amphibious Corps.

Nine o'clock, February 19, 1945. The Marines were ashore on an island that had always belonged to Japan.

The first wave hit the beach and moved up as much as 300 yards at one point; there was only moderate resistance from the Japs thus far.

Japs Came to Life

By 1000 the assault battalions were ashore. Then the Japs came to life. The beaches, the hills, Mt. Suribachi, all Iwo came to life. Machine guns swept the beaches, the Japanese preponderance of anti-tank guns and mortars cut loose. The volume of enemy fire increased heavily. The Japs were everywhere.

Casualties began to mount rapidly. It was impossible to seek cover on the flat surface between Suribachi and the high ground to the north. The Marines hugged the soft volcanic sand. Many were dead.

Only when the enemy pillboxes had been eliminated one by one, could the advance continue. By nightfall, the beachhead had been extended 500 to 600 yards from the ocean's edge, extended by the iron hearts of American fighting man.

It was like this for 26 days and nights. Japs and more Japs. Always death. Men who had laughed and joked a week before were no longer laughing and joking. They were dead, their blood drained by the horrible black sand of Iwo Jima.

The 2nd Battalion, 28th Marines turned south to Mt. Suribachi. Naked and dappled like a snake's head, Suribachi rose 556 feet to form the southern tip of Iwo. It took three days to reach the bottom slopes of the steep volcano.

Raised Flag

Then on D-day plus 4, by sheer courage, a 40 man patrol from Easy Company 28th Marines climbed, crawled and fought it's way up to the crest, and using a piece of Japanese pipe for a flagpole, raised the American flag. Some of the men down below stood up in their foxholes and wept.

But there was little time for sentiment. The battle for Iwo had hardly begun. But there in the sliding sand and barren wasteland that smoked from the sulphur in the ground, many of the men who conquered Mt. Suribachi were to be killed or wounded in a few days in fighting that was in many ways more brutal than Suribachi.

Iwo Jima seemed to be a dreary and undescribable wasteland which had not known life for thousands of years. It seems inconceivable to think that men wanted it badly enough to die for it.

But men did die and more than 5000 of them were laid under neat, precise rows of white crosses in the 3rd, 4th and 5th Division cemeteries. They died just three short years ago. Many are alive today because the men who lay beneath those crosses had the courage and strength to give their lives unselfishly.

Observers Restricted At Eniwetok Tests

WASHINGTON—The Atomic Energy Commission has announced that no foreign observers will be permitted at the atomic weapons test at Eniwetok.

A spokesman for the commission said "only United States officials observers will be permitted." He said newsmen will also be excluded.

Declared Off Limits.

The atomic bomb test at Bikini in 1946 was viewed by representatives of Russia and a number of other nations.

Eniwetok was declared off limits for all but authorized visitors beginning January 31.

The Bikini tests were conducted by the Army and Navy jointly before the passage of the Atomic Energy Act. This act set up rigid security requirements and made the commission responsible for their enforcement.

It is imperative that the degree of improvement in the atomic bomb be kept secret. Even casual observation of the explosions from a distance, such as was possible for foreign observers at Bikini, might give valuable evidence.

NATS - ATC Merged Into One Unit

Defense Secretary James Forrestal has announced the merger of the Naval Air Transport Service and the Air Transport Service effective March 1, 1948.

Maj. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter of the Air Forces has been named commander of the combined service. Radm. John P. Whitney, USN, was named deputy commander.

To be Called MATS

The combined transport service will be called "the Military Air Transport Service," or MATS, and will be established under the Air Force.

MATS will operate substantially all scheduled air transport required by the Armed Forces and the national military establishment as well as a large portion of the non-scheduled air transport.

Under the plan announced by Forrestal, the Navy is to retain responsibility for operations of air transport essential to Naval operations.

This would include air transport necessary for internal administration purposes and air transport over routes of sole interest to the Navy where the requirements cannot be met by the facilities of MATS.

New Assignment in 20th A.F.

HQ 20th AIR FORCE—Three assignments of Twentieth Air Force officers, including one commander and two staff officers, have been announced by Major General Francis H. Griswold, Commanding General.

Col. Romulus W. Puryear, former Chief of staff, has assumed command of the 46th Fighter Wing replacing Brig. Gen. Winslow C. Morse, who recently left on a stateside assignment. Col. Francis D. Shoemaker, formerly Air Inspector, is the new Chief of Staff. And, a newcomer to Guam, Col. Joseph W. Baylor, has been appointed Air Inspector.

Col. Romulus W. Puryear (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Col. Puryear, a 1932 graduate of the United States Military Academy, came to Guam last October. At the outbreak of World War II he was executive officer for the Air Force unit at Reykjavik, Iceland, and later commanded the 80th Fighter Wing in New Guinea. His other assignments have included service at Wheeler Field, Hawaii, and at Headquarters Army Air Forces. His last assignment before joining the Far East Air Forces was as deputy to the assistant chief of staff, A-4 (supply), Hq. Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Alabama. His wife, Alice, and their two sons, Romulo and Teddy, will join him later. He was born in Hartsville, Tenn.

Col. Francis D. Shoemaker (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Col. Shoemaker was a student at the Air University, Maxwell Field, Alabama, before coming to the Pacific. On duty in Panama early in the war, he has served at Atlanta, Georgia, Mobile and Birmingham, Alabama, and Greenville, Mississippi. He is a graduate of the Command and General Staff School, Ft Leavenworth, Kansas, as well as the Air Command and Staff School. Originally commissioned in the Infantry Reserve in 1936, he subsequently transferred to the Air Forces in 1938. His wife, the former Suzanne W. Shepherd of Washington, D. C., and their son, Francis Dodge III, are living at 7115 Radnor Road, in Bethesda, Maryland.

Col. Joseph W. Baylor (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Col. Baylor's last duty was as Special Project Officer in the reopening of Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Georgia. In 1944 he supervised redeployment at Headquarters Mediterranean Allied Air Forces. He also headed a committee to implement the Bradley Plan in England. The colonel has also seen duty at Headquarters Army Air Forces, as Chief of the Commitments and Implementation Branch. Mrs. Baylor and their two daughters, Mary Belle and Pamille, now live at 1135 Julia, Albany, Georgia.

Fate Thwarts Father's Plans of Safety

PASADENA, Calif. —(UP)— A year ago, mural artist J. H. Zorthian read of how a tiny boy had been killed in traffic.

Zorthian became obsessed with the fear that the same thing might happen to one of his own children. The more he thought about it, the more fearful he became.

At last he cancelled his negotiations for a home in Pasadena and sought a place where his children would be safe. He put aside all his work while scheming means of keeping his children safe from harm.

He thought of everything. First he bought 12 acres perched on a mountain at the end of a winding, narrow road. At each turn along the road he posted signs: "Children at Play."

Before starting work on the house itself, Zorthian personally built and fenced a play yard for his three children. He built it in such a way that it was impossible for a car to get within 50 feet of it.

Then he built the house, putting into it all the careful design that he concentrated in the murals he was hanging in 42 public buildings in eastern cities. Only this time, the design was for safety as well as beauty.

Finally he built the garage. Only one auto ever drove up to it. That was Zorthian's.

Then he surveyed every possibility of danger to the children. He could think of only one remaining hazard. He had to back in and out of the garage. He might back over one of the children.

He immediately made plans to build a protected turnaround. He was going to pour the concrete for it last week. However, the first rain fell in many weeks of a long California drought, preventing him from doing so.

If it had not rained, the turnaround would have been completed by Sunday when Zorthian's 18-month old son, Tiran, squirmed away from his sister's grasp and ran in front of the car as Zorthian backed it from the garage.

The child was killed instantly.

Can You Beat That?

More than 3,000 World War II veterans are studying in foreign universities under the provisions of the GI Bill of Rights.

A course in after dinner speaking has been given at the U. S. Naval Academy for several years.

The Navy is in farming business on Guam where it operates a dairy and hog farm in addition to raising stateside and tropical produce for consumption by service personnel and civilian workers. Much of the farm products are sold through the island commissaries.

Ever Hear One Like This Before?

A tour of duty on the luxurious sun bathed Isle of Guam would be thankfully accepted by LTJG Edward T. Diberto, a Civil Engineer Corps officer. Until recently a weather observer in Alaska, he is now on duty in Washington. But still he is not out of the grip of cold weather.

However, with the philosophical view born of long contact with the vagaries of Alaskan weather, he is comforting his chilled associates in the Navy Department with the assurance that this mainland, at its current worst, is still not as bad as his previous duty station. In his Alaskan tour of duty:

Rubber tires froze solid, even to flats spots on the bottom;

Vehicles couldn't be started by towing because the frozen grease jammed the gears and the wheels dragged instead of turned;

Cars were always parked with the gear shift engaged in the position to be used when they were started up again, because the transmission grease became so thickened that gear shifting was impossible.

A cruise on the "Gem of the Pacific" is just what Lt. Diberto needs.

STILL GOING THROUGH

CLINTON, N. Y. —(UP)— Cold weather and snow are no barrier to friendly visits between two families living in the Hamilton College Veterans Housing project. Mrs. Dot Granata, of Mt. Vernon, visits Mrs. Bill Kellerhals, New York by crawling through a hole in the wall.

Jersey Exhibits 'Home of Tomorrow'

RARITAN, N. J. —(UP)— A "Home of Tomorrow" with electrical radiant heating—that is, no coal, oil or gas furnace—was exhibited recently.

This new system is practical now where electricity can be obtained cheaply and in the years to come may provide an answer to the country's dwindling oil and coal resources.

The new heating unit is installed in the ceilings of the rooms, and can not be seen. It sends out heat waves that do not warm the air, but do warm objects—and people—in the room.

Officials of the U.S. Rubber Company, which developed the system, pointed out that the sun is the best example of radiant heat in that it heats the earth without heating the atmosphere between the earth and the sun.

The dwelling with the new system, which was exhibited today is a laboratory house. It was put up by the John B. Pierce Foundation and scientists of that organization have been making tests. As part of the experiment, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Johns have agreed to live in the four-room house.

The heating panels, called uskon, are heated by a conductive rubber resistant element.

Scientists explained that rubber normally is an excellent insulator against electricity, but in these panels the chemical nature of the rubber has been reversed, thereby making it conduct electricity current. The panels are made in sizes of four feet by four, but can be manufactured in other sizes

ARC Administrator Makes Inspection Tour of Guam

COMMAR HILL—Mr. Frank T. Cleverly, administrator for foreign operations of the American Red Cross, is on Guam to make an inspection of the Red Cross installations of Guam. The tour of Guam will be the final step on an extensive tour of the Red Cross facilities in the Far East, the first national headquarters inspection in two years.

The principle purpose of the tour, Cleverly said, is to make a survey of the Far East theater of operations so that the Red Cross will be able to plan their future activities.

Cleverly also stated that a study of the civilian Red Cross chapters of Guam will be made.

Among the places visited of the current inspection tour are Japan, Korea, Okinawa, the Philippine Islands and Guam.

ARC to Begin Life Saving Course

COMMAR HILL—The American Red Cross announced recently that it will institute a first aid and water safety course on Guam in the near future. This training course will be given in an attempt to minimize the annual hazard of accidental drownings on Guam and surrounding islands.

Red Cross life saving instructors will be brought to Guam to train life saving and first aid to selected swimmers from the various commands on Guam and Saipan.

Candidates selected for instructor training must have leadership qualifications and teaching aptitudes so that they may teach other personnel from their commands. In the order of preference, those selected should also possess the following skill:

1. Red Cross water safety instructor certificate.
2. Red Cross senior life saving certificate.
3. In the absence of any previous ARC aquatic training, the candidate must possess as a minimum the endurance and skill of a strong swimmer.

Those selected, officer or enlisted man, must also have a minimum of nine months to serve in this command in order to be of any value to this program.

Aim to Provide Instructors

The aim of this program is to provide instructors who in turn will train and qualify sufficient life guards so that all approved swimming facilities will be adequately safeguarded, and who will also be certified and authorized to teach and examine candidates for the course of swimming skills. The majority of drownings results from an ignorance of aquatic knowledge and skills. The knowledge of when and where to swim, and the skill of how to swim practically eliminates accidental aquatic deaths and the aim of the course is to teach sufficient personnel these skills that accidental drowning on Guam will be a thing of the past.

The Guam Chapter American Red Cross will start its annual fund raising campaign on March 1, 1948.

Governor C. A. Pownall appointed Mr. Norbert Tabery, principal of George Washington High School, to head this committee.

Mr. Tabery presents the following summary of activities of the past year as an answer to "why" the Guam Chapter American Red Cross requires the funds which it is seeking.

(a) Reports—such as health, welfare, illness, all of which were needed in deciding questions of discharge, furlough or transfers.

(b) Investigations for "hardship" cases in connection with land and claims commission.

(c) Histories for use by doctors in hospital cases.

(d) Assisted amputees and needy families of those sent off the Island.

(e) Financial assistance in the form of loans were made to sixteen people and grants to four-teen, supplies taken to the leprosarium.

According to Mr. Tabery, $22,000 is needed to fulfill the Red Cross' mission on Guam.

6,000 Miles in Safety, Mishap Within Hour

She flew 6,000 miles from Guam without mishap.

Yet only a few minutes after Shirley June Glimpse, 3, landed in Los Angeles with her mother, she nearly lost her life in a fall from a taxi cab.

Accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Allen Glimpse, and her brother, Raymond, 2, Shirley June arrived from San Francisco after the long flight across the Pacific, where they had visited her father, Navy Electrician's Mate Arthur Glimpse.

They boarded a cab for a ride to a downtown Los Angeles bus depot. A few blocks from the airport the door next to Shirley June flew open and she tumbled into the street.

After flying all the way from Guam, Shirley June suffered a broken collar bone, slight concussion and numerous cuts and bruises on her first day back in the good old USA.

Iwo Jima Battle Bloodiest of War

by 1FC R. A. Suhosky, USMC

"Among the Americans who served on Iwo, uncommon valor was a common virtue." Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander in Chief, U.S. Pacific Fleet

At dawn on D-day, the Marines saw Iwo Jima for the first time. From the transports the desolate, almost treeless, clump of volcanic sand looked harmless and empty enough. Mr. Suribachi at the southern tip seemed much too steep, too barren to hold any defenses of importance.

D-day was Febuurry 19, 1945. But Iwo Jima wasn't harmless. It was close to impregnable. And Mt. Suribachi did hold important defensive emplacements, as well as being an invaluable position from which the Japanese could observe every move the Marines below made.

Paid in Blood

We wanted Iwo and we got it. But we paid for it—in blood. It took 26 days to secure the tiny island, eight square miles in area—at a cost of 19,939 casualties among the three Marine divisions alone.

Months prior to the Marines' landing, Army, Navy and Marine planes, led by Liberators and B-29's of the Seventh Air Force based in the Marianas, began pounding the rock daily with unending relentlessness. But the Japanese were dug in deep, much deeper than on Guadalcanal or Guam. Their defenses were the most elaborate yet to be found on the islands of the Pacific. Every square yard on the island could be covered by at least one heavy Jap gun, some by dozns of them.

The operational plan called for the V Marine Amphibious Corps, composed of the 4th (Commanded then by Major General Clifton B. Cates, now commandant of the Marine Corps) and 5th Marine divisions to land abreast of each other on the sandy beach between Mt. Suribachi and the high ground to the north. The 28th and 27th Marines of the 5th would land on the southern half of the beach with the 26th Marines in reserve. The 4th division would land the 23rd and 25th Marines with the 24th in reserve. The 3rd division was designated as a floating reserve for the 5th Marine Amphibious Corps.

Nine o'clock, February 19, 1945. The Marines were ashore on an island that had always belonged to Japan.

The first wave hit the beach and moved up as much as 300 yards at one point; there was only moderate resistance from the Japs thus far.

Japs Came to Life

By 1000 the assault battalions were ashore. Then the Japs came to life. The beaches, the hills, Mt. Suribachi, all Iwo came to life. Machine guns swept the beaches, the Japanese preponderance of anti-tank guns and mortars cut loose. The volumo of enemy fire increased heavily. The Japs were everywhere.

Casualties began to mount rapidly. It was impossible to seek cover on the flat surface between Suribachi and the high ground to the north. The Marines hugged the soft volcanic sand. Many were dead.

Only when the enemy pillboxes had been eliminated one by one, could the advance continue. By nightfall, the beachhead had been extended 300 to 500 yards from the ocean's edge, extended by the iron hearts of American fighting man.

It was like this for 26 days and nights. Japs and more Japs. Always death. Men who had laughed and joked a week before were no longer laughing and joking. They were dead, their blood drained by the horrible black sand of Iwo Jima.

The 2nd Battalion, 28th Marines turned south to Mt. Suribachi. Naked and dappled like a snake's head, Suribachi rose 556 feet to form the southern tip of Iwo. It took three days to reach the bottom slopes of the steep volcano.

Raised Flag

Then on D-day plus 4, by sheer courage, a 40 man patrol from Easy Company 28th Marines climbed, crawled and fought its way up to the crest, and using a piece of Janapese pipe for a flagpole, raised the American flag. Some of the men down below stood up in their foxholes and wept.

But there was little time for sentiment. The battle for Iwo had hardly begun. Out there in the sliding sand and barren wasteland that smoked from the sulphur in the ground, many of the men who conquered Mt. Suribachi were to be killed or wounded in a few days in fighting that was in many ways more brutal than Suribachi.

Iwo Jima seemed to be a dreary and undesirable wasteland which had not known life for thousands of years. It seems inconceivable to think that men wanted it badly enough to die for it.

But men did die and more than 5500 of them were laid under neat, preise rows of white crosses in the 3rd, 4th and 5th Division cemeteries. They died just three short years ago. Many are alive today because the men who lay beneath those crosses had the courage and strength to give their lives unselfishly.

Observers Restricted At Eniwetok Tests

WASHINGTON—The Atomic Energy Commission has announced that no foreign observers will be permitted at the atomic weapons test at Eniwetok.

A spokesman for the commission said "only United States officials observers will be permitted." He said newsmen will also be excluded.

Declared Off Limits.

The atomic bomb test at Bikini in 1946 was viewed by representatives of Russia and a number of other nations.

Eniwetok was declared off limits for all but authorized visitors beginning January 31.

The Bikini tests were conducted by the Army and Navy jointly before the passage of the Atomic Energy Act. This act set up rigid security requirements and made the commission responsible for their enforcement.

It is imperative that the degree of improvement in the atomic bomb be kept secret. Even casual observation of the explosions from a distance, such as was possible for foreign observers at Bikini, might give valuable evidence.

NATS - ATC Merged Into One Unit

Defense Secretary James Forrestal has announced the merger of the Naval Air Transport Service and the Air Transport Service effective March 1, 1948.

Maj. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter of the Air Forces has been named commander of the combined service. Radm. John P. Whitney, USN, was named deputy commander.

To be Called MATS

The combined transport service will be called "the Military Air Transport Service," or MATS, and will be established under the Air Force.

MATS will operate substantially all scheduled air transport required by the Armed Forces and the national military establishment as well as a large portion of the non-scheduled air transport.

Under the plan announced by Forrestal, the Navy is to retain responsibility for operations of air transport essential to Naval operations.

This would include air transport necessary for internal administration purposes and air transport over routes of sole interest to the Navy where the requirements cannot be met by the facilities of MATS.

New Assignment In 20th A.F.

HQ 20th AIR FORCE—Three assignments of Twentieth Air Force officers, including one commander and two staff officers, have been announced by Major General Francis H. Griswold, Commanding General.

Col. Romulus W. Puryear, former Chief of staff, has assumed command of the 6th Fighter Wing, replacing Brig. Gen. Winslow C. Morse, who recently left for a stateside assignment Col. Francis D. Shoemaker, formerly Air Inspector, is the new Chief of Staff. And, a newcomer to Guam, Col. Joseph W. Baylor, has been appointed Air Inspector.

Col. Puryear, a 1932 graduate of the United States Military Academy, came to Guam last October. At the outbreak of World War II he was executive officer for the Air Force unit at Reykjavik, Iceland, and later commanded the 86th Fighter Wing in New Guinea. His other assignments have included service at Wheeler Field, Hawaii, and at Headquarters Army Air Forces His last assignment before joining the Far East Air Forces was as deputy to the assistant chief of staff, A-4 (supply), Hq. Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Alabama. His wife, Alice, and their two sons, Rommie and Teddy will join him later. He was born in Hartsville, Tenn.

Col. Shoemaker was a student at the Air University, Maxwell Field, Alabama, before coming to the Pacific. On duty in Panama early in the war, he has served at Atlanta, Georgia; Mobile and Birmingham, Alabama, and Greenville, Mississippi. He is a graduate of the Command and General Staff School, Ft Leavenworth, Kansas, as well as the Air Command and Staff School. Originally commissioned in the Infantry Reserve in 1936, he subsequently transferred to the Air Force in 1938. His wife, the former Suzanne W. Shepherd of Washington, D. C., and their son, Francis Dodge III, are living at 7115 Radnor Road, in Bethesda, Maryland.

Col. Baylor's last duty was as Special Project Officer in the reopening of Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Georgia. In 1944 he supervised redeployment at Headquarters Mediterranean Allied Air Force. He also headed a committee to implement the Bradley Plan in England. The colonel has also seen duty at Headquarters Army Air Forces, as Chief of the Commitments and Implementation Branch. Fate Thwarts Father's Plans of Safety

PASADENA, Calif. —(UP)— A year ago, mural artist J. H. Zorthian read of how a tiny boy had been killed in traffic.

Zorthian became obsessed with the fear that the same thing might happen to one of his own children. The more he thought about it, the more fearful he became.

At last he cancelled his negotiations for a home in Pasadena and sought a place where his children would be safe. He put aside all his work while scheming means of keeping his children safe from harm.

He thought of everything. First he bought 12 acres perched on a mountain at the end of a winding, narrow road. At each turn along the road he posted signs: "Children at Play."

Before starting work on the house itself, Zorthian personally built and fenced a play yard for his three children. He built it in such a way that it was impossible for a car to get within 50 feet of it.

Then he built the house, putting into it all the careful design that he concentrated in the murals he was hanging in 42 public buildings in eastern cities. Only this time, the design was for safety as well as beauty.

Finally he built the garage. Only one auto ever drove up to it. That was Zorthian's.

Then he surveyed every possibility of danger to the children. He could think of only one remaining hazard. He had to back in and out of the garage. He might back over one of the children.

He immediately made plans to build a protected turnaround. He was going to pour the concrete for it last week. However, the first rain fell in many weeks of a long California drought, preventing him from doing so.

If it had not rained, the turnaround would have been completed by Sunday when Zorthian's 18-month old son, Tiran, squirmed away from his sister's grasp and ran in front of the car as Zorthian backed it from the garage.

The child was killed instantly.

Can You Beat That ?

More than 3,000 World War II veterans are studying in foreign universities under the provisions of the GI Bill of Rights.

A course in after dinner speaking has been given at the U. S. Naval Academy for several years.

The Navy is in farming business on Guam where it operates a dairy and hog farm in addition to raising stateside and tropical produce for consumption by service personnel and civilian workers. Much of the farm products are sold through the island commissaries.

Ever Hear One Like This Before?

A tour of duty on the luxurious sun bathed Isle of Guam would be thankfully accepted by LTJG Edward T. Diberio, a Civil Engineer Corps officer. Until recently a weather observer in Alaska, he is now on duty in Washington. But still he is not out of the grip of cold weather.

However, with the philosophical view born of long contact with the vagaries of Alaskan weather, he is comforting his chilled associates in the Navy Department with the assurance that the mainland, at its current worst, is still not as bad as his previous duty station. In his Alaskan tour of duty:

Rubber tires froze solid, even to flats spots on the bottom;

Vehicles couldn't be started by towing because the frozen grease jammed the gears and the wheels dragged instead of turned;

Cars were always parked with the gear shift engaged in the position to be used when they were started up again, because the transmission grease became so thickened that gear shifting was impossible.

A cruise on the "Gem of the Pacific" is just what Lt. Diberto needs.

Jersey Exhibits 'Home of Tomorrow'

RARITAN, N. J. —(UP)— A "Home of Tomorrow" with electrical radiant heating—that is, no coal, oil or gas furnace—was exhibited recently.

This new system is practical now where electricity can be obtained cheaply and in the years to come may provide an answer to the country's dwindling oil and coal resources.

The new heating unit is installed in the ceilings of the rooms, and can not be seen. It sends out heat waves that do not warm the air, but do warm objects—and people—in the room.

Officials of the U.S. Rubber Company, which developed the system, pointed out that the sun is the best example of radiant heat in that it heats the earth without heating the atmosphere between the earth and the sun.

The dwelling with the new system which was exhibited today is a laboratory house. It was put up by the John B. Pierce Foundation and scientists of that organization have been making tests. As part of the experiment, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Johns have agreed to live in the four-room house.

The heating panels, called uskon, are heated by a conductive rubber resistant element.

Scientists explained that rubber normally is an excellent insulator against electricity, but in these panels the chemical nature of the rubber has been reversed, thereby making it conduct electrical current. The panels are made in sizes of four feet by four, but can be manufactured in other sizes.

ARC Administrator Makes Inspection Tour of Guam

COMMAR HILL—Mr. Frank T. Cleverly, administrator for foreign operations of the American Red Cross, is on Guam to make an inspection of the Red Cross installations of Guam. The tour of Guam will be the final step on an extensive tour of the Red Cross facilities in the Far East, the first national headquarters inspection in two years.

The principle purpose of the tour, Cleverly said, is to make a survey of the Far East theater of operations so that the Red Cross will be able to plan their future activities.

Cleverly also stated that a study of the civilian Red Cross chapters of Guam will be made.

Among the places visited of the current inspection tour are Japan, Korea, Okinawa, the Philippine Islands and Guam.

ARC to Begin Life Saving Course

COMMAR HILL—The American Red Cross announced recently that it will institute a first aid and water safety course on Guam in the near future. This training course will be given in an attempt to minimize the annual hazard of accidental drownings on Guam and surrounding islands.

Red Cross life saving instructors will be brought to Guam to train life saving and first aid to selected swimmers from the various commands on Guam and Saipan.

Candidates selected for instructor training must have leadership qualifications and teaching aptitudes so that they may teach other personnel from their commands. In the order of preference, those selected should also possess the following skills:

1. Red Cross water safety instructor certificate.
2. Red Cross senior life saving certificate.
3. In the absence of any previous ARC aquatic training, the candidate must possess as a minimum the endurance and skill of a strong swimmer.

Those selected, officer or enlisted man, must also have a minimum of nine months to serve in this command in order to be of any value to this program.

Aim to Provide Instructors

The aim of this program is to provide instructors who in turn will train and qualify sufficient life guards so that all approved swimming facilities will be adequately safeguarded, and who will also be certified and authorized to teach and examine candidates for the course of swimming skills. The majority of drownings results from an ignorance of aquatic knowledge and skills. The knowledge of when and where to swim, and the skill of how to swim practically eliminates accidental aquatic deaths and the aim of the course is to teach sufficient personnel these skills that accidental drowning on Guam will be a thing of the past.

The Guam Chapter American Red Cross will start its annual fund raising campaign on March 1, 1948.

Governor C. A. Pownall appointed Mr. Norbert Tabery, principal of George Washington High School, to head this committee.

Mr. Tabery presents the following summary of activities of the past year as an answer to "why" the Guam Chapter American Red Cross requires the funds which it is seeking.

(a) Reports—such as health, welfare, illness, all of which were needed in deciding questions of discharge, furlough or transfers.

(b) Investigations for "hardship" cases in connection with land and claims commission.

(c) Histories for use by doctors in hospital cases.

(d) Assisted amputees and needy families of those sent off the Island.

(e) Financial assistance in the form of loans were made to sixteen people and grants to fourteen, supplies taken to the leprosarium.

According to Mr. Tabery, $22,000 is needed to fulfill the Red Cross' mission on Guam.

6,000 Miles in Safety, Mishap Within Hour

She flew 6,000 miles from Guam without mishap.

Yet only a few minutes after Shirley June Glimpse, 3, landed in Los Angeles with her mother, she nearly lost her life in a fall from a taxi cab.

Accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Allen Glimpse, and her brother, Raymond, 2, Shirley June arrived from San Francisco after the long flight across the Pacific, where they had visited her father, Navy Electrician's Mate Arthur Glimpse.

They boarded a cab for a ride to a downtown Los Angeles bus depot. A few blocks from the airport the door next to Shirley June flew open and she tumbled into the street.

After flying all the way from Guam, Shirley June suffered a broken collar bone, slight concussion and numerous cuts and bruises on her first day back in the good old USA.

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Jerry Austin, Hollywood's smallest actor, does his biggest job on fan mail.

Austin is the only actor in town who not only answers his own fan letters but prints his own fan pictures.

"I used to run a photograph studio in New York," he explained. "When I get a batch of fan letters I print up another batch of my pictures. Sign them myself too; in fact, I even lick the envelopes."

Austin has licked close to 2,000 envelopes to fans who wrote in about his performances as Ingrid Bergman's dwarf Cupidon in "Saratoga Trunk." He says the letters are still coming in.

Went on Road

That was the 3-foot-6-inch Austin's last part before his current assignment as the king's jester in Warner Bros. production of "Don Juan." He wasn't offered any good pictures in between so he went on the road as a night club entertainer.

"I'd rather work in night clubs than movies any time," he said. "I like to get out with the people. I've been around the world a couple of times entertaining in clubs, and it's fun.

"But it's a funny thing about people. They'll sit down with an actor in night clubs and buy you a drink and they'll write you fan letters but they wouldn't dream of inviting you home to dinner with their wives and kids.

"All over the country——every place but in Hollywood——people still think that if you're an actor you're not quite nice. They figure you as an entertainer, not as a social equal."

Austin told the story of a singer who was invited to a dinner party and after dinner was asked to sing. He sang, but stopped just before the end.

"Why didn't you finish?" the hostess inquired.

"I didn't have dessert," the singer said.

Austin feels that same way now about people who entertain him.

"When people ask to buy me a drink, I always order champagne," he said. "It costs more, although I'd rather drink rye."

Romantic Suicides Soaring in Japan

by Earnest Hoberecht
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO —(UP)— Romantic Japanese couples are finding that the course of Democratic love does not always run smoothly. Many are turning to the traditional "double suicide" as the only solution to their troubles.

Police estimated that nearly 10 per cent of the 103 suicides here in the past 30 days were "love suicides."

Japan's teen-agers thought the golden era had arrived when the new "democratized" civil law went into effect last month. The law says boys 18 and girls 16 may get married without their parents' consent "if mutually in love."

It was a revolutionary change, since it opens the way for love marriages in place of family arranged unions.

The cold fact of the situation is that young hearts still are not absolutely free.

Can't Beat Traditions

Many prospective brides and grooms find they can't beat Japan's feudalistic traditions which grew up around the centuries-old "family system."

Technically, the new civil law abolishes the family system. Yet lovers find that the law exists more in theory than practice. For hundreds of years, papa or some elder relative has been running the show and the jitterbugging new generation is finding that the "head of the family" has little inclination to release the reins.

Parents Threaten

Strong-headed youngsters who marry without permission sometimes find that their parents threaten to disown them. The children still do not know that the new civil law prevents the father from cutting them off without a yen.

Women students struck back with a threat——published in campus news papers——to boycott any and all members of the GETS. No dates.

Counter Organization

A counter organization was formed promptly. It calls itself the Go-Getters and its reported purpose was to tell the GETS where to get off, to picket all rallies, and to uphold woman's historic right to receive.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive," the girls reminded the GETS.

"It is also more expensive," said Katz.

Up And Down Broadway

by Jack Gaver
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK —(UP)— The Garson Kanin comedy "Born Yesterday" is now working on its third year. The play passed the two-year mark on Feb. 4, becoming the third current Broadway show to do so.

The oldest of the lot is the musical play "Oklahoma" which will be five years old March 31. "Harvey" is next, having passed the three-year mark last November 1.

Almost two years ago producer Max Gordon predicted that "Born Yesterday" would surpass any of his long-run successes, which included "My Sister Eileen," still the Gordon champion at 865 performances. However, "Born Yesterday" will pass that mark on Feb. 26. It is a fact that Gordon's present play has far surpassed any of his other shows in the matter of receipts.

Now a deal virtually has been completed for the Luxemborg radio to air the Dorsey platters. It would be spotted from 11 p.m. to midnight on this powerful station which dominates Western Europe at that time because BBC in London and the U. S. Campus Cold War Rises From Male Gift Giving

by Patricia Clary
United Press Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— A "cold war" between the sexes has developed on college campuses in the Philadelphia area.

The issue at stake? Emancipation of the American male gift giver. Particularly on St. Valentine's day.

"It isn't fair," said members of the new anti-gift organization. "We are tired of giving something to our women and receiving nothing more than a chaste peck on the cheek. It's time for the girls to give us presents."

The "GETS"

The group, which calls itself the "Gets"——short for the Guild of Enlightened and Thrifty Spenders ——already has branched out from Temple University to the University of Pennsylvania and other nearby schools and is planning to carry its crusade to more distant fields.

The GETS have launched an advertising campaign in their fight between "them that gives (the men) and them that gets (the women)."

St. Valentine's day particularly is dreaded by the mere male, said the founder, Aaron Katz, because of "its undemocratic practice of sending presents to women who selfishly accept them as their due."

This year, he said, the worm will turn, and "we will demand as our rightful due a gift from every girl who accepts our Valentine presents."

Naval Salvaging Saves Taxpayers Millions

Clearfield Has Virtual Assembly Line

by Murray M. Moler
United Press Staff Correspondent

CLEARFIELD, Utah —(UP)— A virtual assembly line has been set up in one of the big warehouses at the Clearfield Naval Supply depot for reservation and packaging of scarce Naval supplies.

The primary objective of the assembly line is to get supplies to the far-flung Naval operation units as needed in perfect shape, or to preserve war-built items for future use if and when needed. Officers said the preservation program alone saves taxpayers millions of dollars a year.

Foreign Distribution

Not all the boxes filling the outgoing end of the warehouses are labeled for American use. Some have tags showing they are bound for Turkey as part of the United States' program of furnishing material aid to friendly states in the Near East.

The boxes made at Clearfield for storage or shipment range in size from a "vest pocket" edition to huge crates holding big lathes worth thousands of dollars—lathes that can't readily be duplicated or replaced.

Come From All Over

They come to Clearfield from deactivated Naval units, afloat and ashore, all over the world but particularly the Pacific area. Regardless of where the supplies come from or where they are going, the officers in charge are particularly proud of the way they are handled.

If a workman lies lown on the job or becomes careless, he gets into trouble fast with Naval Lieut. Robert Von Christierson, in charge of the program, or A. W. Wightman, civilian foreman packer in charge.

Knows Importance

How does the program work? Well, take that gun barrel over there—a barrel for a .50 caliber machine gun.

After it comes from the factory, it was encased—for war-time use—in old-fashioned "casmoline," a hard, sticky petroleum jelly.

That preservative caused considerable trouble during the war, because it was hard to get off quickly and also picked up dirt.

So the gun barrel came to Clearfield.

Metallurgists looked it over. So did expert packers and preservers. They decided that the old covering could be best removed through dipping it in an acid bath.

Then the barrel is dipped in a black solution that sticks on all the metal surfaces and keeps them clean and oiled and protected from dirt and the elements.

Next the barrel goes down the line to the wrappers. It is covered with waterproof paper at least once and labeled, inside and out. From the wrappers, it goes, with four other barrels—into a box fabricated at the depot's "pre-fab" box plant. Then it is taken to a storage warehouse.

Big machines can't be coated with preservative. But their vital parts are. Then they are loosely wrapped and fully crated.

Some supplies, such as engine pistons, are dipped in a quick-setting plastic that comes off like a zippered jacket. Intricate machines, such as motors and radios, that can't be dipped or coated, are fitted with special paper, foil and sometimes wax wrappings, then boxed.

New Development

A new development of which Von Christierson and Wightman are particularly proud is a canner. It places items such as spark plugs in ordinary "No. 10" cans and seals them up—just like fruit. The cans are good for 20 years, they estimate.

Rocket Trip to Moon Held Possible But Not Just Yet: Costs Too Much

by James Hodson
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK —(UP)— Put your designs for a lunar retreat back in the hope chest. The chances are there won't be any trip to the moon this lifetime.

The authority for the statement is Hugh L. Dryden, director of aeronautical research with the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Dryden was one of hundreds of aviatic... experts from all over the country attending the sixteenth annual meeting of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

It Can Be Done

Commenting on the chances of man embarking via space ship to the moon during the next half century, the aviation expert said, "I think that would be rushing things a bit."

He said, however, that scientists are now "positive" they could make the 239,000-mile trip. "But it would take millions of dolars to build a ship that would go to the moon," Dryden said. "Three-fourth of its weight would have to be fuel, unless we discover a much more efficient engine than we have."

He said each step taken in making rocket engines more efficient brings us one move closer to setting off for the moon — with a cheaper engine than is available now.

Cost Too Great

But using the engines of today, it would take hundreds of tons of rocket fuel to propel a small weight —say, 50 pounds—to the moon, the aeronautics specialist said. That would cost someone a few million dollars.

To get an idea of how much it would cost to launch a full-fledged rocket ship with living accomodations, multiply that a few more times and it gets into billions.

"As yet, no one thinks the trip would be worth that kind of money," Dryden said.

Dryden added that he would hesitate to say successful trips to the moon won't be made in the next hundred years. "Experiments in the last few years show us that the trip is possible," he said.

Pirates First Club In Majors With All Players Signed

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 —(UP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished at the bottom in the National League last season, reversed themselves today and led the field for a change, being the first club in the majors to report all of its players signed up and happy for 1948.

The Pirates, with a new manager, Bill Meyer from Kansas City, and with virtually a complete new starting lineup, are the number one dark horse team in the National League race. There was a brand new attitude among the players from the general unhappiness which prevailed in 1947.

Not a bonafide holdout was posted during the entire period of salary negotiations and the club had a deal with some established major league stars. These included Dixie Walker, the old "Pride of Flatbush," who admitted that in his first year at Pittsburgh he is being paid more than he ever made in Brooklyn or anywhere else; Pitchers Kirby Higbe, Hal Gregg and Vic Lombardi, three more ex-Dodger sharpies; and Ralph Kiner, the sophomore home run star who blasted 51 round-trippers last season.

Last of the Pirates to sign was Outfielder Wally Westlak, who may have to fight for a job as regular behind a first string trio of Walker in right, Johnny Hopp in center, and Kiner in left. Westlake was a .273 hitter last year, batting in 69 runs and hitting 17 homers.

Branch Rickey Standing by Charge That Major League Owners Made Attempts to Bar Negro Players

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight stood by his charge that baseball club owners made a concorted effort to keep Negroes out of organized baseball despite denials from other owners.

"The best proof is production of the locument," he said. "That's all I have to say to you."

Asked if he had any idea where the document might be available he snapped, "I do not."

Rickey dodged the press successfully most of today when newsmen sought to question him concerning his statement at Wilberforce, Ohio, that major league clu owners at a meeting in Cleveland April 26, 1945, adopted a resolution opposing the introduction of Negroes into baseball on the grounds that it would jeopardize organized baseball's entire investment.

Rickey obviously was unwilling to elaborate on his charge. He claimed in his speech last night that the other 15 club owners read the statement and approved it unaninously but that he refrained from voting.

Some other club owners however were quick to deny the alleged agreement or "didn't recall" the meeting at which it was brought up. Others had no comment.

One of the most forthright in his denial was Alva Bradley, then owner of the Cleveland Indians.

He said it was "untrue" that major league owners ever adoptd a statement opposing entry of Negro players in the majors.

"Major league owners would never be unwise enough to do a thing like that," Bradley declared, at Cleveland adding that he had "no recollection" of any such stand.

"In 1945," he pointed out, "there was only one Negro player even mentioned as being of major league caliber. That was the pitcher, Satchel Paige, and he was making more money on the outside than he ever could have in organized big league baseball. I don't think Paige would have considered coming in."

Rickey said that at the time the action was taken the club owners knew that he was spending $25,000 a year scouting Negro players.

NATS Asia Softballers Blank Fifth Service Leathernecks, 7-0

Bernard Carlock, NATS Asia ace hurler, joined the ranks of no-hit pitchers yesterday by hurling a perfect game against the Fifth Service Leathernecks. NATS Asia won, 7-0, and the Leathernecks found themselves still hitless after two games of Inter-Command League play.

Carlock's no-hit game was a repeat performance of "Pappy" Granger's exhibition against the same team last Sunday. Lloyd Bethman also starred for NATS as he slammed out a home run with the bases loaded in the last of the third. It was Bethman's second home run and he now leads that department.

Tigers Announce Signing, Release

DETROIT —(UP)— The Detroit Tigers announced the signing of another squad member and the outright release of veteran relief Pitcher Johnny Gorsica.

Gorsica and rookie First Baseman Robert Moyer were assigned to Seattle, Detroit farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Club officials said they had received a signed contract from rookie Outfielder John Creel, who hit .282 last year with Dallas of the Texas League. They said nine members of the 39-man roster remained unsigned.

Reds Owner Denies Plans to Sell Club

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 18 —(UP) Powel Crosley, Jr., owner of the Cincinnati Reds, today denied that he planned to sell the National League baseball club to George F. Kinkead, Louisville, Ky.

"I've heard a lot of rumors that I was going to sell the club in the last few years and there was nothing to them," Crosley said.

"This is the first time I have heard about this one, and there's nothing to it," he added. "It's news to me."

Kinkead, who has been trying to swing a deal for the St. Louis Browns, said at St. Louis today he also was negotiating to buy a National League club. Kinkead didn't say, but indicated the club was Cincinnati.

Navy All Stars Edge 20th AF Five by 46-44 Count

Trailing by seven points with less than a minute to play, the Guam Navy All Star quintet rallied to eke out a 46-44 victory over the Air Force cage squad on the losers' court last night.

As the precious seconds ticked away in the final quarter of the contest, the Air Force crew held a 44 to 39 advantage until Red Edwards drew a foul shot and sank it to come forth with the needed spark to get the attack rolling.

Jim Hawkins, scrappy all star forward, left the game on fouls with only thirty seconds remaining. His relief, Earl Whitely, equally scrappy in the waning seconds intercepted an Air Force pass and soloed for a lay-up which knotted the score. Steady Cy Cassidy was next in line to steal the ball as he found Larry Horan open; Cassidy tossed a quick backhand pass to the lanky forward who swished the twine for what proved to be the winning margin.

The game was nip and tuck all the way with the Navy five leading at the end of the first period, 12-11, only to trail at the half, 23-22.

Fast breaking and pass interceptions boosted the Air Force lead to 35-33 in the third quarter and in the first seven minutes of the final period the Navy was unable to score.

Hardy of the Air Force dumped in 17 points to take scoring honors for the evening while Horan led the Navy All Stars with 14 points.

Central League to Open With Six Clubs

DETROIT —(UP)— The newly-formed Central Class A Baseball League, rushing to complete its organization before opening day April 28, decided today to launch its 140 game schedule with only six teams instead of the eight teams originally planned.

League members voted unanimously to drop Royal Oak, Mich., from the league rather than take a chance on an eighth team joining before the season gets underway.

Members are Saginaw, Flint, Grand Rapids and Muskegon in Michigan and Dayton, O., and Fort Worth, Ind.

Paseo 10-Round Non-Title Bout Features Campo, Jones

Little Campo, Marianas bantamweight champ and long a favorite of Guam fight fans, and Ivan Jones, ringwise former Maine featherweight title holder, will meet in a ten round non-title bout tomorrow night at the Paseo De Susana.

The scrap, the main event of a fight-packed card, will highlight an evening of boxing staged for the benefit of the Guam Memorial Hospital fund.

Little Campo will take on the Maine featherweight with an eight pound disadvantage, but his advantage in reach and height is expected to make up for the difference in weight.

Ivan Jones, with a long line of pro fights behind him, should give the Guamanian boy a good fight although the former Portland, Maine, champ came out with a draw in his first appearance in the local ring against Baby Freddie a month ago.

In the five round semi-final clash, Earl Boulden, of Harmon Field, and Sammy Diaz, Post Engineers and Honolulu, are slated to vie in the welterweight bracket.

A four round special bout will offer the local fight fans a look at Jesse Aguon, 108-pound pride and joy of Toto Village, as he meets Rodolfo Raguiman, 110-pounds from MKK.

Also scheduled to start off the evening's fistic entertainment are four action crammed preliminary bouts.

At this time word has not been received regarding the raffle that would determine winners of prizes offered earlier. Officials are still awaiting word from the Guamanian lawmakers as to whether the drawing may proceed as planned.

20th Air Force Quint to Meet Marbo Champs

The Guam All Stars of Twentieth Air Force swamped an Iwo Jima basketball team with two straight wins to earn the right to play the Marbo champs next week according to an announcement made yesterday. Winning the first tilt by a lopsided, 87-34, score, they wound up the tourney with a 76-42 victory.

A team from 22nd Station Hospital is expected to meet the Fly-Boys in a three game series scheduled to begin February 23. The outcome of that contest will decide who will represent the Marianas in a later match to be played at Yokohama to determine the championship Far East Command.

Members of the Air Force All Stars playing in the tourney were Stevenson, McEwen, York, Mitchell, Hardy, Brewer, Drenning and Butler from North Field and Washington, Wiley and Cherry from 20th Air Force Headquarters.

Kids Move South to Try Out For Big League Berth

NEW YORK —(UP)— This is the time of the year when every embryonic Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson and Babe Ruth in the country packs his grip and begins making plans for an invasion of Florida or California.

It's coming precariously close to "tryout time" and many ambitious youngsters throughout the land will avail themselves the opportunity of getting a baseball trail with one of the 16 big league clubs which starts spring training shortly.

Not that the kids will be invited, you undertsand. But they'll come anyway. They always have during past springs and it's a lead-pipe cinch they aren't planning to stop now.

Some of the youngsters turn up at the ballpark, wander inconspicuously into the outfield and then tear up the turf digging for lofty fly balls or screaming line drives while the regular flychasers stand around and discuss how they spent the winter.

The more brazen aspirants walk up to the club owner (the manager will do if the owner isn't around), blandly inform their listener how much ability they have and casually inquire where to find the nearest uniform and contract. A surprising number of novices wangle workouts despite most managers' insistence that there isn't enough time even to inspect all the players on the regular roster.

In order to meet expenses for his trial, one candidate who was working out with the Philadelphia Phillies last year took a job as busboy in a Florida hotel where the Phils were stopping.

The lad's name was Phil Kennedy. He came from Brookyln, N.Y. and was gifted with considerable enterprise in addition to baseball ability. When Philie Manager Ben Chapman complained of a lack of butter for his rolls, in the hotel dining room, Kennedy made the kitchen in 10 seconds flat and returned with two or three extra slabs for Boss Benny.

Impressed, Chapman took a closer look at the youngster during the next few days and eventually decided there was a place for him with the Phillies' Utica farm club in the Eastern League.

Uninvited youngsters, however, rarely catch on. Managers reason that if the kids had any ability to begin with, some scout would have signed them before.

This circumstance does not discourage the new Cobbs, Johnsons and Ruths.

Mel Ott

Giant Fans Look For Strong '48 Team From Mel Ott

NEW YORK —(UP)— Mel Ott will be only 39 on March 2, but the New York Giants' pitching problem may stipple his dark hair with silver before the next world series.

The former "boy wonder" of the Polo Grounds' right field is in a predicament as he plans for his seventh season at the Giants helm.

Little Mel knows that Giant fans, though among the most faithful in the major leagues, will expect him to produce a pennant winner in 1948—or at least a runner-up.

Those fans are flag-famished now. For 10 long years the Giants haven't won a pennant. Under Bill Terry, they finished first in 1937, then they dropped to third in '38 and then down into second division.

Not since the beginning of modern major league baseball in 1901 have Giant fans had to endure a similar 10-year stretch of pennant hunger.

Even in 1946, when the club finished last, the home fans supported it whole-heartedly with an attendance of 1,234,733—third largest in the league. And last season they set a new Polo Grounds record of 1,599,784. That figure was topped only by Brooklyn's 1,807,-586, a new National circuit record.

The approaching season is the one in which the standard of major league play i ssuposed to attain pre-warpar—in which baseball conditions are supposed to be normal Because of that supposition, the attitude of pennant hungry Giant fans will change toward Ott, if he doesn't come up with a contender. No one knows it better than little Mel.

Ott told reporters that he had canvassed every club in the league in a futile attempt to make a deal in chich he coull get at least one good pitcher. His last hope is that he may be able to get a flinger from Eddie Dyer of the Cardinals.

If Mel can't get Murray Dickman or Harry Brecheen from Dyer in a dealing involving a Giant outfielder, he will be forced to depend upon improvement of flingers who were questionable last season—Clint Hartung, Mort Cooper, Joe Beggs, and Monte Kennedy. These would help Larry Jansen, Dave Koslo and Ken Trinkle, who did fairly win in '47.

'Three-Fingered' Brown One of All-Time Pitching Greats

by United Press

MORDECAI (Three-Fingered) Brown became one of baseball's greatest pitchers mainly because of an accident that would have kept most boys down on the farm.

Long before Brown dreamed of becoming a big league player, he performed for an Indiana semi-pro team at third base on Sundays. During the week, he worked on the farm.

One day, Brown caught his hand in a corn shredder. He lost the top half of his index finger on the right hand. Far from being a cripple, Brown developed his handicap and became one of the national pastime's greatest "control" pitchers.

For six seasons in a row, Brown won more than 20 games for the Chicago Cubs of the National League. In four of those seasons, he starred in World Series competition.

The "stump" of his index finger enabled Brown to put "something extra" on his pitches. Most of his victories on the mound stemmed from his unusual ability to command the ball.

Brown's nickname of "Three-Fingered" was a natural from the first day he stepped into the box for the Coxville, Ind., Merchants to pitch against Brazil. Coxville's regular hurler had failed to show up and Brown was moved over from third base in a pinch.

Brown didn't stop pitching until 1920, when he retired after winning 181 games in big league competition. Most of his career was spent with the Chicago Cubs of the "Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance" era.

Even after he became a great pitcher, Brown was respected almost as much as a "fifth" infielder and a slugger. He got his professional start with Terre Haute Tots of the old Three-Eye-League in 1901. After a season with Omaha, Brown went to the St. Louis Cardinals. But he hit his stride in the eight years from 1904 to 1912, when he was with the Cubs.

An old-fashioned overhand pitcher, Brown had a knack of putting a sudden "drop" on his pitches. Batters were unable to get under the pitch and the ball more often than not went into the ground to be scooped by three-fingered himsef.

Old-timers still talk about the duels between Brown and Christy Matthewson and other pitchers of the era. Brown seemed to thrive on tough assignments. His 26 victories in 1906, 20 in 1907, and 29 in 1908 helped the Cubs to three pennants. In the next three years he won 27, 25, and 21, respectively, and only two times lost more than 10 games.

Pacific Coast Baseball Stars Get Crack at Majors

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— The Pacific Coast League's annual harvest of stars will net in the neighborhood of 30 potential big league ball players for the majors when thy open training in March.

Among the most publicized of these getting a crack at the big time will be a battery purchased by the Pittsburgh Pirates——Pitcher Bob Chesnes of the San Francisco Seals, and Catcher Eddie Fitzgerald of the Sacramento Solons.

Chesnes, a big right-hander who came to the Seals from their Salt Lake City class C farm at the start of the 1947 season, won 22 and lost eight——despite a sore arm.

Reds to Get West

Fitzgerald's experience is limited to a single season at Wenatchee and another at Sacramento, but nevertheless he cuts quite a figure in the Pittsburgh plans. He worked 144 games in 1947, batting .363, stealing 26 bases and leaving the paying customers somewhat goggle-eyed with his meteoric dashes to back up throws at first and third.

Los Angeles Pitcher Cliff Chambers, who led the league in wins with 24 triumps, gets another chance with the parent Chicago Cubs——and so does Outfielder Clarence Maddern, who clouted .332 for the Angels last year.

The home run king of the last season, Max West, of the San Diego Padres, gets another shot at the big time——with Pittsburgh. He formerly labored for the Cincinnati Reds. West smashed 43 home runs while batting at a clip for the Padres.

Jackie Jensen Ineligible to Play For Bears

BERKLEY, Cal. —(UP)— Scholarship deficiencies have forced athlete Jackie Jensen of the University of California to abandon plans for participation in spring sports at the school.

Jensen, who won six games last season for California's national collegiate baseball champions, also was declared ineligible for spring football practice, although he may be cleared in time for the regular season. Jensen was a triple threat fullback star in last year's surprising Bear football comeback.

Pitcher Dick Larner was also declared ineligible for academic reasons.

Evans Flays Signing Of College Stars

OAKLAND, Calif. —(UP)— Clint Evans, head coach of the University of California's NCCA national championship baseball team, urged major league scouts to stay away from college ball players until they graduate from school.

"Our records show that when a college baseball player is signed to a professional contract in either his freshman or sophomore year, he usually fails to go far in professional baseball," said Evans.

"On the other hand, if the lad is allowed to develop and graduate from college, more often than not he then makes good in Triple-A baseball or the majors."

Racing Fans Worried Over Armed's Slump

NEW YORK —(UP)— With another race under his belt, Calumet Farm's Citation will be ready for Circle M. Farm's Relic and the Flamingo stakes, but Armed has become a question mark.

Making his 1948 debut against older horses Citation ran a good race to win the six furlong Groundhog purse at Hialeah in 1:10 2-5 but Armed beat only one horse in the field and was nearly six lengths behind his younger stablemate at the finish.

Some observers reported that Armed sulked during the race but trainer Jimmy Jones who watched his crack horse perform with mingled emotions wasn't sure.

ComMar Puts Title Hopes in Hurlers

Backed by an experienced pitching staff and a wealth of veteran ballplayers, the defending ComMar softball team should go far in defending the Island crown they won last year on the softball diamonds

Iron Mike Simerly is back on the mound for the Hilltoppers and he will be assisted by Red headed Jim Morris, another fine hurler.

Coach J. S Skoczylas wouldn't make any promises, but he inferred that the other teams on the Island are going to have to have a lot on the ball to topple ComMar from their perch as the Guam softball champs.

In preseason practice games ComMar dumped the 1st Marine Brigade by a 5 to 4 count and then beat them in a return engagement 3 to 1. The 5th Service Leathernecks were shut out 3 to 0 by the ComMar chuckers in the windup.

When the season got underway last Sunday the potent 1st Tripple "A" Marines went down before Simerly's two-hit pitching 7 to 0.

ComMar holds a healthy respect for the league powerhouses like NAS Agana and the Naval Supply Center; but are putting a lot of faith in Simerly and Morris to silence the big bats of the opposing sluggers. "Pappy" Granger twirled the first no-hitter of the season Sunday for Agana, but Simerly has a reputation for coming up with a bingleless ball game too, and Iron Mike wields the club at the plate with the best of them. In his inaugural against the Marines he clouted a homer in the sixth inning.

First Sacker, Rookie Pitcher Sign With Tribe

CLEVELAND —(UP)— First baseman Eddie Robinson and Rookie Pitcher Dick Rozek, whom Bob Feller discovered in the Navy, returned contracts to the Cleveland Indians, making a total of 23 players signed so far by the Tribe.

Robinson, 27, of Paris, Tex., hit .245 last season. He suffered a fractured ankle in August and was benched often during the season. He drove in 52 runs and slammed 14 homers.

Rozek, 20-year old Cedar Rapids, Ia., left-hander, is regarded by Feller as a fine prospect. They played together on service teams.

Last year, Rozek pitched for Meridan, Miss., of the Southern League, and wound up with a 4-9 record

Paseo 10-Round Non-Title Bout Features Campo, Jones

Little Campo, Marianas bantamweight champ and long a favorite of Guam fight fans, and Ivan Jones, ringwise former Maine featherweight title holder, will meet in a ten round non-title bout tomorrow night at the Paseo De Susana.

The scrap, the main event of a fight-packed card, will highlight an evening of boxing staged for the benefit of the Guam Memorial Hospital fund.

Little Campo will take on the Maine featherweight with an eight pound disadvantage, but his advantage in reach and height is expected to make up for the difference in weight.

Ivan Jones, with a long line of pro fights behind him, should give the Guamanian boy a good fight although the former Portland, Maine, champ came out with a draw in his first appearance in the local ring against Baby Freddie a month ago.

In the five round semi-final clash, Earl Boulden, of Harmon Field, and Sammy Diaz, Post Engineers and Honolulu, are slated to vie in the welterweight bracket.

A four round special bout will offer the local fight fans a look at Jesse Aguon, 108-pound pride and joy of Toto Village, as he meets Rodolfo Raguiman, 110-pounds from MKK.

Also scheduled to start off the evening's fistic entertainment are four action crammed preliminary bouts.

At this time word has not been received regarding the raffle that would determine winners of prizes offered earlier. Officials are still awaiting word from the Guamanian lawmakers as to whether the drawing may proceed as planned.

Pirates First Club In Majors With All Players Signed

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 —(UP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished at the bottom in the National League last season, reversed themselves today and led the field for a change, being the first club in the majors to report all of its players signed up and happy for 1948.

The Pirates, with a new manager, Bill Meyer from Kansas City, and with virtually a complete new starting lineup, are the number one dark horse team in the National League race. There was a brand new attitude among the players from the general unhappiness which prevailed in 1947.

Not a bonafide holdout was posted during the entire period of salary negotiations and the club had a deal with some established major league stars. These included Dixie Walker, the old "Pride of Flatbush," who admitted that in his first year at Pittsburgh he is being paid more than he ever made in Brooklyn or anywhere else; Pitchers Kirby Higbe, Hal Gregg and Vic Lombardi, three more ex-Dodger sharpies; and Ralph Kiner, the sophomore home run star who blasted 51 round-trippers last season.

Last of the Pirates to sign was Outfielder Wally Westlak, who may have to fight for a job as regular behind a first string trio of Walker in right, Johnny Hopp in center, and Kiner in left. Westlake was a .273 hitter last year, batting in 69 runs and hitting 17 homers.

Branch Rickey Standing by Charge That Major League Owners Made Attempts to Bar Negro Players

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight stood by his charge that baseball club owners made a concorted effort to keep Negroes out of organized baseball despite denials from other owners.

"The best proof is production of the document," he said. "That's all I have to say to you."

Asked if he had any idea where the document might be available he snapped, "I do not."

Rickey dodged the press successfully most of today when newsmen sought to question him concerning his statement at Wilberforce, Ohio, that major league clu owners at a meeting in Cleveland April 26, 1945, adopted a resolution opposing the introduction of Negroes into baseball on the grounds that it would jeopardize organized baseball's entire investment.

Rickey obviously was unwilling to elaborate on his charge. He claimed in his speech last night that the other 15 club owners read the statement and approved it unanimously but that he refrained from voting.

Some other club owners however were quick to deny the alleged agreement or "didn't recall" the meeting at which it was brought up. Others had no comment.

One of the most forthright in his denial was Alva Bradley, then owner of the Cleveland Indians.

He said it was "untrue" that major league owners ever adopted a statement opposing entry of Negro players in the majors.

"Major league owners would never be unwise enough to do a thing like that," Bradley declared, at Cleveland adding that he had "no recollection" of any such stand.

"In 1945," he pointed out, "there was only one Negro player even mentioned as being of major league caliber. That was the pitcher, Satchel Paige, and he was making more money on the outside than he ever could have in organized big league baseball. I don't think Paige would have considered coming in."

Rickey said that at the time the action was taken the club owners knew that he was spending $25,000 a year scouting Negro players.

NATS Asia Softballers Blank Fifth Service Leathernecks, 7-0

Bernard Carlock, NATS Asia ace hurler, joined the ranks of no-hit pitchers yesterday by hurling a perfect game against the Fifth Service Leathernecks. NATS Asia won, 7-0, and the Leathernecks found themselves still hitless after two games of Inter-Command League play.

Carlock's no-hit game was a repeat performance of "Pappy" Granger's exhibition against the same team last Sunday. Lloyd Bethman also starred for NATS as he slammed out a home run with the bases loaded in the last of the third. It was Bethman's second home run and he now leads that department.

Tigers Announce Signing, Release

DETROIT —(UP)— The Detroit Tigers announced the signing of another squad member and the outright release of veteran relief Pitcher Johnny Gorsica.

Gorsica and rookie First Baseman Robert Moyer were assigned to Seattle, Detroit farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Club officials said they had received a signed contract from rookie Outfielder John Creel, who hit .282 last year with Dallas of the Texas League. They said nine members of the 39-man roster remained unsigned.

Reds Owner Denies Plans to Sell Club

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 18 —(UP) Powel Crosley, Jr., owner of the Cincinnati Reds, today denied that he planned to sell the National League baseball club to George F. Kinkead, Louisville, Ky.

"I've heard a lot of rumors that I was going to sell the club in the last few years and there was nothing to them," Crosley said.

"This is the first time I have heard about this one, and there's nothing to it," he added. "It's news to me."

Kinkead, who has been trying to swing a deal for the St. Louis Browns, said at St. Louis today he also was negotiating to buy a National League club. Kinkead didn't say, but indicated the club was Cincinnati.

Navy All Stars Edge 20th AF Five by 46-44 Count

Trailing by seven points with less than a minute to play, the Guam Navy All Star quintet rallied to eke out a 46-44 victory over the Air Force cage squad on the losers' court last night.

As the precious seconds ticked away in the final quarter of the contest, the Air Force crew held a 44 to 39 advantage until Red Edwards drew a foul shot and sank it to come forth with the needed spark to get the attack rolling.

Jim Hawkins, scrappy all star forward, left the game on fouls with only thirty seconds remaining. His relief, Earl Whitely, equally scrappy in the waning seconds intercepted an Air Force pass and soloed for a lay-up which knotted the score. Steady Cy Cassidy was next in line to steal the ball as he found Larry Horan open; Cassidy tossed a quick backhand pass to the lanky forward who swished the twine for what proved to be the winning margin.

The game was nip and tuck all the way with the Navy five leading at the end of the first period, 12-11, only to trail at the half, 23-22.

Fast breaking and pass interceptions boosted the Air Force lead to 35-33 in the third quarter and in the first seven minutes of the final period the Navy was unable to score.

Hardy of the Air Force dumped in 17 points to take scoring honors for the evening while Horan led the Navy All Stars with 14 points.

Central League to Open With Six Clubs

Members are Saginaw, Flint, Grand Rapids and Muskegon in Michigan and Dayton, O., and Fort Worth, Ind.

Kids Move South to Try Out For Big League Berth

NEW YORK —(UP)— This is the time of the year when every embryonic Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson and Babe Ruth in the country packs his grip and begins making plans for an invasion of Florida or California.

It's coming precariously close to "tryout time" and many ambitious youngsters throughout the land will avail themselves the opportunity of getting a baseball trail with one of the 16 big league clubs which starts spring training shortly.

Not that the kids will be invited, you undertsand. But they'll come anyway. They always have during past springs and it's a leadpipe cinch they aren't planning to stop now.

Some of the youngsters turn up at the ballpark, wander inconspicuously into the outfield and then tear up the turf digging for lofty fly balls or screaming line drives while the regular flychasers stand around and discuss how they spent the winter.

The more brazen aspirants walk up to the club owner (the manager will do if the owner isn't around), blandly inform their listener how much ability they have and casually inquire where to find the nearest uniform and contract. A surprising number of novices wangle workouts despite most managers' insistence that there isn't enough time even to inspect all the players on the regular roster.

In order to meet expenses for his trial, one candidate who was working out with the Philadelphia Phillies last year took a job as busboy in a Florida hotel where the Phils were stopping.

The lad's name was Phil Kennedy. He came from Brooklyn, N.Y. and was gifted with considerable enterprise in addition to baseball ability. When Phillie Manager Ben Chapman complained of a lack of butter for his rolls, in the hotel dining room, Kennedy made the kitchen in 10 seconds flat and returned with two or three extra slabs for Boss Benny.

Impressed, Chapman took a closer look at the youngster during the next few days and eventually decided there was a place for him with the Phillies' Utica farm club in the Eastern League.

Uninvited youngsters, however, rarely catch on. Managers reason that if the kids had any ability to begin with, some scout would have signed them before.

This circumstance does not discourage the new Cobbs, Johnsons and Ruths.

'Three-Fingered' Brown One of All-Time Pitching Greats

by United Press

MORDECAI (Three-Fingered) Brown became one of baseball's greatest pitchers mainly because of an accident that would have kept most boys down on the farm.

Long before Brown dreamed of becoming a big league player, he performed for an Indiana semi-pro team at third base on Sundays. During the week he worked on the farm.

One day, Brown caught his hand in a corn shredder. He lost the top half of his index finger on the right hand. Far from being a cripple, Brown developed his handicap and became one of the national pastime's greatest "control" pitchers.

For six seasons in a row, Brown won more than 20 games for the Chicago Cubs of the National League. In four of those seasons, he starred in World Series competition.

The "stump" of his index finger enabled Brown to put "something extra" on his pitches. Most of his victories on the mound stemmed from his unusual ability to command the ball.

Brown's nickname of "Three-Fingered" was a natural from the first day he stepped into the box for the Coxville, Ind., Merchants to pitch against Brazil. Coxville's regular hurler had failed to show up and Brown was moved over from third base in a pinch.

Brown didn't stop pitching until 1920, when he retired after winning 181 games in big league competition. Most of his career was spent with the Chicago Cubs of the "Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance" era.

Even after he became a great pitcher, Brown was respected almost as much as a "fifth" infielder and a slugger. He got his professional start with Terre Haute Tots of the old Three-Eye-League in 1901. After a season with Omaha, Brown went to the St. Louis Cardinals. But he hit his stride in the eight years from 1904 to 1912, when he was with the Cubs.

An old-fashioned overhand pitcher, Brown had a knack of putting a sudden "drop" on his pitches. Batters were unable to get under the pitch and the ball more often than not went into the ground to be scooped by three-fingered himself.

Old-timers still talk about the duels between Brown and Christy Matthewson and other pitchers of the era. Brown seemed to thrive on tough assignments. His 26 victories in 1906, 20 in 1907, and 29 in 1908 helped the Cubs to three pennants. In the next three years he won 27, 25, and 21, respectively, and only two times lost more than 10 games.

Pacific Coast Baseball Stars Get Crack at Majors

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— The Pacific Coast League's annual harvest of stars will net in the neighborhood of 30 potential big league ball players for the majors when thy open training in March.

Among the most publicized of these getting a crack at the big time will be a battery purchased by the Pittsburgh Pirates——Pitcher Bob Chesnes of the San Francisco Seals, and Catcher Eddie Fitzgerald of the Sacramento Solons.

Chesnes, a big right-hander who came to the Seals from their Salt Lake City class C farm at the start of the 1947 season, won 22 and lost eight——despite a sore arm.

Reds to Get West

Fitzgerald's experience is limited to a single season at Wenatchee and another at Sacramento, but nevertheless he cuts quite a figure in the Pittsburgh plans. He worked 144 games in 1947, batting .363, stealing 26 bases and leaving the paying customers somewhat goggle-eyed with his meteoric dashes to back up throws at first and third.

Los Angeles Pitcher Cliff Chambers, who led the league in wins with 24 triumps, gets another chance with the parent Chicago Cubs——and so does Outfielder Clarence Maddern, who clouted .332 for the Angels last year.

The home run king of the last season, Max West, of the San Diego Padres, gets another shot at the big time——with Pittsburgh. He formerly labored for the Cincinnati Reds. West smashed 43 home runs while batting at a clip for the Padres.

Giant Fans Look For Strong '48 Team From Mel Ott

NEW YORK —(UP)— Mel Ott will be only 39 on March 2, but the New York Giants' pitching problem may stipple his dark hair with silver before the next world series.

The former "boy wonder" of the Polo Grounds' right field is in a predicament as he plans for his seventh season at the Giants helm.

Little Mel knows that Giant fans, though among the most faithful in the major leagues, will expect him to produce a pennont winner in 1948—or at least a runner-up.

Those fans are flag-famished now. For 10 long years the Giants haven't won a pennant. Under Bill Terry, they finished first in 1937, then they dropped to third in '38 and then down into second division.

Not since the beginning of modern major league baseball in 1901 have Giant fans hud to endure a similar 10-year stretch of pennant hunger.

Even in 1946, when the club finished last, the home fans supported it whole-heartedly with an attendence of 1,234,733—third largest in the league. And last season they set-a new Polo Grounds record of 1,599,784. That figure was topped only by Brooklyn's 1,807,-586, a new National circuit record.

The approaching season is the one in which the standard of major league play is suspose to attain pre-warpar—in which baseball conditions are supposed to be normal Because of that supposition. the attitude of pennant hungry Giant fans will change toward Ott, if he doesn't come up with a contender. No one knows it better than little Mel.

Ott told reporters that he had canvassed every club in the league in a futile attempt to make a deal in chich he could get at least one good pitcher. His last hope is that he may be able to get a flinger from Eddie Dyer of the Cardinals.

If Mel can't get Murray Dickman or Harry Brecheen from Dyer in a dealing involving a Giant outfielder, he will be forced to depend upon improvement of flingers who were questionable last season —Clint Hartung, Mort Cooper, Joe Beggs, and Monte Kennedy. These would, help Larry Jansen, Dave Koslo and Ken Trinkle, who did fairly win in '47.

Jackie Jensen Ineligible to Play For Bears

BERKLEY, Cal. —(UP)— Scholarship deficiencies have forced athlete Jackie Jensen of the University of California to abandon plans for participation in spring sports at the school.

Jensen was a triple threat fullback star in last year's surprising Bear football comeback.

Pitcher Dick Larner was also declared ineligible for academic reasons.

At the end of WW II, there were approximately 50,000 pilots in the Navy.

Jensen Sacker, Rookie Pitcher Sign With Tribe

CLEVELAND —(UP)— First baseman Eddie Robinson and Rookie Pitcher Dick Rozek, whom Bob Feller discovered in the Navy, returned contracts to the Cleveland Indians, making a total of 23 players signed so far by the Tribe.

Robinson, 27, of Paris, Tex., hit .245 last season. He suffered a fractured ankle in August and was benched often during the season. He drove in 52 runs and slammed 14 homers.

Rozek, 20-year old Cedar Rapids, Ia., left-hander, is regarded by Feller as a fine prospect. They played together on service teams.

Last year, Rozek pitched for Meridan, Miss., of the Southern League, and wound up with a 4-9 record.

A safety master switch has been devised for automobiles that gives the driver finger-tip control of the car's entire electrical system.

ComMar Puts Title Hopes in Hurlers

Backed by an experienced pitching staff and a wealth of veteran ballplayers, the defending ComMar softball team should go far in defending the Island crown they won last year on the softball diamonds

Iron Mike Simerly is back on the mound for the Hilltoppers and he will be assisted by Red headed Jim Morris, another fine nurler.

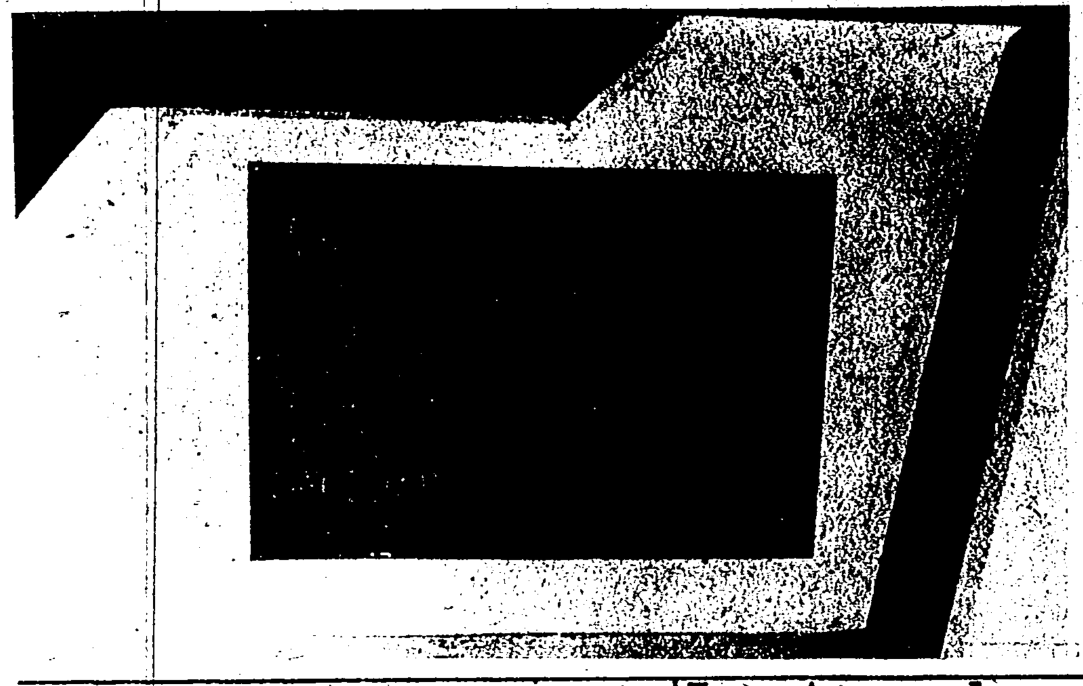
Coach J. S Skoczylas wouldn't make any promises, but he inferred that the other teams on the Island are going to have to have a lot on the ball to topple ComMar from their perch as the Guam softball champs.

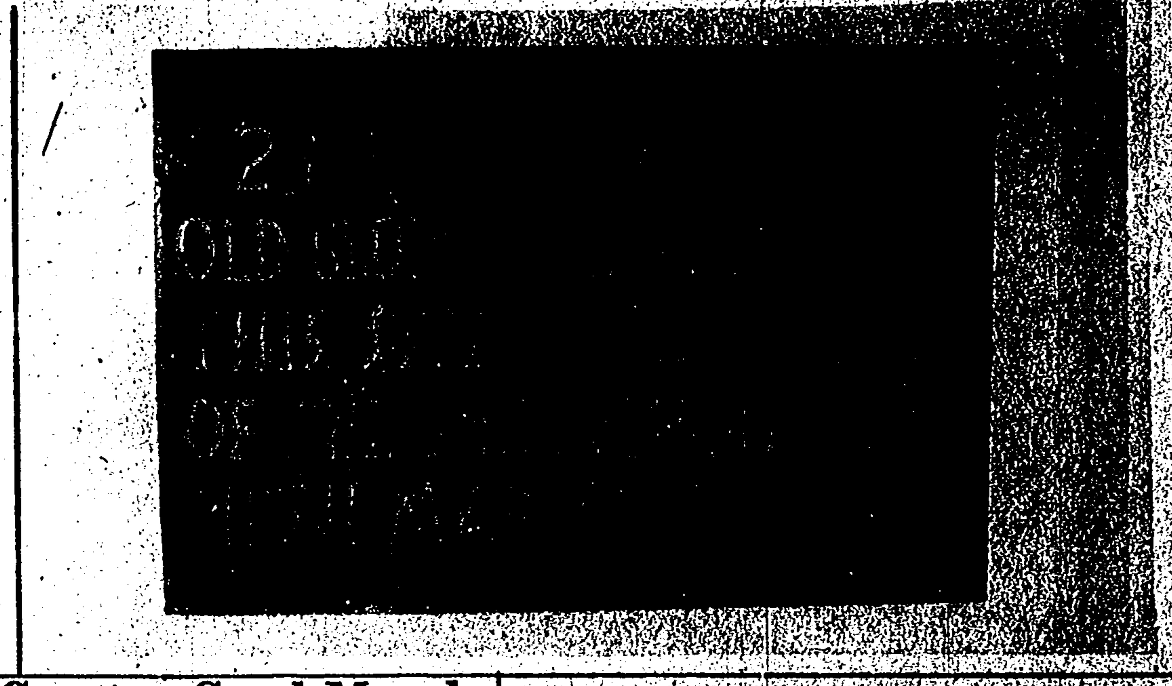
In preseason practice games ComMar dumped the 1st Marine Brigade by a 5 to 4 count and then beat them in a return engagement 3 to 1. The 5th Service Leathernecks were shut out 3 to 0 by the ComMar chuckers in the windup.

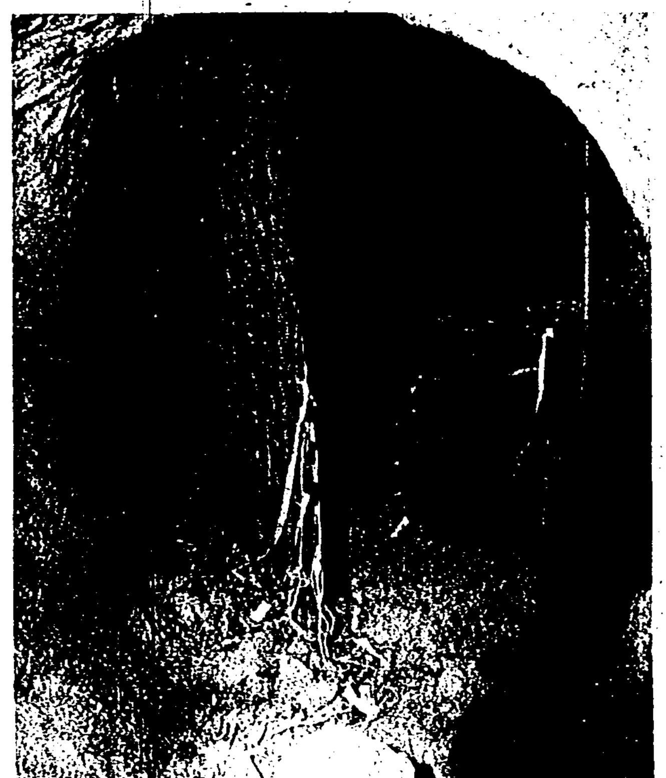
When the season got underway last Sunday the potent 1st Tripple "A" Marines went down before Simerly's two-hit pitching 7 to 0.

ComMar holds a healthy respect for the league powerhouses like NAS Agana and the Naval Supply Center, but are putting a lot of faith in Simerly and Morris to silence the big bats of the opposing sluggers. "Pappy" Granger twirled the first no-hitter of the season Sunday for Agana, but Simerly has a reputation for coming up with a bingleless ball game too, and Iron Mike wields the club at the plate with the best of them. In his inaugural against the Marines he clouted a homer in the sixth inning.

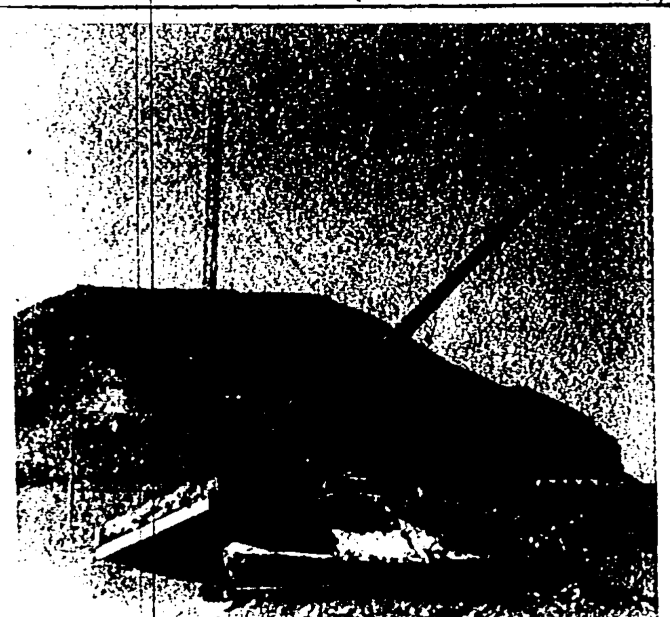
Iwo Jima's Terrain Still Grim Reminder of World War II







JAP TOMB—One of the entrances to the cavern headquarters of Lt. General Tadmichi Kuribayashi, commander of the former Japanese garrison on Iwo Jima, today marks only an an underground tomb where many of his forces were sealed when the island was taken three years ago. (20th Air Force Photo)



GRIM REMINDER—A grim reminder of the ferocity of the brief battle that raged on Iwo Jima's shores three years ago, is this warped and rusting Japanese gun sprawled brokenly in the shadows of famed Mt. Suribachi. (20th Air Force Photo)

GIBRALTER OF IWO—Mt. Suribachi, standing bleak and barren at the southern tip of Iwo. is a reminder of at least two feats wrought by American forces which the Japs termed impossible: scaling her sheer cliffs amidst fanatic opposition, and planting "Old Glory" atop her summit. (20th Air Force Photo)

Iwo Atmosphere Creates Good Morale

HQ. 20th AIR FORCE, Guam, Feb. 19, 1948—Today Iwo Jima is a far cry from the island fortress it was three years ago when the Marines first stormed its sandy beaches. The twisted and rusting guns pointing haphazardly out upon the surrounding waters or lying strewn over the landscape as they were thrown by blasts from American bombings; the battered skeleton of pill-boxes, standing completely bare in many paces from the eroding sands, looking mutely down upon the service forces going about their duties; and grotesquely warped barges and landing craft lying along the beaches, all create a striking contrast to the scenes those heroic Marines faced on their initial assaults.

Striking Differences

But there are other striking differences apparent on this tiny island today. Differences that speak of her Air Force and Army caretakers, for their effort toward adapting themselves to all kinds of surroundings and conditions. Although Iwo is not, and never well be, a particularly pleasant place to live, she is now surrounded by an atmosphere surprisingly conducive to good morale and agreeable spirits among the men and dependents who are stationed there. The rows of quonset barracks and office buildings sparkling white in the warm semi-tropical sunlight, the paved highway extending along the sand and coral shores; the smooth-flowing efficiency with which duties are performed, and the cordial relationship that exists between everyone envelopes this former Japanese stronghold with a home-like feeling comparable to that existing on other islands in the Pacific where American forces are stationed.

Strategic Location

As many of us know, the primary reason for continuing to maintain Iwo Jima in our chain of outposts, is her strategical location as a refueling station and emergency landing base for planes in their flight between Japan and the Marianas islands. Secondly, but nevertheless of great importance, is the gap she bridges in the compilation of weather reports. These are the reasons which necessitated the epic struggle waged by men of the 3rd, 4th, and 5th Marine divisions to wring her from the Japanese, and will be the explanation for keeping these services in operation so long as we have interests in the Far East.

Superfort Strip

A more detailed example of Iwo's importance to us, is the role she played in the last few months of the late war through the tremendous dividends she paid in saving 20th Air Force B-29's from being lost at sea. Nearly ten per cent of all Superfort sorties flown during that time made emergency landings on her hastily recommissioned air strips—or, a total of 2,396—and, although many of these landings were for minor repairs or for gasoline, a great percentage of those aircrafts would never have completed the 3,000 mile missions over Japan had it not been for this half-way station 627 miles from Saipan.

Further, this island helped immeasurably in many other operational fields during that time. It was a base for the P-51's which could then accompany the B-29 to Japan or stage their own attacks on the Bonin islands or the Japanese air force. It removed many navigational headaches through a vastly extended range in our communications facilities. It aided the air-sea rescue unit and photo reconnaissance aircraft, and toward the end of the war, made possible heavy bomber strikes to the northern extremes of the Japanese home islands.

Iwo Life Typical

Life on Iwo today is typical of that seen at other small Air Force units, with service and maintenance personnel working in close harmony toward one single goal. Air Force men work directly to maintain and operate the numerous activities necessary to insure the accomplishment of the installation's primary mission of acting as a half-way base between Guam and Japan and of collecting weather data, and Army troops perform the functions of serving all personnel stationed there. Minor aircraft repairs must be made, clerical duties must be performed, the men must be fed, clothed, and medical and recreational facilities must be kept available. During the evenings and on week-ends and holidays, essentially the same diversions from routine daily duty is enjoyed as is seen elsewhere in the Pacific. Clubs are in operation where sandwiches, beer, and soft drinks can be had, and on Sundays and other church holidays the chapel swings wide its doors for all to attend.

Except for the deteriorating machines of war strewn along the beaches and on the cliffs overlooking, the northern portion of the island, there is really little that meets the eye to remind one of the hectic battle that raged there in February, 1945. Of course, if one ventures into the net-work of underground caves extending so elaborately throughout that former Gibralter to the Japanese Empire, all necessity for imagination will be erased. Little did the Japanese soldiers who prepared those underground lines of communications a few years ago, realize that they were digging their own graves.

Crosses Gone

Previously each year at this time commemoration ceremonies have been conducted on Iwo Jima, to honor the heroic marines and sailors who gave their lives there that this island might be added to our chain of stepping-stones to Japan and to bring a lasting peace to the world in which we live. However, this year the rows of white crosses and stars of David which formerly marked the cemetaries where their bodies were laid to rest, are strangely absent and with them seemingly all appropriateness for our continuation of formal ceremonies to mourn their passing.

HERE LIES THE PAST—These wrecked and deteriorating barges and landing craft lying strewn along Iwo's southwestern beaches realistically reminds the visitor to this tiny island of the material price we paid to wring her from Japan's grasp. (20th Air Force Photo)

Wallace Out-Polls Truman in New York

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 —(UP)— President Truman's November chances were clouded today by returns from a New York City congressional by-election in which Henry A. Wallace hoisted his third party candidate to wholly unexpected triumph. The district had been a Democratic stronghold for years.

This by-election was regarded as a test of Wallace's presidential pulling power among the left wing element, which long rallied behind the late FDR. Polling was in New York's 24th Congressional district, a Bronx area of numerous Negro, Jewish and Puerto Ricans.

Wallace lambasted the Truman administration for its Palestine policies and charged that it talks much but does little about racial segregation. Those issues were sure fire in the Bronx.

Democratic hopes that Wallace might drop out of the presidential race were hit hard by the election upset.

Leo Isacson, American Labor candidate and Wallace's man, polled more votes than the Democratic liberal and Republican candidates combined. His share was 55 per cent to 31 per cent for the Democratic candidate. That was a stunning blow to Democratic party prestige and to the Bronx organization of which Edward J. Flynn is the leader.

Bridges Claims More Information Needed

WASHINGTON, —(UP)— Chairman Styles Bridges of the Senate Appropriations Committee told the State Department today that Congress wants a lot more information on the European recovery program before voting funds to carry it out.

The New Hampshire Republican indicated he would not contest the $5,300,000,000 spending ceiling proposed by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for the first 12 months of the program. He said he did not think Congress could make its own money estimate until the Appropriations Committees had held lengthy hearings.

The Foreign Relations Committee agreed tentatively last week to authorize $5,300,000,000 for the first 12 months, instead of the $6,800,000,000 for the first 15 months, as proposed by the State Department.

Bridges said in a statement that the decision on 12 months "seems sound."

Harriman Stops Issue Of Oil Export Licenses

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman today temporarily suspended the issuance of export licenses for shipment of oil to any foreign countries except Canada.

A department spokesman emphasized that the move was not an embargo, and said it would not halt shipments already enroute, on the dockside, or for which licenses previously have been issued.

He said the ban probably would be in force for only a couple of days—just long enough to give the department time to work out plans for a general reduction in the quotas of petroleum products which foreign countries are authorized to buy here.

Canada was exempted because it voluntarily cut its U. S. petroleum purchases last month.

Chilean President To Lay Claim To Antarctic

Aboard Navy Transport Presidente Hinto, at Soverignity Bay, Antarctic, Feb. 18 —(UP)— Chilean President Gabriel Gonzales Videla landed here today to lay claim personally to Antarctic lands now in dispute with Great Britain.

A 21-gun salute was fired from this transport as the president went ashore to be welcomed by members of the garrison which has been in the outpost since last year.

A detachment of cadets finishing their course in the Chilean naval academy, who made the cruise with the president, landed before him and saluted as he came down the gangplank. The ship's band played the national anthem.

Originally, it was reported aboard ship that the president himself would speak, in answer to British Minister of State Hector McNeil who yesterday warned Chile and Argentina that Britain would not tolerate additional "acts of trespass" by the two South American countries.

There was no mention of the English claims by either the president or Adm. Daroch, however.

Sovereignity Bay is on the north shore of an island of the George group, east northeast of Deception Island. The whole group is part of what the British call their Falkland Islands dependencies. It faces the tip of South America across Drake Strait.

Warm Air From Gulf Breaks Freak Weather

by United Press

A rush of warm air from the Gulf of Mexico broke the month-long spell of sub-normal weather today and reminded the nation that spring was little more than a month away.

Floods, which had driven more than 10,000 persons from their homes, receded swiftly today. Residents of the inundated lowlands began moving back to their homes.

The steady northerly flow of balmy air raised temperatures in the midwest and plains states to their highest readings of the year and many degrees above normal for the season.

Mercury Jumped

The weather bureau said that the mercury jumped to 45 or 50 in Illinois and Indiana, with possibly higher temperatures in Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska.

Upper New York and northern New England still had some cold weather left over, however. In the northern tip of Maine at Caribou, the mercury dropped to 14 degrees below zero.

All the rest of the country, with the exception of a narrow belt along the Canadian border, was scheduled to enjoy above-freezing temperatures.

General Carlos Ramulu, Philippine Ambassador to U.S. Tours Agana

COMMAR HILL—Recently appointed Philippine ambassador to the United States, General Carlos Ramulu briefly toured Agana and the surrounding countryside during his brief stay yesterday morning en route to Washington, D.C. to undergo his new duties.

General Ramulu is a leading political figure in the Philippine islands, and has long been recognized by the United States as a man capable of handling his country's interests in world affairs, as evidenced by his career as Philippine delegate to the United Nations council since its inception.

Arriving by Philippine air lines yesterday morning the general had an opportunity to view the reconstruction of Guam, Agana in particular, and compare it with his knowledge of what it was like prior to the war. Having many friends on the island, the general dropped in briefly at the Rotary Club luncheon to chat with long-lost aquaintances.

The small, statuesque general is vice president of the Rotary International, and founder of our local chapter here on Guam. He owned a chain of newspapers before the war, and is widely known for his two books, "Mother America," and "I Saw The Philippines Fall."

8 British Soldiers Wounded at Tripoli

CAIRO, Feb. 19 —(UP)— Three Arabs were killed and 78 wounded in a riot against British forces yesterday in Tripoli, British authorities announced today. Eight British soldiers were wounded.

Military reports from the Libyan capital said the riots started after British troops arrested Aly Fekky Hassan, leader of the Arab Kotla party.

Hassan was charged with agitating the Arab and Moslem communities in Tripoli in preparation for the arrival of the big four fact-finding commission which will make recommendations on the future of the Italian colonies.

Hodge Protests Russian Action

SEOUL Korea, Feb. 19 —(UP)— Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge has made a strong protest to Soviet authorities in North Korea against their actions in permitting a Korean crowd to manhandle two American liaison officers, it was announced today.

The officers were mauled and placed under arrest when they tried to photograph a military parade of the new Korean army. Soviet officers stood by and refused to intervene.

The protest was directed to Lt. Gen. G. P. Korotkov, commander of the 25th army guard at Pyong Yang, seat of the Soviet occupation forces. The text will be made public later.

Navy Tests New Douglas Skyrocket

MUROC ARMY AIR BASE, Cal., Feb. 19 —(UP)— The needle-nosed Douglas Skyrocket has made its first flight tests at "relatively low speeds," the Navy announced today.

Officers said other information about the jet-and-rocket plane's first flights still was part of its secret research program. The test pilot was John Martin of Douglas.

The plane, sister ship to the Skystreak which holds the official world's speed record of 650.6 miles an hour, is so fast that for a few seconds it may perform like a bullet instead of an airplane.

It was built for exploration in the 650-750 mile an hour range, just above and below the speed of sound.

Polish Goverment Warns U.S. Airmen

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 19 —(UP) —A Polish government spokesman said today that the next United States Army Air crew that flies to Warsaw without valid visas will be jailed and tried and "will serve their sentences in this country."

"This is the last time," the spokesman said. "Our patience is exhausted. They've 'had it' next time."

The phrase "the last time" referred to five American airmen who failed to obtain visas before they flew U. S. Ambassador Stanton Griffis here from Berlin Monday. Arrested on arrival, the fliers were released Tuesday "as a courtesy to the ambassador," the spokesman explained.

No clearance for the crew or their plane has been requested or granted. The U. S. Embassy reported that the fliers still were under guard at the Bristol Hotel. It was understood that a return flight to the German capital has been delayed by weather.

French Officials Report 8 U.S. Sailors Missing

HYERES, France, Feb. 18 —(UP)— French Naval officials said today that eight American sailors from the aircraft carrier Midway are missing and feared lost in the sinking of a shore leave launch in Hyeres Harbor before dawn this morning.

The launch struck a signal pylon at the harbor entrance at 2 a.m. while carrying 160 sailors back to their carrier from a last night ashore at Ancasino. The Midway was scheduled to leave Hyeres, on the Riviera coast 12 miles east of Toulon, today.

Officials at the French Naval base here said the crash drove a large hole in the side of the launch and it sank quickly despite frantic efforts to pump out the water.

The Commandant's office at the French base said those missing were one officer and seven sailors. Naval parties still were searching for the bodies among the tricky currents of this rocky coast at midday, 10 hours after the accident.

Although first reports said that 40 sailors were missing, most of them were saved by other launches that sped to the rescue of the sinking boat.

The Midway was one of a number of American warships that have been on the tour of Mediterranean ports

The Midway is one of the top fighting ships still in commission in the postwar U.S. Navy. She can carry 137 planes, including large bombers of the latest type.

Normal complement of the Midway is 4,085 officers, men and Marines. The carrier, completed in 1945, displaces 45,000 tons. She is a sister ship of the coral sea and the Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Attached as a permanent part of the United States Mediterranean squadron since last December, the Midway is under overall command of Vice Admiral Forrest Sherman.

UAW Demand 30-Cent Increase

DETROIT, Feb. 19 —(UP)— The CIO United Auto Workers today formally levelled a demand for a flat 30-cent hourly pay increase and other benefits at Chrysler Corporation, first target in the union's bid for a third round of postwar wage hikes.

The demands, which represent nearly a 35-cent package, were presented in person to the smallest of the big three auto producers by Norman Matthews, the UAW's national Chrysler director. Matthews asked that negotiations begin next Tuesday.

Wage talks with General Motors Corporation will start later this month, and the union will conduct the two campaigns simultaneously.

United Steel Workers Demand Wage Increase

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 19 —(UP)— The CIO United Steel workers today demanded a "substantial" wage increase for its 900,000 members.

Philip Murray, union president, declared that $229,000,000 in price increases since October should enable the steel industry to cover any sort of "reasonable increase."

The demand for a third round of wage increases was approved by the USW's 175-man wage policy committee after a two-day session of the union's executive board.

In addition, the union will present the industry with plans for setting up social insurance funds.

Delegate Urges Statehood For Hawaii

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Delegate Joseph R. Farrington declared recently that Senate approval of Hawaiian statehood would strengthen this country's position in the Pacific where, he said, "I think our greatest future lies."

The millions of people on the "periphrey of that great ocean," Farrington told a Rotary Club audience of 500, would see in Hawaii's reaching full political status in the union "the most conclusive possible proof of this country's democratic intentions."

Moreover, he said, statehood would allow Hawaii to send to Washington representatives well trained in Pacific problems and in the "Hawaiian ideal of human relationships" which has proved how well people of diverse racial and national origins can live together.

Farrington told his fellow Rotarians that the tourist industry and the great upsurge in travel between the mainland and the territory has a double significance in this sense.

"People are now coming to Hawaii at the rate of 100,000 a year," he said "This puts another important egg in our economic basket."

"But beyond that," he said, "this great movement is undoubtedly part of the trend of population west-ward. While it brings us up more sharply against one of our toughest problems—the housing shortage—it also means that we are becoming more and more closer to the everyday life of the country as a whole."

As this happens, he said, "We need more representation in Washington."

He added that the tourist trade will also bring permanent residents to the territory. 'We shall see that they become as one of us," he said.

Farrington spoke as the belief increased in Hawaiian and other pro-statehood circles that chairman Guy Cordon, (R-Ore.), of the Senate territories subcommittee, would soon recommend Senate action on statehood legislation, which passed the House last June.

Vet Says MacArthur Could Lead Nation

MADISON, Wisconsin—A Madison, Wisconsin, veteran who served under General Douglas MacArthur, says the general could lead the nation in peace just as well as he led soldiers in the war.

Attorney Carl Flom—who is supporting MacArthur for the Republican presidential nomination—says no one could claim sincerely that MacArthur is unfit to be president because he is a military man.

In a campaign broadcast recently, Flom declared—and these are his words—"We have today no truer or more trusted servant who could do our bidding if we would but say so than Wisconsin's most illustrious and famous son—Douglas MacArthur."

Flom served under MacArthur as chief of the military courts division in Tokyo. He now is seeking election as a MacArthur delegate of the National Republican Convention.

He said the general has proved himself a master craftsman in both war and peace and has turned beaten Japan into a friend and ally of this nation.

Navy Rewards Soldiers With Cruise

The Navy Department announced recently that twelve "Soldiers of the Month" from the Army of Occupation in Japan recently completed an 11-day cruise aboard the USS Duluth, light cruiser, guests of the Navy in reward for their exceptional performance of duty.

The men, selected under the Army policy of designating a "Soldier of the Month" from each base and rewarding him with a special furlough that it not deducted from regular leave, were from the Tokyo-Yokohama area.

At the suggestion and invitation of the Navy, the group made the cruise in preference to the normal routine of spending their furlough at a rest camp in Japan. During the cruise, they visited Sasebo, Japan, and Jinsen and Seoul, Korea.

Welcomed Aboard USS Duluth

Rear Admiral A. M. Bledsoe, USN, Commander of the Support Group, Naval Forces, Far East, welcomed the soldiers aboard the Duluth, which serves as his flagship, at Yokosuka, Japan. They were then given a conducted tour of the cruiser.

"While on the cruise the men were given every opportunity to associate and work with their Navy friends," Rear Admiral Bledsoe reported. "Unfortunately they were not able to witness any firing, but did have an opportunity to observe a four-hour full power trial. Every man proved to be an excellent example of the true "Soldier of the Month," and I am sure that the cruise was mutually profitable to both services."

None of the 12 soldiers had had a leave for more than a year. One Army veteran of 16 years who had been without a leave for 28 months made adequate use of the Duluth's bunks. He remarked: "This is the rest of a lifetime."

Saipan to Ship 2,000 War Dead Next Week

TOKYO —(UP)— The flag-draped caskets of approximately 2,000 Americans who fell in battles in the Marianas-Bonins Island groups will leave Saipan for San Francisco Feb. 26 aboard the U.S. Army transport Walter Schwenk.

It will be the first World War II dead from the Far East command returned to next of kin in the United States.

About three thousand dead, including many who met death at Pearl Harbor, arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu last October and were the first to be returned to the United States from the Pacific battlefields.

Most of the bodies now being returned have been moved from military cemeteries in remote Pacific islands and brought to Saipan, where a graves concentration center is located. The bodies are of soldiers, sailors, Air Force men, marines and Merchant Marine veterans who fought at Tinian, Guam, Iwo Jima and other island areas in the Marianas-Bonins groups.

Memorial division officials in Tokyo expect that approximately 32,000 World War II dead will be shipped home to the next of kin. The figures are based on present progress reports which indicate requests from relatives will total about 50 per cent of the men buried on Pacific islands.

About 64,000 Americans are buried in several cemeteries at various locations in the Pacific Islands and in Japan and Korea. Bodies which are not returned to the United States will be concentrated in three large cemeteries now being established at Guam, Manila and on the Hawaiian Islands.

Originally, burials were made in 31 far flung cemeteries close to the battlegrounds where the men fell.

Notice—All Service Personnel and their dates are cordially invited to attend an evenings dancing at the U.S. Naval Medical Center Enlisted Men's Club, Saturday, 21 Feb, 1948 from 1900 to 2330. Music to be furnished by the J.C.A. Orchestra. Admission: $1.00 per couple. 21

TAPS FOR "BOZO"—As field music sounds the lingering notes of "Taps" at a special military ceremony Saturday afternoon, the earthly remains of Bozo, mascot and companion of the 5th Marines, are committed to a final resting place at Camp Witek. Bozo, of uncertain antecedents, joined the 5th Marines when the organization was stationed in China and was brought along when they moved to Guam in May, 1947. He was killed Friday night after he bit a marine as the final incident in a series of 'incidents' during the past few weeks. (USMC Photo)

Mechanics Trained to Service Liaison Planes

Parking Meter Salesman Outdoes Himself

COLUMBUS, Ind. —(UP)— Five parking meter salesmen refused to give their sales talk before the Columbus City Council because the representative of one firm was absent. They claimed he was using unfair tactics and probably was seeking a special appointment.

The missing salesman turned up as the session ended. He explained he was late because of a long argument with a policeman about overparking.

Visiting Checked In Guam Villages

AGANA—With the outbreak of Japanese "B" type encephalitis, Capt. G. K. Youngkin, (MC) USN, head of the Department of Public Health advised that visiting of non-Guamanians to villages, where the majority of the disease has occurred, be drastically reduced to only essential business. The chief of Guam police approved the recommendation and enforcement will be promulgated immediately.

Reduction of inter-village visiting was also urged.

It was further recommended that NO ONE be permitted to enter a Guamanian village after 1830, except residents of that village, and personnel on emergency, health or police business.

Inasmuch as no cases have thus far occurred in Agana, it has not been deemed necessary to restrict the flow of business into Agana during daylight hours, nor to restrict travel of Guamanian employes to and from their place of employment.

Harmon Builds Magnets To Remove Nails

HARMON FIELD—The construction of two road magnets that will pick up nails and other troublesome bits of metal which might cause tire punctures, has been announced by First Lt. Wilhelm Goerner, of the 87th Air Drome Squadron, Harmon Field machine shop officer.

Built in the Harmon Field machine shop, MarAMA, the magnets are powered by gasoline driven generators which are pulled by trucks or jeeps.

This is another innovation that will help in the safety campaign now in progress at Harmon Field. Accidents resulting from blow outs and flat tires will be kept at a minimum due to the extensive operation of these machines.

Antique Letter Found

SAN JOSE, Cal. —(UP)— A letter President Thomas Jefferson is believed to have written in 1775 turned up today in a sealed box bought at an auction for $20.

The surprised buyer immediately accepted a $500 offer for the rare five-page hand-written letter.

The letter, barely legible after 173 years, was addressed to John Randolph, an officer in the British Navy. It was in a box of odds and ends sold at an auction of the estate of Dr. James Morrison, a descendant of Randolph who settled here in 1850.

Antique dealers said the letter is worth at least $1,000 if authentic.

Superstitious About Friday The 13th?

NORTH FIELD, Guam—for those not superstitious, take heed. On the morning of Friday the 13th a large banyan tree, growing alongside the recently refurbished domicile of Lt. Col. Charles H. Haase, Chief of Staff, Lt Col. Kenneth E. Turner, CO 31st Air Serv. Group, Maj. Robert L. Horschman, Company Commander 1916th Avn. Engr. Util. Co., Maj. Joseph T. Little, Asst. A-1 and Maj. Donald W. Wanty, A-2, collapsed to the consternation of all occupants.

The tree deciding to fall on this particular day is understandable. However, events leading up to its collapse gives much food for thought.

Banyan Tree Falls

Two days previous, while exploring around the base of the tree, a skeleton of a human was unearthed and this unquestionably was a great shock to the skeleton's guardian, the banyan tree, which according to legend is responsible for guarding the soul of the departed. It is also common knowledge that according to an old Guamanian legend disturbing the soil around the base of a banyan tree will bring misfortune on those responsible. The occupants of the house had, in the two days previous to the crash, dug around the tree.

At about 0700 on the morning of the 13th, while the occupants of the house were in a half awakened condition and tending to their morning toiletries, there was a deep rumbling accompanied by a grinding noise and the shaking of the house. With no questions asked, all five occupants made a hasty (is not dignified departure. If nothing else, it made all five fully awake for their day's duty.

Fortunately, little damage was sustained by the house as the banyan tree twisted during its fall with most of the impact missing the dwelling.

30th Bomb Squadron Builds New Dayroom

NORTH FIELD, Guam—The 30th Bombardment Squadron is constructing a new day room for the use of it's members during off duty hours. At an estimated cost of almost $500.00 which was furnished from the squadron fund, the day room will be equipped with a pool table, ping-pong table and a reading room which will be stocked with current stateside magazines and newspapers.

Just as tournament officials were preparing to send out a searching party for China's representatives in the Western Pacific Basketball Tourney the squad from up north finally turned up.

Far from the towering squad officials have led us to believe, the China team boasts of few players over the six foot mark. But while they're short on height they've been having little trouble finding the bucket in practice sessions on ComMur's court. The whole squad seems to be one big collection of deadeyes.

Dale Meyers, China center, stands some 6' 4" and is China's lone element of height. He works from the pivot slot like Guam's lanky Larry Horan and even wears the same number 10 on his uniform. It's going to be half of the show to watch the two centers battle each other for those buckets.

One surprise that was handed to Guam basketball fans was the fact that the China bunch isn't from the USS Duluth, as was prefact that the China bunch isn't from the USS Duluth, as was prefact that the China bunch isn't from the USS Topeka. Seems the Topeka cagers viously believed, but from the USS Topeka. Seems the Topeka cagers toppled the Duluth and won the right to complete in the WesPac party.

Coached by Chief Cowan, the China aggregation looked plenty potent in practice, but chances for a good look-see between now and the time they go on the court against the Guam All Stars are mighty slim.

When Guam Coach H.W. Douglass offered to schedule a scrimmage session for the China squad with different teams on the Island, the visiting coach came up with a sharp, "No sirree!"

He may be guarding against over-practice just before the crucial series, and then again he may be wary of the inquiring eyes of the Guam strategists.

Whatever it is, the China tutor isn't going to take any chances.

Last night as the China team was working out, Coach Douglass and visiting Coach Cowan sat on the bench munching pop corn. Everytime we'd offer a complimentary remark concerning the China team, Coach Cowan come up with a "Aw! There not so hot." So we'd sit back and watch Dale Meyers and a couple of the guards dunk a few more points from in close and from far out.

"They say your boys beat the Duluth powerhouse in China for the championship in that area," we said.

"Yeah," was the reply.

"By how many points?" The China mentor paused long enough to hawl out a couple of his players for holding the ball too long, took another handful of pop corn and then answered unceremoniously,

"Twenty-one points."

Uh-huh! To listen to Coach Cowan you'd be inclined to believe that Guam had the WesPac Tourney already won, but don't let him fool you. Just be on hand for Saturday's game and see for yourself. It'll be a lulu.

Lippy Leo, Truculent Ted Indicate They Will be Themselves in 1948

NEW YORK —(UP)— With thousands stricken by affection and pretense, it was comforting to know that truculent Ted Williams and Lippy Leo Durocher, at least, would be themselves in 1948.

Durocher made his position clear only a few weeks ago when he was asked whether his recent one-year suspension from baseball would cause him to exercise any restraint on the ball field this coming season.

Leo's reply, sharper than the crack of a whip, was:

"I intend to act the same way I always have. If I tried any other way, it wouldn't be me."

Boss Branch Rickey quickly added that nobody yet had been able to devise a formula for stifling Durocher, and if somebody had, would he please be good enough to contact Rickey because he would like to know the recipe.

Yesterday, Williams clearly indicated that he intends to be the same tempestous Ted in 1948 that he has been the past few years. Some observers believed he might change what with the advent of business-like Joe McCarthy, who is taking over the Boston Red Sox and Williams, too, by the way, this coming campaign.

Williams, stepping off a plane from Miami, Fla., Monday to visit his wife who had just given birth to a bouncing baby girl, was asked by Boston scribes why he didn't leave Florida earlier to be with his wife. The reporters further asked the lanky slugger whether he wasn't concerned about public opinion.

"To hell with the public," Ted rasped. "They can't run my life."

Williams happens to be right. The public can not actually run his life but they most certainly can influence it.

The Boston outfielder, after nine seasons in the majors, apparently still hasn't learned that any personage in the public eye must show some difference to the customers. It's one of the penalties of being famous. Babe Ruth, at one point in his career, had the same idea as Williams but he was intelligent enough to realize that he would not gain by it.

In Williams' defense, it might be pointed out that in his latest incident, he caught the first plane he was able to after learning of the birth of his daughter. But he was indignant that anybody, especially "his public," which he was always regarded with cool indifference, should question his actions.

Very few public figures have been able to continue blithely on their way with an open disregard for the people who helped put them where they were.

Regardless of what Williams thinks of baseball fans, he, at least, should know that they pay his salary. He should also realize that it is not profitable to antagonize or alienate them.

But if that realization has set in, the Red Sox clouter gives no sign that it has. McCarthy, in all likelihood, will have little success, if any, if he tries to "lay down the law" to Williams. Ted figures he's above that.

So Durocher and Williams will continue to lead the life they love this coming season. Verily, the old changeth—but not Leo or Ted.

California Bears America's Top Five--Pesco

SANTA CLARA, Cal. —(UP)— University of California has the greatest basketball team in America today and should go on to win the Pacific Coast Conference crown the Western and National NCAA title, Coach Ray Pesco of Santa Clara said recently.

Pesco should know. He has played every team in the Southern Division of the PCC; Duquesne, CCNY, Georgetown and Temple in the East. And he has seen most of the other clubs, including NYU, in action.

California has the height, depth and coaching to win," says Pesco, "and from what I've seen I cannot picture any club turning the Bears back."

Pesco thinks that University of Southern California will give the Berkeley quintet its hardest scrap in the Southern Division of the PCC.

"I expect it is possible that the Bears could lose two games, no more," says Pesco. "They might drop one to USC, which is a vastly improved team that applies the pressure all the time. The Trojans have a great center in Alex Hannum.

"The Bears also might lose one game to Stanford," he said.

Smith, Kriz Clash In Tennis Tourney Quarter Finals

Defending Champion Lcdr. John D. Smith meets Lt. Frank Kriz, and second seeded Cdr. Albert Kohlhas vies with David Warfield Saturday on the Naval Government courts to wind up quarter-finals play in the open singles class of the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament. Play in the first round of the novice singles will move along with four matches also scheduled for Saturday.

Had Trouble

Smith had trouble in his first match with Army Sgt. Arthur Lovering and Kriz has gotten off to a late start in both of his matches in the tourney, and had to come from behind to win his second round battle with Chris Meyer last Saturday.

Kohlhas has not been extended so far in the meet, but Warfield, who upset fifth seeded Mauricio Madrigal, plays the type of game Kohlhas employs, and should give him no end of trouble.

Saturday's Schedule

1300: Fred Chase vs. Jerry Cates
W. H. McConnell vs. Capt R. E. Morrison.

1400: Warfield vs. Kohlhas
C. H. Neill vs. Leo Polvorosa

Weismuller's Swim Mark Smashed by Hawkeyes' Ris

IOWA CITY, Ia. —(UP)— Johnny Weismuller's 22-year-old national record for the 100-yard free style swimming event was beaten recently by Wally Ris, Iowa's star swimmer from Chicago.

Ris made the distance in :51.9, trimming a 10th of a second off the record Weismuller set for the Illinois Athletic Club in a Seattle, Wash., meet in 1925. His time also set a new international collegiate record, previously held by Dick Weinberg of the University of Michigan.

Ris made his record swim in a meet in which Iowa beat Minnesota, 58 to 26.

Six-Day Bike Race to Return

NEW YORK —(UP)— There's a rumbling in the hearts of the faithful over the best bit of sports news since the development of modern canoe-tilting.

The old six-day bike race is coming back to town after 10 long years of eclipse. A lot of otherwise normal folks are gonna get lost for a week between February 29 and March 6.

Basketball, hokey and fights are out during that delicious week. Those saddle-sore cyclists have been away far too long.

Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities revived the bikers long since but New York, protesting an acute housing shortage, has been a-miss in its duty toward the faithful who can get a larger charge out of the clanging on the bell-lap of a sprint than from a World Series catch by antelope Al Gionfriddo.

Jockey Johnny Longden Rated Millionaire

NEW YORK —(UP)— Success story: Johnny Longden, 37-year-old rider recently a unanimous "Jockey of the Year" choice of the New York Turf Writers Association, is rated a millionaire on his race-track earnings. British-born, he started his riding career back in 1928 in those old-time "Roman races" —standing up with one foot on the back of each horse—at Country Fairs in Western Canada. As a race-track jockey, he rode 2,291 winners through Jan. 1, a feat never equalled by any rider on U. S. tracks and topped only by Gordon Richards of England, who has passed 3,000.

His formula: "I like to ride. It's still a thrill to win and it's swell to ride a good horse."

His ambition: To pass Richards, who is over 40, and retired to his own cattle ranch. "Mr. Moneybags" is in a position to do both.

PGA Releases Individual Tourney Earnings Statistics

CHICAGO, Feb 19 —(UP)— Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, the former National Open golf champion, has been hitting the ball on the winter circuit to the tune of $4.31 per swing, the PGA revealed tonight.

Mangrum, who has taken part in all seven of the Professional Golfers' Association 1948 tournaments, has grossed $7,988.33, using 1852 strokes for 27 rounds.

Jimmy Demaret, the Houston, Tex., sharpshooter, made a come-back in the last five tournaments, finishing second in four, to reach a gross of $6,048.33. In third place is Bobby Locke, of Johannesburg, South Africa, winning $5,645.83.

Mangrum is leading the pros' race for the Vardon Trophy, averaging 69.90 strokes during the tournaments which apply to the cup. Demaret, on the other hand, is low man for the Ryder Cup, figured on the point system, amassing a 126 total.

Walcott Offered 30-30 Split on Third Bout

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 —(UP)— Jersey Joe Walcott said tonight that Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis has no intention of retiring after their proposed return title bout at Yankee Stadium on June 23.

Walcott said he made the discovery at a lengthy conference with Sol Strauss, acting director of the 20th Century Sporting Club. Walcott said Strauss confronted him with a contract for a third bout in case he wrested the title from Louis.

The New Jersey contender said, "I was surprised at the return bout proposal but I was even more surprised when Strauss wanted us to split 30-30 on the net gate of the third bout, in case one should be held."

Walcott said this was the first mention of a third bout that had been made in their negotiations.

Louis has stated repeatedly that he will retire from ring competition after his June defense of the title—regardless of whether he wins or not.

SHERMAN, Tex., Feb. 19 —(UP)— Pitcher Monty Stratton, who gained nation-wide fame of his professional baseball comeback with an artificial leg, has arrived in Hollywood to assist in the filming of his life story, it was learned tonight.

Pistol Packin' Coach Foils Klan's Plot To Carry Out Action

ROSSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 18 —(UP) —A predicted Ku Klux Klan action against high school Coach Walter Bowland failed to come off tonigh! after Bowland came to a basketball tournament carrying a pistol and posted seven friends with "two guns apiece" close by.

The local Klan chapter did hold a meeting at its Rossville hall, it was learned, but no hooded figures, burned crosses or parading around the Rossville gymnasium as had been predicted in anonymous reports during the day.

There was some excitement at Bowland's home in nearby Lakeview when the coach and his seven-man body guard returned there after the tournament. Somebody noticed people staring from the windows of a house across the street and someone else yelled "mob."

Speedie, Lavelli Cleveland Ends, Lead AAC Receivers

NEW YORK —(UP)— Mac Speedy and Dante Lavelli, ends on the league champion Cleveland Browns, were ranked one-two as the All-America Pro Football Conference's leading pass catchers for 1947 in official statistics released recently.

Speedie, six-foot, three-inch wingman, was far out in front with a total of 1,146 yards gained, a sum surpassed in major league football history only by the 1,211 yards gained by the famed Don Hutson of Green Bay in the National League in 1942.

Speedie, who finished sixth in 1946, snared a total of 67 passes in 1947 for an average of 17.1 yards gained on each and a total of six touchdowns.

Lavelli, who tied with Alyn Beals of San Francisco for the title in 1946 by making 40 catches, dropped to second place although this year he caught 49 passes for 799 yards. Beals fell to third place with 47 completions and 655 yards.

Beals, however, caught the most touchdown passes—10.

Lamar (Racehorse) Davis of Baltimore finished fourth with 46 completions and 515 yards and Billy Hillenbrand of the same team was fifth with 39 completions and 702 yards.

Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, finished fifth in 1946, dropped to 33rd position with only 10 completions but his average of 28.2 yards gained per completion was the highest in the circuit.

Speedie was on the receiving end of the longest pass play in the two-year history of the conference when he took a screen pass thrown by Otto Graham and romped 99 yards for a touchdown against Buffalo. Actually he caught the ball on his own goal line, but the distance was measured from the line of scrimmage, which was the one-yard line.

Beals had the longest string of games in which he had completions —17—and it was still alive at the end of the season.

U.S., China Agreement For Planes Disclosed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Government officials tonight disclosed a long-secret agreement under which the United States committed itself to provide China with a first-line air force of 1,071 planes, including heavy bombers and fighters.

They revealed that 936 aircraft already have been delivered to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government, which is locked in Civil War with the Chinese Communists.

The remaining 135 planes have been earmarked for delivery at a later date. They will include 37 B-17 Flying Fortresses, 42 P-47 Thunderbolt fighters, 53 P-51 Mustang fighters and three C-46 transport planes.

The planes still awaiting delivery cost the United States about $121,000,000. They will be sold to China for $7,200,000.

When completed, the hitherto-secret program will give the Chinese government an air force comprising one heavy bombardment group, one medium bomber group, four single-engine fighter groups, two troop carrier groups and one photo-reconnaissance squadron.

Under the agreement, which was initiated before the end of the war and classified as top secret until tonight, the United States pledged itself to help China establish and maintain an air force roughly equal to that of such European powers as Spain, Yugoslavia and Turkey.

All of the types still to be delivered were used by the U. S. Air Forces during World War II but now have been more or less outmoded by the development of super-bombers and jet-propelled fighters.

Army Fires Civilian Employes At St. Louis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 —(UP) The Army announced today that seven civilian employes of its finance center at St. Louis, Mo., have been fired as "subversives." Others are being investigated by the FBI and military intelligence agents.

Army spokesmen withheld the names of those employes fired for disloyal activities.

Informed sources said the St. Louis finance center and the adjacent records center have become a "beehive" of Communist activity and that about 26 more disloyalty cases there have been turned over to the FBI.

Officially, the Army would not confirm that figure. But it said the FBI already has taken over the investigation of some additional suspects and that military intelligence is finishing up its own inquiries on still another group before turning them over to the FBI.

The St. Louis office handles confidential Army records and financial matters. Records of all World War II veterans are filed here.

Price of Hogs, Butter Drops Still Lower

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 —(UP)— The price of hogs and butter fell today, but corn, wheat and oats showed little change.

Meanwhile, the Department of Agriculture announced at Washington that the big price break on farm products during the month ended Feb. 13 was the sharpest in 27 years.

The department reported that the last comparable declines in farm prices occurred in 1920 and 1921, in the agricultural depression following World War I.

The break rolled back the average of farm prices from a record peak reached in mid-January to the level of last August.

The Agriculture Department's report did not cover price trends since Feb. 13, but prices on some farm products have fallen even lower.

On the Chicago Board of Trade today, wheat, corn and oats were from three-quarters of a cent a bushel higher to one and one-quarter cents lower.

No Break Seen In Teacher's Strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 28 —(UP) The possibility of an early settlement in the four-day strike of public school teachers faded today when the board of education turned down the city's offer of financial help.

The board voted three to two against a city council proposal to float a $2,000,000 bond issue to cover this year's operating expenses the strike was precipitated by the board's decision to shorten the school year because of a lack of funds.

President Benes Swears in New Communist Cabinet

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 28 —(UP)— President Eduard Benes swore in the new Communist cabinet today and emphasized that he did so to avoid internal division and the threat of general chaos.

A few hours later, after the exhausted president had left for his country estate, the new government sharply rejected a statement by the United States, Great Britain and France condemning the coup by which it seized power.

"....These governments have not the slightest legal title to interfere or even criticize the development of internal life in Czechoslovakia," the government said in a statement issued by the official news agency.

"...They are operating on charges which have no foundation in fact."

The ministries of information and foreign affairs announced that they would take "proper measures" in future against foreign correspondents who sent untrue or "distorted" dispatches regarding happenings in Czechoslovakia.

Czech Brigade to Fight Communism

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Czech political refugees said today that silent brigades of Czechoslovaks already have mobilized to fight Communism in their homeland.

These refugees said their people would use the underground tactics they learned during their struggle against the wartime Nazi occupation.

They said a central committee of anti-Communist Czechs probably would go abroad to direct the underground railway which was reorganized easily by anti-Communist partisans experienced in leading a resistance movement.

Dependents Delayed

Twenty eight names of officers, first three graders, and Department of the Army civilian employes have been submitted to the Department of the Army for transportation of dependents to Guam in April, 1948.

There are at present 823 applications for dependent travel and quarters on file for which quarters are not available. Based on present rate of construction, allocation of funds, rotation, availability of critical material, and normal attrition, it is estimated that applicants may have to wait at least 20 months on Guam before arrival of their dependents. This information was wired to headquarters in Tokyo by MarBo Headquarters.

Headline Highlights

MOSCOW, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Annabella L. Bucar, information assistant at the U.S. Embassy since 1946, resigned today and said she would stay in Russia where the people "are doing their utmost toward making the world a better place to live in."

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28 —(UP)— The Congress of Industrial Organizations warned today that the union repudiation of Henry A. Wallace did not insure President Truman's endorsement.

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 28 —(UP)— President Truman tonight signed a stop-gap bill extending rent control until April 1. He signed the bill about 7 p.m. (EST) at the temporary White House here.

Stalin Proposes Russian-Finnish Treaty

HELSINKI, Finland, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Premier Josef Stalin has personally proposed to President Juho K. Paasikivi a Russian-Finnish treaty of mutual defense and friendship, it was announced tonight.

Stalin's letter, suggesting that Finland start negotiations with Russia, was received here Monday.

The cabinet discussed it Tuesday but the Russian proposal was kept secret from the public until this afternoon, when the chairmen of political party groups in parliament went to the presidential palace to hear Paasikivi explain it.

Political quarters intimated that all parties but the Communists are opposed to the conclusion by Finland of a military alliance with any country whatsoever.

It was predicted, however, that the cabinet would approve the idea of entering into the negotiations which Russia has requested and that a delegation would be sent to Moscow soon.

It is expected that the Russian proposal will be discussed in parliament next Thursday.

Officials said that Stalin in his letter pointed out to Paasikivi that Finland is the only one of eight neighbors of Russia with which the Soviet Union now lacks a treaty of mutual assistance.

Informants said that Stalin's letter was friendly and did not lay down specific demands. It was interpreted in political quarters as leaving Finland a fair chance to negotiate and suggest amendments.

UN Council Ready To Form State Says Jewish Agency

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 28 —(UP)— The Jewish agency announced in the United Nations Security Council today that it was ready to risk forming a Jewish state in Palestine without the help of an international army if the UN refuses to mobilize one.

The agency attacked a major part of the new United States formula for handling the Palestine issue, asserting it might block Holy Land partition and increase bloodshed between Arabs and Jews.

Moshe Shertok, the agency's political chief, told the council the American proposal for new big five consultations with Arabs, Jews and British was a bewildering suggestion which "may jeopardize the implementation of the whole (partition) plan."

Indiscriminate Embargoes

The Jewish spokesman called for the lifting of "indiscriminate embargoes" on arms shipments—a direct reference to this country's ban on arms shipments to Palestine.

He suggested the council ask all UN members to supply arms to the Jewish defenders of the UN partition program and to deny them to the Arabs because they are resisting the plan.

Chinese Nationalist General Executed

NANKING, China, Feb. 28 —(UP)— A Chinese Nationalist general has been executed for abandoning a key airfield near Mukden, Manchuria, to the Communists, government reports said today.

A brief report said that Gen. Wen Li had been executed for withdrawing troops of his division from the suburban Hunho Airfield, one of Mukden's few contacts with the outside world. Communist forces immediately seized the landing field.

The report stated that Wen's execution had been ordered by Gen. Wei Li-Huang, government commander-in-chief in Manchuria. No further details were given.

Meanwhile, dispatches described a lightning Red advance which heavily attacked defense bastions on all the remaining approach routes to the key government base in the mineral-rich captured Penki (Penshihu), southeast of Mukden on the rail line to Korea; broken into Sinmin, 30 miles west of Mukden on the railway to Peiping, and Kuiyan, 55 miles to the north on the railroad between Mukden and Chungchun, and pierced the outer defenses of Yingkow, vital port at the base of Liaotung peninsula.

Wallace Claims He Could do Better

MINNEAPOLIS Feb. 28 —(UP) Henry Wallace said today that if he had been in President's Truman's shoes he might have prevented the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

Wallace said at a news conference that Czechoslovakia was a casualty of the Truman Doctrine. He said that if he had been President on March 22, 1947—the date the Doctrine was set forth—he would have worked for better relations with Russia.

"Under those circumstances the unfortunate Czechoslovakian situation might have been averted," he said.

Devonshire to Strengthen Defenses

LONDON, Feb. 28 —(UP)— The 9,850-ton cruiser Devonshire, carrying troops of the Gloucester regiment, is speeding to British Honduras to strengthen its defenses against a threatened invasion by "irresponsible elements" from Guatemala, the foreign office announced today.

Number Not Given

The troops, whose number was not given, and the eight-inch guns of the Devonshire will form a potent reinforcement for the marines aboard the 9,100-ton, Cruiser Sheffield, which arrived in Belize, capital of the central American colony, late today.

Guatemala's minister to London, Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, denied the existence of any armed threat but said his government would soon start international action to exclude Britain and other European nations from colonies in the Western Hemisphere.

Southwest Struck by Tornadoes, Floods

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Tornadoes, floods and cloudbursts struck the Southwest today and a winter storm swept across the north central states.

At least three persons were killed in Texas.

Cyclonic winds ripped through parts of Texas and Kansas, destroying homes, damaging airport facilities and disrupting railroads.

The winds, reaching a velocity of 60 miles per hour in Texas, followed rainstorms which sent Texas streams pouring over their banks.

Nine central Texas communities reported heavy property damage.

Meanwhile, a snow and sleet storm struck Minnesota, snarling traffic and snapping communication lines to many isolated towns.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Chicago issued a special broadcast to warn midwestern residents that a cold wave and heavy snow were on the way.

Sokolovsky Orders Denazification To Cease

BERLIN, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, commander of the Soviet occupation zone, today ordered the ending of denazification proceedings effective March 10. It was regarded as one of the boldest Russian bids for German support.

British occupation officials quickly followed with an order paroling members of Nazi criminal organizations in their zone.

Sokolovsky also announced that former Nazi party members who had been removed from their jobs but permitted to retain their right to vote would have the opportunity to regain their former posts "by honest and loyal work."

His special order of the day, published by the Soviet Army newspaper Taegliche Rundschau, said "work denazification commissions must be completed by March 10."

Foreign Spending Cut Proposed by Herter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 —(UP) Rep. Christian A. Herter, (R-Mass.), proposed today that Congress trim another $500,000,000 off the administration's foreign spending by substituting a world-wide recovery program for the pending European and Far Eastern aid plans.

Herter asked the House foreign affairs committee to limit overseas relief and reconstruction spending in the next 12 months to $6,500,000,000 instead of the $7,000,000,000 sought by the administration.

He proposed $2,000,000,000 for emergency aid to China and to ward off disease and unrest in occupied Japan, Korea & western Germany. That would be about $300,000,000 more than the administration plans to spend in those areas, and would leave only $4,500,000,000 for the European Recovery Program.

United States Stops Russia's Efforts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 —(UP) The United States will formally slam the door on all efforts of the Soviet Union and her satellites to get a voice in the current American-British-French conference in London on Germany, it was disclosed today.

The conference of the three big western powers opened last Monday. They are a consequence of the collapse of the Big Four council of foreign ministers last December in London and the first formal step by the western powers to proceed in western Germany without Russia.

A State Department spokesman said today the United States would reject all protests about the conference and rebuff all efforts by any of the eastern countries to be consulted.

Guerrillas Should Surrender; Von Fleet

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 28 —(UP) Maj. Gen. James A. Von Fleet, commander-designate of the American military mission in Greece, said today that he believed that guerrilla forces would be conquered soon.

Van Fleet told a press conference held jointly with Dwight Griswold, head of the American aid mission, that "the best thing...the guerrillas could do would be to surrender now to save all this bloodshed."

Van Fleet is scheduled to take over command of the military mission after Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay leaves for Washington early next month.

Service Dress Slated For 'New Look'

by Harman W. Nichols
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(UP)— When President Truman went to South America last fall to shake hands across the canal—so to speak—he saw lots of Brazilian military braid.

What braid! And on what uniforms! It became obvious to Mr. T. that the America to the south was out-doing the America to the north in the matter of frilling up its generals and admirals for fancy dress occasions.

The President's own aides were wearing a variety of work-a-day uniforms.

When he got back to his snug Oval room in the White House, Mr. Truman sent a memo to Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. He suggested that the defense establishment work up a fine new dress uniform for all the services.

So were called in the best pants makers, the fanciest coat makers and other experts of the scissors and needle. They came up with an evening dress uniform to tickle the blue-blooded vanity of the spiffiest hostess on Pennsylvania Avenue. A uniform with tails, iron shirt, and white tie. One with sleeve room for all the braid a man could carry and still stand erect and salute his fellow officers. Plus enough cloth room above the belt—in front to hold several pounds of medals.

The idea of more snazzy dress-up uniforms (from braid on down) has been percolating throughout the services. Plans were drawn and patterns were cut out. But the idea died a-borning. Or almost. G. I. Joseph will be wearing the same togs in the Easter Parade that he wore last year.

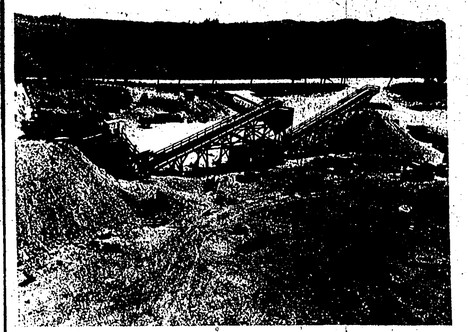
Rock Crusher on ComMar Hill Reopens

COMMAR HILL — A huge rock crushing plant which will produce 1,000 tons of crushed coral per day was recently completed and put into operation near the gate to Commander Marianas. This new plant is operated by the Brown-Pacific-Maxon company under a contract with the Navy.

When it became necessary to provide sub-surfacing gravel for the new ComMar-Pili road, there were no rock quarries in operation near enough to the road site to be utilized economically; so it was decided to reopen the one at Commander Marianas.



Approximately 60,750 tons of coral will be taken from the hillside and crushed to provide this base material for the 2.7 mile highway. This plant will be used to produce three-inch crushed coral.

There are 72 fatal accidents per 100,000 persons, on the average, in the United States.

The cemeteries of London total in area six times the size of Hyde Park, which covers 390 acres.

Prior to 1880 all tile used in American buildings was imported; today almost all ceramic tile is produced at home.

More than 825,000 fires that could have been prevented occurred last year in this country. Sixty per cent were put out when they were only small blazes.

Change Foreseen In Payment Certificates

TOKYO —(UP)— Speculation developed here today that a change in the type of military payment certificate being used by occupation forces in Japan and other parts of the world may be impending.

Allied Headquarters has issued a staff memorandum outlining the procedure to be followed, but stating that in the event of a failure change, the exact date and hour of the conversation period will remain a "top secret" until the hour of the conversation period is to being.

Headquarters said such secrecy was necessary since "violation of this security will not only jeopardize the success of the conversation in the far east command, but may have a similar effect in other commands throughout the world."

Encephalitis Threat on Guam Subsides

MARBO — The recent outbreak of encephalitis on Guam has apparently subsided, no new cases having been reported in the last two weeks. The number of confirmed cases since the disease first appeared last December has not been large, and has been restricted chiefly to the native population. No cases occurred among Army or Air Force personnel.

Investigation into the cause and mode of spread of the outbreak is being continued on Guam, at the Navy Medical Center, and in laboratories in Tokyo and the University of California. In addition to local Army, Navy and Civil Government personnel, two groups are participating in the investigation. One, consisting of Dr. William McHammond, professor of epidemiology at the University of California; Dr. Gordon Meiklejohn of the Department of Medicine at the University of California; and Commander R. E. Philbrook (MC) USN, epidemiologist attached to U. S. Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor, has already left the Island. The other, consisting of Colonel George N. Schuhmann, consultant in Preventive Medicine, General Headquarters, Far East Command; Lt. Colonel William D. Tigertt and Major T. O. Berge of the 406 Medical General Laboratory; and Major Kermit E. Jones, Sanitary Engineer, General Headquarters, Far East Command, has returned to Tokyo.

Since it is known that various species of mosquitoes are essential to the spread of this disease, intensified control measures are being continued by Army, Air Force, Navy, and Civil Government units in close collaboration. Captain W. J. LaCasse, entomologist from the 207th Malaria Survey Unit, is remaining on Guam to pursue mosquito investigations.

It is desired to emphasize that this has been a minor outbreak and that no new cases have been reported during the past two weeks, following the intensification of mosquito control measures three weeks ago.

Italian Fleet Divided Among Nations

ROME —(UP)— Russia's share of the Italian Navy numbers 45 ships, including the 35-year-old battleship Giulia Cesare, badly wrecked by bombs and beached at Trieste, an official report on the division of the Italian fleet showed today.

The rest of the Italian fleet was divided among France, 45 ships; Yugoslavia, 17; Greece, two; and Albania, two. The U. S. and Britain were allotted 28 ships each.

Girls Have Slow Start In Leap Year Manhunt

CHICAGO —(UP)— The girls are off to a slow start in the leap year manhunt.

Marriage records of 14 major cities show that the number of licenses issued in January was five to 20 per cent below the totals for the same month last year.

Kansas City, Mo., was the only city to report an increase. Leap year started with a "boom" there.

But even with Valentine's Day just over, Kansas City was an exception. There were decreases in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston, Detroit, St. Louis, Miami, Atlanta, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Reno, Washington, D. C., and Elkton, Md.

Marriage clerks disagreed about reasons for the decline, but most of them said the "war rush" appeared to be over.

Los Angeles said the girls "have as cheaply as one these days." Licenses there dropped from 2,906 in January, 1947, to 2,673 last month.

Detroit's county clerk Edgar Branigan discounted the high cost of living theory. He said he believed Detroit's drop from 2,229 to 2,083 was levelling off after the post-war boom.

"Two people who want to get married can always convince themselves that two can live as cheaply as one," Branigan said.

Washington dropped from 1,005 to 916 despite a large number of eligible girls. Clerks believed high prices, the housing shortage and the elimination of quick wartime marriages caused the decline.

Elkton, Md., which requires a 48-hour waiting period but no blood test, showed a decrease from 941 to 789. The city has quit issuing licenses at night.

New Microseismic Station at Manila To Operate With Guam, Okinawa

COMMAR HILL—Elbert W. Atkins, electronics technican from the U.S. Weather Bureau was on Guam yesterday for the purpose of conferring with the Navy's Fleet Weather Central microseismic officer, Ltjg E.W. Hubert, USN, on the problems of setting up a microseismic station in the Philippines.

Atkins is on his way to Manila via Pan American Airways from the United States for the purpose of setting up a microseismic station which will work in conjunction with the Navy's stations at Guam and Okinawa. This is part of the Philippine rehabilitation mission.

Atkins will act in an advisory capacity for installation and arrangements for training operators. There is a possibility that the Filipino operators will be trained on Guam under Hubert.

Two Stations in Pacific

At present there are two stations in the Pacific, one here and one at Okinawa. The Guam station located on ComMar Hill on the lower deck of the GUAM NEWS editorial building.

The Guam set up is a "triparatite" installation, with a main station on ComMar Hill and two substations elsewhere on the Island. This is to serve the purpose of "triangulation" on bearings and tracking of typhoons. The distance between Guam microseismic machines is not great enough to give an accurate position of tropical disturbances. Working in conjunction with Okinawa, long distance two-legged bearings are possible.

With the installation of the gear at Manila, a three-legged triangulation system will be used which will be much more accurate.

Curb Sought For Flying, Dancing Courses

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The Administration recently asked Congress to wipe out "leisure time" courses under the GI Bill of Rights in such things as flying, dancing, and music.

Budget Director James E. Webb said Congress never intended to finance such "avocational" courses for veterans but that it can't be stopped as the law is now written.

The cost to the taxpayer of spare time training of veterans in everything from dancing to horseback riding is more than $200,000,000 a year, Webb said. One dancing school, he told the House Veterans Committee, advertises that "in a few magic hours" it can turn a GI into "a darling of the stag line."

I ran into a few of the fellows who serve on board a PCE the other day, and thought that I'd find out just exactly what they do. After a short interview, I thought that an article on their duties would be rather interesting, so here goes.

It seems that a PCE is one of those little boats that go—what's that? Oh yes—one of those little ships that go out every two or three weeks to a Bow Bow station and report the—oh, I'm so sorry, I mean Bird Dog station. Maybe a copy of the interview would be a little better; I get so confused.

Me: Fancy meeting you here! Where have you been for the last two months?

Them: Hi Betty. We just got in from Bird Dog yesterday. Kinda dull.

Me: You mean that you've been out there all that time? What do you do?

Them: (After hysterical laughter) Nothing at all. We just float, go swimming, take sunbaths (ED. if you believe this you're more gullible than I....) and generally get rested up for the wonderful parties we always have at the night clubs on Guam. The ones with floor shows, that is.

Me: But you must do something too.

Them: Well, we're supposed to report the weather, but actually we seldom can because of the typhoons. Not that we mind; they break up the monotony.

Me: Typhoons (word typhoons spoken in an awe struck voice, slowly rising up to an earsplitting falsetto) How terrible!

Them: Oh tish tosh and a couple of pshaws. Of course it does get a little windy, and the sea gets rather rough, but we have to earn our sub pay somehow. And being true Navy men, we love the taste of several buckets of salt water, even if it is a little tough on our pharmacist mate who has to pump us out after every watch.

Me: I'll bet you're really glad to get back to Guam, aren't you?

Them: Oh, yes, we love it here at Guam. Only trouble is that none of the people on ships seem to be able to get any kind of transportation during the week or so that we're in port between Bird Dogs. But we don't mind. We love to walk a few miles every time we want to go to the beach.

Me: Why, you almost sound bitter.

Them: Certainly not. We told you that we love to go out to sea for a couple of months, looking at clouds and big waves, rolling one hundred ninety three and a half degrees, and snapping at our food as it drifts from our plates towards the overhead. Love that roll.

Me: Don't you have anything to do with planes?

Them: Sure. Every time a plane comes by we try to find out where we are, and has Guam sunk or is our relief coming out.

Me: But if a plane goes down. Don't you go to help him?

Them: Oh no. The fly-boys are not supposed to subjugate themselves to the awful stresses and strains of riding a PCE. All we do is run for help. Of course, by the time we get back to Guam, the fly-boys have already paddled their raft back, and greet us at the dock. Not that a PCE is slow, but——

Me: I understand. Well, thanks for the information boys.

Them: Wait a minute, Betty, how about a date tonight?

Me: I'm sorry. I'd love to, but one of the fellows at Industrial already asked me, and he has asked me, and he has a jeep, and——

Them: We understand.

'New Look' Creates Dilemma

NEW YORK —(UP)— Norma Raymond, 25-year-old Cleveland singer, explained recently how she caused a male revolution when she went shopping in Buenos Aires in a strapless "new look" dress.

She arrived aboard a good neighbor ocean liner and was appearing as a singer with the band on board.

Miss Raymond said she sallied forth on a shopping spree in Buenos Aires on Feb. 3. She was dressed to show off her keen coat of tan, her green eyes and dandelion-yellow hair. She ended up at the police station. Police said they picked her up "for her own protection" from Argentine wolves.

The pretty little vocalist went shopping in a gold necklace, a one-piece black linen strapless frock, a black silk scarf, no stockings and flat gold sandals.

"With such a fine coat of tan I don't feel undressed," she explained. "It would be a pity not to show it off."

Some 1,000 Latin-American wolves, overwhelmed by this startling example of the good neighbor policy, agreed it would be a pity not to show it off.

They serenaded her.

Soon there was a crowd of some 1,000 "sharks at the corner of Florida and Corrientes St., one of the city's busiest intersections. Miss Raymond couldn't move. At 4:30 p. m., more than four hours after she began her shopping tour, the police came to her rescue.

Miss Raymond, who is five feet four inches tall and weighs 115 pounds, was annoyed by only one thing.

"They said I had on a short skirt—that's what got me mad," she cried. "It's a new look skirt and it's 15 inches from the ground."

Hollywood Highlights

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Samuel Bischoff, producer, is making sure no indignant insurance man will write in about the way Dick Powell is portraying one.

Bischoff hired an insurance executive to teach Powell the fine points of the insurance business, especially the way to carry a briefcase.

"Insurance men don't carry a briefcase any old way," the technical adviser explained. "They have a style all their own."

Wilson Stokes, the adviser, took time off from his job adjusting criminal-type claims in the Los Angeles area to instruct Powell, an insurance adjustor in "The Pitfall," in the highly specialized art of briefcase carrying and opening.

"Doesn't an insurance man just grab up the briefcase and do what he wants with it?" inquired Powell as Stokes put him through his paces again and again before okaying him as a genuine rock of Gibraltar man.

"Absolutely not," Stokes said. "A good insurance man is trained to carry his "portable" office with an air of elegance and refinement. He must carry it as though it is the most important bit of luggage in the world.

"Well I'll be darned," said Powell when he fumbled twice opening the zipper.

Thumbnail Sketches

Editor's Note——This is the fifth in a series of Sunday "Thumbnail Sketches" briefly portraying the highlights in the lives of island personalities. Text by George W. Wilbur, GUAM NEWS Island Editor. Artist sketches by Mr. J. C. Johnston.

Most Rev. Appolinaris W. Baumgartner, O. F. M. Cap., D. D., Bishop of Guam, is one of the exceptional examples of members of the clergy who have left their accustomed lives and surroundings to journey to a foreign land and there strike out with a will to spread their teachings and act as an indestructable bastion of faith for their newly adopted people.

Bishop Baumgartner's prominence in the civic and spiritual element of Guam is unsurpassed.

Born in College Point, N. Y., 1899, his schooling includes public and parochial schools at College Point, St. Lawrence College, St. Bonaventure Novitiate, St. Anthony's seminary and Columbia University. He possesses four degrees, A. B.; M.A.; M. S.; and D. D.

Ordained a priest at Marathon, Wisconsin in 1926, he was consecrated a biship at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York in 1945. During his tumultous life he has served as religious tutor at many schools, and has edited many clerical publications.

Bishop Baumgartner is a much traveled gentleman, having been in every state on the mainland and also Mexico, the Canal Zone, Cuba, Puerto Rico and Canada. He has flown since 1945 more than 140,000 miles in fulfillment of his duties.

This being a life appointment, the bishop considers Guam his home. His interest is rabid in the religious, social and civic future of his people, with accent placed on education. What time he has not consumed by attending to needs of the 32 young men and women in the states at Catholic schools and colleges, the recently established convent on Guam, and his proposed day school and seminary for boys of Guam in the near future, he spends designing pontifical vestments and cloths for church use, his favorite hobby.

Music Spotlights

by Ed Simmons

Today is the day! This scribe gently puts his pen aside, and says farewell to all of the fine music fans and fanatics on the Island. With a tear in his eye, he breaks temporarily the many fine friendships that only an art form like music can weld.

To the bebopers, I say; keep your goatees trimmed. To the long hairs I say; don't let it blind you to the finer things in other types of music. To all of you I say keep your music first and foremost.

I can't think of a nicer way to close this fine experience, than with a few remarks from my favorite music critic. At times I've tried to give a concise view of things that have happened in the states, and things to come. Well, our guest columnist is the man who can give us an actual view because he's in the states.

Dad, the column is yours.

Junius B. Simmons

It is a pleasure to be a guest on MUSIC SPOTLIGHTS, I have found the column extremely interesting, because it has covered all phases of our musical life from time to time.

If I may I would like to tell you of some of the musical happenings in the states; not to make you homesick, but to let you know we are keeping the home fires aglow with music.

Our concert season in the urban districts has been the greatest since the war, with attendance on the up-grade. The artistic standard has also been extremely high. I might mention in passing, the marvelous success of that unit from the armed forces, the DePaur Infantry chorus, whose concerts have been packed, and whose concerts have also won the praise from the critics.

Our symphony orchestras have been turning in beautiful concerts, as well as outstanding recordings. The Boston Symphony Orchestra has given us sterling recordings of Beethoven's "Eroica" and "Ninth Symphony." Performances that have made their listeners feel the true spirit of the brotherhood of man, we have received a fine roording of Handel's "Messiah," by the one and only Sir Thomas Beecham.

Sir Thomas Beecham, more than any living conductor, evokes the true spirit of Handel's music.

Thanks Dad, for a very enlightening column, those fine remarks about our attempts, and an excellent message.

This pen seems to be glued to my fingers, and I really hate to put it down. The scribe who is going to take up where I left off, is a very capable person. Another of the self-named "high potentates" of music. What he doesn't know about music isn't worth knowing.

He hails from the land of modern music, Los Angeles, California, and he's known around these parts as "Fat." Just for the record his real name is Jack Mealer and I'm positive that you readers are going to get a real treat when he picks up the pen next week.

That just about does it. Remember to listen to WVTG for the best in radio entertainment. Don't forget your "Saturday Date," with the top band of the week on Saturday. Above all remember that time marches on and so does BE-BOP. Take it easy, be good to yourselves, and have a good time, won't you, Ed.

America's Wolves Using Hypnotism

NEW YORK—(UP)—America's wolves are going in for amateur hypnotism and the hypnotists don't like it.

When scientists proclaimed hypnosis a scientific treatment for certain ailment, that was all right.

But when young men start concentrating upon the subtle art of suggestion to woo the female, the hypnotists get worried. It lowers the stature of their profession.

And what's more, the hypnotic wolf doesn't win a round with his woman hypnotist Lesley Kuhn asserted, because a gal won't do a thing in a hypnotic state that is against her principles.

Contrary to what people believe, Kuhn said, a person under hypnosis can resist anything their subconscious mind wishes them to.

So the guy who's been getting his gal to concentrate on his big, brown amorous eyes may subject her to suggestion, but he can be sure she's going to say "no" to it. If she always has before.

Kuhn, who believes that the power of constructive suggestion has effected some scientific "miracles," deplored the recent wave of wolf-hysteria over hypnotism.

Why, back in the time of the Egyptian civilization hypnotism had high-standing in the medical profession, the hypnotist said. And Confucius used it in ancient China.

Even Adolf Hitler knew the results of its power. The Fuehrer, Kuhn said always talked on a dais or balcony down to his audience, often with a spotlight shining on him in a darkened room. The effect of an audience staring upwards upon one pinpoint of light produced mass hypnosis.

Then, in World War II, the Russians gave it even further medical recognition by using it in amputations, the hypnotist said. When anesthetics weren't on hand they put a patient in a hypnotic trance, told him he would feel no pain while they operated and he didn't.

And now, the hypnotist said sadly, the American wolf has to use it as gimmick for guy-to-get gal. If this amateur Svengali would only realize he can't get his Trilby by hypnosis.

If a man's natural charms don't do the trick, hypnotism won't work, Kuhn said.

Besides, falling in love itself produces a hypnotic state, without the wolves using voodoo, Kuhn said. The lovers go into a self-induced trance and see each other as the mind conceives them, not the eye.

"The fun in marriage starts when they come out of the hypnosis and see each other for the first time," he said.

"Play it Safe"
(Anonymous)

Sure, you want to drink beer and have lots of fun,
Well, so do I, and so does everyone,
But when you get looped up and still think you feel,
Sober enough to sit behind a steering wheel,
Remember, drunken driving's a serious offense,
And brig time might be the consequence,
While for the rest of his life some innocent guy,
Might be without a leg or an eye,
Or an arm because some sap like you,
Doesn't care that the best thing to do,
Is to, PLAY IT SAFE.
And when driving at night,
Hide your pride,
If the fool on the other side,
Won't dim his lights.
When one can't see its bad enough,
When neither can, man, its really tough,
The thought of your being bruised and battered,
Or the picture of your body splattered,
All over the road, isn't very nice,
And you don't care to be shipped home on ice,
So PLAY IT SAFE.
Your loved ones like you better alive
than dead,
Or moaning in some hospital bed,
You're not gonna be out here forever,
And it doesn't take any special endeavor,
To use your head and do things right,
All you gotta do is use a little foresight,
And PLAY IT SAFE.

Last Night

Last night was like a trip to fairy land.
The moon cast magic shadows on the sand.
The sky, a canopy of heavenly blue.
The stars were diamonds of the purest hue.
The moon was queen within a vast domain.
Moon rays lay on mountain, valley,
plain.
I stood enchanted by the magic spell;
Here I found more lore than books can tell.
Overcoming all, the joy of life,
Seemed to erase the usual worldly strife.
Its peace encompassed all the earth-
And then I knew that beauty comprises worth.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Sir:

Dropping a few lines for a little information as to how I can obtain a mascot for my ship. I would like to get ahold of a pup from someone on the Island, had promises from a couple of places but they didn't pan out.

What I would like to know could or would you run a short item in the daily newspaper to that effect or would I have to place it in the classified advertisements section if so what would be the cost of a small ad.

Anything regarding information on the above would be appreciated. Thank-you in advance.

Very Truly Yours,

This March the American Red Cross will make its annual appeal for funds to support its endeavors throughout the next fiscal year, endeavors which might possibly reach into your home and mine.

The Red Cross works behind the scenes of human frailtiy for the most part, and those peoples lives it does not materially touch are often ignorant of its benefits to his fellow man, and are equally ignorant of just how much the Red Cross needs the support of himself and all like him.

On Guam many jobs are undertaken by the Guam chapter of the American Red Cross, jobs which have probably been made known to few. During the coming months they will have to turn from their usual complete spirit of giving for awhile to pause and ask for help, financial help that will enable them to continue their work.

Many Jobs Undertaken

Among the many jobs undertaken and successfully completed by the Guam chapter of the American Red Cross is the financial assistance to individuals, amounting to $3578.80. In just the past eleven months, the assisting of amputees and their families, the procuring of supplies with which to aid the occupant's of the island leprosarium, the teaching of home nursing courses in the various villages, the investigation of "hardship" cases, and the aiding of emergency cases of service personnel in reference to illness, death, discharge, furlough etc. These are but a few that show you the magnitude of the Red Cross work on Guam.

The active members of the American Red Cross are giving time and effort, won't you help them in their job with financial aid?

All Navy Boxing Finals Set for May 4 in San Diego

Local Tournament Date Advanced Accordingly

A complete revision of dates for local All Navy boxing eliminations was made yesterday by staff welfare and recreation to comply with plans set forth in a dispatch received yesterday from BuPers which gave the date for the finals in San Diego as 4 May.

Plans had originally been made for the local tournament to be held early in April as they were last year. The 1947 finals were held in San Diego in June, which gave ample time for the local and Western Pacific meets to be held in April and May.

A new plan has been introduced this year which calls for each Naval command on the Island to enter a team with an officer-in-charge managing the team. The setup is expected to increase interest and will also be counted as a major event in the Commander Marianas Cup competition.

NAS Agana has been tentatively named host command for the entire WesPac tournament, including local, Marianas and Pacific competition. A distribution sent out early in January asked that command entries by entered by March 21, but the advance in date of the finals makes it necessary that entries be in by March 10. Local eliminations will begin later next month in order to have the Guam team ready for the Marianas meet, which is scheduled for April 9. Teams from China, Japan and the Philippines will show here against the Marianas team April 16, and to WesPac team will leave directly for San Diego April 24.

Johnny Wright and Johnny Kamber are the only two remaining members of last year's local squad who are expected to enter this year. Greek Lekanides, who won the Western Pacific featherweight title is still on the Island, but is handicapped by a broken hand. Kamber, who went to the All Navy finals only to lose in the last bout, has moved up from bantamweight to the 127 pound class, and has looked sharper than ever in tuneup bouts during the last month.

Each command on the Island is expected to have an intra-command tournament within the next two weeks in order to determine the best group from each base and thus make a stronger showing in the eliminations to follow. All team entries must be sent to Commander Marianas by March 10.

N.C. State Asked To Invitational

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 —(UP)— North Carolina State, which has won 25 games this season and lost only two, was named today to the fourth team selected for the National Invitational Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 11-17.

Walcott Signs For Return Bout

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Jersey Joe Walcott, who finally signed up today for his return heavyweight title bout with Champion Joe Louis said that "I'm going to knock out that mechanical fighter as soon as possible."

Walcott, making no secret of the fact that the bout in Yankee Stadium on June 23 would be a "grudge battle," said that he would not attempt to name the round of his knockout, but that he would not lose any time.

Warfield Stages Upset by Defeating Seidel

Lcdr. J. David Smith knew what to do with Lt. Martin Hanson's big service when it counted most, and had the strategy and shots to take care of the rest as he won a hard-fought 6-3, 1-6, 8-6, two hour-long battle in the semi-finals of the open singles class of the second annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tournament yesterday afternoon on the Naval Government courts.

In the first match of the afternoon, ChPayClk David Warfield upset third-seeded Cdr. William Seidel, 6-0, 7-5, to move into the open singles finals against Smith.

Before the match, Hanson was the whispered choice to knock off the defending champion, and his tennis was only the smallest trifle less brilliant than Smith's and neither was a sure bet until the final point. Hanson was leading 5-4 in the third set and had match point, only to have Smith come back, and in the final game, three match points went by before Smith could take one.

Four times in the match Smith broke Hanson's high bounding serve, and fired his own effectively enough to keep Hanson from taking over. Smith, tall and red-haired alternately drove, lobbed, chopped, netted and overdrove Hanson's delivery, but had it under control when he needed it, and broke service in the tenth game of the final set when he was down, 5-4, and again in the last game of the match.

Leading 5-3 in the final set, Hanson lost the first of a series of crucial games as Smith came out from under match point to tie it up at 5-all, and then went on ahead, 6-5. The volleying and net play were particularly spectacular, but Smith supplemented it with drop shots and cross court corner shots to wear out the big Coast Guard officer. Big Martin tied it up at 6-all, but Smith took over to win his own service, and then smother Hanson's touted American twist and win the match.

Just how close the match really was is most accurately shown by the fact that the total number of games was divided evenly, Hanson winning 15, and Smith the same number.

Warfield's retrieving tactics paid off again as he bumped Seidel from the running in the lower bracket semi-finals. A killing change of pace which kept Seidel on the defensive was a big factor as he copped the first set in six straight games, but the good doctor started forcing the game in the second set and almost made it work. Volleying sharply at the net, Seidel moved up to lead, 5-4, but once again, Warfield's conservative game came through and it was, rightly enough, a forehand passing shot from the back court that wound up the match.

Sports Beat

by Bob Crossley

Reference books will tell you that Indiana's foremost commodities are corn and the Hoosier Hotshots, but any sports fan will argue that basketball is way ahead of grain, and folks in Tennessee point with pride to Emmett Lowery as an outstanding example. . . Just a little less than a year ago, when every other basketball coach in the country was busy scouting high school players for years to come, UT's Johnny Mauer signed a contract to coach West Point's Cadets. . . . That fact, coupled with the graduation of three first stringers, left the Vols in a bit of a hole for cage prospects, and sports-crazy Knoxville in a high state of consternation.

It wasn't until a few months later that they found this fella Lowery at Purdue and hustled him South to try to save the Vols' reputation of being perennial runnerup behind Kentucky in the Southeast. . . . When Lowery got there he found that no new material had been enlisted, and what was left over from past years knew only Mauer's slow steady kind of basketball.....Lowery was 100 per cent in favor of the fast break, and was displeased more than somewhat with what he saw.

He took a quick muster and found he had Paul Walther, former All America forward with a deadly left handed hook shot, Art Burris, first string forward and Marshall Hawkins, reserve center with a bit of experience.....That was about it.....Both of last year's guards and six foot five inch Center Dan Thomas were gone.....Acting on a hunch that turned out to be a wise move, Lowery switched Hawkins to forward, moved Burris to center, and began experimenting with the green guards he had.

Things didn't look too hot when activities commenced in December. The Vols dropped games to Mami O., and North Carolina....Then they began to get accustomed to the faster type of play and their only losses since the North Carolina affair have been to Kentucky.... Out of 22 games, they've lost only four—two of those to Kentucky.... They've come to be regarded as a threat to Tulane in the battle for second place in the SEC tourney—it's taken for granted that Kentucky will win the thing.

Lowery, a former All America at Purdue, has done great things for the team, but he gives all the credit to the players. . . .The two boys who were big question marks when the season opened have developed into top flight guards and become a big part in its success..... Ed "Britches" Montgomery, a sophomore from Knoxville who got his start in junior high and YMCA basketball, has turned out to be the game winner on several occasions, and Hugh Jones, brother of Kentucky's Wah Wah Jones, has taken care of Lowery's guard worries for at least two more years. . . .Walther has been the sparkplug for the third year, but Burris and Hawkins have both played their best ball since they started on the Hill.

The Vols have been the only team able to beat the Lexington herd out of the SEC crown in the last seven years, and though the home folks hold but slim hopes for such a showing this year, they have all become desciples of the fast break, and are looking for Tennessee to get back at Tulane for eliminating them in the second round last March....Emmett Lowery has made a place for himself in Knoxville for as long as he cares to stay.

20th A.F. Quintet To Go to Japan As Guam's Bid

Last night on the ComMar court, the 20th Air Force All Stars defeated the 296th Transportation Battalion, 51 to 45, to gain the right to represent the Army All Stars of Guam in Japan next month.

The All Stars held the lead throughout the game until the Battalion put on a desperate scoring barrage in the opening of the fourth quarter to close a ten point gap and trail, 44-43, with four minutes to go. The All Stars came back strong after the intermission and broke away to win, 51-45.

Jay Johnson led the Battalion and all scorers for the evening with 17 tallies. McEuen and Butler scored 14 and 13 points, respectively, for the winners.

On rural hibhways, 21,200 traffic accident fatalities occured last year, the National Safety Council reports.

Forward, Henry, of the 296th Battalion is shown above making the field goal that started a desperate rally in last night's game at ComMar 20th A. F. stopped the rally in time to win, 51-45. (Guam News Photo)

Last Inning Rally Gains Protested Win

It was a beautiful day at Geiger Field atop ComMar Hill and a grand crowd was on hand to watch the supposed "game of the year" between NAS Agana and ComMar.

The Agana crew drew first blood by scoring on a hit in the second inning but ComMar came back strong with three runs in the last of the third and held their lead until the top of the seventh.

Now if any one is good in guessing games, let him take a crack at this. "Who" was on first, "What" was on second, and "Where" was on third. "Why" hit the ball to short and playing it safe the throw was to first. The game was then thrown into a turmoil when "Where" scored, "What" and "Who" were found on third with "Why" parked on second. In a mad scramble to find their bases, all were jumping over one another and still no one was called out. However, the umpire says he saw four men cross the plate finally and so NAS Agana was supposedly ahead, 5-3. The last of the seventh was played under protest.

Weekly Sports Roundup

by Larry McMahon

"Razzle-Dazzle" Football Coach, Bo McMillin, resigned his coaching job at the University of Indiana to sign a contract with the professional Detroit Lions. His new job will bring him an estimated $30,000 a year. Although McMillin's coaching at Indiana was not sensational, the fact remains that "Mac" coached the 1945 team to the first and only school championship Indiana has ever received.

In the main bout at the Paseo De Susana, little Campo decisioned Ivan Jones before a sellout crowd of Island fans. Campo is the bantamweight champion of the Marianas.

The Guam All Stars defeated the China representative, USS Topeka, in the Wes-Pac opener, 71-25. Guam took a commanding first period lead and were never threatened throughout the game.

The strong NATS Asia softball team suffered its first defeat at the hands of the First Marine Brigade in a nine inning ballgame, Earl McClard outpitched Bernard Carlock and gave up only one hit to gain his first victory of the season.

The Guam All Stars copped the Western Pacific Tourney with a 68-49, victory over the China representative. China made a different showing in the second game than they had before. When China arrived on Guam, they were certain that they would not only have a vacation on the Island but they would journey on to Pearl Harbor. However, the Guam All Stars, who were no doubt the better team, cashed in on the plane ticket for the opportunity of playing in the Pacific playoffs.

The Coroner and States' Attorney of Illi[illegible]arate investigations into the Illinois boxing progra[illegible] New York Negro light heavyweight fighter, was k[illegible] about two weeks ago and was the main reason for [illegible]s-sistant State's Attorney Dan Ryan sought to bring out [illegible] Spinelli, manager of Baroudi, was connected in some way with a group of alleged New York hoodlums tampering with boxing. Spinelli denied knowing any of these men.

Dave Warfield "knocked off" second seeded Cdr. Albert Kolhlas in the local tennis tourney. Warfield, who wasn't seeded in the second Annual GUAM NEWS Tennis Tourney, kept Kolhlas on the run and allowed him to make most of the errors.

Mike Simerly, ace hurler for ComMar, tossed a no hit game for the Hilltoppers as they defeated the Fifth Service Marines, 18-0. Simerly is the fourth pitcher to hurl a no hit game in the current Inter-Command league.

The Guam All Stars packed their "duds" and with flashy new Wes-Pac uniforms left the Island of Guam for their next playoffs which will be held around the first of March in Pearl Harbor. The All Stars have won 15 and lost none so far this season and are considered a very strong candidate for the Pacific Basketball Crown.

Sport Promoters Worried About Television Appeal

NEW YORK,—UP—Promoters of just about every type of sports event from boxing to college football are worried stiff over this new baby-television.

A general feeling is that it will ruin the box office appeal of major events now cracking attendance records right and left. Nobody knows for sure, but organized baseball, pro football and even the National Collegiate Athletic Association are boning up on the possibilities.

For a slightly prejudiced report on the other side of the story, we checked in with Herbert Bayard Swope, Jr., a video expert on sports. He thinks the promoters should quit worrying.

"I think attendance will increase rather than decrease," he said. "Television will make new friends for these sports, and in the end these hitherto untouched people will want to see the real thing."

The dyed-in-the-wool fans won't quit attending, either, Swope believes, pointing to the turnout of more than 15,000 for the pro tennis debut of Jack Kramer against Bobby Riggs on the night of New York's greatest snowfall in history last December 26 when the subways were the big town's only available transportation.

"They all knew that match would be televised," Swope said. "But they fought a record snow to get there."

"We don't guarantee to fill up the stands for losing teams," Swope said. "But, personally, I don't think many real fans will stay at home either.

"On the day of the Columbia-Dartmouth football game last fall, it rained all morning and through the first half. It was the worst day I ever saw, but the stands were more than half full of laughing, cheering fans. All Columbia gemes were televised."

Major League Ballplayers Discover New Utopia in Backyard of Boston Braves

NEW YORK —(UP)— After years of long and patient searching, big league ballplayers finally have uncovered a Utopia.

And their idea of a diamond Shangri-La is being under contract to the Boston Braves.

Get a load of some of the testimonials:

Pitcher Bill Voiselle, ex-New York Giant employee, says, "They run things in real big lague fashion here (Boston). No penny-pinching and no criticism over 'little things' with this outfit. You can quote me as saying I was happy to come here from the Giants. As a matter of fact, I don't know of any club I would rather play for."

Voiselle's enthusiasm, however, hardly could match that of Outfielder Tommy Holmes, who came to the Braves from the Newark Bears in 1942. Holmes isn't the least bit miffed at never making the New York Yankees after spending five years in their farm system. On the contrary, he's tickled to be with "the best club in baseball."

The 29-year-old Brooklyn-born outfielder said he hopes to be with the Braves "for the rest of my career" after signing his 1948 contract. "The Braves always have treated me exceptionally well," he added, "And it's a pleasure to play for them."

If you're still not convinced that life is just a bowl of berries and beans with the Braves, listen to the endorsement of Outfielder Jeff Heath, who Boston claimed on waivers from the Browns last December.

"I've been around in baseball a little bit," he began, slowly warming up to his encomiums, "I've played for Cleveland, Washington and the Browns but I never was treated so well as when I came to the Braves.

"They're first-class in my book and I hope I can repay their confidence in me. Why do you know that they gave me the best contract I ever had in my career."

Heath has been in the majors since 1936 and during some of those years, when he was up among the batting leaders, he was well paid. The Braves apparently outdid themselves in his case.

First Baseman Frank McCormick, who drew his unconditional release from the Philadelphia Phillies early last season and then was picked up by the Braves, is another member of the "Bless Boston" society.

"The Braves gave me a job when nobody else would even look at me," he said. "I'll never get over being greatful to them or Manager Billy Southworth."

McCormick more than showed his appreciation by clubbing a lusty .333 for the Braves last season. Only Harry Walker of the Phils, who led the National League in hitting, did better.

Lavern Roach To Try For Crack at Graziano

NEW YORK —(UP)— If Lavern Roach, the fighting ex-Marine, licks Marcel Cerdan, middleweight champion of Europe, at Madison Square Garden on March 12, Lavern will go gunning for Rocky Graziano's world middleweight crown.

Roach of Plainview, Tex., this week rejected an offer to meet Graziano in a non-title bout at Washington, D. C., on April 5.

Johnny Abood and Chris Dundee, co-managers of the Texas scrapper, explained to the Washington promoters that the proposed April date followed too quickly the Cerdan fight on March 12; also that Lavern would perfer to meet Rocky later for the title.

Abood said recently, "If Graziano declines to meet Roach for the championship within a reasonable time, we may go to the New York commission and claim the title in New York State, where Rocky hasn't been recognized yet as champion. Of course Roach would prefer to win the title in a fight with Rocky."

A reporter reminded Abood that his talk about Graziano indicated extreme confidence that Roach would beat Cerdan next month.

Abood admitted that Cerdan of Morocco would "give Lavern plenty of trouble for three or four," but after that the 31-year-old Frenchman would begin to fade as he did in fights with Georgie Abrams and Anton Raadik—bouts that he won by narrow margins.

"If Cerdan tires against Lavern," Abood declared, "Lavern will not only beat him but he'll probably knock him out."

Johnson Brothers High Scoring Combination

SALEM, Ore. —(UP)— Willamette University's big nearsighted center, Jim Johnson, lost his glasses just before he was to go out on the floor against Lewis and Clark College of Portland recently.

While his wife, father-in-law and fully half of the Willamette rooting section made a fruitless search, Big Jim plunked in 16 points.

Later, when he found the missing specs—right where he had left them on the washstand—he explains:

"I was just doing what comes naturally."

Jim is one of an amazing trio of score-crazy Johnsons on the Willamette squad. In the first 19 games of the season the three Johnsons counted 762 points—more than two-thirds of the team's total of 1,059.

Jim and his brother, Bob together have scored 605 points—more than half.

Coach Johnny Lewis describes the threesome—which includes Ted Johnson of Astoria, Ore.—as a beautiful dream. To a scorekeeper, however, the dream becomes a nightmare, first class.

Long-Shot Swindlers Locked in Pokey As Plot Falls Short

LAS VEGAS, Nev, —(UP)— Police said recently that a $100,000 horse race swindle failed because the hatchet used to cut telephone wires to gambling clubs was too dull.

The plot hinged on betting a long-shot winner seconds after the race was run in New Orleans and then slashing the main telephone cable to Las Vegas before the gambling clubs got the results.

But the dull hatchet cut only a few lines and the plotters got only $12,100 from one Casino, the Las Vegas Club. Five other clubs already had received the results of the seventh race at Fairgrounds track and refused the bets on Atomic City, which returned $91.

Police said that the plotters got the results of the race track from a woman who was holding an open telephone line to a Reno casino. She flashed the word to four men in adjoining telephone booths who were holding open lines to confederates stationed at the gambling houses.

Then while the woman signaled to a man on a telephone pole to cut off all further calls to Las Vegas, the confederates sauntered over to betting windows and tried to lay their money on Atomic City.

But the hatchet had failed to sever the cable, and at every club except the Las Vegas their bets were refused.

The men who collected $12,100 there were arrested on swindling charges. They were Faro Dealer Louis Hirshenberg, 38, of El Paso, Tex., and Claude Henry Taylor, 53.

Harold Mack Chastaine, 19, and Edward Walton, 21, were picked up at Cold Fort, Utah, on charges that one of them tried to cut the cable.

Wayland Burdett Gerick, 35, who police said was the brains of the plot, was held on suspicion of swindling.

It was the sixth time someone had tried to cut wires into Las Vegas.

How Big Can The Darn Thing Get? Mount Carmel Residents Wonder

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa. —(UP)— Just how big it is, or how big it can become, the people of Mount Carmel aren't sure.

But they hope that local, state or federal officials scrape up some funds—and soon—to put it out.

Life and property in this entire borough of 18,000 population is threatened by one of the worst strip-mine fires in the history of northeastern Pennsylvania.

"They got to put this fire out or I'm not long for this house," said Mrs. Josephine Narcavage, who lives in the outer row of houses bordering the flaming canyon.

"I'm not feeling right," Mrs. Narcavage said. "I went to the doctor and told him about the bad stomach and the headache. He tells me it's the sulphur."

Mrs. Anna Saweikis, who like Mrs. Narcavage breathes sulphur all night long, says "you wake up dopey. You get a hangover. In plain words, "it's just a free drunk."

Borough and county officials sent an appeal to Gov. Hames H. Duff at Harrisburg when the underground blaze, which started several years ago, suddenly got a more perilous lease on life.

Duff ordered state mines secretary Richard Maize to send an investigating committee to the scene but the governor told the people of Mount Carmel the commonwealth lacked funds to fight a strip-mine fire.

The Mount Carmel Business Men's Association met to see if it could draw some money from the federal government to fight the blaze.

One member of the committee said: "This is an emergency facing Mount Carmel, just as great as floods or hurricanes in other sections of the country and is deserving of federal funds to fight it."

The fire started when young boys, looking for rats to shoot, tossed burning cardboard boxes into the abandoned pit to scare the rats into motion.

Engineers estimate that about 40,000 tons of anthracite coal might be burning under the top layer of rock and they do not discount the possibility that the conflagration will spread through the area underlying the residential and business sections of Mount Carmel.

Northumberland County officials, who already have spent $50,000 in a futile attempt to smother the flames, estimate that it would take as much as $250,000 to head off the fire by quarantining it within a quarter-mile-long trench.

U.S. Carrying Out Pledge To Equip Chinese Air Force

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 —(UP)— The United States is carrying out a long-secret pledge to equip anti-Communist armies in China with a $300,000,000 air force.

This commitment was revealed by Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington and the State Department, apparently in an effort to silence Republican criticism of the Administration's new $570,000,000 China aid bill. The bill does not include military assistance.

The joint report was sent to the Senate Appropriations Committee in response to a request from Chairman Styles Bridges (R-N.H.). The committee made it public last night.

The military aid pact, signed during World War II, pledged this country to provide Chiang Kai-Shek's government with a first-line Air Force of 1,071 planes, including heavy bombers and fighters.

Already 936 planes have been delivered from U.S. surplus war stocks and presumably are in use against the Communist forces in north China.

An additional 135 planes are earmarked for delivery. They include 37 B-17 Flying Fortresses, 42 P-47 Thunderbolt fighters, 53 P-51 Mustang fighters and three C-46 transport planes. All of these types were used by the U.S. Air Force during the war, but now been somewhat outmoded by longer-range bombers and jet-propelled fighters.

Diplomats Predict International Tension in Europe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Diplomatic officials tonight predicted that international tensions in Europe will reach a peak next month comparable to that of the 1938-39 prewar period.

An informal survey among both foreign and American diplomats here disclosed attitudes of pessimism and uncertainty reminiscent of those which prevailed when Nazi Germany was pushing eastward.

Czech Pawn

Now the push is to the west with Russia in the dominant stage. As in 1938-39, Czechoslovakia is a pawn of power politics.

Although officials are gloomy, none predicted or even suggested that war is near.

They feel, however, that the next 30 days will find the east-diplomatic-economic struggle intensified by increased Communist on Italy, France, Finland and Scandanavia.

Although Finland is under heavy pressure now, the Communists expected to direct their main efforts toward Italy in advance of April 18 elections.

Russia already has indicated it will back completely the Communist and left-wing forces.

Dr. Prokop Drtina, Czech Minister Attempts Suicide

PRAGUE, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Dr. Prokop Drtina, minister of justice in the coalition cabinet ousted by Communist Premier Klement Gottwald, was reported officially today to have suffered a fractured skull in a suicide attempt.

This was announced as Gottwald told 120,000 delegates attending the opening of the National Peasant Union's congress that a complete purge of all reactionaries was necessary to the new life in Czechoslovakia.

The Peasant congress was summoned to meet in Prague simultaneously with a mammoth review of Prague police and the workers militia which aided Gottwald to seize power.

Weather Forecast

Partly cloudy. Widely scattered light showers tonight. Moderate easterly winds with occasional fresh gusts.

Yesterday's temperatures: Max. 84; Min. 75.

Yesterday's rainfall: 0.28 inches.

Rainfall for month: 1.58 inches.

South Carolina To Oppose Truman

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 —(UP)— South Carolina tonight joined the list of southern states getting set to oppose President Truman's reelection because of his civil rights program.

The South Carolina Democratic executive committee will meet Monday at Columbia to decide on steps to withhold the state's electoral votes from Mr. Truman.

Mississippi and Virginia Democrats already have such anti-Truman plans under way.

Alabama Democrats meanwhile are studying a secession proposal under which southerners would walk out of the Democratic national convention next summer.

New York Streamliner Derailed at Raleigh

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 29 —(UP) —Four cars of the Silver Meteor, crack Florida to New York streamliner of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, were derailed today in downtown Raleigh but no passengers were reported injured.

Railroad officials said three coaches and a diner of the 17-car train jumped the double-track as it curved through an underpass. Both tracks were ripped out but trains derouted on a nearby track of the Norfolk Southern Railway.

The four derailed cars were in the middle of the long streamliner, and cars still standing on the ends of the train were put together and continued northward.

Wallace Called 'Agent'

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 29 —(UP) —Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, has described Henry A. Wallace as "Joe Stalin's American agent."

Reuther told an Americans for Democratic action meeting last night that the third party candidate for President was "separating the forces of liberalism and leading them to Stalin's rustlers."

"When the time comes," Reuther said, "the Communists will drop Henry in the first ashcan."

Instructor Killed

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 29 —(UP)— An Air Force flying instructor was killed and a Tulsa reserve officer seriously injured tonight when two military airplanes collided at the Tulsa Municipal Airport.

The instuctor's name was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The injured Tulsan is Lt. Col. Raymond J. Lowe adjutant of the 340th Bomb Group, a Tulsan reserve unit. The extent of his injuries was not learned immediately.

Russian-Finnish Treaty May Force Sweden to Prepare Defenses

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 29 —(UP)— A military spokesman said today that a mutual defense pact between Russia and Finland might force Sweden to reconsider her defense preparations.

The spokesman emphasized, however, that any changes in Swedish defense plans would not be directed against Russia. He said it simply would have to be taken into consideration that one of the great powers had drawn closer to Sweden.

Political observers said that, if such a pact were signed, Finland would be unable to avoid placing her transport and part of her economy at Russia's disposal in case of war. It would mean, these observers said, that Russia had completed the northern link in her east wall of defense. Swedish observers were disturbed and pessimistic about Russia's request. They felt that such a pact would bring Russia closer to Sweden in case of conflict. Others said such an agreement would be purely technical. They said Russia would be promised access to Finnish airports and railroads only in case of an attack on Russia through Finland.

Elsewhere in Scandinavia, newspapers express alarm over the Russian move.

In Copenhagen, Denmark, the conservative national Tidende said "danger getting closer to Scandinavia." The newspaper said "the question soon may be the....existence of Scandinavia."

The radical Liberal Politican, a morning newspaper, said "Finland has no free choice before the demand of Moscow....it must be expected that....the country now will become a link in the strategic system in front of the....frontiers of the Soviet Union."

Chinese Reds Take Supply Port Of Yingkow

NANKING, Feb. 29 —(UP— The government's tottering Manchurian empire received another blow today with the reported fall of Yingkow, key supply port for beseiged Mukden, to the Communists.

Government dispatches admitted Communist forces rammed into Yingkow, on the east coast of Liaotung bay in south Manchuria, after dislodging Nationalist troops from outskirt strongpoints.

The loss of the port city wrecks the last hope of running a secondary supply line to near-starving Mukden.

Its capture came on the heels of the loss of Hunho Airfield, in surburban Mukden. It was one of the city's few remaining contacts with the outside world. Chinese Nationalist General Wen Li, who commanded the division that was assigned to defend the field, was executed for withdrawing his troops from the defense points of the field.

A central news dispatch said that the government troops were forced to fall back from Yingkow after "inflicting heavy losses" on the Communists in furious fighting.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 —(UP) —Walter P. Reuther, president of The United Auto Workers (CIO) today opened a CIO drive for enactment of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill at this session of Congress.

Reuther, new chairman of the CIO Housing Committee, called a meeting of his group here March 9 and appointed Leo Goodman of Washington as director of the committee's activities.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars also called for enactment of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill. It said that if the bill is not passed, "millions of Veterans will be disillusioned."

Stafford Cripps Fights Communism In Britain

BRISTOL, England, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, in a speech interpreted as an attack on Communism, charged today that certain groups of persons are trying to wreck the British economy by pressing for wage increases.

Cripps did not mention the British Communists by name, but he left no doubt as to whom he had in mind.

"It is very easy for those irresponsible people who would like to see economic chaos created in this and other countries, for what they think could get out of it in political advantage, to press forward claims for wage increases," Cripps told a public meeting.

"They indeed are taking the best line to pursue their policy of bringing about a breakdown in our economy which will mean hunger, starvation and unemployment for our people.

Says No Navy Capital Ship in Pacific

HONOLULU, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Departure of the carrier Valley Forge for Saudi Arabia leaves the Navy without a single capital ship operating between the Pacific coast and China, the Honolulu Advertiser said today.

(AP Photo)

CLEVELAND, Feb. 29 —(UP) —Senator Robert A. Taft (R-O.) opened an attack on the Democrats tonight charging that their party, far from being liberal, "is instead, the party of progressive decay, broken into three or four different factions."

President Truman, he said, "is riding a Democratic donkey that has neither head nor tail. His party is completely ineffective."

Unparalled

Complaining that a drastic shifting of United States Naval units in the Pacific had depleted the ocean of its front-line strength, the newspaper called the situation "unparalleled in the present day history of the Pacific fleet.

The Advertiser reported that the fleet's four other large carriers —Antietam, Tarawa, Essex and Boxer—are all in California ports, while the battleship Iowa is undergoing overhaul at Bremerton, Wash., Navy Yard and will not be available until April.

Army Research May Control Flu

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 —(UP)— The Army said tonight that virus research now in progress may supply weapons for controlling virulent flu epidemics like that which ravaged the world in 1918.

It added that discoveries concerning virus and rickettsial diseases are being made at so rapid a pace that many of them have not yet found their way into standard medical school courses.

Supply Information

"It is hoped," the Army said, "that findings from reasearch now in progress on the mild flu viruses will supply the information necessary to control another epidemic of the virulent flu virus of 1918 should it recur."

Recent progress in virus research was reported to Army doctors attending a basic science course being given by the Army Medical School.

Royal Marines to Protect Honduras

BELIZE, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Royal Marines in battle dress took up stations on the western border of British Honduras today to protect this rich possession from the reported threat of a Guatemalan invasion.

The marines landed yesterday afternoon from the flagship cruiser Sheffield and paraded through Belize in their battle gard—before boarding trucks for stations at Stanley Field airport and outposts on the western frontier.

Hundreds of Belize citizens lined the parade route to watch the marines pass. In general it was felt among the onlookers that the show of strength was unnecessary because there were no signs of the reported invasion.

However, British authorities said the training cruiser Devonshire probably would arrive today with a contingent of the crack Gloucester Regiment from Jamacia to form a permanent garrison in Honduras. The regiment has been stationed in Jamacia in the West Indies.

Headline Highlights

LONDON, Feb. 29 —(UP)— The Guatemalan government charged today that Britain is apparently attempting to "manufacture an incident" by sending two cruisers to the disputed crown colony of British Honduras to standby for possible raids by "irresponsible" Guatemalan guerrilas.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 29 —(UP)— A bomb exploded in a Haifa garage today, killing five Arabs and injuring 25.

The explosion, reportedly set by Jewish Haganah agents, touched off sporadic shooting in which 12 Arabs and Jews were injured.

LONDON, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Premier Josef Stalin asked Finnish President Jkho K. Paaskivi of Finland in a personal letter to sign a mutual assistance treaty in order to prevent future German aggression, it was revealed tonight when the Moscow radio broadcast the text of Stalin's letter.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29—(UP)—An American Broadcasting correspondent radioed from Seoul, Korea, today that American troops are digging in along the frontier separating the American and Russian occupation zone; ABC reported.

PARIS, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Fourteen western European nations were invited by Britain and France today to participate in a new Marshall plan conference next month, it was reported authoritatively.

Lewis May Clear Way For Strikes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Soft coal operators said today they will know by Monday whether John L. Lewis will terminate his contract March 30 to clear the way for a nationwide strike on the issue of pensions for miners.

The said there are rumors in the coal fields that Lewis may take such action this weekend.

If the present contract should expire without agreement on a new one, the miners presumably would follow previous practice and refuse to work without a contract.

Denver Poll Shows A-Bomb Reactions

DENVER, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Eighteen per cent of Denver residents, according to a Denver Post survey, favor dropping an atomic bomb on Russia today.

The poll showed 54 per cent of the people willing to use the atomic bomb only if the United States were attacked.

And 28 per cent of those polled said they would never use the powerful A-bomb.

The "warmongers" were found in all society groups—veterans, nonveterans, rich, poor, educated and uneducated—but most of the women questioned said they didn't believe in using the bomb ever.

Philanthropist Rewards Safe Drivers

GLENDALE, Cal. —(UP)— A woman "starting out small" as a philanthropist disclosed recently she was giving courtesy awards to drivers from her "Do Good" fund.

Helen Hittson's latest award, $10, went to Mrs. Yvonne Pessano, Burbank, for expert and courteous driving. Mrs. Pessano, sure there must be a catch, called police.

The architect's business manager said she sent the money from a "Do Good" fund she had been building for years with 10 per cent of her earnings.

Miss Hittson said she sent the check because she was interested enough in traffic conditions to want to do something about them.

"I drive 30 miles to and from work from my home in Van Nuys, and the traffic as we all know, is awful," she said. "I got to thinking that while arrests are negative approaches to bad drivers, a positive approach might help too.

"So I decided to start giving little prizes from my 'Do Good' fund to people I see who drive courtesously."

Miss Hittson happened to drive behind Mrs. Pessano's car, took the license number and sent the check.

"Your expert and courteous driving was observed by one who believes that the Los Angeles area would be a better place to live if automobile courtesy were stressed as much as the weather," a letter with the check said.

"Just because it seems that good and courteous drivers should be rewarded once in a while, I am enclosing a token of thanks."

Miss Hittson, although not pleased by the publicity, said she was still looking for other drivers to get her courtesy awards.

Two U.S. Ships Join Mothball Fleet

(SEA) — Sisterships and companions in war were retired from active service together when the battleships USS New Jersey and USS Wisconsin joined the Navy's "Mothball Fleet."

The pair of 45,000-ton battle-wagons joined the Atlantic reserve fleet for inactivation, leaving only the battleships USS Iowa and USS Missouri still on active duty.

As part of the famed Task Force 38, New Jersey participated in raids against the enemy in the Marshalls, Truk, Carolines, New Guinea, Marianas, Philippines, Okinawa, and Tokyo sectors.

Wisconsin was part of the third Fleet, giving support to carrier units in strikes against Luzon. She joined the New Jersey to participate in battles in the final but important stages of the Pacific war.

New Jersey was constructed at Philadelphia Naval Shipyard and launched in December, 1942. Also a product of the Philadelphia yard, Wisconsin was launched exactly two years after the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

In the Zipper Fleets, Wisconsin will be berthed at Norfolk, Va., while New Jersey is berthed at Bayonne, N. J.

'Dog Tag' Proves Useful

Citizenship 'Fine Thing' For Guam, Adm. McCrea

COMMAR HILL —In an interview with the press at Honolulu and forewarded by the CinCPac public information office, Vice Admiral John L. McCrea, USN, deputy commander in chief of the Pacific fleet under Admiral DeWitt C. "Duke" Ramsey, USN, stated that he thought that "citizenship is a fine thing for Guamanians to aspire to."

The Admiral continued with, "The United States has been generous with the Guamanians. We have given them good honest government with a minimum of cost to themselves."

The interview was swung to the Navy in general. He said that in his previous capacity as deputy chief of Naval Operations for administration, he felt that his biggest problem had been shortages of personnel, officers, enlisted men and civilians.

He commented on the Navy enlisted man as a fine type of young man. He said that in his thirty-seven years in the Navy he had come to appreciate the superb job that they do and only wished that he could "play his role as well as they do theirs."

He stated that the battleships are important in the fleet today because with their many anti-aircraft guns, they provide a good defense for the carriers. Also, he added that the heavy strong hulls of our larger ships lend themselves for alteration to permit the firing of guided missiles.

NORTH FIELD — Cpl. Lyle Lienneman, manager of the North Field Club announced recently that his club will inaugurate an ice cream and milk service within the next few days.

The club nicknamed the "Big Store" by the elder members, caters to the coke, malted milk, and assorted soft drink trade. All proceeds are donated to the various organizations for whom the club provides facilities.

When limited laundry service made it difficult for the men of the various squadrons, money from the club fund was used to provide two washing machines for their use. Other purchases which will aid in relieving those little every-day headaches for the men of North Field are also anticipated.

Has Early Start Retires at 36

NORTH FIELD — Cpl. Woodrow Drake of Birmingham, Ala., will be one of the very few who retire from the service at the age of 36. Drake joined the Army Air Force at the age of 16, and has already completed eight years of service.

During the past war, Drake managed to convince a gullible recruiting officer that he was eighteen and was accepted for service. In almost three years of overseas duty during World War II, Drake flew over eight hundred hours in combat and was awarded many decorations.

He is currently assigned to the 93rd Bomb Squadron as a central fire control gunner.

Assault, five-year-old thoroughbred has gone to the post for the last time. The 1946 triple crown winner hurt a leg in the $50,000 Widener Handicap at Hialeah last week and Trainer Max Hirsch said he was retiring the King Ranch's horse to Robert J. Kleberg's farm near Lexington, Kentucky.

The Texas thoroughbred had gone to Florida this month for a rematch with Calumet Farm's Armed in the Widener Handicap. Armed had beaten him in a special $100,000 race at Belmont Park last September by eight lengths, and the rematch in the Widener was supposed to have been one of the biggest races of the season.

Assault turned in some sensational workouts at Hialeah previous to the classic and his handlers believed he was ready for a comeback. The race was expected to be a two horse affair between Armed, and the King Ranch horse with the other seven thoroughbreds having little or no chance of coming out on top.

When the race was over, El Mono a 12 to 1 shot had breezed home to an upset win in the record time of 2:01, bettering the track record for the classic by three fifths of a second. Stud Poker, another long shot was second, while Bug Juice was third. Armed an 8 to 5 shot finished a poor fourth, and Assault an even money favorite was a dismal fifth. Neither horse was ever seriously in the running, although Assault who started badly moved up to second place only to fade in the stretch. The race proved a disappointment to the record crowd of 34,394, largest in Hialeah's history. A new mutual record for a single race was established when $287,964 was bet on the Widener.

And so Assault, one of the racing games best thoroughbreds, bows out of the picture into retirement. He was third in the all time leading money winners, surpassed only by Stymie and Armed.

BASKETBALL NOTES: A highly touted Notre Dame quintet today stands as the big obstacle between the New York University Violets and an unbeaten season. The Irish and NYU will square off at Madison Square garden tonight in one of the four games still remaining for NYU. If the Violets come out on top they are almost a sure fire bet to go the rest of the way undefeated against Rutgers, Fordham and City College of New York. The Irish, conqueror of mighty Kentucky will take an 11 and 4 record to the Garden with them and will be out to stop NYU's bid as the only undefeated major quintet in the nation. My bet is that NYU will come out of this contest still unscathed, but only time will tell if the Violets will end up with the miracle of an unbeaten season.

ComMar Softballers Bow as McClard Hurls No-Hitter

The First Marine Brigade climbed ComMar Hill yesterday to gain their fifth straight victory in the Inter-Command Softball League with a 9-1 triumph over the Hill-toppers. Ed McClard turned in one of the best pitching performances of the season as he held the Hill-toppers hitless and became the fifth pitcher to join the famous no-hit pitchers' roster of the current season.

"Red" Morris started for ComMar but didn't have the stuff and relinquished his pitching job to "Iron Arm" Mike Simerly in the first inning. Simerly, who pitched a brilliant game in the hillarious contest with NAS Agana Saturday, tried in vain to hold the Marines in check. The Brigade will be tied with ComMar for fourth place if the protest of Saturday's game is denied but it is believed the protest will go through with no trouble.

The Triple "A" Marines won a pitcher's duel over the 103rd CB's yesterday, 1-0. Cherene started for the Marines and pitched for five innings to gain the credit for the victory. Tucker relieved Cherene in the fifth and faced only nine batters to hold the SeaBees in check. McClure was the losing pitcher as he allowed Don Donahue to slam out a triple and then saw Donahue score as he served up a slow ball to Cherene which was driven deep in the infield to allow Donahue to score.

Newhouser Gets Salary Sliced

DETROIT, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Hal Newhouser of Detroit, regarded one of the classiest southpaw pitchers in baseball, signed his 1948 contract today thereby leaving Pitcher Freddie Hutchinson and Shortstop Eddie Lake as the only unsigned Tiger players.

Disappointing Season

Newhouser reportedly received a substantial salary slice because of a disappointing season last year when he won 17 games and lost as many. In 1946, he was acknowledged the top hurler in the American League when he won 26 and lost only nine.

Hutchinson, enroute to Detroit from his Seattle, Washington, home, notified Tiger officials that he would arrive here either tonight or tomorrow to sign his contract.

The club opens spring training at Lakeland, Florida, on Monday.

Lightweight Boxer Dies in First Pro Bout; Causes Investigated

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 29 —(UP)— Police and boxing authorities today investigated the death of Leroy De Catur, 20-year-old boxer who dropped dead last night during his first professional fight.

De Catur collapsed in the last round of his four round fight with Frederico Herrera, 20, of Yuma, Ariz. He went down so suddenly that some of the fans in Legion Stadium booed him.

De Catur had never been knocked out in his 40 amateur bouts.

The young Negro lightweight, a track and football star at Jefferson High School, had a slight edge as his fight went into the fourth round. None of the blows exchanged had appeared exceptionally hard.

Then Herrera connected with a left hook to the body and followed with a right to the jaw.

De Catur stood upright for about two seconds. He appeared stunned and then he crumpled to the canvas. His head hit the ring floor hard. Ringsiders said he never moved after that.

Dr. William F. Carver applied artificial respiration unsuccessfully for 15 minutes.

Referee Tommy Hart counted him out at 2:50 of the round. When De Catur still lay motionless, he called Dr. William F. Carver and boxing Commission Inspector Willie Ritchie into the ring.

De Catur was carried from the ring on a stretcher and Carver applied artificial respiration for 15 minutes in an attempt to revive him. The fighter's death was not announced to the near-capacity crowd.

Carver said he believed De Catur died instantly in the ring. He said he could not give the cause of death until he had examined the body more thoroughly.

Herrera said De Catur was winning when he died.

"I honestly thought I was losing the fight," Herrera said. "De Catur never showed any signs of being hurt from any of my punches. When I hit him the last time I stepped back because I thought he was going to come out fighting.

"I didn't know what to think when he hit the floor."

Ike Williams Takes Unpopular Decision Over Kid Gavilan

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Ike Williams, lightweight champion, hammered out a close but unanimous 10-round decision over Kid Gavilan, Cuban welterweight, tonight before a crowd of 14,907 in Madison Square Garden. Williams' title was not at stake.

Williams' victory squelched Gavilan's hopes of soon getting a shot at Ray (Sugar) Robinson's welterweight crown.

It was an unpopular decision with the fans. They booed the verdict lustily.

Gavilan turned in an excellent fight, despite the handicap of a bruised left eye that was tightly closed when the sixth round opened. His flashy style captivated the spectators, who seemingly believed that Gavilan's looping bolo uppercuts and wild hooks were landing solidly on the Negro champion, instead of being blocked at least half the time.

Brown-skinned Ike from Trenton, N. J., floored his larger and rangier opponent for the count of six with a right hook to the jaw just before the bell ended the eighth round. Gavilan, badly hurt, took the partial count on one knee; but he was on his feet when the bell rang. The minute of rest between rounds enabled him to shake off the effects of the punch.

That was the only knockdown in an entertaining fight, although Williams caught his heel on the canvas in the ninth round and tripped backwards to the floor.

Gavilan took command in the early rounds but he faded in the last half of the bout under the square-shouldered champion's hooking attack to the body. The welterweight from Camaguay, Cuba, won the first round, although Ike's left jabs brought blood to his nose. They fought on even terms in the second. Then there was a see-saw with Gavilan taking the third, Ike the fourth, Gavilan the fifth, and Ike the sixth. Ike clinched the seventh and eighth, fought on even terms in the ninth, and had an edge in the furious 10th.

Greenberg to be With Tribe in Some Capacity

CLEVELAND, Feb. 29 —(UP)— President Bill Veeck of Cleveland said today that Hank Greenberg, former American League home run king, would be with the Indians "in some capacity" during the 1948 season, according to the Cleveland Press.

Veeck, said that before Greenberg decides, "he wants to work out for a few days and learn whether he can get into condition to be used as a part-time player and pinch-hitter."

The Cleveland president made the announcement after a two hour confab with Greenberg in Phoenix yesterday. Veeck also said that the former Detroit Tiger and Pittsburgh Pirate star also would be permitted to purchase Cleveland stock if any were available.

Hueble Herbert

Herbert, Thomas To Appear in Smoker Tonight

Hueble Herbert, 200-pound 103rd SeaBee heavyweight, and Hiner Thomas, Gloden Gloves middleweight champion, will be the feature attractions as the ComMar enlisted men's committee puts on a six bout smoker tonight at ComMar at 1900.

When the Herbert-Burke match fell through, Hiner Thomas presented one of his pupils at Camp Allen Ruppert Whitley as an opponent for Hueble. Thomas himself will meet lanky Mike Jankowsi in a middleweight battle.

With All Navy eliminations only a few weeks away, boxing fans will have their eyes on the lightweight bout between Jack Devore and Jack Watson. The Navy hasn't had a good lightweight on the Island since Cookie Cook left, and one of these boys could well become a threat for the 135 pound title.

ComMar fans will have a special treat in the ring debut of Dick "Gorilla" Gardner, a weight lifter of no mean ability, will meet Wilkerson Taylor from Harmon Field in a light heavyweight tussle.

The complete card:

Hogan Still Leads Despite Weak Putting

ST. PETERSBURG, Florida, Feb. 28 —(UP)— Ben Hogan fell victim to his putting weakness today but still retained a two-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

The Hershey, Pa., pro worked hard to bring in a par 72 which left him a 36-hole total of 135 strokes after yesterday's record-breaking round in 63.

Hogan ran into trouble on the ninth green, taking three putts to sink his ball from 25 feet out and going one-over-par 37 for the nine.

Lawson Little of Cleveland was close up in second place with a 137 after his second 69 today.

Two strokes behind him were three others with third place 139's Jim Millward, Green Bay, Wis., with a 71 today; Pete Cooper, Florida 68, and Norman von Nida, Sydney, Australia, 70.

Jimmy Demaret of Ojai Calif., last year's top money earner, and Dick Metz, Arkansas City, Kan., turned in the best cards of the day—a 67 each. This left them knotted in fourth place with a 140 along with Ed Furgol Pontiac, Mich., who shot his second round in 70; Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., 72, and Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., 71.

Truman Asks Congress to Extend Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act

WASHINGTON, March 2 —(UP)— President Truman today asked Congress to extend the reciprocal trade agreements act for three years.

Hostile House Republicans prepared immediately for what may be the battle of the session.

The act gives the administration authority to sign agreements for the mutual reduction of tarriffs among nations. It is scheduled to expire June 30 and Mr. Truman asked that it be continued until June 12, 1951.

Prosperous And Peaceful World

He said in a 1,400-word message that the progressive lowering of trade barriers is essential to foreign policy and will help build a "prosperous and peaceful world."

"The importance of the act is greater today than it has ever been," he added.

His recommendation will be considered first by the House ways and means committee, who's chairman, Rep. Harold Knutson, (R-Minn.) is on record as opposed to many of the tariff concessions already granted.

Surprised

Senate GOP Policy Leader Robert A. Taft., (R-O) said he was surprised by Mr. Truman's request. He said there had been indications the administration would not ask for an extension this year because it would not be needed.

Many Republicans are arguing that tariff rates will be of little importance during the next few years because the United States will be committed to large foreign shipments under the European Recovery Program, herefore, they believe this might be a good time for Congress to regain control over tariff policy.

Sheppard Says Major Emergency May Catch Navy Off Guard

WASHINGTON, March 2 —(UP) Rep. Harry R. Sheppard, (D-Cal.), said today that a major emergency would catch the Navy with its guard down, all because of "false economy."

He told reporters he will lead a campaign to get the Navy more money in the 1949 fiscal year which starts July 1. The Navy, he said, must have more money to meet its defense responsibilities.

He said it would take at least 90 days to put enough warships back into commission to enable the Navy to throw a first-class fleet into action against a major enemy.

"That," Sheppard said, "is too much time in an emergency."

Until world affairs are more settled, he said, the United States should maintain the world's largest Navy and Air Force and back them up with trained men.

Vandenberg Says Communism Threatens

WASHINGTON, March 2 —(UP) Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg opened debate on the Marshall Plan today with a call for quick action to turn back the "aggressive Communists" that he said now threaten both the new world and the old.

Driving for a Senate vote by March 15 on the $5,300,000,000 program of aid to Western Europe's 16 non-Communists states, the Michigan Republican warned that America must pit its vast resources against Communism while there is yet time to head off World War III.

Aid Program To Bolster Greek Army

WASHINGTON, March 2 —(UP) High Army officers said today that most of the new, proposed $275,000,000 aid program for Turkey and Greece would be used to bolster the Greek army.

Aid for Turkey is not urgent at the moment, the officers said and can wait. But the Greek Army still needs more machine guns, mountain artillery, trucks, and other war materiel.

There were some estimates that Greece would receive about $200,000,000 of the aid. It would be used for military purposes. In the future Greece will receive economic aid under the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan).

Greek government forces are preparing to launch a spring and summer offensive to crush the Greek guerrillas. The government forces are being advised by Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet and his American staff.

The Greek government plans to increase its army and militia to about 200,000 officers and men, army officials said, and this will mean increased aid.

Public Health Department Bulletin

The mild outbreak of encephalitis which appeared on Guam early in December, reached its peak in mid January, and than sharply declined, has apparently subsided, according to the local Department of Public Health. Disease appeared chiefly in native population. There were a total of fifty cases, with five deaths. No new cases have appeared during the past two weeks, and there have been no deaths from this disease since January 30. Except for the five fatal cases, all have made a complete recovery.

Appearance of the disease on Guam caused quite a flurry of excitement and wild rumors among the 80,000 population to this exceptionally healthful island. Incidently, the study and control of this outbreak on Guam has been a fine example of excellent cooperative effort between Army, Navy, Air Force and civilian groups here.

Laboratory and field studies by the various groups of scientists here from San Francisco, Honolulu, and Tokyo indicate that the outbreak here has been a mixed one. Encephalitis, which is an inflamation of the brain, is caused by various types of virus, and it is now believed that the majority of the cases here have been a complication of mumps, which is also a virus disease and which has been present here in moderate epidemic proportions among the native population since mid-November. Encephalitis, in mild form, has been an occasional non-fatal complication of mumps epidemics elsewhere. A relatively few of the cases here, including the fatal ones, are now known to have been caused by the Japanese "B" virus. Encephalitis due to this virus is a more serious, and frequently fatal, disease. It has occured sporadically in Japan, China, Korea, and Okinawa.

General Election to Be Held in Korea

SEOUL, March 2 —(UP)— Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, American commander in Korea, announced today that a general election will be held in the American-occupied zone May 9 at which the Korean people will choose representatives to establish a government.

Mention of the specific date was regarded here as confirmation of a report that members of the United Nations commission on Korea have abandoned a suggestion to hold staggered elections.

The UN commission had advocated holding elections first in the south and then working up to the north into the Russian-occupied zone; it was believed that they now thought this was too unwieldy a system.

British Search For Jewish Saboteurs

JERUSALEM, March 2 —(UP)— The British troops pressed an intense search today for Jewish saboteurs who blew up the Cairo-Haifa express, killing 28 British soldiers and wounding 33 others.

British sources blamed the blast on the Extremist Stern Gang and concentrated large forces on the outskirts of Tel Aviv, 12 miles northwest of the blast site at Removot.

There were rumors the British intended to invoke punitive measures against the all-Jewish city.

Two Attempts Made on British Commander's Life

JERUSALEM, March 1 —(UP)— Two abortive attempts have been made on the life of Lt. General G. H. A. MacMillan, commander of British forces in Palestine, in the last 24 hours, authorities reported today.

The first attempt was reported by British government spokesman Charles Thetford, who said MacMillan's automobile was blown up by an electrically detonated mine while it was being driven from Jaffa to Jerusalem. MacMillan was not in the automobile.

Police later reported that a second attempt was made while he was returning from the scene of train bombing in eastern Palestine yesterday, in which 28 British soldiers were killed.

MacMillan's convoy allegedly was attacked at an undisclosed point. Guns were fired but the bullets hit another car. The big green automobile in which he was riding sped out of range when the bullets started flying, according to the reports.

Reds on Ellis Island Go on Hunger Strike

NEW YORK, March 2 —(UP)— Four alleged Communists being held on Ellis Island went on a hunger strike today to protest their imprisonment.

The four men were Gerhart Eisler, alleged no. 1 Communist agent, John Williamson, labor secretary of the Communist party; Ferdinand C. Doyle, secretary of the National Maritime Union (CIO) and Charles Doyle, vice president of the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers (CIO).

The men, who are being held without bail pending deportation hearings, began their hunger strike this morning.

AGANA—Alfred M. Diaz, resident of Mong Mong Village, was killed in a hit and run accident early Sunday morning near Camp Asan civil service housing.

Upon leaving the taxi, the two civilians took down the license number of the cab and reported the incident to the Police Department.

The driver is being held by Guam Police for further questioning.

Southern California Feels Sharp Quake

LOS ANGELES, March 2 —(UP) A sharp earthquake shook parts of southern California early today, but there were no immediate reports of damage.

The shock lasted approximately 15 seconds at 12:13 a.m. (PST). It was felt in many parts of the Los Angeles area and in Riverside, Santa Ana and San Bernardino, as far as 60 miles inland.

Altadena and Bell

Riverside police reported one district shake and two trembles there. Sharp jolts were felt in the Los Angeles surburbs of San Dimas, Bell and Altadena, police said they were very light in Santa Ana and Los Angeles harbor.

The seismograph at the California Institute of Technology is unmanned at night and school authorities said they would not investigate unless there were reports of a disturbance of "considerable" proportion.

Chandeliers swayed and dishes rattled in many homes, police said, with the disturbance apparently stronger in Altadena in the mountain foothills.

'Americanizing' Pacific Island Held Difficult

Expert Warns Navy To Employ Caution

HONOLULU—(UP)—Leonard D. Mason, an expert on Micronesia, has warned the U. S. Navy to go slow in trying to bring the natives of the former Japanese mandated islands around to the American way of life.

Mason is associate professor of anthropology at the University of Hawaii. He is the scientist chosen by the Navy to tell it what to do about the 165 natives transferred from Bikini, site of the 1946 atomic bomb tests, to barren Rongerik atoll.

In a paper written for the Institute of Pacific Relations, Mason asked: How can such standards as the American way of life demands be achieved in an area as poor as Micronesia?

He said a congressional subcommittee revealed two common blind spots in recommending recently that "the natives of these islands should be indoctrinated to the American way of life as soon as possible without infringing upon their customs and institutions."

The first of the blind spots, he said, was insufficient understanding of the complexities of cultures and geography of the islands making up the trust territory of the Pacific.

The second, he said, is "imperfect understanding of the processes by which customs are altered under the impact of western civilization."

He pointed out that the trust territory is composed of the Marshalls, the Carolines and Marianas, other than Guam. There are 2,174 islands scattered over 2,000,000 square miles of Pacific Ocean.

Some, like Saipan, Ponape and Jaluit, have been in close contact for years with Japanese or Americans and have grown away from traditional customs.

Hundreds of others, such as Kapingamarangi, between the Carolines and the Solomons, have been left relatively untouched.

Some are lush in resources; others are little more than coral outcroppings. Some have been feudalistic for centuries; others have tried a communal economy.

No one yardstick can apply, Mason emphasized, and the individual needs in each group must be considered.

"In certain groups," he said, "A tendency in the direction of isolation may prove the happiest course of action: in other groups, the pendulum of change has already swung too far in the other direction.

Problem Stated

"Considering the inevitability of culture changes, our problem in the trust territory would seem to be:

"1. To know the freely expressed wishes of Micronesians as to the speed and direction of that change.

"2. To aid the native populations in their adjustment to western civilization as it impinges on their island world.

"3. To ease the shock which has been characteristic of most culture-contact situations in the sad history of dependent people everywhere."

In solving the problem, Mason said some seeming inconsistencies probably would result—but necessarily so if the administration is to succeed.

"By the terms of the United Nations charter, we are committed to respect the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned," he said. "We may often find ourselves in the position of a democratic people giving support to a Micronesian feudalistic system in which inequalities abound.

"Yet if that is the desire of the people concerned, we have no choice but to respect the situation.

Mason knows Micronesia intimately and is soon to spend two weeks living with the displaced Bikinians on Rongerik. The Navy has asked him to determine if they can ever make a go of it there, or whether they should be moved to a more fruitful home.

Outraged Nut Lovers Avenge Poor Flavor

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Seven young men entered Isadore Lashinsky's grocery store and bought 10 cents worth of pistachio nuts.

A half hours later they returned knocked Lashinsky down, hit him on the head with a loaf of bread, tipped over stacks of goods on the counter and tossed cakes around the store.

They explained on their way out that they did not like the flavor of the nuts.

Thwarted Love Causes Suicide Attempt

CHICAGO —(UP)— A husband prayed at his wife's bedside that she would recover from a suicide attempt she made because of a love affair that began in Germany 50 years ago.

Mrs. Kristina Pechnick, 68, shot and seriously wounded herself in yesterday. She left a note which her home in suburban Palatine said: "Goodbye, my love. I can't carry on any longer. I haven't seen you since September. Pray for me and God Bless you."

Her husband, John, 68, found her and took her to the hospital. He found the note, too, and he knew the man for whom it was intended.

He said he had known of his wife's love for the other man for many years.

"But whenever she mentioned it," he said, "I told her there was nothing much I could say."

A Young Girl

Mrs. Pechnick said she fell in love with the other man when she was a young girl in Germany. But they were poor, and could not marry.

Pechnick gave her money to come to the United States, she said, and she married him.

A few years later the man she loved came from Germany. He went to work as a streetcar employe, for the same company that employed her husband.

At first, she said, she did not tell him of her marriage. He gave her a diamond ring. When she told him she was married, he would not take it back. She kept it hidden ever since, she said.

Through the years, she has seen the man she loves at social affairs, she said.

"But finally I decided it was hopeless," she said, and she tried to kill herself.

Doctors said she probably will recover.

Signal Corps Celebrates 85th Year

A short resume of the history of the Signal Corps is in order at this time. Signal troops have fought in four wars over a period of four generations. In the early days of the Signal Corps, commands were given by the blare of the bugle and the roll of the drum. Shortly before the Civil War "wig wag," semaphore came into use. Strange as it may seem, this system was devised by an Army surgeon, who had been tinkering around for some time trying to work out some sort of a system that could be heard above the noise of the bugle and the drum. This was the beginning of transmitting messages by flags. On June 27, 1860, this Doctor Albert J. Meyer was named the chief of the Signal Corps of the United States Army. His rank was brigadier general. On March 3, 1863, the Signal Corps was established as a separate branch of the Army, with a strength of the corps about 100.

In addition to its contribution to the scientific world in the promotion of signal equipment which brings the outside world to our finger tips, the Signal Corps has made other scientific contributions. In 1870 the present weather bureau was established by the Signal Corps.

Always trying to improve its communications set up, the Signal Corps established a balloon section. It is not surprising then to find that the first aeronautical division of the Army was established in the office of the Signal Corps. This was in 1907. At this time the Army had one plane capable of 40 miles per hour. Our present day Air Forces had such a beginning.

Engineering experts are at work in the laboratories of the Signal Corps, striving to improve equipment now in use and trying to perfect new devices to speed along messages and to meet the challenge of the future in the communications world. Officers of the Signal Corps are at work in several universities and industrial laboratories working on new equipment.

Research is being done in the study of the vacuum and its many uses. All fields of electricity and its relation to the transmitting of messages is receiving attention by the engineers of the Signal Corps in their laboratories. The field of radar is being given special study. It was stated recently that scientists of the Signal Corps through the use of radar were able to transmitt messages to the moon. This was in 1946.

Equipment carried by the Signal Corps soldier is being given careful study in their laboratories. The are trying to lighten the load carried by the Signal soldier in the field. During the Spanish War, their main job was to maintain the communications between Puerto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines. This was accomplished by cable.

It was in World War I when tremendous impetus was given to the field of communications. More than 100,000 miles of wire were strung in addition to maintaining communications with the battle fronts. 200 miles of pole line were built, 40,000 miles of combat lines and 282 telephone exchanges and 133 complete telegraph stations were set in operation, in addition to stations in the combat zone, radio, as a means of communications in war, was used for the first time, but only to limited extent.

The development of radio and other sciences after World War I and to the beginning of World War II, clearly pointed out the kind of expansion which was to come to the Signal Corps.

It was the responsibility of the Signal Corps to establish a global network. This program was to cost more than $6,000,000,000. It was also the responsibility to establish a training program for officers and men to carry out this program.

It is always interesting to point out records, whether they are made on the track, sea or air. An example of this speed may be seen in the sending of a 9-word message around the world. By radio, land wire and through four relay stations the message made the complete circuit in 3½ minutes.

The expansion of signal activities is illustrated in the report that just before the start of World War II, a domestic radio net work was in operation. This extended to San Juan, Panama, Seattle and Manila. Only about 5000 words daily were sent out. During the war the traffic increased to 100,000,000 words per day. The average today is about 16,000,000 words.

It is hardly necessary to point out here the value of the Signal Corps and the part it has played in our victories.

The training center at Ft. Monmouth, New Jersey trains hundreds of specialists for the Signal Corps to replace those men who have completed their military service.

The post war mission of the Signal Corps is:

To develop, procure, supply and maintain signal equipment for the Army.

To train communications and photographic specialists and to furnish signal troops and units to all elements of the Army requiring them.

To design, install, operate and maintain the Army command and administrative network.

To serve as official photographer of the Army.

Mexican Airman Tells Of Air, Sea Tragedy

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. —(UP)— A Coast Guard patrol plane flew medical supplies to a Mexican airman who was rescued by a banana ship after he drifted nine days in a life raft and watched sharks eat his comrade.

Esteban De Leon was rescued by the Panamanian banana boat Roatan, two days after officials called off a search for him and Neil Womack, Brownsville.

Womack was the pilot of a C-47 airplane owned by the Gulf Transportation Company. He and De Leon left here February 10 to pick up a cargo of shrimps at Carmen, Mexico.

They crashed 40 miles short of Carmen. The plane sank quickly under the weight of 5,000 pounds of ice they were carrying to preserve the shrimps.

Week Search

Air and sea rescue parties searched their route for a week. Hope of finding them was abandoned and the search called off.

The Roatan spotted De Leon's liferaft about 47 miles off Frontera, Mexico, and took him aboard. Capt. Emalus Gough radioed the Coast Guard which dispatched the medical supplies for De Leon who was suffering from exposure, exhaustion and starvation.

De Leon spoke by radio to his brother, Tomas, at Matamoros, Mex., that night. He said that Womack was injured when they set their plane down in the Gulf of Mexico.

"I dragged him onto the raft and tried to care for him," De Leon said.

"A few days later—I don't remember just when—he went out of his head. He fell off the raft.

"The last thing I saw of him was when the sharks gathered about him. He was flailing his arms and legs. Then he disappeared as the sharks closed in on him."

Intelligence Agent Proves Insecurity Of Oak Ridge

NEW YORK —(UP)— Norbert Gagen an ex-soldier, said in Variety magazine that he broke into Oak Ridge in 1943 every day for a week and stole atom bomb papers each time.

Using a gold badge he bought in a pawn shop to slip past the guards, he stole documents, took pictures, prepared maps, compiled notes, asked questions and wrote a report on Oak Ridge a half-inch thick, he said.

Gagen was an Army Counter Intelligence Corps agent. His job was to break into Oak Ridge to test security precautions. He did it so often the guards began to salute him, he said.

Gagen said in his magazine article that in the summer of 1945 he and another CIC agent delivered the atom bombs that were dropped on Japan to the West Coast.

"There were just two of us riding the box car carrying the bomb—just an ordinary looking box car," he said.

"A horde of armed soldiers would have caused attention—and attention might have attracted saboteurs."

Chinese Object to Short Pants, Bare Legs

NANKING —(UP)— The question of women who wear short pants and expose their bare legs was a matter of concern to lawmakers in the remote west China province of Sikang.

A dispatch to a Nanking newspaper from Lunchgang said Assemblyman Tseng Chao-Lu introduced a resolution in the district peoples assembly which could eliminate the "unpleasant" sight of women exposing their "legs to the public eye."

The resolution said:

"Recently girls and women have been competing with each other in wearing short pants and exposing both legs to the public eye. This makes the peoples eyes feel unpleasant and their hearts feel fear."

"Some girls' pants are only five inches long. The girls look like savages—we, in our life, have seen American and European girls wear pants but their pants always reach to the knees and they wear stockings up to the knees, thus covering up their legs. We don't understand where these kind of Chinese pants come from."

Scientist Probes American Woman's Sex Life

LONDON —(UP)— The sex life of the American female is raising cain with international relations, British Anthropologist E. J. Dingwall announced recently.

He placed most of the blame on sweater girls and indoor plumbing.

An acute American interest in a well-filled cardigan and shiny bathroom fixtures has helped build up a matriarchy in the United States that threatenes to upset the balance of power in the world, as well as the home, he said.

The situation will be remedied when the men get a chance to have the last word, both at home and abroad, Dingwall added.

"I don't see that the United States can ever really have universally happy foreign relations as long as it—a country dominated by women—has to deal with countries dominated by men, like South America for instance," he said.

Dingwall is going to have a lot to say on the subject in a book he is writing on "the American woman and her place in society."

Atomic Power Foreseen In Ship Operation

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Atomic power may run ships in less than 10 years, Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, president of the California Institute of Technology declared.

The scientist told a California State Chamber of Commerce luncheon, however, that large-scale industrial power from atomic fission probably is still 30 to 50 years away.

"Propulsion plants for ships would be of very great importance, and a few of these could possibly be developed and be in use during the next few years," he said in a discussion of atomic energy.

Dr. Dubridge said the power needs of the world probably will grow so rapidly that even when industrial atomic power is available, it will offer little competition to coal, oil, gas or hydroelectric energy.

Navy's 'Operation Little America' On Way Home at End of Mission

FEB. 10 (Delayed)—Operation "Little America," the Navy's third task force for exploration and Antarctic research since 1939, has completed its mission and is enroute home from Burton Island in the shadow of the South Pole, according to word received at Pacific Fleet Headquarters recently.

Task Force 39 had been alerted for the past week to leave Little America and the Bay of Whales on 50 minutes notice as ice floes threatened to close the narrow opening to Admiral Byrd's deserted camps.

In a report from the USS Edisto, flagship of the explorer, it was related that the task force was caused some tense moments during the days immediately prior to their departure. Ice in the Bay of Whales, still breaking up from the summer thawing period, left a narrower opening than the one which last year caused concern for personnel and ships of Operation Highjump.

During the first few days of this month, while the men were busily digging out the snowed-in "City of the South Pole," the ice to which the ships were moored broke off, leaving the vessels drifting in open water while weasels (snow tractors) and a shore party were on the ice. All was under control in a few minutes, however, as the icebreakers backed out of precarious position and broke off the loose ice, sending it out of the bay entrance.

The men ashore drove the weasels to a safe spot further in toward the Byrd camps, while the ships were remoored to safer ice. All transportation between the ships and Little America camps was over this ice which was found to be very unsafe in places. Tidal cracks, crevasses and vast pressure ridges were a common sight. Antarctic veterans with the task force believe that at some future day this entire expanse will break loose and drift north with the rest of the icebergs in the Ross Sea.

The men returned to the ships from the Little America camps browned by the Antarctic sun and winds looking more like vacationers who had spent the winter months on the beaches of Florida or California than working parties who had been "wrapping up" a ghost town until the day future expeditions penetrate its ice and snow bound silence.

While the United States has been experiencing its coldest winter since 1936, this Navy task force at the bottom of the world has been basking in moderate temperatures which until a few days ago rarely dropped below 30 degrees above zero. Arrival at Little America brought the first cold wave in over a month of operation, when the mercury dropped to 4 above zero, the lowest temperature recorded since the two ships entered Antarctic waters on Christmas Day.

The task force is the first expedition to penetrate the ice pack to the eastward of Ross Sea.

Eisenhower Backs Women For Permanent Armed Forces Job

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said that he was "struck with horror" when he first saw women in battle areas; but soon learned that they were an indespensible part of the Army.

Testifying before a House Armed Services subcommittee, the former Chief of Staff hoped the house would pass a Senate-approved bill to make the Wacs, Waves and Women Marines permanent parts of the Armed Forces.

He was joined in the plea by Defense Secretary James Forrestal, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the new Chief of Staff, and by other top officials of the Army, Navy and Air Forces.

Eisenhower said there were many war jobs at which women were better than men.

Furthermore, he said, "in all the war I never had a woman ask me to get farther back from the battle lines. They asked how they could get closer to the front.

"But I had many men try to convince me they could better serve as instructors back home."

The Women's Corps, he said, never presented the Army with "any trouble of a disciplinary or any other character."

"After a couple of enlistments most of them—thank God—get married," he said.

Californians Slated For New Tax Cut

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— A new tax cut is in sight for Californians.

Governor Earl Warren told a banquet held in honor of the opening of Chevrolet's Van Nuys plant that he will recommend a tax cut to the state legislature this year.

"I believe they will pass it," he said. "The state is in excellent shape financially and we have no right to collect money that we do not need from the people."

He said a previous state tax reduction made California the first state to cut taxes in five years.

In welcoming the Chevrolet plant, the governor said California, which has increased its population 300 per cent in 25 years, "seeks and needs new industries to keep pace with its growth."

"In the last few years California has shifted from an agricultural to an industrial economy," he said. "To keep pace with our ever increasing population, we must have new industries to keep our economy stable."

Strip-Teasers Heckled Out of G-Strings by Wise Guys

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Pity the poor strip-teaser. There she is out in front of a pack of drooling guys, freezing her legs off for a living, and she has to suffer the hecklers with a smile.

She has to keep up her powdered chin through the catcalls and howls. And duck the flying missiles, the worst occupational hazard of all.

The latest onslaught to the bump and grind queens came at the hands of a college student. For two months he toured the Burbank and Follies Burlesque palaces.

This menace shot inch-long, home made wire staples with a rubber band at the strippers. Craftily he would wait till his victim was at the end of her act. Then he would catch her with her skirt and bra down.

The cops finally nabbed the guy. The gals no longer quake in fears of having their toes stapled together, but they still have bruises to rub—and the fear it'll be somebody else, with bigger staples, next week.

Scored From G-Strings

Over at the Follies the girls say they get scared of their G-strings by such indignities, but not mad.

Blond Mary Miller told us, "when those staples were flying I got to shaking so hard I could hardly get my clothes off."

We waited until another victim, Aileen, bumped and ground her way off the stage in gold tassels and a G-string. A flying staple nicked her a week ago on the temple. The bruise still shows, too.

"What if it hit my eye? Gee. I've only been in the business five weeks," she pouted, fluffing her long, brown hair. "I didn't know this kind of stuff would happen.

In the real, old days, it was leftovers from a garbage can instead of flying metal that vaudevillians and burlesquers had to duck. Rudy Valee was bombarded with eggs once during a show in Conn. and the famous Cherry sisters eventually had to do their act behind a net.

That didn't work, though. People just threw smaller vegetables.

Jap Clergy Plan World Conference

by Earnest Hobercht
United Press Staff Correspondent

HIROSHIMA —(UP)— Japanese religious leaders plan to hold a world religious conference in this atom-bombed city in 1950.

Groundwork for carrying out the project will be laid here in March when representatives of all religious denominations in Hiroshima prefecture meet to organize for the event.

Japanese hope to convene the conference on Aug. 6, 1950, the anniversary of the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Japan.

"The atomic bomb brought peace to the world," said the Rev. Kiyoshi Tanimoto of the Nagarekawa Church. "The first bomb was dropped here. Hiroshima now has become a symbol of peace. We believe a world religious conference should be held in this city.

Premier is Christian

Tanimoto plans to appeal to the Japanese government for assistance in raising funds. He pointed out at Premier Tetsu Katayama is a Presbyterian—the first Christian leader this nation has ever had.

When Katayama was elected, Gen. Douglas MacArthur commented on the fact that Japan had gained a Christian leader and expressed his satisfaction.

Japanese religious leaders of every faith say this country needs good religious leadership and hope that the proposed conference will give an impetus to the development of new religious workers.

Strong Christian Center

The Japanese new democratic constitution has given the people freedom of religion. State sponsored Shintoism is now forbidden, each individual is free to worship as he pleases.

Hiroshima is one of the strong Christian centers in Japan. The influence of Catholic missionaries was felt here many years ago.

Many of the residents of the city have been converted to the Christian faith since the war.

Buddhism, long the leading religion in Japan, is gaining many of the former Shinto woshippers.

Voice Over Body In Sex-Appeal Poll

by Aline Mosby
United Press Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—In these disillusioning days of false bosoms and eyelashes, the movie camera's no judge of sex appeal any more. There's only one way left to tell, say movie sound men. The voice.

Any beanpoled female can pad herself to look curvy on film. But when it comes to spouting sexy dialogue into that microphone that dangles above her head on the movie set, she's stuck.

A gal can't fool that sound mixer who sits at his machine in a dark corner of the sound stage. That voice, she can't pad.

Vocal Pin-Ups

To investigate this new form of figuring why is a woman, we tracked down sound man Stanley Jones out at Warner's. This guy not only is an expert on sexy vocal chords but he's saved "pin-ups" of same.

Not cheesey photos, but scraps of unused film on which is recorded the voices he likes best.

These he "played" on a movie machine in a film cutter's office. The sexiest voice, according to his formula, he put on first.

"This," Mr. Jones hissed above the babbling that rolled forth, "is Eleanor Parker when she made 'Voice of The Turtle.'"

He paused and tipped his head in rapture.

"I'd rather," said the sound man, "listen to Eleanor Parker's vowels than look at all the legs in Hollywood. And believe me, I've recorded the voices of most stars on sound tracks."

MarBo Reveals Decrease in VD

MARBO—At the last meeting of the MarBo Venereal Disease Control Council held at MarBo headquarters, it was revealed that a decrease resulted in the venereal disease rate in 1947. The surgeon's office report showed that the yearly 1947 rate per thousand was 18.12 against 20.49 for 1946.

It was further pointed out that more news cases were contracted in MarBo during 1947 than in 1946. New cases totaled 66 in 1947, compared with only 8 in 1946.

The report showed a drop of 4.84 for the period ending January 30 from the preceding month, when the figures were 27.00

Housewives Buying Fewer Groceries These Days

CHICAGO —(UP)— Housewives are buying fewer groceries but are using more spices in home menus, a survey by Northwestern university disclosed.

The "pantry poll," which has just finished its second year, found that a tendency to stock fewer groceries began on V-J Day and has continued downward in many categories.

Charles L. Allen, assistant dean of Northwestern's Medill school of journalism, is conducting the continuing poll.

Allen said he had not determined whether the trend was the result of using up long-stored supplies or an increasing resistance to high prices.

"At any rate, our poll indicates that families are stocking less and less canned goods," he said.

Bread Decline

A major decline was found in the number of persons stocking white and dark bread. In August, 1948, 85 per cent of the families polled stocked white bread, while the percentage dropped to 62 in th same month of 1947. A summary of dark bread showed a drop from 35 per cent over the same period.

The survey indicated that more women were baking at home, however.

Among the few grocery items which enjoyed purchase increases were cake flour, regular flour, baking powder, cornmeal, flour mixes and cracker meal.

The survey, which covered families from all socio-economic population groups in a large metropolitan area, showed a trend toward "taking life a little easier."

Regular coffee and tea purchases dropped about eight per cent, but "instant" coffee doubled and tea bags rose from 32 to 50 per cent.

In sharp contrast was the buying of spices. In August, 1946, just six per cent of the pantry shelves were stocked with spices, but in 1947 the figure was 88 per cent.

Fats and shortenings also suffered considerable declines in percentage. Butter dropped from 76 to 62, margarine from 37 to 23, vegetable shortenings from 67 to 63, and lard from 37 to 21.

Shopping habits were investigated by the pollsters also. It was found that Friday is the big shopping day and Wednesday was the low point. The largest percentage of housewives shop in "independent" stores, the survey showed.

He And His Watch Both Tick

GREENSBORO, N.C., —(UP)— That ticking you hear around Sankey Flynn isn't his watch. It's just Sankey.

Flynn has one of the world's three known cases of objective tinnitis aurium. More simply, he ticks. You can hear him three feet away.

Flynn, a handsome blond man of 29, isn't bothered by the constant uproar in his head. Until he was 19 years old, he thought everyone else ticked too.

Dr. Hugo C. Wolfe, Greensboro specialist, said after several weeks of examination that the noise came from the spasmodic contraction of muscles in the roof of Flynn's mouth, which constantly snapped the eustachian tube to his ears open and shut.

French Fountain Spouts Gasoline

PARIS —(UP)— The gasoline fountain of Fluerette has petered out and strictly-rationed French motorists were bitterly disillusioned.

Previously famous only as the site of some lovemaking by King Henry IV and his gardener's daughters, the venerable old spring at Neracs, near the Franco-Spanish border, made headlines all over France. It began to spout gasoline.

Motorists all over France, whose basic ration of only five gallons a month was cut to zero last month took heart.

The nation's most eminent geologists, though dubious, went to the scene.

Enthusiasts recalled pre-war geological explorations tending to show existence of a shelf of oil-bearing shale running through Neracs.

But the percentage of gasoline in the water flowing from the fountain of Fluerette noticeable diminished. It would no longer burn.

The geologists issued a cautious preliminary report stating that the spring's source was in a geological formation never before known to contain oil, let alone refined gasoline.

They hazarded a guess that the gasoline was coming from a tank, long ago buried nearby and forgotten, which finally had rusted open.

A former police perfect of the department brought up from his memory the case of Walter Capot, arrested in 1940 for the theft of two French Army gasoline trucks, each containing about 4,000 gallons. Only one of the trucks was recovered and it was believed Capot may have buried the other. He subsequently was hanged by the Germans as a member of the Marquis.

Baseball Briefs

Sixteen big league clubs, camped in Arizona, Florida, California and far-off Latin America, inaugurated the 1948 spring training season today with only a few, scattered holdouts marring an otherwise "grand opening."

The more stubborn holdouts included Outfielder Bob Thompson, Shortstop Buddy Kerr and Pitcher Ken Trinkle of the New York Giants; Outfielder Harry Walker of the Philadelphia Phillies; First Baseman George McQuinn of the New York Yankees; Infielders Eddie Stanky and "Pee Wee" Reese and Catcher Bruce Edwards of Brooklyn; Pitcher Johnny Sain and Outfielder Carvel Rowell of the Boston Braves, Shortstop Eddie Lake of Detroit and Pitcher Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati.

The St. Louis Browns, with six unsigned players, and the Braves with five, appeared to have the biggest salary problems although both Brownie and Brave officials expressed confidence that they would agree to terms shortly.

Brooklyn, with a penchant for doing things differently, was the only club training outside the continental limits of the United States. The Dodgers, who left La Guardia field by plane yesterday, will do their daily dozen at Cidud Trujillo in the Dominican Republic.

The Giants are quartered at Phoenix, Ariz., and the Cleveland Indians, who will furnish the bulk of their spring opposition, at nearby Tucson. At Phoenix, Giant Manager Mel Ott announced that none of the holdouts would be permitted to work out until they signed.

Four clubs are performing their pre-season chores in California. The re-built Browns are at San Bernardino, the Chicago Cubs at Los Angeles, the Pittsburgh Pirates at Hollywood and the Chicago White Sox at Pasadena. Pirate Manager Bill Meyer cautioned his pitchers against bearing down too hard for the first few days because of the risk of sore arms.

Florida ranked as the favorite spring site of major league clubs with nine teams training in the 'Gator State.

The Braves are at Bradenton, Cincinnati at Tampa, the Philadelphia Phillies at Clearwater, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Red Sox as Sarasota, Washington at Orlando, Detroit at Lakeland and the Philadelphia Athletics at West Palm Beach.

Outfielders Barney McCosky and Elmer Valo, two important cogs in the Athletics' offensive machine, agreed to terms late yesterday, thereby eliminating the last of Connie Mack's holdout concerns.

At Bradenton, General Manager John Quinn of the Braves announced that Infielder Bobby Sturgeon, acquired from the Cubs in a trade for Dick Culler last Saturday, had agreed to terms over the telephone from his California home. Other Brave players besides Sain and Rowell yet unsigned are Infielder Nanny Fernandez, Outfielder Mike McCormick and rookie Pitcher Al Tretchel.

At Tampa, Cincinnati President Warren Giles was hopeful of persuading Vander Meer to sign before the squad concluded its inaugural trial. The husky southpaw hurler last talked salary with Giles in January despite the fact that he has been in Tampa about four weeks.

Valpey Names Coaches

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 28 —(UP)— Arthur Valpey, Harvard's new football coach, announced to the surprise of no one Saturday that he had selected two of his former colleagues at Michigan as assistant coaches for the Crimson.

Valpey named Russell Jordan line coach and David Nelson backfield coach. Both, like Valpey, are Michigan graduates.

Bernie Moore's appointment as Commissioner of the Southeastern Conference last month left Louisiana State in a bad way for a football coach......It was expected to a certain extent, but this situation is still critical......Three weeks of their six week spring football practice are already gone, and even if a coach should be appointed immediately, he wouldn't have much time to put his ideas into effect.... A conference rule prohibits fall practice beginning before September 1, and LSU has a date with Texas on September 18,......That will leave the coach, whoever he may be, only about 15 days—discounting Sunday's—to prepare for the Sugar Bowl champions, and probably the strongest team on the schedule....Prominently mentioned as successors are Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech mentor, and Vanderbilt's Red Sanders....

Not long ago we agreed with Adolph Hupp, Kentucky basketball coach, when he said the basketball rules are okay and should be left as they are for a few years.... Now we're forced to admit that Josh Cody, Temple cage mentor, has a point in his contention that at least one rule change is in order....Josh, a former Vanderbilt sports hero, says basketball should copy football in allowing the offensive team to accept or decline the penalty....As an example, he cites the NYU-Temple game of February 7, which NYU won by a single point....Temple's Nelson Bobb stole the ball from Ray Lumpp in the last nine seconds of play and drilled through for a basket that would have put Temple out in front 56-55....But a foul was called on Lumpp for holding Bobb on the way to the basket, so the goal did not count....Bobb was given one shot, which he missed, and Temple lost the game.... Actually, NYU fouled its way to victory that time....

Credit where it is due department: To Georgia Tech center Jim Nolan ....In a recent game with Kentucky, which Tech lost, 78-54, Nolan dumped in 32 points and held the Wildcats' All America Center, Alex Groza to a measly two points....

Locally....Interest in next Monday's George Crump-Johnny Kamber fight is at a fever pitch already....Mike Karvasales, MarBo special services officer and Crump's "promoter" reminded the MarBo featherweight king that if he lost, the fights would stand one apiece and another rematch would be necessary....Crump, a shy guy with a big grin, replied, without a trace of cockiness in his tone, "I don't aim to let him beat me." Both fighters have been training extra long since plans were made to make it a five round affair.

California's Grape Bowl matched Hardin-Simmons University and College of Pacific in the Dec. 11, 1948, post-season game to become the first of the nation's football bowls to secure opponents.

Grape Bowl officials announced that the two elevens had been chosen because they were "ranked as top contenders for their respective conference championships in 1948."

Citation Wins Flamingo Race

MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 2 —(UP)— Citation, one of the hottest colts in history, waltzed away from six other horses in the $50,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Saturday to win his seventh straight race by an easy five lengths.

The Calumet farm youngster, a winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, was just three fifths of the second off a track record under Al Snider's expert ride and probably would have broken it had Big Dial and Faggy done more than follow him to the finish line and the $43,500 winner's prize.

Citation held the lead from halfway over the backstretch, and paid the backers, who established him as a one to five favorite, $2.40 to win, $2.30 place money and $2.10 for show.

Big Dial, a choice colt from the Hart and Jacobson stable who finished second, returned $4.60 and $2.10.

Lawson Little Wins Florida Golf Tourney

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2 —(UP)— Lawson Little weathered a terrific stretch drive by South Africa's Bobby Locke yesterday to win the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf tourney with a 72-hole total of 272, 16 under par.

The Cleveland Veteran, steady all the way, clicked on the greens for a final round 67 card that kept his record three strokes better than the 275 Locke turned in after a seven-under-par comeback round of 65 yesterday.

Little, former National Open, National Amateur and British Amateur Champion, needed all the skill he could muster to hold onto his lead and the $2,500 top prize.

Locke fairly sizzled with seven birdies that brought him within one stroke of the course record which Ben Hogan established on the opening day with a 63.

Ocean Wave Ruins Golfer's Hope to Win Bet

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 2 —(UP)— James Anderson, the seagoing golfer, lost his battle with time and tide last Sunday.

Anderson had bet a chunk of his salary that he could tour the tough pebble beach course in less than 100.

He lay 97 on the final hole when he blasted out of a sandtrap, over the green and into the Pacific Ocean Saturday.

Undismayed, Anderson decided to wait for low tide and try to play his ball. He consulted a chart, and found low tide was at 2:30.

With gallery of one prospective creditor, Anderson waded into the water at 2:29, equipped with a hurricane lamp. The water was still too deep so he looked at the tide chart again to find it was three years old.

Back in the clubhouse, Anderson found a new chart, and discovered that low tide actually was due at 1:15 the following afternoon.

Came the new deadline, Anderson found his ball under a mere two-inches of water. He got out his blasting iron as he nervously swished a few practice strokes, throwing up a sheet of spray. Then, head down, left arm straight, hips pivoting smoothly, Anderson swung.

At that instant a wave swept in over Anderson's knees and when it was gone, so was the ball.

Anderson paid off but under protest.

"An ocean wave," he said, "is an act of God—not a golf hazard."

NCAA, N.Y. Invitational Top Basketball Subjects

NEW YORK, Mar. 2 —(UP)— Depaul and Utah apparently clinched tournament berths today as the basketball season neared its finale and the selection commitees were faced with definite decisions.

Depaul, a giant-killer all year, hoisted itself into an ideal position by defeating vaunted St. Louis University Saturday night, 52 to 42. St. Louis already has been selected for the Madison Square Garden invitational, and Depaul seems assured of a similar bid after its most recent victory.

Utah downed Denver, 63 to 48,—and that result could put the Utes in either the NCAA or the invitational tourneys. Young, the conference champion in the Rockies, is ineligible for the NCAA and already has accepted a bid to the NAIB tourney at Kansas City.

So far Kentucky and Holy Cross have been assigned spots definiately in the NCAA, and St. Louis, Western Kentucky, Texas and North Carolina State have accepted invitation bids.

New York University met Notre Dame last night in further defense of its undefeated record, and probably will come up with an NCAA spot for the East. If not, then the Violets surely will go to the invitational.

Baylor, the champion in the Southwest, loomed as another NCAA team despite demands for a playoff from Arizona of the Border Conference. Michigan beat Ohio State, 40-36, and Iowa licked Minnesota, 54-50, which set the stage for the Big Nine Conference championship game between Michigan and Iowa.

Oklahoma A&M clinched the Missouri Valley with a 36-21 win over Creighton and may get the midlands spot even without a playoff with the Big Seven. California in the South and goodness-knows-who in the North will play off the Pacific Coast conference spot.

NSC, MAG 24 in Top Softball Tilt Today

The top game in the Inter-Command softball league will take place at NSC when MAG 24 from up Orote way, journeys to NSC to see what they can do about throwing the league race into a turmoil. Mag 24 has lost one game this season which was to NAS Agana and may make trouble for the highly rated NSC nine.

NSC has done away with seven teams but have yet to play the top teams in the standings. This should give the boys from NSC a real test and especially their ace hurler Jack Devore. Devore has won six of NSC's seven games and looks to be a strong candidate for the pitcher of the year when the season ends. Devore is known for his durability and a reputation of getting out of tough spots. MAG 24 has displayed some of the Island's best power in the hitting department and will prove whether it pays to have an all power line up or a terrific pitcher. On the other hand, Devore, leads the NSC team in batting and is usually credited for pitching and batting his team to victory. There's no doubt about NSC being favored in today's battle, but MAG 24 will have a chance to prove to the fans whether or not they have the team to knock off the favored ones and take the Island championship.

Another interesting tilt scheduled to take place today, is the 1st Brigade-Triple "A" contest which will be played on the Triple "A" diamond. The Brigade dropped their first two games of the season and have now won their last five games. Triple "A" also is in a winning streak and are trying for their fourth straight, after dropping their first three contests. When Marines get together, they don't usually have the chatter they have for the Navy such as, "you guys are on the USS Never Sail," and so have to pick on their own branch of the service for slams and "razz" music. It should be a real contest, not only because each one is in a winning streak, but that they are from the same branch of the service and want to win.

The NAS Agana-ComMar contest is still under protest and no word has been obtained, as yet, from the protest board as to whether the protest has been denied or visa versa. In answer to the calls pouring into the sports department about requests of having the game played when other teams have an off date, the word has been passed on, that if the game is replayed, many of the teams wish to have it scheduled so they may enjoy the entertainment if it comes around. It has brought many comments and remarks and the game should really be tops if it is replayed.

Game time for all games today will be 1400.

Basketball Bulletins

A free throw by towering Clarence Branmum in the final 45 seconds tonight gave Kansas State a 61 to 60 victory over Kansas and undisputed possession of the Big Seven crown, the school's first conference title since 1917.

Otto Schnellbacher, Kansas' star forward, had a chance to throw the contest into an overtime period with a charity toss when the clock showed only 15 seconds left, but he missed it.

The K-Staters were as cold in the first half as the Jayhawks ace torrid, leaving the court at the rest period behind the K-U crew by 32-16.

It was the first time that Kansas State has beaten Kansas on the Jayhawk court.

Michigan's basketball team battered down the hard-fighting Iowa Hawkeyes, 51 to 35, tonight to capture its first Big Nine championship in 21 years.

While 9,000 partisans fans cheered wildly and sometimes even chanted "we want a touchdown" the fast stepping Wolverines rolled to a 29 to 22 halftime lead, checked a second half rally cold, then coasted into their second title since 1927.

Iowa, fighting grimly for a share of the coveted crown, blasted its way to a 31 to 31 tie in the second half but folded under a withering attack from the Wolverines, who just wouldn't be beaten tonight.

The Michigan triumph, as well as assuring an undisputed conference crown, probably also assured the Ann Arbor quintet of the fourth district bid to the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament, which might lead to participation in the olympic for some of the "Wolve" stars.

Little Murray Wier, the Hawkeyes' ace scorer and top point getter in the conference, tried gamely but his 14 points weren't enough. The Wolverines forward Mack Suhranowicz matched that with six buckets and two free throws and other Michigan shot makers left the remainder of the Iowa squad in the dust.

Boxer Makes Challenge

NEW YORK, Mar. 2 —(UP)— Marcel Cerdan, European middleweight champion, arrived from Paris by plane and said he was looking past his March 12th fight with Lavern Roach to aeotat Rocky Graziano's championship.

Cerdan said he considered the Roach bout at Madison Square Garden as merely a stepping stone to the title. He added that he "could lick any man in the world" and that he was eager to meet Graziano, "if he's the champion."

Math Teacher Dunks 74 Points For New AAU Mark

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP A straight line is the shortest distance between two points—even on a basketball court, says Mathematics instructor Jack Tweedie.

To prove his theory, Tweedie sent the ball swishing through the hoop for 74 points here the other night in an AAU basketball game to set what is believed to be a world scoring record for one cage game.

"The best part of it," says the former airforce veteran, "is that I came to this game gunning for the tournament scoring record. However, I never dreamed of anything like 74 points."

The 26-year-old junior high school teacher is no novice at the game. In fact, at one time he was being groomed for stardom on the University of Southern California basketball quintet at Los Angeles.

He starred at Occidental College for three years and, after getting out of service in 1945, showed up at USC.

"But I just didn't have the stuff that I had before the war," says the 26-year-old redhead, "and I spent most of the time on the bench."

He had the stuff recently—with bells on!

Sets Eye on Record

Tweedie, vetern of 29 bombing raids in the Burma theater, had his eye set on the tournament scoring record of 45 points, made the night before, when he took the floor.

He had scored 34 points in the first game of the tournament to lead his team, the Berkeley Burbank Athletic Club, to victory. That gives him a total of 108 points for two games.

In the recent encounter he may have set a flock of records. He scored only 22 points in the first half. That looked like a long ways from the record, and with seven minutes of play remaining he still had only 45 points.

Then he connected on a hook shot to make the record.

After that the boys on the club just fed him the ball and he scored 29 points in the last seven minutes of play—believed to be another world mark in the "hot" scoring department. His 52 points in the second half also is a record.

The towering, six feet, four inch center, is married and has two youngsters. He lives in a modest home in Berkeley and teaches in Berkeley Junior High School.

"Of course," he points out," you realize that no one could score like that without a very capable set of teammates.

"They're all one hundred per cent alumni of good old Burbank Junior High School."

Did John Hit Barney With A Loaded Glove?

by Glen Martz
United Press Sports Writer

BISMARCK, N. D. — (UP) — Johnny Datto (Juanito Pastrano), dusky little Filipino who blazed a trail in the fistic world back in the early 20's, would like to put another lump on the head of former featherweight champion Barney Ross.

Johnny was "hoppin' mad" today over a statement attributed to Ross that he (Johnny) had his gloves loaded when he fought the former titleholder in Pittsburgh 15 years ago.

"It's the bunk," flashed Johnny. "Ross ought to know it's impossible to load your gloves before a fight. The night I fought Ross his second examined my hands just before the gloves were slipped on."

Ross, reminiscing recently, was quoted as saying he was the victim of a loaded glove only once in his career.

"I was fighting Johnny Datto in Pittsburgh in 1933," Ross said. "Early in the fight he hit me on the forehead and I felt a lump growing where he nailed me. I knew he must have had something in his glove.

"I got mad and belted him out in the next round. After the fight I went to Datto's dressing room and asked him what he had in his glove to hit me so hard. Datto unwrapped his hand bandages and uncovered tightly packed tinfoil, frest off a package of tea.

"When I saw that, it got me so furious I popped him on the jaw and stiffened him out again."

"Silliest thing I ever heard of," snapped Johnny. "If I had loaded my gloves do you think I would have unwrapped my hands and showed him?"

Johnny has a good reason for challenging Ross' statement. Currently he is boxing coach at the local high school where he says "the boys think I'm an all-right guy."

"If I had wnown then what I know now I would have licked Barney Ross. I had him so groggy once that I had to hold him up in the ring. My second told me afterward that Barney was so befuddled he didn't actually know he had won the fight when he slipped in that lucky punch."

Film Stratton's Life

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., —(UP)— Pitcher Monty Stratton, who gained nation-wide fame for his professional baseball comeback with an artificial leg, has arrived here to assist in the filming of his life story.

Stratton will serve as a technical advisor for the movie, "The Life of Monty Stratton," expected to go into production soon at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

'Grand Old Man' Has a Few Tricks Up His Shirt Sleeve

NEW YORK—(UP)—That spry old gentleman over in Philadelphia, Connie Mack, is planning a few surprises for the 1948 baseball season.

One of them could be 23 year old Leland Victor (Lou) Brissie, a left-handed pitcher for the Athletics who recently was awarded a gold trophy by Philadelphia sports writers as "most courageous athlete of the year."

"Better prospect than Lefty Grove," Mack calls him.

"I had a lot of trouble hitting Bill McCahan last year and Brissie should be a lot tougher," said Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, who is better than a green hand at rating pitchers.

Joltin' Joe had a fleeting look at Brissie back on Sept. 28 in the last gasps of the season. Lou started and pitched eight innings of a game the Yanks eventually won in the 10th, 5 to 3.

DiMaggio also has seen plently of McCahan, who flung a September no-hitter against Washington, and eventually finished with a 10-5 record.

The handsome youngster is long on courage, a quality that's a must for major league pitching on any club and especially with the Athletics.

He was left for dead on an Italian battlefield during the war. Stretcher bearers passed him by four hours until one of them stopped and found he was still alive. After 24 operations—he refused to let them take off either wounded leg—he still walks with a decided limp and wears a shin guard to protect exposed nerves.

At the dinner the other night, Brissie said simply:

"For any success I may have I must thank my late father, my mother, an Army surgeon and [illegible] "The One up there."

PCL Teams Open Spring Practice In California

SAN FRANCISCO, —(UP)— Pacific Coast League baseball clubs, still firmly convinced they have the markings of a big league, opened their spring training in widely-scattered California camps as they prep for what many believe will be the greatest season in the league's 45-year history.

Pitchers and catchers will be the first of the squads to arrive in the camps of six teams. Two other clubs, Los Angeles and Sacramento, won't open training quarters until later.

Seven of the managers directing the camps will be returning veterans, but there will be one new boss at the helm. He is Joe Orengo, handsome young pilot of the Sacramento Solons, who served as coach under Dick Bartell there last year.

As usual, every club owner in the circuit is optimistic about the future. Flocks of off-season trades, sales and purchases have changed the playing personnel on every team. Drafts by the major leagues took away many stars who have been performing in the league for several years—and outright sales to the big time took away the top sensations of 1948.

Sammy Baugh Leads NFL Passers in '47 Season

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— The National Football League compiled its forward pass standings and then announced what everyone knew:

Washington's Sammy Baugh was its 1947 pitching champion.

The ageless Baugh, scattering re cords like rose petals, won the efficiency rating in a romp. The Philadelphia Eagels' Tommy Thompson rang the bell for the runner-up spot, and the Chicago Bears' Sid Luckman was third. Bob Waterfield, 1946 champion, slumped to ninth.

The standings, the league's slide rule experts explained, were computed "by the inverse grading of completions, per cent of passes completed, yards gained, touchdowns tossed and the percent of passes intercepted."

The top 15 in order, including the three leaders, were Jack "Jake" Jacobs, Green Bay; Paul Christman, Chicago Cards; Paul Governall, Boston and New York; Ray Mallouf, Cards; Clyde Leforce, Detroit; Bob Waterfield, Los Angeles; Jack Clement, Pittsburgh; Roy Zimmerman, Detroit; Jim Youel, Washington; Boley Dancewicz, Boston; Nick Sacrinty, the Bears and Jim Hardy, Los Angeles.

"Slingin' Sam, prancing like a colt in his 11th season in the league, set three new records and teamed with Youel to give the second division Redskins three other records in team statistics.

Baugh fired more passes, completed more passes and gained more yardage than any other passer in league history. He completed 210 of 345 attempted, gained 2,938 yards, threw 28 touchdowns, and had only 15 intercepted. The slide rule gave him a 59.3 percentage.

The 'Skins, under the Baugh influence, established new records with 416 passes attempted, 231 completed and 3,336 yards gained. The average gain for completion record.

Thompson, who came to the front in the final weeks of the season, gained his high rating from 106 completions in 201 passes in the later games.

Luckman, with 2,712 yards gained, also surpassed his former record of 2,194 yards, and the Bears, Cardinals and Detroit all surpassed the old team mark, of 2,407 yards, by gaining 3,093, 2,580 and 2,446 respectively. Luckman's completion average was 54.5, and Thompson's, 52.7, which jumped him from sixth position of last year.

Ex-Husky Grid Great Tours World As Engineer And Construction Boss

SEATTLE, Wash. —(UP)— Each year at the end of the football season many colleges bestow an award on an athlete who has been voted most inspirational to his teammates.

At University of Washington it is the "Guy Flaherty Medal"—and the name stems from the first Husky football player to receive it more than 40 years ago.

Thousands of fans on the Pacific Coast know of the Flaherty Medal—but few know the man himself.

Flaherty was a scholar as well an athlete. He maintained the scholastic marks and graduated Cum Laude from Washington in 1909.

Tough Time

He didn't have an easy time during his college career. He worked his way through, but managed to participate in major and intramural sports. He won the intramural wrestling championship one year by flopping Enoch Bagshaw, a one-time Husky football coach.

Two seasons—1906 and 1907—Flaherty played every minute at guard for the Washington football team. Then in 1908 he was laid low by an attack of boils and was unable to compete. Yet, every day during that season he was out on the field, pitching in to do whatever he could to help the squad.

That's the year he was awarded the medal.

Flaherty came to Seattle for a short visit recently. Since his graduation he has been around the four corners of the earth.

An electrical engineer, Flaherty did a job in Trinadad during the recent unpleasantries for the Aluminum Company of Canada. His engineering genius was credited with getting a huge portion of bauxite from which the aluminum came to build the huge bombers for both this country and Great Britain.

Then he went to Liberia and supervised construction of a new harbor for the Navy. And so it has gone.

Flaherty didn't talk about football too much. He was proudest of the key to Sigma XI, national honorary engineering fraternity he earned in undergraduate days.

And now he's on his way again. This time to Athens, Greece.

He's going to build another harbor.

Playoffs Draw Near in School Softball League

With the final divisional eliminations drawing closer in the elementary schools softball league, the Santa Rita boys and the Agat girls are already sure of a berth representing the western district.

The playoffs are slated for the last week in April, and, with one district champion already crowned, and the Inarajan and Barrigada boys almost sure things in their districts, it looks like a real battle for the Island championship.

Western division final standing:

BOYS		GIRLS
Team	Pct.	Team	Pct.
Santa Rita	1000	Agat	1000
Piti	750	Santa Rita	500
Adelup Point	500	Adelup Pt.	500
Asan	250	Asan	250

Pittsburgh Signs Nuzum

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers have announced the signing of two new players, halfback Jerry (Bruiser) Nuzum of New Mexico A and M, and end Ed Ryan of St. Mary's.

Nuzum, 25, of Clovis, N. M., was one of the top ground gainers of the Border Conference last year, averaging 4.8 yards per try and tallying 42 points for the Aggie. He is six feet tall and weighs 200 pounds.

Not Always Easy To Recognize Player's Decline

NEW YORK, —(UP)— Think you can tell when a ballplayer starts to slip?

It's not so easy. Even the players themselves don't always know when they first begin to fade. Their best friends won't tell them although their managers will.

Stan Hack, who left the Chicago Cubs this winter after 16 years service as a third baseman, was one of those baseball rarities—a player who was performing nearly as well at the close of his career as during his prime.

"I know I have slowed up some getting down to first base," he said last season, "But I kept from slipping too much by using my head in the field and at bat."

All players, however, can't manage to disguise their decline as effectively as the Cub third-sacker did.

Take the case of George McQuinn for example.

Baseball 'experts weren't giving the proverbial plugged nickel for the graceful first baseman's chances to stick with the New York Yankees last spring. He had slipped too far they said. McQuinn, then 36 had been released by the Philadelphia Athletics and taken on by the Yankees on a conditional basis.

But McQuinn began spanking line-drivers with surprising consistency and, before he himself realized it, he was the club's regular first baseman.

Fearless Fraley Covers Kennel Club Show

by Oscar Fraley
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(UP)—The family has been predicting it for years, but Fearless Fraley finally went to the dogs today.

The scene was the 72nd annual Westminster Kennel Club show at Madison Square Garden. And it wasn't too bad at that until some old tomato started scratching me behind the ears and a flock of friendly fleas took me for a Mexican Hairless.

Aside from that there was only one unpleasant incident. That was when old Fearless, backing away from a two-pound Chihuahua, pirouetted his posterior within range of a bulldog's bicuspids.

The Chihuahua was going to get a buildup as the oldest breed on record, [illegible] are some dillies, and there you get dogdom's "New Look." Some are wearing a beret in an upswept hairdo, while others among the Pekes and Pomeranians sport tiny diamond necklaces.

The puppy platoon includes the Lhaso Apso, an animated floor mop from Tibet, and the Brussels Griffons. You get an idea how big the latter is by considering the name of one identified as "All-Celia's Petit Pitou." Big as a button, it had large pathetic eyes and a scraggly moustache.

"It looks just like my husband, poor thing," sighed one observing dame.

There are 2,500 dogs in the show and, considering the clamor with nothing going, it makes you wonder what would happen if somebody turned loose a half dozen alley rabbits. In that case its pretty safe bet even the Basenjis, Sulukis, Samoyeds, Corgis, Papillons and Schipperkes would get into the act.

The most aloof-looking exhibits are the Borzoi, once known to the Proletariat as Russian Wolfhounds. That was too easy, so they hung the Borzoi tag on 'em, meaning "swift" in Russian.

And, madam, if you are tired of living with your husband I've got just the little item to make him take walking. It's the French Poodle, a white wooly job which gets combed and powdered until it looks like and undernourished Ballerina who just played nine innings.

There's one thing sure, though, the edge is gone from that "dog's life" gag. Breeders tell you not to bathe dogs oftener than every three or four weeks and theres a new product called "Sunday Shower" which you sprinkle on, rub in and rub off. It is not, however, recommended for reluctant youngsters.

Antarctic Survey Nearly Completed

(Ed. Note—This dispatch is not completely up-to-date, however it portrays a somewhat accurate picture of the operations of our Antarctic expedition, such as where, when, what, why and how.)

ABOARD USS BURTON ISLAND—The two ships of the Navy's 1947-48 Antarctic expedition are heading for the area of Finn Ronne's South Polar expedition after having abandoned efforts to reach the Antarctic coast in the vicinity of Mt. Siple.

An impenetrable ice belt off the shores of Marie Byrd land stopped the two icebreakers when they tried to crash through to the coast near Mt. Siple by proceeding southward along the 126th west meridian. No ships have ever penetrated this area.

A subsequent attempt to reach the coastline farther east in the vicinity of Thurston peninsula also was abandoned because of the heavy ice belt. The ships then resumed their eastward course toward Peter I island.

Ronne's base camp on Stonington island in Marguerite bay has been contacted by radio. The icebreakers are scheduled to arrive in the Marguerite bay area about February 21 (should be there now).

After leaving Antarctia, the two Navy ships will visit Callao, Peru, during the period of March 12-16 before proceeding home.

Since crossing the Antarctic circle on December 16, 1947, the USS BURTON ISLAND and the USS EDISTO have explored approximately 8,500 miles of south polar waters in less time than ever realized by any previous Antarctic expedition.

Carson Relieved

WASHINGTON — Admiral John H. Carson, USN, commander Cruiser Division 15 operating in the Western Pacific, will report to the office of the Secretary of the Navy in Washington, D. C., when relieved by Rear Admiral Francis X. McInerney, USN.

Admiral Carson has been in command of the cruiser division which includes the USS TOPEKA, USS DULUTH, and USS ATLANTA, since February 15, 1947.

Admiral McInerney, who will take over Admiral Carson's command, has been the commanding officer of the Naval Receiving station at Treasure Island, Calif. since January 4, 1947.

Navy Aids Coast Guard

WASHINGTON — Navy vessels have been helping the Coast Guard keep open inland waterways of the northeast United States for essential traffic during the recent cold weather.

Admiral Louis D. Denfeld, USN, Chief of Naval Operations, on January 28 directed local commands in the northeast section to stand by to assist the Coast Guard upon request.

Since that time the Navy units working in this capacity have done what the Coast Guard brothers class as an "admirable job."

The Chesapeake bay area, its subsidiary rivers, and the Chesapeake and Delaware canal have been scenes of the major icebreaking operations to date. A total of seven Navy Ships have thus been involved in the task.

Navy Building Helicopter Fleet

WASHINGTON—The Navy Department announced recently that 20 additional HO3S's, observation helicioters, have been ordered from the Sikorsky division, United Aircraft corporation, in line with plans to equip Navy fleet units with helicopters for rescue, transport and observation missions.

A total of 46 observation helicioters (HO3S's) are now on order. When delivered, they will bring to 88 the total number of helicopters, of all types available for use by Navy fleet and shore based units, and will give the Navy a fleet of rotary-winged aircraft second to none.

"The helicopter has already proven itself to be of distinct and unique value in carrying out certain phases of fleet operations," Rear Admiral A. M. Price, USN, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics pointed out.

"Plans are now underway to equip fleet units with these craft for rescue, transport and observation missions," he added.

Vice Admiral Harold B. Sallada, USN, Commander Air Force U. S. Pacific said that "six of these aircraft will be assigned to the Pacific fleet."

Hanson Relieved

WASHINGTON — Rear Admiral S. S. Murray, USN, former head of the Naval Advisory group, China, will relieve Rear Admiral Hanson, USN, as commander, U. S. Naval district, at Balboa, Canal Zone.

Rear Admiral Murray is now in Pearl Harbor enroute to the mainland where he will take leave prior to assuming his new position. He was relieved of his China assignment by Rear Admiral H. R. Thurber.

Finland Refuses to Sign Russian Treaty

HELSINKI, Finland, March 4 —(UP)— President Juho K. Paasikivi informed Russia that Finland will not sign a mutual assistance pact patterned after the Soviet military pacts with Romania and Hungary, it was reported today.

Authoritative sources said Paasikivi made this point clear in a conference last Saturday with the Russian Minister, Lt. Gen. G.M. Savonenkov.

The sources emphasized, however, that Paasikivi expressed absolutely no opposition to entering negotiations with Russia for some kind of mutual assistance pact. He is still awaiting political party replies to seven questions he posed about the treaty, and has made no public statement pro or con.

Clause No. 2

The President was understood to have objected to clause no. 2 of the Romanian and Hungarian treaties. It specifies that "one party shall, in case of war, give the other all military and other support necessary and do so by all means available."

Paasikivi reportedly told Savonenkov and, Pater, his cabinet, that such a clause would permit Russia to send Finnish troops anywhere it pleased in case of war.

Floods Inundate Huge Sections Of Midwest

CHICAGO, March 4 —(UP)— Floods plagued sections of the snow-burdened midwest today, inundating hundreds of acres of farmland.

Remains of the vast storm which buried the midwest beneath a thick snow blanket were centered over eastern Pennsylvania today, but most of the storm's fury had been spent.

16 Inches of Snow

The storm, which piled up as much as 16 inches of snow in Michigan, lost intensity as it moved up the Ohio Valley. It caused only snow flurries in Pennsylvania, New York and the New England states.

In Nebraska and northern Illinois, residents of some areas had to fight floods as well as dig out of heavy snow.

An ice jam in the Elkhorn River near Omaha, Neb., poured flood waters over large areas of farmland. The ice formed a natural dam near the stream's junction with the Platte River.

Lowlands were flooded for many miles upstream and a few families were forced to move to higher ground. Other families moved their livestock and were prepared to leave their homes.

Vatican Enters Race Against Communism

ROME, March 4 —(UP)— The Vatican entered Italy's critical election campaign today with a direct call to all Catholic voters to defeat Communism.

A decree by the sacred consistorial congregation, which Pope Pius XII himself heads, called on all Italian Catholics to vote in the April 18 parliamentary election for candidates who will uphold divine law and the rights of religion and the church.

At the same time, leaders of political parties rejected a complaint by Communists and left wing Socialists against recent letters by three Cardinals denying the right of Communion to Communists and their supporters.

Packers Strike

CHICAGO March 4—(UP)— The United Packinghouse Workers announced today that its 100,000 members will strike March 16 for higher wages—a walkout which would cut off a great part of the nation's fresh meat supply by the end of the month.

The walkout would be the first major industry-wide strike of 1948, and the first resulting from unions' demands for third-round wage increases. It would be delayed as much as 80 days if the dispute were referred to President Truman under a provision of the Taft-Hartley law.

Western Bloc To Halt Russia's Aggressions

WASHINGTON, March 4 —(UP)— Formation of a western defense bloc to halt Russia's "naked aggressions" was proposed by Sen. Joseph H. Ball today over the angry objections of Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Ignoring Vandenberg's efforts to head him off, the Minnesota Republican introduced his proposal as a "rider" to the European Recovery Program. He asserted it would be supported by a number of "revisionist" Senators who agreed with him that dollars alone cannot stop Communism.

Vandenberg, (R-Mich.) promptly condemned it as a move which could plunge the United States into war against its will, and congressional sources gave the amendment little chance of adoption.

But it was loaded with political dynamite which seemed certain to explode in the Senate fight over ERP, which Vandenberg hopes to bring to a vote March 15.

COMMAR HILL—An earthquake of moderate intensity was recorded on the Fleet Weather Central Guam seismograph at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday. The Navy microseismic station at Subic Bay P.I. reported the "primary" wave of the same quake a few seconds later. The location of the quake's epicenter is estimated to be about 1650 miles from Guam, probably somewhere off the Japanese Island of Hokkaido.

Punchbowl Crater May be Made into Cemetery

An article appearing in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin stated that the Punchbowl crater on the island of Oahu, T. H., may become the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific if recommendations by the House Appropriations Committee are approved.

The House committee had estimated a cost of $1,172,000 for the project, which would merge the military cemeteries of Guam and Hawaii into one national cemetery. According to the committee, a Guam site would be unsuitable because of several reasons, prime of which is the fact that Guam is crowded with military and Naval installations and lacks hotel accommodations for visitors. Also, of the 9,533 bodies listed for burial on Guam, none are buried here, the report said.

In contrast to Guam, Honolulu offers every means of comfort for visiting next of kin, as well as a more pleasant climate. Located at a much closer distance to the mainland, transportation would present less of a problem than distant Guam.

An estimated two years would be required to complete the memorial cemetery, which would contain 8,000 graves in the center of the Punchbowl crater, with places for 500 unidentified dead on an 800-foot mall extending the length of the huge bowl.

"It is not difficult to visualize the time when the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific will be one of the nation's great shrines," the committee said.

The Guam Congress will meet in the March session at the Guam Congress Building in Agana Saturday, March 6 at 8:30 a.m. All members are urged to attend.

Condon Cleared Of Disloyalty Charges by FBI

WASHINGTON, March 4 —(UP)— The FBI, it was understood today, has found no evidence of personal disloyalty against Dr. Edward U. Condon, noted atomic scientist accused by congressional investigators of associating with Russian spies.

Usually reliable sources said FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover advised Condon's superiors in the Commerce Department last May that there was no indication of misconduct in his associations.

A spokesman for the House Un-American Activities subcommittee which investigated Condon declined to comment on reports that the group had withheld a portion of Hoover's letter favorable to the scientist.

The subcommittee characterized Condon on Monday as "one of the weakest links" in atomic security, and demanded his removal as director of the Bureau of Standards.

Plans for Bombing New York Discovered

NEW YORK, March 4 —(UP)— Discovery of "plans" for an apparent plot to blow up the most crowded transportation centers in New York sent detectives on a fruitless seven-hour search for explosives in railroad, subway and ferry terminals and the general postoffice today.

The plans were found in an unaddressed envelope in a branch postoffice yesterday and postal authorities turned them over to police.

The plans said high explosives were to be planted in designated places between 5 and 5:15 p.m. today, but some 200 policemen, railroad detectives and other searchers combed the marked areas from noon to 7 p.m. without finding anything suspicious.

The centers supposedly marked for destruction were Grand Central terminal, Pennsylvania Station, the general postoffice, Times Square subway station, St. George ferry terminal on Staten Island, South Ferry Terminal (Manhattan) and ferry boats, stations of the Hudson and Manhatten tubes, and subway stations in lower Manhattan and Brooklyn.

MacArthur Warns That Peace Hinges on Orient

WASHINGTON, March 4 —(UP)— Gen. Douglas MacArthur warned today that world peace hinges on stability in the orient as well as in Europe. He said the United States should put military aid for China ahead of economic help.

In a long cable to the House Military Affairs Committee, the supreme allied commander in Japan stated bluntly:

1. The major problem in China and the orient is Communism; the Moscow-inspired "political despotism" must be turned back in the East as well as in Europe to achieve a lasting peace.

2. The need for internal reform in China is real, but is "secondary" to China's need for military assistance.

MacArthur, often mentioned as a dark-horse possibility for the Republican presidential nomination, sent his cable to Committee Chairman Charles A. Eaton, (R-N.J.,) in reply to an invitation to testify on the Administration's new $570,000,000 China aid program.

He said the pressure of his duties in Japan made it impracticable for him to leave his post—a statement that is expected to quiet reports circulated here by his presidential boosters that he would be home before long.

Eaton revealed that Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault, retired wartime Air Force leader in China, has accepted a similar invitation to testify. He said Chennault advised him by cable from Shanghai that he expects to be in Washington by March 10.

MacArthur emphasized that he was not "qualified" to discuss China policy in its "myriad of details" because "China is a Navy operations theater" and he gets his information indirectly.

But he said he could state without qualification that "a free, independent, peaceful and friendly China is of profound importance to the peace of the world." It is equally apparent, he said, that it would be "utterly fallacious" to underestimate its need or importance.

Britain Will Defend Territorial Rights Says Bevin

LONDON, March 4 —(UP)— Britain served notice today that even though her navy is down to one-half its pre-war strength, she is prepared to uphold her rights in the Antarctic, Central America and Africa.

Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, speaking in Commons, said recent Argentine and Chilean landings on Antarctic possessions claimed by Britain were "illegal." He indicated that all flags and tokens of sovereignty left behind by the two South American nations had been removed by the British.

Antarctica Tour

The 8,000-ton Cruiser Nigeria and the sloop Snipe at present are conducting Gov. Sir Miles Clifford on a "tour" of Antarctica to assert Britain's claim to the Falkland and lesser islands in the area.

Bevin assured Commons that Britain has enough strength on the spot to protect British Honduras from any threat of invasion.

The 9,100-ton Cruiser Sheffield, the 9,850-ton Cruiser Devonshire and a detachment of the Gloucester Regiment arrived in Belize, capital of British Honduras, last week.

Bombing Again Rocks Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, March 4 —(UP)— A 400-pound barrel bomb exploded in the former municipal building in the Arab quarter of Haifa today, killing 11 to 16 persons and wounding 16 to 50.

An official announcement said 11 were killed and 16 injured seriously, all of them Arabs. Later private reports said the casualty toll reached 16 dead and 50 injured.

Authorities tentatively identified the bombers as members of the Stern group of the Jewish underground.

Two buildings were wrecked by the blast of the barrel of explosives. It was hurled from a stolen army truck into Stanton Street near the old municipal building.

Finnish Communists Urge Negotiations With Russia

HELSINKI, March 4 —(UP)— Finnish Communist leaders called on President Juho K. Paasikivi today and demanded that negotiations for a treaty of friendship and military alliance with Russia be started immediately.

The Demand was made after reports that Paasikivi had informed Russian Minister Lt. Gen. G. Savonenkov that Finland cannot sign any treaty giving Russia the power to use the Finnish army anywhere in case of war.

A delegation of five leaders of the Communist Democratic Union, headed by Hertta Kkusinen, called on Paasikivi to present their party's views officially.

"There is no reason for delay in handli.., this important matter., K. L. Kulo, chairman of the Democratic Union, said after the conference.

"There are certain political quarters who tried to get the problem postponed until after the July elections, such a measure is just impossible under the present circumstances."

Navy Renegotiates War Contracts

The Navy's renegotiation of war contracts resulted in a gross recovery of $2,770,000,000 in excessive profits, a history of renegotiation soon to be released by the Navy Department shows.

The Navy Price Adjustment Board reviewed the operating results of over 24,000 war contractors and subcontractors for the 44 months the renegotiation acts of 1942 and 1943 were in effect (April 28, 1942 - December 31, 1945). The number of reviews per year averaged approximately 6,000.

The renegotiable sales reviewed amounted to $76 billions, including profits of $8 billions before renegotiation and taxes. Out of the total of 24,000 renegotiation reviews only 6,000 resulted in findings of excessive profits.

The effects of these renegotiations combined with the effects of federal income and excess. Profits taxes resulted in an average rate of profit on the renegotiated contracts of 2.4 per cent of sales.

Dollar profits of the companies renegotiated generally were greater during the war than during the peacetime base period, 1936 to 1939, because of the tremendous volume of war production.

Japanese Admit Emperor Hirohito's Father 'Nuts'

TOKYO —(UP)— Since Japan's defeat, the people are able to say openly what they once whispered—that Emporer Hirohito's father was "nuts."

It has even come out that he used to chase court ladies in a way not very becoming a son of heaven.

A Japanese magazine has recalled that Emporer Kisho succumbed to a brain disease, but said the people had been kept entirely in the dark as to the cause of his death.

The magazine also recalled the time the old emporer rolled up an imperial rescript he was supposed to read to the diet and used it as a telescope to make observations of awe-struck members.

A soldier named Akizuku, who formerly served in the imperial bodyguard, has just published a series of articles telling of his experiences in the service of Hirohito's father.

The ex-palace guard described the old emporer's infantile actions, upon which court attendants clamped strict censorship.

He told of the emporer releasing gold fish in the rice paddies and then chasing them with child-like glee.

He described an incident at the royal stables, where mirrors were arranged so the emporer could see how he looked on horseback.

The emporer asked him if he knew the song of the pigeon. Akizuka replied he did, and was ordered to sing it.

"Pigeon, pigeon, little pigeon"—etc, Akizuka croaked.

"His majesty was delighted," Akizuka's article said, "and he clapped his hands and nearly fell off his horse. An attendant rushed up and conducted him in haste to the palace. I was told not to say a word about this experience

Mystery Man Gives Murder Details

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)—A "heavy, big man, about 50" was sought as the writer of an unsigned note which described in detail the murder of a woman real estate agent before police knew she had been killed.

As authorities read the mystery note, printed laboriously with a pencil on cheap note paper, another real estate agent reported he had found the body of the woman, Mrs. Gladys Kern, 42, in an empty hillside manor which he was showing to a prospective customer.

Mrs. Kern had been stabbed in the back with a hunting knife. The knife, washed clean, was found in the kitchen sink nearby. She apparently had not been raped. Her money and wristwatch were missing, but her car still was parked outside the fashionable Los Feliz district home.

The note, addressed only "hurry to police," was mailed two days before the murder was discovered. Police refused to give the text, but said the details it gave were accurate.

Teachers Reorganize Guam Association

The Guam Teachers' Association, one of the many casualties of the war, is now in the process of being reorganized.

During the period following the American reoccupation of Guam, the feeling has steadily grown among the teachers that a revival of their organization is strongly desired and essential for the educational progress of Guam. In an attempt to implement that desire with action, the incumbent president, Mr. Jose Rios, has called together a meeting of all teachers and principals. The meeting will be held at George Washington High School Saturday, March 6, at 9 a.m.

The Guam Teachers' Association was first organized in 1925, when a group of teachers conceived the idea that an organization among themselves would prove highly beneficial to their professional advancement and to the cultural development of the Guamanian people.

Through the reorganization of the G. T. A. the teachers hope to build up an association that will provide them a forum for free use of the English language, enable them to exchange ideas on school and community problems and prepare them for better and more useful citizenship on Guam.

Huge Hawaiian Tourist Trade Anticipated

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Hawaiian sources here reported recently that those in the territory concerned with boosting the tourist trade are talking in terms of an ultimate $100,000,000 a year tourist business.

The need for making the most of the tourist trade is being emphasized, it was said, because of the decline in the sugar market which some planters believe is a long-term trend and because of reduction in military expenditures in the islands.

It is reported here that the Hilton hotel chain in Puerto, Rico is sounding out the possibilities for a hotel in Hawaii.

Mr. Eldridge, an 18 month Guam veteran, leaves today abord the USS PRES. JACKSON en route to his home in Nyack, N.Y. where he will briefly vacation with his family before returning to Tokyo for reassignment. His departure from Guam marks 55 months spent overseas with the Red Cross. Mr. Ellis has spent his last 14 months in Korea aid Tokyo. His home is San Francisco, Calif. (Guam News Photo)

Ballrooms Employing Non-Union Orchestras

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Three major ballrooms threw out Union bands recently in a last-ditch effort to keep entertainment costs down to what people can pay.

The operators said they were assembling non-union bands that cost less, played more and were better than most of the union outfits they hired.

Operators Harry Schooler, Joe Zucca and Harold Ewin said the majestic ballroom in Long Beach and the terrace in Hermosa Beach now operated without American Federation of Musicians orchestras.

On completion of Charlie Barnet's engagement at the Mardi Gras, Culver City, that spot will employ non-AFM musicians, they said.

Nine other ballrooms were considering joining, the operators added.

They said they didn't know what James Caesar Petrillo, head of the musicians' union, could do about it.

The operators work on the theory that you can't make money except with free admission or low entrance costs, good bands and entertainment. Schooler, who made $250,000 on all-night dances for swing shift workers, said he was not breaking even on the $6,500 per week he had paid Benny Goodman, Duke Ellington, Stan Kenton and Lionel Hampton to play recently at the Mardi Gras.

Prices for commodities in the New York market as of 1 March unless otherwise noted. were:

Copra	$285 per ton asked.
Cocoa	.4100 per pound
Sugar	.0500 per pound
Coffee	.2300 per pound

Prices subject to change daily.

PEARL HARBOR BREWS TROUBLE FOR WESPAC'ERS—Yes, indeedie! According to a dispatch received yesterday from Lt. G.D. Farrow, the officer-in-charge of the Western Pacific basketball champs (the Guam All Stars, remember?), the Pearl Harbor entry is going to be mighty hard to beat.

The good lieutenant reports that the WesPac'ers have been hard at work since their arrival in Hawaii, preparing for the big test and at the same time getting used to the indoor court. But the head man hastens to add that the Pearl Harbor squad is plenty good.

The local team got a preview of things to come last Saturday night when they sat in on the Pearl Harbor championship playoff. The Naval Barracks cagers walked away with the furlined thingamajig back there and now that the show is over, the strategists at Pearl are molding an All-Star quintet with the champion Naval Barracks team as the nucleus. The result is a powerful combination with an abundance of speed and height.

The Pacific playoffs are scheduled to begin March 11, with three outfits participating—WesPac, Pearl Harbor and ComFirsTaskFlt. Up to the time the dispatch was sent from Pearl the strength of the ComFirsTaskFlt entry was unknown.

The tourney itself will be a double round robin affair.

As for living conditions there is no squawk coming.... "Fine living quarters, special chow privileges, excellent treatment, and all the trimmings." Sounds as if some of the travel posters we've seen abounding Stateside tourist bureaus weren't far wrong. All that's lacking is a couple of well-upholstered hula-hula girls to go through their calisthenics routine.

Speaking of hula-hula gals and their assortment of heebie-jeebies brings to mind another subject Lt. Farrow mentioned in his short dispatch from the islands. . . That of conditioning. The WesPac crew isn't shaking grass on the sandy beaches to keep in shape, but they're working out every morning from eight o'clock until eleven and it's paying dividends as Lt. Farrow reports the team is "looking good."

If the scuttlebutt we've received from the "grapevine" is correct they're going to have to "look good" in the series, for the Pearl Harbor bunch is tough.

Rickey's Blast Causes Noticing of Front Office Changes in Many Clubs

NEW YORK, —(UP)— The latest joust between Branch Rickey of the Dodgers and other major league club owners over the introduction of Negroes into baseball pointed up today what a vast change three years has made in the ranks of the men who run the game.

Seven of the 16 club owners or their representatives who could have been present at a "veto" meeting Rickey originally said took place in 1945 have disappeared from the scene. (Rickey later "recalled" the meeting was held in 1946).

Three years means a lot in the life of a ball player. He can go up, down or out and it's more or less expected. But the turnover among front-office bosses in that span surprises one.

Larry MacPhail, Sam Breadon, Alva Bradley, Bill Benswanger and others long prominent in baseball have stepped aside, all in the last three years.

Most of them, ready for retirement even earlier, held out through the war years but got out when peace returned. Others found it expedient to dump their losing financial ventures.

When Rickey first said the owners had resolved in 1945 that introduction of Negroes was "jeopardizing the investment of the owners," it seemed like a good idea to see what the owners of that date had to say about it.

"Start with the Yankees," someone said. "Try Ed Barrow."

"Wasn't MacPhail running the club in '45? He helped elect Happy Chandler commissioner that year, didn't he?"

Larry was down at his farm at Belair, Md. He's a gentleman farmer and horse breeder now, far from the tumult of Yankee Stadium.

The next one, Breadon, was easy. He had disposed of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals only last winter in a sale to a syndicate headed by former Postmaster General Bob Hannegan. Sam, no longer sad, is living in retirement at St. Louis.

Seems to be as big a turnover among the guys who sign the paychecks at there is on the playing field. Next to go, reports indicate, will be bosses of the Browns and Philadelphia A's.

Guam Boxing Tourney In Near Future

Plans for local All Navy boxing eliminations were advanced another step yesterday with the announcement that the first night of the Guam tourney will be held the 20th of this month—little more than two weeks distant—at the NAS Agana Bowl.

There has been no change in the plans to hold the Marianas eliminations on April 9th and the Western Pacific meet on April 16. In reply to dispatches sent out last Saturday, ComNavWesPac in China and Kwajalein have already sent notification that they will enter a team. ComNavFE, representing the Japan area, will not participate because of lack of personnel.

Though the local setup calls for each command to enter a team, that does not limit any command to only eight men. Any number of men may be entered, so long as their entry comes through their command. The purpose of this plan is to make certain that each team has an officer-in-charge, thus eliminating confusion in the running of the eliminations.

All fighters must be present at the NAS Agana Welfare and Recreation office at 1000 on the 19th of this month for the draw and match-making.

Lightweight Bobby Ruffin Declares All Boxing Commissions Need Eye Specialists

NEW YORK, March 4 —(UP)— Bobby Ruffin, former lightweight contender, declared today that every boxing commission in the country should have its own eye specialists to help prevent blindness among leather-tossers.

Ruffin, who now is wondering whether he ultimately will join the shuffling parade of men who have been blinded in the ring, is now wearing dark glasses with pin-point holes in them as he recovers from a delicate operation to save the sight of his left eye.

Ruffin, from Astoria, N. Y., believes that the operation will be successful because his sight seems to be returning. However, the surgeons at Manhattan ear, and throat hospital told him that sometimes the affliction of a "detached retina" returns despite an operation.

The surgeons also told Ruffin that his eye injury was not the direct result of a blow received in his last fight with Al Pennino of Brooklyn on Jan. 10 at the Ridgewood Grove Club; rather, it was the result of eye and head poundings he had received during the past two or three years.

"I had no idea there was anything wrong with my eye, however, until after the Pennino bout when the sight in that eye began to fail," he said. "I thought I was getting a cataract, so I went to an eye specialist. He detected the detached retina right away and he warned me that an operation would be necessary in a hurry if I was to prevent blindness in that eye and possibly in the other.

"During those two or three years, when the eye was going bad, I had been examined often by the physicians attached to boxing commissions wherever I fought. Those physicians unquestionably were good medical doctors and when they flashed their lights in my eyes during the regular pre-fight examinations, they probably could have detected total blindness in the eye had it been totally blind.

"But they couldn't detect the condition that would ultimately cause blindness because they were not specialists.

"After I got out of the hospital I made many inquiries about how other fighters had become blind; I mean men like Sam Pangford. I found out that nearly all blindness among boxers developed gradually in the same way that my sight had started to go. Since blindness is one of the great dangers in the boxing profession, ranking just as important as blood clots on the brain—blood clots that result in punch drunkenness or in death, I think boxers should be given as much protection against blindness as they are against injuries resulting from brain concussions."

North Field Nine Outscores 811th Engineers, 12 to 9

Revenge was reaped Wednesday afternoon and it tasted sweet to Major Bill Barney's North Field Bombers as they romped off with their fifth consecutive 20th Air Force Baseball League victory by defeating their field rivals of the 811th Aviation Engr. Battalion, 12-9, on the North Field diamond.

Because the 811th team had previously won two games from the Bombers in pre-season warm-ups, the odds were even as to who would become victorious before the game got underway.

Crowley, ace hurler for the Bombers, was credited with the victory and allowed 10 hits. Being known as a strike-out artist, Crowley fanned ten Battalion batters.

Taylor Pompey started for the losers but was relieved in the sixth after allowing seven runs on seven hits. Bob Brownrich pitched until he was relieved by William Bell in the 8th.

The 811th Battalion group scored first and came back several times but was unable to overcome a Bomber six run rally in the last of the sixth. Pompey was charged with the loss.

AAC Lost Out On Major Players

NEW YORK, March 5 —(UP)— Thwarted at every drop of a fountain pen in the winter war for playing talent, the All-America Football Conference appeared today to be nursing a "you'll be sorry" attitude toward the poor old National League which has signed up all those high-priced stars.

A roll-call of National League signings shows a crushing defeat for the new conference. The AAC was outbid or outfoxed on Johnny Lujack, Bobby Layne, Tony Minisi, Charley Conerly, Harry Gilmer, Bill Swiacki George Connor and others.

But the All-America's brass hats aren't as worried as you'd expect. Their official reaction is this:

"The National League may be overplaying its hands considerably. Their policy of paying rookie stars high salaries will result in top-heavy payrolls and if those rookies don't come through as expected their teammates who were signed at a lower scale will become dissatisfied."

That came in a roundabout way from Admiral Jonas Ingram, commissioner of the AAC through a headquarters spokesman.

Blevins Shoots Perfect 50

Major Edwin Blevins followed up a sparkling performance on Saturday with a perfect 50 Wednesday afternoon in an unofficial skeet match between Harmon Field and Headquarters 20th AF.

The Harmon team defeated Harmon Field last Saturday, 466-455, largely on the sharp shooting of Major Blevins and Lt. B. C. Smith.

Gun addicts interested in joining the Harmon skeet team, should contact Major Talley at CH 2265 or CH 2201.

Eddie Dyer Lauds Moore, Marion For Loyalty

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 4 —(UP)— The loyalty of two players—Teddy Moore and Marty Marion—was credited by Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals today with saving his meteoric managerial career from an abrupt ending.

"One word from either of them early last season and I would have been fired on the spot," Dyer revealed as he relaxed in his private office at the Cardinal spring training camp and paid tribute to the two boys who saved it for him.

For the first time, the drawling Texan disclosed the trials and tribulations which he went through early last season as his favored Cardinals got off poorly in the National League pennant chase.

"We were in eighth place, you'll remember," Dyer said, "and President Sam Breadon called Marion and Moore into a private conference. One word from them and I would have been through. It's significant that I'm still here."

"That's real loyalty, and I want to tell you that as long as I'm in baseball I'd like to have them beside me."

Manhattan College Withdraws Cagers

NEW YORK, March 4 —(UP)— Manhattan College today withdrew from the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament at Kansas City, charging that the tourney contract included a "racial discrimination" clause.

The Rev. Br. Eusebius, F.S.C., Manhattan's director of athletics, said that rule two of the contract sent to the college by the tournament specifically sated that "colored students are not eligible" to compete.

Manhattan has no Negro players on its squad, but Brother Eusebius said the college felt compelled to withdraw as a protest against the clause.

Twisted Intestine Fatal to 20 Grand

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 4 —(UP)— Twenty Grand, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes in 1931, died in his stall at Greentree Farms here last night at the age of 20.

Death of the famed son of St. Germans—Bonus was attributed to a twisted intestine. Since retiring from racing, he had been stabled at Greentree where he was unsuccessfully tried at stud.

Ridden by Charley Kurtsinger, Twenty Grand captured the '31 Derby in the sensational time of 2:01 and four-fifths for the mile-and-a-quarter. In the Preakness he finished second to Mate, who had run third in the Derby, and thus lost his chance as the "Triple Crown" of American racing. Again ridden by Kurtsinger, he came back to win the Belmont Stakes in 2:29 and three-fifths for the mile-and-a-half.

Jordan Hitting Long

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Mar. 3 —(UP)— The long ball hitting of big Tom Jordan today featured the St. Louis Browns' two-hour batting drill.

Jordan, a six-foot, two-inch catcher who graduated from the San Antonio club, hit the ball over the left field fence at least once on every one of his five turns at the plate. It was a 357-foot drive.

Five of Six Finnish Parties Against Russian Military Alliance

HELSINKI, Finland, March 6 —(UP)— Five of the six political parties which hold 148 of the 200 seats in parliament went on record today against any military alliance with Russia that would bind this country to the Soviet Eastern Bloc.

As the result, President Juho K. Paasikivi conferred anxiously and at length tonight with Foreign Minister Carl Enckell in an attempt to draft a satisfactory answer to the personal request of Premier Josef Stalin or a Russian-Finnish mutual aid treaty.

Well informed sources expressed belief that Paasikivi would name a delegation, possibly tomorrow, to go to Moscow for treaty negotiations but the delegates would be instructed to do all they could to keep Finland from being fully aligned with the satellites bound to Russia.

Leaders of the three right wing parties visited Paasikivi at his presidential palace one by one today and expressed their firm opposition to any treaty which would make Finland a military ally of Russia.

Leaders of two left of center parties made it clear that although they favored negotiations with Russia they opposed treaty which would bind Finland militarily to the Eastern Bloc.

This left only the People's Democratic Union, which includes the Communists, unqualifiedly in favor of a military treaty with Russia.

The People's Democratic Union holds 50 seats in parliament.

The Social Democrats, with 48, and the Swedish People's Party, with 14, favor negotiations with Russia because asked for them, but say the negotiations must not result in a military pact binding Finland to the Russian Bloc. Spokesmen for these two parties said they hoped Paasikivi might work out some counter-proposal which could result in a treaty without a military alliance.

Grand Jury Investigates Soviet Spy Ring

WASHINGTON, March 6 —(UP)— New York grand jury which is investigating an alleged Soviet spy ring is looking into the backgrounds of persons with whom Dr. Edward U. Condon reportedly has associated, members of a House un-American activities subcommittee said today.

The subcommittee decided to withhold findings on Condon, head of the Commerce Department's Bureau of Standards, because they might influence the grand jury's decision.

The subcommittee has denounced the noted atomic scientist for reportedly associating with alleged Soviet spies. It termed him the "weakest" link in the nation's atomic security chain.

Condon fired a second blast at the committee today. He said there were a "number of inaccuracies" in its report, and that he had not associated with some of the people named.

Harry Bridges Fired as CIO Head

WASHINGTON, March 6 —(UP) Australian-born Harry Bridges was fired as the CIO's Northern California regional director today because he bucked the CIO executive board's political and foreign policies.

His ouster, effective Monday, was announced by CIO President Philip Murray who said that Tim Flynn, member of the CIO organizing staff, will succeed him.

Bridges, who refused to resign, had openly defied Murray and the executive board by endorsing Henry A. Wallace and his third party and by denouncing the Marshall European Recovery Plan.

The board backed Murray's recommendations that the CIO oppose Wallace's third party movement and give it full support to ERP.

Security Council Orders Private Big Five Talks

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 6 —(UP)— The United Nations Security Council today ordered 10 days of private Big Five talks on the Palestine situation but refused to give immediate endorsement to the UN Partition Program.

Great Britain served notice she would boycott the talks, as announced previously in the UN, except to provide information about the Holy Land at the request of the United States, Russia, France, and China.

In withholding endorsement of partition at this stage, the 11-nation council rebuffed the professed wishes of both Russia and the United States.

But the world's two biggest powers partially made up for the defeat by pushing through a stipulation that the consultations should be aimed at "implementing" the general assembly decision to split the Holy Land. This formula was worked out at a dramatic lunch-hour conference between Andrei Gromyoko of Russia and Warren Austin of the United States. It paved the way for the council's vote.

A British spokesman announced immediately after the council adjourned that Britain would not take part in the big power talks on the same level as the others, but would merely be "on call" to furnish information.

Mississippi River Claims 13 Lives

GREENVILLE, Miss., March 6 —(UP)— The swirling Mississippi, claimed 13 lives tonight after its shifting edges flung the federal towboat Natchez against a bridge pier. The vessel sank in half a minute.

Capt. James F. Browinski of St. Louis, a native of Russia, and 12 crewmen went down with the buckling Natchez. Another 13 crewmen swam to safety or stayed afloat in the icy, wind-swept river until a following boat rescued them. They were treated for exposure and shock.

Two bodies were recovered and one was identified as that of William H. English of Cairo, Ill. Rivermen said there was only one chance in a thousand any of the missing men had survived.

It was believed to be the worst Mississippi tragedy since the steamer M. E. Norman sank on May 8, 1925, drowning 27 persons.

Truman Returns From Florida Vacation

WASHINGTON, March 6 —(UP) President Truman returned from his southland vacation today and went to work immediately on political and international problems.

Tanned and rested by his stay in Key West, Mr. Truman landed at National Airport at 2:06 p.m. (EST). Two hours later he met with his cabinet on problems which accumulated, or worsened, during his two-week absence.

The meeting lasted about an hour. Some cabinet members said it was "routine" and that "everything" was discussed.

Attorney General Tom Clark said, "we went over everything." Secretary of Defense James Forrestal said they were "brushing up on everything."

USS Pennsylvania First Ship Scuttled by U. S. Navy

COMMAR HILL—The Navy announced yesterday that the 32-year-old battleship USS Pensylvania, ex-Bikini target vessel and traditional flagship of the pre-war Pacific Fleet, was sunk by the Navy in deep water off Kwajalein atoll February 10.

The Pennsylvania, survivor of the first and second atom bomb tests, suffered hull damage which prevented her from being towed back to the United States. The ex-queen of the fleet had been kept afloat at Kwajalein for observation until it was decided to scuttle her at sea rather than run the risk of having her sunk in the lagoon where she would be a menace to navigation.

This is the first time a U. S. battleship has even been scuttled by the Navy. As opposed to sinking by the practice of bombing, torpedoing or gun fire, she was towed from the lagoon to water over half a mile deep and sunk by a crew of 16 who opened her seacocks and removed the plates from her condensers which were open to the sea. She sank two and a half hours later.

On December 7, 1941, at Pearl Harbor the Pennsylvania was hit by a Jap bomb, and on August 12, 1945, just fifty-nine hours before the official announcement of the war's end, she was struck by a Jap aerial torpedo. Between these two dates the Pennsylvania established one of the most remarkable records of any ship in the fleet.

She participated in twelve amphibious operations, she constituted a unit in our battle line in a major surface engagement, and she underwent innumerable air attacks—all without suffering serious damage.

At the beginning of the war the Pennsylvania was already over 25 years old. Her keel had been laid at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock co., in 1913. She was christened and launched in March, 1915, and was commissioned a year later. When commissioned, she

Senator Taft Against Proposal For Veto-Less 'Supreme Council'

WASHINGTON, March 6 —(UP)— Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-O.) today came out against a proposal to set up a veto-less "supreme council" outside the United Nations to meet aggression with armed forces.

Taft's opposition, together with that of Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg, appeared to doom the proposal. It was put forth by GOP "revisionists" as an amendment to the European Recovery Plan.

Doesn't Like Idea

Taft told a reporter he does not favor the idea. He said it could be done only by rewriting the UN chapter.

He said, however that he may support an amendment to the ERP bill proposing to strengthen the UN by curbing use of the big-power veto. He did not specify which suggestion along these lines he might endorse, nor has any such amendment been introduced.

But several proposals to strengthen the UN have been advanced informally by senators during ERP debate. Most of these would merely put Congress on record as asking the President to seek some means, including charter revision, of cutting down on use of the veto in the UN.

In the fifth day of debate on ERP, three Republican senators said the plan would let European nations transship American steel to Russia for use in building the soviet military machine.

Navy Succeeds In Breaking Army's Speed Record

LOS ANGELES, March 6 —(UP) The Navy today succeeded on its third attempt in a week to break the jet plane speed record from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

Cmdr. W. A. Sherrill flashed over Municipal airport in a North American FJ-1 at 2:01.10 p.m., PST, exactly 40 minutes after he took off from Mills Field, San Francisco. His time clipped two minutes and 33 seconds off the mark set two years ago by an Army P-80 jet plane.

The Navy pilot, an aircraft inspector for the Navy's bureau of aeronautics at the North American aviation plant, said he had no tail-wind on the flight.

Sherrill experienced no delay due to losing his course. Two other Navy attempts failed because pilots missed the airport and had to circle before reaching it.

USS Gen. Butner Finds Shock Victim Dead

COMMAR HILL—A radio communique from the USS Gen. Butner (AP 113) yesterday revealed that when they made a rendezvous at sea with the USNT Sebec for the purpose of taking aboard Third Asst. Engineer Leslie Cogdill, suffering from severe electrical shock, their medical officer found the man dead.

A series of radio messages Friday from the Sebec requested verbal medical assistance for Cogdill, who was hovering near death after contact with 2600 volts of electricity. Later communiques from the vessel claimed the stricken man was showing more visible signs of life and his chances for recovery were much better.

Commander Marianas arranged for the Sebec to rendezvous with the USS Gen. Butner that same evening at 5:30 p.m. for the purpose of transfering their patient. When the contact was made, Cogdill was dead.

Guam Count of Appeals Appoints Two Justices

The March session of the Court of Appeals of the Island of Guam opened Friday afternoon with the appointment of two new justices as the initial step on the court's agenda.

Bill of Rights Cited

Following a brief introductory address by Hon. Judge John C. Fischer, presiding justice, Gov. C. A. Pownall read letters of appointments and presented his nominees to the court. He also cited the Bill of Rights for the Island of Guam, after which he administered the oath to Lt. Col. Adrian W. Tolen, USA, and Mr. John W. Lewis.

After declaring their intentions to discharge their duties as justices of the Court of Appeals of Guam, the two new justices took their places at the bench.

Also on the agenda was the appointment by Gov. Pownall of Judge Pedro C. Lujan as senior judge of the Island Court of Guam. The oath was administered by Senior Judge J. C. Manibusan.

A recess was then declared to permit visitors to leave the courtroom.

General Gives Effects Of Atomic Bomb

NEW YORK —(UP)— Maj. Gen. Harold Bull, chairman of the Army's Civil Defense, gave the first detailed explanation to be issued by the Army on what an atomic attack might do to an American city.

In graphic terms, the general told a meeting at the Waldorf Astoria hotel that one A-bomb would:

1. Leave a heap of blazing rubble over an area three-quarters of a mile radius where any survival would be unlikely.

2. Create another zone two miles in radius where all frame structures would be rated, where upper floors of steel and concrete buildings would be heavily damaged and where radioactive burns would be severe and in many cases fatal.

3. Produce a third area one mile in radius where damage would be moderate, burns less severe and chances of rescuing atomic victims better.

Gen. Bull said devastation would be roughly the same in any modern American city—as great in Chicago or San Francisco as in New York.

USS Texas (BB-35)

USS Texas to Become Monument

The Battleship USS Texas is now at the Naval Shipyard, Norfolk, Virginia, being prepared to take her last sea voyage to San Jacinto, Texas, where she will become a permanent historical exhibit.

The Texas, commissioned March 12, 1914, saw fighting service in both world wars. Now 34 years old, she is considered too old for further active service.

The transfer of the ship to her name state results from a request by the people of that state under the terms of public law 649 of the 79th Congress. The transfer will be an outright gift to Texas, but the Texans will be required to maintain her in "approriate condition," and to pay all expenses of establishing her as a monument.

Tentative plans call for the ship to be towed from Norfolk on March 15, and to arrive at San Jacinto April 21. The date of arrival was specifically requested by the Texans because it is the anniversary of the day the state achieved its independence from Mexico at San Jacinto.

USS Texas first saw service with the Atlantic Fleet at Vera Cruz, Mexico, in 1914, and later, after the United States entered World War I, moved to European waters with the British Grand Fleet.

In World War II, the Texas saw action in every theater of war, starting in the summer of 1940 when she participated in the so-called "neutrality patrol" in the North Atlantic.

Trust Islands Not Self Supporting

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Rear Admiral Carleton H. Wright, deputy U. S. High Commissioner of Pacific Trust Territories, said those islands will not be self-supporting in "the foreseeable future."

He said they have only "meager" resources, most having been exhausted by the Japanese or wrecked by the war.

Wright, here to consult with Navy officials, told a press conference the islands' only value to this country is strategic.

He said before the war the Japanese were able to profit from sugar and fishing industries but that the United States could not because of difference in wage scales.

He said the budget request for the Caroline, Marshall and Marianas Islands was about $1,800,000. Total request, including Guam, is for $2,500,000 as compared with $3,000,000 last year.

He explained a reduction will be made in Guam's share because the island's revenues have increased.

Wright reported the Japanese cut many of the natives' trees for sugar fields, the war destroyed others, he said, and insects, beetles and giant snails are eating what are left.

He said the Japanese also exhausted most mineral deposits except for one "promise" of bauxite on Palau.

'Mein Kampf' in Japan

TOKYO —(UP)— Three Japanese publishers are putting out editions of Hideki Tojo's 240-page war crimes trial affidavit, which some allied observers feared might become a Japanese "Mein Kampf."

The affidavit, which reaffirms Tojo's belief that Japan was forced into a "defense war" was reported to be selling well. A Japanese official of the newsprint allocation committee said he suspected the edition might be published with black market paper.

Pilotless Plane Takes Off

NOME, Alaska —(UP)— A pilotless Aeronica champion plane took off from the local airport recently, climbed to 4,000 feet, dipped and dived over the city for about 20 minutes then headed westward toward St. Lawrence island in the Bering Sea.

Dinners spoiled and cookies burned in ovens as housewives and other residents filled the streets to witness the aerial circus.

Cyrpa H. Seeds, owner of the runaway craft, said it had about a two-hour gasoline supply when it took off on the unathorized flight.

Bill Munz, veteran Alaska bush pilot, armed with a shotgun took off in pursuit in efforts to shoot down the craft but returned after he was unable to catch the speeding plane as it winged its way over the sea.

Are Male Nudes Considered Art?

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. —(UP)— Are male nudes art? Hubert Stowitts, who paints them, says they are. Dr. Mitchel Kaufman, Beverly Hills Art Gallery director who won't exhibit them says they're not.

The question, which arose when Stowitts accused Dr. Kaufman of cancelling an exhibit of his work, was still unanswered a few days ago.

The gallery director said he offered to go ahead with the show if paintings of two male athletes were withdrawn. One painting showed a football player, the other a tennis player, both nude.

Stowitts pointed out that critics who have seen the pictures in question in other shows called him a "master of flesh." But Dr. Kaufman was unimpressed.

"Beverly Hills wouldn't stand for it," he said. "Besides, I prefer the female form."

Swedish Seaman Said To be Disappearing

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— William W. Corcoran, former U. S. diplomat in Sweden, said that so many Swedish seamen had "disappeared" along the Baltic coast that sailors now hate to make the voyage.

Corcoran, veteran consul at Gothenburg, said seamen were disappearing long before Sweden reportedly protested to Russia over loss of 18 men near Stolpmunde, Poland. They reportedly had witnessed Russian rocket experiments.

"The question is 'when will it happen outside the Baltic?'" Corcoran said. "What will happen when an American ship disappears, and what will be done about it?"

Corcoran was called a "master spy" for piecing together information to uncover Nazi rocket experiments at Peenemunde, Germany, during the war.

Navy Sinks Battleship Pennsylvania

USS Pennsylvania
Destroyers Casson and Downes in foreground.

was one of the largest and most powerful warships in the world.

The momentous morning of Sunday, December 7, 1941, found the Pennsylvania in drydock at Pearl Harbor, her screws removed and resting on the bottom of the drydock. She was one of the first ships in the Harbor to open fire and is credited with shooting down one Jap plane. The ship was hit by one bomb. Enemy planes repeatedly tried to torpedo the caisson of the drydock but without success.

The "Big P," as she is affectionately known, got her first crack at the Japs on May 11, 1943, when she steamed into waters off Attu and opened fire on Japanese installations there. Twice during the operation enemy submarines fired torpedoes at the Pennsylvania but she succeeded in maneuvering out of position.

During the operation in August to retake Kiska the "Big P," again served as flagship for Admiral Rockewell.

In November, 1943, the United States Navy started its drive across the central Pacific, a drive that was to take it within two years to Tokyo bay itself. The first objectives were the islands of Makin and Tarawa in the Gilberts. In that operation the Pennsylvania achieved a record for the number of 14 inch projectiles fired in one day.

Kwajalein, in the Marshalls, followed in January, 1944. During most of its firing mission the position of the Pennsylvania was between 1500 and 2500 yards from the beach. It was in this battle that the batteries aboard the "Big P" succeeded in doing what all gunners dream about—putting a second shell through exactly the same hole a first one went through.

Soon after Kwajalein, the Pennsylvania steamed boldly into Eniwetok lagoon, her batteries blazing away at the Japanese held islands. Engebi, a tiny island only a mile long, was completely shorn of trees and foliage by the big guns of the Pennsylvania.

In May, 1944 the "Big P" with two other battleships, the Mexico and Idaho, paid a brief visit to Sydney, Australia. The seven day stay there was the only period the Pennsylvania spent in any port, aside from an advance base, from January, 1944, when it left Pearl Harbor, until it returned in March, 1945.

During the battles for Saipan and Guam the Pennsylvania distinguished herself. It was mainly due to her concentrated firepower that the Jap airfield on Orote peninsula was wiped out. During the entire operation the "Big P" poured out a volume of fire which has probably never been equaled by any ship in any operation.

The Pennsylvania was the only battleship to take part in both the Pelelliu and Angaur operations.

The battle for Leyte Gulf was the last serious bid of the Japanese navy to regain domination of the Far Pacific. The Pennsylvania was an impregnable bastion of defense in the battle structure of our forces there. She poured merciless fire into the oncoming enemy ships, and with the others, saw to their destruction. She shot down, either by herself, or with "assists" from other ships, ten enemy planes.

Shortly after the battle of Leyte Gulf the Pennsylvania appeared in the midst of the Lingayen Gulf scrap. She bombarded the beaches for four days, till the Japs were scurrying into the hills.

After a brief overhaul in the states, the "Big P" was back throwing calling cards at Wake island, and later at Eniwetok. On August 12, 1945, while laying in Buckner Bay, Okinawa, the Pennsylvania received a torpedo in her stern, killing twenty men and wounding ten. Her material damage was only negligible. A few days later the war was over, for both the "Big P" and the world.

However, the Pennsylvania's momentous career was not over by a long shot. She played an extremely important part in both Bikini atom bomb tests. Even the A-bombs themselves failed to end the victorious old flagship of the Pacific Fleet, though she was seriously damaged.

Take Time – Check Your Accidents

Submitted by S-Sgt. Robert R. Haberman
Island Traffic Investigator

The problem of reducing the death and injured rate on the Island's highways remains a serious one in our daily life. At the present rate of traffic deaths, at least 75 persons will be killed on Guam in 1948. More than 300 will be injured. This number is comparable to the entire population of Ordot Village. It further indicates that scarcely any local family on Guam can escape the tragedy of having one or more of his relatives or close friends killed or injured during the current year in a traffic accident.

It is deemed necessary that all individuals launch a tremendous safety program throughout the Island as a result of the previous toll of deaths and injuries caused by traffic accidents. We are faced with a challenge which every motor vehicle operator should take as a personal responsibility.

A more rigid enforcement of traffic laws and regulations can be expected in the future as a result of the record for the past few months.

Every motorist is urged to remember at all times that highway safety is his personal concern. Laws and regulations will be of little avail unless the individual driver hold himself strictly accountable to his own conscience.

Wherever you are - check your driving - check your accidents! !

Japanese Charged With Rape of Two Cities

TOKYO —(UP)— The allied prosecution charged at the war crimes trial recently that Lt. Gen. Akira Muto, former chief of staff of the Japanese Army in the Philippines, was guilty of the rape of two cities—Manila and Nanking—within the span of eight years.

The prosecution said Muto also answerable for widespread similar atrocities committed throughout Asia by Japanese troops during the same period of Japanese aggression.

On Trial With Boss

Muto is on trial before the allied tribunal with his former military boss, Hideki Tojo, and other Japanese war leaders. He was Philippine Chief of Staff under Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita and formerly Vice Chief of Staff under a co-defendant, Gen. Iwane Matsui, commander in chief of the Japanese Army in central China.

Philippines Prosecutor Pedro Lopez said Muto, while in Manila, waged "a savage campaign of mass annihilation, destruction, torture and debauchery" on the innocent population which reached its climax with massacres in Batangas and the rape of Manila.

"In its sadism, its cold bloodedness, its bestiality and its wholesale madness," Lopez said, "it more striking features and followed ugly patterns set eight years earlier in the rape of Nanking."

Expert Warns Farmers Of Soil Depletion

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (U.P.) —The University of Illinois has warned farmers that big corn and soybean crops during the war years have intensified the drain of common minerals from the soil.

O. L. Winkin of the university extension staff said firing of corn in Illinois during August was due mainly to the lack of soil nitrogen, not the drought.

He estimated that in Illinois alone only 1,500,000 tons of nitrogen were returned to the land in the last five years, compared to the 3,200,000 tons removed in harvested crops.

PAN AMERICAN WORLD AIRWAYS
The System of the Flying Clippers

by Betty Bianchetto

There has recently been a Spring millinery showing of the California Millinery industry, and some 500 buyers in California. The fashion press and millinery creaters were all gathered at the Biltmore to see just what was to come from California for the spring of 1948 in the way of hats.....This was called the "California Look," and the hats for spring, 1948 sound like they are glamour personified!

Before the show, the queen of California millinery for 1948 was announced, and it was none other than that lovely star—Gracie Allen! Gracie is considered as one of the best dressed stars in Hollywood, which has always been quite an advocate of beautiful hats. Gerald Simon of the Meadowbrook Millinery Co. in San Francisco, conferred the honor upon her with a corsage of deep purple orchids..

..Manny Harmon's orchestra played her theme song, "Love Nest"..

and then Gracie made a sweet little thank you speech. After the fashion show, Gracie was called down to the center of the dance floor, which had been converted into a grass covered spring flower garden, and she was presented with an especially designed hat by each of the ten millinery designers, which incidentally, completely thrilled her.....

The ten manufacturers each showed six designs in hats. The models all wore especially created Lynn Lester black silk faille dresses with long black gloves, which was a perfect background for the lavish collection of hats.

Ruby Ross displayed a profile bonnet in black baku straw with a black velvet chin strap and a glycerined ostrich feather to one side. She, also, showed hats in shantung, pallison, and piconal straw. Phil Strann displayed a tuscan rippled lacey brim tuscan straw with a wreath of field flowers and royal blue velvet streamers.

Susy Lee called her collection a Springtime Symphony with spring names for each hat. One of these was a bandeau milan sailor hat in moss green, which had white lilacs framing the face. Most of her hats were lavishly wrapped with chenille dotted veiling.

Gerry Simon's Meadowbrook Millinery Co. displayed some extravagant large floral trimmed milan hats. Some with lilacs, others with red silk poppies and a gay 90's sailor was in gold flecked pink candy straw. Dan Levin, also, from San Francisco, had a picture hat in black swiss hair braid, and trimmed with taffeta pom pom roses.

Weyman Bros. now have the famous designer Mr. Josephi as their designer, and he certainly came up with some radical new styles that received a tremendous hand. One hat was a tear-drop milan beret, which fits over one ear with just a band over the top of the head. His hats were also trimmed with flowers and ribbon.

Yvonne, who makes very Frenchy type hats, showed real flirtation hats complete with parasols. One was a black tuscan tailor hat with cascades of jewelled black chantilly lace, trimmed with braid and topped by pink velvet roses. The parasol was pink maline covered with the chantilly lace, trimmed with braid, and topped by a pink rose. The model even wore black mitts.

Grace Nugent, who is famous for her exotic creations, showed among her collection, a green leaf covered sailor trimmed with field flowers, banded by a tan felt fence complete with a swinging garden gate in front, and streamers of blue veiling.

Leslie James showed some exquisite black and pink creations. One, especially, was a rippled brim black lacey swiss braid with pink silk roses; pink nylon net, and then covered with black nylon mesh.

Caspar-Davis was the last in the show, and his Gibson Girl sailor of black braid and tiger lily roses was a sensation. But then, as I understand it, all the hats in the show were, and all the Californians were proud of their California designers, and the "California Look."

American Girls Fight Back Fast

by Natalie Knight
United Press Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)— A group of the prettiest girls in America today challenged British anthropologist Dr. Eric J. Dingwall to prove his "insulting" statements that American women have unhappy love lives and keep slim merely because they secretly want to be men.

"A horrid old man who apparently hasn't been around much," is the way they described Dr. Dingwall.

That was after he announced he was writing a book tahat "dissected the American woman—mentally, physically and psychologically."

Cult of Slim Figure

He said that the "cult of the slim figure" is related to desire to be a man" and suggested that the American woman would have a happier sex life if she patterned her outlook after her European counterpart.

San Francisco models threw down the gauntlet to Dr. Dingwall.

"We challange the good doctor to come over here and say that," said Lilli Ann model Linn Biron, who barnstormed to Paris and back last fall with the San Francisco fashion show.

"First of all," said Miss Biron, obviously perturbed, "American women strive to keep proportioned bodies because men have said we're more attractive to them that way. Of course men set our standards of beauty. Who does the doctor think we're trying to look nice for?"

Miss Biron pointed out that the American male likes to join the distaff side "on the golf course, in the swimming pool and all other sports."

"That makes for slim figures—all the better to wear clothes with," she said.

Happy Sex Life

"And as for our sex life, look at the great number of married couples in the United States. And you know they must be happy, otherwise they get divorces.

The girls were little short of furious about Dingwall's claim that the United States is suffering from a "bosom mania."

"We just think a normal healthy bust measurement means we are healthier. Good health is the first step to beauty. How would we look all around-shouldered and slumped over. We're not overdoing it. we're just standing upright," Miss Biron said.

"If that's the way men want us, that's the way they'll get us," she concluded.

Baby Sitting Rules Ban Raids on Icebox

FLEMINGTON, Pa. (U.P.) — The local Woman's Club has organized a baby-sitters bureau to establish uniform procedure and wage rates plus a doctrine that forbids indiscriminate "icebox raiding."

The club bureau, which registers all high school girls seeking employment as baby-sitters, also frowns on the entertaining of company while on the job.

The club members agree, however, that evening sitters should be taken home and some refreshments provided.

Basic wage rates are 35 cents an hour for day work, 25 cents an hour for night duty up to midnight and 50 cents an hour thereafter.

Hollywood Highlights

by Patricia Clary
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— After 35 years of movie making, Wallace Beery has met his waterloo.

Beery has stuck his head in a tiger's mouth. He has ridden horses over cliffs. He has tangled with a grizzly bear. He even wrestled with Man Mountain Dean.

"But now," he groaned, "I've met Carmen Miranda."

The 98-pound, 5-foot bit of feminine fluff is leading him around, and she has Beery stepping lively —literally.

The two are the dance team of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "A Date With Judy." Beery has to rhumba with Miranda, and Miranda sees that Beery keeps right with the script, every foot of it.

"I used to get to the studio at nine," Beery said. "Now I have to be here at eight. Then Carmen and I rehearse, an hour every morning."

After that come more rehearsals on the set for lighting and camera angles. And then the scene itself.

No Peace for Beery

"It'll only be eight minutes on the screen, but those eight minutes represent me agonizing for 10 days and 10 nights," Beery said. "I don't even get any peace when I get home, y'see. Carmen roped my daughter in on this. So she grabs me after dinner and we rhumba all evening."

Beery has already rhumbaed through two dozen records, a pair of shoes, the living room rug, and daughter Carol Ann's toes.

"I'm sort of outa practice when it comes to the love-stuff," Beery admitted sheepishly. "I'm used to being the tough guy. Seems like all my tenderness, these days, is in my feet."

"Nonsense!" Miss Miranda squealed. "That beeg man, he ees a fake. He dances like the angel. And his keeses....Like the devil himself."

Music Spotlights

by Jack Mealer

My friend, Ed Simmons, promised you a real treat from the column this week, I only hope I don't disappoint both of you. To begin with, my favorites are Stan Kenton, June Cristy and Mel Torme. Anything they do on wax is all right with me. I'll try to give you my idea of the latest in jazz, bebop and swing from the states.

Those of you who have seen "The Jolson Story" have witnessed the birth, or rebirth of the Jazz tribute to the daddy of the mammies, the picture brought the rich, and old alike. Al, a young man of full voice of Al Jolson back to the hearts of Americans young some 60 years has made as big a hit with the teen-age set of today with "The Anniversary Song" as he did with their parents singing "Swannee," "Mammy" and "Sonny Boy." He was a popular singer in the days when you had to sing and he wonders what some of today's singers would do without the mike in front of them. He especially appreciates Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra and Dick Haymes for their phrasing, resonance and all-round ability. No doubt about it, we have a new and talented star on our hands and if he gets the breaks he might become famous.

In the past few years there have been many new and original ideas that have found an out in radio but none to compare with the disk jockey. The disk jockey, needle nudger, platter pusher, tune twister, record reeler, etc., has spun himself into one of the most talked about spots in radio. Coming as a breath of fresh air to the soap operas, news casters, quiz masters and political commentators, he can make or break a young hopeful. He can assure a singer that his or her record will hit the million mark or promise that a song will be number one of the Hit Parade. He has in his hands the power to bring into view of J. Q. Public, jazz, bebop, sweet swing or the latest vocal fashion. But his accepted vocation is that of answering requests, giving birthday greetings, issuing a little informal patter and giving with one to 25 commercials in periods ranging from 15 minutes to three or four hours.

You might recognize a few of these, they heard from coast to coast. Symphony Sid, Art Ford, Fred Robbins, Lou Marcelle, Al Jarvis, Hank the Night Watchman, "Pops" Whiteman and many others combine to make todays radio listening a great deal better.

The horn, better known to most as Mr. Betty Grable, has followed the trend of so many band leaders now-a-days by forming a new band. Harry has put aside the lush and plush that were so typical of his band in the last few years to play the same type horn that kept his original band jumping back in '39. Harry, his horn and band take off on some old favorites like "King Porter Stomp," "Flash" and "Indiana" along with some newer, more modern music.

James says the reason for this change is that he used to have problems that worried him and when you are worried you don't feel like playing, and certainly can't play good jazz. Another thing is the new band. They are a bunch of kids with "the spirit," it inspires him. "I couldn't help playing a better horn with a group like that behind me," says James. Harry thinks he has one of the best rhythm sections in the country and with men like Corky Corcoran, tenor sax; Buddy Combine, drums; Pinky Savitt, trumpet and Ziggy Elmer, trombone playing along with him we will have to agree.

LATEST AND BEST —— Here are a few of the latest records by the best in the music field. DICK HAYMES—"Thats All I Want To Know," and "With The Roses In Her Hair." Dick does better on these two than he has in quite some time with Gordon Jenkins accompaniment making it complete. STAN KENTON—"Tuxedo Junction" is the best side of this platter with an arrangement by Pete Rugolo that leaves room for some fine bop solos by Art Pepper's alto. June Cristy does "I Told Ya" in a style that doesn't come better up to her records. GENE KRUPA—"I May Be Wrong" and "Please Don't Play Number Six Tonight." The first number is by far the better and some of the best work that Gene has done to date. Mr. Krupa is fast regaining the name in music that he had around 1942. ANITA O'DAY sings "What Is This Thing Called Love" and "Boot Whip" on a Signature waxing that is well worth listening to.

Well we will 30 this edition of Music Spotlights until next week when we hope you will be with us again.

Monseigneur Oscar L. Calvo

Thumbnail Sketches

Editor's Note —— This is the sixth in a series of Sunday "Thumbnail Sketches" briefly portraying the lives of Island personalities. Text by George W. Wilbur, GUAM NEWS Island Editor. Artist sketches by Mr. J. C. Johnston.

As the only Guamanian priest on the Island, the very Rev. Monseigneur L. Calvo is a dynamic little man whose every minute is occupied with the obligations of his faith and the pressing needs of his people for guidance in their spiritual, personal and civic affairs.

Born in Agana August 2, 1915, Father Calvo gained his elementary education in the local schools. When 13 years old he left Guam to travel to Manila, where he stayed until 1941 studying his faith under Spanish and American Jesuit fathers.

After returning to his home Island Father Calvo was ordained a priest at the Agana cathedral on April 5th, 1941.

When the war struck a great load descended on the young priest. All the American missionaries had been taken to Japan by the Nipponese and he was one of the only two native priests left on Guam. They split the Island in two sections and administered to the needs of their people in the respective areas. Father Calvo tramped on foot, rode carabao, rode bicycle etc. in order to make the rounds in Agana and the complete north end of the Island.

Father Calvo has done much in the erection of post-war churches for his people. He was pastor of the Sinajana parish until January, 1947, and since then has administered the faith to the occupants of Inarajan and Talofofo. Clearly a civic leader as well as religious, he is a member of numerous community organizations and an aspirant of any move that will benefit Guam and his people.

Chats About Guam....

Editor's Note — The following is the first in a series of articles by Mrs. Agueda Johnston about places, people and things on Guam which are believed to be of general interest. This weekly feature will be highlighted as "Chats about Guam."

by Mrs. Agueda Johnston

The Adelup Point school is located on top of the little hill facing Coontz Junction and the entrance to the road leading to Commander Marianas.

There are many interesting stories or legends connected with this rocky point. In days gone by, it was the abode of the ancient Taotaomona (people who came first). It was said that men walking without heads were seen under the thick banyan trees and thorny pandanus leaves usually before the rising or after the setting of the moon. Travelers in the wee hours of the night often dreaded to pass by Adelup Point in going to or from Agana, for they were almost sure to see or hear something that would give them the goose pimples. A creaking sound, the rolling of heavy pieces of coral down the sides of the hill (as if someone was trying to hit the passersby), would frighten even the ox that was pulling the cart until he refused to go any farther, leaving the rider or the passengers on the cart to tremble or to become speechless with fright. One swing of the whip, however, and a word too hard to spell would send the animal flying from the abominable spot. In the meantime, a big white bundle would be seen rolling from one side of the road to the other until it disappeared among the brush. Of course all these peculiar experiences would only be seen or heard by those who believed in ghosts or Taotaomona, and those who did not believe were either disappointed or equally as scared.

It was presumed that the Achang family felt that they could do something with the place by clearing down part of the jungle and perhaps sending away the Taotaomona to some other areas. So a home was built on one part of the point.

"Taotaomona, you know, could be befriended and could be very useful. For instance, those who had Taotaomona for their "guachong" (companions) could work all day long and carry the heaviest burdens without any difficulty or being fatigued," said an authority on the subject.

Perhaps Mr. Achang had also in mind the possibility of making use of some of the powers of the invisible super-human beings, when he decided to move his family to Adelup point and to farm there. For awhile living was very easy. The crevices and holes in the rocks were full of large coconut crabs, some weighing as much as twenty-five pounds. The land at the foot of the hill was good for farming, and the ocean around the point had always an abundance of all kinds of fish, crabs and clams.

But some kind of sickness overtook the Achang family and several members died. Immediately the blame of the tragedy was placed on the Taotaomona, and the family moved out of the point as fast as their animals could carry them and their personal belongings. The place was then known as "Puntan Anite," or "Devil's Point,"—a name which did not increase its popularity as a residence. Years later, Puntan Anite became a wonderful subject for all kinds of bedtime stories. Sometimes the visitor or listener was forced to spend the night at a friend's house rather than go home alone with all the weird and spooky tales still fresh in his mind.

It was not until the year 1901 that the Devil's Point was again occupied. This time, ironically, by two Congregational Missionaries from Boston, whose names were Rev. E. M. Price and his son-in-law, Rev. Logan. Two big buildings were erected for the missionaries and their families, and three others were built for school and dwellings for the families whose children attended the school—the first Protestant missionary school on Guam. For three years the school was conducted until Rev. Price was unfortunately struck with paralysis of the brain and had to be sent home. He was then relieved by Rev. Case until the year 1907 when the Congregational mission board in Boston decided to give up the mission in Guam.

Several years later, the Baptist mission in Oakland City, Indiana decided to take over the mission work started by the former missionaries, and Rev. Arthur U. Logan, assisted by his wife was sent out. By this time, the point became Missionary Point; but Rev. Logan thought the place was too far for the congregation, so with the approval of the members, the two remaining buildings were moved to Agana. The Missionary Point was then offered for sale to any member of the Baptist mission for the price of $200.00, but since no one was interested, it was sold to a captain of a Navy tug boat for $300.00. Later it was bought by Captain Bisset of the station ship, USS SUPPLY. Captain Bisset sold the lower part of the point to Mr. Antonio Cruz, and the high rocky part toward the ocean side to Atkins Kroll and Co. whose manager built the big reenforced concrete building on the highest part of the cliff. But before it was completed, tragedy still lingered. Atkins Kroll and Company's big store and warehouse at Agana caught fire and was burned to the ground. A few minutes later, the manager of the company and builder of the pretentious mansion at Missionary Point was found dead behind Pigu cemetery—shot thru the head with a pistol—possibly suicide.

Fascinated by the beauty of the location, Governor and Mrs. H. L. Shapley transformed the building into a beautiful summer home, and appropriately rechristened the whole hill "Siesta Point." Upon and around the hill, other houses were built by Mr. Cruz who rented them to officers of the station and their families.

Siesta Point retained its name until December 10, 1941, when it, again, became the Devils' (plural) Point. After having been occupied and heavily looted by the invading Japanese Army officers, the whole area was turned over to the civilian Japanese government. The Governor lived in the summer house, while members of his staff and other officers occupied the other houses.

The influence of the "co-prosperity sphere for greater East Asia" took sway. "Tea parties," "cocktail parties," "bridge parties," and other American social expressions were replaced by "saki," "miso," "sasine," "banzai," etc. Dining tables were remodeled by having the legs cut off so that the tables would be about one foot from the floor upon which were placed chair cushions for the proud conquerors to sit on "M" fashion inhaling their food and beverages with audible gusto, stopping now and then to squint at one another with expressed assurance, "ah, we are here to stay! Or "this, is my garden now!"

About January, 1944, activities at Devils' Point increased. As thick and as busy as ants, little fellows were seen digging here and there —"for typhoon shelter," said a friendly Japanese officer, as he pointed to the men, the newly dug cave in which to store ammunitions and other supplies; while over the caves, machine guns were being planted for "maneuvers," another propagandist would attempt assurance. Simultaneously, alerts or "brack-outs" (black-outs) took place one after another, the intervals becoming closer and closer, until June 11, 1944, when things began to pop loose at the Devils' Point. Heavy bombing and shelling by Uncle Sam's aerial and surface forces plastered the point until it was a completely unrecognizable shamble. About forty days later the Third Marine division followed by the Fifth CB brigade and the inevitable bulldozer changed the appearance of the place in a night. Over the old concrete foundation the Fifth Brigade built the first officers' club in Guam after the occupation. Upon the rest of the area were built quonset huts for headquarters and offices of the Brigade. The officers' club went over the cliff during a recent typhoon, but the concrete foundation still remains. The quonset huts have been taken over by the department of education for headquarters, offices and classrooms of a central elementary school attended by children living in the many scattered housing areas, or by Guamanian children who live near by or can get transportation and wish to attend this school instead of the school in their own villages.

The point has resumed its original name, and the school is called "Adelup Point School." It is located on one of the most beautiful spots on Guam. "Adelup" means "Look Before You Leap." On some parts of the point it is advisable not to leap at all but just to look.

Summer Vacation '48' Will Entail Numerous Hardships

by Leo Turner
United Press Staff correspondent

NEW YORK —(UP)— Most people remember those pre-war summers when they piled into the family sedan loaded with luggage and fishing rods, drove all day and maybe an hour or so after dinner, and then found a room waiting for them to spend the night.

It's about time to start thinking about this year's vacation, but it might be well to think twice.

Tourist agencies and automobile clubs predict there will be more people going places this summer than ever before. The chief interest is in a "cheap vacation." Those who have the money to loll in luxury will find plenty of room.

But if you're an average American vacationist, you had better reduce your estimate of how many miles you can drive your car in one day, and figure on stopping around 4 or 5 p. m. to look for a place to spend the night.

More Cars on Road

There will be 7,000,000 more automobiles on American highways this summer than during the war. The total registration for 1944 was 30,379,450 vehicles. On Jan. 1, 1948, it had reached 37,164,450. There'll be more people getting a new car for this year's vacation than any year since the war.

The petroleum industry is wondering if it can meet the vacation demand. Not only are there more automobiles, but the consumption per car is up 300 gallons a year because the bulk of the nation's privately-owned vehicles are pre-war models. The industry also points to the competition for summer fuel from farm tractors, now twice the number as in the last year before the war.

If you are considering indulging in the old American custom of taking a look at the scenic beauty of some national park, the forest service expects 20,000,000 other people to have the same idea.

Heat Will Tell

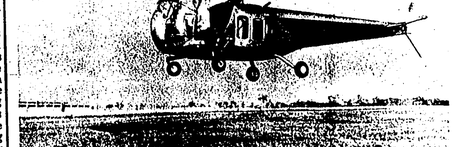
The severe winter which extended the farthest south in 27 years made a bad dent in winter resort trade-estimates range from 18 to 30 per cent fewer customers than a year ago—but the hotter the summer, the more people are expected to take to the road.

Civilian Amputees Exceed Military

CHICAGO —(UP)— The increase of civilian amputees during World War II exceeded military amputees by a ratio of nearly seven to one, according to Dr. Henry H. Kessler, Newark, N. J.

"Approximately 120,000 civilians lost their limbs as a result of accident, disease or congenital deformity during this period, Kessler said. The total of military casualties suffering amputations was 18,000."

In a study published by the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, Kessler said there are 7,000,000 severely handicapped persons in the United States today.



HELICOPTER FEATURES "SPLIT CANOPY"—The U. S. Navy has ordered 12 new model Bell helicopters, designated HTL-2, and featuring a "split canopy" for fair weather use and to facilitate special operations. Over The Joepot

by Bill Jury

Down at the Palm Beach smoker the other night we happened to meet a fighter from 'Frisco named Jack Dickinson. Jack was hanging around the dressing room before the bouts seeing if he could scrape up an exhibition match for the evening with some middleweight and we heard him mention something about fighting pro in the past.

He's working with a construction firm down at the southern end of the Island, but he gave us the impression that fighting was his first love. The kid is 23-years-old now. Some years ago he fought in 'Frisco rings as an amatuer out of Vallejo, California, his home town.

In 19 amatuer bouts the blond, well-built, Californian dropped only six. One of his defeats came in the '45 San Francisco Golden Gloves on a TKO when the boy he was matched with opened an old gash over his left eye. It wasn't the first time he'd had trouble with that injury and it's caused him trouble in scraps some 16 different times.

He turned professional after his 19th fight as an amatuer and went on to hang up a string of 21 victories with two losses as a pro.

Ensign Yoakum, welfare and recreation officer at the Naval Supply Center, was handling the fights at the Palm Beach Arena when Dickinson asked him if there was a chance of fighting an exhibition affair. Yoakum was in desperate need of a fighter to fill Bob Gatlin's place in the sixth match so he grabbed Dickinson but quick and paired him with Wellice Talton. The exhibition went smoothly the first round with Dickinson boring into Talton and showing plenty of know-how, but a couple of Talton's punches found the Californian's eye and by the end of the second round the old injury had opened up and the fight was called before further damage was done.

The likeable Dickinson is plenty keen on finding a spot on some of the local fight cards and may be snatched up by Uncle Bill Lujan and the Poseo gang, but his eye is liable to give him some more trouble. "I've gotten used to fighting in close, and it seems as if somebody always bumps my eye with his shoulder before too many rounds have passed." Dickinson grinned and then added, "I guess I'll have to get out of that habit."

That might be a smart idea as the Paseo fighters will be the first to notice the wide red scar over his left eye and it won't take them long to "bump it with their shoulders."

Gon Ladrazo Returning to Guam; Will Meet Baby Freddie at Paseo Friday

Gon Ladrazo, the Philippine flash, will return to Guam next Friday when he meets Baby Freddie in the 10-round headliner on a five-bout card at the Paseo de Susana. Though billed as the headliner, it is debatable whether the fight or the long awaited drawing for the three new autos will attract more people.

The long legal battle to determine whether lotteries are lawful has been won, and the raffle will come off immediately following the main event.

Ladrazo, who has won in all three of his fights in the local ring, will meet Freddie in what is touted as a warmup for a Ladrazo-Campo battle coming up next month. Freddie, in his last Paseo fight, messed around to an eight-round draw with Ivan Jones in February.

In the semi-finals, Flashy Ben, brother of Lujan's imported articles, will go six rounds with Harold Herashiki. Ben, a featherweight, is rated on a par with Freddie and Campo—both popular performers in the local garden. Filipino Young Teddy will meet Welterweight Russ Conklin in a five-round special event.

Ricky Turncap and Dick Young will clash in a rematch of a TKO which was booed long and loud last month. Turncap won in the first round when Referee Greek Lekanidas stopped the bout. Lekanidas ended the proceedings because, in his opinion, Young was not able to defend himself.

Jack Dickinson, former West Coast middleweight, tangles with Earl Boulder for three rounds in the preliminary.

Aussies Boast of 16-Year-Old Swimmer

MELBOURNE, Australia —(UP) Australia, which has turned out several swimmers in the past, is confident that John Marshall will become a world champion at the age of 16, and thus emulate the feats of their two former stars, Frank Beaurepaire and A. "Boy" Charlton.

Marshall will be Australia's main hope of annexing the 1,500 meters title at the Olympic games.

During the 1947 season, the 16-year-old star carried off four Australian National Championship titles—the 220, 440, 880, and 1,650 yards. Australian swimming authorities decided to send him on a tour to the United States, to enable him to compete against the top-flight tank stars there.

This, however, met with strong disapproval of his coach, Ted Donnelly, who expressed the opinion that the youngster would "burn" himself out and thus jeopardize his chances in the London Games.

Basketball Tournament Selection Committees In Frenzy Over Undecided Quintets

NEW YORK, March 5 —(UP)— Selection committees for two national basketball tournaments were in a double-breasted dither tonight because teams eligible to compete in both can't decide which one of the "pop-shot" derbies to enter.

The principal problem children are the violent Violets of New York University and the calcupatin' cowboys of Oklahoma A&M. Both can have National Invitational Tournament bids, but instead probably will pay in the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet-provided they qualify.

N.Y.U., last college team in the nation to meet defeat when they were beaten Monday night by Notre Dame, 64-59, was given an invitational offer before that game. However, the Violets haven't accepted and it seems that they will take their chances on getting into the N.C.A.A. Eastern finals. That means they may have to play Columbia, likewise beaten only once this season, and should they lose, they would be out of tournament consideration entirely.

The same situation prevails with the cowboys, one of the cream teams of the nation with 24 victories and 3 defeats, who want to represent the Missouri Valley in the N.C.A.A. meet.

But in order to do that A&M must play Kansas State, winner of the Big Seven Conference race and a victory over the cowboys early in the season. Should Kansas State win again, in the playoff game at Kansas City, Mo., March 15, it would represent the area in the N.C.A.A and A&M would be out altogether.

Asa S. Bushnell, chairman of the National Invitational Tournament selection committee, is expected to announce one or two additional teams for that meet after tonight's double header at Madison Square Garden. Three of the four teams playing, Long Island University with 16 victories and 4 defeats, City College of New York (16-3) and Muhlenberg of Allentown, Pa., (17-3) are red-hot tournament possibilities.

Long Island opposes Muhlenberg in one game and the winner is almost certain to be asked to the invitational. City plays Lafayette (11-8) in the other game and might get a bid by winning, provided that N.Y.U. flatly scorns the invitational.

Maula's One-Hitter Halts Brigade

Bob Maula turned in a brilliant pitching performance on the Fifth Service diamond yesterday to stop the six game winning streak of the 1st Marine Brigade, 3 to 1. Maula gave up one hit in the first inning and then settled down to keep the Brigade men in check.

Ed McClard, losing pitcher for the Brigade, allowed only two hits but had little support from the field when the Leathernecks got men in scoring position.

The Brigade scored their only run in the first inning on a hit and two errors and held the one run lead until the last of the fourth.

A walk and an error allowed the Leathernecks to tie the score at one all and then in the last of the sixth, two errors, a walk and a hit cost the Brigade two more runs and a defeat at the hands of the Leathernecks from Fifth Service.

The Fifth Service boys have a mascot now and since they've inaugurated their pal "Duke," a dog, they've won four games. If you see a sign beware of mad dog, maybe you'd better take care, for the dog has yet to see defeat.

Lesnevich Whips Fox to Canvas

NEW YORK, March 6 —(UP)— Veteran Gus Lesnevich kept his world light heavyweight championship tonight by knocking out Blackjack Billy Fox of Philadelphia at 1:53 of the first round tonight before more than 18,000 fans in Madison Square Garden.

The 33-year-old champion floored the 22-year-old Negro challenger twice with terrific straight rights to the jaw. When on the floor the second time, Fox gamely tried to struggle to his feet but his knees caved beneath him and he sprawled sideways onto the canvas as Referee Frankie Fullam counted him out.

When Fox hit the deck the first time, earlier in the round, he menaged to regain his feet at the count of seven. He was still groggy from the explosive blow on the chin, and he became a quick victim of the same dynamic champion who established a Garden knockout record by belting out Heavyweight Melio Bettina in 59 seconds last year.

Lesnevich finished young Fox tonight with much more dispatch than he did in their previous title bout last Feb. 28, when he scored a technical kayo over Billy in 2:19 of the 10th round. That February defeat was the only one on Fox's record until tonight. Fox had entered the bright patch of ring light tonight boasting the most remarkable record in pugilistic history—50 knockouts in 51 professional fights. Because of that Feb. triumph, and because of four straight victories last year, Lesnevich had been a 13-5 favorite at fight time tonight.

Track, Field Stars In Garden Finale

NEW YORK, March 6 —(UP)— America's stars of track and field will make their final Madison Square Garden appearance this season tomorrow night in the invitation and open events of the New York Knights of Columbus Meet.

There wasn't a sure winner in the field of famous entrants, and it was anybody's guess what would turn out to be the feature event.

There was the 600 yard run matching A.A.U. Champion Dave Bolen, Herb McKenley, holder of the world's quarter-mile record, George Gaida of Villanova, former National Champion Hugh Short, and three other starts. This was regarded as the race most likely to produce near-record time.

The 1,000 yard run will draw attention as the "rubber match" between New York U.'s Reggie Pearman and Seton Hall's Phil Thivpen, who have beaten each other once this year. There will be four other starters in this event, including Joe Nowicki of the New York A. C., last year's winner.

The mile is expected to turn into a duel between Intercollegiate Champion Gerry Karver of Penn State and A.A.U. Champion Tommy Quinn of the New York A.C. John Twomey, Browning Ross and Bill Hulse will be the other starters.

Headlined in the two-mile are Curtis Stone, former Penn State star and Horace Ashenfelter of Penn State, who supplanted Stone as I.C. 4-A champion. Their duel might drive the time down near nine minutes—a figure unreached since Greg Rice retired.

Bowling Green Accepts Garden Invitation To Complete Card

BOWLING GREEN, O., March 6 —(UP)— Bowling Green State University tonight accepted a bid to compete in the Madison Square Garden Invitational Basketball Tournament, filling the slate for the court classic.

It will be the fourth time the small Ohio school has competed in the tournament. Bowling Green this season compiled a record of 27 wins in 32 contests.

Coach Harold Anderson, who accepted the invitation by long-distance telephone, said he will take 12 of his players to the Garden for the game.

Inquest of Baroudi's Death Resumes

CHICAGO, March 5 —(UP)— The inquest of a "blue ribbon" coroner's jury into the death of Prizefighter Sam Baroudi Feb. 21 resumes Thursday at the county morgue.

It was probable the hearing would end after this session, but the jury recommendations probably will not be made for some time.

The jury was expected to recommend many revisions in state laws governing boxing and in methods of operation of the state boxing commission.

Baroudi died of brain injuries suffered in a bout with Ezzard Charles.

Bob Lemon Makes Good On Third Opportunity

NEW YORK —(UP)— Opportunity, according to advertisement, knocks only once, but it made an an exception in Bob Lemon's case and rapped three times.

Lemon, currently labeled the Cleveland Indians' number two pitcher behind Bob Feller, had two previous trails with the tribe as an infielder and an outfielder and muffed both ingloriously. As a last resort, Manager Lou Boudreau sent the 27-year-old Californian to the pitchers, mound and found that he had come up with perhaps the most promising hurler in the American League.

Lemon received his first real opportunity in the spring of 1946 when he reported to the Indians' training camp at Clearwater, Fla., following his discharge from the Navy.

The Indians tried him at third but didn't belong there because of his habit of flinching on sapplybelted ground balls.

Singular Success

Boudreau, bent on giving Lemon a second opportunity, called Bob aside one day and asked him whether he would like to try the outfield. Figuring he had little or nothing to lose, Lemon said "sure." At first, the experiment look like a singular success.

The speedy Lemon came up with a few timely and spectacular catches and covered considerable ground. At the plate, however, he was impotence personified. Then came Bob's third opportunity, a chance as relief pitcher at the tail-end of 1946. His showing was only a mediocre one and at the conclusion of the 1946 campaign, Cleveland unsuccessfully attempted to valve the discouraged jack-of-three—trades out of the league.

In Desperation

In desperation, Boudreau turned Lemon over to Coach Bill McKechnie at the beginning of 1947.

"See what you can do with him," Boudreau said wearily.

Last July, with Boudreau desperate for hurling help, Lemon was given a chance to start a game. He lasted less than six innings against Boston but Cleveland won the game. From that point on, he won nine games and finished with a record of 11 and five.

Cast of Dodger Holdouts Signs

NEW YORK —(UP)— Catcher Bruce Edwards, last of the Brooklyn Dodgers' holdouts, signed his 1948 contract after effecting a compromise with President Branch Rickey, the Dodger office announced recently.

Edwards, who received approximately $7,500 last season was seeking almost double his salary but it was understood that he capitulated for about $10,000. The catcher signed at Vero Beach, Florida, after arriving from his Sacramento, California, home. He was the final Dodger to sign.

Big Bill Clancy Dies

UTISKANY, N. Y. —(UP)— William "Bill" Clancy, 69, former big league baseball star and one of the New York State's outstanding diamond performers 40 years ago, is dead.

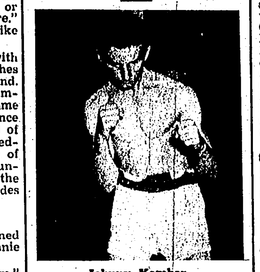
Began in 1898

Clancy began his baseball career in 1898 as a pitcher in Utica. He played first base with the Pittsburgh club of the National League in 1905 and later managed Montreal in the International League.

Clancy also saw diamond service with Rochester and Buffalo International League clubs and with Oakland in the Pacific Coast League.

Kamber Shooting For Crump's Title

George Crump, now minus his chin whiskers, will make the first defense of his mythical Island featherweight title tomorrow night when he meets Johnny Kamber in a scheduled five round bout at the Harmon Field Arena.



Johnny Kamber

Though there is no such thing as an official Island title, Crump won the closest thing to it—the Golden Gloves championship—last November when he beat Kamber in the semifinals and then won over Francisco Talamera in an anticlimactic finals bout. Crump the idol of the Army and MarBo No. 1 boy, and Kamber WesPac bantamweight champ, have clearly shown that they are the class of the 127 pounder on the Island.

Kamber, and every Navy fan on the Island, have been clamoring for a rematch ever since the first bout between the two in November, but Crump's traveling with different ring teams has prevented it. Immediately after the Golden Gloves tourney here, the team traveled to Tsingtao, China, where Crump won the Western Pacific featherweight crown. Within two weeks after his return, Crump was off again for Honolulu for the Army Inter-Command championships, where he was defeated in the semifinals by the ultimate champion.

Ever since November, Kamber has been training for a rematch—and the All Navy Tourney—and has won impressive kayo's in bouts around the Island the past few weeks.

Should Kamber win, the "series" would stand with one victory each, but it is unlikely that there will be time for a rubber bout before the local All Navy tournament starts on the 20th of this month.

against it.

Even the moderate owner and the bigger stables have to buck almost overwhelming odds to come up with a stakes winner. Last year, out of the 18,000 horses raced in North America in an estimated 24,800 races, only 324 were stake winners—about one out of every 55.

The Annual Stakes Winners, supplement to the Blood Horse, national breeding journal, revealed that there were 504 stakes races run during 1947, carrying $8,767,744 in added money. There were 301 on the flat and 23 over jumps and they represented 2.04 per cent of all the races run but totaled some 16 per cent of all the money distributed by racing associations during the year.

Of the 324 horses who were good enough to win stakes, Kentucky produced 157. California was next with 44, while 29 were bred in Canada; 23 in Virginia; 19 in Maryland; 12 in Texas; eight in Cuba; six in New Jersey and four in Washington. Indiana, Kansas, Ohio and Pennsylvania had one each. Six came from Argentina, three from Ireland, two from England and one from Chile.

The vast majority of the stakes—427—were run in the United States but the statistics also included 45 in Canada, 17 in Mexico and 15 in Cuba.

Small Time Horse Has Little Chance Of Taking Stakes

NEW YORK —(UP)— Whether he races thoroughbreds for a living or simply for a thrill, every horse owner dreams of the day when the "big horse" in his stable joins the ranks of the stakes winners.

Actually, the little fellow campaigning on the leaky roof circuits with three or four platers, hasn't much chance. Most of the horses which wind up in his barn are on the way out. They may have been big times once—just short of stakes company—but all they can do by the time they hit the half milers is pick up an occasional overnight purse.

But there is always the chance that he may grab a young horse capable of following the path of Stymie or Alsab, despite the fact that the percentages weigh heavily against him.

If Johnny wins the featherweight title in local All Navy competition—and he appears a sure thing—his time would be occupied in training for Western Pacific eliminations in April.

Eight preliminaries have been lined up for the card, which will start at 2000.

Fraley Presents Facts and Figures On Sport Notes

by Oscar Fraley
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK —(UP)— Fearless Fraley's Facts and Figures:

Baseball is an unpredictable business, as any "expert" who tries to pick the pennant winners will tell you, but it's hard to believe Deacon Branch Rickey when he professes amazement that the Dodgers won the National League pennant last season.

Brother Branch's theory is that Dem Bums used too many players last season and that a winner should have one set lineup. His figures illustrate that the Dodgers used 155 starting lineups and 43 players, including 19 pitchers, three catchers, 10 infielders and 13 outfielders, three players doubling.

"The overall conclusion I reach is that we should have finished far down in the league," Rickey claimed.

It also points up, to the distress of the rest of the league, the depth and versatility of the Dodger band....

Little Ben Hogan seems to have missed the green when he claimed he isn't making much money, what with expenses eating up all his tournament profits. If he didn't stay on top in the tournament game would he have had earnings last year of $75,000.. Maybe we oughta take up a collection...

Conversation Corner: By using its sensitive tail as a guide, the pocket gopher can run down his hole backwards almost as fast as he can forwards...sounds like a rookie pitcher....

Tubby Congress Members Take it Easy in Senate Gym

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The door marked "Private" in the winding tunnel under the Senate office building leads to a "fat" man's Eden.

It's the hand-wrought gate to the congressional gymnasium, so to speak—the most exclusive athletic club in the world. And the cheapest. Dues, $5 a year for new equipment.

But it's not the kind of muscle shop where the trainer lines up chubby citizens and makes 'em grunt and groan and sweat and stew and cuss until they wear down to like Gregory Peck of the movies.

In this gym, the man who exerts himself is looked down on as an odd sort of character who would be dumb enough to haul in the fireplace wood, instead of holding the lamp while his old lady did it.

The trainer of the club is Peter Henderson, a still-wiry gent who was a drill sergeant in World War I. In his day, men were men and women fired the kitchen range to get the victuals warmed up by supper time. If the legislators would let old Pete take 'em in hand, he really could roll off the pounds. But that's not in the regulations. As it is, Pete considers himself kind of a "cheer leader."

Pete Henderson said that time was around 1933 when he came in as boss of the sweat shop, that they allowed the congress to box and carry on competitively in games.

"About that time, though," he said, "we found ourselves with nothing but Democrats." The members could see no extra votes in knocking one another around. No GOP competition.

So they brought in electric reducing belts. A man can just stand there and read his paper and maybe worry off a few pounds. If he feels strong and giddy, the congressmen can pitch a game of quoits, or maybe, he wants to sit in a going-no-place-"boat and have himself a row, or whirl the Indian clubs and dumb bells.

And then there, over in the corner, the old vaulting poles which strong men used to kick a leg over in high school and college gym classes.

"That thing," said old Pete, flicking his ashes on the hardwood, "hasn't been vaulted over in 17 years that I know of. You know what these guys do? They take hold of the handles in the middle of this phony nag and belly over it. They just roll back and forth.

High Finance Watchword in Sports World Today

NEW YORK —(UP)— The top news on the sports pages these days deals with high finance.

Everybody in pro sports wants more dough and most of them are getting it. The amateurs are chiseling it where they can. The post-war dollar apparently holds far greater attraction than the time-honored definition of an amateur handed down by the Greeks.

In view of the high costs of T-bone steaks, a lot of nice plain folks we've talked to between here and the middlewest the last few weeks think it's high time the old amateur system is junked for good.

Maybe they're right. Amateur athletics have been taking a terrific lambasting of late.

A few tennis players got a slap on the wrist for padding expense accounts and college football obviously is shot with commercialism or the National Collegiate Athletic Association wouldn't feel obligated to set up an "F.B.I." to stop it.

About the only sport that has escaped a black eye recently is golf and Secretary Joe Dey of the U. S. Golf Association has a plausable explanation for that.

"For two and a half million people, golf in the United States is strictly recreation," Dey said. "Our amateur rules in some ways are more strict than any other sport but we have little difficulty on that score. Only a few can make a good living out of the game and even fewer want to try."

Team members include, Henry Morris, James S. Price, Melvin Cherry, Marion Henry, Henry Barwick, Clarence Washington, Hariel Wiley, Samuel Hardy, Lloyd Butler, and Mack McEuen.

Thurmel L. Banks

Butler, McEuen, Hardy, Wiley, Cherry, and Washington have won berths on another team scheduled to compete for the championship of all services in the Pacific in a tourney at Yokohama beginning on March 16th.

Accompanying the team were Sgt. James R. Kimber manager, and Thurmel L. Banks, coach.

The Twentieth All Stars were seen in action against the 290th Transportation Battalion on the ComMar court in a two out of three series, and also against the Navy All Stars. During these games, the Air Force crew demonstrated to cage fans they have the potentialities to give any team stiff opposition.

Coach Banks has high hopes in the Japan tourney of bringing a championship back to Guam.

Truman Asks For Draft

Temporary Draft Revival to Put Russia And World on Notice That the U.S. Will Back Pledges With Armed Strength

WASHINGTON, March 18—(UP)— President Truman today called for temporary revival of the draft to put Russia and the world on notice that the United States is ready to back up her peace pledges with armed strength.

"We must be prepared to pay the price of peace, or assuredly we shall pay the price of war," he said in a solemn address delivered personally before a joint session of the Congress.

(AF Photo)

Along with the return of Selective Service he asked immediate enactment of Universal Military Training and the European Recovery Program.

"Selective Service is necessary until the solid foundation of universal training can be established," he said.

Those three measures are the "most urgent steps" that can be taken to preserve the peace in a world shaken by the "growing menace" of Russian expansion, he declared.

His challenging call for action was relayed across the country by radio and television, and the State Department's powerful "Voice of America" transmitters immediately began booming it around the globe in 23 languages.

The members of Congress, cabinet officers, military leaders and foreign diplomats sat in silence through most of the President's address. But they broke into applause when he proclaimed this country's determination to stand by and "protect" the free nations of Western Europe against Communist aggression.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall later went before the Senate Armed Services committee to press the Presidents plea for UMT and Selective Service. He said economic aid to Europe is not enough and the United States must demonstrate its intentions to "keep the European world both at peace and free."

"I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part for them to do so," Mr. Truman said of that pact.

Most Republican leaders refused to comment immediately on the President's address although there appeared general agreement that he will set the nation on a course from which it would be difficult to turn back.

But the GOP House chieftains met before Mr. Truman arrived at the capitol and reaffirmed their determination to give the United States "the strongest air force in the world."

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., (R-Mass.), said there was general agreement that the Congress should approve the President's $11,000,000,000 military budget in full and add more funds for the Air Force.

Mr. Truman made no direct mention of the Air Force. But he said the United States must "have an adequate and balanced" military organization and "must be ready to take every wise and necessary step" to meet the threat of peace.

"There is some risk involved in action—there always is," he said. "But there is far more risk in failure to act."

From the capitol Mr. Truman drove to the national airport and took off at 2:24 p.m. EST., for New York where he addressed the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at 10:30 p.m. EST.

He told Congress that the armed forces now lack the manpower to maintain their authorized strength, 1,423,000 men for all arms, and that the country cannot meet its international responsibilities unless they are brought up to strength.

"Selective Service is necessary until the solid foundation of universal training can be established," he said. "Selective Service can then be terminated and the regular forces may then be maintained on a voluntary basis."

That apparently meant at least a one-year revival of the draft, since military spokesmen have calculated that it would take about a year to get UMT into operation once Congress approves it.

The President, obviously aware of the wave of fear and uncertainty sweeping the country, appealed for unity in meeting this crisis and held out hope that the menace to peace could be dissipated by a firm American stand.

He said the door is not and will not be closed to Russia if she will "genuinely cooperate in preserving the peace.

"At the same time," he warned, "We must not be confused about the central issue which confronts the world today.

"The time has come when the free men and women of the world

Missionaries Imprisoned In Western Manchuria

SHANGHAI, March 18 —(UP)— The Chinese Communist radio announced today that 12 Swiss Catholic missionaries in the west Manchurian city have been sentenced to prison terms on charges of "espionage, sabotage and armed conspiracy against the government." The broadcast said Swiss Bishop Vauw Hugentobler and a high cathedral official, Friembrick Bosset, were sentenced to 12 years.

"Ten accomplices, including another Swiss, Mil Eber, and a German named Mautm, were given sentences ranging from three to five years," the broadcast said.

All were members of the Swiss Berner Mission.

"In view of the general policy of leniency on the part of the democratic (Chinese Communist) government, and taking into consideration the fact the defendants were foreign nationals, these sentences were meted out for crimes which would otherwise have merited the extreme penalty in wartime," the broadcast continued.

"Other defendants, including the Mother Superior of a convent, were released after a trial."

The Communist broadcast said that the government had been informed that "church officials, in collaboration with Japanese and Kuomintang special service agents, were concealing Japanese, enemies and spies, and storing up weapons against the government as early as April, 1946."

After investigation, the Communists reported they found a cache of arms and weapons, two secret radio sets and letters alleging that the churchmen were inciting the Red soldiers to desert.

Nearly all of the broadcast was devoted to detailed accusations against the churchmen.

Thousands Idle as Strike Continues

CHICAGO, March 18 —(UP)— More than half a million workers were idle today in a strike wave that disrupted soft coal and meat production and began cutting into steel output.

A United Press survey showed that the number of strikers idle had grown to 505,590, with the majority involved in walkouts by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and the CIO United Packinghouse workers.

Chicago police made their first arrests in the nationwide wage strike by more than 100,000 packing plant workers. When eighteen pickets were seized and booked on charges of disorderly conduct as a result of complaints that they had interfered with movement of passengers on an elevated line that runs into the union stockyards. There was no violence.

United Nations Security Council Overrides Protests

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 18 —(UP)— The United Nations Security Council overrode Soviet protests today and voted to give a full hearing to charges that Russia engineered the Communist seizure of Czechoslovakia.

A full debate was ordered, by a vote of 9 to 2, after Russian delegate Andrei Gromyko warned the council to throw out the Czech case without any debate.

The council overrode Gromyko in a second 9 to 2 vote that gave Chile a non-voting seat at the council table.

Russia and the Ukraine were the only members who opposed a full hearing of the charges against Moscow and a seat for Chile. Those who voted for both were the United States, Britain, France, China, Argentina, Columbia, Syria, Canada and Belgium.

Gromyko, arguing that the UN had no right to interfere in the internal affair of Czechoslovakia, denied heatedly that Russia had taken any part in the change of government in Prague. Such charges, he said, are "absolutely absurd."

Defense Chiefs Agree To Expand Air Force

WASHINGTON, March 18 —(UP)— The nation's defense chiefs were agreed today on a plan for immediate expansion of the Air Forces and Congress appeared ready to back it up with money.

Informed sources said the joint chiefs of staff have approved a bill bringing America's air power close to the 20,500-plane strength recommended by the President's air policy commission.

At the same time, House Republican leaders pledged themselves to appropriate enough money to provide the armed forces with "absolutely everything needed" for the national security. They said they would urge the House to approve the full $11,000,000,000 budget asked by President Truman, plus an additional sum for air forces expansion.

Under an agreement reached at the recent Key West, Fla., conference by military leaders, it was said, the air forces would be almost doubled.

Headline Highlights

SALEM, Oregon, March 18 —(UP)— Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the office of Selective Service records, said here today that he believes induction of men could begin within 45 to 60 days after passage of a draft law.

WASHINGTON, March 18 —(UP)— The Army disclosed today that it is writing a bill to revive Selective Service in line with President Truman's request that Congress authorize a temporary draft to help stop Russian aggression.

WASHINGTON, March 18 —(UP)— Government officials saw little hope today for an early end to the soft coal strike. A shutdown of two weeks or longer was feared by both government and industry sources unless John L. Lewis orders a back-to-work movement before his demand for miners' pensions is settled.

House Committee Approves ERP

WASHINGTON, March 18 —(UP)— The House Foreign Affairs Committee today approved a four-year European recovery program similar to the bill already passed by the Senate and providing the same first-year spending limit of $5,300,000,000.

The committee action came within a few hours after President Truman urgent plea for speedy enactment of the ERP bill as part of an American preparedness program to halt the western surge of Communism in Europe.

The European program is part of a three-section "combination" bill in which the committee also plans to include economic aid to China and military help to Greece and Turkey.

The overall bill is scheduled to reach the House floor for debate on Tuesday, and GOP leaders predicted it would be voted on by the end of March or early April.

Committee Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R-N.J.) said the ERP section authorized spending $5,300,000,000 for the first 12 months of the program, but stipulated that $1,000,000,000 of that amount be in the form of loans obtained by the European countries from the UN Export-Import Bank.

Standley Optimistic

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18 —(UP)— Admiral William Standley, wartime ambassador to Russia, said last night he did not believe there is any chance of immediate war between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Russia is not ready for a war now and we would have to be provoked into one," Standley told the San Diego Federal Business Association. "I am confident that Russia would have to commit out-and-out violence for us to go to war."

Truman 'Crying Wolf' Claims James Patton

DENVER, March 18 —(UP)— James G. Patton, President of the National Farmers Union, called on President Truman today to stop "crying wolf" and "using war psychology among the people."

Patton claimed Mr. Truman's scheduled extraordinary appearance before Congress hinted of "war abroad or revolution at home."

Shaping U. S. Stand

Patton appealed for an end to the "policy of creating one crisis after another" to shape America's stand in foreign and domestic issues.

"We can't protect our flocks by crying wolf," Patton said, "I appeal for a return to rational Government, a return to courageous reaction."

The Farmers Union President said the nation's newspapers and radio stations were engaged in a "hysterical campaign to create hatred, fear psychology among the people."

Marshall Fears Stalin Can't Stop Communism

WASHINGTON, March 18 —(UP)— Authoritative sources disclosed today that Secretary of State George C. Marshall now fears that Russian Premier Josef Stalin could not put the brakes on the Communist parties in Europe if he wanted to do so.

These sources said there was genuine fear among top UN policy makers that the "successful frankenstein"—the description of the Communist movement—will get out of hand.

The great danger, these sources said, was that a hot headed incident somewhere might "betray" the Soviet Union into supporting an over tuition.

This attitude of the administration was disclosed as an explanation of the sudden decision by President Truman to appeal for immediate enactment of universal military training legislation and temporary revival of the draft.

At the same time it was revealed that Walter Bedell Smith, U. S. Ambassador to Moscow, was the man who spark-plugged the presidential move to take the first steps toward mobilization.

President Truman Asks Draft Recall must face the threat to their liberty squarely and courageously.

"The United States has a tremendous responsibility to act according to the measure of our power for good in the world. We have learned we must earn the peace we seek as we earned victory in war, not by wistful thinking but by realistic effort."

Authoritative sources said Marshall fears the situation in Europe may get beyond Soviet Premier Stalin's control and the Russians may find themselves in a position where they would have to back up some overt act by their Communist followers.

The Russian ambassador and envoys from the other eastern satellite states were conspicuously absent from the diplomatic galleries. But Finland's Minister K. T. Jutila sat among the Western European diplomats.

Thousands of worried Washingtonians, unable to gain admission to the jammed House galleries, gathered in the streets around automobile radios and radio shops to hear the President's somber words.

Mr. Truman made it clear that the extraordinary military preparedness measures he advocated were being forced upon the United States by Russia.

He lashed out against the Kremlin in the strongest terms he has ever directed against that government since he took office three years ago.

He labelled the Russians and their satellites in Eastern Europe as aggressors who alone are responsible for the present international crisis. He accused them of obstructing the work of the United Nations by repeated use of the veto, and he charged them with trying to "wreck" the (Marshall) European Recovery Program.

"Since the close of hostilities, the Soviet Union and its agents have destroyed the independence and democratic character of a whole series of nations in Eastern and Central Europe," he said. "It is this ruthless course of action, and the clear design to extend it to the remaining free nations of Europe, that have brought about the critical situation in Europe today."

Even as the President spoke, five key nations of Western Europe, Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg were signing in Brussels a 5-year mutual defense treaty to take common action against attackers.

Full text of President Truman's address:

I am here today to report to you on the critical nature of the situation in Europe, and to recommend action for your consideration.

Rapid changes are taking place in Europe which affect our foreign policy and our national security. There is an increasing threat to nations which are striving to maintain a form of government which grants freedom to its citizens. The United States is deeply concerned with the survival of freedom in those nations. It is of vital importance that we act now, in order to preserve the conditions under which we can achieve lasting peace based on freedom and justice.

The achievement of such a peace has been the great goal of this nation.

Almost three years have elapsed since the end of the greatest of all wars, but peace and stability have not returned to the world. We were well aware that the end of the fighting would not automatically settle the problems arising out of the war. The establishment of peace after the fighting is over has always been a difficult task. And even if all the allies of World War II were united in their desire to establish a just and honorable peace, there would still be great difficulties in the way of achieving that goal.

The situation in the world today is not primarily the result of the natural difficulties which follow a great war. It is chiefly due to the fact that one nation has not only refused to cooperate in the establishment of a just and honorable peace, but—even worse—has actively sought to prevent it. The congress is familiar with the course of events.

You know of the sincere and patient attempts of the democratic nations to find a secure basis for peace through negotiation and agreement. Conference after conference has been held up in different parts of the world. We have tried to settle the questions arising out of the war on a basis which would permit the establishment of a just peace. You know the obstacles we have encountered. But the record stands as a monument to the good faith and intergrity of the democratic nations of the world. The agreements we did obtain, imperfect though they were, could have furnished the basis for a just peace—if they had been kept.

But they were not kept.

They have been persistently ignored and violated by one nation.

The congress is also familiar with the developments concerning the United Nations. Most of the countries of the world have joined together in the United Nations in an attempt to build a world order based on law and not on force. Most of the members support the United Nations earnestly and honestly, and seek to make it stronger and more effective.

One nation, however, has persistently obstructed the work of the United Nations by constant abuse of the veto. That nation has vetoed 21 proposals for action in a little over two years.

But that is not all, since the close of hostilities, the Soviet Union and its agents have destroyed the independence and democratic character of a whole series of nations in eastern and central Europe.

It is this ruthless course of action, and the clear design to extend it to the remaining free nations of Europe, that have brought about the critical situation in Europe today.

The tragic death of the republic of Czechoslovakia has sent a shock throughout the civilized world. Now pressure is being brought to bear on Finland, to the hazard of the entire Scandinavian Peninsula. Greece is under direct military attack from rebels actively supported by her Communist dominated neighbors. In Italy, a determined and aggressive effort is being made by a Communist minority to take control of that country. The methods vary but the pattern is all too clear. Faced with this growing menace, there have been encouraging signs that the free nations of Europe are drawing closer together for their economic well being and for the common defense of their liberties.

In the economic field, the movement for mutual self-help to restore conditions essential to the preservation of free institutions is well under way. In Paris the sixteen nations which are cooperating in the European Recovery Program are meeting again to establish a joint organization to work for the economic restoration of Western Europe.

The United States has strongly supported the efforts of these nations to repair the devastation of war and restore a sound world economy. In presening this program to the congress last December, I emphasized the necessity for speedy action. Every event in Europe since that day has underlined the great urgency for the prompt adoption of this measure.

The Soviet Union and it satellites were invited to cooperate in the European Recovery Program. They rejected the invitation. More than that, they have declared their violent hostility to the program and are aggressively attempting to wreck it.

They see in it a major obstacle to their designs to subjugate the free community of Europe. They do not want the United States to help Europe. They do not want the sixteen cooperating countries to help themselves.

While economic recovery in Europe is essential, measures for economic rehabilitation alone are not enough. The free nations of Europe realize that economic recovery, if it is to succeed, must be afforded some measure of protection against internal and external aggression. The movement toward economic cooperation has been followed by a movement toward common self-protection in the face of the growing menace to their freedom.

At the very moment I am addressing you, five nations of the European community, in Brussels, are signing a 50-year agreement for economic cooperation and common defense against aggression.

This action has great significance, for this agreement was not imposed by the decree of a more powerful neighbor. It was the free choice of independent governments representing the will of their people and acting within the terms of the charter of the United Nations. Its significance goes far beyond the actual terms of the agreement itself. It is a notable step in the direction of unity in Europe for the protection and preservation of its civilization. This development deserves our full support. I am confident that the United States will, by appropriate means, extend to the free nations the support which the situation requires. I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part to help them to do so.

The recent developments in Europe present this nation with fundamental issues of vital importance.

I believe that we have reached a point at which the position of the United States should be made unmistakably clear.

The principles and purposes expressed in the charter of the United Nations continue to represent our hope for the eventual establishment of the rule of law in international affairs. The charter constitutes the basic expression of the code of international ethics to which this country is dedicated. We cannot, however, close our eyes to the harsh fact that through obstruction and even defiance on the part of one nation, this great dream has not yet become a full reality.

It is necessary, therefore, that we take additional measures to supplement the work of the United Nations and to support its aims. There are times in world history when it is far wiser to act than to hesitate. There is some risk involved in action—there always is. But there is far more risk in failure to act.

For if we act wisely now, we shall strengthen the powerful forces for freedom, justice and peace which are represented by the United Nations and the free nations of the world.

I regard it as my duty, therefore, to recommend to the Congress those measures which, in my judgement, are best calculated to give support to the free and democratic nations of Europe and to improve the solid foundation of our own national strength.

First, I recommend that the Congress speedily complete its action on the European Recovery Program. That program is the foundation of our policy of assistance to the free nations of Europe. Prompt passage of that program is the most helpful contribution we can now make toward peace.

The decisive action which the Senate has taken without regard to partisan political considerations is a striking example of the effective working of Democracy.

Time is now of critical importance. I am encouraged by the information which has come to me concerning the plans for expeditious action by the House of Representatives. I hope that no single day will be needlessly lost.

Second, I recommend prompt enactment of universal training legislation.

Until the free nations of Europe have regained their strength, and so long as Communism threatens the very existence of Democracy, the United States must remain strong enough to support those countries of Europe which are threatened with Communist control and police-state rule.

I believe that we have learned the importance of maintaining military strength as a means of preventing war. We have found that a sound military system is necessary in time of peace if we are to remain at peace. Aggressors in the past, relying on our apparent lack of military force, have unwisely precipitated war. Although they have been led to destruction by their misconception of our strength, we have paid a terrible price for our unpreparedness.

Universal training is the only feasible means by which the civilian components of our armed forces can be built up to the strength required if we are to be prepared for emergencies. Our ability to mobilize large numbers of trained men in time of emergency could forestall future conflict and, together with other measures of national policy, could restore stability to the world.

The adoption of universal training by the United States at this time would be unmistakable evidence to all the world of our determination to back the will to peace with the strength for peace. I am convinced that the decision of the American people, expressed through Congress, to adopt universal training would be of first importance in giving courage to every free government in the world.

Third, I recommend the temporary reenactment of Selective Service legislation in order to maintain our armed forces at their authorized strength.

Our armed forces lack the necessary men to maintain their authorized strength. They have been unable to maintain their authorized strength through voluntary enlistments, even though that strength has been reduced to the very minimum necessary to meet our obligations abroad, and is far below the minimum which should always be available in the continental United States.

We cannot meet our international responsibilities unless we maintain our armed forces. It is of vital importance, for example, that we keep our occupation forces in Germany until the peace is secure in Europe.

There is no conflict between the requirements of Selective Service for the regular forces and universal training for the reserve components. Selective Service is necessary until the solid foundation of universal training can be established. Selective Service can then be terminated and the regular forces may then be maintained on a voluntary basis.

The recommendations I have made represent the most urgent steps toward securing the peace and preventing war.

We must be ready to take every wise and necessary step to carry out this great purpose. This will require assistance to other nations. It will require an adequate and balanced military strength. We must be prepared to pay the price of peace or assuredly we shall pay the price of war.

We in the United States remain determined to seek, by every possible means, a just and honorable basis for the settlement of international issues. We shall continue to give our strong allegiance to the United Nations as the principal means for international security based on law, not on force. We shall remain ready and anxious to join with all nations—I repeat, with all nations—in every possible effort to reach international understanding and agreement.

The door has never been closed, nor will it ever be closed, to the Soviet Union or any other nation which will genuinely cooperate in preserving the peace.

At the same time, we must not be confused about the central issue which confronts the world today.

The time has come when the free men and women of the world must face the threat to their liberty squarely and courageously.

The United States has a tremendous responsibility to act according to the measure of our power for good in the world. We have learned that we must earn the peace we seek just as we earned victory in war, not by wishful thinking but by realistic effort.

At no time in our history has unity among our people been so vital as it is at the present time.

Unity of purpose, unity of effort and unity of spirit are essential to accomplish the task before us.

Each of us here in this chamber today has a special responsibility. The world situation is too critical, and the responsibilities of this country are too vast, to permit party struggles to weaken our influence for maintaining peace.

The American people have the right to assume that political considerations will not affect our working together. They have the right to assume that we will join hands, whole-heartedly and without reservation, in our efforts to preserve peace in the world.

With God's help we shall succeed."

City Dancers off Beat, Says Bandleader

BOSTON —(UP)— Solid Sammy Eisen, who has been band-leading these 30 years, poked his baton into American dancing today and found a lot of folks off beat. New Yorkers, he said, bob up and hop like punchy pugilists.

Chicagoans freeze up and make like guys with rigor mortis.

"They've all got the blues in St. Louis," he said, "everyone drags his feet. No rhythm in Hollywood. Bostonians lack that old jungle tempo. A bit stiff in the joints."

Only in the small towns of New England, the lazy down-country hamlets of the south and the cocky whistle stops of the mid-west, he said, do citizens trip the light fantastic as it is supposed to be tripped.

"Those small town kids have music in their feet," he said. "They make any dance floor look good. Don't know where they learn, but they know all the latest capers. Give 'em a beat and they hold it.

"But big cities—ouch! The worst dancers in the nation are in Hollywood. New Yorkers dance up-and-down, great popper-uppers. In Chicago, seems to be a habit to get out on a dance floor and just kind of stand there like they're waiting for the evening mail.

"Funny," he said, "but they're slow in St. Louis. Always lagging behind the beat. I've noticed it time and again. Maybe it's the climate. Bostonians do a good fox trot or waltz, but they can't let themselves go in a Latin sort of way."

Shortage Announced In Air Officers

HQ. 20th AIR FORCE—Brig. Gen. Robert Kauch, director of air installations, announced an acute shortage of air installations officers exists throughout the U. S. Air Force. Officers qualified and interested in positions in this field were asked to submit requests for assignments through normal command channels.

Opportunities currently exist for squadron and field grade USAF officers having military or civilian experience and/or educational background in the fields of Civil, Architectural, Industrial, Mechanical or Electrical Engineering, City management, Airport management etc., as provided in Paragraph 3 of Air Force letter 35-7.

Such officers (military occupational specialities 7010, 7130 and 9401) supervise and direct the USAF activities involving: construction, maintenance and repair of aid installations, grounds and utilities systems; fire prevention and aircraft crash rescue functions; as well as the management of USAF real estate.

Speed Pilot Forms Rain-Selling Firm

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Speed pilot Paul Mantz sold rain to Arizona ranchers at two cents an acre yesterday.

He said his firm dumped a heavy fall of snow over White Mountains in eastern Arizona during the weekend.

"Rainmaking is no longer a pipe dream," Mantz said. "We're bound to get some precipitation."

The Weath-Air Co., Inc., pilots include last year's Bendix race winner and Darrow and Stanley Thompson of Flagstaff, Ariz. The Thompsons, Army and Navy pilots, were sent by Mantz to General Electric, Schenectady, N. Y., to get the latest information on rainmaking.

"We use dry ice and silver iodine, in specific quantities, to do the work," Mantz said. "You can't get rain from the wrong kind of clouds. But if a big cumulo-nimbus cloud develops, we take off and let go with the business."

Mantz said he also can prevent hailstorms by seeding clouds in advance to wring them out before hail can form.

As a last resort in case dry ice and silver iodine fail, Mantz' fliers carry a tank of water to dump on the clouds. They said they were sure of some rain that way through a chain reaction.

Cyclists on Good-Will tour of Americas

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Two brothers rested yesterday at the 20,000-mile half-way mark of a "good will trip" from Argentina to Alaska by bicycle.

Pedro Rocaal, 26, and his brother Carlos, 21, left Buenos Aires 22 months ago. They have pedaled through Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Columbia, Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Guatemala and Mexico. "We decided Argentina and the United States should get friendlier," Pedro explained.

From here they will go to San Francisco, Washington, D. C., New York, through Canada and up to Fairbanks Alaska.

They said they made the whole trip without money. They did not pack any food to take with them.

"The people were pretty good to us when they found out why we were making the trip," Pedro said.

During the ride they crossed the Andes four times, almost died of malaria when they spent 26 days riding through 300 miles of Panama jungle, and wore out 32 tires.

FREAK ACCIDENT—A diesel shovel cab and engine, belonging to Island Public Works, slipped off a forty foot flat trailer in a freak accident, last Friday afternoon, on Marine Drive near Harmon Field. It was an unusual accident in that very seldom does construction machinery involved in mishap escape without damage, as happened in this case. Skillful handling by the crew prevented further damage. Army Approves 'New Look' Overcoat

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. —(UP)— The United States Army approved the "new look" for its enlisted men—complete with hood, Lt. Col. W. F. Ames of the Quartermaster Corps announced at Camp Carson that the "model 1917" olive drab overcoat worn and carried by veterans of World War I and II would be replaced with a lightweight trench coat with removable lining.

Approval of the new coat for issue followed a 60-day test by S-Sgts. Herbert L. Stout and Roger L. Herve of the 38th Regimental Combat Team.

Army fashion designers got the hint that a new overcoat was needed when style-conscious GI's left the old-model coats in barracks on even the coldest days. Questions brought one typical anonymous comment that "I'd rather be caught dead—'froze stiff'—than wear one."

Solves Water Problem

HARMON FIELD—1537th AFBU (ATS)—There is no water on the aircraft maintenance line, thanks to the ingenuity of Cpl. Clifford Bea of the 1537th AFBU.

Personnel can have a cool drink of water from the P-47 wing tank which has been rigged up to a non-descript piece of machinery to form a drinkin gfountain.

Harmon Announces Easter Schedule

HARMON FIELD—The complete plans for the Holy Week and Easter Sunday religious services at Harmon Fields "Chapel in the Garden" were announced here yesterday by Major John P. Fellows, MarAMA Chaplain.

The Palm Sunday morning services at 1100 will give worshippers a chance to hear the choir and its soloists under the direction of Capt. Robert Beers and S-1c Robert Taylor. The evening will bring Chaplain Faber Wickman, Presbyterian Chaplain of the 5th Marine Brigade to the pulpit as guest speaker.

Many Services Planned

Maundy Thursday's commemoration of the "Last Supper" will include organ selections by the chapel's organist, Mrs. Brenice Clough.

The Good Friday services at 1400 on the 26th will feature short meditations on the seven words from the cross, interspersed with special music by the choir.

Easter Sunday will begin with a sunrise service worship at 0600 introduced by the brass choir of the Twentieth Air Force Band. The chapel choir will render "I came To The Garden."

Holy Communion will be served after the benediction at the sunrise service as well as at the regular 1100 service.

The Easter Vespers will be held at 1900 during which Holy Communion will be again celebrated, with a choral rendition of the devotional response.

Soviet Stamp Collecting Grim Business

PARIS (UP)—Stamp collecting in most countries may be an innocent hobby but so far as Soviet Russia is concerned it is a grim international business involving national honor and lots of money.

Selling Russian stamps to foreign collectors is a big business for Socialist Russia. Collectors who want the bright-colored stamps put out since 1917 must be ready to pay through the nose for them.

The Russian government has a monopoly on stamp sales to collectors both inside the country and out. For example inside Russia special government stores provided philatelists with full sets of the latest Lenin commemorative issue.

For the Russian, selling stamps outside the U.S.S.R. is a sure-fire way to get needed foreign currencies. Russian stamp catalogés even now continue their pre-war practice of quoting prices in terms of the American dollar.

If a collector wants a series of, say, four stamps with a face value of five rubles, he will have to pay twice or three times that much in dollar or the black market equivalent in pounds, francs, or lira.

This monopolistic price control by purchasing commissions has bred a big black market in Russian stamps. Philatelic dealers in Bulgaria, Rumania, Finland and other countries bordering the U.S.S.R. have brought up thousands of stamps at bargain prices.

Task Force 38 Gets Around

NO LIST PRICE HERE—U. S. sailors in Hong Kong harbor soon learned that the best buys are to the shrewdest bargainers. In the market place that was set up on the deck of the destroyer USS LAWE, the Navy man in the center seems to think that the article for sale is worth "two" while the Chinese merchant holds out for "four." (Official Navy Photo)

SEAGOING PEDDLERS—Laden with foodstuffs, jewels, silks, and carvings, the bumboats of the Chinese merchants swarmed about the ships of Task Force 38 as they entered Hong Kong harbor on their trip around the world. Such sights are familiar in nearly all the Chinese ports. (Official Navy Photo)

Post-War Issues Making Diplomats Working Men

WASHINGTON--(U.P.)—The teasipping, top-hatted, striped-trousered, cane-twirling men who formly handled international affairs are on the way out. Their sucessors are diplomats trained in the problem of food, fuel, fiber, and fertilizer.

The change has been rapid since the end of World War II. It has been brought about chiefly by austere world conditions which rule out most of the pre-war diplomatic customs, and have cut down on lavish banquets and cocktail parties.

Washington has been on the decline of social diplomacy on a greater scale than most world capitals. It would be most inappropriate and undiplomatic for the once lavish functions to return to foreign embassies and legations when most of them are seeking dollar help. Hence, guest lists have been trimmed. So have the food and liquor budgets.

Daily duties of State Department officials have undergone similar changes. Nowadays, they receive more callers and notes concerning food allocations than treaties.

In a routine day, a department may meet up with the problem of recommending the number of whales that might be caught in the Antarctic during the next whaling season or:

What are the proper cost-of-living allowances for American embassy personnel in Moscow now that the ruble rate has been altered.

Should tobacco be shipped to Western Europe as an "incentive" commodity under the Marshall plan?

What would be a fair proportion between the United States and India for shipment of raw cotton to Japan under present controlled trade conditions?

And, should French demands for coal be filled before Italy's?

If any one post-war date could be set as the one which contributed most to the changed approach to diplomacy, it would probably be June 5, 1947. Secretary of State George C. Marshall on that date made his now-famous suggestion that European countries get together to figure out their aid requirements.

The "figuring" on economic matters consumed thousand of man hours in Europe. But that effort has been far eclipsed by planning on this side of the Atlantic.

First, the Interim Aid Program had to be drafted by the State Department and other governmental agencies. Second, work had to be started on the 51-month, $17,000-000,000, Marshall plan.

The project threw out any eight-hour day, five-day week that might have been in effect. Lighs began to burn around-the-clock at the State Department, the Marshall planning headquarters.

Old-timers at the State Department have found it difficult to adjust themselves to the knotty economic problem. But they are convinced that the former days when straight international politics were of prime importance are gone.

Questionable Memoirs

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The Supreme Court recently agreed to decide whether New York State violated the free-press guarantee of the constitution when it outlawed the best-selling book, "Memoirs of Hecate County."

Charging that Edmund Wilson's stories were "obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy, indecent and disgusting," the New York courts fined Doubleday and Co., publishers, $1,000 and ordered it to suppress the volume. The firm appealed to the Supreme Court.

The nine black-robed justices will have a chance to judge for themselves whether the stories are literary or lascivious.

What's a Bump?

NEW YORK —(UP)— "What," asked Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder, "is a bump?"

"Thrusting the middle portion of the torso forward in a violent manner," said Leonard Katlin.

"And what is a grind?" asked the judge.

"Moving the middle section in a circular motion.'

Judge Eder glanced at red-haired Georgia Southern the "bump and grind girl" who was seeking to retain her license to dance in a nightclub.

"Why that's the old hootchie-kootchie dance, isn't it?" asked Eder.

"Exactly," said the lawyer.

"Well, I don't see how it can spoil people who go to nightclubs to see it," the judge said.

He reserved decision on the license. Miss Southern can go on bumping and grinding until a ruling is made.

Women Tired of Knock-Knees

By Sally Swing
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—"Women are tired of knock-knees." That was Elsa Schiaparelli's comment on attempts of some Paris designers to chop a few inches on skirt length.

"Women the world over are sick to death of short skirts." she said tartly. "Any change now is silly." Her new collection shows skirts for daytime wear dropped as low as ankle-length.

Several times a week, men call up "Scap," as her friends call her, and plead that she make skirts sh[illegible]

"They (the legs) are so much nicer when we can see them," is the talking point.

To that she argues that if legs are pretty you can get just as much of a kick out of selling pretty ankles as calves—even more.

"Long skirts are more feminine. We needed the change," she said.

"Most women are making the mistake these days of wearing too many mud colors," the veteran Paris designer said.

"Bright clear colors are pretty for the skin and make you feel better."

Talking of the new back fullness and ruffles which dot her presentation this year, Schiaparelli said:

"There is nothing new about the trend towards the back.

"On the contrary, to be feminine women must have back fullness. It gives a women more sex appeal."

Scap does not approve of the new corsets, either. "They are not graceful," she said, "and what's more, its very hard to eat with one of those iron girdles pinching you."

To prove to skeptical men that her fashions of long skirts, gently swinging back and normal waists are more becoming, Schiaparelli has a special photograph of a row of women sitting at one of her collections, all wearing short tight skirts. "Look at those gams," she said, "awful!"

'Hell Week' Too Rugged

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.— (UP) — Students who plan to enroll at Indiana University and pledge to a fraternity don't have to worry about "hell week" any longer.

University officials said fraternities had agreed to drop all "rough features" from initiations in the future. Among the banned activities were road trips, scavenger hunts, and trips to sorority houses or women's dormitories "except for the express purpose of social affairs."

The agreement was reached after one fraternity was suspended by University officials when nine pledges were arrested for breaking into local stores to obtain prescribed "hell week" materials.

Eniwetok Natives Like New Home

The 136 Eniwetok natives who were moved from the atoll to Ujelang to make way for the Atomic Energy Commission's proving ground are reported to be "happy and contented" with their new home.

A routine quarterly report by the civil administrator, Kwajalein district, Marshall islands, just received in the Navy department, states that the 73 natives from Amon and 63 from Biijiri, only inhabited islands in Eniwetok atoll, were moved by a Navy LST on December 20.

The two Eniwetok chiefs, Johannes and Abraham, had previously inspected Ujelang. The report states that the chiefs "repeatedly expressed their pleasure with the preparations being made their and with the natural resources of the island."

"They were particularly pleased with the abundance of fish, the depth of the top soil, the relatively large land area, and the abundance of coconut trees, breadfruit, papaya and pandanus," the report states.

BALL SPINS 1800 MILES PER HOUR—A novel centrifuge spins a steel ball at 1800 miles per hour to test the adhesive quality of paint for high-speed navol aircraft. His "ultra-centrifuge" device was developed by the University of Cincinnati, for the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics. A dot of paint is placed on the steel ball which is suspended magnetically in a vacuum in the centrifuge and then subjected to a rotating magnetic field. The top of the steel ball, which is a quarter inch in diameter, is slightly flattened like the top of the earth to keep it rotating on a constant axis. At its top speed of 2,400,000 revolutions per minute, its surface speed is approximately 1,800 miles an hour, and its spinning so swift and friction-free that if power were cut off it would spin on for a week before completely coming to rest. by Joe Scarfo

WesPac's hopes for a berth in the All-Navy basketball finals were rudely shattered when the Pearl Harbor Naval Base quintet eked out a last minute victory to win the Pacific Navy championship. The loss for WesPac was a bitter pill to swallow as they had fought tooth and nail with an equally scrappy Naval Base right down to the last whistle only to come out on the short end of the score. The WesPackers were brilliant, even in defeat, and should be commended on their fine showing and great sportsmanship in the Pacific tourney.

The late arrival of four team entries in the Inter-Command baseball league forced welfare and recreation officials to revise the schedule. The new entrants, in the league which swell to 16 the number of teams, are; Marine Barracks, Agana All-Stars, FasRon-13 and Naval Ammunition Depot. The schedule now calls for a total of 30 games with June 30 slated as the close of the season. The results of games played on Wednesday will stand and the games need not be replayed.

The University of Washington boasts one of the best freestyle swimmers in Pete Powlison who just set a new Pacific Coast Conference record for the 220-yard free style race in 2:12.5, bettering the old mark established by Jack Medica in 1934 by seven-tenths of a second. The five-foot, 10 inch Powlison holds the division record in every free-style event but the 440-yard swim and is considered a likely prospect for the 1948 Olympics.

Cleveland Claims '48 Roster Championship

NEW YORK —(UP)— The Cleveland Indians were regarded as a likely darkhorse in the American league pennant race but they already can claim one title—the roster world championship of the major leagues and environs.

Come spring, a young man's fancy and whatnot, the clubs annually put out a little booklet giving statistics on the squad and training dates. Most of them let it go at that. But not Bill Veeck's vim and vigor crew.

Their booklet, all done up in patriotic shades, is the greatest thing since the inaugral issue of the Farmer's Almanac. A tone to put an encyclopedia to shame, it lists everything except the opening day scores and the final 1948 standings, and they might be there, too, if y[illegible] had the eyes to read to the [illegible] end.

First co[illegible] plug for the fish eating [illegible]partment, listing nine executives [illegible] 25 scouts. The Indians don't fiddle while the customers burn. They not only have a farm club director but also an executive farm club director.

As Veeck explained when somebody asked him whether he wanted to hire Hank Greenberg for his brains or his playing ability? "We've got enough brains."

They apparently have.

DENVER, March 18 —(UP)— With one exception, favorites strode ahead today toward the quarterfinals in the National AAU basketball tournament.

The exception was seeded Milwaukee, Wis., which dropped before the tireless Portland, Ore., Yanks 69 to 76.

Pearl Harbor Crowned Champs

PEARL HARBOR, March 18 — Pearl Harbor Naval Base, defending All Navy basketball champion, won the Pacific title and a berth in the finals at Jacksonville last night with a thrilling 52-50 victory over the Western Pacific entry in Bloch gym here.

Trailing 49-50 in the last minute of the game, Pearl Harbor moved ahead and won the game as Wells hit a layup and sunk a foul shot for the icer. The lead changed hands with every basket during the last five minutes of the game, Jim Hawkins sinking the bucket that put WesPac ahead for the last time.

DesPac copped second place in the Pacific Navy basketball championship last night with a 47 to 45 victory over WesPac. Joe Foltz was high for the winners with 11 points while Horan scored 11 points to pace the WesPac quintet.

The score was tied at 25-all at the halftime, but Dick Myklebust, put in four quick baskets early in the second half to put Pearl Harbor ahead, 37-32. With five minutes to go, Paul Klingman hit a foul shot that put Pearl ahead 45-44. From then on, the lead changed with every basket. Myklebust was high with 24 points, and Larry Horan scored 17 for the losers.

Billiard King Says 'Ready For Comeback'

BOSTON, —(UP)— George F. Slossom celebrated his 94th birthday the other day by unwrapping the 50-cent billiard cue, with which he won the world championships, and discussing his comeback.

"The game's gone to pieces for lack of good players," said the bald blue-eyed baron of the balkline who was Canadian champ at the age of 12.

"Arent but three decent players active. In about a month I'll go after them and I think I can take 'em, too."

Slossom was world titlist in more styles of billiards than any player since the British first moved "lawn bowles" indoors and started batting brass balls with clubs and calling it "biliarts."

In 72 years competition he won world championships in the straight roll game, the champion's game, the 14:2, 12:1 and 18:2 balkline games and the carom-cushion game.

He was ready two months ago to hit the long trail back, he said. "But I fell. Hurt my right shoulder. Happened just when my shots were getting their old sharpness and inspiration. It took me a couple of months to get fit but now I'm in top shape—feel great."

Kentucky Leads NCAA Teams in Scoring Statistics

New York, March 18 —(UP)— The East plays for offense and the West plays for defense, so who can tell what'll happen when the twain meets in the N.C.A.A. basketball tournament?

Michigan meets Holy Cross and Columbia faces Kentucky in the start of the Eastern semi-finals here tomorrow night. Then Wyoming meets Kansas State and Washington tackles Baylor Friday in Kansas City, Mo., to begin action in the West. The tourney winners play here next week.

The official National Collegiate Athletic Bureau statistics released tonight gave a little idea of what kind of ball these clubs play, and there's a sharp dividing line between the two regions.

Because of a love for the shot and root system, the four teams in the Eastern bracket have all the better of it in the point-scoring department.

Kentucky has averaged 69.1 points per game, Holy Cross 67.6, Columbia 59.3 and Michigan 54.

Baylor has averaged 48.8, Kansas State 55.5, Washington 57 and Wyoming 47.1.

Moreover, three out of the East's four teams are better in the scoring department than any of the West's four, and two of the Western quintets—Baylor and Wyoming—don't come up to the East's "weak sister," Michigan.

The individual scorers bear up the East's advantage at making baskets. Of the top 10, only Jack Nichols of Washington comes from the West. The other are Easterners with two Holy Cross players among the top three. Bob Cousy of Holy Cross leads the parade with 438 points for a 16.5 average.

Walt Budko of Columbia is second with 355 for 16.1 and George Kaftan of Holy Cross third with 417 for 16.0

Conversely, the West—where they like to get the ball and hold it until an opponent's yawn gives a scoring opening—tops the defensive play. Although the margin is not as great as the East's on offense.

Bob Reed struckout 13 batters and allowed only one hit Tuesday as the Harmon Field Flyers defeated the 4th Emergency Rescue Squadron, 8 to 4, at North Field. He also punched out a home run in the sixth inning to aid in winning his game.

Major Barney's Bombers Capture Eighth Straight

Combining a wealth of hitting power at the plate and a one hit pitching performance by Floyd Lewis, the North Field Bombers captured their eighth straight 20th Air Force winter baseball league win by defeating the 147th AACS nine, 23 to 0, at the North Field diamond Wednesday afternoon.

The Bombers dazzled the men from Harmon Field with their fancy exhibition of base running, fielding and stickwork.

No less than 17 stolen bases were credited to the North Field aggregation while their close-knit infield committed only one miscue compared to eleven errors charged to the 147th Combine.

Major Bill Barney's sluggers tagged three AACS hurlers for 22 hits, one circuit clout with one on by Skeeter Hamilton, Bomber second baseman. Lewis, displaying the form which has established him as one of the league's better pitchers held the AACS batters hitless for seven innings. The Harmon lone safety came in the bottom of the eighth when Elmer Willret poped a Texas leaguer into short right for a single.

Jack Nichols Eligible For NCAA Tourney

SEATTLE, Wash., March 18 —(UP)— University of Washington Center Jack Nichols will legally play in the Western regional basketball tournament in Kansas City, the NCAA eligibility committee ruled today.

The ruling, announced here by Washington Athletic Director Harvey Cassill, reversed a previous decision which held that Nichols was ineligible for the tournament because he was playing his fifth college season this year. Only four seasons are allowed under NCAA rules.

Cassill appealed the case on the basis that until this year, athletes participating on behalf of colleges and universities while serving as members of a military training program, were excepted from the rule and were not charged with loss of eligibility for that season.

Architect Displays Plans For Flatbush

NEW YORK, March 17 —(UP)— Walter F. O'Malley, vice president of the Brooklyn Dodgers said today that the noted Architect, Norman Bel Geddes, had submitted plans for a streamlined Ebbets Field to be constructed on the present site in the Flatbush area of the Borough.

Commenting on reports that the club intended to build a new stadium in the downtown area of Brooklyn, O'Malley said "the rumor is not substantially correct."

"Bel Geddes has submitted an interesting study of what could be done at the present Ebbets Field site," he said. "The total cost of construction would exceed $6,000,000.

"We appreciate, that Brooklyn fans are entitled to more seats in a modern stadium but it just does not seem possible in the near future."

CLEARWATER, Fla. —(UP)— The Philadelphia Phillies of late have made a habit of producing outfield sensations and there's a burly boy of the old school in the Bluejay spring training camp today who well might extend the streak.

Two years ago the Phils came up with Del Ennis, a kid off the Philadelphia sandlots. Ennis rattled the fences at a .313 clip and wound up as rookie of the year.

Last year the Phils obtained Harry (The Hat) Walker from the St. Louis Cardinals and, apparently liking the greener pastures after developing shin splints in sunbaked Sportsman's Park, Dixie's little brother led the majors with a .363 average.

Rounding it out might be porky Johnny Blatnik, a bread-beamed blond with blue eyes and a bigger chunk of confidence than the cud of tobacco he carries in his cheek. The lad from Lansing, O., figures to celebrate his 26th birthday two days hence by winning a job in the Phil outfield. He's doing pretty well, too.

The Phils obtained the porky powerhouse from the Cleveland chain, drafting Blatnik from Baltimore. And Johnny doesn't have many kind words for the Indian front office.

"They make me sick," he scowled as he basked in the warm Florida sun. "I hit .336 at Harrisburg in 1946 and hit .334 at Wilkes-Barre last year and they never gave me a tumble. I'll give the Phils all I've got."

Those two good reasons came after three years in the Air Corps and it was there, Blatnik insists, that he started to learn to belt the ball. And it's another reason why he isn't too worried about hitting in the majors.

"I looked at a lot of major league pitchers in the service and I didn't see any I couldn't get my share of base hits from," he said slowly, shifting his cud as he spoke.

Married three years, he only started to chew tobacco two years ago. "I was in a slump at Harrisburg and somebody told me to take a chew," he grinned around his cud. "Well, the first time up I hit a line drive double down the left field line. I just been chewing ever since. Wouldn't you?"

Superstition, yes. Johnny admits it. But after seven years in the minors, where he also saw pre-war service with Greensburg, Pa.; Fargo, N. D., and Charleston, W. Va., he isn't taking any chances.

Civil Service Girls' Softball Team Shows Good Form on Diamond

The Girls' Civil Service softball team at ComMar may not be leading the league in runs-batted-in, but it's safe to say they have the best looking nine on the Island today.

FINE FORM — Marie "Buz" Bzura winds up to fire a pitch for good ol' Civil Service. Playing on the ComMar Civil Service softball squad, "Buz" formerly twirled for a semi-pro nine in Washington, D. C., before she came to Guam. (Guam News Photo by Charles)

Every evening, except Wednesday, members of the luscious lineup trek down to Geiger Field for practice. The married players leave a can of beans and a note on the kitchen table informing hubby to get his own chow, "I've gone to play ball." If the old man gets the dishes washed in a hurry he can still get to the field in time to watch his better half perform with eight other athletic-minded fems.

The team, decked out in shorts and sweaters, adds more than a little touch of beauty to the diamond and this may be the reason for the overloaded male staff of two coaches and one manager. The story goes that the team has turned down countless offers for bat boys and trainers.

The job of umpiring the girls' games is not as enviable as one might think. There's no concrete evidence behind the story yet, but some say one official was hit on top of the head with a baseball bat immediately after calling a questionable strike against one lovely batter.

Most of the players on the all-girl team are no novices at the game. Four of them played semi-pro ball at Washington, D. C., before coming to Guam, and the rest have caught on quickly since signing up with the squad. Pretty Betty Smiley is the only non-Civil Service girl on the team, but she's one of the leading batters. Marie "Buz' Bzura handles the pitching chores and is one of the strongest advocates in the claim that they can beat any girls' team on the Island.

Holdout Wants Ring

ST. PETERSBURG, —(UP)— Holdout Pitcher Charley Wensloff of the New York Yankees was more worried today about getting his World Series souvenir ring than in landing a rise in salary.

General Manager George Weiss of the Yankees said Wensloff had written to him from his home in Sausalito, Cal., asking about the ring, but saying nothing about contract terms.

Wensloff pitched two innings of one game, in the World Series against Brooklyn, yielding two hits.

Manager Bucky Harris revealed he had gotten a telegram from medical student Bobby Brown, one of his prize prospects who said he was leaving Tulane University for training camp today.

"I'm anxious to help the Yankees win another world championship," Brown said.

Dixie Walker Replacement May Be Rookie of Year

TAMPA, Fla. —(UP)— The rookie of 1948, unless the baseball scouts are wrong, will be Erwin (Duke) Snider, who is being groomed to take over the right field spot which Dixie Walker held with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, disclosed today that the men who toured the sticks in 1947 for major league timber were agreed that Snider is the best prospect they saw.

"I don't know whether the Dodgers are interested in getting rid of him," he said, "But if they are there is one thing I can tell you and that is that the Reds will better any other deal they can make with any other major league club for Snider.

Would Like to Have Him

"I have enough confidence in the scouting reports to go that far and we would like to have him on our ball club."

Snider, who will not reach his 21st birthday until this coming Sept. 26, hit .316 with the Dodgers' American Association farm club at St. Paul last year. His 85 hits included 41 for extra bases, 12 of them being round trippers. "The scouts are agreed that he can run, field, throw and hit," Giles said. "There isn't any doubt but what the scouts figure he is the most promising newcomer in the spring training camps this year.

Snider hits left handed but throws right. He stands six feet two and weighs 175 pounds.

The fact that the Dodgers traded Walker to the Pirates by the way, is one reason Giles it not too high on their chances of repeating for the pennant.

"You can't lose men like Walker and Eddie Stanky without being hurt," Giles declared. "They were the guys who came through for them in the clutch—two pros who you knew were going to hurt you in the field or at bat. You can't replace players like that, even with a Snider. Snider may turn out to be a far better player—only time will tell—but he can't possibly provide the spark which Walker always gave the Dodgers."

Beaver Pilot Has Tough Job Ahead

RIVERSIDE, Cal. —(UP)— The miracle manager of the 1947 Pacific Coast League campaign will have his work cut out for him again in 1948.

Jim (Milkman) Turner, long-time major league hurler, carried a last-place 1946 gang of apparent misfits to third place in the 1947 grind.

The 1948 Portland Beaver prospects look no better than they did last year—and that's not good. But Turner did a remarkable job last season and he may be able to get the best out of this gang of cast-offs again.

"Best We Can Get"

"How good this club will be I don't know," says Turner. "But I can tell you this—we'll have the best ball team we can get."

On paper the Portland team isn't going to shape up too strongly—but it didn't last year, either. The pitching looks strong; the catching and outfield fair; the infield weak. If he pulls this club back into the first division again, it will be another near-miracle.

The mound corps has five reliables back from the 1947 club—Veteran Tommy Bridges, Ad Liska, Jake Mooty, Vince Diabiasi and Johnny Bianco. Good prospects among the newcomers include Jack McKinney, up from Beaumont where he won 13 and lost nine for a last-place club in the Texas League; and Ed. Kowalski, a 21-8 man from Augusta in the class A South Atlantic League.

Italian Atomic Authority Concludes World Safe From Chain Reaction

Rome —(UP)— Prof. Givanni Giorgi, Italy's foremost authority on atomic energy, has concluded that there is no danger of an atomic chain reaction which might cause the explosion of the earth.

He believes, however, that real danger of poisoning the sea and killing all marine life exists.

Author of many books on physics, mechanics and mathematics and originator of the Giorgi electrical unit system, the scientist said the explosion of huge uranium bombs in the ocean would release deadly radiation. Poisoning of the sea and the death of sea life, if carried out on a large scale would have grave consequences on all life, he warned.

Oceans So Far Exempt

"The oceans are the only source of life against which man, who destroys everything on earth, has not yet made any attempts. But this source, too, immense and fruitful, will be threatened on the first occasion by a potent poison."

He added that scientists have not devised any means yet of preventing this possible poisoning of marine life by uranium radiation. He paused a moment, nodded his head and said:

"I see only one remedy—all other animals should come to an agreement to hinder the human species from destroying life."

Giorgi recalled that when the first experiment in nuclear physics were made in Berlin for war purposes, the "most fantastic" precautions were taken to prevent the atomic flame in a laboratory from setting afire all the adjacent atoms, setting off the world like a great atomic bomb.

Scientists Disagree

The French physicist and nobel prize winner, Frederick Joliot, wrote several articles to allay the alarm resulting from false reports and denied the possibility of a planetary explosion. Joliot maintained that the explosive phenomenon of the elements which constitute the atomic bomb cannot propagate itself to the other elements of the planet.

"As you see, these two scientists disagreed only on absolute certainty," Giorgi said.

"The danger that man may cause a planetary catastrophe must be considered insufficient. It could happen only when a large part of terrestrial nucleus consisted of uranium. Such an existance could be imagined only at very great depth. But how could we set it when we can not go into the bowels of the earth deeper than three kilometers?"

China Republic Receives U. S. Drydock

The first of 172 U. S. Navy vessels which are to be delivered to China by authority of Public Law 512, 70th Congress, was delivered to Amoy, China January 31 of this year, being towed from Guam.

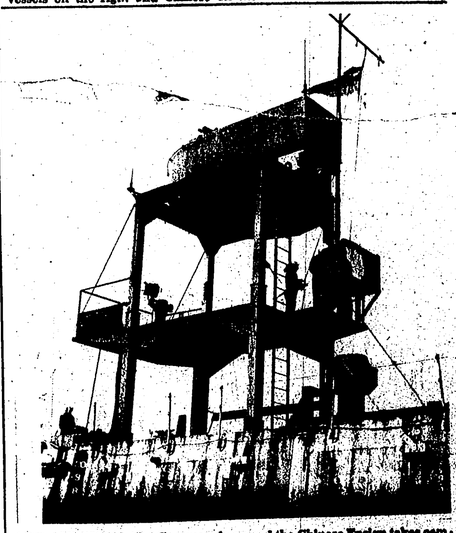
The AFDL 35, a 2800 ton concrete auxiliary floating dry dock, commanded by Lt. B. P. Johnson, left Apra Harbor January 15 in tow of the Lipan, ATF 85. Lt. F. A. Buttler, commanding officer of the Lipan, officially turned over the first vessel to Captain Kang Chao Hsing, commandant of the Chinese Third Naval District at Amoy.

Officials Present

Government officials from Singapore, Java, Hongkong, Bankok, and Saigon were represented in the Chinese receiptant party. Along with Capt. Hsing, were Capt. Welin Tscheh, shipyard superintendent, and Cdr. T. L. Lin, secretary of the Amoy sub base.

The AFDL 36 was operating in Apra Harbor when it was earmarked for delivery to China under Public Law 512, dated December 8, 1947. On December 15, Captain Gluntz, commanding officer of the Naval Operating Base Industrial Department, ordered cessation of operations.

LT. F. A. BUTTLER, captain of the USS Lipan, tow ship, which delivered the first of 172 U. S. Navy vessels to China, puts his signature on papers transfering ownership of the AFDL 35. Ceremonies were held aboard the dry dock with the crew of the U. S. vessels on the right and Chinese on the left.



THE AMERICAN FLAG comes down and the Chinese Ensign takes command of the auxiliary floating dry dock. An unidentified American sailor has just completed folding the American flag while the Chinese emblem is run up, signifying change of command.

Chinese Solve Blind Problem

KAOSHUING, Taiwan —(UP)— The island of Taiwan (Formosa), off the south China coast, is one of few places in the world where not a single blind man is a burden to the community.

During the 50 years of Japanese occupation of the island, the Japanese ingenully thought up a solution to the problem of the blind. In the "root, pig, or die" society of China, the blind always have existed precariously near starvation, or simply died.

The Japanese opened a large government school and trained the blind in the latest scientific techniques of massage. They worked on the theory that eyes are not needed for the work and that a blind man's sense of touch would be considerably better than that of a masseur who can see.

Best Masseurs

In some cases, the students stayed on at the school for two and three years. When they were graduated, they were among the world's best trained masseurs.

The school closed after the war when the island was transferred to Chinese hands. The central government simply didn't have the money to keep it going. However, UNRRA funds opened it again—at least temporarily.

As soon as the sun sets on Taiwan, you can hear the blind masseurs slowly wandering the streets playing short, eerie tunes on their flutes to announce their whereabouts.

Sounds in the Night

When you are ready for bed, you merely lean out of a window and hail a passing masseur. You pay him first, then get into bed. He works you over soundly for a full hour and, when you are completely relaxed, he creeps quietly out of the house and leaves you to slumber.

You continue to hear the flutes until one or two in the morning. Finally, after everyone else has gone to bed, the blind men also go home. They have earned enough, before they go to bed, to be self-supporting members of their community.

China Commends U. S. Tsingtao Navy

The U. S Naval Forces which were instrumental in keeping the damage and casualities, from the explosion in Tsingtao, China, on March 9, at a minimum have been commended by the Chinese authorities, according to word received in Pacific Fleet Headquarters recently.

Major General Li Moe, of the Chinese National Army made the following anouncement to the U. S. Naval forces in Tsingtao: "On behalf of the 8th Army, may I express our deep appreciation to U. S. Naval personnel for the heroic help extended to us at the sudden explosion at our warehouse on Shan Ho road."

Disaster Belief

Immediately following the explosion which occurred in a Chinese Army warehouse about a half a mile east of the Tsingtao dock area, the Navy ships there demonstrated their training in disaster relief by dispatching fire and rescue parties to the scene.

The fire and rescue party from the naval hospital ship USS REPOSE was the first to reach the scene, followed rapidly by teams from the other ships. By the time the Tsingtao fire and police departments had joined these forces in fighting the fire, additional fire and rescue parties from the ships in the outer harbor had begun to arrive, and Navy water trucks were augmenting the inadequate water supply at the fire.

Navy Ambulances

Navy ambulances were being used in evacuating casualities, and medical personnel from the hospital ship set up first aid stations which treated hundreds of injured not requiring hospitalization.

The following are excerpts from Tsingtao newspapers: TSINGTAO TIMES, MARCH 10: "The first rescue parties to arrive on the scene were those of the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps. Immediately after the explosion occurred, they dispatched over ten ambulances and two hundred hospital corpsmen...."

MIN PAO, MARCH 10: "the heroism of the U. S. Naval personnel has won the wild acclaim and admiration of the populace of Tsingtao...."

Hawaii Publisher Praises Scenic Guam

High praises for Guam's color photographers was expressed by George T. Armitage, publisher from Hawaii, just prior to his departure for Honolulu this week. Mr. Armitage had advertised in the GUAM NEWS for color transparencies of scenic beauty spots and points of interest here and he was amazed at the enthusiastic response.

"I certainly discovered," he remarked, "that the GUAM NEWS is widely read, and furthermore that the residents of this Island, and particularly the surprisingly large number of color photo fans, know of far more beautiful places to visit than a short-time visitor like myself would imagine."

Expressed Thanks

During his limited stay Armitage inspected hundreds of color transparencies and found some which may be suitable for reproduction in his publications. He expressed his thanks to all who submitted slides and suggested—because of the large variety of subjects and the general interest—that a public showing be arranged here through the offices of Norbert F. Tabery Washington High principal.

The first Guam natural color pictures will appear in a beautiful souvenir 1949 calendar which is now being printed, and which will be for sale on Guam this fall in time for mailing to the mainland and elsewhere as a greeting card or holiday gift. Armitage brought with him a few advance proofs which indicate how colorful this production will be, and how representative of the Guam scene.

Zieff Photo

The frontice picture for the Guam calendar series was purchased from the former GUAM NEWS photographer, Howard Zeiff. Another excellent photo appearing in the issue is that taken by Tabery from atop the ComMar Hill road.

Truman's Speech Gets Rise From Radio Moscow

LONDON, March 19 —(UP)— President Truman's speech yesterday evoked anxiety even among many conservative American politicians, Radio Moscow said today.

A Moscow broadcast quoted a dispatch from New York reporting in detail on American reaction to the Truman speech.

Most of the reaction was taken from the domestic opposition to Truman, including Rep. Dewey Short, and third party presidential candidate Henry A. Wallace.

The dispatch quoted Short as saying there was an atmosphere of hysteria.

According to reports of the associated correspondent, many Republicans consider Truman deliberately is creating a crisis in the interest of politics, Radio Moscow said.

Truman's speech evoked sharp criticism from progressive American politicans.

Moscow quoted Wallace and his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D—Ida.) as saying that the President's program would establish a "militaristic state in America."

Moscow also quoted Rep. Vito Marcantonio and recently-elected Rep. Leo Isacson to the effect that the President proposed to militarize America in order to hide his bankrupt policy."

The dispatch contained about 500 words, all quoting Americans opposing President Truman.

Sweden, Norway Denmark Defy Communism

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 19 —(UP)— The Premiers of Sweden, Norway and Denmark in a challenge to Communist encroachment said tonight their countries would choose freedom and democracy before slavery and dictatorship.

In speeches tonight in a jammed concert hall, they aligned the fate of their countries solidly and unqualifiedly with Western Europe.

Premier Einar Gerhardson of Norway said that Scandinavian Communists were too weak to essay a coup or a revolution.

But there is reason to believe," he warned, "that they will use all their organizing force in a fight to undermine the economy of our countries."

The fight against the Marshall Plan and European Recovery is one of the steps in this battle. We may expect they will use all the chances they have to cause unrest among the working classes and in trade organizations."

Premier Hans Hedtoft of Denmark pleaded for adherence of the three countries, in a solid Scandinavian front, to the western powers.

Wallace Answers Truman

NEW YORK, March 19 —(UP)— Henry A. Wallace, replying to President Truman's call for revival of the draft, said tonight the doctrine of stopping Communism with American arms now has been expanded to the point where it threatens the life of every human being in the world.

Wallace, a third party candidate for president, said there was not a single valid reason why the United States should fight Russia.

He charges that "men with private interests" are "trafficking in the word "Communism" in a deliberate attempt to "blot out reason," restore Selective Service and provoke a third world war.

Government Curbs Coal Exports

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP)— Faced with dwindling coal supplies due to the four-day-old mine strike, the government today curbed soft coal exports and ordered railroads to cut passenger service by 12 per cent. Both orders are effective at midnight Sunday.

At the same time Cyrus S. Ching, federal mediation director, sought a basis for settling the coal dispute in personal conference with miners' President John L. Lewis and the coal producers.

Government officials fear a long strike over Lewis' pension demands may weaken the nation's hand in the "cold war," with Russia. They say a coal shortage would deeply cut into production of steel, machinery and other goods badly needed by the 16 Marshall Plan countries of eastern Europe.

Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman suspended as of March 21 export licenses for soft coal shipments which have averaged 2,500,000 tons a month. The only exemptions are exports to Canada and coal actually in transit or at the docks.

Reduced railroad passenger service was ordered by the office of defense transportation.

Allied Commission Rejects Soviet Motion

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP) —The Allied Far Eastern Commission tonight rejected a Russian motion to censure Gen. Douglas MacArthur for sending a Japanese representative to an international conference at Geneva without FEC permission.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander Panyushken, who called for the official rebuke, was the only member of the 11 nation commission to vote for it. Eight other representatives on the FEC, which sets allied policy for Japan, cast their ballots against it and two members abstained.

Panyushken's resolution flayed MacArthur for by-passing the commission while it was studying whether Japanese should be permitted to attend inter-governmental conferences.

Oak Ridge Chemical Company to Strike

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP) —The Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp., today rejected a union offer to call off a strike scheduled for tomorrow midnight at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic laboratories. Its action apparently meant that only an injunction can avert the walkout.

The AFL Atomic Trades and Labor council notified President Truman that it could call off the strike if the company maintained present working conditions. The union added this offer made issuance of a federal court injunction unnecessary.

But Silas Pickering, vice-president of Carbide and Carbon, rejected the proposal. He said it "would be impossible" to maintain present working conditions without an injunction.

The Oak Ridge dispute, involving some 200 employes, concerning a new contract to replace one which ran out when Carbide and Carbon took over operation of the Laboratories for the Atomic Energy Commission last March 1.

The Justice Department already is in the final stages of seeking an injunction.

Forrestal, Royall Say Draft Essential

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP)— The administration's preparedness drive gathered momentum today as top military spokesmen called for an increase in the Army, Navy and Air Forces above their present authorized strength of 1,700,000 men.

Defense Secretary James Forrestal and Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall told the Senate Armed Services Committee the temporary draft and universal training legislation asked by President Truman is essential as "insurance" in case of war.

They dismissed as "propaganda" reports of Russian demobilization and warned that America's existing military strength, particularly in the ground forces, would be "inadequate" for war with the Soviet Union.

Forrestal said the Army is asking for an authorized strength of 900,000 men, compared with the present limit of 669,000 and an actual strength of only 550,000.

He emphasized that even the present "adequate" manpower goals are not being met under the voluntary system. The armed services, he said are now about 350,000 short of authorized quotas.

The ceilings now in force were based on the assumption, made two years ago, that greater progress would be made toward peace, he said.

Forrestal urged the committee not to succumb to "seductive appeals that atomic weapons and guided missiles had done away with the need for large numbers of trained men in war."

He agreed that a powerful air force is vital in modern warfare, but warned that it must be coordinated with ground forces, maintenance of bases, a Navy and other elements.

"All are essential and all cost money," he said. "Without balanced strength we cannot have security.

De Gasperi To Tour Italy's Industries

ROME, Italy, March 19 —(UP)— Premier Enrico De Gasperi opened a major campaign tour in the industrial north, stronghold of Communism, tonight by denouncing Italian leftists for acting under foreign orders.

Strengthened and heartened by President Truman's promise of support for democracy, Gasperi in a speech at Bologna declared his full support of a western European union to save liberty, civilization and peace.

Gasperi charged that the new Communist information bureau had set up a secret committee to coordinate Communist agitation in both Italy and France. He said the Communists were deliberately sabotaging in every way government attempts to reach trade agreements with Russia, Yugoslavia and other eastern European countries.

As Gasperi left Rome, Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, secretary of the Vatican sacred oriental congregation, told Catholics of his suburban Rome diocese that support of Communism would bring them the sternest penalties of the Church including refusal of Christian burial after death.

Amidst the growing election tension federal police here carried on a round-up of hidden arms.

House Committee Authorizes Charters

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP) —The House Foreign Affairs Committee today agreed to authorize the charter of 200 American ships to Marshall Plan nations over wide spread objection from maritime unions and shipping interests.

This provision, which was somewhat similar to one knocked out of the Senate version of the aid bill, has been opposed by U. S. maritime workers and employers.

The committee, seeking to speed up the drafting of it's omnibus foreign aid bill in an effort to finish it by the weekend, also agreed that:

1. A "substantial part" of the ERP goods should be carried in American ships. The Senate bill specified that at least 50 per cent had to be carried in American bottoms.

2. Some $500,000,000 of the $5,300,000,000 for the first year of ERP should be made available for guarantees of the investments of private American concerns in enterprises approved by the ERP administrator.

Cardinal Tisserant Warns of Communism

ROME, March 19 —(UP)— Eugene Cardinal Tisserant warned Italians today in the Catholic Church's strongest statement so far against Communism that its doctrines "are a very grave danger to religions."

Tisserant sounded his warning in a letter to the faith of his diocese as the Italian election campaign, new clearly shaped up on the issue of Communism against non-Communism, went into its last month.

Supports of the Communists, the High Prelate said, would mean religious sanctions. It was another in a series of pronouncements by church dignitaries on the political situation.

Oil Men Warn of Dwindling Oil Supplies

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP) —Oil men said today that at the rate the country is burning petroleum it had better find some new reserves—quick.

To prevent serious shortages, the petroleum industry said, nearly two barrels of oil reserves must be found for every barrel taken out of the ground at least through 1950.

And to accomplish this, it added, it will have to have about one-sixth of the country's finished steel output for the next 18 months in order to expand drilling, production, transportation, distribution and storage.

100-Page Survey

These estimates were disclosed in a 100-page survey prepared by the national petroleum council which represents major segments of the industry. The report was made under the Republican anti-inflation act which permits industry-wide voluntary action to overcome shortages of critical products.

As a point of departure, the survey used Interior Department estimates that last year's record daily consumption of 5,000,000 barrels will soar to 6,250,000 in 1948.

Douglas Hyde Renounces Communism

LONDON, March 19 —(UP)— Douglas Hyde, news editor of the British Communist official newspaper Daily Worker, announced tonight that he had quit his post, renounced the party and adhered to the Catholic church because he could no longer stomach the Kremlin's policies.

In both his resignation from paper and party and his decision to join the Catholic church, Hyde parallelled the action of Louis F. Budenan former managing editor of the New York Daily Worker, the Communist organ for the United States.

Hyde, 40 years old, had been a member of the Communist party for nearly 20 years.

He revealed that he had been worried over Russian policies ever since the end of the war and that since October he had turned toward Catholicism as the answer to the world's ills.

Strike Causes Rise In Meat Prices

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP) —Industry-wide strikes boosted meat prices sharply today, caused a virtual embargo on soft coal exports, and forced railroads to prepare cuts in passenger service.

At least 505,800 workers were idle in labor disputes across the nation. It was the first big strike wave since enactment of the Taft-Hartley Law.

About 390,000 of the strikers are members of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, seeking a $100-a-month pension. More than 100,000 are members of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers.

Headline Highlights

WASHINGTON, March 19 —(UP)— Administraion leaders in the Senate today gave up their fight to reduce the $4,800,000,000 Republican tax cut bill.

Four other men aboard the plane crawled through a hole in the fuselage and ran to safety. They were taken to the military hospital suffering from minor injuries and shock.

One of the victims was a passenger aboard the plane returning to his home station here. All others were from the Air Force base at Spokane, Wash.

The survivors were identified as First Lt. Roy M. Walsh; George T. Wright, Wash.; First Lt. R. H. Hathaway of Taunton, Mass.; Staff Sgt. C. C. McPler of Parkersburg, W. Va. and Cpl. J. M. Miller of Bedford, Pa.

Middies Slated for Training Cruises

About 3,255 Naval ROTC midshipmen will cruise to Hawaii this summer as part of their training for officers' commission in the regular Navy and Marine Corps.

The Aircraft Carriers USS Boxer and USS Princeton will cruise one group consisting of about 1,265 students and the Battleship USS Iowa and the modern Light Cruiser USS Springfield, USS Pasadena, and USS Astoria will cruise the remainder.

These midshipmen, who are getting their college education and naval training at Naval Reserve Officers Training Units established at 52 colleges and universities throughout the nation, will assemble at San Francisco about June 23.

Both groups will sail from there on June 26 on the eight-week training cruises.

The aircraft carriers are scheduled to arrive in Pearl Harbor July 3 and will be here until July 13 when they will depart for West Coast ports. The training of the midshipmen aboard these ships will be directed toward teaching them the latest developments in Naval Aviation.

The other group will proceed to Seattle, Washington, for a five day liberty and recreation period over the Fourth of July before coming to Pearl Harbor, July 20.

After leaving here July 30 the midshipmen in the Iowa Springfield, Astoria and Pasadena will receive training in the newest methods of amphibious warfare. After a short period of gunnery exercises they will disembark at San Francisco on August 21.

Captain Harry W. Need, USN, Professor of Naval Science at the University of California, has been named officer in charge of the midshipmen on this cruise.

These future officers are being trained under the Navys ROTC plan in which over 2000 young men are selected annually by nationwide competition for college scholarships.

Even Gum Chewing Has Certain Rules

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Gum is a horrible word, but it's worse on the end of your nose. Particularly bubble gum, which is worse almost anyplace.

So an outfit in Boston named Gum Products, Inc., got to thinking about it and dreamed up a new kind of chewing wax. A non- stickable stick of gum. It won't get in the hair, eye, ears, nose or throat. And while he was at it, Thomas G. Wilder, thought up a set of rules for chewing the stuff.

1. Don't chew gum in church. And if you do, for heaevns sake, don't blow it!

2. People dread it when you spread it. Keep it to yourself.

3. No parking in public places. Wrap it up before you flip it.

4. Nobody likes a "stuck up" kid. Keep it off your face and hands.

5. Dirty paws make dirty jaws. Don't rubble the bubble.

6. Nobody swaps chewed-up potatoes. Why swap chewed-up bubble gum?

7. Time out. There are 366 days this year, Leap Year. Don't chew your head off in one day.

8. Schools are places to learn, not churn. Put stoppers on your choppers. Don't be the teacher's pest!

9. Don't gum up the works.

USS Edisto Navy's Antarctic Menagerie

The only two Weddell seals ever taken into captivity are now enroute from the Antarctic to the United States aboard the USS Edisto, one of the two Navy ice breakers recently completing several months of exploration in the South Pole regions.

Accompanying the seals, which weigh about 400 pounds each and measure about 11 feet in length, are 24 penguins, including ten Emperors, 13 Adelies and one Ring Neck. Both the seals and penguins are headed for the National Zoological Park, Washington, D. C.

The seals are reported to be not vicious, and only bare their teeth when molested. Ten pounds of frozen fish constitute their daily diet. They are temporarily at home in a canvas-lined tank used to initiate Naval personnel when the Edisto crossed the equator last November en route to the Antarctic.

The fantail of the Burton Island, sister ship of the Edisto, has been a howling "dog town" since the ship departed from Marguerite Bay, where ten huskies, including three six-week old puppies, from the Finn Ronne expedition were placed aboard for return to the United States.

Japanese Get Democratic Literature

TOKYO—(UP)—The Japanese people are getting some "democratic" reading material.

At last they are finding out the truth about their own country and the rest of the world.

It is a big job to replace all the old books that were filled with propaganda, but allied officials told the United Press that the program is progressing rapidly.

Officials of Allied Headquarters Civil Information and Education section are pretty well pleased with the accomplishments thus far in the program for publication and distribution of books for use in the Japanese schools and public libraries.

They said that the Mombusho (Education Ministry) has authorized the publication of 159,742,858 copies of textbooks by April, of which 130,547,501 have already been printed and issued.

The tremendous task of rewriting the nation's textbooks has been accelerated with the appointment of 37 members of the standing textbook Committee, which will advise the Minister of Education on textbook compilation, standards for approval, printing and distribution.

Last Request Granted But Too Late

CHICAGO —(UP)— Fourteen-year-old Marilyn Gunneman was dying and wanted some watermelon.

She made this plea several days ago when she lay critically ill in her home at Cooperville, Mich., as a result of an automobile accident last Halloween. She was paralyzed.

"If I could only have some watermelon as an appetizer, then maybe I could eat all the other things that I need so much," she said.

Watermelon was out of season.

Yesterday, a melon weighing almost 40 pounds, was sent to Miami by Pan American Air Express. It was picked up by an Eastern Air Lines plane and flown to Chicago and later to Coopersville.

Her father wept as he expressed his thanks.

Marilyn had been rushed to a hospital last night and died at 4 o'clock this morning, just a few hours before the watermelon arrived.

Harmon MP's Seize Night Prowler

HARMON AIR FORCE BASE—A prowler was apprehended by two Harmon Field Military Police after a running fight, it was announced here last Tuesday night.

Seen creeping through the dependents housing area by Pfc. Nathaniel Barham, one of the MP's, the villian began to run. At this time, Pfc. Blair Boudreau, also an MP, cut him off, enabling Barham to grapple with him.

The man was finally subdued and taken to the Provost's Marshal's office, where he was booked on a charge of trespassing.

There have been several instances of prowling, housebreaking, and peeping in the dependents housing area. A special patrol of Military Police has been assigned to keep this type of violation at a minimum.

S. F. Begins West Coast Charm School

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)— San Francisco latched onto another qualification for its title as one of the world's most cosmopolitan cities last week.

It popped up with the nation's first inter-racial charm and modeling—a sort of international version of Power's and Conover's whose models can out-sex and out-slink the most sultry American beauties.

The first crop of graduates of this purveyor of foreign beauty, known as the International Finishing School, already are looking for job and getting them. They're the cover girls of the international scene.

The school's list of telephone numbers would be a paradise for the delegates to the United Nations. "The Harem," as the wisecres in the West Coast fashion and photography world already are dubbing it, includes Eurasians, Chinese, Koreans, Mexicans, Negroes, Hawaiians and American Indians.

"It's not the race but the individuality that makes for beauty."

Christmas Once a Year, but When?

HARMON FIELD — Most people will tell you that Santa Claus only comes at Christmas, but if you were here to ask little Jimmie Hogan he would tell you that it doesn't have to be December 24th or 25th for good old St. Nick to pay you a visit.

It seems that Jimmie's dad, F/Sgt. John W. Hogan of the 17th Communications Squadron, thought that Jimmie and his mother would be on Guam in time for Santa to pay his regular annual visit. However things just didn't turn out that way, so when Santa arrived at Sgt. Hogan's on Christmas Eve and found that Jimmie wasn't there, Old Nick and the sarge found themselves confronted with a pretty tough problem.

Santa just couldn't go all the way back to Miami, Florida, where Jimmie and his mother lived, because it would make him late for all the rest of his deliveries. However, after a few minutes serious deliberation, the sarge and St. Nick came through with a pretty good solution.

Santa decided he would have his helpers keep his plane engines in tune until he received a special delivery air mail letter from Sgt. Hogan stating Jimmie's expected time of arrival. Then he would board his plane, the "Pole to Pole Clipper," and hop down to bring Jimmie a belated but Merry Christmas.

After Jimmie and his mother debarked from the USAT General Langfitt and were reunited with Sgt. Hogan, they went home to a delightful surprise. There in the front room were Jimmie's belated presents. And what a time he had opening them. All the things which go to make up a merry Christmas, including a stocking filled with goodies. Incidentally, the sarge says as he opened the front door, he heard the back door close quietly. St. Nick had kept his promise.

Which all goes to prove that St. Nick is a pretty good old Joe and that even though "Christmas comes but once a year" it all depends on when Christmas is.

Well Why Not?

MANFIELD, O. —(UP)— The Rev. David W. Roller of the First Presbyterian Church believes some sort of kissing record was set at a marriage ceremony he performed.

Despite several rehearsals, the bridegroom at each three pauses during the actual ceremony kissed the bride, thinking the service was over.

When it was ended, the minister with a smile informed the young man, "now you may kiss the bride." He did—for the fourth time.

Over The Joepot

by Bill Jury

GOOD MORNING....When Fritz Crisler quit as head football coach of Michigan he bowed out just at the right time... after the termination of one of the most successful gridiron seasons in Wolverine history. His eleven had won the crown of the tough Big Nine conference, reaped the rose honors at Pasadena, and had been chosen by many as the top team in the nation over Notre Dame.

But many wondered about Crisler's resigning the tutorship. A couple of months back the University of Washington was scouring the country for a coach to take the place of Ralph "Pest" Welch who had resigned after a disastrous season at Seattle. It was a well-known fact that Crisler was one of the many coaches considered for the position before Yale's Howie Odell was signed. Later, Yale put the vacancy sign in the window for a mentor to fill Odell's spot. They would gladly have signed Crisler, and who wouldn't, but nary a peep from the Michigan grid magician

Other schools to go on a coach-hunt were Colorado, Navy, Kansas, and recently, Indiana, who was trying to fill Bo McMillan's shoes.

Apparently Crisler was more than satisfied with the setup at Michigan and liked nothing better than to remain at Ann Arbor as athletic director. Had he been displeased with any phase of his work he could have stepped back and picked at random any offer made by the many colleges who were after his services. Instead he chose to remain at Michigan. For Crisler it means turning his back on 25 years in the coaching department. But in that quarter of a century he never had a team quite as great as his '47 edition. And, what's more, he probably wouldn't have another that could compare with it as long as he stuck with the racket.

Maybe he was wise in picking this as the time to leave the gridiron.

Duroch... ...d ...binson's workout should ... t be taken as an indication he had decided to move the negro star to second permanently. Robinson, who reported to camp 17 pounds overweight, said he had lost 12 pounds since his arrival and was now down to 203 pounds.

Fifth Service at Home in Baseball Opener Today

Eight baseball games will highlight the Island's sports program this afternoon, as six teams in the Inter-Command baseball league, play their first game of the 1948 season, while the other ten teams play their second.

Fans will get their first glimpse of the Fifth Service Marine team, defending champions of 1947, as they play host to the NAS Agana All Stars. NAS Agana was one of the four late entries which called for a revision of the schedule. The other three teams are, FasRon 13, Marine Barracks, and the Naval Ammunition Depot, (NAD).

The most likely prospect to beat the Fifth Service Marines out of the Island title this season is the NOB Industrial Miners. The Miners will play host to NAD this afternoon in an attempt to win their second straight victory.

The NavBks-RecSta Dodgers will throw open their gates to FasRon 13, at their home diamond, Ebbets Field. After losing Wednesday to the Industrial Miners, NBRS will be trying to even their record.

To round out the eight game schedule, ComMar plays host to the 1507 CB's, NavComSta journeys to Yards and Docks, NAS Orote-MAG 24 combine, clashes with Marine Barracks at Orote, the 1st Marine Brigade journeys to NSC and the Triple "A" Marines travel to the 103rd CB diamond.

Italian Heavyweight Favored, 2-1, Tonight

NEW YORK, March 19 —(UP)— Gino Buonvino, Italian heavyweight contender, was favored at 2-1, today, to beat substitute Lee Savold of Paterson, N. J., in their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Savold will take over for Joe Baksi of Dupont, Pa., who was scheduled to fight Buonvino, but who sprained his right ankle in training Tuesday.

Buonvino, 23, was favored because of his youth, ruggedness, stamina and busy style. He has registered nine victories and one draw in 10 American fights. The scrapper from Bari, Italy, upset Jackie Cranford on Jan. 30.

Savold, 32, has been fighting professionally for 14 years. During his career he met nearly every prominent contemporary heavyweight except Joe Louis. He hasn't fought since last August 11 when he knocked out Albert Marchione. However, he had been training for six weeks for a bout scheduled tonight at Worcester, Massachusetts. He obtained his release from the Worcester bout when offered the Buonvino scrap.

Local All-Navy Boxing Eliminations On Tap at NAS Agana Tanight

The 1948 All-Navy boxing eliminations begin tonight at the NAS Agana theater as the first step in selecting representatives for the Navy Olympic team as well as deciding the Navy champs.

Approximately 80 fighters appeared at the NAS Agana welfare and recreation office yesterday morning to sign for the Guam eliminations and learn the order of their bouts.

At signing the announcement was made by All-Navy officials that the four top fighters in all classes at the finals in San Diego would proceed to Annapolis, Maryland, to train for the 1948 Olympic games under the Navy boxing officials.

Johnny Kamber, last year's runner-up in the All-Navy bouts, was present at the signing, along with Lefty Huebie Herbert, West-Pac's hope for the heavyweight title, David Avery, Leo Matthews, and Homer Thomas, hard hitting middleweight from Fifth Service, was absent, but will be gunning with the rest for a berth on the boxing squad when the eliminations begin.

Johnny Wright and Andy Anderson, picked to go far in the All-Navy fights, repeatedly won't see action in the eliminations. Anderson was transferred from his duty station on Saipan and Wright has decided not to enter. Greek Lekanidis, who won the Western Pacific featherweight crown last year, won't be around to fight due to a hand injury suffered some months ago.

The eliminations will probably run until Tuesday night with the finalists representing Guam in the Marianas meet slated for April 9.

Four rings are being constructed at the Agana arena to expedite the eliminations.

The bouts will be three rounds, each round three minutes long.

The bouts will begin at 1930 and all fighters are reminded to report at the dressing room at 1830.

Will all baseball managers, who haven't forwarded team rosters to the GUAM NEWS Sports Desk, please do so as soon as possible. Rosters are to include full name, nickname, position, rate and uniform number of each player. Phone number: AT 3158.

Kentucky Swamps Columbia; Holy Cross Downs 'Wolves'

NEW YORK, March 19 —(UP)— Kentucky's basketball team defeated Columbia, 76 to 53 tonight to advance as expected to the Eastern finals of the National Collegiate Tournament.

The tournament-wise—veterans from Dixie, making their 11th appearance at Madison Square Garden in three years, turned the big floor into a "board walk" along which they paraded almost leisurely to as many goals as they wanted

Led by Wallace (Wah Wah) Jones, Alex (The spot) Groza and and 3.

If Coach Adolh Rupp had not sent his regulars from the floor with about half of the second period remaining, the Kentuckians might easily have set several new scoring records. As it was, they came within three points of the N. C. A. A. all-time high of 79 set by Arkansas against Oregon in 1945.

New York, March 19 —(UP)— Holy Cross, the defending champion, and Kentucky, the most likely sucessor, breezed to easy victories tonight and won the right to meet each other Saturday in the Eastern finals of the National Collegiate Basketball Tournament.

The cruisin' Crusaders from Holy Cross topped Michigan, 63 to 45, while Kentucky's Wildcats smashed Columbia 76 to 53.

Ralph Beard, the Wildcats piled up a 38 to 25 half-time advantage and coasted the rest of the way.

Jones led the scoring parade with 21 points on nine goals and three free throws. Groza made 17 on seven fielders and three from the line while Beard had 15 on 6

Dyer's 1948 Hopes Pinned on Rookies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(UP) Eddie Dyer has pinned the 1948 pennant hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals on a group of rookies.

"They have to come through," he emphasized, "So we will be able to match the depth of the Dodgers. They beat us last year because we couldn't cope with their bench power."

Dyer is satisfied that man for man, among the regulars, the Cardinals will match the Dodger strength.

"But we are going to have to come up with a couple of handy ball players like Cookie Lavagetto and Arky Vaughan," he said. "Those two guys alone gave us plenty of trouble last year with Cookie beating us twice in pinch hitting roles.

"I didn't have anyone like that to stick in there."

First 1948 Error Made by Rickey

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, March 19 —(UP)— Branch Rickey agreed today, that his Brooklyn Dodgers hurt their 1948 pennant chances by selling Eddie Stanky to the Boston Braves.

Advised by baseball writers, who had covered the Florida camps, that such baseball men as Warren Giles of the Cincinnati Reds, Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies and Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals were unanimous in their belief that Brooklyn's chances of repeating decreased with the departure of Stanky.

Rickey tried to defend the deal, without too much success. As usual the words flowed freely in his answers, but they were evasive to a large degree and he finally admitted:

"We may have made a mistake. I have made mistakes before and I expect to make mistakes again, but I can tell you that the Stanky deal was not made until Leo Durocher and the coaches felt it was the thing to do."

Asked why he made the deal when he knew or felt it would weaken his club, he answered:

"On a deal like that mistakes are possible. We made it because we thought it would be for the best of the ball club."

Senate Group Questions Marshall And Forrestal

WASHINGTON, March 20 —(UP)— The Senate Armed Services Committee moved today to pry loose any secret information Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Defense Secretary James Forrestal may have to justify a revival of the wartime draft.

The committee decided in executive session to recall the two cabinet officers next week, probably Monday, for a secret hearing at which they will be asked to elaborate on testimony they gave this week in support of the draft and Universal Military Training.

Chairman Chan Gurney, (R—S. D.) declined to say what information was wanted. But other committee members made it plain they were dissatisfied with the reasons President Truman, Marshall and Forrestal have given for demanding an immediate military preparedness program.

"We've heard too many glittering generalities," one committeeman said.

Two committee members indicated the group wanted mainly to know if any new foreign policy developments had occured to warrant drafting young men.

They said they had been told nothing to indicate a fundamental change in the international situation which would rasie an imminent threat of war.

"We'd vote for it (the draft) in a minute if we thought war was threatened," one senator said.

Another regarded Selective Service as a "war measure" and wondered why the President and his aides linked it with universal training.

Informal polls of both the Senate and House Services Committees indicated a clear-cut majority for some form of Selective Service, but the Senate body seemed bent on getting a closer look at the administration's facts before acting.

Senate Republicans have not opposed the draft proposal, but have postponed a final commitment pending a survey of national defense needs by the armed services groups.

Nobel Prize Winner Held by Officals

NEW YORK, March 20 —(UP)— Mrs. Irene Joliot-Curie, French Nobel prize winner and daughter of the discoverers of radium, was released from Ellis Island today but soon afterward immigration officials detained Louis Saillant, secretary general of the World Federation of Trade Unions, when he arrived from France.

The 37-year-old former French delegate to the United Nations Economic and Social Council was held for more than an hour. He was enroute to a labor meeting in Mexico City.

Attorney General Tom Clark ordered Mrs. Joliot-Curie released after she had been confined over night without explanation. She will be free to move anywhere in the U. S. until the expiration of her visa in two weeks.

Saillant said he would protest his detention to the French ambassador and to United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

Henry A. Wallace (AP Photo)

Wallace Replies to Truman Speech

NEW YORK, March 20 —(UP)— Henry A. Wallace charged tonight that President Truman had appealed "to prejudice because he would not answer with reason" when he made an impromptu attack on Wallace Wednesday night.

In a speech prepared for delivery over the radio network of the Mutual Broadcasting System, Wallace replied to the President's biting statement on St. Patrick's day that he did not want and would not accept the support of "Henry Wallace and his Communists," even if it meant political defeat next November.

Supporting American Program

Wallace did not repudiate Communist support.

He said that if "the few thousand American Communists" supported him and his third party running mate, Sen. Glen Taylor, they would be supporting a purely American program "based on our belief in democracy."

He repeated his challenge to all presidential candidates to join in a pledge that they would not accept support of those who work limit "democratic action" for labor unions and other individuals and groups, those who would restrict civil liberties or those who advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

Heavy Storms Raging In Midwest

CHICAGO, March 20 —(UP)— Tornadoes and windstorms swept across five midwestern states today with heavy loss of life and property.

At least 35 persons were killed and 30 of them in Illinois. More than 300 were injured in Illinois alone.

Two children were killed in a tornado which cut through three northwestern counties of Ohio and one man was killed when a barn collapsed in a windstorm near Flat Rock, Mich.

Hardest Hit

But the region hardest hit was eastern Missouri and southern Illinois, where two tornadoes cut through dozens of towns and villages, flattening some of them completely.

Ray Webster, Jr., a United Press staff correspondent sent into the stricken southern Illinois area, reported through police radio that 12 persons had been killed at Bunker Hill, Illinois, and 14 at nearby Fosterburg, Illinois.

Four others were killed at Gillespie, Ill.

House Group Approves Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, March 20 —(UP) The House Foreign Affairs committee today formally approved a $6,205,000,000 "single package" foreign aid bill.

The measure will be considered by the house beginning next Tuesday.

It includes:

For the European Recovery Program—$5,300,000,000.

For economic and military aid to China—$570,000,000.

For Greek-Turkish military aid —$275,000,000.

For the International Childrens Fund—$60,000,000.

Trieste Relief

Included in the funds for ERP is a $20,000,000 authorization for relief in the free territory of Trieste.

The program of aid for China would provide $420,000,000 for economic assistance and $150,000,000 specifically earmarked for military aid.

Everyone of the 15 members present at the end of the wind-up session voted to report the bill out. But the Democrats made it clear they did so with misgivings. They had fought for days, particulary strenuous in the last hours of consideration, to confine the measure to ERP alone.

Policeman Injured In Communist Attack Near Naples

ROME, March 20 —(UP)— One policeman was wounded by gunfire tonight and three Christian Socialists were injured when Communists attacked a right-wing election parade at Castellammare near Naples.

Hundreds of mobile guards, charging into Venezia Square in jeeps, prevented an open clash in Rome between Communists and members of the extreme Right Wing Italian social movement.

The Castellammare fight was the first in an election campaign which reached new intensity after President Truman's St. Patrick's Day speech on Communist encroachment.

Political parties had declared a truce during the campaign for the April Parliamentry election, which will tell whether Italy is to remain with the Western Nations or go Communist.

But tempers were rising and violence broke out in Castellammare despite the truce.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi, taking his election fight into the Communist-dominated northern industrial area, said in a speech at Brescia tonight that President Truman well described Italian Communists when he told how "aggressive minorities" were trying to take control.

Marshall Says Russia Using Nazi Techniques

BERKELY, Calif., March 20 —(UP)— Secretary of State George C. Marshall today accused Russia of employing the Nazi technique to conquer Europe and said the present international situation was "as grave as any that has ever confronted this nation."

Further aggression in Europe, he warned bluntly, must be stopped immediately. But he said the United States will "keep the door wide open for any general conciliatory moves.

"Never before in history has the world situation been more threatening to our ideals and interests," Marshall said in an address during anniversary ceremonies at the University of California.

"A depressing aspect of the situation is the duplication in Europe of the high-handed and calculated procedure of the Nazi regime."

In his first public address since President Truman called on Congress for enactment of a temporary draft and Universal Military Training, the secretary of state set forth these further points:

1—Italy or any other nation falling to the Communists henceforth will be stricken from the list of European Recovery Program countries.

2—The alliance of Great Britain, France and the Benelux countries must be implemented with American "cooperation and assistance."

3—Russia pulled the Czechoslovakian coup to "impress" Finland and other Western European countries.

4—The Communist threat is not only confined to Europe but exists in the Middle East, Indonesia, China, Latin America, Japan and Korea.

5—Immediate enactment of ERP is the only immediate means to assert the United States' policy of supporting the sweep of Soviet influence.

Senate to Hold Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, March 20 —(UP) The Senate voted today to hold this year's federal income tax cut to $4,800,000,000 in the hope that it will survive a presidential veto.

The reduction of the House-approved figure of $6,500,000,000 was accepted by voice vote during the second day of debate on the Republican-sponsored tax cut bill.

The Senate then rejected 58 to 26 President Truman's proposal to reset the excess profits tax on corporations.

Congress repealed the wartime excess profits tax in 1945. Mr. Truman had recommened that it be revived to pay the cost of a $40-person income tax cut, the only type of reduction he favors.

The excess profits tax provision was offered by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, (D—Wyo.) he charged that present corporate profits are "extortionate." O'Mahoney warned several weeks ago that he would sponsor the amendment because big steel jumped prices while paying big dividends.

Government Prevents Strike of Oak Ridge Atomic Workers

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 20 —(UP)— The government won a temporary injunction today that prevented a midnight strike by 800 atomic energy workers at nearby Oak Ridge.

U. S. District Judge George C. Taylor granted the writ "in the interest of prepardness for national defense" after a hearing at which union counsel vigorously opposed the action.

The injunction restrained either the union, the Atomic Trades and Labor Council, or the operating company, the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp., from distrubing the status of working arrangements at the Oak Ridge national laboratories.

The government went to court as a last resort after the company and union failed to resolve their deadlock over a new contract. It was the first time the emergency powers of the Taft-Hartley law had been sought to keep a vital industry in operation.

Norwegian Army Holding Recruits

OSLO, Norway, March 20 —(UP) Norwegian army recruits due for discharge are to be kept with the colors and more men may be called up, the government announced today.

The decision was approved on recommendation of the defense ministry within a few hours after the Premiers of Norway, Sweden and Denmark determined at a meeting in Stockholm to show a firm front against Communist expansion.

Recruits affected by the order are those due to be dismissed from the army at the end of their regular nine months training period.

U. S. Moves to Scrap UN Plan For Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 20 —(UP)— The United States in a dramatic reversal of policy, proposed today scrapping the United Nation's plan to partition Palestine and the establishment of a UN trusteeship over the embattled Holy Land.

American delegate Warren R. Austin called on the UN Securities Council to order a special session of the 57-nation UN General Assembly to work out trusteeship.

The American proposal spread shock and surprise throughout the UN.

The Jews were despondent over the retreat from the partition program. Arabs were happy at abandonment of a program they have opposed.

Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko, terming the new American proposal a "contradiction," said he would have to hear from Moscow before commenting "the intent or the substance" of the new American plan.

The American proposal was disclosed by Austin at a private Big Five power meeting at UN and, shortly afterward, placed before the Security Council.

Truman Asked to Step Out of Race

WASHINGTON, March 20 —(UP) —Sen. John J. Sparkman (D—Ala.) demanded tonight that President Truman step out of the presidential race and urged Democrats to nominate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a candidate who could restore party harmony.

Sparkman's statement came as a surprise because he had been considered an administration stalwart who would try to ease the North-South Democratic split on the civil rights issue.

Sparkman said he had abandoned hope that the North-South split could be healed with Mr. Truman at the head of the party.

"I had clung to the hope that we could work this out inside the party, but it has become increasingly apparent that we will not be able to with Mr. Truman as a candidate," he said.

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 20 —(UP)— British military authorities urgently strengthened patrols late tonight as both Arabs and Jews agreed that the United States proposal to abandon partition would bring a blood bath to the Holy Land.

Gov. Pownall Advocates Expansion Of Island Copra Industry

Governor of Guam Radm. Charles A. Pownall, USN, made a statement, boosting the copra industry on Guam this week when he said that he believed that the business was worth trying.

"Before the war, Guam enjoyed a copra export of considerable magnitude. Since the war, Guam has no tangible export," the governor said.

He said that he invited attention to the prospective market for agricultural products raised on Guam to supply local consumption, including the sale to the armed services and to the air line clientele. Local interest in the agriculture field is now germinating, he said.

He said that although the Island Trading Company of Micronesia is taking decided steps to activate this lucrative export trade (copra), so far there has been no export of copra from Guam.

"Without export, we do have a lop-sided economy which is unhealthy," the admiral continued.

The New York market price for copra has been fluctuating between $280 and $305 per ton for the last three months.

A report from the Island Trading Company of Micronesia revealed that the company is offering $100 per ton for grade A sun dried copra to natives in the Trust Territories. At this writing, the Atkins Kroll Company, in Agana who are interested in buying and marketing the commodity, could not be reached by telephone.

Any Storage?

In a "staff study" the Governor asked, "If nuts are purchased and sold to a merchant by the individual collector, like Coco-Cola bottles, is there any place readily available for storage, cracking, copra extracting, drying and packing?" He then added that the magazine in the ground ammunition area might lend themselves to this purpose.

"In old Guam, farmers collected coconuts, extracted the copra and sundried it themselves.

"Incidentally, there is a market in Honolulu for the whole nuts.

"This is the dry season, and the normal copra harvest season on Guam.

"It would be mutually advantageous to land owners, and to Naval and military commands concerned to permit coconut gathering in lands under their respective ownership or control. If for no other reason than to discourage rat propagation and their feeding grounds.

"At the present price structure, we can readily assume that coconut gathering can constitute a profitable enterprise even on an individual basis."

Sleuth's Talk Good— But Not His Own

ATLANTA, Ga. —(UP)— Detective Lieut. E. O. Mullen feels that what he needs is a detective.

When he and a colleague, Patrol Capt. E. L. Sikes, were asked to lecture at the Atlanta police training school. Mullen spent long hours in research and preparing a manuscript on vice squad procedure.

Sikes, former head of the vice squad, spoke first. His talk concentrated heavily on vice procedure. To Mullen, it sounded awfully familiar.

Then Mullen rose to speak. He reached in his brief case for his manuscript and found—a pamphlet on black market gas coupons. Sikes smiled and sat back as Mullen ad-libbed for an hour.

Moonshining Continues In Spite of Repeal

CHICAGO —(UP)— Daniel J. Conerty, chief of "revenue men" says that in spite of repeal, moonshining still is going on.

It costs about $8,000 to set up an ordinary 500 gallon-a-day still, Conerty, who is district supervisor of the Federal Alcohol Tax unit, said.

"But in 1946 we seized 22 and in 1947 we got 31," Conerty said.

Conerty said the continuing popularity of moonshining is because of the price of $24 to $28 per can of illegal alcohol. During prohibition it cost only $7.50 per can.

VD Reported Dropping Among Soldiers

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The veneral disease rate among American soldiers has dropped 40 per cent in the past year, the Army reported recently. Among soldiers in this country, it has dropped 50 per cent.

The reason for the decline, the Army said, is that it is no longer merely emphasizing ways to avoid contracting veneral diseases. It is now appealing to soldiers, "higher moral sense."

RFC Conducting Fishing Research

Guam, M. I.—What may be a major step in developing the local fishing industry is being taken by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Concurring with its aim "to aid in financing agriculture, commerce and industry," the RFC has sent the Pacific Exploration Company, of Seattle, on a tour of Pacific waters to study marine life and determine the feasability of setting up fishing operations throughout the Pacific.

According to Mr. John Mershon, skipper of the Oregon, waters in this area abound with fish in numbers large enough to foretell a thriving and profitable fishing industry.

Tuna fishing has been carried on by the Japanese in waters surrounding Tinian, Saipan, Rota and other islands located in this part of the Pacific. Now efforts are being made to enlarge and augment this industry with more ships and crews.

Research is still being conducted in local waters but results thus far have been more than encouraging. Certain areas are said to literally churn with schools of fish swimming about.

A thriving and productive fishing industry could do much toward the rehabilitation of the many war-ravaged islands of the Pacific.

Lone Pupil Leaves, School Problem Solved

MURPHY, Idaho —(UP)— The school problem at Murphy, seat of a county as large as Massachusetts, has been solved.

Boy's Injured Pony Stirs Claims Manager

SEATTLE —(UP)— Jerry Houser, 13-year-old elementary school student, rides again.

Jerry got a new pony and proudly rode. Then one day the horse broke out of its enclosure and trotted onto the highway. He became confused and ran into an automobile. The horse suffered a shoulder injury and the loss of one eye.

Jerry couldn't ride a one-eyed horse—It wasn't safe either for Jerry or the animal.

The claims manager of a local automobile insurance company, with whom the driver of the car that struck the horse was insured, ordered a new pony for Jerry.

"That's one claim we knew right off we'd pay," he said.

Free Week-Ends Urged As Health Measure

CHICAGO —(UP)— A professor of medicine says the average person of middle age or beyond needs recreation more than exercise.

Dr. Wingate M. Johnson, Winston-Salem, N.C., professor of clinical medicine at Wake Forest College, contends that even more important than the annual vacation of two weeks or more are frequent week-end vacations.

"Everyone needs a free afternoon a week, in addition to Sunday," he said in a talk here. "The observance of the Sabbath is based as much upon hygenic principles as upon moral tenets."

The Rock....

by Tom Richards

Here, with a Loaf of Bread beneath the Bough,
A Flask of Wine, a Book of Verse —and Thou
Beside me singing in the Wilderness—
And Wilderness is Paradise enow.
....Omar Khayyam

WE MORTALS ARE VERY HARD to understand at times. We look at the ants to better our lot, we forget Omar Khayyam's "A Book of Verse and Thou." How much better to have 'Joy without Plenty' than 'Plenty without Joy.' Feller, the most wonderful thing on the face of this earth is a good wife. (Of course finding a 'Good' woman who is, and always will be desirable, is no cinch!)

YOU JUST CAN'T ALWAYS TELL just what name a movie star received at birth, as they broke a bottle of champagne over his or her head, by the name he or she uses on the screen. It would take more than just the average good guesser to find 'Robert Taylor' in 'Spangler Arlington Brugh.' Guess Bob must be a pretty good guesser at that because he seems to have come up with the right answer.

JUST THOUGHTS.....

Discouraging?

SOME PEOPLE STILL WORRY about the calories in their grub. Discouraging, isn't it? For the layman's views on the "Hi-Ups," listen to a couple of waiters talking shop. Times two for bartenders. There would be less divorces if people would realize that marriage is only the beginning of real romance; not the grand climax. Perhaps we'd all understand this fundamental truth a trifle better if authors or popular fiction would forget the boy meets girl, they clinch, fuss, fall in love and get married angle. Maybe starting the old merry-go-round with marriage might do the trick. Saw a dog catcher catch a dog the other day and lock the purp in his truck; said truck presumably bound for the gas works or it equivalent. Came to the conclusion, after the poor purp and I had gazed into each other's eyes through the wire, that dog catchers must be made of a different kind of stuff than the rest of us. Those who believe in evolution will soon have the opportunity to see if it really works; if there's anything to it nature will soon produce a pedestrian that can jump three ways at once.

PISTOL PETE, from up Harmon Field way, tells us that when he was back in the States he was on a B-29 that couldn't come in for a landing because the wheels won't let down. The pilot had about decided to have the men hit the silk when Pete had a brain storm and saved the day. Pete had them open the bomb bay doors and, as they came in for a normal landing, Pete took a firm hold on the edges of the bay and lowered himself down into the opening. He then started moving his legs as though he was running real fast and.....Pete swears this really happened and he can prove it by a pair of shoes that he has that have holes in their soles. We understand the corn grows tall where Pete comes from.

Brain Operations May be Successful

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)— Surgical removal of brain tumors, one of the "extremely dangerous" operations, now can be performed as successfully as any major surgery elsewhere in the body.

Dr. Howard C. Naffziger, professor of neurosurgery at the University of California, says "impressive advances" have been made in the last 25 years in medicine's knowledge of the biological characteristics, early diagnosis and treatment of tumors affecting the nervous system.

Compare to Major Surgery

"Through improvement of surgical and anesthetic technique," he says, "the operative mortality in brain tumors is at a level comparable with that of major surgical operations elsewhere in the body.

"The percentage of surgically curable tumors is gradually being enlarged."

Dr. Naffziger says brain tumors, once considered rare and virtually always fatal, constitute two per cent of all cancers. Early diagnosis of tumors has been improved greatly by extended use of X-ray machines.

Japanese Find Barbarity in Character

TOKYO—(UP)—A wave of gross crimes ranging from deliberate starving of more than 100 foundling children to the hold-up poisoning of 12 bank employes has begun to convince the Japanese people that allied atrocity charges were not exaggerated.

Yomiuri, one of Tokyo's "big three" newspapers is the latest to raise the question editorially. "Are the Japanese inherently a barbarious race?" The paper concludes that "All such atrocious crimes are the product of old germs which long have infected the minds of the Japanese people."

"It cannot be denied that many atrocities committed during the recent war are reflected clearly in the character of today's criminals. We should reflect seriously on this fatal character of our people. Such atrocities can be regarded socially as a collective mental direase."

Crimes on Page One

Literally hundreds of allied war crimes commissions have convicted former Japanese military men of the most violent brutalities inflicted upon prisoners of war. The trials have been reported in the Japanese press.

But it was not until a series of vicious murders and sordid perversions covered the front pages in recent weeks that the Japanese papers began telling the people that something was rotten in the Japanese character.

"Such brutality," Yomiuri said, "is seen not only on the battle front and in crimes, but also in the Japanese daily life." The paper pointed to the contrast of overly polite formal exchange of courtesy between friends and impolite, violent discourtesy demonstrated in crowded street cars and in treatment of subordinates.

"This is because the Japanese people have been led by a past education which gave the individual no sense of responsibility or recognition of the individual's personality," the editorial concluded.

British Deaths Laid To Mystery Virus

LONDON —(UP)— A mysterious virus which attacks the brain cells was blamed for 12 deaths in Britain during the past few months.

It was mentioned publicly first at an inquest on a month-old-baby at Wednesbury, Staffordshire. A post-mortem examination showed that the child died from acute inflammation of the brain believed caused by a virus of unknown origin.

The same virus was blamed for the death of a Walsall, Staffordshire, policeman, who died within five hours of being attacked.

Walsall General Hospital pathologists, investigating the deaths, said the virus was of the encephalitis group. Little is known about the group, they said.

Frank Cooper, coroner at Wednesbury, said there had been a number of other cases in other parts of the country during the past few months involving deaths of persons of all ages.

"Even with the best brains in the medical profession no cure has yet been found," he said. "It has not been possible to isolate the virus which caused the disease."

Almond Hulls Found Useful For Food

BERKELEY, Cal. —(UP)— Dried almond hulls may be used in two new ways, according to Dr. W. V. Cruess, University of California food technologist.

Cruess said the hulls may be used in table syrup and crude molasses for livestock feed. He pointed out that a ton of hulls will produce about 800 pounds of refined dry matter, worth about $80, which can be processed into at least 100 gallons of syrup or molasses.

He said that besides syrup, the hulls have commercial possibilities as a source of tannin extract for tanning leather, but they are a money loser, except for the largest distilleries, if converted into brandy or alcohol.

BETHLEHEM, Pa. —(UP)— At Lehigh University, fraternity men are looking forward to the new LUCK and its promise that it's the way to an undergraduate's stomach.

LUCK plans a system of centralized buying, with a purchasing agent hired to make mass purchases for all student living groups. It also would maintain an employment agency of cooks and waiters, and act as liaison officer if any national food rationing is instituted by Congress.

Harmon to Open Service Station

HARMON FIELD — An event of paramount interest to all private vehicle owners, both military and civilian at Harmon Field and vicinity, will be the forthcoming opening of the Harmon Motor Service Station. The garage, a privately owned concession leased by the MarBo Central Exchange, is copartnered by Mr. John W. Rose and Mr. Anthony J. Detro, both of Los Angeles, Calif.

Main features will be the body and engine shops which will do all repair work including major and minor overhaul. The Harmon shop will employ approximately fifteen mechanics.

Year on Guam

Both Mr. Detro and Mr. Rose have been on Guam for about a year and are well acquainted with the private owners' problems of parts shortage. When asked at the interview what they would do if a 1930 Model "A" Ford was pulled into the shop for repair, the owners answered, "We intend to feature an air freight and parcel post mail order system direct to the States. Any part obtainable in the States will be available to car-owners here. We recently received an air order for parts from the States in seven days, so we should be able to give rather speedy service."

"When asked about prices, the proprietors stated, "our prices will be equal to and even less than Stateside prices."

Good Thing They're In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— California's weathermen, who keep chanting, "no rain—clear—no rain," while the state pants in the worst drought in history, can be lucky they're not forecasting in South Africa, a native said recently.

Down there the tribes would have killed 'em off by this time.

Josef Marais, who hails from the Great Karroo Plateau, landed in Hollywood smack in the middle of 65 days of blistering sunshine. The crops are drying up, the reservoirs are almost empty, and the people are taking nasty cracks at the weatherman.

He's lucky, according to Marais. "Down in Angonland in South Africa," he said, "the rain-maker would be responsible for a drought like this. He would have been put to death weeks ago."

Hollywood Highlights

by Patricia Clary
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Griffith T. Ellis is so busy signing the names of George Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt and King Philip that he sometimes forgets how to sign his own.

Ellis is one of the nation's few legal forgers. He's also one of its most successful.

For 28 years he has been drawing a substantial stipend from Warner Bros. for forging movie historic and legal documents, love letters and signatures of famous persons and fictional characters.

"The reason for my success," Ellis said, "is that I confine my work to the studio. I'm mighty cautious about signing anybody's name but my own to checks. And I never, never fool around with the signature of W. A. Julian."

Mere Forging

W. A. Julian is the U. S. treasurer whose name appears at the bottom of your dollar bill.

Ellis says there's no trick at all to his current job of affixing the royal signatures of King Philip III and Queen Margaret of Spain to manifestos, letters and decrees for Warners' "Adventures of Don Juan."

"Mere forging that," he said deprecatingly.

But writing love missives from Don Juan (he's Errol Flynn) to the queen (Viveca Lindfors) is another matter.

"The signature of a fictional character like Don Juan takes real work," Ellis said.

"First I study the script to figure out exactly the kind of person he's supposed to be. Then I develop a script in keeping with that which graphologists say a person like him would have."

Reason For Care

Ellis is neither for nor against the study of character by handwriting, and he knows that the most movie goers won't know the difference anyway.

His care with fictional handwriting stems from the experience of movie makers in the silent days when actors moved their lips while the speeches appeared on inserts. Most of the audience accepted the inserts, but a few lip-readers often found the player saying something entirely different.

For picture purposes, Ellis has forged the signatures of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, as well as many other presidents and dozens of kings and queens.

Reproduces Twain MS.

He has signed the Declaration of Independence for all parties any number of times and reproduced two full pages of Mark Twain manuscript.

His biggest job was "Life With Father," which required 750 separately forged items.

"I've written for so many people so long," he said, "that I don't know how I write." "I try to keep a copy of my signatures around so that when I want to sign a check I can write it the way the bank thinks it ought to look."

The use of accessories in your home gives that decorator's touch. However, choose your accessories with care for they reflect the character of your home and are obvious indications of your personal taste. The proper grouping and selection of accessories bring individual charm to a room and can enliven furnishings which might otherwise appear commonplace.

Accessories can be divided into two categories: utilitarian and ornamental. The first division includes lamps, ash trays, boxes, pillows, and any other object with a practical purpose. These should be placed within reach. See that table lamps are at an even lighting level for a restful effect, and check both lamp height and shade size from the viewpoint of good reading light.

Restrict Trophies

The second group of accessories, the ornamental ones, includes staffordshire figures, old or new glassware, hobby collections and any entirely decorative objects. A cherished piece from your great grandmother may win its place in your living room, but restrict trophies and photographs to rooms in which you don't entertain.

There are some general rules applicable to both groups of accessories. Remember a few well-chosen objects are preferable to a cluttered profusion. Scale, color and design, as well as price, should be your guides and restraint is the keynote. Avoid poorly made reproductions, or those reproductions which have been manufactured in quantity, since they are unusual pieces.

No Space Fillers

The most important accessory always deserves an important place in a room, with subordinate ones used sparingly. Therefore, when organizing the accessory patterns of a room, be sure you have a valid reason for using the pieces you select. Never consider pictures mere space fillers. If you don't feel a personal satisfaction when looking at them, they are not worth the nails upon which they hang. Frames should be in keeping with the subjects and in harmony with the style of your room.

Fruit and flower arrangements, done in containers compatable with the other accessories. deserve high credit for their engaging qualities. The delicate variety of flowers, fruits and growing plants can point up and emphasize a color scheme, as well as enhance the design of a vase or bowl.

Oval or Rectangular

On important walls use oval or rectangular forms whenever possible, for these have more appeal than round or square shapes.

Remember that uneven numbers compose better than even ones in arrangements. Pairs are attractive but should not be overdone, therefore, repetition of grouping should be kept to small doses. For example, the use of five plates in two sizes, a tole tray, and toby mugs are all related to food or serving and thus create their own unity, adding a genial informality to a room with plain walls. For another example of related accessories....a floral printed fabric, or perhaps a chair, can create the theme, while the base of a lamp and picture can accent the room's style. Hobby collections whether they are odd or matching pieces, can make intriguing accessory groups. A procession of old pewter measures can show an agreeable contrast in scale and texture with other objects of the same period.

Color Contrasts

Strong color contrasts add emphasis to grouping. Therefore, place dark accessories against a light background, and polished metal against figured wallpaper. Place light-toned objects in a dark corner for sharp outline and agreeable variety.

Along with the use of accessories, you must remember the importance of planning, color, and scale in the home.

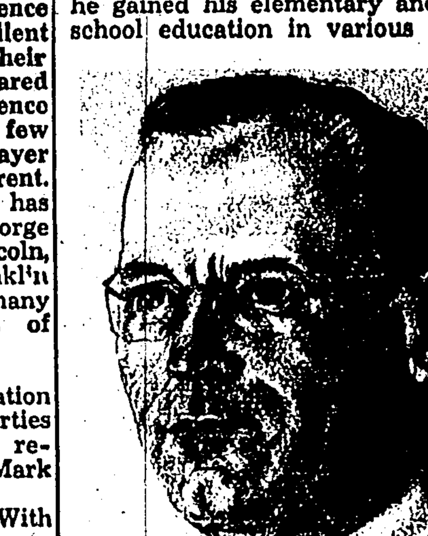
Thumbnail Sketches

Ed. Note—This is the eighth in a series of Sunday "Thumbnail Sketches" briefly portraying the lives of Island personalities. Text by George W. Wilbur, GUAM NEWS Island Editor. Artist sketches by Mr. J. C. Johnston.

One of the most respected and capable educators giving his every effort to speed along Guam's school rehabilitation is Mr. Norbert F. Tabery, principal of the George Washington High School.

Mr. Tabery is a dynamic man who says only what he believes and does that which is most beneficial, and his decisions in these realms have promulgated a realistic course of favorable action in Island school administration.

Born in Sebeka, Minn. in 1908, he gained his elementary and high school education in various Minnesota towns.



Mr. N. F. Tabery

After earning a two-year certificate of teaching at St. Cloud University he began teaching junior high schools and acting in the capacity of coach for various sports. He later gained his B. S. degree at Northern State Teachers college, Aberdeen, South Dakota, and subsequently did graduate work for his M. A. at the University of Colorado.

In 1942 Mr. Tabery went to work as a civilian employed by the U.S. Army Ordnance Department in Utah. In 1944 he accepted a commission in the U.S. Navy, and later served as a harbor entrance control expert in San Francisco, New York, and Newport. Following this, he served as an educational services officer in the Philippines, China, Japan, Okinawa, and Korea.

After completing the course of study at the School of Naval Administration in 1946, he came to Guam to serve on the Island Educational Department. In July, 1947 he was appointed principal of George Washington High School, with a present enrollment of 1150 students and a teaching staff of 30.

Mr. Tabery is profound in his appreciation for the people he works with on Guam, his admiration for the Guamanians themselves, and his hope that the educational rehabilitation of the Island will not falter.

Music Spotlights

by Jack Mealer

One of the top singers of today, some would say THE top singer, is Perry Como. Perry's popularity has been on the rise ever since he recorded "Prisoner of Love" in 1946, which incidently was the biggest selling record of that year. Mr. Como has a big appeal to the teen agers and they show it by attending each of his Chesterfield Supper Club broadcasts. They even thought of holding a show up because one of the fans was going to be late. Well, maybe that is going a little to far, but the fans really love "their boy Como." Perry kids himself often about being a barber in the "good old days," and once in awhile the rest of the crew chimes in. The reason being that during the recent barber strike in New York, he did the band a favor by cutting their hair. He hasn't heard the last of it yet. He is easy to please when it comes to other's singing, liking almost any type of music. But when the question was popped to him he confessed that he liked sweet music better.

Elliot Lawrence, one of the newest and youngest bandleaders in the music spotlight today, wants to jump, but the band business and being typed won't let him. Elliot would rather play jazz, as his favorites Woody Herman, Ray McKinley and Stan Kenton bear out. But when he started in Philly, he played a lot of sweet music and it has stuck to him ever since. Ever now and then at a one-nighter or college date he gets off some hot jazz, pretty progressive too, but that's about all. When he first started he was influenced a lot by well-meaning people that gave him a lot of advice, all wrong. It took a year and a lot of hard work, but Mr. Lawrence thinks that he is ready to give Kenton's, Herman's, and McKinley's a run for th ir money. And who knows, he might do it.

* * *

LATEST AND BEST—Here are a few of the latest records by the best in the music field. MEL TORME—"The Best Things In Life Are Free," and "Magic Town." "Life" is one of the best the Velvet Fog has done to date, but "Magic Town" doesn't come up to standard. PERRY COMO—"Two Loves Have I" and "I Never Loved Anyone." The latter is the best side of this platter, with Perry's straightforward singing and with some tasteful background by Russ Case. ANITA ELLIS—"Golden Earrings" and "Love For Love." These are hampered by poor background, but Anita's rich, warm voice picks it up in the bad spots. PEGGY LEE —"There'll Be Some Changes Made," and "A Nightingale Can Sing The Blues." "Nightingale" outshines the other side of this disk, with Peggy's wonderful and unforced voice. DINAH SHORE has recorded "Fool That I Am" and "How Soon" for Columbia and they are well worth while.

Well we'll write finis to the column and hove that all of you good people will be in this corner next week for your portion of Music Spotlight.

Chats About Guam...

by Agueda I. Johnston

B. Food, drinks, fuel, dishes, trinkets, ropes and mats from the fruit of the coconut tree.

The nut or fruit of the coconut begins from the female flower of the branching spadix which grows from the palmetto or bud of the coconut palm. In the vernacular of the Island, a different name is applied to the nut for every stage of its development: (1) NIYOG is the general term for both the tree and the nut; (2) DADIG, a young coconut about the size of a plum or apple; (3) APLOG, a young coconut in which water called "CHUGO" has begun to form; (4) MANHA, a coconut full of water or chugo fit for drinking; (5) MASON, a coconut not quite ripe; (6) GAFO, a coconut perfectly ripe but is still hanging in the tree; (7) PONTAN, a ripe coconut which has fallen to the ground; (8) NAGAO, a ripe coconut in which the water has been entirely absorbed by the meat; and (9) DOCKO, a coconut which has sprouted.

The DADIG has an appetizing appearance and many a stranger has been tempted to eat it only to find out that not much of it can be eaten, because its sharp and bitter juice has a puckering effect in the mouth.

The APLOG is very seldom used except in extreme cases of thirst, as the CHUGO that it contains is very insipid.

The MANHA is the most popular stage of the coconut for beverages or deserts. The CHUGO in it is sweet and the jelly-like pulp which clings to the shell inside can be scraped out and eaten with a spoon. The CHUGO together with the pulp mixed in a glass with a little sugar and a few drops of lemon juice will make a very delicious and refreshing drink. With a little more sugar, the combination can be frozen into sherbet. MANHA preserve called "consetba" is also quite a delicacy.

Candied MASON

The meat of the MASON, which is not quite ripe, is tender and does not contain as much oil as the meat of the ripe nuts, so the MASON is usually selected for making candy, cakes, ice cream, apiguegue (pudding), and aho (thin porridge). Candied MASON is made by the culinary expert of the household for very special friends or occasions.

The grated meat of the GAFO (ripe nuts in the tree) or the PONTAN (ripes nuts on the ground) mixed with water (one cup of water to the grated meat of one coconut) and squeezed thru a strainer several times, will produce coconut milk called LECHEN NIYOG" which can be used in any cooking where cow's milk is required. The flavor of boiled fish, stew, soup, gravy, curry, cream sauce and spinach will be highly enriched by adding a cupful of LECHEN NIYOG just before removing the dish from the stove. The oil in the LECHEN NIYOG is a kind of shortening, and that is why it also makes flaky pastries and fluffy hot cakes and waffles. Fresh oil, made by boiling down the LECHEN NIYOG until all the water in it evaporates, takes the place of any other vegetable oil, and it is preferred for the frying of fish as it brings out a certain flavor all its own.

BUCAJO

After the LECHEN NIYOG is extracted from the meat of the coconut, there remains the pulp or "BAGASO." Mix this BAGASO with an equal weight of white or brown sugar and cook the mixture until it becames brown and forms into threads. Shape into little balls or squares and wait for hubby or the kiddies to come home. A mixture of one third corn syrup and two thirds sugar will make the coconut candy or "BUCAJO" chewy or brittle.

The hard coconut shells left after the meat has been taken out can be scraped and polished and made into ash trays, jewel and powder boxes, flower holders and buttons. In the old days, coconut shells were used for spoons, combs, ladles and dishes. After serving as dishes, the shells were either thrown away or used for fire, because there were always new ones for replacements.

Edible Nut

The NAGAO, which has absorbed all the water, is sweet and contains very little oil. It can be eaten like any other edible nuts.

The DOCKO is seldom used for cooking but is usually fed to pigs and chickens, or made into copra (dried meat of the coconut) because of its oil contents.

The DOCKO, when it first begins to sprout has a little pulp inside called "apple" (embryo) which is also edible. As the sprout grows, the "apple" also grows bigger until it occupies the whole shell inside. At this stage, the DOCKO becomes HAIGUE or a young coconut tree.

Copra Products

Coir, or fiber of the husk of the coconut, like copra, is a product of commercial importance. The famous coir yarn, coir rope, and bristle fiber for making mats and brushes come from the coconut husk. Thousands of tons of this valuable material were mported into Great Britain before the last war. In Guam thousands of tons of it go to waste, although some of it is used for polishing hard wood floors and for washing dishes.

Assistance Urged For American Red Cross Drive

At a meeting Wednesday evening at the 103rd Seabee's Theatre presided over by Chaplain George Thomas, Mrs. Robert P. McConnell, chairman of the Recreation and Hospital committee, made an earnest appeal to the men of the 103rd Seabees for support of the American Red Cross drive. "The purpose of the drive," Mrs. McConnell said, "is to raise a limited fund of only $22,000. to assist in carrying on the larger program of Red Cross on Guam, which is financed by the American Red Cross organization in the States."

"Under the able leadership of Admiral Charles A. Pownall, Island Governor, and president of the board of the Guam chapter, the Red Cross has done an exceptionally fine piece of work in meeting the needs of the people on Guam," continued Mrs. McConnell.

"To Do Good"

"In a world seething with unrest, torn by conflict and rapidly degenerating as a result of disaffections in too many places, it is with an eager joy that one accepts the opportunity to support the work of the American Red Cross a volunteer association of millions of fellow Americans, having but one object: TO DO GOOD."

"The Red Cross is everybody's friend. The only requirement to receive assistance is to show the need for aid. In time of war, disaster, or natural calamity, the Red Cross not only provides medical care, nursing, food and shelter, but often it is the only direct link between the victim and home. Daily assistance is provided men in the services in expediting their requests for emergency leave, and other personal problems."

Volunteer Activity

"Recreational facilities have been somewhat reduced because of rigid reductions in funds, but volunteer actives are still being carried on for enlisted personnel and it is to be hoped that larger facilities may be made available in the future."

"The Red Cross has saved many of our boys, here, there and everywhere, by providing our docters and hospitals with nearly fourteen million pints of blood without charge, which was contributed by patriotic, unselfish Americans."

Blood Banks

"Since the war the Civilian Blood Banks set up by the Red Cross continue this splendid service without cost to hospital or patient."

"The activities of the American Red Cross are too numerous to admit of enumeration here, but all of us recognize that they exist and should be continued."

"It is not the much that any of us can do, but the little, which really costs us nothing, which can make the lives of all of us stronger, better and more worthy. Our opportunity to contribute to our own comfort, safety and happiness is at hand: The Red Cross drive. Let us support your good friend, and my good friend by contributing NOW to the Guam Chapter of the American Red Cross," said Mrs. McConnell in conclusion.

Italian Heavyweight Defeated by Savold

NEW YORK, March 20 —(UP)— Veteran Lee Savold, a supposedly washed up substitute, scored the quickest main event knockout in Madison Square Garden history tonight, by belting out Gino Buonvino, Italian heavyweight, at 54 seconds of the first round.

This kayo broke the record of 59 seconds registered by Light-Heavy-Weight Champion Gus Lesnevich over Melio Bettina last month.

The blond Savold, who was substituting for injured Joe Baksi, exploded a straight right to the chunky dark-haired Italian's chin. Buonvino spun sideways and dropped to his knees and elbows on the canvas near a neutral corner. He slumped to his side; then tried to rise, but fell back again on his side as referee Ruby Goldstein tolled the 10 count above him.

The crowd estimated at 6,000 gave Savold a tremendous ovation. The blond from Paterson, N. J., had been put in as a substitute despite the objections of Ned Irish, executive vice-president of Madison Square Garden who considered Savold washed up.

Colonel Edward P. F. Eagan, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, also had registered objections when the substitution was made. However, Eagan withdrew his objections when Savold disclosed at a private weigh-in on Wednesday, that he was in good shape.

Yanks Down Red Sox Cards And Braves Win

Yanks 6	Red Sox 3

ST PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20 —(UP)— Pitcher Randy Gumpert won his own game for the New York Yankees today when he golfed a ninth inning home run with two on, two out and two strikes against him to sink the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 3.

It was the Yankees' second victory in three games with the "Bean Town" crew. A five-run rally in the 10th inning last Sunday, highlighted by Joe DiMaggio's homer, gave the Yanks their first victory over Boston.

Cards 12	Phillies 8

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 20 —(UP)— Big Jim Hearn sparkled on the mound today as the St. Louis Cardinals trounced the Philadelphia Phillies, 12 to 8, in the first spring meeting between the two teams.

Hearn, who is expected to be one of Manager Dyer's front line pitchers this season, worked the first five innings and shutout the Phillies with one hit.

Braves 8	Senators 6

BRADENTON, Fla., March 20 —(UP)— Rookie Outfielder Clint Constance's triple with the bases loaded in the third inning enabled the Boston Braves to subdue the Washington Senators, 8 to 6.

Warfield-Hazel Win Tennis Match Over Seidel-Allbee

Opens singles champion Davis Warfield and Captain George Hazel moved into the quarter final round of the open doubles in the second annual GUAM NEWS tennis tournament yesterday afternoon with a tough 4-6, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Cdr. William Seidel and Col. Roger Allbee on the Naval Government courts.

Seidel and Allbee got off to a slow start in the first set, dropping the first four games, and then coming back to take the next six and the set.

The entire match was filled with sparkling volleys at the net and it was those volleys and half volleys which Seidel used so effectively to cop the first set. Warfield was the usual tireless retriever, but showed a polished net and overhead game which he had not used in winning the singles crown.

Schedule for Today:

1300: Maile-Watson vs. Perez-Untalan
Gallivan-Desblen vs. Cochrane-Morrison

1430: Lovering-Madrigal vs. Cook-Meyer
Battey-Hall vs. Hanson-Kriz

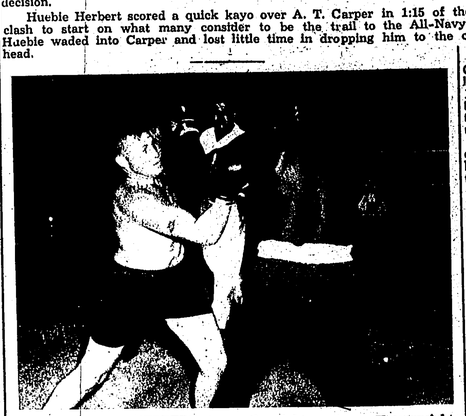
Nine All-Navy Boxers Eliminated; Herbert Wins by First Round K.O.

Nine fighters were thinned from the ranks of contesting fighters in the first evening of the 1948 All-Navy eliminations last night at the NAS Agana area.

Two contestants bowed out when their contest was halted in the third round after both fighters failed to show agressiveness. The other seven dropped out of the spotlight via the knockout route or by decision.

Hueble Herbert scored a quick kayo over A. T. Carper in 1:15 of the first round in the heavyweight clash to start on what many consider to be the trail to the All-Navy heavyweight championship. Huge Hueble waded into Carper and lost little time in dropping him to the canvas with hard punches to the head.



HEFTY HUEBIE HERBERT turns the lights out on Heavyweight A. T. Carper in the final bout of the first 1948 All-Navy eliminations last night with a sharp left uppercut. Carper was as good as tucked away when this picture was taken and was counted out by the referee in 1:15 of the first circuit. Another eight bout card is on tap for tonight at NAS Agana. (Guam News Photo by Charles)

In a lightweight battle, Vann, Chief Yeoman from NOB, looked like a good prospect for the West-Pac entry in clouting Tomas to the deck several times during their three round go to take the decision unanimously.

Willibard Inge made quick work of Warlick in a welterweight go by registering a TKO in 1:32 of the first round.

Complete results:

Ornelas	K. O.'d	Doyle

Fifth Service Leathernecks Defeat NAS Agana to Open 1948 Season

The defending Island baseball champions, Fifth Service Leathernecks, got off on the right foot today, in defense of their title, by defeating the NAS Agana All-Stars, 3-2, at the Leathernecks diamond.

Fifth Service took advantage of two Agana errors in the second inning to score the first run of the game. Again in the fourth inning, Agana committed two more errors which allowed two Leathernecks to score and build a, 3-0, lead.

Agana came back in the top of the fifth to score two runs off winning Pitcher, "Nig" Funta, with an error, a walk, and then a long two base hit by Agana First Baseman, Shaw.

Both teams fought on even grounds the rest of the game until the ninth inning when Agana threatened after two were out. "Red" Rodriguez pitch-batted for Morrison and struck out and then another Pinchhitter, Morris, was called out when he batted out of turn. Still believing that his pinch-hitters could come through, Agana Manager, Barca, sent Ellis to the plate. Ellis highlighted his debut by slamming a two base hit deep into right field. Agana First Baseman, Charlap, then flied out to left Fielder Davenport to end the game. Agana totaled two runs on six hits and committed four errors. The Leathernecks scored three runs on four hits and had two errors charged against them.

Notre Dame Man Wins

CLEVELAND, March 20 —(UP)—Bill Leonard, chunky Notre Dame speedster, pulled an upset win in the Rickey C. Tannon 1,000 yard run at the eighth annual Knights of Columbus track meet at the arena tonight in the slow time of 2:14.8.

Leonard took the lead at the start and was never headed while Veteran Joe Nowicki of the New York A. C., defending champion and favorite, was forced out of the race in the third lap. Nowicki fell after his foot went through a bad board on a curve, and the race time may have been slowed down since runners had to detour around the hole.

Baltimore Will Keep Colt Football Team

BALTIMORE, March 20 —(UP)— A committee of civic-minded business men, headed by Howard Buick, a Baltimore hotel operator, today completed the final details of a financial plan for keeping the Baltimore Colts in the All America Football Conference.

At the same time, four of the stronger teams in the league each transferred one good lineman to the Colts in an effort to bolster the team's chances in the 1949 race.

The Colts' franchise was taken over by the conference after the club finished in last place in the Eastern Division of the league in 1947. Former President Robert Rodenberg and his associates lost $166,000 in operating the team last season.

Although the "save the Colts committee" made no announcement at the conclusion of the meeting, it was learned that the 15-man group had satisfied the conference's requirement for raising the $30,000 necessary for keeping the team in Baltimore.

Inter-Command Island Softball Continues Today

The second round of a two round schedule in the Inter-Command softball league begins today as twelve of the twenty-five teams take to the softball diamonds.

NAS Agana remained undefeated in the first round and are regarded as the team to beat in the second half of the season if some other team is thinking of taking the championship.

Winter Racing Season Took Heavy Toll And Replaced Established Thoroughbreds

NEW YORK —(UP)—. The winter racing season which has just about run its course as the Northern tracks prepare to open in less than two weeks, took a heavy toll of established thoroughbreds but thoughtfully provided new ones to take their places.

The handicap division lost Assault and Armed but the ranks immediately were filled by the former claimer, El Mono, who won the McLennan and Widener handicaps, and by the South American Talon, winner of the Santa Anita Handicap, under capable Eddie Arcaro who continues to amaze racing fans with his riding despite the many coups he has pulled on horseback.

Relic, the only leading juvenile of 1947 who never had been defeated by Citation, wrenched his back in a workout and has been sent back to the farm in the hope that he'll recover in time for the Kentucky Derby. The possibility of a meeting between Relic and Citation in the Flamingo Stakes caused as much pre-race excitement as the second meeting between Armed and Assault in the Widener. But the railbirds who saw Citation romp home in Florida's three-year-old classic now have little doubt that Relic would have been lucky to get close had he been able to keep the engagement.

Cosmic Missile, beaten out of a yawning fortune in photo finishes last year, finally seemed to have the jinx licked in Florida but she pulled a tendon after winning the Columbiana Handicap and has been retired for breeding purposes. Both Cosmic Missile and Relic are owned by Circle M. Farm which was riding high, wide and handsome one minute with two brilliant horses and had a couple of empty stalls the next.

With Cosmic Missile out of the way, Rampart, winner over Armed in the Gulfstream Park Handicap took the laurels as the leading mare of the season although Shot-silk ran her to a dead heat in the Black Helen Handicap.

Armed and Relic are out of the picture only temporarily for both will be back at the post when ready. Trainer Jimmy Jones has hopes of getting the Golden Gelding in shape by May while Trainer Bert Williams would like to saddle Relic for the Derby but won't take any chances with the best horse he ever has handled.

El Mono was the big surprise of the winter season. His McLennan victory was his first in a stake and most people took it rather lightly for he was 15 to 1 when he came back a week later to win the Widener. Talon, proved his class last summer and when he won the San Antonio Handicap he wasn't overlooked in the big race and scored in a thrilling finish as favorite.

Seven of Eight Boxing Titleholders Boast Explosiveness in Punches

NEW YORK —(UP)— Professional boxing is ruled now by seven sticks of dynamite. At least seven of its eight world champions are knockout punchers.

Coincidentally, or perhaps naturally, the seven explosive champions are Americans, America admires explosiveness above all else in its sports—the home run in baseball, the thunderbolt service in tennis, the fast break in basketball, the long drive in golf and the lightning line penetration in football.

The seven sticks of dynamite are: Joe Louis, heavyweight; Gus Lesnevich, light heavyweight; Rocky Graziano, middleweight; Ray (Sugar) Robinson, welterweight; Ike Williams, lightweight; Willie Pep, featherweight, and Manuel Ortiz, bantamweight.

Appreciation of Louis' punch will be reflected in the betting odds for his 25th title defense against Jersey Joe Walcott at Yankee Stadium on June 23rd. Louis will be favored at about 3-1, and betting will be about even that he knocks out Walcott. This will be true despite the fact that most fans who witnessed the first Louis-Walcott fight at Madison Square Garden on December 5 thought Walcott had won. Also despite the fact that Louis will be 34 in May.

In Louis' 24 title defenses, only three opponents have lasted the distance; Tommy Farr, Arturo Godoy and Walcott.

Lesnevich, the 175-pound king, developed into an explosive puncher in the later stages of his career, as did Pep, the 126-pound ruler. Lesnevich learned to punch while serving a war-time hitch in the Coast Guard. Pep sought dynamite as a substitute for the foot-speed he lost in a nearly fatal airplane accident. He found it in surprising quantity.

Graziano, the 160-pound ruler and perhaps the least skillful of the eight champs, is a primitive, wild-looking slugger—a "modern Ketchel"—who goes in to knock out or be knocked out.

Robinson—streamlined boss of the 147-pound division—is one of the greatest all-round fighters in ring history. He has everything—remarkable speed, skill, ruggedness, and deadly explosiveness in either fist. There is no worthwhile challenger for his crown, and even prominent middleweights are reluctant to tackle him.

Lightweight Champ Williams is the deadliest short-hooker in any division. Little Ortiz, the bantam king, is an excellent all-around fighter and a terrific puncher for his size.

No wonder boxing continues to captivate the fans when it is ruled by such explosive scepters.

Batting Practice One of Baseball's Greatest Hazards

NEW YORK —(UP)— Batting practice is one of the most entertaining phases of baseball—and one of the most dangerous.

Connie Mack, venerable leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, always told his players, "remember to keep your heads up—during batting practice, too."

If a survey were made, it probably would disclose that far more accidents occur during practice sessions than during actual games. The reason is simple enough. During a regular game, players are obliged to watch only one ball, while in practice they must keep their eyes peeled on several at once.

Latest victim of a practice session is Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was skulled by a line drive off the bat of Coach Tony Kaufmann. Doctors, who examined the stricken Redbird pilot later, said it was fortunate that he wasn't hit an inch higher, where the blow might have been fatal.

Generally, coaches hit balls to infielders at the same time that batters are hitting in the cage during practice sessions. Alert to the danger of such an arrangement, the coaches make it a habit of waiting until the player at the plate swings before they themselves hit the ball.

Several seasons back, Infielder Oscar Grimes, then with the Cleveland Indians, suffered a broken-cheekbone and a fractured jaw when he was hit by a ball he didn't even see coming during batting practice.

The incident taught Grimes a lesson. After that he said "I watched every guy on the field during practice."

Cubs Change Plate Order

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Bill Nicholson, muscular slugger of the Chicago Cubs, will be moved to second place in the batting order as a spring experiment, Manager Charlie Grimm has announced. . .

"We need somebody up there in the second spot who can pull the ball and hit behind the runner," said Grimm. "Last year we lost many a potential run because we couldn't move that man around. If it works out then we'll continue with Andy Pafko batting third and Phil Cavarreta fourth."

Demaret Denounces Those Who Try To Make Pro Golfers Look Like Bums

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(UP)— Smiling Jimmy Demaret recently cast aside his genial grin and bitterly denounced "all the people who are trying to make us professional golfers look like bums."

Showing a new and sterner side, the debonair playboy of the fairways spoke out boldly in defense of the golf gypsies who of late have been accused of being too lax with the rules and too ready with their fists.

Take it from Demaret, the rugged Texan whose game outshines his sartorial splendor, there isn't anything wrong with the tournament gang which makes a living off the excellence of its shots and the steadiness of its nerves. And anybody who contends that the boys are playing lawyer with the rule book is strictly in the dough.

As for the internal strife which has seen some of the lads strewn about the scoreboard in one-punch fights a la Hollywood, Jimmy reverted to type and laughed them off this way:

"After you're married 10 years you fight everyday under much tougher pressure so it is bound to produce little arguments and troubles from time to time. It just proves, though, that the game is on the level and that everybody is in there pitching."

Jacobs Booed By Garden Crowd

NEW YORK, —(UP)— Boxing Promoter Mike Jacobs drew a huge round of boos when he attended a bout at Madison Square Garden last week in his first venture forth since illness took him out of the driver's seat at 20th Century Sporting Club. Announcer Harry Balough, pointing out Jacobs' presence, requested "Will the crowd please rise?" The customers could not see the sense in a tribute like that and booed mightily.

Balough's script actually read "Mike, will you please stand up?" But Harry muffed his line.

Weather Plane Briefing

"Well, here's a critical front, so it must mean...."

"Naw, see that ridge, that means it's going to...."

"But that trough has moved out of there and...."

"So it rains at NOB....It did yesterday and we didn't get any up here. So was our forecast right on or not?"

This goes on in the forecast room of Fleet Weather Central, Guam, while out in the passageway, Dilbert puts aside his comic book and does his own predicting for tomorrow...."Heads it rains and tails it pours...."

Forecasting for Guam may or may not be as simple as Dilbert's system but the most amazing thing that struck this writer when browsing about FWC, trying to take in a little local color was that this weather business is not yet a cut and dried science....Not by a long shot into a cumulo-nimbus.. As much as man publishes in books and newspapers that he can make snow and rain, and some local weather bureau man says he connected for a 100 per cent for the past week, old dame weather is still fickle and has no respect for tradition, rank or sagacity. She has been known to lead the best of men into believing that they have her all figured out, but like all women, she upsets the dope bucket and comes through with a tantrum in the form of a typhoon or "tropical disturbance"......

In all respect to man and Fleet Weather Central, the Navy has some of the best trained aerologists (that's meteorologists in tongue-salt) in the business. There may be other aerology schools as good as the Navy's at Lakehurst, N. J., but there is none any better.

Since before the beginning of World War II, the Navy has been hot for aerology. Then it was in 1944 (Dec. 18) when the United States Navy Third Fleet came out second best in a skirmish with a typhoon. Three vessels were sunk and a "large number damaged." Then again in 1945 (June 4) the same fleet tangled with dame typhoon and the Cruiser Pittsburgh lost her bow, numerous aircraft were lost and several other vessels damaged. This was the last straw and Chief of Naval Operations gave the nod for a typhoon tracking unit which now employs ships and planes, later to be combined with other duties of Fleet Weather Central, Guam.

Out here in the Pacific, typhoon tracking is one of the prime duties of weather central units. On Guam, the FWC has accepted these responsibilities and in three years has handled 45 typhoons, forecasting warnings days in advance of the "big blow." True enough, there have been some terrific losses in material and resources (ask anyone on Yap Island) but few if any personnel casualties have resulted. That record speaks for itself.

U.S. Navy Fleet Weather Central, Guam, under command of Commander S. W. Betts, USN, has as its primary duty to "act as a weather collecting and dissemination center for Fleet and Naval shore activities in the area for which assigned responsibility".... This, in itself, is quite a chore because the area of responsibility is only slightly smaller than the area of the United States. It stretches from the China Coast to Kwajalein and from the equator to northern Japan.

Guam's office, atop ComMar Hill, operates in conjunction with six other Navy weather central units to cover the Pacific. San Francisco, Coco Solo, Kodiak, Pearl Harbor, Manila and Shanghai have Navy-manned weather centrals. Pearl, San Francisco, and Kodiak also have broadcast responsibilities.

As in all other aspects, the Navy and Air Force on Guam cooperate splendidly with regard to weather. Another mission stipulated is to provide liaison with Air Force and civilian weather activities to facilitate exchange of information and to eliminate duplication which will thus help in conservation of personnel.

When one considers that there is only one weather station ship in an area reaching from Kwajalein to the Philippines and any additional information must be garnered from planes sent out by Commander Fleet Air Wing One (VPHL-2 squadron stationed at NAS, Agana, does this hazardous job) It is realized that there is some tall calculating to be done to fill in the blanks. Compare this to the states, where in the same distance (from Washington, D.C. to Denver) there are thousands of reports pouring in all over the route.... Need more be said....?

Russia Out-Maneuvered By Big Three Proposal

TURIN, Italy March 20 —(UP)— Reliable sources said today that the Soviet Union had been out-maneuvered by the Big Three proposal to return Trieste to Italy and political observers forecast that Premier Alicide De Gasperi would win the April 18 elections as the result.

The payoff came in Rome where a Communist said it was up to the Soviet Union, "who is now the arbiter," whether Italy gets back Trieste.

It called the Big Three action, "undoubtedly clever" adding, "even if Russia accepts, al' the credit will remain with the western powers."

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, who was in Turin to sign commercial agreements with Italy, told assembled dignitaries that the Big Three had concluded the only answer to the Trieste problem was to return it to Italy.

The news was flashed all over Italy and within minutes extras were rolling off the presses in the big cities. Thousands crowded around newsstands in Rome, Florence and Turin. Even the Communist papers called it an "electoral bombshell."

Observers agreed the Big Three aim was to swing the election, which is less than a month away, to the Catholic and democratic forces of De Gasperi. The announcement was dynamite for the Communists, who may have to ask for instructions before touching it.

Bill Deprives Workers of Social Security

WASHINGTON, March 21 —(UP) —AFL President William Green said today that 500,000 to 750,000 "borderline" workers would be deprived of social security protection under a bill recently passed by the House.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart (R-Colo.) is now before the Senate Finance Committee. In a letter to finance chairman Eugene D. Millikin(R-Colo.) Green requested a chance to oppose the bill.

He said labor was given no opportunity to argue the measure when it was before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Green said that while ostensibly maintaining the status quo, the bill would bar certain presently covered workers from Social Security protection by redefining the term "employee."

Those affected, he said, would be life insurance agents, taxicab drivers, owner-operators of trucks and busses, newsboys, industrial home workers employed on contract and certain mechanics in the building and construction trades who work on a semi-contract basis.

Police Break up Celebration In Trieste

TRIESTE, March 21 —(UP)— Small groups of Italians tried to demonstrate tonight in celebration of the Anglo-French-American proposal that the free terri.ory of Trieste be returned to Italy but police broke up the unauthorized efforts.

Local police said Italians carrying Italian flags attempted to demonstrate in the Piazza Unita on the waterfront, in the center of the city and in several principal streets.

The groups were dispersed in accordance with an allied military law prohibiting unauthorized demonstrations.

Wide-spread pro-Italian demonstrations were predicted for tomorrow by police in Venezia Giulia, the Italian province bordering on the free territory.

Italian and Yugoslav inhabitants of the territory received with mixed feeling of elation, gloom and fear the news of the big three proposal to return it to Italy.

Six Killed in Blast

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 20 —(UP)— Casualties in an explosion which blew up a two-story building were set at six dead and 25 injured tonight as rescue workers completed their search of the wreckage.

After digging through torn timber and rubble for more than 16 hours, police, firemen, and volunteers said they were certain there were no more bodies. Sheriff Ted Woolright officially called off the search.

A blast, presumably caused by gas, ripped the brick and frame structure apart last night, blowing off the roof and tearing down the walls. Twenty-three persons, in a tavern, pool-hall, and two upstairs apartments were injured.

Navy Has Enough Airmen For 50 Carriers

LOS ALAMITOS, Cal., March 20 —(UP)— Admiral Richard F. Whitehead, chief of Naval air reserve training, tonight reported the Navy has the airmen to complement 50 carriers by the time they could be taken out of mothballs.

"The enthusiasm shown by reserve air squadrons — "Weekend Warriors" as we call them — is tremendous," he commented. "It is refreshing in a country that cannot maintain a huge standing army and navy to know it has a naval air force so well up on its training."

Adm. Whitehead tonight concluded an inspection tour of west coast air bases and leaves with his staff by air tomorrow for Chicago.

He commented that the reserve personnel he has inspected on the present tour of 23 Naval Air Stations compared very well with active duty personnel in the fleet.

Britain Still to Remove Troops

LONDON, March 21 —(UP)— Britain has no intention of keeping troops in Palestine beyond Aug. 1 despite the American decision to abandon the partition plan, an authoritative source said today.

This source said also that the British decision to relinquish the League of Nations mandate over the Holy Land on May 15 also was unaffected by the American decision.

New discussions on the Palestine problem will be needed in view of the American decision. British sources said and Britain is prepared to take part in them.

Diplomatic quarters believed that the possibility of an amicable agreement between Jews and Arabs in Palestine was improved by the decision to abandon partition.

Uranium Found Near Rocky Mountains

CLARK, Colo., March 21 —(UP) —A second Rocky Mountain field of uranium, the basic element of the atomic bomb, was reported today with the disclosure that a score of persons had staked claims on the land.

Carl Brown, local dude ranch operator and mail carrier, said he discovered the field last fall while on a fishing expedition with Lewis Whitford, an Indianapolis insurance agent.

Brown said about 20 persons already had filed claims to mineral rights in the five-mile square area of national forest land six miles east of Slavonia, Colo.

The field is some 75 miles south of Rawlins, Wyo., where Mrs. Minnie McCormick, an elderly widow, announced two weeks ago she held rights to a dry lake bed believed rich in uranium.

China Sends Note to Russia on Attack

NANKING, March 21 —(UP)— In a strong note to the Russian government, China today branded as an "unfriendly action" the attack by Soviet fighters on a Chinese transport plane March 8.

China claimed "full sovereignty" over the northeastern provinces, including the Russian's Port Arthur naval base and demanded the Soviet government "refrain from further unwarranted" action.

The note, delivered to the Soviet embassy here, added that the Soviet claim that a Chinese plane "invaded" the Port Arthur area was "not only inconsistent with the facts but also derogatory to Chinese sovereignty."

Taft Accuses Administration of Creating Fervor

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 21 —(UP)— Senator Robert A. Taft accused the Truman administration today of creating a "war fervor" in demanding national selective service legislation.

Taft said the world crisis should be met not on the basis of "emotion" but from a practical view, and proposed a five-point program of his own for the United States to follow in meeting the world crisis.

"This administration is following the last in attempting a tremendous stirring up of the people to get war fervor," Taft said at a luncheon address before the Springfield Republican Women's organization. He asked that the decision of a draft or universal military training not be clouded by the propaganda and slogans now being used.

Taft at a press conference earlier said he would go along with the President's request for a draft law if shown such "drastic action" was needed.

Rev. McIntyre Installed

LOS ANGELES, March 21 —(UP)— The Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre of New York today was installed as Archbishop of Los Angeles, receiving from Francis Cardinal Spellman the symbols of his office.

Many witnessed the solemn ritual at St. Vibiana's cathedral as the new archbishop became the spiritual leader of 650,000 southern California Catholics.

Marshall Says United States Key to World Struggle

LOS ANGELES, March 20 —(UP)— Secretary of State George C. Marshall said today that the United States is the key to the world struggle against tyranny, and cannot stand aloof "and see the other free nations destroyed one by one.

But he warned that the nation's task of safeguarding freedom is the biggest job it ever faced. He said Communism will go to "extreme lengths" to defeat the recovery of Democracy.

No nation in modern history has ever occupied a position of responsibility comparable to that of this country today, he declared "Nor has any nation had such vast responsibility thrust on it in so short a time."

He emphasized that by "urgent and resolute" action the United States would be the decisive factor for good in the tangled and critical European situation.

Addressing a charter day audience of the University of California at Los Angeles, Marshall said it was apparent "that the Soviet Union and the Communist parties of Europe will go to extreme lengths to defeat the recovery and the revival of a strong, democratic and independent Europe."

"Despite their aggressive opposition," he said, "we and the western nations of Europe are determined that recovery shall be achieved, that tyranny of government shall be checked and that the peoples who wish to govern themselves shall remain free to do so."

First Month of Italian Election Leaves Bloodshed

ROME, March 21 —(UP)— The Italian election campaign had gone into a month of expected bloodshed today in a wake of Communist attacks in the Naples area in which one Christian Democrat was killed, 13 wounded and a policeman shot.

Tension mounted as a result of the Communist attack, which violated the all-party election peace agreement. The Christian Democrat party is the Catholic party headed by Premier Alcide De Gasperi.

The violence started yesterday afternoon when about 40 Communists tried to break up a Christian rally of several hundred persons in Casteoare, South Naples in the Bay of Naples area.

Three Christian Democrats were injured in the brawl and someone in the crowd fired a pistol, wounding a policeman in the leg.

Other Communists blockaded highways leading into Castellammare and attacked a truck convoy of Christian Democrats on the Vesuvian highway while they were en route to the Castellammare rally.

Naples police said one Christian Democrat was killed and 10 wounded in the attack. A number of the Communists were arrested, police said.

Operators Try Forcing Showdown With Lewis

WASHINGTON, March 21 —(UP)— Soft coal operators went to court today to force a showdown with John L. Lewis on the crippling strike by his miners.

They petitioned federal district court here to appoint an impartial trustee for the United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund. This issue is the root cause of the six-day walkout which threatens "serious consequences to the nation."

Shortly before the petition was filed, Lewis accepted with tongue in cheek a government invitation to meet with mine owners and federal mediators on the pension dispute.

Lewis, who is not expected to attend personally, said in advance that nothing will come of the conference.

"It is preposterous to assume that any progress will be made at your Monday meeting," Lewis advised Federal Mediation Chief Cyrus S. Ching, who issued the invitation at the suggestion of the White House.

A spokesman said the operators will be represented.

Knutson Agrees to Reduced Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, March 21 —(UP)— The Republicans' No. 1 House tax-cutter tonight endorsed the Senate's bill to pare income taxes by $4,800,000,000.

Republicans said this action makes the measure "veto-proof."

Chairman Harold Knutson (R-Minn.) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee agreed to the Senate figure despite the fact that it is $1,700,000,000 under the $6,500,000,000 reduction bill passed by the House.

The Senate will complete action on its measure late Monday and the House, Knutson told reporters, "probably will accept it without sending the measure to conference."

Jews to Carve Own State by Force

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 21 —(UP)— David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive, said today the Jews will carve out their own state in Palestine by force of arms and reliable sources said Jewish industry will go on a war basis within a few days.

"It is by our power, mobilized to the utmost, that a state will arise; even now it is we who shall decide the fate of Palestine," Ben Gurion said. "We shall lay the foundation for a Jewish state and we shall achieve our end. We shall abide unflinchingly by the historical will of the people."

Flight Officer Has New Job on Iwo

IWO JIMA,—One of the first officers to begin his tour on Iwo Jima under the new 20th Air Force rotation policy, 1st Lt. Ray D. Deselms has recently arrived from North Field to take over the duties of flight line maintenance and assistant base operations officer.

Lt. Deselms enlisted in the Air Corps in 1937, and served in Hawaii as a mechanic and aerial gunner shortly before Pearl Harbor, when he was returned to the States. A few more years were enough to convince him he should be flying his own repair jobs. Months later, he left Luke Field, Ariz., with a shiny new pair of wing and a background for his new job in aircraft maintenance which any flying officer might well envy.

New Use Discovered For Paper Waste

Three University of Wisconsin scientists have developed a process for converting paper mill wastes into a product useful industrially.

The method, developed by Reid H. Leonard, W.H. Peterson and M.J. Johnson, utilizes sulfite waste in the manufacture of lactic acid, used in tanning, lacquer and food processing industries.

It also increases the methods available for avoiding stream pollution, the scientists report.

They explain that the process calls for removal of excess sulfite from the waste by steam treatment, incorporation of malt sprouts and blackstrap molasses, and inoculation with a lactic-acid fermentation bacteria. The fermentation, they report, usually requires under 43 hours.

"The problem that remains," Dr. Peterson reports, "is recovery of the lactic acid from the fermented material. Our work shows that it can be done by means of solvents, and we've been successful with the method in the laboratory, although we can't be positive of its efficiency until we try extraction in a pilot plant."

Importers Stymied By 'Made in Japan'

SEATTLE —(UP)— The public seems to object only to one thing about Japanese goods. That is, "Made in Japan."

That's the lament of Trulson and Sunderland, Seattle importers. They are of the post-war batch of American business men who have been granted a government permit to trade with Japan.

According to W. W. Trulson, one of the primary causes for the trickle of Japanese into this country and the apathy of the buyer is American memory. "That, and the Japanese memory."

Americans, apparently, haven't been able yet to call up memories of "Madame Butterfly" or cherry trees when they come across a "Made in Japan" trade mark. Japanese exporters realize that, he said.

That is why Trulson and Sunderland confine themselves to raw materials like rapeseed because it's impossible to stamp.

The Japanese trade mark is not the only problem.

"Japan knows raw materials are her best bet, but she hasn't enough to get started," Trulson said.

Trulson wants cotton rags from Japan in exchange for building materials.

Pepper Shortage Due to Continue

BATAVIA —(UP)— The fabulous pepper trade of the Dutch East Indies presents a gloomy picture to a pepper-hungry world.

Few Dutch economic experts expect Indonesia to reach her pre-war level of 32,000 tons before 1951.

Before the Japanese "eight-day conquest" of the Indies, Indonesia supplied 89 per cent of the world demand for pepper.

The estimated crop for 1948 is unknown. Nobody will hazard a guess. No figures exist on the total acreage of land now growing pepper.

It Takes Time

New bushes take three years to cultivate before they bear the precious spice. No large-scale pepper planting has yet taken place.

The source of pepper being exported from the Indies today is old stockpiles. Little of the stockpile pepper ever reached the big American dollar market. Old pep per cannot pass rigid United States food control laws.

Old, stockpiled pepper is generally directed to European tables, where no food inspection laws for pepper exist.

Dutch economic experts said the deteriorated pepper cannot be reconditioned for the American market, "as much as we like United States dollars."

U.S. Farms Mechanize

CHICAGO —(UP)— International Harvester Co. reports that the nation's farmers last year bought approximately $800,000,000 worth of farm machinery, not including tractors.

The company said the expenditure was about twice as much as farmers spent annually for such machines from 1935 to 1939. Farmers' cash outlay for new machinery last year, the company said, was slightly more than five percent of their net income, compared with an outlay of between seven and eight per cent in the 1935-39 period.

The company cited figures from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics showing that farmers now have enough equipment to do about twice as much work by machine as they could before the war.

Firemen Get Shorter Working Hours

CHICAGO —(UP)— Firemen in many cities are getting shorter working shifts.

The International City Managers' Association reports that nearly 150 cities cut working hours for firemen last year.

Among them were 35 cities in Indiana and nine in Arkansas. Legislatures of both states made a 72-hour work week effective the first of the year.

Most cities in the two states had 84-hour work weeks for firemen.

A few cities, among them Philadelphia and Phoenix, Ariz., adopted the three-platoon plan under which each firemen works an eight-hour shift six days a week.

The City Managers' Association said personnel costs under the three-platoon system range as much as 50 per cent higher because more firemen are needed.

The biggest work week reductions last year were made by Columbus, Ohio, and Rochester, Minn., which adopted 40-hour five day schedules. In Columbus, the new work week replaced a 70-hour duty schedule.

In Massachusetts, 13 cities adopted a 48-hour work week.

Cubs Complete Triple-Play

CUBS—6 Oaks—1

OAKLAND, Cal., March 21 —(UP)— The Chicago Cubs pulled off a triple play and a 6 to 1 victory over the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League before 4,085 fans here today.

The triple-killing came in the first inning after Brooks Holder and Merrill combs had walked. Lanky Roy Smalley, Cub shortstop, went into short left field to catch Eddie Samcoff's blooper with his back to the diamond. He wheeled and threw to Ray Mack to nip Holder at second and Mack in turn whipped the ball to first to pick off Combs.

TIGERS—4 Red Sox—1

SARASOTA, Fla., March 21 —(UP)— The Detroit Tigers took advantage of three Boston errors today to defeat the Red Sox 4 to 1.

Third Baseman Johnny Pesky, missed a throw from the outfield in the second inning when the Bengals got their first run.

A passed ball by Catcher Eddie McGah and another error by Pesky set up two more runs for Detroit in the ninth.

Two veterans, Dizzy Trout and Virgil (Fire Trucks), collaborated in holding the Red Sox hitters to seven hits. Detroit got 10 hits off rookie pitchers "Windy" McCall and Ellis (cotton) Deal.

Reds—10 Yanks—2

TAMPA, Fla., March 21 —(UP) The Cincinnati Reds avenged two previous defeats by the New York Yankees by walloping the world champions 10 to 2, today behind the fine pitching of Ewell Blackwell and Everett (red) Lively.

The Reds sewed up the game in the first inning when Grady Hatton singled, George Sauer walked, Babe Young doubled and Ray Lamanno singled for three runs. Sauer of the Reds and Frank Crosetti of the Yankees hit home runs.

Boston—8 Senators—6

BRADENTON, Fla. March 21 —(UP)— Out-hit for the second day in a row, the Boston Braves once again defeated the Washington Senators, 8 to 6 today for their fifth straight exhibition victory.

Sporting Views

by Joe Wieman

Almost every sport has its peculiarities whether it be the baseball player who just can't clout the apple unless he first knocks the dust frim his spikes with the bat or the grid enthusiast who can't heave the leather without gripping the lacing. It will always be debatable which game has more superstitious participants but no doubt baseball will find its way right up there near the top.

More has been written about Hank Luisetti of Stanford University than his coach, John Bunn, but there is a tale about Bunn which involves a hat. Not an ordinary headpice but one of those borsalino affairs. Bunn readily picked up the moniker of "Freddie the Freshman" on the Stanford campus. He never was one for head coverings but his wife insisted he wear something for protection against raw weather on an eastern trip of one of his team. Luisetti led the Bunnmen on an all-victorious jaunt over seven of the East's top quintets. The scenes have changed greatly since that road trip—Luisetti and his mates have all but disappeared from the court picture; Bunn moved to Springfield College over a year ago and he probably teaches a slightly different brand of cord swishing, but his hat—the same one he wore in the days of the Stanford hardwood warpath—still gets tugged on whenever there is a game to be won.

"Lucky Number Seven"

Stan Stutz, one of Rhode Island State's greatest cagers, would not play in a ball game unless he could have his "lucky number seven." Luisetti, incidentally, insisted that the same numeral be on his jersey. During a winning streak at New York Unversity, you won't notice a change of suit on Coach Howard Cann. Doggie Julian, mentor of the Holy Cross Crusader five, always strokes the heads of his players a few minutes before the whistle to begin the game.

Probably the one to take the cake though, also comes from up Worcester way—the camping grounds of the Crusaders. All America George Kaftan will never take a warm-up shot at the basket unless he is preceded by Teamate Andy Laska. That could go a little too far if during a game Kaftan missed an opening simply because Laska happened to be on the bench.

Revised Boxing Rules Protect Fighters' Safety

PHILADELPHIA, March 21 —(UP)— The National Boxing Association probed boxing's wounds today and in a sweeping revision of its rules, adopted a 21-point safety program for the protection of all fighters in its jurisdiction.

The wide-range program, stressed thorough physical examinations for all boxers, and long lay-offs after knockout defeats.

It directed that a physician supervise the movement of knock-out fighters and also gunned for fight managers found to be persistent rules' breakers.

Specifically, the new legislation advocated by the NBA to its 56 member commissions asked for eight-ounce gloves to be used in all contests, and withheld approval of any badly beaten fighter for a match until he went through an thorough examination.

In a move which would cull consistent losers and washed-out fighters from boxing, the committee decided that in case of repeated knockdowns and beatings, the boxer shall be retired.

Cook-Meyer Down Madrigal Lovering In Tennis Battle

Larry Cook and Chris Meyer staged an exhausting two hour battle to take a 6-1, 7-9, 6-3 nod over Mauricio Madrigal and Arthur Lovering in a first round open doubles match in the second annual Guam News Tennis Tournament yeserday afternoon on the Naval Government courts.

Lovering and Madrigal both made a good showing in the open doubles, but didn't start working together until the second set. Cook's overhead game was near perfection, and it was his slams that were largely responsible for the final verdict.

Big Martin Hanson and Lt. Frank Kriz moved by Louis Battey and George Hall in a little less than an hour with a 6-2, 6-2 victory to move into the semi-finals against Singles Champion David Warfield and Captain George Hazel.

The novice doubles team of George Gallivan and Cleo Desbien edged by Colonel Carlos Cochrane and Capt. Bob Morrison in two overtime sets, 7-5, 10-8. The Guamanian team of Joe Perez and J. L. G. Untalan eliminated Chalmers Maile and Tony Watson, 6-3, 6-1.

Talbert Wins Amateur Indoor Tennis Crown

NEW YORK, March 21 —(UP)— Seeded Billy Talbert of New York overcame a slow start to win the National Men's Amateur Indoor Tennis championship today with a 4-6, 8-6, 9-7, 6-2, finals victory over Sidney Schwartz of Brooklyn.

Talbert limped noticeably from an ankle injury and had trouble getting around the court. But he managed to use his smoother play, a product of experience, to take the title which Jack Kramer deserted when he turned professional this winter.

Schwartz relied chiefly on power in his bid for the crown, and six times during the first two sets he whipped blistering services aces past Talbert, fifth ranking U. S. Amateur.

However, the same power led him into errors. Too many times his returns of Talbert's methodical strokes went soaring behind the rear baseline.

Wilson Wins by Knockout; Kamber Meets Byrne Tonight

One kayo and two TKO's marked the second night of the 1948 All-Navy eliminations at NAS Agana last night.

The knockout came in the final bout of the evening, a heavyweight clash, between Wilson and Whitley, both Fifth Service scrappers. Wilson sent Whitley to the canvas three times in the first round, was dropped once himself, and finally registered the kayo in 2:35 of the same round with a fourth knockdown.

In the third bout at the Agana Bowl, Dominquez used his left jab to good advantage to win a TKO over Ranne in 2:06 of the third round.

Sanders repeated in the seventh bout with a TKO over Collins when the later failed to answer the bell starting the third frame.

In the opener, a flyweight battle, Ramos and Burns put on one of the best fights of the evening with Ramos winning a decision after slugging all the way with the scrappy Burns.

The complete results:

Ramos	Dec'd	Burns
DeLeon	Dec'd	Rogers
Dominquez	TKO'd	Ranne
Calderon	Dec'd	Taylor
Phinisee	Dec'd	Chubbuck
*Aikens	Dec'd	Matthews
Sanders	TKO'd	Collins
Wilson	K.O.'d	Whitley

*Won on fouls in the first round.

On tonight's card, Johnny Kamber last year's runner-up in the All-Navy finals, tackles Byrne in his first appearance since the Crump-Kramber fray at Harmon Field. Kamber is rated by many as the best Navy featherweight in this part of the Pacific.

Tonight's complete card

Kamber	vs.	Byrne
Chapman	vs.	Hayes
Dembinski	vs.	Payne
Jones	vs.	Jankowski
Commo	vs.	Fletcher

The bouts are slated to start at 1930 at the NAS Agana theater.

NSC, NATS Asia, ComMar, Brigade, Softball Victors

NSC—18 103rd CB's—3

The Naval Supply Center Storekeepers romped to a, 18-3, victory over the 103rd CB's yesterday afternoon at the CB diamond as the second half of the softball season continued.

Jack Devore was the winning pitcher allowing four hits, as Ed McClure took the defeat after allowing thirteen safties. Each team commited four errors.

ComMar—4 Triple "A"—0

"Iron Arm" Mike Simerly, hurled another one hit ball game, as the ComMar Hilltoppers downed the Triple "A" Marines, 4-0, to remain tied for second place with NSC in the Inter-Command softball league.

Simerly not only starred in the pitching department but he also slammed out a home run in the top of the sixth with a team mate on to take batting honors. The game was played at the Marine diamond.

NATS Asia—8 NBRS—3

NATS Asia added another victory to their softball string by defeating the NavBks-RecSta team, 8-3, at NBRS.

Carlock gave up seven hits but only allowed three runs to score in order to gain another pitching victory. NATS Asia could only grab four hits off NBRS pitcher, Head, but scored 8 times on walks, errors, and the four safties.

Brigade—6 MAG—4

The First Marine Brigade downed the strong MAG 24 team, 6-4, in a protested affair yesterday on the Marine diamond. MAG 24 protested the game at the end of the second inning but went on to finish the game.

The victory put the Brigade and NATS Asia within one game of fourth place which is held by MAG 24.

Due to lack of co-operation, the other league scores were not received and so the league standings are not complete for publication.

Gil Dodds to Referee Bankers' Race Today

CHICAGO, March 21 —(UP)— With the great Gil Dodds on the sideline as a referee, Windy City track fans still expected one of the greatest Bankers' mile runs in the books at the 12th Annual Chicago Daily News relays tomorrow.

Dodds, who in 1944 set a world indoor mark of 4:06.4, which stood until this winter, won his third Bankers mile event last year and retired the original trophy. He was stricken with mumps two months ago, however, and had to retire from competition for the rest of the indoor season.

None of the seven entries in the mile event were favorites today, and all of them were given a chance to win.

Probably the top contender was Gerald Kurver, Penn State's winner of the Baxter mile at New York, and the NAAU outdoor and NCAA mile champion. His best time for the event is 4:11.6, but he'll probably have to better that to win today.

Also in the field was Tommy Quinn of the New York A. C. who won the NAAU indoor mile last year and whose best mark has been 4:13.4. John Twomey, a former Illinois star, has done 4:13.1, while Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin, Tom Deal of Indiana, and Bill Mack, formerly of Michigan State, each has done around 4:14.

The darkhorse entry was Tarver Perkins of the Illinois A. C. Two weeks ago he won the Central A. A. U. mile and the 1,000 yard event. In the mile his time was 4:17.7, but he laped the field and lost seconds in the traffic jam.

Lloyd Mangrum Takes Lead From Milward in Greensboro Golf Open

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 21 —(UP)— Lanky Lloyd Mangrum, leading money winner of the winter golf circuit, pared four strokes off par today with a sizzling 66 to lead at the halfway mark of the $10,000 greater Greensboro Open with a total of 136.

The lean Chicago pro, playing in spring weather with the temperature in the 80's, cruised smoothly around the trick 6,720 yard Sesgefield Country Club course. He toured it in par 70 yesterday.

Two North Carolinans kept their tie for second place. Skip Alexander of Lexington and Clayton Haefner of Charlotte, who wound up the first round with 68's yesterday, turned in 70's today to hang two strokes behind Mangrum with 138 each.

Ellsworth Vines of Chicago, former pro tennis star, made a 69 today to hold third place with a 139 total.

Mangrum's 66 was the hottest round of the tournament to date.

Jim Milward of Green Bay Wis., who led he first round yesterday with a 67, faded out of the front rank today with a 76 for a total of 143, far down from the leaders.

The World In Brief...

Guerrillas Trapped

[illegible], Greece, March 22 —(UP)— Press reports from Kozani [illegible] central Greece said today [illegible] government troops had en[illegible] an estimated 800 guerrillas [illegible] were trying to escape from [illegible] snow-bound Pierria mountain [illegible].

Greek air force planes were [illegible] and bombing the guerrillas whose losses were estimated at 160 killed and more than 150 captured, according to the reports.

Fighting also was reported at Serria, 48 miles northeast of Salonika, where the Greek third army placed guerrilla losses at 119 dead and 114 captured in the last few days.

Withhold Support

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 22 —(UP)— Small powers of the United Nations may withhold their support of the new United States proposal for a Palestine trusteeship until American authorities lay down a clearcut plan for enforcing it, it was reported tonight.

The small nations appeared to want a promise of big power enforcement action if that becomes necessary.

Charge Influence

LONDON, March 22 —(UP)— The Soviet Union charged today that the proposal to return Trieste to Italy was an attempt by the Western Allies, particularly the United States, to influence the Italian election.

In the first Russian reaction to the Big Three request that Italy's peace treaty be amended, the nightly Radio Moscow newscast declared that the United States, Britain and France were "acting behind the back of the Soviet Union."

The broadcast carefully avoided the question of acceptance or rejection of the joint request for peace treaty amendment, first announced in Turin Saturday by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

Six Jews Killed

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 22 —(UP)— Six Jews were killed and at least 14 injured today when a 600-pound barrel bomb exploded outside the Jewish trade union contractor's bureau in Haifa, it was officially announced. All the injured were hospitalized.

Guards of the Jewish Haganah organization said they saw a truck drive down Harbor street and park outside the six-story building. They said an Arab hurriedly got out.

The trade union building was set afire and damaged badly, the announcement said. Eight nearby buildings and 21 vehicles parked in the street also were damaged, it said.

Teachers Agree

MINNEAPOLIS, March 22 —(UP)— Union and school representatives agreed today on terms for ending a teacher's wage strike which has kept the city's 92 public schools closed for 28 days.

Union officials immediately presented the agreement to the union membership for ratification, recommending that it be accepted. Membership approval would permit reopening of the schools tomorrow and ending enforced vacation for 15,000 students.

The strike began Feb. 24 when the teachers left their jobs for wage increases and to oppose shortening of the school year.

The board of education had planned to reduce the academic year by four weeks as an economy measure. The teachers said this would cut almost 10 per cent from their annual pay.

Michael Visits U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 22 —(UP) Former King Michael of Romania arrived here tonight to spend a week in the United States capital as a private citizen.

His only comment on arrival: "It's hot here." (the weather bureau recorded an unusual temperature of 80 degrees at 7 p.m., shortly after the youthful king's train arrived.)

With Michael, who recently renounced his abdication of the throne on the grounds that he did it under pressure, was the queen mother, Helen.

Soft Coal Producers Meet on Mediation

WASHINGTON, March 22 —(UP)— Soft coal producers meet here tomorrow to decide whether to accept government mediation in the crippling mine strike.

President John L Lewis already has accepted on behalf of his United Mine Workers but he said it was "preposterous to assume" that mediation would solve the pension dispute, cause of the week-old stoppage.

The joint producer-union conference was proposed by Cyrus S. Ching, national mediation director, at the suggestion of the White House.

Ching moved into the picture with a warning that a long strike will cause an industrial breakdown, first samples of which will be felt tomorrow.

Beginning at midnight tonight, on orders of the government, passenger train service on all coal-burning railroads was cut 25 per cent and nearly all soft coal shipments abroad were embargoed.

A reduction in freight train service is expected unless Lewis and the operators back down. So far neither has shown a willingness to back down and the dispute may be fought out in the courts.

The White House meantime has given no hint that President Truman may invoke the injunctive section of the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management Act. He can do so by appointing a board of inquiry to report on the reasons for the strike.

Fighting Breaks Out Along Great Wall

NANKING, March 22 —(UP)— Skirmishes broke out along China's great wall today as Communists reportedly rushed preparations to hammer out a new corridor between North China and Manchuria.

Large forces of crack Red troops, driving to climax their series of Manchurian victories by regaining their Chahar-Shansi land link, were moving into the two provinces in the direction of the vital Peiping Suiyuan railway.

The official Tientsin newspaper, Min Kko Jih, said Communist General Nieh Jung Chen moved five columns north of the great wall to launch a "large-scale offensive," touching off the skirmishes against the railway.

The Nationalists were rushing troops in large numbers along the rail line, forcing a ban on civilian travel between the two cities.

Weather Forecast

Partly cloudy. Few widely scattered light showers. Moderate easterly winds with fresh gusts today. Light winds tonight.

Yesterday's temperature: Max. 86; Min. 75.5

Yesterday's rainfall: none

Rainfall for month: 0.40.

Isacson to Demand Investigation

NEW YORK, March 22 —(UP) Rep. Leo Isacson, (ALP—N. Y.) said today that he would demand a congressional investigation of the U. S decision to abandon Palestine partition.

"I shall demand a full congressional investigation of this scandalous sell-out to the oil interests when we reconvene Monday morning," Isacson declared.

Isacson, who was elected to Congress in a special Bronx election with the backing of Henry A. Wallace, said the "shocking action" of the United States does not represent the will of the majority of American people.

"The abandonment of the United Nations plan to partition Palestine constitutes a desertion of the Jewish people, a betrayal of world peace and a rape of the United Nations," he said.

Isacson called on Jewish leaders of the Bronx to join him in staging a mass protest of the new U. S. decision.

Benes Forced Out Say Refugees

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 22 —(UP)— Czechoslovakia refugees formerly in high positions asserted today that President Eduard Benes gave in to the Communist coup because of the overawing presence of large formations of Russian troops near his country's frontier.

The refugees, who include former cabinet ministers and other members of the Czechoslovak parliament, said they feared that if President Benes had been able to get the Czech army to put down the Communist push Soviet retaliation might have been expected.

The Russian troops, they said, were officially on maneuvers but were based near the frontier.

They said Benes could have expected no direct support from the Western Allies in event of a conflict with the Czechoslovak Communists so "there was nothing for him to do but give in."

Republicans Confident Of Foreign Aid Approval

WASHINGTON, March 21 —(UP)— Top House Republicans were confident today they will pass their $6,205,000,000 one-package foreign aid bill "as is" despite Senate opposition to its military features.

"I believe the essential provisions will become law," said Rep. John M. Vorys, (R—O.), who will be in charge of the measure during House debate.

But Senate leaders remained firm in their opposition to proposals for wrapping up military aid to Greece, Turkey and China with European recovery these were included in a foreign aid bill approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee which would provide:

1. European recovery program—$5,300,000,000.
2. Economic and military aid to China—$570,000,000.
3. Greek-Turkish military aid—$275,000,000.
4. International children's fund—$60,000,000.

Members of the Senate foreign relations committee hinted they might be willing to go along with the non-military features of the House bill. Their version—approved by the Senate—provides $5,300,000,000 for European recovery only.

The Senate committee has followed the policy of taking the administration's foreign aid requests one by one. It already has approved $275,000,000, in military aid for Greece and Turkey.

The Senators meet tomorrow to hear Secretary of State George C. Marshall testify on Chinese aid. They probably will approve their own measure after that meeting.

Motorists Warned To Save Gasoline

WASHINGTON, March 22 —(UP) Pleasure-driving motorists were put on notice today to save gasoline now or face a crippling shortage this summer.

The warning signal was raised by Max. W. Ball, head of the Interior Department's oil and gas division in a 60-page report on the petroleum outlook.

Oil-burning households also have got to conserve, Ball said, or both homes and some industries will be on short rations next winter.

Ball also said that:

1. UN oil exports can't be reduced too much or the United States may have trouble fueling another war.

2. U. S. foreign policy must give "every reasonable support to American oil operations abroad."

3. Not only the domestic petroleum industry but American oil companies in the Middle East must have more steel to increase production.

Demccrats May Vote For Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, March 22 —(UP) Half of the Senate's Democrats will desert President Truman and vote for the Republican bill to cut taxes $4,800,000,000, a poll showed today.

At least 23 of the Senate's 45 Democrats are lined up behind the measure. A few others may get on the bandwagon when the Senate ends debate at 5 p. m. tomorrow and begins voting on amendments.

This Democratic support, along with acceptance by House GOP leaders of the Senate bill, appeared to clinch overriding an expected veto by President Truman.

The Republicans do not expect to lose any of their 51 Senate votes. These, with Democrats already decided, would make the vote on passage around 74 to 20, well over the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto. Two Democrats are sure to be absent because of illness

Italian Newspaper Workers Strike

ROME, Italy, March 22 —(UP)— Communist-led newspaper workers declared a 24-hour national strike tonight, effective at midnight. Another strike of 1,000 key employes of the Court of Counts which began Thursday threatened to leave nearly 2,000,000 government employes, widows and war pensioners without their pay for March.

Both strikes were calculated to embarrass the government as the election campaign which is to decide whether Italy goes Communist increased in tension throughout the country.

Communists scuffled with right wing adherents in Milan, blocked sidewalks in Rome in an attempt to force pedestrians to buy their newspapers and surrounded Count Carlo Sforza in Turin, demanding that he "debate" the question of Trieste with them.

In the Communistic North Premier Alcide De Gasperi, on an election tour, challenged Communist Leader Palmiro Taogliati to get Russia, which he knows well, "to give Trieste back to Italy."

In the anti-Communist South Togliati, on a tour of his own, denounced the proposal of the West-Allies to restore Trieste to Italy as "a vulgar attempt to drag Italy into an atmosphere of war." He avoided, however, the delicate question whether Russia would say yes or no on the Trieste question.

Truman Asked To Fire Forrestal

WASHINGTON, March 22 —(UP) Sen. Glen H. Taylor demanded today that President Truman fire Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal for opposing the partition of Palestine to "protect" American oil interests in Arabia.

At the same time, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., (R—Mass.) accused third party presidential candidate Henry A. Wallace of deliberately causing national disunity by advocating appeasement of Russia.

Taylor, former Democrat and now vice presidential candidate on the Wallace ticket, said in a letter to Mr Truman that Forrestal "has been most aggressive" in trying to have U. S. foreign and military policy shaped to "the interests of the oil companies, an interest which many people have described simply as oil imperialism."

Forrestal's office said he would have nothing to say until the President receives the letter, if then.

U.S., Russia Vote Fight Intensified

WASHINGTON, March 22—(UP) The no-quarter campaign between the United States and Russia for the votes of the Italian people in next month's national elections in Italy may be intensified this week. Usually well-informed souces said today the United States is expected to follow up the move to return all of Trieste to Italy with a motion in the United Nations Security Council which would force another vote soon on admission of Italy because the United States refused to admit the ex-enemy Balkan states. Another Russian veto before the April 18 election would be a severe blow to the Italian Communists.

Marianas War Dead Arrive at Oakland

OAKLAND, Cal., March 22 —(UP)—A grim cargo of 3,295 war dead will arrive here tomorrow aboard the Army transport ship Walter W. Schwenk.

The third funeral ship from the Pacific war theater, the Schwenk will bring home the bodies of men who died in Western Pacific battles. Most of the dead are U.S. Marines who fell in the bloody struggle for the Marianas, which gave this country the air bases from which to conquer Japan.

Brief services at the Oakland Army Base will mark the sad homecoming at 1:30 a.m., before the bodies are taken to military or private cemeteries throughout the nation.

Headline Highlights

BERLIN, March 22 —(UP)— Western allied officials said today the sudden Russian walkout on the allied control council was part of a Soviet war of nerves, and predicted that the Russians would return.

MOSCOW, March 22 —(UP)— Diplomatic observers entertained no doubt today that the Finnish delegation due here tomorrow will conclude a mutual military aid treaty with Russia such as Premier Josef Stalin has proposed.

Grass Pills Urged As Food Saver

DALLAS, Tex. —(UP)— Elmore R Torn has switched to grass. Not the long green stuff. Tablet form.

The executive vice president of the Texas Chemurgic Council, going all out to conserve food for the hungry people of Europe, is taking tablets of cerophyl. Cerophyl is the fancy name for dehydrated grass.

Torn says 20 such tablets are enough to fill the vitamin requirements of an average person for one day. Besides, the grass pills have chlorophyl "green magic" in them—a substance which scientists say may prove useful in prolonging the life expectancy of man.

With the grass diet supplemented only by fruit juices and coffee, and perhaps an occasional helping of black-eyed peas and celery for bulk, Torn figures on saving 3,333 two Europeans.

The meadow diet is not altogether new to Torn. Several years ago he used the cerophyl pills in an attempt to lose weight. They worked fine. He lost 54 pounds in three months.

The pills, which are produced from the tender green shoots of oats, barley, wheat and rye, smell like so much freshly-cured Johnson grass hay.

According to Torn's figures, if everyone who consumes more than 3,000 calories a day took the pills to substitute for 1,000 of the calories, enough food would be saved to feed 30,000,000 persons.

Long Life Pays Off

LEAD, S. D. —(UP)— Charles A. Windolph, a veteran of Custer's last stand and the oldest holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, has become the beneficiary of two of his life insurance policies.

Windolph, 96, exceeded the life span covered by insurance mortality tables. So he has collected $2,000 on one insurance policy and $1,174 on another.

He is one of two living survivors of the battle of the Little Big Horn.

Night Best Time For Sardine Fishing

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)— Sardine fishing, California's $60,000,000 industry, is geared to the phases of the moon, according to Dr. Robert C. Miller, director of the California Academy of Sciences.

Miller pointed out that sardine fishing is carried on in the darkness, and "not only at dead of night, but in the dark of the moon."

He explained that California fishermen locate schools of sardines by the luminescent streak they make in the water by stirring up microsocopic organisms. On the other hand, he said, in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, the sardine fishermen do their fishing in full daylight.

Another strange fact, he observed, is that fishermen from the northwest who can find their sardines in daylight without much trouble, take to night fishing when they come to California.

California Leads Nation in Broadcasting

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The ether over California and Texas is becoming crowded with radio signals.

Those two states lead the nation in the number of authorized broadcast stations, according to a count by the Federal Communications Commission.

As of mid-February, the commission has granted authorizations for 3,119 standard, FM and television outlets in the continental United States and possessions.

Of the total number of authorizations, California received 228 and Texas 223. Next in order are Pennsylvania with 184, New York 178, North Carolina 132, and Ohio 123.

At present, 1,558 standard, 410 FM and 19 television stations are on the air. Under construction are 411 standard, 653 FM and 68 television outlets. Also, 858 applicants are still waiting for the commission to decide whether they are qualified to operate broadcast facilities. Over 600 of the latter applications are for standard stations, while 115 are for FM and 119 for television.

Texas has the most standard authorizations with 153, followed by California, with 129. Pennsylvania has 98, New York 89 and North Carolina 86.

California tops the list of FM and television grants. Montana, Vermont, Hawaii and Alaska have no FM stations, while 18 states and possessions are without television authorizations.

American Trade Manners Rebuked

DALLAS, Tex. —(UP)— Americans, because they never take time to learn and respect people of foreign lands, have taken a rear-end place among the world's business men in the export business, a veteran exporter to Mexico believes.

Flash Bankrolls

Take it from Paul Brown, the exporter, the English, Swedish, Norwegian and Italian exporters have left Americans in a cloud of dust when it comes to dealing with Latin American countries.

"Americans seem to be the only people who do not know how to conduct themselves among foreigners," Brown lamented. "They have some foolish habits which antagonize foreign peoples. They flash their bankrolls in the Mexicans' face and they show lack of tact and respect when in the presence of foreigners.

Must Understand Others

"And," he continued, "they think it is possible to learn about Mexico simply by a few visits to Mexico City, a few drinks with officials and a few visits to night spots."

Brown advised any company that hopes to do business in the southern republic to send their export manager to live and mingle with the people for at least six months.

Teachers May Smoke But Not in School

ATLANTA, Ga. —(UP)— The Atlanta School Department is convinced that it's not what you say, it's the way you say it.

School officials are now revising the application form for teachers, which used to ask simply: "Do you smoke?" That question, they figure, did not always inspire a correct answer because it implied that if an applicant smoked, he was out of luck.

Now, the form will make it clear that it's against Board of Education rules for teachers to smoke during school hours or on school grounds.

Play Acting Aid To Mental Cases

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Play-acting as a method of treating combat fatigue and other neuroses among veterans has been adopted in the Veterans Administration service center here.

Known as psychodrama, the system of psychiatric treatment was introduced here by Dr. Ernest Fantel, former Army doctor, who successfully used it during World War II in treating battle-weary GI's.

Originator of psychodrama was J. L. Moreno, Viennese psychiatrist, who had problem children act out their fantasies more than 35 years ago.

Psychodrama gives mental patients an opportunity to express the imaginary world in which they live by allowing them to assume various identities.

The treamtent is applied to veterans by allowing them to relive troubling combat experiences which they are unable to forget because of the shock to their minds.

By re-enacting the episode several times, the patient can come to grips with his fears and overcome them. The scene which originally inspired fear in his mind eventually will appear only commonplace to him, a major step on the road o recovery.

Camel Spoils Courtship By Biting Mate

DALLAS, Tex. —(UP)— A one-sided love affair is going on at the Marsalis Pork zoo in Dallas. It could be a reciprocal proposition if only Punkin, the lonesome dromedary, would quit biting his lady on the nose.

For nine years, Punkin lived a life of solitary discontent, staring back at the hundreds who daily gawk at him in his pen. The people of Dallas, especially those who spend their Sunday afternoons walking in the zoo, finally took pity on the camel.

Josephine, a three and one-half-year-old member of the opposite sex, was turned into his pen. She gave him the cold shoulder, however, and kept her distance after Punkin took several love nips at her nose.

The zoo superintendent, Walton Carlton, explained, however, that love should blossom in the spring.

Cities Take Action Against Bird Pests

CHICAGO —(UP)— Most American cities are facing a problem of shooting the thousands of birds which roost on buildings.

The most common bird to become a nuisance is the pigeon, although starlings appear to be increasing in numbers, the American Municipal Association reports.

The two birds are the worst offenders because they remain all year, and do not follow regular migratory cycles as most birds do.

In St. Paul, an all-out war against pigeons clustered on the state capitol building has been declared. Traps on the roof captured 180 birds in two weeks, but it has been estimated that it will take several weeks more to capture the 1,000 birds which call the capitol building home.

Baltimore police sometimes shoot pigeons, but the results have not been too encouraging. They report the shots scare a lot of birds but only a few are killed.

Perhaps the most ingenious method of getting rid of the pests was used at Springfield, Ill. Large fake owls with luminous eyes have been erected on the ledges of public buildings. Theoretically, the owls scare away real birds which are looking for a place to roost.

Other cities have tried screening belfries, eliminating ledges, and trimming trees. One city went to all the trouble to employ men to patrol the streets with gas-filled toy balloons which they raised sokeyed by strings among the branches of trees.

Be a Casanova Get Out Your Sword, Dueler Urges

by Virgina MacPherson
United Press Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Get out that old dueling sword, men. It'll make you better husbands and lovers.

That's what Jean Heremans says, anyway. He was national fencing champ of Belgium for five years in a row.

And what Sinatra does to the bobby-soxers over here, Heremans did to those Belgain beauties.

He wowed 'em, according to his blushing report, had to beat 'em off with his saber. And all, he says, because he was a whiz with a rapier.

Could be. But this Heremans is a handsome, hand-kissing gent. He's six feet tall, has curly blond hair, and we couldn't be surprised if the babes in his home town never even noticed his saber-work.

All the same, he says it helps. That's how he wooed his wife. And he thinks American men would be a lot sharper in the Romeo department if they went in for a little fencing on the side.

"It makes you more graceful for one thing," Heremans pointed out. "More healthful....more....how you say it?....more manly."

Husbands who've been pipe-and-slipper-and-evening-grouch men all their lives, it seems, get a whole new zing out of life once they get their mitts on a rapier.

Turns 'em into cavaliers right off. Breadwinners feel like going home and kissing their wives' hands.

(What we'd like to know is, does it make 'em feel like carrying out the garbage? Heremans wouldn't guarantee it.)

And it might not turn the old man into a Casanova overnight.

"But it makes him think he is." Heremans chuckled. "And that is almost as good, is it not?"

He's doing his bit for American womanhood. Holds weekly classes for students at the University of Southern California. And the big men on campus are standing in line to get in on his "en garde" stuff.

Between times Heremans works in the movies. Right now he's in MGM's "The Three Musketeers."

Couple Re-Discovers Lost 'Ghost Town'

PASADENA, Cal. —(UP)— The town of Whitlock, Cal., virtually forgotten for 50 years, has been rediscovered.

A boom town of the gold rush days, Whitlock was stumbled upon by Mr. and Mrs. Paulsen Visel. The couple became interested in the small group of houses remaining and after searching for a week, were able to find the heirs to the property and closed a deal for the 103 acres.

Find Interesting Antiques

Despite the half-century of slumber, what is left of the town is in perfect condition. None of the window panes were broken, the doors swing out on their hinges, and the furniture was undisurbed, except for the mattresses which packrats had discovered.

Some of the antique articles discovered by the Visels in their own private "ghost town" include a mustache cup, primitive gold mining equipment, and various pieces of glass, china, and fine wrought iron.

..SHORT TAKES....The current Guam News Tennis Tournament has aroused a lot of interest in tennis, and a suggestion was made last Sunday that it be kept alive by the formation of inter-command competion....It was proposed by Mr. George Hall, education department super, that teams be organized at any and all organizations, civilian or service, to engage in league or conference play....If you have any suggestions or are interested, contact us here.

The finals of the tournament will be held up one week....Lcdr Smith will be off today on a junket to Shanghai and won't be back untill Sunday....There will be no matches tomorrow but several quarter and semifinals matches will be held next weekend....

Lt. Walt Honour, who lost in doubles competition to Smith, yesterday has a legitimate gripe.... He was paired with Smith in his second match of the open singles, had the same trouble in the doubles, and had the same tough luck in the All Navy intra-command playoffs at NAS Agana.... There is a possibility that J. David might meet open singles champion Davis Warfield in the All Navy competition here next month.... And maybe another Smith-Hanson match....

Lt. Honour tells us that Warfield's victory here wasn't unusual for him. Back in '42 Warfield met Lcdr. Jack Behr in Jacksonville for the command championship and gave Behr a tough battle before losing....Last year, Behr went all the way from Kwaj to Annapolis to take the All Navy singles championship.....Shortly after that, he had an accident and lost four fingers off his left hand. He now is a civilian and running his own sports shop in Honolulu..

In Stateside tennis, Jack Kramer is running away with the big nation-wide tour....It took him only 32 minutes to pilsh off Bobby Riggs in Austin, Texas last week for his 29th win....And Sid Schwartz, only one year out of the junior ranks, went to the National Indoor finals and gave Billy Talbert a hard time there... He, and Herbie Flam, Pancho Gonzales, and possibly Buddy Behrens may be carying the load for the U. S. in Davis Cup competition in a year or two....Talbert is a diabetic and can't take the hot sun.... That lets him out....Frank Parker and Ted Schroder are getting old enough to think about earning an honest living....Budge Patty and Tom Brown will probably carry the brunt of the load this year....

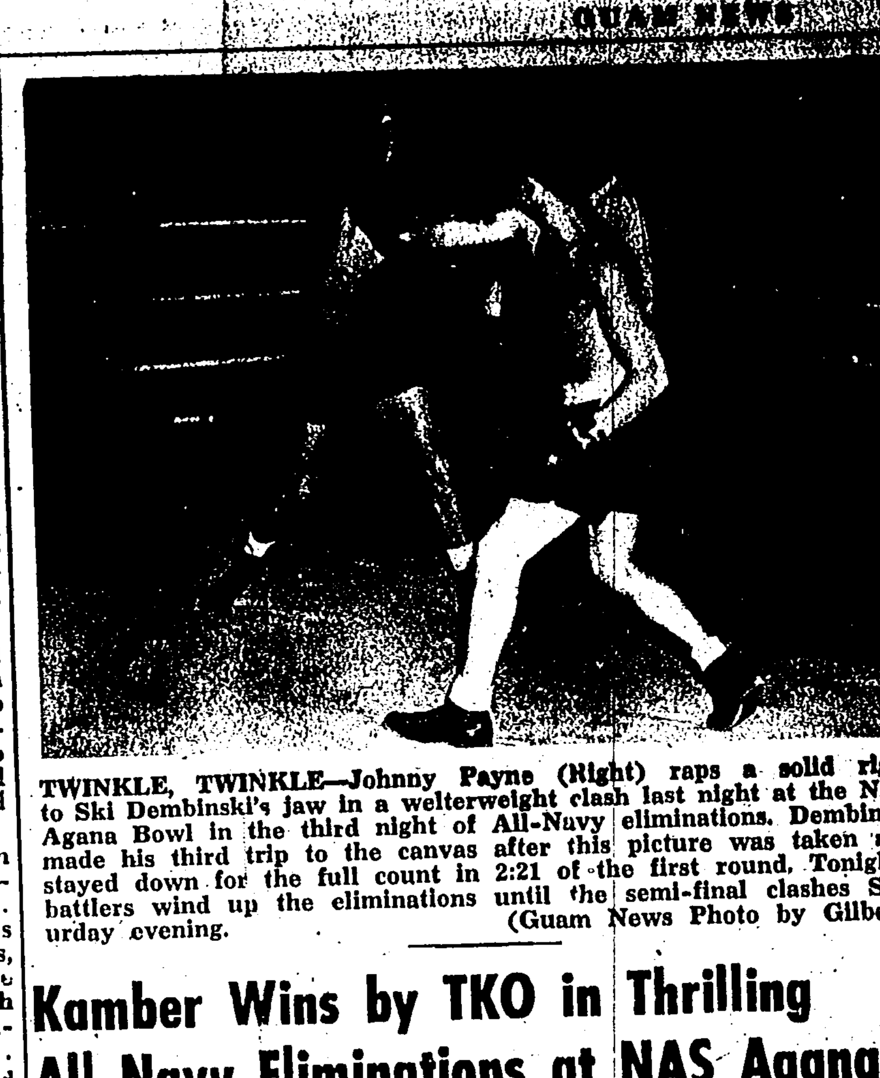
Flores Wins by TKO

HOLLYWOOD, March 22 —(UP) Hard punching Jess Flores of San Francisco, bludgeoned a seventh round technical knockout over Eddie Prince of Detroit before 5500 people at Legion Stadium last Friday.

Flores, a 5 to 1 favorite, floored Prince only once, with a pair of solid lefts and rights to the head. Prince sagged to the canvas on his knees then quickly regained his feet, though groggy.



TWINKLE, TWINKLE—Johnny Payne (Right) raps a solid right to Ski Dembinski's jaw in a welterweight clash last night at the NAS Agana Bowl in the third night of All-Navy eliminations. Dembinski made his third trip to the canvas after this picture was taken and stayed down for the full count in 2:21 of the first round. Tonight's battlers wind up the eliminations until the semi-final clashes Saturday evening. (Guam News Photo by Gilbert)

Kamber Wins by TKO in Thrilling All Navy Eliminations at NAS Agana

There may be fights in the future as good as the All-Navy eliminations at NAS Agana last night, but there'll be none better.

Of the five bouts on the card, only one went the full distance. The first and the last battle ended in TKO's and the other two featured kayoes.

In the final, a light-heavyweight affair, the First Marine Brigade took the wraps off one of the hardest hitting punchers yet seen in the local amateur ring, one Cy Fletcher by name. Fletcher used a right uppercut that originated in the bargain basement and ended up on the mezzanine to set up his opponent, NAS Agana's Commo, and then took the lease off a pile-driver-like hook that netted him a TKO early in the second round.

In the opener, Johnny Kamber dropped Bobby Byrne three times, twice for the count of nine, to win by a TKO in 2:25 of the second round.

A welterweight clash saw Johnny Payne batter lanky "Ski" Dembinski to the deck three times before scoring a knockout in 2:21 of the first bracket.

The lone decision bout was one of the bitterest of the bitter lot as Mike Janowski slugged it out with Fifth Service's Johnny Jones to win the nod from the judges. Skinny Janowski pounded Jones from one post to the other in the first round and then held him off during a vicious comeback to score the verdict.

The complete results:

Kamber	TKO'd	Byrne
Champman	K.O.'d	Hayes
Payne	K.O.'d	Dembinski
Janowski	Dec'd	Jones
Fletcher	TKO'd	Commo

Tonight's card:

Santoy	vs.	Rich
Van Norman	vs.	Heath
Alston	vs.	Reed
Crowe	vs.	Nash
Thomas	vs..	Tagle
Avery	vs.	Long

The bouts will begin at 1930.

Blood streamed down his face from the eye injury and the ringside physician immediately ordered the fight halted.

Oilers Beat Bittners To Win AAU Tourney

DENVER, March 22 —(UP)— The Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., won their seventh National A.A.U. basketball championship tonight with a 62 to 48 victory over the Denver Nuggets.

Until the last 10 minutes it was a close game with the count tied seven times. But the Oilers pulled ahead slowly midway in the final period.

For six years in a row the Phillips team has won the National A.A.U. title, and in winning this year, they played like champions. After being tied at 48-all with eight minutes to play, the Oilers moved ahead steadily to get their 14-point final margin.

Cab Renick, swift forward, had seven field goals to total 14 points for the winners. Vince Boryla, Denver Nugget hook shot specialist, led the losers in scoring 14 points also, on four field goals and six free throws.

Huge Bob Kurland, the Oilers seven-foot center, had 13 points on five field goals and three free tosses. Gerald Tucker, playing his first year with the Oilers, hit 13 points on six fielders and one free toss for the winners.

DENVER, March 22 —(UP)— The Oakland, Calif., Bittners won third place in the National A. A. U. basketball tournament with an easy 69 to 43 victory over the Denver Graybeards.

Baylor Downs Kansas State; Kentucky Dumps Holy Cross

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 22 —(UP)— A "never-say-die" [illegible] of battling Baptists from Baylor University, led by an ordained pre[illegible] won the N. C. A. A. Western play-offs and a place in the ol[illegible] bracket as they turned back favored Kansas State, 60-52, Sa[illegible] night.

The hard-fought victory, second in two nights for the Ba[illegible] sent them to New York to represent the West against Kent[illegible] Eastern N. C. A. A champions in the finals in Madison Square Ga[illegible] tomorrow night.

As they did Friday night against the University of Washing[illegible] the boys from Waco, Tex., had to overcome a great handicap. O[illegible] again they started at the minute mark of the first half trailing, [illegible] to 19.

And once again it was the fancywork of Jackie Robinson, the blackhaired parson, who sparked the great drive to win. Playing most of the last half with four personal fouls on him, Robinson, with Bill Johnson and Don Heathington helping, forked in the fielders which tied the game nine times in the final half before the Baptists broke away at the 16-minute mark.

NEW YORK, March 22 —(UP) Plucky Kentucky, one of the greatest teams of modern times, won the Eastern National Collegiate basketball championship tonight by dethroning Holy Cross, 60-52, before 18,472 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Tearing into the defending national champions with a three-ply attack which featured the all-around brilliance of Wallace Jones, Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, the Kentuckians settled the issue early and stuck around merely to tantalize the good but outclassed Crusaders from New England.

So effectively did this terrific trio dominate proceedings that in the second half they got all of their points in the first 18 minutes of play.

The Dixie dribblers qualified for a berth in the olympic tournament beginning here next Saturday by winning, but they still must meet the winner of the western championship playoff, Baylor, for the N.C.A.A. national title.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 22 —(UP)— The University of Washington took third place in the NCAA Western play-offs Saturday night with a, 57-47, victory over the younthful Wyoming team.

His team won the tournament by defeating New York University, 65 to 52, in the championship game.

Smith-Dunn Reach Tennis Semi-Finals

Lcdr. J. D. Smith and Captain J. B. Dunn had difficulty in the first set, but managed to remedy it in time to win out and go on from there to a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Lts. Walter Honour and W. S. Lewis in an open doubles match in the GUAM NEWS tennis tournament yesterday afternoon on the Naval Government courts.

Lewis' serve when he could get it in, was hard to handle, and it won the first game for him and his partner. Later in the first set, Honour and Lewis went ahead 3-2, but Smith and Dunn came from behind to cop the first set.

The win put Smith and Dunn in the semifinals against the winner of next weekend's Kohlhas-Lyman vs. Cook-Meyer match.

Gass Stars for Bombers

Lt. Jim Gass's big bat spelled the difference between victory and defeat for the North Field Bombers in two games played over the week-end.

Gass's triple with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth inning brought the Bombers their ninth consecutive 20th Air Force winter baseball league win by nosing out the Northwest Field Sunsetters, 8-7, at the North Field diamond Saturday afternoon.

The following afternoon, Gass starred again for the Bombers when he smashed out a two bagger to score Eddie Fultz with the eighth and winning run of the ballgame against the FASRon 13 club-a member of the Navy Inter-Command baseball league.

Lewis received credit for the victory and therefore gained two pitching victories in two days.

Reds—4 Red Sox—1

TAMPA, Fla., March 22 —(UP)— The Cincinnati Reds scored their fourth straight Grapefruit League victory today with a 4-1 win over the Boston Red Sox before 4,173 paying fans.

Says A-Bomb On U.S. Ships

LINCOLN, Neb., March 23 —(UP)— Rep. Arthur L. Miller, (R-Neb.), said today that U. S. ships in the Mediterranean Sea are carrying atom bombs more powerful than those dropped on Japan.

"We may see some atom bombs dropped not only on Trieste but Moscow as well," he said.

Miller made the statements in an address before a luncheon meeting of Nebraska Republicans. He repeated them in questioning by newsmen after the meeting.

In discussing the proposal for return of Trieste to Italy, Miller said that "most of our ships are in the Mediterranean."

"If Yugoslav troops move into Trieste, there should not be any hesitance about using atom bombs," he said.

In a second news conference, Miller said that "three U. S. Battleships are in Trieste Harbor."

Miller said he got his information from talking to members of the Congressional Armed Forces Committee.

In Washington the Navy said emphatically that none of its ships in the Mediterranean are carrying atom bombs.

The Navy added that only 15 U.S. combat ships are in Mediterranean waters out of a total of 276 such vessels in the U. S. fleet.

7,400,000 Taxpayers Will be Dropped From Income Tax Rolls

WASHINGTON, March 23 —(UP)— The Senate passed the GOP tax cut bill today with more than enough votes to override a presidential veto.

President Truman is expected to veto the bill. He killed two Republican tax cut measures that way last year on the ground that they were inflationary and rich man's bills.

But the size of the Senate vote—78 to 11—indicated a veto will be overridden easily this time.

It was 18 more votes than the two-thirds it would take to override a veto.

The measure will cut 7,400,000 low-income taxpayers from the rolls this year and reduce the taxes of all others retroactively to last Jan. 1.

But both Republicans and Democrats say Congress will over-ride a veto this time. Many Democrats, heretofore opposed, have been won to the view that the tax burden must be lightened.

Every person who pays federal income taxes would get some relief under the $4,800,000,000 Senate measure.

Chairman Eugene D. Millikin, (R-Colo.) of the Finance Committee estimated that 70 per cent of the cut will go to persons with incomes under $5,000 a year.

As passed by the Senate, here's how the bill would work:

Exemptions—the personal exemption of each taxpayers and each dependent would be increased from $500 to $600. The blind and taxpayers aged 65 or older would get an additional $600 exemption. This would leave an estimated 7,400,000 persons, mostly low-paid individuals, of the tax roll.

Split-income-husbands and wives in all states would be granted the split-income privilege now confined to the so-called community property states. By splitting family income most taxpayers would drop back into lower surtax brackets.

Percentage cut—after figuring the tax on the basis of increased exemptions and split income, each taxpayer would get an additional percentage cut. It would be 12.6 per cent on a tax of $400 or less; 7.40 per cent on taxes from $400 to $100,000, and five per cent on taxes over $100,000.

Strike Wave Hits New York

CHICAGO, March 23 —(UP)— The nation's wave of labor disputes spread to the New York printing industry today.

Magazine, book and job shops were affected, adding a new walkout to strikes which have idled more than half a million workers.

Minneapolis school children returned to their classrooms for the first time in nearly a month following settlement of a teacher's strike, but the nation's two biggest strikes in the coal and meat industries—appeared no nearer solution.

Fewer than 300 of the 4,200 printers employed in New York commercial printing shops reported for work, boosting to 530,900 the number idle in labor disputes.

Crashboat 'Butch' Explodes at Dock

HQ. 20TH AF, March 23 — Seven crewmen aboard escaped without serious injuries when the 8056th Rescue Boat Detachment's crashboat "Butch" exploded at its dock in Apra Harbor, Guam, Monday at about 2:25 p.m. Decks, bulkheads, and installations suffered major damage but a fire which followed was quickly extinguished.

Cpl. Francis A. Ulanoski, radio operator, who had just boarded the craft and was descending to the radio room, believed that compartment to have been the source of the blast. He was thrown back onto the deck by the explosion, but suffered only minor burns about the body.

M-Sgt. William O. Harrelson, skipper of the vessel, who was in the master's quarters, later noticed that his watch had been stopped by the concussion. Three other men: S-Sgt Burton J. Hursh, Sgt. Hubert M. Jones and Sgt. Jack E. Dofelmire were in the engine room, while Cpl. Harry Szanfranski, Jr., was on the stern.

"Butch" and its crew had become widely known throughout this part of the Pacific in recent months, following several outstanding rescues of personnel at sea.

Marshall Tells of Necessity for UMT

WASHINGTON, March 23 —(UP) Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Defense Secretary James Forrestal today told members of a Senate Committee that there is an absolute necessity for quick passage of both a draft act and Universial Military Training.

The two cabinet officers testified at a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee which is considering President Truman's request for the two preparedness measures. Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall also was present.

Chairman Chan Gurney, (R-S. D.), told reporters afterwards that the conclusion of the three men (Marshall, Forrestal and Royall) was that we absolutely had to have both selective service and Universal Military Training," Gurney said.

Gurney said he believed committee members were satisfied with the answers Marshall and Forrestal gave to their questions.

Europe-China Aid Bill Goes to House Floor

WASHINGTON, March 23 —(UP) A $6,205,000,000 military-economic aid bill for Europe and China went to the House floor today with warning from its chief Republican sponsor that threats of war demand swift action.

The House Rules Committee cleared the plainly labelled anti-Communist measure and assigned it 15 hours of general debate. Republican leaders promised to wind up the oratory Thursday, recess for the Easter weekend, and bring the bill to a vote by April 1.

ERP and UN Included

The legislation provides $5,300,000,000 for the European Recovery Program: $275,000,000 of military help to Greece and Turkey; $570,000,000 of military and economic aid to China, and $60,000,000 for the United Nation's children's relief fund.

The Senate already has passed ERP and is considering the China aid and the Greek-Turkish project separately. That means the separate House-Senate bills must be compromised after their passage.

Two Priest-Statesmen Arrested Near Prague

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 23 —(UP)— Two priest-statesmen ousted from Communist Premier Klement Gottwald's cabinet were arrested at a small airport near Prague while awaiting "a foreign plane circling overhead" to take them out of the country, the interior ministry announced today.

The announcement said "several persons of foreign nationality" also were taken into custody at the airfield. It was not immediately known whether Americans were involved.

The "foreign" plane did not land, the ministry said, because "nationalist workers" were on a job near the airstrip.

Announcement of the arrests followed a statement by Interior Minister Vaclav Nosek barring from future elections all persons who "offended" the new "people's democracy."

Clean Up Taxi Dancing

TOKYO, March 23 —(UP)— The taxi dancers union and two government ministries launched a joint campaign today for "clean and wholesome" public dancing.

They set out to eliminate cheek-to-cheek dancing in dance halls and various "unclean scenes" at the dance hall matinees which are attended by young men and girls.

The ministries of education and welfare are cooperating in the drive with the taxi dancers, whose spokesman blamed men for any immorality in the dancehalls.

A number of complaints about dancing couples have been received by the government.

"Many of them just embrace each other on the floor," a government official said "and just sway their bodies to the music without taking a step."

Army Changes Occupation Currency

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 23 —(UP)— The United States Army suddenly changed its occupation money throughout the world today in a surprise move aimed at wiping out currency black markets from Frankfurt to Tokyo.

The first news of the drastic change came here at 4 a.m. when bleary-eyed soldiers were routed out of bed for an unusually early reveille. They were informed they would have exactly eight hours to change their old coins for the new.

Other Army personnel were given the news by telephone. They were told "old" money still in their pockets at noon would be worthless.

This is the third currency change in Germany in the past 18 months.

In Tokyo, the Army announced today the change-over was being made simultaneously throughout the world, wherever military currency is used. The move was kept secret until the last minute so illegal holders of occupation currency would be unable to unload their hoards.

It was expected that some Japanese who had been buying military currency on the black market would be caught by the sudden change.

Finland, Russia Begin Negotiations

MOSCOW, March 23 —(UP)— The Finnish treaty negotiations for the Russian-Finnish Alliance—— Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky and Maj. Gen L. Zorin, director of reparations for conquered countries, met the Finns at the snow swept station. The station entrance was draped with Soviet and Finnish flags.

Radio Moscow said the Finns had been received by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. The broadcast was heard in London.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda, commenting on the negotiations which are to begin today, said that only those "blinded by hate for the Soviet Union can see in the proposal to Finland anything but an intention to strengthen peace and security."

Greek Troops Use Gas

LONDON, March 23 —(UP)— Radio Moscow tonight quoted a "Free Greek" radio broadcast that Greek government troops were using poison gas against guerrillas.

The broadcast said that "responsibility for the use of poison gas rests on American officers and soldiers."

The Greek army was said to have used gas March 15 in the Kastoria area of western Macedonia, Radio Moscow reported.

"We protest through the Greek people and world public opinion against this shameful and bestial act from which the civilian population in hostile areas are suffering," Radio Moscow quoted the guerrilla broadcast.

Chinese Expand Manchurian Army

PEIPING, March 23 —(UP)— Chinese Nationalists pumped new strength into Manchuria today for a coming showdown there as a new Red offensive 500 miles away gained fury against North China's back corridor to Mudeot, an activity which appeared likely to be a major factor in the ultimate fate of North China and Manchuria.

At the Manchurian supply port of Hulutao, recently freed from winter ice, new reinforcements landed by sea to join government forces already engaged in a maneuver to reconquer the corridor between China's great wall and the Manchurian capital of Mukden.

But warfare spilled over in a dozen new places along the northwestern railway which normally takes soldiers and supplies from inner Mongolia to the Nationalist headquarters at Peiping. A government communique reported "bitter hand-to-hand" fighting as the Reds followed up the capture of many small rail stations 20 to 40 miles northeast of Tatung.

The World In Brief....

Belgrade

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 23 —(UP)— Foreign Minister Stanoje Simic implied tonight that Yugoslavia was willing to restore Trieste to Italy provided she got Italian Gorizia, just to the north, in return.

Simic made his statement at a press conference a few hours after Yugoslavia in notes to the United States, Great Britain and France protested "most vigorously" against the restoration of Trieste to Italy and accused the western Allies of playing politics with the free territory.

Washington

WASHINGTON, March 23 —(UP) —The government tonight asked John L. Lewis to call off the nationwide coal walkout and proposed a plan for peaceful settlement of his pension dispute with the operators.

The plan was announced by Cyrus S. Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, after a three and one-half hour meeting with representatives of Lewis' United Mine Workers and of producers.

Ching urged that Lewis meantime "do everything in his power to induce the miners immediately to resume work."

Chicago

CHICAGO, March 23 —(UP)— Flood waters surged over sections of 11 northern states and Eastern Canada today, forced hundreds from their homes, closed some industrial plants and caused millions of dollars in damage.

About 1,000 persons were homeless in six eastern and midwestern states hit hardest by the floods. There were more homeless in Canada, nearly 6,000 persons were idled by shutdowns of plants along flooded river fronts.

Rain in the Ohio Valley and northern plains states added to the flood dangers. More rain was forecast for several midwestern states. Army engineers warned that if rains are heavy during the next five days there will be dangerous floods along the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois Rivers.

London

LONDON, March 23 —(UP)— Two Laborites and two Conservatives urged the government today to begin planning now for evacuation of the British Isles in event of a third world war.

Their debate was interrupted at one point by Communist William Gallacher who yelled, "this is madness."

Berlin

BERLIN March 23 —(UP)— The Russians enlarged their boycott on four-power government of Germany today and high allied observers believed the Soviet Union was preparing to withdraw permanently from the allied control council.

The Russians failed to show up at six committee meetings and cancelled five scheduled for tomorrow, virtually stalling the four-power administration and further straining relations among the allies.

Tests Determine Unborn Baby's Sex

AUGUSTA. Ga —(UP)— Researchers at the University of Georgia Medical school here have perfected a laboratory test to determine the sex of a child months before it is born. They are not sure it's such a good idea, however.

The test was invented by the Russians, whose experimenters in hormone research claim that it is 80 per cent accurate. It is being perfected and simplified here by doctors who have found it to work about seven times out of 10.

Only at the university hospital here can expectant mothers so far be tested for the sex of their unborn, according to Dr. Robert G. Greenblatt, professor of endocrinology (the study of internal secretions). who is supervising the project

The actual testing procedure, he explained, is complicated. One of the steps requires a group of mice to be injected with solutions prepared from about 10 teaspoonfuls of blood from each pregnant woman undergoing the examination.

Two Hormones Studied

Greenblatt and his co-worker, Dr. E. H. Neilburgs, research fellow in charge of the laboratory work, base their calculations on the actions of two hormones in the blood of pregnant women. For simplicity's sake, the hormones are called FSH and LH.

Women found to be high in LH and low in FSH may expect a son. It's just the reverse in the case of a girl—the LH is low and the FSH predominates.

Right now, Greenblatt and Neiburgs are working on a more simplified test which they hope wil be more sensative. Neiburgs plans to publish a scientific paper on the project soon, reporting on a series of 75 to 100 cases.

But many of the still unanswered questions are more scientific.

Has Drawbacks

"Suppose an expectant mother already has four sons and wants a daughter?" Dr. Greenblatt asked

"Today she never knows what her next child will be until it is actually born, and then the relief and miracle of motherhood usually ease her adjustment even if the child is of the unwanted sex."

Suppose, however, she knew after four months of pregnancy that she was carrying a boy instead of the girl she hoped for?"

"Would she develop a dangerous psychopathic resentment against her unborn child?"

"Would she be impelled toward abortion?"

Greenblatt and Neiburgs answered that they didn't know.

Sunken Ships Menace Inland Navigation

CHICAGO —(UP)— Sunken ships in the Chicago River are creating a menace to navigation on that link between the Great Lakes and the Mississippi River, according to a city official.

Harbor Master W. L. Lynch says there are at least 15 wrecks that are dangerous to shipping.

Difficulties arise because jurisdiction over river waters is shared by the city and federal government, with the city being responsible for the area 20 feet out from the shore. Owners of ships that sink in the city sections are charged with their removal but Public Works Commission is seeking ways to make that regulation stronger.

Forest to Honor Slain Children

BOSTON —(UP)— Despite Arab-Jewish conflict in the hills of Galilee, the American Christian Palestine Committee has begun planting a memorial forest near Nazareth honoring 1,250,000 Jewish children killed by the Nazis.

Dean Howard M. LeSourd of Boston University, director of the committee, said donations for 4,000 trees have been received.

To Memorialize Youngsters

"We hope to memorialize the tragic deaths of the European youngsters by beautifying the hills where Jesus played as a child," Dean LeSourd said.

"We have no specific goal for the project, though we would like to have a tree for every child who was killed."

Dean LeSourd said the idea originated with Mrs. Ruth Abernethy, of St. Paul, Minn., who came forward with the plan when the Christian Palestine Committee began searching for a "concrete and specific project which would show America's feeling over the death of the children."

Cedar, cypress, fig and carob trees are being planted, as well as other trees mentioned in the Bible.

U.S. Railroad Network Found Diminishing

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The nation's network of railroad lines has been diminishing steadily for the past 30 years, according to records of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Since World War I, the country has lost 27,800 miles of main line railroad track. It resulted from authorized abandonment of certain sections of line no longer considered profitable or necessary.

In 1916, railroad mileage in the United States reached its peak with 254,251 miles of mainline track. It dropped 11 per cent during the next 30 years to 226,438 miles last year. The trackage lost equals a railroad line greater in length than the circumference of the earth.

Fish Desert Black Sea, Flood Turkish Market

ISTANBUL —(UP)— Even the fish are fleeing from Russian domination, according to Turkish fishermen, who claim they "never had such luck."

Within three days, Istanbul fishermen pulled in more than 1,000,000 pounds of anchovies and 70,000 pounds of mackerel. When the sudden glut hit the market, the wholesale price of anchovies dropped from 25 cents a pound to nine cents in one day. The next day, when prices dropped to less than a cent and a half per pound, fishermen disgustedly began throwing their anchovies back into the sea.

Experts said storms and unreasonable weather changes in the Black Sea apparently sent billions of anchovies in a mad dash through the Bosporus.

Read for Enjoyment, Professor Urges

EVANSPORT, Ill. —(UP)— More people should read for pleasure instead of for practical purposes, says Jean H. Hagstrum, assistant professor of English at Northwestern University.

Hagstrum said there was an increase of 10 to 15 per cent in the nation's reading during 1947, but a decrease in the reading of fiction.

"If present trends continue, the art of reading for pleasure is likely to die out in America," he said.

"The danger is that people look upon reading more and more as a utilitarian function," Hagstrum said. "Practical reasons, such as reading about Russian relations, the housing shortage or psychology, are all right, but they should not choke out reading for pure enjoyment.

Parents Often Responsible for Nervous Child

TULSA, Okla. —(UP)— If your child is nervous, maybe you'd better start checking up on yourself.

Dr. L. S. McLeod, president of the Oklahoma State Psychological Association and head of the psychology department at Tulsa University, thinks no child is born nervous.

He blames parents, playmates—and even teachers.

"It seems unlikely that a child is born doomed by heredity to nervousness," McLeod says in an article in the Oklahoma Parent-Teacher magazine.

McLeod defines "nervous" as being fidgety, restless, emotional and exciteable. He says large number of children are extremely nervous.

Strict discipline on the part of parents is the most common influence of people around the child the psychologist said.

"When the parent corrects one type of behavior today and punishes the child for it and tomorrow ignores it or even laughs at it good-naturedly, the child becomes confused, uncertain and hesitant, doubtful, and even emotional in his behavior," he believes.

A parent who keeps emotionally poised can produce in the child a sound, straight-forward behavior which no amount of nagging will produce."

Guidance Needed

Children need guidance, and sometimes restraint, McLeod admits. But he declares guidance which denies self-expression often hinders the child in developing a poised, self-controlled personality.

Guidance should not frustrate, be sporadic and inconstant, or frequently change its form and requirements, in the doctor's opinion.

A classroom harboring constant chaos or a nervous teacher may produce nervousness and other complex behavior problems in the child, he adds.

And playmates, if they are older and bigger and at the same time bossy, domineering and selfish, can frustrate a child and have bad results, McLeod points out.

The child should have some playmates older, some younger and some his own age, but supervising parents should encourage cooperation, fair play, and activities giving all self-expression, McLeod advises.

NEW INSIGNIA FOR NAVY MEDICAL SERVICE CORPS— The insignia above will replace the Caduceus (Staff of Mercury with two snakes entwined) which is now worn by the Naval Service Corps, the Bureau of Naval Personnel announced. The new device will replace the Caduceus as soon as it becomes available. While it resembles the insignia now worn by Navy doctors and dentists, the absence of the acorn in the middle of the leaf, and the addition of a slanted twig under the leaf make it distinguishable. MarBo Getting Ready For Army Day

MARBO—Preliminary planning for the April 6 Army Day ceremonies at MarBo Base Command has been completed it was revealed recently. Presentation of certain medals will highlight the formations and ceremonies.

Army Day was first held in 1928, and marks the day that the United States entered the first World War. The selected date was officially recognized by Congress on March 17, 1937. The Military Order of the World Wars, an organization of commissioned officers of World War I and World War II, annually sponsors Army Day throughout the nation.

Arrangements Made

Arrangements have been made for air shipment of a number of the European-African-Middle East campaign medals, the Asiatic-Pacific campaign medal, and the American campaign medal to MarBo Base Command for local Army Day ceremonial presentation.

Each group or major echelon commander will select two individuals qualified to receive one or more of the medals as token awards to the units. Presentation will be made at Army Day ceremonies. Other eligible personnel will be presented their medals at appropriate formations.

Army Day is set aside each year to recount the achievements of the past and projected plans for the future. Suitable ceremonies are the order of the day at all Army installations throughout the world.

Coal Men Chose Columbus for Test To Show Cities Can Be Smokeless

COLUMBUS, O. —(UP)— The nation's coal producers have taken the first step in an experimental program they hope will prove that cities in fuel-burning areas can be almost 100 per cent smoke-free.

The experiment, which the coal men believe will turn Ohio's capital into a "smokeless" city, began March 4, with the arrival of a smoke abatement expert from Cincinnati. He was one of 15 engineers to be furnished in the experimental program sponsored by the Coal Producers' Committee for Smoke Abatement.

The drive to reduce smoke will be carried by hundreds of fuel-burning plants within the city. It will be co-ordinated through the Columbus city division of smoke control.

H. V. Lammers, director of engineering for the coal committee, said the program will continue a year or more, he said, "so we can run through all seasons."

Work Is Educational

"We are out to establish the fact that cities can be nearly smokefree," he explained.

Lammers said the committee engineers, working through the office of the city division of smoke control would spread out toward the suburbs after checking the downtown area.

"Our work," he said, "will be mainly education and advice. We will be available to inspect fuel-burning plants and make recommendations. We will show home-owners how to fire their furnaces. We will cooperate 100 per cent with everyone interested."

Why Columbus Was Chosen

The six major reasons why Columbus was chosen by the committee for the experiment, Lammer said, were:

1. Columbus has an anti-smoke ordinance patterned after one the committee would recommend.
2. The city is "geographically convenient."
3. It is a large convention city.
4. It is a major railroad center.
5. Its firms and homes burn a variety of fuels.
6. City officials are being "decent in their approach to the problem."

WHATS IN A NAME ANYHOW?—Every so often our files turn up a beauty such as this lacking a name and correct description. But then, whats in a name anyhow? Her poise, her tenderness and her pulchritude all speak for themselves. Lets just say she's the girl we'd most like to find in our Easter basket.

Biography

Ingrid Bergman, Swedish actress, won an academy award "Oscar" in 1944 for her performance opposite Charles Boyer in "Gaslight."

The acclaim "best actress" at the annual ceremony was followed by many other awards: "Outstanding actress of 1945," by the New York critics' circle and the foreign correspondents' association of Hollywood; the Look magazine award of 1945 for "achievement" in "Saratoga Trunk," "Spellbound" and "The Bells of St. Mary" and the Motion Picture Heardl-Fame poll for one of the top box-office stars of 1946.

Miss Bergman was born Aug. 29, 1917, in Stockholm. Her father, Justus Bergman, a photographic equipment retailer, and her mother died while she was a child. She went to live with an uncle, wrote and directed a play at 15. The play won her admittance to the Royal Dramatic Theater School at Stockholm.

By the time she was 17, Miss Bergman's blonde beauty and acting ability made her a Scandinavian picture star. The Svensk film industry made "Intermezzo," which brought her to the attention of David O. Selznick.

Selznick decided to make the picture in English and chose Leslie Howard and Miss Bergman to co-star in it.

During Miss Bergman's drama school days, she married Peter Lindstrom, a young medicine student. A daughter, Pia, was born in 1939.

Miss Bergman, contemplating the idea of going to far-off Hollywood, first went to Germany and made one pre-war picture before sailing, alone, for Hollywood to accept Selznick's offer to do "Intermezzo." She made the picture and returned immediately to husband and daughter.

Just after the war broke out, Lindstrom escorted his wife and baby to Italy, left them to continue their voyage to America and returned to Sweden. He joined them in Hollywood later.

Miss Bergman next made "Adam Had Four Sons," opposite Warner Baxter. Then came the war-time "Casablanca," whose timeliness with President Roosevelt's meeting with Prime Minister Churchill at the African city, plus revival of the song, "As Time Goes By," helped make it a hit.

Hollywood produced a big fanfare to find the girl to star with Gary Cooper in "For Whom The Bells Toll" and Miss Bergman won the part of Maria.

Miss Bergman won roles differing greatly from the aesthetic type which first drew attention to her: she played Clio, a sultry creole beauty in the Edna Ferber story, "Saratoga Trunk" and a woman psychiatrist in "Spellbound."

She was co-starred in "Notorious" with Spencer Tracy in "Dr. Jekell and Mr. Hyde," with Robert Montgomery in "Rage In Heaven," and with Bing Crosby in "Bells of St. Mary."

In 1946 Miss Bergman went east for stage appearances in Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine," then returned to Hollywood to star in Erich Maria Remarque's "Arch of Triumph," with Charles Boyer.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Since two police officers just kept watching the red-haired damsel perform and made no attempt to halt her "bumps and grinds" they evidently did not consider the dance indecent, Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder ruled recently.

He directed the police department to issue a cabaret employes' identification card to Georgia Southern. The police had contended her dance was a bit too suggestive.

Paris Radicals Desert Montparnasse

by Dudley Harmon
United Press Correspondent

PARIS —(UP)— In the opinion of experts, Montparnasse, center of pre-war Left Bank gayety, is dead.

Worse than that, according to artists and writers, it has become "bourgeois." The once-Bohemian district on the edge of the Latin quarter is considered stuffy today.

The Dome, the Rotonde and other famous cafes have changed character. Stolid, middle-aged Parisians and family groups from the country now dine where Ernest Hemingway and bearded painters held court. The one-time crowed terrace of the "Dome" is often empty because of the soaring price of drinks.

Post-World War II intellectuals have filtered down the narrow, curving streets from Montparnasse and established themselves in a new quarter. The area, nearer the seine than Montparnasse, is dominated by the church of St. Germain des Pres, with its medieval tower.

Tradition Lingers

Picasso's home and the studio of Raymond Duncan are in the neighborhood. The American writers, Tennessee Williams and Carson McCullers, live nearby.

The pre-war tradition of long hair, beard and corduroy jackets lingers on in the new area, and "American" is heard as often as French. Conservative residents complain about the influx of followers of the new philosophic and aesthetic movements—existentialism and expressionism.

The expressionists also are talking of setting up a night club and cafe is in vogue among the new Bohemians. Before the war Les Denux Magors was popular with writers and artists.

Then they flocked next door to the Elore, and Des Deux Magots became "bourgeois." Many intellectuals are now moving to a tiny bar a few doors away, the Montana. Everybody knows everybody else and it is more like a club than a public bar.

Tourists flock to one cafe and gape at other tourists, unaware that "the group" has since moved elsewhere.

Wallace Beery Faces Paternity Suit

HOLLYWOOD. —(UP)— Wallace Beery has offered a "small" settlement and a trust fund to quiet actress Gloria Whitney's claims he fathered her son, she said recently.

The 32-year-old actress disclosed the offer in a petition filed in superior court to change attorneys. She said she and her current attorney, Joseph Fainer, couldn't agree over the settlement.

Beery, who may have to pay the bill for either attorney, was ordered to appear in court for a hearing. He would not confirm he had offered to settle.

Miss Whitney said the 63-year-old actor offered "less than $2 000" settlement of the paternity charge he said flattered him.

She said he also offered an unspecified amount in trust on condition it was not used to support the six-week-old baby and the question of his paternity "be deferred to some indefinite time."

Miss Whitney said Beery is worth more than a million dollars.

"I don't want to wait until I may have departed from this life to settle Johan's paternity," she said.

Veteran Uniquely Solves College Housing Problem

JACKSON, Mich. —(UP)— An ocean-going vessel is sitting hundreds of miles from navigable water here, but it's all part of Theodore Conover's plan to go to college.

The young ex-sailor plans to sail his converted whale boat down the Ohio River to the Mississippi, thence via the Gulf of Mexico to Tampa, Fla., and his goal, the University of Tampa.

A year ago the bogey of expenses thwarted Conover's idea of attending the southern college. There was the problem of transportation as well as housing.

So Conover got a 28-foot ex-Navy whale boat at an auction for $130. Since then he has converted it into a sleek power-driven cabin craft.

Interested townspeople pitched in to help the disabled veteran in his task. The city water superintendent, D. J. Stellingworth, contributed a discarded impellor wheel from one of the city's deep well water pumps for a propellor.

Luxurious Cabin

Conover built a 14-foot cabin containing seats, bunk, table, closet and kitchenette. He installed a new marine engine and a 34-foot mast for sail power. Thirty-seven feet of railroad rail provides a heavy keel.

Conover said that on arrival in Tampa he will anchor his craft near the college and set up housekeeping in style, with the gentle waves to rock him to sleep.

But he has plans beyond the horizons. Secure in his locker are complete charts of Caribbean and South America waters. After college he envisions leisurely trips to far-off places, tropical nights, lecture tours.

Survey Quotes Statistics of Veterans' Expenditures

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Direct government expenditures for veterans' activities in the last fiscal year were the equivalent of $366 per veteran, a study of Veterans' Administration records shows.

Excluding transfers of funds or funds, the government made direct appropriation expenditures of $6,676,000,000 during the fiscal year ending last June 30 for an estimated veteran population then of 18,237,000.

Each veteran did not receive anywhere near his proportionate share, the records show. That is because fewer than 7,000,000 of the 14,300,000 World II veterans did not participate in any type of veteran program or benefit under the Veterans' Administration.

Tuition Adds Up

Others receiving up to $500 a year for tuition in educational institutions and at the same time received up to $90 a month for living allowances.

Still hundreds of thousands of others were drawing $20 a week for up to 52 weeks for unemployment compensation, and others required expensive hospitalization and medical care.

Expenditures by states shows that the amount spent per veteran was higher generally in southern states and some northeastern and western states than in the middle west and northern states.

All of the middle western states had a higher percentage of veteran population than the veterans in those states received proportionately from the federal government.

Illinois for instance, had 6.07 per cent of the total veteran population, but only 5 per cent of the total went to Illinois veterans. If Illinois had received a per quota shure based on population, veterans in that state would have received approximately $405,354,000 last year instead of $389,900,000.

Other Side Of Picture

Veterans in New York State would have received an additional $60,000,000 on that basis.

On the other side of the picture, veterans in Alabama would have received somewhere around $119,500,00 instead of $152,500,000.

The District of Columbia, with less than three-fourths of one per cent of the total western population, received 2.8 per cent of the money spent. That was because the nation's capital is charged in the breakdown with the full expense of operating the Veterans' Administration central office.

Southern states receiving a higher percentage of money spent than they have in veteran population are Texas, Missouri, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Rhodo Island and Massachusetts in the east and Colorado, Arizona, Oklahoma and New Mexico in the west, fall into that category.

Open-the-Door Policy

DAVENPORT, Ia.—(UP)—Fire Chief Lester Schick has prepared a directory of persons owning Davenport business concerns for use in case of fire.

Schick says the purpose is to know whom to notify in case of night-time fires. If fire break out in one building, it is necessary usually to check neighboring buildings to see if there is fire inside.

Rather than break the door down, the fire chief says, the firemen would prefer to notify someone who could unlock the place.

GOOD MORNING—Down at the All-Navy signings at NAS Agana the other day most of the fighters were complaining audibly of the length of the rounds....three minutes apiece....all except one guy, that is. He was Cy Fletcher, a lanky light-heavy from the First Marine Brigade. High Cy merely mumbled "it'll give me more time for fightin'."

This corner was a mite sceptical at first and we assumed a "wait and see" attitude.

Then night before last Fletcher bounded into the ring and proceeded to show us. He larrupped his opponent with terrific uppercuts that ended just a little bit north of South of the Border. In the second round, and still looking fresh as a daisy, Fletcher cut loose with straight rights and lefts to the head that whistled like a bazooka and exploded about as loud. Such a windup and power we've never seen the likes of. His windup started out near Talofofo and endėd uptown....Right on his opponent's cranium. The power was reminisent of your Uncle Ed beating Aunt Susie's living room carpet. The officials stopped the fight in the second round and gave a TKO to Fletcher, but you had the feeling he resented it....Heck! He was just warming up.

The Associated Press has come up with the first All-America collegiate basketball team for 1947-48. We'll give them credit and admit they were first, but from then on . . . . Selected on a point basis by votes from 321 sports editors, it's made up of Kevin O'Shea, Notre Dame; Ralph Beard, Kentucky; Ed MaCauley, St. Louis; Murray Wier, Iowa, and Jim McIntyre, Minnesota.

We'll give a nod in agreement with the first three selections, but how did Wier and McIntyre get in there? From here it looks as if the 321 sports editors were from right around the Wheat and Corn Belt area.

Wier played great ball for the Hawkeyes, breaking Andy Phillips Big Nine record, while Long Jim carried most of the load for the mediocre Golden Gophers, but whether they're good enough to place on the coveted five is another question.

Looking over the Ap's choice for All-America honors the first thing that hits you is the fact that none of the New England teams are mentioned. Not even a whisper of Holy Cross' George Kaftan, a member of the crew that whipped Michigan, the Big Nine cage champs, by some 18 points in the NCAA tourney.

As long as they were placing two centers on the All-America aggregation (MaCauley and McIntyre are both pivotmen), why did they chose the "Mac" from Minnesota instead of Al "the Shot" Groza from Kentucky?

On the Coast there were three cagers of All-America material.... Chuck Hanger and Andy Wolfe from California, and Jack Nichols of Washington.

The experts, like the Lord, operate in a strange and wonderful way.

Twelve Teams to See Action Today As Inter-Command Baseball Continues

The Inter-Command Island baseball league continues today with six games on tap to begin at 1400. Four teams, Industrial Miners, NBRS Dodgers, 1507 CB's, and the Tripple "A" Marines, are idle because of having played last Wednesday. Industrial is scheduled to play at NGRS but will wait until the two teams are scheduled to meet again. The same situation gives the other two teams an off date.

Orote plays host to FasRon 13 in a contest that will drop one of the two teams from the undefeated list. The ComMar Hilltoppers and the NavComSta teams clash at ComMar in another contest that will give one or the other their first defeat. The winner of the ComMar-NavComSta tilt will be at least tied for first place or by chance will share the lead spot by themselves.

The 1st Brigade Devildogs travel to the 103rd CB-diamond and both are searching for their first league victory. The Marine Barracks nine will see [illegible] they can do about breaking [illegible] win column against the [illegible] Supply Center at the later's diamond.

The Agana All Stars who lost a close game to Fifth Service last Sunday, will travel to the Yards and Docks Gophers home diamond, Stoney Stadium, to try for their initial victory. The defending champions, Fifth Service Leathernecks, play host to the NAD Trojans to round out the six game schedule.

O'Connor, Hockey Star Gets $1,000 For Effort

NEW YORK, March 23 —(UP) Little Buddy O'Connor, the New York Rangers' star play-making center, will receive a $1,000 reward even though he was nosed out for the National Hockey League's individual scoring title in the last game of the regular season.

Because of the "hustling and unselfish" brand of hockey played by O'Connor in his dual quest of helping the Rangers in the Stanley Cup Playoffs and winning the individual scoring crown, the club announced today that it will make up the $500 difference which he lost by finishing second after leading the race for most of the campaign.

Liscombe; High Scorer

NEW YORK, March 23 —(UP) Carl Liscombe of the Providence Reds captured the American Hockey League's individual championship and Xbaz Bastien of the Pittsburgh Hornets won top goalie honors, an unofficial tabulation of the final 1947-48 statistics revealed today.

Liscombe, who held first place on the scoring list the last two months, completed the regular season last Sunday night with a record 118 points. He had 50 goals, also tops in the league, and 68 assists.

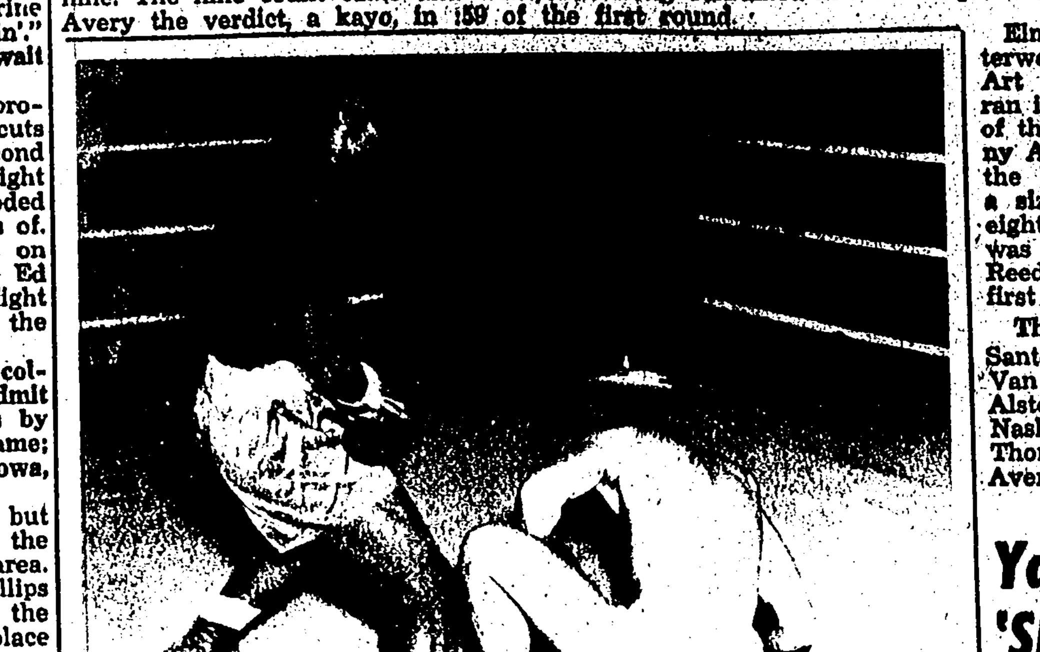
Knockouts Plentiful in Fourth Round of All-Navy Eliminations

It was knockout night again at the fourth round of the 1948 All-Navy eliminations being held at NAS Agana last night.

Two decisions opened the six bout card and four kayoes closed it.

Hiner "Nuclear Fission" Thomas, the little man with the big gloves, chalked up one of the sleepers in the record book with second round kayo over plucky Cernock. Thomas, using the Arturo Godoy crouch, slinked up to Cernock in the first circuit and whollopped him to the canvas for the count of eight. In the second round Thomas stalked his opponent and clubbed him with a terrific right that floored him for the nine count. Cernock got to his feet, took two steps, and collapsed, giving Thomas a kayo in 2:19 of the second round.

David Avery scored a peculiar knockout over light-heavyweight Long in the finals clash by driving him to the deck early in the first round. Long rose to his knees, apparently waiting for the count of nine. The nine count came and went, but Long remained in a semi-squatting posture. The referee awarded Avery the verdict, a kayo, in :59 of the first round.



HINER IS BACK!—Hiner Thomas (standing) made his first local appearance in quite some time last night, and celebrated the occasion by quickly disposing of Middleweight Cernock (seated) in the usual Thomas manner—by a kayo—in the second round. The fight was the fifth bout in the fourth night of All-Navy boxing eliminations being held at NAS Agana. (Guam News Photo by Charles)

Elmer Reed, NAS AGANA welterweight, and a product of the Art Murray school of the dance, ran into difficulty in the third bout of the evening when he met Johnny Alston. Alston rapped Elmer on the button and followed up with a sizzling right that came within eight inches of connecting, but that was close enough for the prancing Reed and he bowed in 2:39 of the first round.

The complete results:

Santoy	Dec'd	Medina
Van Norman	Dec'd	Heath
Alston	K.O.'d	Reed
Nash	K.O.'d	Crowe
Thomas	K.O.'d	Cernock
Avery	K.O.'d	Long

Yanks, Reds Play 'Sloppiest' Spring Baseball Game

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23 —(UP)— A basehit by rookie First Baseman Jack Phillips in the last half of the 10th inning gave the New York Yankees a 7 to 6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds today in the sloppiest-played exhibition game this spring.

Yankee hurlers handed out 15 walks, while Red pitchers walked 10 batters and Red infielders made six errors.

Giants—3 Pirates—2

STOCKTON, Cal., March 23 —(UP)— Nick Strincevich walked Wally Westrum with the bases loaded in the 10th inning to force in the winning run as the New York Giants eked out a 3-2 victory over the Bittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game here today before 5,000 fans.

Bobby Rahn clouted a home run with the bases empty for the Giants in the fifth; and Stan Rojak led the Pirate hitting attack with three safeties.

A's—5 Phils—2

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 23 —(UP)— The Philadelphia Athletics pounded Charley Schanz for four runs on three walks, two singles and Sam Chapman's triple in the sixth inning today to beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5 to 3.

The National Leaguers scored all of their runs in the first two innings off Phil Marchildon.

Rookies Star as Cubs Blast Seals

Cubs—9 Seals—0

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23 —(UP)— Three Cub pitchers let the San Francisco Seals down with one hit here today as the Cubs chalked up a 9-0 victory in an exhibition game before a sparse crowd of 1,299.

Two rookies, Bob McCall and Ben Had pitched through the first six innings and the only hit was a weak, bouncing infield single in the fourth to Shortstop Dick Culler who barely failed to throw out the runner at first base. The final three innings were tossed by Veteran Johnny Schmitz.

Meanwhile, the Cubs tabbed the Seal pitching for 14 safe blows, including Catcher Clyde McCullough's round-tripper, the first homer of the spring season in Seal's stadium.

Braves—2 Tigers—1

LAKELAND, Florida, March 23 —(UP)— The Boston Braves took advantage of the erratic pitching and fielding by Rufus Gentry today to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1.

With the score tied in the seventh, Gentry hit Phil Masi with a pitched ball, threw wildly to second when Connie Ryan hit back to the mound, and uncorked a wild pitch which sent Masi to third. Gentry then trapped Ryan off first, but during the rundown, Masi scored the winning run.

Pitchers Johnny Beazley and Ray Martin of the Braves gave up nine bases on balls but the Boston infield came through with four double plays—two with the bases loaded—to keep the Tigers from scoring after the second inning.

Boxing Bout Postponed

CHICAGO, March 23 —(UP)— A hand injury to Welterweight Boxing Champion Sugar Ray Robinson today caused postponement of his March 31 bout against Middleweight Georgie Abrams at the Chicago Stadium until April 21.

MARBO — First Lt. Howard Tuthill, 516th Signal Service Battalion, took high scoring honors at the MarBo bowling Alleys for the third straight time. His current high score is 267.

In the women's bowling league, Mrs. L. R. Stoeber won high score honors with a 188 pinfall.

NYU Replaces SLU In Olympic Playoffs

NEW YORK, March 23 —(UP) New York University's Violent Violets were officially named today to replace St. Louis University in the Olympic games basketball playoffs starting at Madison Square Garden on Saturday.

Selection of the Violets, who lost to St. Louis' bounding Billikens in the final round of the National Invitational Tournament, was announced by Gene Lambert of Arkansas, vice-chairman of the Olympic Basketball Committee.

Despite the big things at stake, however, the N.Y.U. players themselves refused to get enthusiastic over taking the place of St. Louis, which declined to compete.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D. R. —(UP)— Sir Francis Drake was 300 year too early. He should have come here with the Brooklyn Dodgers. All the loot of the Spanish Main couldn't have bought, then, what the ferocious gentlemen of Flatbush are getting today by waving a baseball bat instead of a cutlass.

For here on the sunny shores of the Caribbean the Dodgers have what undoubtedly the most luxurious spring training camp in the history of baseball. And the Durocher Dandies are finding it easy to believe that Columbus landed here in 1942 just to get things ironed out for them in 1948.

The club ensconsed, and the word comfortably is a masterful understatement, in the magnificent Hotel Jaragua, a modernistic white hostelry which is strictly out of any world. The rooms, floored with native tile, are as large as indoor skating rinks, and each has a private balcony overlooking the rolling Caribbean.

There, also, is an 80 foot pool of tile imported from the United States. Here the colors are so vivid they could have been splashed on by a mad artist. Flaming umbrellas speckle the green lawn and ball players relax on chromium beach chairs under swaying palm trees.

Two of the most avid pool addicts are Pee-Wee Reese and Spider Jorgensen and, when they aren't at the ball park, you can find them risking the pennant by doing tricks off the high and low boards.

The other players scattered their time among the tennis courts, the golf course, the massage department or the solariums. And in the chow department there is a roof garden where the cool evening breeze sweeps in off the sea or the main floor terraced dining room overlooking the pool and garden.

There is no servant problem here and it isn't unusual to have five waiters around your table—despite the ball players' famed nickel tips. And there's a night maid who come in, turns back the covers and lays out your slippers and pajamas. The question is, how are these guys gonna hit when they get to Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh—or Brooklyn. They are bound to be discontented for even the little lady isn't going all out like this and that's a dead cinch.

As a matter of fact it's all so pleasantly perfect that it gets monotonous. It will be nice to get back and live with the poor people again.

Former Army Coach New Eli Mentor

NEW HAVEN, Conn. —(UP)— Herman Hickman, former All-American guard and Army line coach since 1943, has been named head football coach at Yale University.

Hickman's contract is for three years.

A standout of the National Professional Football League, Hickman replaces affable Howie Odell who resigned recently to become head coach at the University of Washington. Hickman is 36 years old and married.

No salary considerations were revealed, but it was believed Hickman would receive about $10,000 in keeping with the current custom of Ivy League colleges to hire less expensive fledglings to replace their more experienced coaches.

"We're delighted to obtain a coach with the vast fund of experience that Hickman has," said Yale Athletic Director Robert J. H. (Bob) Kiphuth. "His contract is for three years and we feel we have obtained a man outstanding in the coaching field."

"I consider my appointment a great opportunity," Hickman said. "I can hardly wait to get started. I tendered my resignation at West Point with mixed emotions, but it is a real thrill to be returning to the Yale campus."

By "returning," the massive, jolly Hickman referred to the two months he spent at Yale in 1942 as chief aide to Gen. Bob Neyland who then was in charge of the Army All Star team which trained on the Eli campus.

A guard from his high school days in Chattanooga, Tenn., through his college days at the University of Tennessee and during the three years he played with the Brooklyn Dodgers, then of the National League, Hickman excelled at his line position.

During his 12 years in assistant coaching positions at Wake Forest, North Carolina State and West Point, he was an advocate of hard, bruising football and is credited with playing a major role in converting the Black Knights to the T formation.

Hickman said he planned to employ the T at Yale, replacing the varied formations of his highly successful predecessor.

Clyde Smith New Hoosier Coach

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(UP)— Clyde B. Smith, gridiron coach at LaCrosse, Wis., State Teachers College, was appointed head football coach at Indiana University recently.

Smith, a former Indiana university line coach, will replace Alvin (Bo) McMillin, who quit to pilot the Detroit Lions of the National Professional Football league.

The stocky, soft-spoken Smith played under McMillin at Geneva, Pa., college and later worked under Bo as line coach at Indiana from 1934 to 1937. Smith was a lieutenant in the Navy.

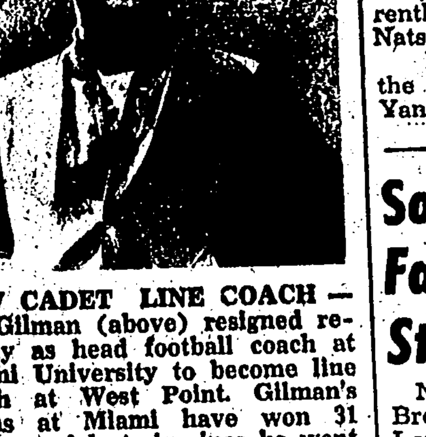
Bobo Newson Blames Yankees For First Benching in 20 Years



NEW CADET LINE COACH — Sid Gilman (above) resigned recently as head football coach at Miami University to become line coach at West Point. Gilman's teams at Miami have won 31 games and lost six since he went there in 1944. He was a gridiron star at Ohio State University. (AP Wirephoto)

ORLANDO, Fla. —(UP)— Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, self-acknowledged "world's greatest pitcher," blasted the New York Yankees recently as he blamed General Manager George Weiss for keeping him on the spring training sidelines for the first time in 20 years.

Old Bobo, a behemoth in B.V.D.'s, is playing the man who came to dinner at the camp of the Washington Senators. One of baseball's most colorful characters, the well-traveled Newsom currently is out of work as he goes through private paces with the Nats.

Newsom puts the blame squarely on Weiss, and he is far from the genial South Carolinian when he considers the report that the Yanks voluntarily gave him his release.

"I wouldn't play for them," Bobo raved. "They sent me a contract and I've still got it. But I asked Weiss for my release the night of the last World Series victory party and I've phoned and wired a dozen times during the winter trying to get it.

"I think the Yanks played me a dirty deal in waiting until 10 days before spring training opened before giving me my release," Bobo ranted.

Newsom paused but briefly when asked why he didn't want to return to the Yankees, with whom he went last season and helped pitch to the pennant.

"I'll tell the world why," he crowled. "Vic Raschi and I won the pennant for them. Their regulars couldn't win and we carried them in when they needed it. So what happened? They had the gall to vote me a three-quarters series share.

"Why every time I walked out on the field I beat Boston," Bobo barked with his usual modesty. "Oh, I know it wasn't the regulars who did it to me. It was some of those guys who sat on the bench all season and pinch hit once a week."

Newsom professes with great dignity that he isn't worried about getting a job at a record age of 37 and probable 41.

"I'll be in baseball and not in the minors, either," he promised. "I've had several offers which I'm considering. But I'm not out after them. They'll come to old Bobo."

This Year It's Make or Break For Wakefield

LAKELAND, Fla. —(UP)— This year it's make or break for Handsome Dick Wakefield, the Detroit Tigers' $53,000 disappointment.

Manager Steve O'Neill indicated as the Tigers drilled at their training camp that if Wakefield has another bad season he might wind up back at Beaumont or some other Tiger way station.

But Wakefield, after two salary cuts which have almost halved his wages, still is the same cocky, swaggering youngster who got $53,000 to sign with the Tigers when he was a University of Michigan star.

He even is proud of the .283 mark he had at the plate last season. The six foot, four inch flychaser figures that was pretty good. He even jokes about the salary cut.

Some Teams Start Fast and Finish Strong; Others--

NEW YORK —(UP)— Sam Breadon, former owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, believes the National League club which gets the jump this season probably will win the pennant.

John McGraw of the New York Giants used to strive to get his club in front quickly, working on the principle that a game won in April counts as much as a contest won in September. Bill Terry, his successor, adopted the same tactics and frequently watched them backfire. A ball club, like a racehorse, can spend itself during the early part of a race and limp home badly beaten at the end.

One outstanding example of a great start which dwindled to an ordinary ending was illustrated last season by Outfielder Pat Mullin of the Detroit Tigers. Pounding Pat, normally an average hitter, blasted louder than dynamite early in 1947 and kept his batting average above and around .400 for several weeks.

Jack Kamber, the new Boston Red Sox right-hander, is another player who usually exhibits an abundance of early foot. He generally wins five or six games at the start of the season and then tapers off. As a consequence, he rarely finishes with a percentage much over .500.

Braves Hold Monopoly on 20 Game Winners

BRADENTON, Fla. —(UP)— The Boston Braves have cornered the market on major league pitchers who have won 20 or more games in a season, and if the five hurlers they have who wear that stripe come through in 1948, it's goodbye for the other seven clubs in the National League.

Taking their best single season record the aggregate number of victories which they have turned in totals 107. And there isn't a manager today who isn't willing to award the pennant right now to the club which wins that many games this coming season.

The five are Johnny Sain, Warren Spahn, Charles (Red) Barrett, Bill Voiselle and Johnny Beazley. All but the later figure to be starting pitchers for Manager Billy Southworth this season.

Sain and Spahn each won 21 games last year; Barrett was a 23-game winner for the Braves and Cardinals in 1945; Voiselle won 21 for the Giants in 1944 before he got in Mel Ott's dog house, and Beazley, as a freshman, copped 21 in 1942 before he went off to war.

Beazley never has been the same. He hurt his arm in 1943 before becoming a lieutenant in the Air Corps and he never has recovered from it. His chances of regaining his former arm are remote, but neither Johnny nor Southworth has given up all hope.

As for the other four, hopes are high. Voiselle showed signs of his 1944 effectiveness when he went to the Braves in mid-season last year and there's every indication that Sain and Spahn can match their 1947 achievements.

Correspondent Reveals Chaos in Holy Land Partitioning Sees Future Jewish Liquidation

Editor's Note —— Here is a report on the present position of the Jews in Palestine by a well-known United Press correspondent who has just returned to the United States after spending a year in the Mid-East.

by Robert C. Miller
United Press Staff Correspondent

Partition of Palestine, which the Jews believed would be the realization of a 2,000-year dream has brought death, misery and privation to the Holy Land.

Hundreds of Jewish youths have been killed or wounded in the months of warfare. Property losses in the millions have been suffered from bombings, arson and sabotage. The Jewish economy faces strangulation.

International Poker Game

The Western civilization which the Jews nurtured in Palestine with sweat and blisters is doomed —and particularly the United States—as their salvation, are now convinced that they have become face cards in an international poker game for the Middle East.

The greatest shock to Jewish morale was the bombing of the Palestine Post building in Jerusalem February 8th. That building is in the center of the Jewish area. Prior to then they had believed it impossible for any Arabs to penetrate the old road blocks, barriers, and sentries guarding all such areas.

The possibility of British renegades working with the Arabs had been overlooked, and both the Post and Ben Yehuda street dynamitings are attributed now by the Jews to British deserts employed by underground Arab terrorists. Considerable circumstantial evidence supports the charges, particularly now that the Arab higher executive has denied any part of either outrage.

Look Toward The Future

The bombings have given the Palestine Jews a grim taste of what they expect to come when the all-out Arab offensive is launched after the British troops are gone.

The Jews are determined to go down fighting, regardless of the odds. The American embargo on arms to Palestine and Warren Austin's United Nation's speech have annoyed them, and convinced many that America is a nation turning its back on Palestine after promising full support and encouraging the Jews to go all out for the immediate establishment of a Jewish State. Their wrath has increased as their plight has grown worse and the only support they now rely on are the Zionist groups, particularly in the United States.

The Unexpected

No Jew ever expected the chaos that followed the United Nations vote to partition Palestine. The Jews had been convinced by Jewish agency leaders that despite stern warnings from the Arabs, the Arabs "were only bluffing and would never fight."

Agency leaders claim that had British officials proclaimed immediate martial law in the unaffected areas and severely punished the Arabs who began the riots there would have been little trouble.

No Optimism

The agency is preparing to carry on the fight for partition alone. There is almost no optimism, but there is a courageous facing of facts. The Haganah, the Jewish defense force, well-trained, determined and capable, says it will carry the fight backed by all Palestine's Jews to the Arabs despite the overwhelming odds.

To the Jews there is no turning back. They made a decision. They erred in judgement and they may well be liquidated, but regardless of the casualties, the hopelessness of the outlook, and the terrific cost it is suffering in dollars, they are determined to fight anybody and everybody to establish a Jewish state in Palestine. So far as the Arabs are concerned, that is just what they are going to have to do.

Texas City Triumphs Over Prostitution

TEXAS CITY, Tex. —(UP)— Police closed the city's four houses of prostitution here recently and ordered the women inmates to get out of town.

This occasion was marked as a victory for irate clergymen, who protested vigorously when a gay house began operating near a church.

The Rev. John Lane, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church led the angry clerics.

"Prostitution is against the laws of God and the state," he said. "There is no such thing as legalized prostitution."

The issue of whether to close the houses had been alive for several weeks. Lane, with Rev. R. E. Cummings of the West End Methodist church and the Rev. K. L. Teegarden of the First Christian church, appeared before a meeting of the city commission last week.

Nearly a dozen citizens heard their arguments, and then voted unanimously against the operation of these "vice hotels."

However, some Texas City business men objected to closing the houses, claiming that merchant seamen from numerous ships would snob Texas City and seek recreational facilities at Houston or Galveston, both nearby.

Admiral Chuckles Over War Ruse

LONDON —(UP)— Admiral of the Fleet Sir James F. Somerville, war-time commander-in-chief of the British Eastern Fleet, still chuckles over a ruse he employed to fool the Japanese Fleet in the Indian Ocean during the grimmest days of 1943.

This is the Admiral's own version of the incident, as recounted in an informal letter to this correspondent:

"In the autumn of 1943 we were very 'thin on the sea' owing to withdrawal of ships for the North African landings. At the same time we had important convoys going to Australia over the Indian Ocean and damn little cover for them.

"So, to keep the Japs pinned to the Andaman islands, Sumatra, etc., we staged a dummy sortie of the Eastern Fleet into the Bay of Bengal.

"To give it additional color we sent a PBY (Catalina flying boat) out on a 'recco' with instructions at a certain time to make a report of an enemy fleet using a self-evident code which we knew the Japs could interpret immediately.

Reporting Own Fleet

"This signal from the PBY was to be repeated by the Indian coast wireless stations and then, after an arranged pause, one of stations was to call up the PBY, break into plain language and say, 'dry up, you bloody fool! you are reporting our own fleet.'

"After that there was to be complete silence to suggest someone had blundered.

"As the PBY's report indicated a substantial sized fleet, though not outside the range of possibility, we hoped the Japanese would react.

"So far as we could judge they certainly did, as all the Japanese got very busy indeed.

"That was how we had to fight the war in 1943 and I can assure you we could have much preferred those dummy ships in fact and giving the little — — — a good kick in the guts."

Sentences Given Eighteen Japanese

Vol. 4, No. 86 Price 3 Cents

Guam News

Guam, Marianas Islands Friday, March 26, 1948

COMMAR HILL — Eighteen former members of the Imperial Japanese Army were found guilty here yesterday by an American military tribunal of the mass execution of ten civilian inhabitants of the Palau island group during the recent war and sentenced to prison terms in Japan totaling 320 years.

FREE MEN—Umeji Hayashi (standing extreme left) and Masashiro Sagara (with glasses standing), former members of the Imperial Japanese Army, stand as free men after their acquittal of war atrocity charges by a military commission at Commander Marianas yesterday. Their leader, Kazuharu Yamamoto, (sitting extreme left) was adjudged guilty and sentenced to 25 years imprisonment. The remainder of the group were adjudged similarly and gained prison terms from 15 to 25 years. (Guam News Photo)

Senate and House Agree on Rent Bill

WASHINGTON, March 25 —(UP) Senate and House conferees agreed tentatively today on a compromise rent control bill which gives three-judge federal court the final say on raising or removing ceilings.

Faced with the expiration of the present law one week from today, spokesmen for the two Houses met again tonight to put a formal okay on the exact language of the measure.

The compromise which the five Senators and five Representatives finally struck after three days of deadlock, provides for the emergency court of appeals to settle any disputes which arise between local rent boards and the federal housing expidite.

The House originally had voted to give the local boards absolute authority to raise or remove ceilings in their communities. The Senate had insisted on keeping the present system, under which the federal expiditer can overrule local recommendations.

Other provisions of the compromise bill:

1. It extends rent controls until March 31, 1949, the date set by the House. That is one month less than the Senate voted.

2. It continues the present provision under which "voluntary" 15 per cent rent increases are permitted if tenant and landlords sign a lease running at least until the end of 1949.

3. Landlords would be guaranteed a reasonable return on their investment, and any landlord who could show that he was operating at a loss would automatically be granted a rent increase.

Congress Sends Tax Cut Bill to White House

WASHINGTON, March 25 —(UP) Congress completed action on its $4,500,000,000 income tax cut bill today and sent it to the White House for an almost certain veto.

President Truman is expected to send it back in a few days with the argument that times are too dangerous to justify a tax cut. He may ask instead for a multi-billion dollar rearmaments program.

Votes in both House and Senate left no doubt that a veto will be overidden easily.

The final vote came in the House today. It was 289 to 66, or 52 more than the two thirds necessary to override. The Senate passed the bill Monday, 78 to 11. That was 18 votes more than required.

House Republicans voted solidly for the bill—205 of them. The Democratic vote was split, 84 for and 64 against.

U. S. Troops Raid German Black Market

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 25 —(UP)— Fifteen hundred American soldiers armed with rifles and carbines sealed off the Frankfurt suburb of Zellsheim today in what United States authorities described as the biggest black market raid of the occupation.

Moving in from three sides at dawn, the GI's, bolstered by German police, took Zellsheim's 6,000 residents completely by surprise.

The raid followed a report yesterday in the U. S. Army Information and Education Bulletin that German black marketeers were selling American dollars to the Soviets, who used the money to finance Communist action committees in many countries.

GI's and police conducted a house-to-house search and combed a Jewish displaced persons camp at Zellsheim, which has been notorious as one of the largest black market centers in western Germany.

Military police officers said the raid netted more than six truckloads of contraband, three men wanted by the Army Criminal Investigation Division and $2,500 in greenbacks.

Hoover Warns

WASHINGTON, March 25 —(UP) Herbert Hoover urged Congress today not to hamstring over-all European economy by including the Marshall Plan overly severe restrictions on trade between beneficiary nations and those in the Soviet orbit.

In a letter to speaker Joseph W. Martin, (R-Mass.), read in the House, the former President gave his views on the European recovery legislation as approved by the House foreign affairs committee on March 19.

No Decreases

Mr. Hoover described as "too strongly drawn" an amendment to the bill, introduced by Rep. Carl Mundt, (R-S.D.), which would have placed limitations on using Marshall Plan funds and goods in trading with the nations of eastern Europe not included in the program.

Mr. Hoover also said he did not recommend a decrease in the authorized total of $5,300,000,000 for the first year of operation of the Marshall Plan. Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-O.), had led an unsuccessful battle in the Senate to trim the total.

TRIESTE, March 25 —(UP)— Allied troops in the Trieste free territory were moved up to reinforce Allied police on the Yugoslav border today in case Yugoslav troops made new efforts to cross the line.

Maj. Gen. Terence S. Airey, British commander in chief of the Anglo-American zone, said he sent reinforcements to the frontier so that Allied police would not have to face possible Yugoslav Army action alone.

Not Large Scale

Airey said specifically he did not want the police to "have to take the brunt of anything such as occurred Sept. 15, when 2,000 troops tried to pass through the American lines into Trieste."

He indicated the troop movements were not on a large scale by saying that only "a few British military police" were moved up to the frontier. He did not say if American troops also were sent to the border.

Border control has been in charge of civilian police since late last year, when they relieved British and American troops. Yesterday, however, it was necessary to send reinforcements to the frontier when a Yugoslav patrol crossed the line and fired on the Allied police, seriously wounding one man.

Camacho Comits Suicide

AGANA — Apparently suffering from an attack of Melancholia, Juan Camacho Camacho, Guamanian, reportedly committed suicide in his home located within the limits of Radio Barrigada early Monday morning.

Camacho lived with his niece on a farm near the radio reservation. He was reported suffering from a brain tumor, which has been cited the possible cause of his suicide.

Truman Urged to Protect Public

WASHINGTON, March 25 —(UP) The soft coal industry urged President Truman today to protect the public by speeding his timetable for legal action against John L. Lewis' 10-day old coal strike.

Industry officials said the present schedule means it will be April 5 at the earliest before the government can seek a strike-halting court injunction under the Taft-Hartley act.

By then, they said, the strike will be 23 days old, coal stockpiles in many industries will be exhausted and thousands of workers will be forced into idleness.

Mr. Truman invoked the first step of the Taft-Hartley act's emergency provisions yesterday. He announced he was setting up a three man board to investigate the dispute over miners' pensions and report back to him by the April 5 date. He was to announce names of the board members today.

Next Six Weeks Most Critical; U. S.

VIENNA, Austria, March 25 —(UP)— A United States summary of conditions in Austria warned today that the next six months well might be the most critical since war's end.

The statement painted a bleak picture of Austria's food outlook and said the country may face a political crisis unless American aid comes in sufficient quantity and on time.

Austria, an official U. S. spokesman said, commenting on the summary, might run short of supplies before summer.

"If that happens, there is danger of spontaneous workers' strikes and resultant political deterioration," he said.

The spokesman said early interim aid has been passed and Austria's share of the $55,000,000 recently voted her, France and Italy by Congress probably would take 90 days to reach Austria—too late to meet the forthcoming situation.

MacArthur's Letter

NEENAH, Wis., March 25 —(UP) Threatened pressure of the American Communist party was a factor in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's announcement that he is available for the presidential nomination, he revealed in a letter to a Neenah attorney.

The attorney, Charles H. Velte, disclosed today an exchange of letters with MacArthur. He wrote MacArthur in February, telling him he believed there was sentiment against MacArthur's entrance into the presidential campaign because the "idol of a nation would be exposed to political sniping and abuse of every sort."

MacArthur's reply, dated March 15, said he had "long understood the nature of the forces which would be unleashed on me where I affirmatively to indicate my readiness to answer any call of duty which the American people might issue of me."

Two of the twenty original accused, Umeji Hayashi and Masachiro Sagara, were acquitted of all charges and excused by commission president, Radm. Arthur G. Robinson, from further court attendance.

Lead defendent, former Lieutenant Kazuharu Yamamoto, and his junior officer, former Second Lt. Yokichi Ichikawa were dealt the heaviest sentences of 25 years each. In addition to being found guilty of charges similar to those lodged against his subordinates, Yamamoto was found criminally liable for failure to discharge his duty as senior officer by not taking measures to protect the ten unfortunate nationals, among them five Catholic priests, held captive under his command.

Of the remaining sixteen defendents, six were sentenced to spend 20 years behind prison bars, while the remainder of the group will wait fifteen years before breathing the air of freedom.

Throughout the nearly two-month-long trial, the prosecution wove an intricate web of evidence around the eighteen accused. Proof was shown that each one had played a responsible part in the macabre atrocity. By the due rewarded effort of the defense council in bringing their judicial armament to bear on the innocence of Hayashi and Sagara, with special impact on the injustice it would be to make these two men pay for a crime they didn't commit, both defendents yesterday walked from the quonset courtroom as free men.

The termination of this trial ushers out the fourth in a series of Palau Island cases, and the trial involving the largest number of defendents ever to stand before a war crimes commission here on Guam.

AGANA — Miss Isabel M. Coleman, Civil Service girl empolyed at Cargo Operations, NSC, is in the Naval Hospital suffering from skull fractures received when she and a male companion were attacked by four Negroes in service-men's apparel on Agat beach.

Investigation by Guam Police disclosed that the couple had parked in a jeep on the beach just south of the junction of route No. 2 and 2A, when they were approached by the four Negros. They were attacked, badly beaten and robbed, then left on the beach.

A. D. Schumaker, a Civil Service man employed at NAS Agana, who was with Miss Coleman at the time of the mishap, suffered only minor injuries.

Both Miss Coleman and Schumaker were taken to the Naval Hospital, where Miss Coleman's general condition was described as satisfactory.

Guam Police are still holding the four men pending further investigation.

Truman's 'Hysterical Screams' Denounced

MOSCOW, March 25 —(UP)— Moscow publications today denounced President Truman's "hysterical screams," discounted the effectiveness of germ warfare and hinted anew at Russian progress in making atomic bombs in a major blast against the United States.

Basing its charges largely on President Truman's recent message to Congress, the Literary Gazette, organ of the Union of Soviet Writers led the attack. It devoted nearly half its space to articles criticising the United States, Izvestia, the government newspaper, and Red Star, organ of the ministry of the armed forces, joined in.

"The hysterical screams of Truman and Co. have exposed the aggressors completely," one Literary Gazette article said. "Simultaneously they have exposed their weakness and fear.

"American imperialism wants to repeat Hitler's game. Already it is selecting its Goebbelses and Goerings, its Himmlers and Ribbentrops. It selects its quislings and forms its SS men."

Beverly Hills

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 25 —(UP)— Will Rogers, Jr., resigned today from the California American Veterans Committee, charging that the organization which he helped form was "nothing but a Communist front."

"Here all AVC ever does is to front for Communist projects and to denounce whatever Communists are denouncing," Rogers said. He added that nationally AVC "may still be a veterans' organization, but not here in California."

He said he had seen "Communists at work" in the Beverly Hills and Westwood chapters.

Italy

ITALY, March 25 —(UP)— Street riots broke out in the northern Communist stronghold of Milan for the fourth straight day today when striking Communist-led printers seized and burned foreign newspapers.

Newsstands in front of La Scala opera house and in Cathedral Square, the main square in the city, were burned.

Trieste

TRIESTE, March 25, —(UP)— Crack British troops with full battle equipment dug in close to the Yugoslav occupation zone border today in possibly their greatest strength since the Italian peace treaty went into effect.

British authorities described the movement as part of "routine field exercises" but it followed by only 24 hours the statement by British Maj. Gen. Terence S. Airey, commander in chief of American-British forces, that he intended to strengthen the frontier to prevent a possible invasion by Yugoslav troops.

Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., March 25 —(UP)— Two more battered, radio-active survivors of the historic Bikini atom bomb tests, the U.S. Destroyers Mugford and Rlind, were scuttled in deep water off Kwajalein Monday, the Navy announced today.

The ships, both veterans of the Pacific war, had been under study by scientists for 18 months.

The Navy said a total of nine target vessels now have been sunk in the deep water off Kwajalein because they were too weakened by the atom blasts to be towed and were too radioactive for scrapping.

Realtor Striving to Aid 'Little People'

OAKLAND, Calif. —(UP)— The hills ringing San Francisco Bay will be literally honeycombed with atom-bomb hideouts if an elderly Oakland realtor with a "heart for humanity" has his way.

Stanley B. Paul, who admits only to being "past 60," said he has seen plenty of life's sufferings and has taken on "for free" a oneman job of providing safe locations for the thousands of "little people" whose massed housing in industrial areas makes them perfect targets for atom bombs.

The peoples' dread of the atom bomb and the deadly radio-activity in its wake prompted him to seek out the best locations back in the valleys and gulches surrounding the 60-mile-long bay, he said.

He visions small houses with "all the necessities at hand" and protected by hills as refuges from the A-bomb blast and the subsequent hovering cloud.

Paul said he has enlisted the aid of "dozens of realty companies" from Napa, 45 miles above Oakland, to Santa Cruz, 70 miles to the south, to offer land for sale at reasonable prices.

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Though Joe Zedisky, 67, has been in America 52 years, he's been too busy to become a citizen. Educating five children—one is even a professor of English—hasn't left him time to learn the three R's. But now that he's provided college education for three sons and two daughters, Zelinsky has enrolled in the city's Americanism and citizenship classes.

Movie Industry Presents 1947 Oscars

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— It was a toss-up who was more surprised—Hollywood or Loretta Young—as she parked on her mantle a shining "Oscar" for turning in the best actress' job of 1947.

Miss Young never had a notion of winning an Academy Award. And the experts didn't think she would, either.

Award To Loretta Young

But brown-haired Loretta hauled off top ladies' honors for the first time at the 20th annual Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Awards. All she'd done, she gurgled, was play a sweet Swedish housemaid who ran for Congress in RKO's "The Farmer's Daughter."

They'd planned on twice-nominated Rosalind Russel winning for RKOs "Mourning Becomes Electra." So had Loretta, she admitted.

Fox's "Gentleman's Agreement" was voted by 1,933 Academy members as the best picture, Ronald Colman as best actor, Elia Kazan as top director, and Celeste Holm and Edmund Gwenn as best in their supporting roles. Everybody was a first-time runner.

The 6,200 fans in street clothes and film big-wigs in mink-and-tux, who braved a stiff wind to jam the Shrine Auditorium, beat their palms loud and long for Mr. Colman, but for Miss Young they went crazy.

Vet Asks City to Pay for Hotel Room

NEW YORK—(UP)—Richard E. Cox, the house-hunting war-veteran who moved his family into a $12.60-a-day room at the Waldorf Astoria eight days ago, asked his friends not to contribute money for the hotel bill.

"We are deeply grateful for the current interest shown to us by those who have contributed to our hotel bill in a sincere attempt to keep us from being evicted," he said. "But actually our principle is to create a debt for which the city administration is responsible. For this reason, we ask our friends not to contribute any money to our cause."

The 34-year-old veteran, who earns $63.50 a week as an Army civilian employe, said he still planned to send the hotel bill, minus the $10 a week he can afford to pay, to Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Cox said he had asked the credit manager of the Waldorf to make out separate phone and room bills. He said he would pay the phone bill and send the room bill to the mayor, minus his contribution of $10 a week.

Cox and his wife Eleanor, 27, and their infant sons James, and Richard, Jr., lived in a four room cold water flat without a private bathroom for 18 months before moving into the Waldorf.

SHORT TAKES....There's a kid in the Police Force at Naval Government who should have been in the tennis tournament....Bill Bond is the name, and though he's only 19 years old (today is his birthday), he could, with a couple or three weeks to sharpen up, give the top tennis players on the Island a real battle....and he'd beat some of them....Bill is one of those California tennis factory products you hear about....he comes from a whole family of tennis players, and learned to swing a racket before he was knee-high to a can of tennis balls.....He worked his way up slowly, first playing his mother, then his older brother, and finally he became the champion of the Bond family by taking his dad....While he was going to Beverly Hills high school, Bill went to the semifinals of the Santa Montica open tournament.....There he lost to Herbie Flam, former National Junior singles champ and now the brightest of the young tennis hopefuls....He has played only two or three times since he's been on the Island, and naturally is a bit off on some of his shots....Two or three weeks of practice would probably return him to a semblance of his old form, and make him a stickout in Island tennis.

STATESIDE....Southern Cal has a real collegiate baseball powerhouse....Wally Hood, Jr., son of the former major leaguer, scattered nine hits last week as the Trojans bested the Chicago White Sox, 8-7....Sugar Ray Robinson recently announced he would be willing to give up his welterweight title for a chance at a shot at Rocky Graziano....or the right to succeed the Rock if the New York Commission says the title is vacant....He'll have to fight Marcel Cerdan first, though....A former Coast Guardsman, Jackie Cranford, looks now like the boy to watch as a comer in the lightheavy class....Bernie Reynolds, Gus Lesnevich's stablemate was the fair haired boy until Cranford beat him three times—the last one on a quick kayo.

The Navy olympic hope didn't get far in the Denver AAU tournament last week, but stateside clippings report that Ken Fons did okay....He dumped in seven points in each of the two games they won in going to the quarter-finals, and collected six points as they lost to the Murphy Mahoney Greybeards, 70-55.

'Pittsburg Will Display Plate Power; Kiner to Have Greatest Season'--Meyer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 25 —(UP)— Ralph Kiner, the home run sensation of 1947, will have a better record this year and the Pittsburgh Pirates will finish in the first division.

Those are the two "conservative" observations of Wily Bill Meyer, new manager of the Pirates who is spending his first season in the big time as a boss-man.

"You will recall what a slow start Kiner got last year," said Meyer. "Well, he's in top shape right now and knocking a lot of balls out of the park in spring training."

"I look for Kiner to have his greatest season."

Kiner tied for major league home run honors last year with Johnny Mize of the New York Giants. Each had 51 circuit clouts.

As for the prospects of the Pirates, Meyer wasn't quite so certain—other than the fact that the club will finish better than the last place accomplished by Billy Herman in 1947.

"We'll do all right," said Meyer as he surveyed his 1948 crew. "I'm impressed with the morale and spirit of this club. It doesn't shape up as fast as some teams I've had but the spirit is terrific."

Meyer believes his club will have great power at the plate. He has a lot of long-ball hitters lined up, including Kiner, Wally Westlake, Dixie Walker and Max West, the latter up from San Diego for another whirl in the majors.

Louis Receives Skates For Exhibition Bouts

LONDON, March 25 —(UP)— Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will be paid off with 2,600 pairs of ice skates for two exhibition appearances in Sweden, April 2 and 4, his publicity manager, Irwin Roffee, said today.

Roffee said that Louis already has arranged to sell the skates—which are worth about $8,000—to a Cambridge, Mass., shoe manufacturing firm, thus overcoming Sweden's ban on the export of currency. Louis will have to pay a 15 per cent import duty to bring the skates into the United States.

Christopher Iacona

NEW YORK —AP— DIES IN SCHOOL BOXING BOUT—Christopher Iacona (above), 11-year-old Brooklyn school boy, fell dead last week in a boxing ring at the end of a two round bout in a public school gymnasium. Witnesses said he took from 20 to 25 blows to the body during the two-minute rounds before collapsing at the end of the second round. He was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital. He had been matched with a 12-year-old classmate in the 70-pound class.

Guy Lombardo Breaks Boat Speed Record

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 25 —(UP)— Bandleader Guy Lombardo broke the Gold Cup speed record for powerboats today but had to postpone until tomorrow his second attempt to push his Tempo VI faster than 124 mile an hour for a new American speed mark.

Lombardo's supercharged craft skimmed over the Indian Creek here in his morning run at an average speed of 113.031 miles an hour over a measured mile course despite slightly choppy waters. That was good enough to better the Gold Cup record of 100.78 miles an hour set by Herb Mendolson of Dertoit on Oct. 9, 1940.

The waters still were ruffled this afternoon when the musician planned to try again for the national record, and he postponed the trial until early tomorrow morning. Meanwhile, Lombardo wanted to make a few minor repairs in the 1,300 horsepower engine which propels the Tempo VI.

College Basketball Coaches Propose Changes in Rules

NEW YORK, March 25 —(UP)— The nation's college basketball coaches, today, rejected a solely-backed proposal to return to the four-foul rule, but passed on seven minor recommendations for changes in the current code.

Meeting in the final session of the National Association of basketball coaches convention, the mentors studied at length, the great number of fouls which slow up the game points present stop-and-go proportions.

A surprise motion from the floor called for the elimination of the present rule permitting each player five personal fouls and the return to the old maximum of four. The motion was voted down.

The recommendations for changes which were approved but which now must be voted upon by the National Basketball Committee are:

1. Permitting a substitute to go into the game without reporting to the referee after he has reported to the official scorer.
2. Permitting a coach to talk to his players during a called time-out. This would not include an official time-out.
3. Requiring a player who has committed a foul to raise his hand so he can be easily identified.
4. Outlawing of the fan-shapped backboard.
5. Giving the defensive team both positions closest to the goal on a free throw.

In addition to turning down the four-foul suggestion, the coaches rejected a proposal to restrict all center jumps to the center circle and the two free-throw circles.

Benefit Boxing Featured at North Field Tonight

Ken Kaas will battle Bill Davis tonight in a three round exhibition to highlight an eight bout card being presented at 1900 by MKK at North Field for the benefit of the American Red Cross fund.

There will be no admission charged, but a hat will be passed by several lovely ladies for those who want to contribute.

Kaas, who fought Harry Finger to a draw in the Paseo last fall, is one of the best lightheavies on the Island and should put on a good show.

In a special added attraction, Pierre Rogell and John Nibley will stage a comic three round bout which will be more for laughs than fistic finesse.

The complete card:

Andy Gustafson Will Coach Miami of Fla.

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 25 —(UP)— The rapidly deteriorating Army football machine suffered another blow today when Backfield Coach Andy Gustafson resigned to become head coach at Miami, Fla., University.

Gustafson was the second of Head Coach Earl (Red) Blaik's aides to quit in a month. Previously, Herman Hickman resigned to become head coach at Yale.

Gustafson goes to Miami as successor to Jack Harding.

Harding gave up coaching at the end of the last season to devote full time to his athletic director's job at Miami. His team had won two, lost seven and tied one last season, but two years ago defeated Holy Cross in the Orange Bowl.

Kentucky Town Holds 'Biggest' Kite Derby

NORTH MIDDLETOWN, Ky., March 25 —(UP)— If you tell someone in this small Kentucky town to "go fly a kite," he probably will do it.

North Middletown has a population of 376. Today everyone in town and some 300 more spectators from Bourbon county climbed to the top of windy Judy Hill to see the Sixth annual Kite Derby.

School was dismissed, and all business establishments closed. And to hear some of the learned comment on air currents and flying conditions, you would have thought a meteorological society was meeting.

Three hundred kites were entered, making this the biggest Derby ever.

Various prizes were awarded: One for highest flying kite (1,100 feet); Longest distance ("clean out of sight"); Prettiest kite (made out of red, white and blue cellophane); Biggest kite (nine feet tall and 6 and one-half feet wide, entered by Dr. W. E. Davis, 45); and smallest kite (made out of a cancelled postage stamp and a toothpick). Both the largest and the smallest kite flew.

The youngest entrant was three years old, and he won a prize. The oldest? Several string-holders looked like grandparents, but insisted that a man was just as old as he felt.

East-West Cagers Clash Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 25 —(UP)— Basketball's fanatics gave their lungs a rest today before one of the biggest occasions for hoop whoopee of the Madison Square Garden season—tomorrow night's all-star East-West college game.

The game, which pits picked squads from top college teams all over the nation, is a charity affair, sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune to raise funds for sending under privileged kids to summer camps.

And like the big East-West Shrine football game for crippled kids in San Francisco, it stands out as a deserving attraction on its own merits and would be a sellout even if no charity were involved.

So closely were the squads rated in strength that the reliable New Jersey House offered no odds on either side, but face the man with the pad and telephone said he "just wouldn't take any bets either way."

Kirsch Appeals To Marshall For Max Schmeling's Trip

WASHINGTON, March 25 —(UP) State Department officials said today no action had been taken on a direct appeal to Secretary of State George C. Marshall to allow former World Heavyweight Champion Max Schmeling to come to this country from Germany for a comeback in the ring.

Fred Kirsch, Washington promoter who would sponsor bouts for Schmeling this summer, made the appeal by letter last Monday. State Department officials said Schmeling has not applied in Germany for a visitor's visa.

Foreign Subs Sighted Near U.S.

Navy Says Three Subs Believed to be Red; Military Leaders Call For 'Men — Arms'

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(UP)— The nation's top military leaders called on Congress today for more arms and men and warned that foreign submarines, believed to be Russian, have been sighted off the American West Coast within the past 60 days.

Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan revealed the submarine "incidents" at a tense meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee. It heard a parade of military chiefs state bluntly that only a demonstration of power by the United States could halt the march of world Communism.

Sullivan declined to say where and when the submarines had been sighted, but he offered to do so at a secret hearing.

Navy sources disclosed shortly afterward, however, that at least three submarines had been sighted in Pacific waters since Jan. 30. One was seen 60 miles off San Francisco, a second near the Aleutians and the third near Johnston Island and Palmyea, 800 miles from Pearl Harbor.

The Navy did not identify the nationality of the undersea craft, but it said all three were "not U. S." because the United States had no submarines operating in those areas at the time.

Sullivan made it plain to the Senate Committee, however, that the submarines were of Soviet origin.

"Recently," he said, "submarines not belonging to any nation west of the 'iron curtain' have been sighted off our shores."

Not Prepared

He added that he was not prepared to "evaluate the significance" of the submarine operations.

"However," he reminded the committee, "we all recall that an early step of the Germans in 1917 and 1941 was to deploy submarines off our coasts."

Sullivan refused to say whether American warships had been ordered to take counter-action against strange submarines found in U. S. waters.

Other Navy spokesmen, however, pointed out that under international law submarines of any nation have the right to cruise anywhere on the high seas, generally defended as beyond the three-mile limit.

The same rule applies to warships. The United States, for example, now has 15 warships in the Mediterrnean area. They do not enter ports, however, without the express permission of the nations visited.

Prior to U. S. entry into World War Two, Japanese submarines frequently were sighted in U. S. coastal waters.

Defense Secretary James Forrestal opened the wholesale military plea for preparedness by telling the committee the United States must take immediate steps to convince Russia she will fight again, if necessary to stop aggression.

Asks Additional $3,000,000,000

He asked for an additional $3,000,000,000 of military funds for the 1949 fiscal year, a draft of non-veterans in the 19-through-25 age group, and Universal Military Training as the best means of showing the Soviets this country means business.

He disclosed that the three armed services had asked for a $9,000,000,000 boost in the 1949 military budget but were trimmed down to one-third of that amount.

Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis A. Spaatz retestified that a 70-group airforce was the "minimum" needed for national security, but Forrestal said his program would call for only 55 groups.

The defense secretary explained that raising the Air Forces to 70 groups would necessitate comparable increases in the Army and Navy which would cost an additional $4,000,000,000.

Forrestal said the Russians do not have the atom bomb, but he and Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington warned the senators that the bomb would not in itself decisive without balanced military strength to back it up.

Able to Bomb

Symington said the United States will be able to bomb "any part of Russia" with improved B-29 Superfortresses operating from Labrador and Alaska. The new B-29's will be ready by the first of next year, he said

Sullivan told the committee that Russia now has 250 undersea craft in operation. He contrasted that fleet with the tewer than 50-U-boats which Nazi Germany had in action at the start of World War II.

And yet, he said, the Germans "very nearly won the battle of the Atlantic."

He disclosed that Russia had obtained 10 new German submarines, including four of the latest design, controls four large German shipyards which produced U-boats for

Truman Denies Abandoning Palestine Partition Plan

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(UP) President Truman denied today that the United States has abandoned the partition idea for Palestine but called for a truce in Jewish-Arab fighting so the United Nations can deliberate over the Holy Land.

Gives Views

Mr. Truman gave his views on the changes in American policy toward Palestine in a formal statement read to his press conference after a week of angry denunciations of the changes by Democrats and Republicans.

He said American policy is aimed at preventing bloodshed in Palestine and, therefore, the U.S. representative to urge the Security Council "in the strongest terms" to summon both Arabs and Jews to arrange a truce.

The President was asked whether the United States could not have foreseen all of the present Palestine difficulties last fall, when it "vigorously supported" partition. He smiled and said any schoolboy's hindsight was better than a President's foresight.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, in another news conference an hour later, refused to expand on the new policy except to defend vigorously the President's contention that the United States has abandoned partition.

Britain Rejects Russian Protest

LONDON, March 26 —(UP)— Britain tonight rejected a Russian protest on the recent London three-power conference and bluntly accussed the Soviet Union of frustrating big four cooperation.

In a note handed to the Soviet Ambassador in London, Britain said responsibility for lack of cooperation among the occupying powers in Germany "rests clearly upon the Soviet Government."

Answer to Russian Protest

Britain's note was an answer to a Russian protest on March 6, which charged that Britain, the United States and France violated the Potsdam Agreement on control machinery in Germany.

Britain said it "entirely repudiates accusations obtained in Your Excellency's note and can accept none of the conclusions which the Soviet Government seems to base upon them."

The note said in part:

"In reply, I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that his Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom wish to place it on record that they entirely repudiate the accusations contained in Your Excellency's note and can accept none of the conclusions which the Soviet Government seems to base upon them."

Congress Agrees on Bill-Truman Can't Stop It

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(UP) Congressmen who favor the income tax cut bill and those who don't aggreed today that President Truman can't stop it with a veto based on national defense needs.

All hands expect Mr. Truman to send the $4,800,000,000 bill back to Congress next week with an argument that government revenues shouldn't be cut while the defense budget is being raised.

But they don't believe that Defense Secretary James Forrestal's request today for a $3,000,000,000 increase in the military budget will prevent the veto being overridden.

Republican leaders who pushed the tax cut through with veto-proof margins in both houses, said they anticipated heavier defense spending when the measure was passed.

Communists Burn Papers in Milan As Strike Ends

ROME, March 26 —(UP)— Enraged Communists seized and burned 10,800 copies of the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano in Milan today just as a four-day nationwide printers' strike ended.

Copies of Osservatore, the only Italian language newspaper published during the four-day strike, were sent to news-starved Milan by train. Communists seized the man in charge of them, took him to their headquarters in the Communist newspaper Unita, threatened him with death if he tried to sell more "scab" papers, and freed him.

They took the copies of the paper to a nearby public garden and ceremoniously burned them.

The first news which clamoring thousands were able to read in hastily published afternoon newspapers here after the end of the strike was that the government was willing to negotiate the Trieste problem directly with Yugoslavia.

A foreign office spokesman announced that the government was ready to negotiate with Yugoslavia "within the spirit and letter" of the proposal of the United States, Great Britain and France to restore Trieste to Italy.

This would preclude any attempt by Yugoslavia to get Italian Gorizia in return for Trieste.

McMahon Reports On Atomic Power

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(UP)— Sen. Brien McMahon, (D-Conn.) said today the United States now has "on hand" enough atomic materials to "extinguish nearly every living thing in an area the size of New England."

He cited the atomic armament race between this country and Russia to support his appeal for a U S sponsored global "education program" to sell the people of the world on the advantages of democracy and peace.

McMahon said both the United States and Russia "beyond doubt" have already mined enough uranium and other radioactive material to wipe out all human life on the planet—if the material were converted into atomic weapons.

While carefully avoiding any specific statistics, he said the United States already has processed enough of this ore to provide "the means wherby if we chose we could extinguish nearly every living thing in an area such as my own New England."

McMahon added that Russia undoubtedly has atomic weapons of similar destructiveness "on order," but he did not speculate whether the Soviet Union already has atom bombs.

In one cryptic reference to the destructiveness of the atomic arms already in U S. possession, McMahon said:

"We have on hand now material means which, if used in certain fashions, would destroy the reproductions facilities of our whole nation."

'Project X'--Red Satellites Under Study

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(UP) —With enactment of anti-Communist aid to Western Europe practically assured, Congress today was reported studying secretly Russian's eastern satellites.

Word of the mysterious "Project X" came from congressional quarters as the House wound up debate on its $6,205,000,000 bill to provide open American military and economic help to China and those European countries still outside the Communist orbit.

Chairman Styples Bridges, (R-N.H.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he would ask Secretary of State George C. Marshall shortly for an official go-ahead on the project which would encourage and support anti-Communist underground groups in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain.

Bridges, who provided the first tip-off on project during a Senate speech yesterday, said he has discussed it on an informal basis with "very high government officials."

The campaign presumably would be along the lines of the work done by the wartime office of strategic services, and some members of Congress believe former agents of that "cloak and dagger" outfit should be recruited if "project X" is launched.

Army Day Plans Cut at Trieste

TRIESTE, March 26 —(UP)— United States authorities temporarily suspended today their plans for a full dress celebration of Army Day April 6 because of mounting Italian-Yougoslav tension over the future of Trieste.

Army men had intended to celebrate the day with the biggest American parade ever held in Trieste. Plans called for a 1-½ hour-long parade of tanks, infantry and mechanized and reconnaissance units, with cub observation planes flying over the city.

But officials handling the plans said today they were not certain it would be wise to hold the parade now because of the developing situation over the proposal of the Western Allies to restore Trieste to Italy.

Civil police alerted for the second day when the Communists asked, and obtained, permission to hold another demonstration. The first demonstration, held last night, was a wooden one and the lack of enthusiasm was remarkable. Tonight's demonstration, however, was staged on the fringe of the Italian San Giovanni quarter and police watched for any outbreak between jubilant Italians and embittered Communists.

Conserve Power! 'Brown Out' May Hit Nation

CHICAGO, March 26 —(UP)— The soft coal walkout threatened today to force a nationwide "brown-out" to conserve power while in the meat strike Omaha police seized 68 CIO pickets in the largest mass arrest of the current strike wave.

At least 514,000 workers were idle in labor disputes and new walkouts were threatened. Other labor developments:

1—Fourteen pickets, mostly women were arrested in a three-day-old strike against the General Electric Plant at Lexington, Ky., bringing total arrests in the walkout to 31.

2—At Philadelphia, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and engineers threatened to call its 10,000 members out on strike against the Pennsylvania Railroad March 31. The dispute concerns hiring of firemen.

3—CIO farm equipment workers at the Caterpillar Tractor company at Peoria, Ill., voted four to one to authorize a strike for higher pay.

In the 10-day-old strike of more than 100,000 members of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers' Union, Omaha police arrested groups of pickets who defied a city council order to open their lines for non-strikers.

In Chicago, a presidential fact-finding board investigating the meat strike completed its hearing and promised to report to President Truman by April 1.

Marshall Serves Notice Won't Quit Germany

WASHINGTON March 26 —(UP)— Secretary of State George C. Marshall today served pointed notice on the Soviet Union that the United States will remain in Germany despite Russia's disruptive tactics there.

Taking a two-ply slap it Soviet policies in Germany, Marshall also said the "Communist-dominated, self-styled" people's congress set up in the Russian occupation zone is an illegitimate device to "cruelly" deceive the German people.

He said in two final statements that this government regards the "walkout" of Soviet representatives from the Allied Control Council in Berlin last week as "unilateral action" to remove four-power efforts to unify Germany. The United States, he asserted, will not be a party to any such action.

"In accordance with the international agreements binding all four powers," he added, "the United States intends to continue to fulfill its responsibilities as a member of the control council and as a joint occupant of the city of Berlin."

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(UP)— President Truman's fact-finding board in the coal strike was called today to meet at 10:30 a.m., EST., tomorrow in the hope that an injunction to stop the costly walkout can be obtained by Tuesday.

Hitler, and has German blueprints, ports, designers, engineers and technicians.

Sullivan added that the United States has not yet developed perfect counter-measures against latest-type submarines and that research indicates that "a complete solution will be most difficult."

Forrestal's program would raise the nation's fighting strength by 349,100 officers officers and men, provide 3,000 new warplanes during the 12 months beginning July 1, and pour additional millions of dollars into military research and development of new weapons.

The World In Brief . . .

A national committee backing Henry Wallace for president will meet in Chicago from April 9th to 11th to plan the formation of a new national party. Former Minnesota Governor Elmer Benson—who will serve as the committee's new chairman—also announced that the meeting will select the place and date for its nominating convention. State directors from some 40 states are to report at the Chicago meeting on the progress of their drive to put Wallace's name on the ballot.

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(UP) President Truman confirmed today that he is in the Democratic presidential race to stay.

Southern Democrats cracked right back that they still intend to try to knock him out.

The President told a news conference he intends to go ahead with his candidacy. He didn't say whether he expects to win it.

—o—

The Government is speeding up its machinery in an effort to bring the coal strike to an early end. Federal mediation director Cyrus Ching has called on President Truman's fact-finding board to meet tomorrow morning. Ching is expected to ask the board to report to the President by Monday, if possible. This would clear the way for getting an injunction under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law. The Justice Department will be ready to submit an injunction petition to a Federal Court as soon as the President acts on the panel's findings.

COMMUNISTS in Czechoslovakia are predicting a party landslide when the nation elects a new parliament on May 23rd. The Red leaders assert that the trip to the polls will show that the people are behind the new government.

The House recessed for Easter today after winding up its general debate on the foreign bill. The measure will be thrown open for amendments when the lawmakers return to their desks Monday. Ohio's John Vorys plans to offer a proposal calling for the United States to spend 220-million extra to rehabilitate Japan, Korea and other conquered enemy areas.

Government economic expert warns that higher food prices may be on the way. Evan Clagne—chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics—told reporters today that there are indications the price up which came after the break in commodity markets has run its course. The Labor Department reports that wholesale meat prices advanced more than eight per cent last week —the biggest increase since price controls were abandoned.

BRITISH TROOPS fought shoulder to shoulder with the Jewish army in Palestine today to drive Arabs out of the hills of Judea. Details of the joint attack have not yet been received but private reports say that Haganah men led the British forces into the Cypress Forests where Arab ambushers were hiding to carry on raids against truck convoys. Today the spokesmen for the Exceled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem announced that the Arabs would insist that Zionist military organizations be disarmed if there is to be an armistice in the Holy Land. The foreign minister of Egypt read President Truman's statement calling for a Jewish Arab truce and announced that it would never be accepted because it is aimed at paving the way for the partition of Palestine.

Vets Asked to Aid GI Babies

by Robert Branson
United Press Staff Correspondent

MANILA —(UP)— Two-year-old Linda inherited her pale green eyes from a St. Paul, Minn., tech sergeant.

She inherited her curly black hair and coffee-colored skin from a 16-year-old factory girl.

She is one of an estimated 6,000 illegitimate children fathered by American soldiers and born to unmarried Filipino girls in the months that followed the allied invasion here in 1945. The Filipinos call them "GI babies."

Case histories of more than 4,000 of these children compiled by the Philippine War Relief of the United States indicate that about 75 per cent of the fathers were white. Most of the rest were Negros. A few were Mexicans and Puerto Ricans.

"The majority of the mothers of these children are, frankly speaking, of low-grade mentality. Very few of them ever got beyond grade school and more than half of them are completely illiterate. They are qualified for only the most menial and miserably paid jobs. And yet, unlike married mothers, they're the family's only bread-winner. To support themselves on their wages would be difficult. To support a baby besides—and often a grandmother or a sick aunt or younger sister—is virtually impossible."

The agency is trying to contact every American known or suspected to be the father of a GI baby. Often they can be traced through dog tags which they left behind. Usually the task is harder because the majority of the unmarried mothers remember their paramours only by a name like Bill or George or Jake.

To a man whose address can be located goes a tactfully worded letter which says in effect: "You are the father of a child whose health and happiness depends largely upon whether you are willing to help support her."

The agency's appeals have produced a scattering of checks and money orders. But many of them come back marked "unclaimed," and most of those which reach their addressee are never answered.

MarBo Plans Review For Army Day

MARBO — Final plans for Army Day ceremonies have been announced for the MarBo base command. The plans include a review and presentation of medals at the MarBo parade grounds.

Major General Francis H. Griswold, Commanding General, Marianas Bonins Command and Twentieth Air Force, and Brigadier General J. S. Bradley, Commander-General, MarBo Base Command, as well as the chief of staff and chiefs of general staff section, MarBo base command, will make up the reviewing party.

Three Battalions in Review

Three battalions of troops will pass in review. The crack Battery A, 864th AAA AW Battalion honor guard will furnish color guards and bearers and serve as color battery in the parade.

Colonel Dana G. McBride, MarBo base command G-3, will serve as commander of troops. His staff will include Major Jerry F. Dunn as executive and Captain Raymond G. Ross will be adjutant.

Curb Sought for False Alarms

Many fire fighters have lost their lives directly resulting from persons sending in false alarms. Such an accident occured on Guam, in which a fire fighter forfeited his life, and his crew was injured while answering a call to a fire, which was known by the caller not to exist.

False alarms in many communities are classed as felonies and in some localities where registering of false alarms is termed a misdemeanor, the offense is given the more serious classification in the event of casualties.

Usually Inebriates

Common perpetrators of this crime are inebriates, who consider turning in a false alarm a "good joke." Witnesses of such perpetrations are just as guilty for doing nothing to prevent it.

It is not difficult to realize the seriousness of the offense. There are many who contribute to the seriousness of the act by not reporting the perpetrator. It is not "ratting" to inform proper authorities about a false alarm prankster, and thus possibly save the lives of those who devote themselves to our protection.

If a fire is definitely known to exist, the fire department should be notified. But far too often, smoke, reflections, and "suspected" fires are the cause of unnecessary calls, and possible injury to the fire fighters.

Pointed Hint Taken

CENTRALIA, Ill. —(UP)— Two mothers of Centralia bobbysoxers have their own way of letting their daughters' boy friends know when its time to leave. The boys ignored polite requests that they go. The mothers got together and called police. A squad car arrived just as the persistent suitors headed for home.

"SAD SACK" BOOSTS SAVINGS BOND PROGRAM — George Baker, creator of "The Sad Sack," has donated his services to the Treasury Department for the next savings bond campaign by giving the Navy Department original color cartoon posters. Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan, second from left accepted the posters and passed on to Admiral Louis E. Denfield, USN Chief of Naval Operations, the poster of the Sad Sack in Navy blues, and to General Clifton B. Cates, USMC, commandant of the Marine Corps, a poster of the Sad Sack in Marine greens. (Official U. S. Navy Photo)

Savings Bond Program Made Permanent

A recent AlNav has established the savings bond program on a permanent basis. A special campaign has been ordered for the period from April 15 to June 30.

During the war the Marine Corps took a leading part in this effort. However, the latest figures show Marine Corps participation in payroll savings and bond allotment plans considerably under average for Naval establishments.

The savings bond program has been highly endorsed as being in the highest interests of the individual, the Marine Corps, and the entire nation.

The goal of the Marine Corps is an overall participation of 75 per cent by civilian and military personnel.

Over The Joepot

by Bill Jury

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY....The Boston Red Sox are boasting of the fact they have two .403 batting champs in their spring training camp. One, of course is Thumpin' Ted Williams. The other? Hugh Duffy. Duffy won't get in any licks this season, though, for he's 82-years-old There was a time when all he did was batter opposing pitchers for a cool .438. That was back in 1894. Not only did he lead the National League that year, but the record has never been equalled.

Tommy Harmon, former All-American at Michigan and presently signed with the Los Angeles Rams, had a remodeling job done on his sneezer recently. The "new look" has no trace of the old gridiron battering.

Ernie Weber, leading contender for the Olympic walking title, figures the U.S has a good chance in the Olympic games this year for copping the walking marathon crown, but its a tough grind, he sez. "Walking is very difficult to master. There is a lot to learn. You get pains in your shins." Then he goes on to say, "It takes about two years to learn it." Phsaw! I was walking by the time I was a year old.

Color Shots of Games

J Arthur Rank, British film magnate, told reporters recently that his company would produce in color a full length feature on the Olympic games....Down at Berkeley, the home of the California Golden Bears, and den of the strong football and basketball squads, they are working overtime on their crew. The lanky lads in the brief skivvies will be pulling the sweeps for the Olympics and already they have caused some consternation on the part of rival rowing squads. Scouts from other shell-minded campuses are scurrying to the cable office with the advice to "watch out for Cal"......Who would've guessed it? But when the tall man with the chin whiskers came calling on March 15 who was it that payed his income tax better than anyone? The bookies! One tax expert has this to say, "Why not, they're all topflight accountants." Natch! He goes on to say that 15 years ago this wasn't always the case. Fourteen bookies were indicted in Miami for income tax evasion and 13 were convicted, but since then there has been little trouble.

Apparently the ponies are coming in a little more regularly now.

Rangers Lose Moe

DETROIT, March 26 —(UP)— The Stanley Cup stock of the New York Rangers nose-dived sharply today with the disclosure that Defenseman Bill Moe suffered a double-fractured vertabrae in last night's playoff game against the Detroit Redwings.

Moe, who was injured when he body-checked Husky Bill Quackenbush of Detroit in the third period, will be lost for the remaining National Hockey League playoffs, according to a club spokesman.

East All-Stars Topple West Squad, 58-47

NEW YORK, March 26 —(UP) The East College All-Stars broke out of a tie with 12 straight points in the final quarter to sink the West, 58 to 47, tonight in the New York Herald Tribune's annual fresh air fund basketball game.

A crowd of 16,425 at Madison Square Garden watched the picked squads perform as though a major tournament title were at stake in a well-played contest that netted almost $15,000 to the newspaper's fund for sending needy children to summer camps.

The victory was the East's second in the three years the event has been held.

Lionel Malamed of City College of New York, Odis (Sleepy) Spears of Western Kentucky, Bill Gabor of Syracuse, and Adolph Schayes of New York, Odis (Sleepy) Spears four who led the Easterners to victory.

Malamed voted the most valuable player in the game, turned in a great ball-hawking performance, holding Murray Wier of Iowa and Gene Berce of Marquette to three floor baskets and as many fouls combined, and managed to throw in 10 points in the bargain.

Spears sent the Easterners off to a fine start by scoring their first three baskets and wound up the game's high scorer with 14 points.

Schayes did an outstanding job of controlling rebounds and contributed 11 points to the East cause, while Gabor came through with three timely field goals during the late spree which beat the West.

George Gallivan and Cleo Desbien will meet novice singles champion Fred Chase and Dorris Duke tomorrow at 1530 on the Naval Government courts in the only match of the Guam News tennis tournament this weekend.

All-Navy Boxing Eliminations Enter Semi-finals Tonight at NAS Agana

After a three day lull, the 1948 All-Navy boxing eliminations enters into the semi-finals tonight at the NAS Agana fight arena.

During the previous four nights of fighting no card has been run off without at least three kayos or TKO's. Monday night only one fight went the full three rounds and the following night four kayos were registered in six bouts.

In tonight's semi-final clash, it's a toss-up which fight will attract the most interest from boxing fans. Johnny Kamber, last year's runner-up in the final at San Diego, meets E.P. Rich. Chief Yeoman K.E. Vann, a hard hitting lightweight from NOB, tangles with Fernandres Ellis, another powerful poker

Mike Jankowski, a favorite from NAS Orote, is slated to battle Ray Aikins, a wing-wise middleweight.

Jim Phinisee and Mel Nash are on tap in the other middleweight go, but officials are keeping an eye on Phinisee's eye before giving the nod for the clash. Phinisee opened a gash over his blinker when he collided with Chubbuck in one of the first nights of fighting.

The final battle of the nine bout card promises to be the best of the lot as Cy Fletcher meets David "The Sniper" Avery. Avery holds the record for tucking his opponent away in the eliminations to date. He registered a first round kayo in 59 seconds of his fight with Long Tuesday night.

Fletcher, on the other hand, is a past-master of the sizzling uppercut. If his opponent can still walk around after the uppercut treatment, Fletcher usually polishes him off with devastating right hooks.

It states in the rule book that only one fighter can win, so this brawl should really be a corker.

The fights start at 1930.

The complete card:

J.H. Reynolds	vs.	R. Deleon
J. Kamber	vs.	E.P. Rich
F. Ellis	vs.	K.E. Vann
D. Chapman	vs.	B. Van Norman
W. Inge	vs.	P. Caldrone
D. Peyne	vs.	J. Alston
M. Jankowski	vs.	R. Aikins
J. Phinisee	vs.	M. Nash
C. Fletcher	vs.	D. Avery

North Field Nines Make Clean Sweep

Two North Field baseball teams displayed their power Wednesday afternoon by winning their various games in spectacular fashion.

Playing at the North Field diamond, the North Field Bombers set back the 1918th Engineers, 8 to 2, behind Jim Crowley's no-hit performance, the first no-hitter to be registered in the 20th Air Force winter baseball league,

Crowley, who has established himself as a strikeout artist, fanned a total of 16 batters in one previous battle, and struck out eight men in Wednesday's tilt. The 1918th aggregation managed to score one run in the fourth and one in the ninth frame on two walks and two errors.

Dixon Charged With Loss

Judge Dixon and Herbert Clark shared the mound duties for the Engineers, Dixon being charged with the loss.

While Crowley and his Bomber teammates were making short work of their opponents from 20th Air Force Headquarters, their North Field neighbors, the 811th EAB, was in the process of steamrolling the Northwest Field Sunsetters to the tune of a lopsided 27 to 4 count.

In obtaining their onesided victory, the 811th Eng. hit four Sunsetter pitchers for 20 safeties, three of them roundtrippers by Johnny Thompson, Eddie Turner, and Jimmy Brooks. Pompey Taylor, Bob Brownrich, and Joe Womack each twirled three innings for the 811th nine.

Taylor received credit for the win.

Dodger Regulars Win

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D. R., March 26 —(UP)— The Brooklyn Dodger Regulars defeated the Yannigans, 1 to 0, today in an intrasquad game behind the stellar two-hit pitching of Willard Ramsdell and Clyde King.

The Regulars, managed by the injured Pee Wee Reese, scored the only run of the game on a single by Tom Brown, two walks and an infield out.

Paraiso, Sakata Meet in Paseo Headliner

Young Paraiso, rated along with Gon Ladrazo and Little Campo in local ring circles, will meet Melvin Sakata next Friday at the Paseo de Susana in the six round main event of a seven bout benefit for the American Red Cross.

Sakata, a Japanese-Hawaiian, is faster and hits harder than many of the local pugs, and is given a better than fair chance to take Paraiso. Never beaten in Honolulu, Sakata recently knocked out Frankie Duran in a minute and 20 seconds of the first round in the local garden.

Young Teddy

Young Teddy meets Sammy Diaz in the six round supporting main event. Teddy, who fought only four times in the local ring last year, is most noted for holding Benny Pallica to a ten round draw.

MKK's Eddie Ramos takes on Little Villaneuva for five rounds in the semifinals. Little Jesse Aguon, Toto Village's No. 1 boy, will go four rounds with an unannounced opponent in a special event preceeding the Ramos-Villineuva go.

Completing the card will be Vicky Unsinger and Tuffy Salicico in a four round welterweight match, Alfredo Gutierrez and Slim Quezon for three rounds, and Jack Dickinson takes on Max Reise for four rounds. Reise met Hiner Thomas in the Golden Gloves tournament last November, and lost a close three round decision.

A hula dance has been added as an extra attraction.

Tickets are on sale at the Guam Commercial store in Agana.

Command entries for the local All Navy Tennis Tournament are now overdue, and every command is urged to send the names of the players comprising their team to Command Marianas.

Eleven Boxing Tourneys Open Througout U. S.

CHICAGO, March 26 —(UP)— Eleven regional boxing tournaments will be held starting next week to qualify fighters for a final tourney from which the 16 members of the United States Olympic boxing team will be selected, it was announced today.

The first regional test will be the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet at Madison, Wis., April 1-3. The eight college champions will be the first to qualify for the Olympic tourney at Boston, June 28-29.

Each Region

Each regional will qualify its champions for the finals, and Olympic authorities said the locations were established to give every amateur boxer a chance to qualify.

Other regions included:

Pacific Coast: Tournament June 16-17 at San Francisco under direction of James J. Richardson, Portland, Ore., and Al Sandell and Dake K. Stevenson, San Francisco. States represented: Montana, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Nevada, California, Hawaii and Alaska.

U. S. Army and Air Force: Own championships with finals at Chicago June 11.

U. S. Navy: Own championships with finals at San Diego in week starting May 2.

Undefeated Teams In Island Tilts

The first Triple "A" Gunners and the NavCommSta baseball teams clash today in a fight to remain undefeated in the Inter-Command baseball league. Both teams are tied with NSC for first place with three victories and no defeats.

The Gunners have downed the 1507th CB's twice and the 103rd CB's once for their three victories while the NavCommSta club has nosed out the First Brigade Devildogs, whalloped the Yards and Docks Gophers, and administered ComMar their first defeat of the season. Triple "A" will be without the services of one of their best players "Bucky" Buchanan, which may make quite a drawback for today's important tilt.

The NSC crew will get a real test today when they meet the highly regarded FasRon 13 Airdales at the Supply Center diamond FasRon is also undefeated and will be after their third consecutive victory which would put them ahead of NSC in the pennant race.

In other games, the NOB Industrial Miners will play the Orote Boondockers at Orote field; the ComMar Hilltoppers will play host to the NAS Agana All Stars; Marine Barracks travels to the 103rd CB field; the Devildogs from the Marine Brigade visits the 1507 CB's; NAD travels to Stoney Stadium to meet the Yards and Docks Gophers; and the Fifth Service Leathernecks will play host to the NBRS Dodgers.

Louis Fans Buy Skates

NEW YORK, March 26 —(UP) The entire 2,600 pairs of Swedish ice skates which Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will receive for boxing in an exhibition match in Stockholm have been bought sight unseen by enthusiastic souvenir hunters, it was revealed today.

Shortly after a United Press dispatch was carried countrywide last night, the Hyde Athletic Shoe Company in Cambridge, Mass., was beseiged with telephone and telegraph orders.

Jerry Nagler publicity director for the firm here, said that hundreds of people from Cambridge and Boston stormed the firm's offices and that other orders came via telephone and telegraph.

Louis agreed to accept the skates in payment for the exhibition to circumvent the Swedish ban on currency leaving that country.

'Foreign' Sub 60 Miles From U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28 —(UP)— A submarine which the Navy said it could not "identify as one of ours", was sighted today less than 60 miles from Golden Gate, the entrance to one of this country's largest Naval bases.

The submarine was seen by the crew of a Pan American World Airways Clipper on a flight from Honolulu to San Francisco and was reported only two days after Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan told the Senate that underseas boats not belonging to any nation west of the 'iron curtain' have been sighted off our shores."

Commander George M. Hall, 12th Naval District spokesman said flatly "it was not one of our subs if the Pan American report is correct."

"If there is some discrepancy about the location, it is conceivably possible it might have been one of ours," he added. "We are not trying to create a submarine scare, but we're looking into this—and we're not fooling around."

Capt. Jack Ozrs, 37, pilot of the Pan American Clipper and Naval Air Transport pilot who said he was trained in submarine recognition spotted the craft at 6:48 A.M., PST. He said it crashdived when he circled over it.

Myers said he and two crew members spotted the submarine from an altitude of 7,000 feet.

"When we started to go lower, it submerged immediately—in less than half a minute," the Burlingame, Calif., pilot said.

Myers said he was flying too high to see a flag or insignia which would identify the craft. When the Navy first was notified of the report, it said "about three" U. S. submarines were operating in the general area in which Myers sighted the sub—but later Commander George M. Hall of the 12th Naval District issued the statement saying the Navy could not identify the craft.

Radm. Gunther Dies

MENLO PARK, Cal., March 28 —(UP)— Rear Adm. Ernest L. Gunther, 60, wartime Air Force commander of the Pacific Fleet, died at his home here late today after a year's illness.

The veteran Navy airman, who led the Navy's air offensive in the Solomon's campaign during the early stage of the Pacific war, retired less than two months ago after hospitalization for a lung infection.

A career Navy man since his graduation from the Naval Academy in 1909, Adm. Gunther served with distinction in both world wars.

Labor Front Threatened

by United Press

Three major developments were reported on the nation's labor front today, affecting railroads, newspapers and soft coal users.

At Washington, the emergency board investigating a threatened strike of 150,000 key railroad workers suggested that the roads grant engineers, firemen and switchmen a 15½ cent per hour wage increase since the brotherhoods representing the workers already have refused such an increase from the lines, the threat of a walkout after April 26 continued.

Government Wins Injunction

At Indianapolis, the government won a temporary injunction against the International Typographical Union, ordering it to abandon its "no contract" policy toward newspaper publishers.

Also at Washington, President Truman's Fact-Finding Board investigating the walkout of 400,000 United Mine Workers said it was prepared to get a court order forcing UMW President John L. Lewis to appear and explain his side of the dispute with soft coal mine operators.

Romanian Campaign Ends

BUCHAREST, March 28 —(UP)— Premier Petru Groza wound up the Romanian election campaign tonight by declaring that the nation's new "democratic development" would be approved at the polls tomorrow.

Observers predicted that the Communist-dominated government bloc would win 90 per cent of the 414 parliamentary seats at stake.

U.S. Air Defense To be Strengthened

WASHINGTON, March 28 —(UP)— Defense Secretary James Forrestal announced today that from now on the Air Force is responsible for strategic air warfare.

The Air Force also will have primary responsibility for defending the U. S. against air attack, with the Navy assisting.

The joint chiefs of staff of the armed forces made the historic strategic air warfare decision at a secret conference at Key West, Florida, two weeks ago. It settled a bitter feud between the Navy and Air Force over control of strategic bombing.

At the same time, the Navy won the right to build an 60,000-ton carrier and conduct air operations "to accomplish the objectives of naval campaign." To this extent the agreement was a compromise.

Under the Key West decision, the joint chiefs of staff may call upon the Navy to supply forces for strategic bombing in an emergency. But in the long range planning of budgets and national defense, the Air Force will have prior claim to funds with which to build planes for strategic bombing.

The decision and many others in the Key West document—called a "statement of function" or roles and missions of the armed forces—was forwarded by Forrestal to President Truman.

Tornadoes Sweep Midwestern States

Communities of the midwest and south are counting their dead and their ruined homes in the wake of early spring tornadoes. The latest sweep of tornadic winds left 27 persons dead in Indiana, Alabama, Illinois and Louisiana. Many scores were injured, and property damage is believed to run into the millions of dollars.

A tornado swept through an airfield near St. Charles, Mo., today after a series of windstorms had left 13 dead and 60 injured in Oklahoma last night.

Indiana was hardest hit, with a death toll of 20. Fourteen were killed at Coatsville, Indiana, alone. Snow has begun to fall on the wreckage of Coatsville, and it is feared that the bad weather will continue.

Later reports said a tornado struck in a rural section of southern Georgia tonight. Several persons were injured and 12 homes damaged or destroyed at Kite, Ga.

High winds whipped through Staten Island in New York. Store fronts and windows were blown out at Stapleton. Heavy rains followed the 60 miles an hour winds, flooding warehouses and breaking power lines.

Weather Forecast

Partly Cloudy. Widely scattered moderate showers late afternoon and evening. Moderate easterly winds with strong gusts.

Yesterday's temperature: Max. 84; Min. 76.

Yesterday's rainfall: trace.

Easter Sunday 1948 in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, EASTER SUNDAY, March 28 —(UP)— Worshippers knelt in Easter prayer at the Tomb of Christ today while an Arab boy nearby sold American-made hand grenades for $10 each.

All worshippers carrying guns were required to check them before entering the Church of the Holy Sepulchre to pray to the Prince of Peace.

Christians who ventured out on this Easter morning jostled their way through armed Arab guardsmen and merchants in the old walled city to get to the site of the first Easter.

On their way, they paused to watch the 1948 Easter Parade—a parade of armored cars and tanks whizzing through the streets as it has for days and nights.

Worshippers knelt on the spot where Christ was crucified between two thieves, at the scene of the Resurrection and by his burial place, while under them arms and men were being transported through Jerusalem's catacombs.

Less than 1,000 yards from the Tomb of Christ was an 11-year-old Arab boy in a faded red shirt. He was selling grenades and bullets for rifles, machine guns and pistols. The ammunition was heaped in baskets in front of him for use in the French, Italian, German and American guns for sale in nearby stalls.

Jerusalem in the quiet dawn is a beautiful city. The war between Arab and Jew which keeps you awake at night seems to be only a bad dream.

Visitors who came to the walled city this Easter entered through the Jaffa gate off Hebron road, directly into the Christian quarter. Arab commanders, after close examination, gave each visitor an armed guard.

A foreigner cannot walk safely alone in the shop-lined streets. It is every Arab against every Jew and certain death for one to walk into a section held by the other.

Visitors followed the chanting processions of the five denominations which support the church, originally built about 1600. The groups are Roman Catholics, Greek Orthodox, Blackrobed Cops from Egypt, Assyrians and Armenians.

Twenty steps inside the church is the stone slab where Joseph and Nicodemas prepared Christ's body for burial after it was removed from the cross.

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre has been rebuilt and enlarged many times to house the Mount Calvary Tomb and the spot where Christ reappeared to Mary Magdalene.

Worshippers entered the church behind the Roman Catholic procession, led by an acting Patriarch robed in purple. They stood in line waiting to kiss the sanction stone. Ten paces to the east are 18 steps leading to the top of Calvary, where Christ was crucified.

Beside Calvary on the north is the prison where Christ and the thieves were held by soldiers and the block on which Jesus was seated while the soldiers pressed a crown of thorns upon his head. On the other side is the way of the cross upon which Simon of Cyrene carried timbers.

Yugoslavs Move Troops Into Trieste Area

TRIESTE, March 28 —(UP)— The Yugoslavs have brought 1,000 reinforcements into their occupation zone in the Trieste free state and have deployed them along the border of the zone guarded by American and British troops, Italian refugees said today.

The refugees who reported the troop movements were from the Yugoslav-occupied part of the Istrian Penninsula. They said Yugoslav troops on the move included heavy weapons companies and field artillery.

Despite the reports, British Maj. Gen. Terence S. Airey, commander of the Allied zone, said no untoward incidents had taken place on the frontier. He said all was quiet in the northern zone and that he expected the calm to continue.

Communists themselves contributed to the general air of calm. They planned and obtained Allied authorization for a mass meeting of 10,000, but cancelled the rally at the last minute and announced it will be held April 1.

Informed sources believed the Communists called off their demonstration because of low attendance records at three other meetings this week.

Allied authorities took steps to insure control of the Communists' traditional May Day celebration here by issuing orders forbidding non-residents from entering the Allied zone for the occasion.

The United States Cruiser Manchester, meanwhile, arrived here today to replace the Dayton which left this morning after a two-weeks stay.

Jewish Planes Bomb Arab Force

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 28 —(UP)— Four Jewish Haganah planes today bombed an Arab force which ambushed a 30-vehicle Jewish convoy at Solomon's Pool, 18 miles south of Jerusalem.

The planes were believed to be part of the 21 spotters recently acquired by Haganah from British Army surplus stocks.

In the first officially reported use of Jewish planes in action the pilots apparently released their bombs by hand.

After a long, fierce battle which resulted in heavy but still uncounted casualties, Haganah abandoned its riddled convoy tonight and its forces returned to Jerusalem with British units which had rushed to the rescue.

Twenty of the 30 Jewish armored trucks were reported "immobilized." Five Haganah armored cars en route to aid the convoy were ambushed.

Italian Government Finds Electoral Fraud

ROME, Italy, March 28 —(UP)— The government announced tonight that it had discovered electoral registration frauds in the Communist-run city of Genoa.

It was the second fraud reported by the Ministry of Interior in three days. Communists distributed propaganda along with voting certificates at Arezzo earlier in the week.

The ministry communique tonight charged that the Genoa city administration, which is dominated by Communists, had issued 2,000 duplicate voting certificates to voters enrolled in two precincts and that 14,000 certifications contained the wrong sex and address.

This came as members of non-leftist parties met in Rome tonight to consider a possible joint front against the Communists after the crucial April 18 parlimentary elections.

Army Reserve Officers Kept in Uniform

WASHINGTON, March 28 —(UP)— Army Reserve Officers, who have been on extended active duty, will be kept in uniform indefinitely because of the tense world situation, it was revealed today.

An Army spokesman said that under a policy switch made this week reservists will be released from active service only in cases of inefficiency or hardship.

The spokesman refused to estimate how many officers would be affected by the new directive. But it was understood from other sources that upwards of 20,000 might come under the "freeze" order.

Previously, reserve officers on extended active duty were released on request in most cases. The new policy was disclosed only two days after Defense Secretary James Forrestal laid his Military Expansion Program before Congress.

Reds Reopen Nazi Camps

WASHINGTON, March 28 —(UP)— Authoritative government sources said today that Russia has reopened notorious Buchenwald and several other former Nazi concentration camps.

These sources said "large numbers" of German citizens have been imprisoned by the Soviets because they refused to go along with the Communist regime in eastern Germany.

Another Nazi camp which has been reopened, according to these sources, is Oranienburg where thousands were put to death by Hitlerian decree. There is no evidence, however, that the Russians have resorted to killing dissenters.

Revival of the concentration camps was disclosed officially last night by the State Department in a note charging Russia with responsibility for the continued economic and political division of Germany.

The strongly-worded diplomatic note said the Soviet-enforced amalgamation of the German socialist party and the Communist party "has become the new bulwark for a totalitarian regime in eastern Germany."

Thousands of Pilgrims Jam Rome for Easter

ROME, March 28 —(UP)— Thousands of pilgrims jammed Rome today for the Easter celebration as the bells of Rome's 365 churches pealed for the first time since Holy Thursday, when they were silenced in mourning for the Crucifixion of Christ.

Pope Pius XII was not scheduled to recite Easter Mass, but he will appear at the Central Loggia, Major Basilica of Christianity, at noon to impart his Apostolic Blessing, "Urbe Et Orbi" ("the city and the world").

This is the only Papal activity definitely planned for Easter.

The Pope's blessing will be broadcast throughout the world, as will a special Pontifical Mass on Easter morning. The Pope will not attend the mass, which will be recited by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, Arch-Priest of St. Peters.

An estimated 200,000 pilgrims and faithful will mass in St. Peters Square tomorrow noon. Special loudspeakers have been set up on Bernini Columnade encircling the square.

Nationalists Open Counter-Offensive

SHANGHAI, March 28 —(UP)— Nationalists announced today the opening of a general counter-offensive against Communists pouring into South Hagar Province.

Gen. Fu Tso Yi's headquarters said Nationalist forces regained the initiative along the Peiping-Suiyuan railway.

The period of "strategic withdrawals" is ended and reinforcements and redeployment completed, the communique said. Nationalist forces have opened a "general offensive" against cities and towns lost earlier in the week along the rail line, it said.

A force of 7,000 Communists was routed at Miyun, rail junction city on the Peiping-Jehol railway 45 miles northeast of Peiping, the communique said. The action secured a railline which is a major supply artery to Nationalist forces in Jehol and Chahar provinces.

It was learned that Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek has personally ordered tightening up of draft regulations and an investigation into reported irregularities.

The action was taken because of "absenteeism" among newly drafted men from Shanghai.

The World In Brief . . .

General Billy Mitchell was honored in Washington today as the Father of the Air Force. It was exactly 22 years ago today that Mitchell was court martialed for his vigorous fight for a mighty United States Air Force. He died without seeing his dream come true. But today General Carl Spaatz —the Air Force Chief of Staff and our ranking military commander— presented a special medal of honor to General Mitchell's son, William Mitchell, Junior.

WASHINGTON, March 28 — (UP)— Plans have been completed for this spring's test of atomic bomb No. 6 at Eniwetok, informed sources believed today.

Blind Vet Helps Avert Train Crash

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. —(UP)— The keen hearing of a blind Marine veteran averted a possible railroad disaster Friday night.

If 22-year-old Jack George hadn't detected a broken rail on the bridge spanning the Beaver river, the crack eastbound "Admiral" of the Pennsylvania Railroad could have been derailed.

Jack and his father, Griffith W. George, 50, a conductor for the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, were sitting in the living room of their home when a fast train thundered over the east bound tracks.

As the train left the bridge, Jack's ears, made acute by the loss of his sight four years ago on Guam, picked up a strange sound—a sort of "thump, thump" instead of the usual "clickety-clack."

Jack straightened in his chair and cried, "Dad! Listen to that—Isn't there something wrong on the tracks?"

It was about 10:30 p.m. At 11:13 the Chicago-to-New-York "Admiral" was due to speed over the same stretch of track.

Mr. George grabbed two flashlights, and leading his son, crossed a field to the railroad bridge. His beam soon picked up a 12-inch break in the track. He posted Jack on the bridge.

"You wait here, Jack," he said. "Here, take these flashlights. If you hear a train coming, wave like hell."

JERSEY CITY N.J., March 23—(UP)—The loading of the Soviet freighter Chukokta with American machinery was halted for seven hours today when 62 AFL longshoremen refused to cross a picket line of protesting war veterans.

The picket line, formed yesterday by 25 members of the Hudson County Catholic War Veterans, broke up this afternoon and the longshoremen went back to their jobs. The veterans decided to stop picketing after the longshoremen held a brief meeting and said they would return to work later in the day, despite the picket line.

Korea Tense on Eve of First Elections

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Fanning is a member of the National Catholic Community Service group, which came to Guam to determine the feasibility of establishing an NCCS club here. He is the public information director for the group.

by William H. Fanning, Jr.

(Special to GUAM NEWS)

On the eve of its first democratic elections within living memory, south Korea is a land of tension and paradox. It is the home of 20 million people who, like their 10 million fellow-countrymen under Russian control north of the 38th parallel, have not known independence for 40 years. To grant them that independence, under a democratic government in such a way that they will be able to preserve it, is the goal of American policy.

Outside Korea anxiety is focused on the division of the country and its danger as a powder-keg in international relations. Within south Korea that danger is, of course, intensely felt. But at present it is overshadowed by more immediate concern: what will the elections scheduled for May 9 mean for the country's future?

The half dozen major political parties in Korea, along with a variety of splinter parties nominally numbering 400, are grouped in two "fronts" — a rightist organization known as the Society for the Rapid Realization of Korean Independence, and the extreme leftist Democratic People's Front.

The latter, whose leader is unknown, is controlled by the Communist south Korea labor party and works closely with the policy of the Communists of the north. The former is headed by Dr. Synghman Rhee, Korea's top political figure, and includes his Democratic party, Korea's largest Violently opposed to holding elections now in south Korea are the Communist and other parties of the Democratic People's Front, and certain rightist leaders who feel their political careers threatened or claim elections will solidify Korea's division.

Meanwhile the Korean people—aptly called "the Irish of the Far East"—are torn between their legitimate desire for unity and freedom, and recognition that U. S. withdrawal now would inevitably mean a Communist dictatorship for Korea almost immediately.

As a result, perhaps 10 per cent of the people would be terrified if they thought the Americans were about to leave. But at the same time, 90 per cent, if asked would express some annoyance at their staying.

No Election Change

No change in election plans now appears likely, unless perhaps a few weeks' deferment. In the new parliament, "temporarily vacant" seats will be reserved for future members from the north. Registration of voters has been set for Mach 30 to April 8. Candidates will be registered from April 14 to 20.

Both these periods, as well as the polling date and post-election weeks, will be observed by the eight-nation UN temporary commission on Korea in an effort to determine whether the elections as held are "free and unfettered."

How independence and unification can be achieved after the elections it is impossible to foresee. But there is general agreement that without elections the prospects of a free, unified nation would be even more remote.

World's Shortage of Oil May Last Until 1953

CANBERRA, Australia —(UP)— The Australian motorist is not likely to be able to buy all the gasoline he wants until 1951 at the earliest, it is predicted by Eric Avery, general manager of the Shell Company of Australia.

Avery, returned from a tour of the United States, Britain and the Netherlands, said he believed the war-caused oil shortage might last as long as 1953 before world production can catch up with demand.

Marshallese Active in Rehabilitation of Guam Hospital

REHABILITATORS — Members of "Merrill's Marauders" soft ball team take time out to pose with their fellow Marshall Islanders at Guam Memorial Hospital. These men, under the direction of CPHM. W. G. Merrill, Bremerton, Wash., are responsible for the rehabilitation of the hospital and grounds damaged by last year's typhoon. Seated L to R are Phelep, Betwel, Kiuabot, Jojenia, Chief Merrill, Henry, Phillip D., Jonatan, Biliam and Selvenios. (Guam News Photo by Benton)

GUAM, M. I. — Playing an important part in the rehabilitation of Guam Memorial Hospital is a group of men gathered from the Islands in the Marshall group, who have come to Guam to help rebuild the many structures and facilities damaged by last year's typoon.

Under the guidance of CPHM Walter G. Merrill, of Bremerton, Wash., the men have the task of repairing damaged buildings, rebuilding roads and walks, and the general upkeep of the hospital grounds.

When they first arrived on Guam, the men knew no English. Chief Merrill took it upon himself to teach several of them the language, and they now can speak it with little trouble.

Five-Year Scholarship

Five of the Marshallese, high school graduates, are hoping for a five-year scholarship in the School of Medical Practitioners at Guam Memorial Hospital. As soon as the civil administrators of their individual islands can be notified and grant their consent, the men will begin their studies at the school. It is expected that after completing their studies, they shall return to their own islands and carry on medical work among their people.

Several hours a week, work is laid aside and the men indulge in their favorite pastime—softball. Their team, holding second place in the hospital league, offers a serious threat to any good softball team on the Island. Chief Merrill, who organized and coaches the team, says he has never seen anyone get so much enjoyment out of the game as these men.

'Reverend' Gives Lucky Numbers, Gets the Air

PITTSBURGH —(UP)— The "Reverend" Lucky Thomas, who tried to fight the Devil with tips on the numbers, was given four hours yesterday to get out of town.

The itinerant sky-pilot from Beaufort, S. C. appeared in court in religious robes and collar and admitted giving his flock copies of a "Lucky Policy Book."

"What is this, your litany?" asked Judge Henry X. O'Brien.

"Your honor, I found that the people weren't interested in anything except the numbers, so I decided to fight the Devil by giving them lucky numbers," Thomas replied.

"I also have lucky charms," the revivalist added.

"You had better put some of that on your feet, for you have four hours to get out of town," Judge O'Brien said, suspending sentence.

The refined remains of the Old Blues of the 1890's are probably resting quietly now, but chances are they were spinning round and round in their six by's this time last week when it was announced that a former pro wrestler had been put in charge of the Yale football team for the next three years....Old Eli has always been reluctant to hire anyone outside its own circle to tutor its boys in anything, but now, it seems, they are interested in winning some contests....And 300-pound Herman Hickman has been signed to take over the post left vacant by Howie Odell....

Hickman is above reproach in all respects, but the fact remains, he was a pro wrestler for a short time after finishing college....He often missed his cues, though, and his football reputation is reportedly the only thing that pulled in the crowd....But then many folks consider it a fine tribute to say that he was a sorry professional wrestler....

In addition of being classed as one of the finest line coaches in the country today, Hickman has such a good nature and repertory of stories about his kinfolks in the hills of East Tennessee that he soon becomes one of the most popular guys on the campus wherever he goes....

Hickman, a prodigious stower-away of food, gives the impression on first sight that he is fat......A quarterback for the NYU Violets got that impression back in the early thirties when his team had a first down on Tennessee's 3-yard line....He decided that it would be a good idea to score over the "fat boy"....They tried four times to score over the "fat boy" and ended up on the 14-yard line....

Hickman played a great all around game that day, blocking a punt and scoring a touchdown....He was a sophomore at the time and the NYU game was his third game as a regular....Coach Bob Neyland was fearful that the future All American would develop a swelled head, and took it easy on preaising the big Johnson City boy....After the game Neyland went around congratulating the various players, starting with Gene McEver.... Finally he came to Hickman, who stood grinning expectanantly, waiting for the hearty handstake. Neyland barked out, "What was the matter with you today, Hickman?" Thus accomplishing the biggest deflation job since they let the air out of the Graf Zeppelin....

Arthur Daley of the New York Times says, "Yale might yet make a Yankee out of this delightful, unreconstructed Rebel......."We have our doubts about that, but Yale has definitely picked up some rotters in Tennessee....

NAS Agana Defeats First Brigade; Carlock, Devore Star With No-Hitters

The NAS Agana softballers ended the First Marine Brigade's hope for the Inter-Command championship yesterday as they downed the Marines, 4-2, at the Agana diamond.

"Pappy" Granger took the pitching honors as he scattered five hits and would have undoubtedly had a shutout if the Agana fielding hadn't fallen apart. On the other hand, Ed McClard, losing pitcher for the Brigade, set the pace in the last six innings by allowing only one hit. McClard allowed three singles and walked one, however, in the first inning to give Agana a two run lead. Each team committed four errors which proved to be one of the worst fielding days for both teams.

(NATS Asia-11 5th Service-0)

Bernard Carlock, ace hurler for NATS Asia, pitched his third no hit game of the season yesterday as he blanked the Fifth Service Leathernecks, 11-0, at the NATS diamond. Carlock is undoubtedly one of the Island's best pitchers and will be hard to beat in the current second round of the softball schedule.

(NSC-9 U.Sq. Nine-0)

In another no hit, no run affair, Jack Devore of NSC went to the mound yesterday and hurled his first no hit game of the season against the Utility Squadron Nine club.

Devore, like Carlock, has turned in some great pitching performances this past season.

(ComMar-2 NBRS-0)

"Iron Arm" Mike Simerly hurled another one hit ball game yesterday as he blanked the Naval Barracks-Receiving Station nine, 2-0, at the Grasshopper's diamond. It was Mike's ...th one hitter twirled this season.

In the ... softball games played yesterday, the NavCommSta club won their eighth victory of the season against seven defeats by downing the Triple "A" Marines, 3-2, in ten innings at the Triple "A" diamond.

The MAG 24 Marines won their 11th victory of the season against four defeats by blasting the lowly 103rd CB's, 14-2, at the CB diamond.

Cambridge Wins Boat Race on Thames River

LONDON, March 28 —(UP)— The light blue oarsmen of Cambridge University won an historic 50th victory today, defeating Oxford, by about six lengths in the rowing event.

The victory was achieved in record breaking time of 17 minutes 94th renewal of the world's oldest and 5 seconds, topping by 13 seconds the fastest run ever made over the four-mile 400-yard Thames River course.

Approximately 1,000,000 (M) persons, in gala holiday mood and attire, lined the banks of the famed river.

Cambridge's seasoned oarsmen surprised the multitude at the outset when they won the toss and chose to row the middlesex or north side of the stream.

In the past, the winner of the toss invariably rowed the surrey or south side because it gives them the inside position on the big bend of the Thames. However, the Cambridge crew decided today that prevailing wind conditions would adversley affect the crew on the surrey side for the first mile.

Crowd Parades Babe Ruth Upon New York Arrival

NEW YORK, March 28 —(UP)— Babe Ruth came back to the big town today, glowing with a Florida suntan and striding surely along the road back from illness.

The bronzed and beaming Bambino stepped off the "Florida Special" at Pennsylvania Station in the glare of photographer's flash bulbs and said in his hoarse voice that "I feel wonderful."

It was good news for the group of Ruth fans at trainside and the robust appearance of the once-mighty New York Yankee slugger bore out his words. The Ruth procession to his waiting automobile turned into a triumphal parade. Smiles of admiration were on the faces of the marchers instead of the worried looks when the Babe left for Florida in uncertain health on February 6.

He said he had gained about 10 pounds and that he had gotten plenty of rest which helped him rebuild the strength lost through a series of neck operations.

Ruth said he planned to remain here for about a month before going to Hollywood to help supervise a movie based on his life.

Pete Cooper Leads in Carolina Golf Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 28 —(UP)— Par-busting Pete Cooper, an "outsider" on the golf professionals' circuit, held a one-stroke lead with a 65 yesterday at the end of the second round of the $10,000 Charlotte Open tournament.

Cooper, a Ponte Vedra, Florida, pro who competes in only a few tourneys, racked up seven birdies and 11 pars Friday as he seized the lead from his more famed rivals. He went out on 33 and back in 32 in fine weather over the not-too-difficult Myes Park course.

In second place were Chick Harorert and Jimmy Thomson, a pair of swingers noted for long-ball hitting, each of whom had a 66.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 28 —(UP)— Rain postponed the the third round of the $10,000 Charlotte Open golf tournament today. The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow, tournament officials said.

Betty Johnson Bowls 207

MARBO — Miss Betty Johnson, who bowls with the MarBo Engineers in the Women's Bowling League, struck a neat 207 to lead women bowlers in the high scoring bracket during the past week.

S-Sgt. H. L. Gardner, 28th Bomb Squadron team number 1 from North Field, led the men's bracket with a 265 pinfall in a single game. Both bowlers are in line to receive individual awards if their scores hold up until the end of March.

Kentuckey Downs Louisville; Nuggets to Meet Oilers

NEW YORK, March 28 —(UP)— Kentucky's "Rupp Riders" using neutral Madison Square Garden to score a stinging 91 to 57 victory over their home-state rivals from the University of Louisville tonight advanced to the Olympic basketbatll semi-finals along with Baylor, the Phillips Oilers and the Denver Nuggets.

The wily Wildcats, coached by Adolph Rupp, and generally considered to be the best college team in the nation, now meet Baylor, the team they drubbed 58 to 42 in the N.C.A.A. finals, in what looms as an anti-climactic semi-finals game on Monday night. Baylor advanced earlier today with a 59 to 57 victory over New York University.

In the other semi-finals game, also anti-climactic, the National A.A.U. champion, Phillips Oilers from Bartlesville, Okla., tackle the Denver Nuggets, the team they defeated in the finals of their tournament at Denver.

Phillips moved up with a sadistic 74 to 32 victory over the Prospect Park National Y.M.C.A. champs from Brooklyn while Denver had to exert all of its energies to withstand a late drive by the Oakland, Calif., Bittners in winning, 57 to 55 in other first round games.

The Olympic Basketball Committee announced today that they will select five men from the AAU bracket finalists and five men from the college bracket finalist, along with two players from each bracket at large, to make up the U. S. Olympic basketball team. The head coach will be the coach of the winning team and his assistant will be the coach of the runner-up quintet.

NEW YORK, March 28 —(UP)— The Denver Nuggets, led by Vince Boryla's 21 points defeated the Oakland Bittners, 57 to 55, today to advance to the semi-finals of the U. S. Olympic basketball trials at Madison Square Garden.

In a performance as poised and as skilled as that of a professional team, the towering boys from the Rocky Mountains piled up a 11-point lead in the first half and then beat off a desperate closing rally by the Bittners for their triumph.

Although the Nuggets never were headed from the opening minute of play, the Bittners closed their lead to a single point twice within the final 20 minutes and lost a golden opportunity to tie the score with 14 seconds left to play when Johnny Higgins missed a lay-up shot. The triumph placed the Nuggets into Monday night's semi-finals against the Phillips Oilers.

Wolverines Take NCAA Swimming Crown From OSU

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 28 —(UP)— Michigan won the NCAA swimming championship from Ohio State tonight in the climax of a three-day meet that saw one world record and three intercollegiate meet records stattered.

The Wolverines, only team in the outstanding field to place in all 11 events, amassed 47 points. The defending-titlist Buckeyes made 41. Iowa collected 20 points for third place and Yale 14 for fourth.

Following were Northwestern 10, Stanford 8, La Salle and Purdue 7, Washington and Iowa State 4, Temple University 2 and Texas A and M, North Carolina and Southern California one each.

Top performance in the championships were turned in by sensational Joe Verdeur of La Salle, who unofficially broke his own world's record in the 200-yard breaststroke. Meet records also fell in the 150-yard backstroke and 220-yard free-style.

Michigan went into tonight's final events with 29 points, 11 more than Ohio State, its closest competitor in overall team balance and strength.

The Buckeyes challenged by sweeping the first three places in the three-meter diving for 13 points, the highest point total in one event amassed by a single team, but they only placed contestants in four other events.

Michigan's Bob Sohl trailed Verdeur, defending NCCA titlist. Keith Carter of Purdue was third, Walt Schmidt of Temple University fourth and Don De Forrest of Pennsylvania fifth.

Yankees Sell Wensloff

ST PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28 —(UP)— The New York Yankees today sold holdout pitcher Charley Wensloff to the Philadelphia Phillies for approximately $30,000 after getting waivers from the other American League clubs.

Wensloff, a promising younster before the war, came back from the military service and saw little activity because of a chronically ailing arm. He won 3 games and lost 1 last season. This spring he refused to report until granted a raise and when General Manager asked to be sold to some other George Weiss turned him down he major league club.

Greenberg Buys Stock

LOS ANGELES, March 28 —(UP)— Slugging Hank Greenberg has become the second largest stockholder of the Cleveland Indians, President Bill Veeck announced today.

"I will remain in condition to play," Greenberg said, "but I hope that it won't be necessary. I will play only if injuries to our other first basemen or some other circumstances dictate."

Veeck said Greenberg's stock purchase was made possible when Bob Goldstein of New York and Sid Schiff of Chicago agreed to give up part of their holdings.

Greenberg will carry the title of vice president, the same one held by Harry Grabiner, who with Veeck engineered the purchase of the Indians in 1946, Veeck said. Veeck also rvealed that he himself owns the largest block of stock.

Marshall to Attend Conference of American Republics in Columbia

WASHINGTON, March 29 —(UP)— Secretary of State George C. Marshall left by plane tonight for a "very important" conference of the American republics at Bogota, Colombia.

He took off from Washington National Airport at 9:01 p. m. EST in an Air Transport Command C-54, after telling reporters that he expects "important results" from the inter-American meeting.

Marshall's party is scheduled to arrive in Bogota tomorrow afternoon. The secretary of state heads a 90-member U. S. delegation to the meeting, officially known as the ninth international conference of American states. It is the first such meeting since 1938.

William McChesney Martin, Jr., chairman of the export-import bank, accompanied Marshall. Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman was to join the delegation later.

"This is a very important conference and I think it will bring important results," Marshall said as he prepared to board the plane.

Marshall is expected to try to weld a solid hemisphere front against Russian expansion.

The conference will be primarily interested in reorganization of the Pan American system, economic aid to Latin America, creation of a pact for peaceful settlement of disputes, and organization of a permanent inter-American defense treaty signed at Rio De Janerio last September.

But Marshall's paramount interest is in Europe where the "cold war" with Russia will reach a climax this month in Italy, and in the Middle East where only six weeks remain before the British pull out of Palestine.

UN Commission to Kill Russia's Plan For Atomic Control

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 29 —(UP)— The American-led majority of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission prepared tonight to reject completely Russia's year-old proposals for international atomic control.

The 11 nations of the commission called a meeting of their working committee for tomorrow. The majority, officials reported, hope to end all discussion of the often-criticized Russian proposals for a world atomic control agency which would have limited powers of inspection.

The United States and eight other commission members already have served notice during months of discussion of Moscow's proposals that they do not consider them an adequate basis for world atomic security.

The atomic debate will open a busy week at UN headquarters. On Tuesday the Security Council resumes the tangled Palestine debate, and on Wednesday it reopens the case of Czechoslovakia.

106 Casualties in Palestine Battle

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 29 —(UP)— Official and unofficial reports said tonight that at least 106 Jews and Arabs were killed, and probably many more wounded, in Easter week-end violence which extended from southern Palestine to the far north.

Forty-two of the killed were Jews ambushed by Arabs on the coastal highway between Haifa and ancient Tyre at a point about six miles south of the Lebanon frontier. Six Arabs were killed.

At least 18 Jews and three Arabs were killed in a 31-hour battle, probably the most serious since the start of the Palestine crisis, in the Solomon's Pool area about three miles south of Holy Bethlehem. Arabs attacked a road convoy and besieged the survivors.

The battle ended only late today when the British army arranged a truce and the 180 blood-spattered, thirst-tortured and dazed Jewish survivors, including women members of the Haganah organization were escorted to Jerusalem.

Russia Protests

TEHRAN, Iran, March 29 —(UP) Russia has protested anew against United States military activity in Iran and has denounced as "nonsense" reports of Russian troop activity on the Iranian frontier, it was announced today.

At the same time the note said reports of Russian interference in Iranian internal affairs were "an injurious fairy tale" and "provocative fabrications."

Irans course in the current exchange of charges and denials, the Russian note added, is "contrary to good neighbor relations as provided in the Iranian-Russian treaty of Feb. 26."

The Russian note was published today in the bulletin of the Soviet Embassy.

Yugoslav Troops Move Into Treiste

ROME, March 29 —(UP)— Five thousand Yugoslav troop reinforcements have been moved into the Yugoslav occupied zone of Trieste free territory and 300 camouflaged, Russian-made tanks have been concentrated at a point near the border, nine miles northeast of Trieste, the usually reliable independent newspaper II Momento said today.

II Momento said that, during the past few days, 3,000 Yugoslav troops were brought into the Hamlets of Veterneglio and Castelve here and 2,000 into the town of Buie, all in the southern Yugoslav-controlled zone of the free state. Whole families were evicted from their homes to provide lodging for the troops, the report said.

The newspaper said other troop reinforcements had been reported in the gulf of Trieste towns of Capodistria and Isola and described a "hectic war phychosis" there. The report was available tonight from II Momento's Monday edition.

Meanwhile, all was quiet in Italy where leftists and rightists alike took advantage of the Easter holiday to rest for the last three weeks of the crucial campaign which will culminate in a general election April 18.

Allied Headquarters Call In Defaced Money

TOKYO, March 29 —(UP)— Allied headquarters today called in all American occupation money which has been defaced by the addition of political slogans both for and against the presidential candidacy of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

A headquarters spokesman said the slogans, which have appeared on military currency recently, were "mostly pro-MacArthur."

The order specifically called in any currency "defaced in violation of the law with slogans, advertising matter or any other notices."

It cited the defacing of currency as a violation of the United States criminal code.

GOP Leader Objects

WASHINGTON, March 29 —(UP) A key Republican charged today that the administration has given Congress only "piecemeal approaches" instead of an overall defense plan in urging Universal Military Training and the draft. Chairman Eugene D. Millikin, (R-Colo.), of the Senate Finance Committee said it is "very disquieting" that the administration has not presented a comprehensive plan for "what they call the critical world situation."

Weather Forecast

Partly cloudy with widely scattered showers. Wind moderate easterly, with strong gusts.

Yesterday's temperature: Max. 84. Min. 76.

Yesterday's rainfall: .04 inches.

Rainfall for month: 0.44 inches.

Groundwork Set For Eniwetok A-Bomb Test

WASHINGTON, March 29 —(UP) Everything is set for the first atomic bomb test at Eniwetok, it was believed here today.

Officials aren't saying when the test will take place. They won't even give assurance that it hasn't already happened.

The best indications, however, appeared to be that the first test at the new Western Pacific proving ground is still weeks away.

May be Underwater Test

Unofficial sources understood that the first atomic blast at Eniwetok Atoll will be an underwater explosion at 2,000 feet to a mile below the ocean surface.

Unless present security plans are changed, the results will be kept secret from everybody except the Atomic Energy Commission, the military, and the House-Senate Atomic Committee.

Speculation that a report of some kind might be made public after the test could not be confirmed. It had been conjectured that a descriptive report, lacking any scientific data, might be issued as part of this country's efforts to convince Russia it is building up it military muscle.

Several thousand men have been building test facilities at Eniwetok since last fall. The project "is in good shape," it was learned.

From an underwater test the military hopes to get data it failed to get at the Bikini bomb test in the summer of 1946.

Chiang Kai-shek Ousts Kuomintang Delegate

NANKING, March 29 —(UP)— Disgruntled Kuomintang independent delegates ousted from China's national assembly by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek threatened violence tonight on the eve of the election of the nation's first Democratic president.

Capping a long-smouldering political feud, the independent delegates said they might attempt to force their way enmasse into the assembly's opening sessions tomorrow.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek yesterday ordered them to yield their assembly seats to minority party representatives. Fifteen of the displaced delegates promptly went on a strike, others protested to government officials and all agreed to storm the assembly hall if possible and seize their seats.

Chiang's order, "to preserve party discipline," reversed an earlier decision in which he had asked the Kuomintang regular candidates who had lost to the independents to give up their places at the meeting.

Informed sources said the Generalissimo acted only after the independent Kuomintang party members had refused to meet with him. He had hoped to persuade some of them to voluntarily bow out of the assembly picture, so that he could make a face-saving gesture to the minority group. The refusal forced him to take what seemed the lesser of two evils, the sources said.

Chiang said "it should be realized that although an election is a means for voters to express their will, discipline must be preserved by members of the revolutionary party. This order reflects the collective will of the Kuomintang of China.'

FBI Moves in As Coal Strike Comes to Head

WASHINGTON, March 29 —(UP) FBI Agents have been ordered into the coalfields, it was disclosed today on the eve of a possible new showdown between John L. Lewis and the federal government.

The agents were sent into the coalfields to see that no federal law violations are involved in the two week old soft coal strike.

While the FBI was officially silent, it was believed the agents might also be building up evidence to show that the work stoppage is a strike under the Taft-Hartley Act. Since Lewis has not officially called a strike, such evidence might be necessary to obtain an injunction to halt the walkout.

The new showdown between Lewis, head of the striking United Mine Workers, and the administration is set for 10 a.m. tomorrow. Lewis has been given until then to say whether he will voluntarily appear to tell President Truman's special fact-finding board his side of the pension dispute that has idled most mines since March 15.

Should Lewis refuse to appear on his own accord, the board has made it clear it will subpoena the mine chieftain for its 2 p.m. public hearing tomorrow. The order is enforceable in the federal courts. Failure to obey a court order would subject Lewis to contempt proceedings, punishable by fines and a jail sentence.

Lewis came off second best in his last tangle with President Truman a year ago. Then he and his union paid $710,000 in fines for failure to obey a court order to call off a strike in November, 1946.

Senators Warn of Russia in Holy Land

WASHINGTON, March 29 —(UP) Three Senators urged today that the United States help immediately to set up and arm a provisional government for a Jewish state in Palestine lest Russia move into the Holy Land and take over.

They said further that casualties in the bloody Holy Land fighting between Jews and Arabs may reach the "tens of thousands" unless the situation is stabilized.

Sens. Arthur Capper, (R-Kan.), Dennis Chavez, (D-N.M.), and Warren G. Manguson, (D-Wash.), made public a letter they wrote to Secretary of State George C. Marshall on March 19.

Worst Gale on Record Hits Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 29 —(UP)— The worst windstorm in 40 years swept across a wide area of central and southwestern Alaska today, damaging 16 airplanes at the municipal airport here and disrupting telephone and power lines throughout a large section of the territory.

The gale, originating in the Aleutians, swept in from the west at 60 miles per hour with gusts up to 75 miles. Winds of 100 miles per hour were recorded at Lake Minchumina, 150 miles southwest of here.

Forecaster Robert Snider reported the storm to be the worst in the 40 years weather records have been kept here. The previous high of 46 miles per hour was reached in 1946.

Sixteen planes, including a C-47 owned by Lavery Airlines and a C-46 operated by Wiens Airlines, were damaged at the Weeks Field municipal airport here as the gusts piled untied planes into one another and small planes into bigger ones. Damages was estimated in the thousands of dollars.

Washington

WASHINGTON—(UP)— Finland may not get 46 surplus American steam locomotives, although that country's bid was the highest. War Assets Administrator Jess Larson has clamped a 30-day stop order on the sale. The 46 are this country's entire stock of surplus locomotives. No reason was given for the stop order.

New York

NEW YORK, March 29—(UP)— The best dressed women in the Easter Parade today were the smug mannequins in Fifth Avenue shops, protected by plate glass windows from a cold 30-mile an hour wind.

The wind whipped up long full skirts and fluttered corsages. Women clutched at their bonnets and tried vainly to keep their hairdos in place. The mannequins inside kept that chic and well-groomed look as the benumbed paraders outside got red and blue as an Easter bouquet.

Police estimated that 1,000,000 people, either shivering or bundled into winter wraps, dutifully tripped along the avenue. A threatening gray sky and chilling wind coupled with temperatures in the upper 30's, cut the numbers below the record crowd that paraded last year.

Romania

ROMANIA—Romania is going to the polls today in a national election. And the Comunist-dominated government bloc is confident of winning 90 per cent of the 414 parliamentary seats. Election officials say half of the eight-million voters have cast their ballots.

In todays election, students are voting in their schools, workers are voting at their factories and civil servants in their offices.

No definite returns on the voting are expected before tomorrow.

The 88-year-old statesman—the last survivor of the big four who wrote the Versailles Treaty—calls himself the last objective observer left in Italy.

Orlando, is one of the few men qualified to forecast the result of election, political experts says, because the contest between Communists and non-Communists is so close.

Marine Commandant Lauds Publicity Club

NEW YORK CITY "You can count on the Marines—but only as long as the Marines can count on you and the American people," Marine Commandant Clifton B. Cates told the members of the Publicity Lodge of the Advertising Club at their 26th anniversary dinner held in New York City last Friday night.

In praising the lodge in their work and support in helping build the reserve, General Cates stated, "You have helped not only in a general way, but through your generous contribution of services, advertising space and radio time, you have brought us real live prospects which we followed up." The Publicity Lodge has the distinction of being the only Masonic lodge in which all its members are engaged in some phase of advertising or publicity.

Speaking of the corps, Commandant Cates declared, "I am confident today that our state of readiness is high. I can report also that our proportion of ready forces within our overall strength is high." Six out of every ten Marines on active service are today assigned to the Fleet Marine Force, or to armed naval vessels, or Navy shore activities. Approximately 50 per cent of our whole strength is in our ready combat units—the Fleet Marine Force,"

House Sidetracks Odd Music Bills

Experts to Discuss Anti Polio Campaign

NEW YORK —(UP)— The world's top scientists in the fight against infantile paralysis will meet here in July.

It will be the first international conference on this disease that in recent years has been breaking out in epidemic proportions throughout the world. The information exchanged during the meeting is expected to help all countries fight the disease.

Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has appointed ten medical and research authorities as presiding officers for the plenary session of the conference.

Panels to Help.

Each of the presiding officer's he said, will be assisted by a panel composed of international authorities who have done special work on particular phases of the problem.

Summaries of the poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) situation in other countries will be presented by official government delegates who have been invited from more than 60 nations. In addition, some 90 other international medical and scientific authorities will participate in the program.

Must Work on Vast Scale

Dr. Van Riper reports that the "work must be done on an international scale to reach a higher degree of comparabiliy of all problems presented by the disease, its treatment and research.

"Collection of local detailed epidemiological and immunological studies from all parts of the world and co-relation of such studies have never been accomplished on the necessary scale before," he said.

"It is planned that this conference will serve as a means of expediting distribution of vital knowledge on a world-wide basis."

New Jet Engine Low Fuel Consumer

BURBANK, Cal. —(UP)— Development of a powerful new jet engine which may double the flying range of high-speed jet planes was announced last week.

Lockheed Aircraft, which designed the engine, said it's comparatively low fuel consumption should make possible the world's first long-range jet air force for policing or combat operations.

Tests Incomplete

High fuel consumption so far has limited the range of jet planes to little more than half that of conventional aircraft.

The engine has not yet been tested in a plane. The Air Force had no comment on Lockheed's belief that it would put jet fighters and bombers in the range class of P-51 Mustangs and B-29 Superforts.

The engine will be tested and developed by the Wright Aeronautical Corp.

"It packs the power of a diesel railroad engine into a package weighing less than one of the locomotive's drive wheels," Lockheed Engineer Hall Hibbard said. He said it turns up 8,000 horsepower and offers "spectacularly" low fuel consumption compared, to other jet units.

PETALUMA, Cal.—(UP)—Laszlo Varga, 18-year-old Hungarian war refugee and former inmate of a mental hospital; Saturday was arrested as the suspected sex-slayer of the attractive 22-year-old wife of a Wells, Nev., minister.

Varga, after hours of questioning by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and local police, steadfastly denied he had tied Mrs. Billie Rahe Morning to her bed, raped her and then beaten her to death with a rolling pin. He denied he ever had been in the tiny desert town in eastern Nevada.

Arrested Saturday

He was arrested Saturday by three Petaluma policemen shortly after he climbed off a San Francisco Greyhound Bus and walked up Main street toward U. S. Highway 101.

Varga had been sought in four western states ever since the brutal murder was discovered by Morning when he rturned home early Tuesday. Varga was identified by Eureka, Calif., authorities as a youth who came to the U. S. as a displaced person in 1946 and had been sent to a Ysilanti, Mich., insane asylum because he was unable to "adjust to normal living."

'Pre-Fire Planning' Cuts Losses

by LARRY ANDERSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

SEATTLE —(UP)— Seattle firmen don't sit around in their suspenders and plav pinocle between fires.

Firemen here work a full eight-hour shift, even if not a single alarm is sounded.

They spend time between fires planning how to fight fires. Not just any fire, but fires that might break out in specific buildings throughout the city.

Fire Chief William Fitzgerald in 1946 began what he calls a "pre-fire planning" system. It is believed to be exclusive with the Seattle Fire Department.

Reports Detailed

The system means all fire companies not actively fighting a fire, maintaining equipment or drilling are out inspecting buildings and laying plans on how a fire would be fought in the structure. Homes are not inspected.

After each inspection, which takes a full shift of 28 men for an average-sized building, a detailed, 15-page report is made. It tells, among many other things, where the nearest fire outlets are to be found, location of fire escapes and the order in which companies should arrive at the scene. Also, it contains a floor plan drawn by the firemen.

However, this dosen't end the planning. The companies return to each building at intervals to familiarize themselves with the layout. Also, to checks any saftey regulations which they may have suggested to the owner.

Fire Losses Low

Chief Fitzgerald says the entire system is made possible by one thing—radio.

"Without radio our men would have to stay in quarters when not fighting a fire to be in contact with headquarters at all times," the chief says. "We now have radios in all our main equipmtnt."

Fitzgerald credits "pre-fire planning" for the astounding low fire loss in Seattle.

"The year we started the plan our loss was 70 per cent below.

Morale on Upward Trend at Northwest

HQ. 46th FIGHTER WING—Colonel R. W. Puryear, commanding officer of the 46th Fighter Wing at Northwest Air Base, announced recently that there has not been a criminal offense committed here since New Year's Eve.

This is the longest period of time in the past eighteen months that there has been a steady decline in court martials at Northwest Air Base.

Having had only one special court martial and four summary court martials during the year of 1948 definitely indicates that morale is on the upward trend, according to Major Alfred J. Montrone, Northwest Air Base legal officer.

Groaner Prefers 'Just Plain Cooking'

by Patricia Clary
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (UP) — Bing Crosby, easy-going at the dinner table as everywhere, loves "just plain cooking" and never interferes in the kitchen.

"He never complains" said his former cook, Laverne Keesee. "He's a good eater, and he likes most anything that's set before him."

Miss Keesee told about the gastronomical side of The Groaner while he gulped down a snack in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthurs Court."

"I'd say his favorite dish is chocolate cake," his cook said. "I never saw a man enjoy chocolate cake more than he does."

Likes Wild Fowl

Bing likes wild fowl, and a duck or pheasant dinner is a standard occasion when he gets home from a hunting trip.

"He's also fond of steaks, and he likes his well done," said Miss Keesee, who has been cooking since she was 12 and looks as though she enjoys her own products.

Crosby starts the day with a hearty breakfast, she said. He likes to vary the menu with waffles, pancakes, then cinnamon rolls or blazed doughnuts with his eggs and coffee.

"He's the blessedest guy I ever worked for," she said.

Temple, Counterpart Have Phone Talk

TOKYO —(UP)— Shirley Temple and movie star Hideko Takamine—Miss Temple's Japanese equivalent—held an eight-minute transoceanic telephone conversation recently in a publicity stunt sponsored by the newspaper Mainichi.

Hollywood's Miss Temple paid the bill, however. It was $36.

Through Marsaro Fujimoto, former interpreter for Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, 24-year-old Takamine and Shirley discussed the new Temple baby, their latest picture and the new look. Neither liked it. Shirley said she would like to visit Japan but not for two years. Her baby comes first.

Takamine, who made her debut in Japanese movies when she was five years old, told Shirley that her picture, "The Flowers Bloom," will be exported to America.

Publicity Firm Breaks With American Tobacco

NEW YORK—(UP)—The advertising firm of Foote, Cone and Belding announced Saturday that it has voluntarily dropped the $12,000,000-a-year account of the American Tobacco Company because of fundamental disagreements on advertising policies.

George Washington Hill, Jr., who with his late father made "Lucky Strike" a household term, resigned as vice-president and advertising head of American Tobacco five days ago.

The team of Hill junior and senior had pushed Lucky Strike to the number one spot in the cigaret field with their sledge-hammer advertising techniques which employed chanting tobacco auctioneers, cries of "LSMFT" and "so Round, So Firm, So Fully Packed."

Over The Joepot

by Bill Jury

GOOD MORNING .... When Gus Lesnevich disposed of Challenger Billy Fox with the quickest knockout in light-heavyweight title history recently, it started more than a few whispers circulating around the cauliflower circuit.

It wasn't so much the fact that Fox was layed away in the record time of 1:58 of the first round, but Blackjack Billy came into the ring that night with a string of 50 kayos in 51 fights behind him. That's a lot of knockouts and one would think this fellow Fox was something of a golden boy of the ring. But after what Gus did to him people aren't so sure.

It hinted that Fox might have had outside help in preparing that impressive record.

Something of this nature happened to Primo Carnera. Carnera was a freakish-looking hulk of a man. An import from Italy, Carnera had shoulders like a giant and a head that was shaped like Mt. Vesuvius. But, unfortunately, he was the possesser of a glass jaw and a punch as soft and downy as a feather. Few people were aware of his weaknesses though, and one day one of the more active mobs moved in on Carnera's manager and took over. When they realized the Italian wasn't as formidable as he looked, they covered up these details with fixed fights and steered Carnera to the heavyweight championship of the world. To be sure the big guy would reach the pinnacle of the fight game, the fixers had to be certain he didn't lose any fights. Sometimes it wasn't easy.

Often, as Ace Sports Writer Paul Gallico once wrote, Carnera's opponent would be reminded not to touch that glass jaw. If he seemed reluctant he was directed to notice what the little man in the second row had under his coat, and also what calibre it was.

We don't mean to imply that Blackjack was following in the large pigeon-toed footsteps of Carnera. We understand all that has gone out with the low-slung, black touring cars and bootleg beer. The old days are over. The underground has moved farther underground and fixes are pulled off with more finesse and less color nowdays.

But, 50 consecutive knockouts!

KNEE PLAGUES MARION

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 29—(UP) X-rays today failed to reveal just what is wrong with Shortstop Marty Marion's knee, but St. Louis Cardinal fans were not so worried about details as they were at the fear of the National League pennant slipping away.

The defensive heart of the Cardinal team re-injured the knee he originally hurt eight years ago yesterday during a pre-game warmup session.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 29 — Pitcher Johnny Beazley of the Boston Braves wasn't so sure today just what his latest victory meant.

Montana Soph Takes PCC Scoring Honors

LOS ANGELES, March 29 —(UP) Sophomore Bob Cope of Montana State University nosed out Washington's Jack Nichols for high scoring honors in the 1947-48 Pacific Coast Conference basketball season, the conference commissioner's office reported today.

Cope averaged nearly 16 points per game during the Grizzlies' 32-game season to tally 509 points —just two more than Nichols Nichol's 507 points were made over a 34 game schedule.

Montana copped the team high scoring average with 60.7 followed by Washington at 58.2 and Oregon at 58.0. However, California topped the won-lost column with the league's best of 25-9.

Southern California nosed out Stanford for defensive honors, 44.9 to 45.0.

Harbert Takes Open

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 29 — (UP)— Chick Harbert of Detroit had to battle the wind and cold today as he put together a 70 and 71 to take first place in the $10,000 Charlotte Open golf tournament with a 273 for the 54 holes.

Harbert couldn't duplicate his feat of tallying identical 66's in the first two rounds of the tourney, but he did manage to maintain his one-stroke lead over the field.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist who won this tournament last year, finished second today with a 274. Lawson Little of Cleveland, O., who was second at the halfway mark, eased back into third in the final tabulation with a 276.

Oddsmaker Picks Yanks, Sox In AL; Cards in NL

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 29 —(UP)— James J. Carroll, nationally known oddsmaker, offering his first line on the 1948 pennant races today installed the world champion New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox as co-favorites in the American League and the St. Louis Cardinals as top teams in the National.

Carroll made both the Yankees and the Red Sox odds-on at 5 to 6 indicating the general feeling that these clubs will make a two-team race in the American.

In the National, he made last year's thoroughly reshuffled Brooklyn Dodgers the third choice at 3 to 1, putting the Cardinals on top at 8 to 5 and the Boston Braves next at 2 to 1.

The veteran price maker emphasized that the odds were made on the basis of conditions as they now exist and that fluctuations could be expected on injuries, trades or failure of key players to come up to expectations in late spring drills.

The complete line on both leagues:

American League
New York,	5 to 6
Boston,	5 to 6
Detroit,	8 to 1
Cleveland,	20 to 1
Philadelphia,	25 to 1
Washington,	40 to 1
Chicago,	100 to 1
St. Louis,	100 to 1.
National
St. Louis,	8 to 5
Boston,	2 to 1
Brooklyn,	3 to 1
New York,	5 to 1
Pittsburgh,	15 to 1
Cincinnati,	20 to 1
Chicago,	20 to 1
Philadelphia,	40 to 1

Ramos Substituted In Benefit Card

Eddie Ramos has been substituted as an opponent for Young Parasio in the six round main event of next Friday's American Red Cross benefit card at the Paseo de Susana, Promoter Bill Luijan announced yesterday. Parasio had originally been slated to meet Melvin Sakata, but an accident befell Sakata over the weekend, and he will not be able to fight. In his last appearance in the Agana abbatoir, Ramos was penetrized by Gon Ladrazo in the fifth round.

In the front end of the two-ply main event, Young Teddy, 145, meets Sammy Diaz, also 145 pounds. Youthful Theodore is most widely known for his ten round stalemate with Benny Fallica last year.

The semifinal bout between Tuffy Salcido and Vicky Unpinco has been upped from four to five rounds, Unpinco, a Guamanian, weighs in at 140 as compared with Salcido's 138.

Abbey Masamoc, 112 pounds, has been chosen as the opponent for Jesse Aguon, a Toto Village product, in the four round special bout. In the two preliminaries, Greg Acevido meets Shorty Domingco in a four round bantamweight battle, and Alfredo Gutierrez and Slim Quezon are scheduled for three rounds.

Sometime during the evening, a comely miss, mysteriously named Lavern, will put on a hula dance, this being calculated to attract those not so interested in boxing. Tickets for the affair are on sale at the Guam Commercial store in Agana.

'Cats, Oilers Sure Thing

NEW YORK, March 29 —(UP)— The Olympic basketball tourney took on a decided this-is-where-I-came-in appearance tonight as the zero hour approached for the semifinal round tonight at Madison Square Garden.

In one bracket, the Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., meet the Denver Nuggets. The same two teams played in the finals of the National AAU tournament two weeks ago.

In the other bracket, Kentucky faces Baylor. These two met a week ago in the NCAA finals.

There was nothing in yesterday's wire-to-wire difference in the round which led anyone to believe that Phillips won't beat Denver as it did before, or that Kentucky won't beat Baylor again.

As far as the Nuggets were concerned, they were in less of a position tonight to beat the Oilers than in the first game.

Seals to Breeze In To PCL Flag --- Wood

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29 — (UP) The San Francisco Seals to win the pennant in a walkaway, in the most improved Pacific Coast competition since the professionals went away to the late war!

That's UP Sportswriter Hal Wood's prediction on the 46th annual race for the PCL gonfalon that gets under way tomorrow with the Seals at Sacramento; Los Angeles at San Diego; Portland at Oakland and Seattle at Hollywood.

Manager Lefty O'Doul has been getting first division results down through the years with a gang of misfits. Last year he lost the pennant in an extra-day playoff with the Angels.

This year O'Doul appears to have the balance to cake-walk the distance. He has his first air-tight infield in years; he has a fine catching staff and good pitching. Only the outfield may leave something to be desired.

Here's how he picks the 1948 finish, with last year's finish in brackets:

1—San Francisco Seals (2).
2—Oakland Acorns (4).
3—Sacramento Solons (7).
4—San Diego Padres (8).
5—Seattle Rainiers (5).
6—Lón Angeles Angels (1).
7—Portland Beavers (3).
8—Hollywood Stars (6)

What Is The Marshall Plan For European Recovery?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: GUAM NEWS does not have a political or international platform in its editorial policy. The reason behind this exploration of the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan) is solely to acquaint our readers with the vicissitudes of the program. Correspondent George Wilbur has done profound research on the program and has summarized articles written by United Press and the Washington Post. GUAM NEWS DOES NOT EDITORIALIZE. This is one of Wilbur's last pieces of writing as he will leave Guam and the Navy in about two weeks.)

by George W. Wilbur

A recent poll of one of the largest cities in the United States showed that 87 per cent of the people did not know what the Marshall Plan was... its aims, structure or meaning. That same poll indicated that 73 per cent of those interviewed thought a third world war inevitable.

These figures bring forth a somewhat shameful paradox. By the fact that both percentages are relatively similar, it can be assumed that those who do not know adequately of the Marshall Plan. In turnabout, the pitifully small percentage of that group who have taken it unto themselves to learn the facts behind our European Recovery Program (39%) have expressed faith that the prolonged devastation of war shall not spring from the loins of the present world crisis.

There is little doubt that the reversal of these figures—more concisely if 87 per cent of the American public knew what the Marshall Plan was instead of being ignorant of its structure, it would enhance the freedom of the individual today with a more tangible chance for survival.

MacArthur Bans Strike of 400,000 Japanese Workers

TOKYO, March 30 —(UP)— Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Allied Headquarters today banned a nationwide strike of 400,000 Japanese communication workers scheduled to begin Wednesday.

Japanese officials were sent a memorandum advising them that the strike would be subject to the provisions of a statement issued by MacArthur Jan. 31, 1947, in prohibiting a general strike at that time.

In banning the 1947 walkout, MacArthur said he would not permit "the use of so deadly a social weapon in the present impoverished and emaciated condition of Japan."

A citywide streetcar and bus strike against private transportation companies in the city is already in effect. Only transportation unaffected by the strike are government subway trains.

The Allied Headquarters memorandum was sent to Labor Minister Kanju Kato and Communications Minister Eiji Tomiyoshi as well as to officials of the communications union. James S. Killen, chief of headquarters' labor division, said it did not constitute an order to the Japanese government to prevent a strike.

Attention of all Guam Congress members is called to the regular monthly joint session being held Saturday, April 3, 1948 at 8:30 a.m.

Iran in Need Of Military Advisers

TEHRAN, Iran, March 30 —(UP) Iran needs foreign military advisers because Russian governments have threatened its national interests of a century, the government has told the Soviet Union in a defiant note, it was made known today.

The note protested vigorously against unfriendly Russian propaganda and warned that Russia's present attitude "can only lead to strained relations."

It was pointed out also, and possibly significantly, that Russia's anti-Iranian propaganda is in violation of a United Nations resolution of June 26, 1945.

Iran's note was one of a series exchanged with Russia during the last two months because of Russian objections to the presence of United States Army advisers in this country.

Ship Sinking Off Luzon

MANILA, March 30 —(UP)— The motorship Sirius flashed an SOS today asking "urgent assistance" near Gubat at the southeastern tip of Luzon in the Philippines.

After the distress message, which was intercepted by Globe Wireless, the vessel became silent. Officials of the North Camarin Luzon Company, owners of the 560-ton ship, seemed anxious when no further word was heard.

The company officials said the Sirius carried an emergency transmitter and generator aboard. A northeast wind was blowing in the area.

N.Y. Exchange Normal in Face Of Strike

NEW YORK, March 30 —(UP)— The New York stock exchange functioned normally today in the face of the first strike in its 156-year history. Trading sank to a two-week low and prices declined irregularly.

More than half of the exchange's 1,300 employes swelled picket lines around the building at Broad and Wall Streets, while exchange members and partners of member firms acted as page boys, quotation clerks and elevator operators. Tickers ran as usual and except for the fact that the tape carried hundreds of bid and asked quotations, it had every appearance of a routine market.

The curb exchange, also struck, reported everything normal. Cotton dealings were regular since that market has signed a new union contract. Cotton prices strengthened. Grains were irregularly lower. Bonds were easier.

First hour sales of 200,000 shares were at a pace of 1,000,000 shares for a full session. They lightened later.

Onetime Jap Minister Gives Final Plea

TOKYO, March 30 —(UP)— The war crimes defense, in its final plea for acquittal of Okinori Kaya, onetime finance minister in the Hideki Tojo cabinet, contended today that Kaya was loath to spend money on military purposes and strongly opposed war.

Michael Levin, Milwaukee, Wis., his American attorney, said Kaya "did everything in his power to avert war with the United States that a civilian member of the cabinet could do."

Levin told the Allied tribunal that Kaya, on the eve of the Pacific war, was one of the two high-ranking Japanese who obtained an unusual postponement in a high command decision calling for final preparations for war.

Kaya finally had to give in, Levin said, when he learned both Army and Navy commands were united on the need for such preparations.

Chinese Assembly Holding First Election

NANKING, March 30 —(UP)— A national assembly met today to choose, for the first time in China's history, a president and vice president under the new constitution.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek told 1,639 delegates who attended the opening session that the occasion marked the beginning of constitutional democracy in China and the culmination of 50 years of revolutionary activities initiated by Sun Yat-Sen.

It was expected that legal quorum of 2,031 delegates would be present within the next few days, allowing the assembly to go ahead with its business. The assembly is roughly comparable to the electoral college in the United States.

Lewis Ignores Subpoena Court Order is Next

WASHINGTON, March 30 —(UP)— John L. Lewis today ignored a subpoena to appear before a presidential fact-finding board looking into the strike of 400,000 coal miners.

The government immediately prepared to seek a federal court order to crack down on the United Mine Workers president and force him to honor the subpoena.

Lewis was headed for another court battle with the government. He came out second best a year ago when he and his union were fined $710,000.

The mine workers leader chose to pass up today's hearing into the strike on the grounds that neither he nor the union had violated the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Lewis was served with the subpoena this morning. It required him to appear before the board at 2 p. m. EST today. The subpoena was issued after he told the board as being biased.

While Lewis staged his boycott of the board hearing, the Commerce Department reported that virtually every industry throughout the United States would begin to feel the pinch of the coal strike next week.

Already railroads and steel mills have felt the bite. Steel rolling mills, the Commerce Department said, will be down to about 65 per cent of capacity next week.

L. F. Hofer, publisher of Industrial News Review is on Guam on a leg of a junket which will carry him to islands under the Trust Territory. Hofer will be out here about two months. House Backs Foreign Aid Ammendment

WASHINGTON, March 30 —(UP) The House Foreign Affairs Committee today backed an amendment that would empower the Foreign Aid Administrator to halt exports to non-Marshall Plan nations.

The amendment was proposed by Rep. Karl E. Mundt, (R-S.D.), who said it would give the administrator virtual veto power over the Secretary of Commerce.

The Secretary of Commerce now has power to control exports. The committee agreed to support the amendment at a meeting called before the House was scheduled to act on amendments to the "single package" Foreign Aid bill.

Meanwhile, the Senate approved unanimously $55,000,000 in emergency relief funds to tide over France and Austria until the European Recovery Plan becomes effective. The House has approved the appropriation bill. It now goes to President Truman for signature.

Marshall to Head Group For Waging 'Cold War'

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 30 —(UP)— U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall arrived today to take personal charge of American efforts to weld the Western Hemisphere into a "solid bloc for waging the "cold war" against Russia.

Marshall will head the 90-man U. S. delegation to the ninth Pan-American conference.

The delegation will include three cabinet secretaries—Marshall, Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman, and Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder. No previous Hemisphere conference has attracted such a concentration of high-level U.S. officials.

Marshall and Harriman, arriving together in a special Air Force plane, were greeted at Bogota airport by Colombian Foreign Minister Laureano Gomez.

After an official reception by a guard of honor; Marshall sped from the airport to the mansion of Colombian industrialist Ernesto Puyana, where he will live for the duration of his stay here.

Chinese Nationalists Prepare Offensive

SHANGHAI, March 30 —(UP)— A possible spring offensive against the isolated Manchurian outpost of Changchun was seen today with a report that 50,000 Communist troops were moving toward the Nationalist bastion.

The report came on the heels of more favorable news to the Nationalists. Communist Gen. Nieh Jung-chens forces were routed in inner Mongolia and were said to be retreating towards Hopei province.

Fighting in the Tatung area was continuing, with the Nationalists apparently doing a little better than holding their own.

The Nationalists reportedly took the initiative in all sectors of Gobar, where the Communists sought to use the government's rear corridor in inner Mongolia.

Jewish Air Force Bombs Jaffa Port

JERUSALEM, March 30 —(UP)— Three bombs, possibly dropped by the newly activated Jewish Air Force, fell on the Jaffa port area today, a British announcement said.

The announcement said the bombs fell on several buildings near the Freres School and the Greek Orthodox School. It was the third straight day in which aerial bombs had been employed in violence in the Holy Land.

The Syrian government reported that it had rushed 20 planes to the Arab forces so they could retaliate for the Jewish bombs of Saturday and Sunday at Solomons Pool.

The fresh outbreak of bombing came as the Jews launched an evacuation of women and children from the Montefiere quarter of Jerusalem.

Boeing to Reopen Plant

WICHITA, Kans., March 30 — (UP)— Two thousand persons lined up today for employment in Boeing's mammoth B-29 superfortress plant as the company announced plans for complete reactivation of the super bomber division "within six months."

Boeing officials said most of the persons applying today formerly worked either for Boeing or other aviation companies in Wichita.

L. M. Divinia, assistant general manager, said there was need for 1,000 technicians, mechanics and other workers, especially tool and die makers, aircraft inspectors and jig builders.

Supreme Court

The Supreme Court has agreed to rule on the constitutionality of of two important labor questions. The high court says it will consider the ban in the Taft-Hartley Law on political spendings by unions. Specifically, it will decide on the legality of the government's indictment of the C-I-O for endorsing a candidate in a special congressional election last summer. This is the first test case to reach the Supreme Court on any section of the new labor law.

The Supreme Court also will decide whether laws banning the closed shop in North Carolina and Arizona are constitutional.

Foreign Aid Bill

The six-billion 205-million-dollar foreign aid bill easily survived its first crucial test in the house. The house has rejected a proposal by Republican representative Ralph Gwinn of New York to kill the single-package bill. He would have substituted his own plan to provide 500-million dollars in worldwide direct relief to needy peoples and private industries.

Gwinn's amendment was the first effort to revise the measure.

Shipments to Europe

A congressional committee is moving to clamp down tighter export restrictions on shipments to eastern Europe.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee has backed an amendment giving the foreign aid administrator power to choke off exports to countries outside the Marshall Plan. The proposal—introduced by representative Karl Mundt of South Dakota—was suggested as an amendment to the so-called "single package" foreign aid bill. At the same time, the Senate has okayed a measure giving France and Austria 55-million dollars in emergency relief. The bill—already passed by the House—now goes to the President.

Insignia, Markings Change Under New System of Navy Rates

The rating of many Navy enlisted men will be changed April 2, 1948, when a general overhaul of the Navy's enlisted rating structure goes into effect. The new rating structure, which is to be used only in peacetime, consolidates 198 current ratings in 77 general service rates under 12 general categories.

In time of an emergency a more specialized service rating structure will be substituted for the peacetime structure. The present rating system will be shelved.

The broadening of duties under the new rate structure is shown in comparison of the number of rating groups in a single category. For example, 18 deck ratings are being replaced by four, and 46 administrative and clerical ratings are being replaced by 11.

The new rate structure also standardizes rate abbreviations, which will simplify administrative problems. Previously, abbreviations ranged from BMCBB-2 (boatswain's mate, construction battalion, boatswain second class) to (seaman second class). In the future all rate abbreviations will be composed of only two initials, with a suffix "C" designating a chief petty officer, or numerals designating other grades of petty officers.

The 12 rating groups under the new structure are: deck, ordnance, electronics, precision equipment, administrative and clerical, miscellaneous, engineering and hull, construction, aviation, medical, dental and steward.

Among the new ratings to be established in the peacetime structure will be underwater mechanic, personnel man, air controlman, engineman, and several new ratings in the construction group, such as surveyor, mechanic, driver, steelworker, builder, utilities man and construction electrician's mate.

Youths Swamp Nation's Recruiting Offices

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Recruiting offices have been swamped with business since President Truman asked Congress to revive the draft. But most of the callers are just asking questions—not signing up.

This trend was disclosed Monday in a United Press survey of major cities from coast to coast.

Mostly Inquires

With few exception, recruiting offices reported a "slight increase" in actual enlistments, and a big jump in the number of inquiries.

A large proportion of the callers are non-veterans in the 18 through 25 age group which Defense Secretary James Forrestal has asked Congress to draft. Some of these tell the recruiters bluntly that they are seeking information because "I'll volunteer, if I see they're going to draft me."

Several cities reported, however, that numerous inquires are coming from veterans of World War II.

Samoans Leaving Home Native Chief Complains

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—"I'm so happy in the jungle, I refuse to go," sings the native in the popular song.

But that's not what they sing in the three-island Manua group in American Samoa, High Chief Tuerwe-Faia-Oga complained recently.

"Our young people are leaving the islands for education and most of them are not coming back," said the 50-year-old chief, who arrived here Saturday by Pan-American clipper. "I don't know what is going to happen in the future."

The slender, graying Samoan, who toured American theaters in a vaudeville act, is here to discuss a manuscript with a local writer "Many Samoan youths first got the taste of travel when they joined the U S. Marines during the war," said the chief, who first came to this country at the age of 17 to get and education. "Now many of them have gone to Honolulu and the United States for good, and some have become American citizens."

Egg Hunt Thrills Harmon Kiddies

HARMON AIR FORCE BASE — Mr. Easter Bunny was having a wonderful time with the Harmon Field children, and it all began when the Chapel in the Garden became the Easter Bunny's playground last Saturday.

In colorful array of print dresses and playsuits all the little boys and girls present were thrilled to know that the Easter Bunny had left many eggs for them, but that they would have to find them.

What they didn't know was that daddy and mommy were carrying the Easter Bunny's extra eggs in a combined secret operation and as soon as a lucky tot would find an egg, which was in plain sight, Mr. Bunny would lay another one in its place. Of course it goes without saying that he finally stopped laying eggs as he was completely worn out.

A palm tree setting on smooth green grass with an abundance of multi-colored eggs was the ideal situation for a happy afternoon of egg hunting. Now this is the spot in our story where the Easter Bunny should leave us, but he doesn't just yet. Realizing that his little friends and his big friends too, would be hungry after such strenuous activities, our hero left a big variety of refreshments for one and all.

You may wonder where the Easter Bunny got the information that there was to be an egg hunt here. Capt. William Rone, 20th Air Force chaplain, and all the mommies and daddies sent for him so that the children of Harmon Field would have a happy Easter.

"GEE, LOOK WHAT I FOUND!" exclaims young John A. O'Brien, Jr. as he holds an egg he just found during the Easter egg hunt at Harmon Field's Chapel in the Garden. The affair was sponsored by Mr. F. Bunny and his numerous parent assistants. (U. S. Air Force Photo)

Letters to The Editor

Editor:

Please publish the following. Many patrons of McNair Theater, both servicemen and civilians, will be grateful to the press:

"In one of the pathways leading to theater, there lay upon the ground and obstruction, to wit, a log. A big log! That log has lain there for many months now. And many people have had to straddle, jump, fall and crawl over it for many movies. Will the management please have it moved from its present location?

"If it is a memorial of some kind, move it anyway, please. And if it is absolutely essential to have something in that pathway of which I write, please fill those large water holes at the entrance of that pathway with gravel."

Very Truly Yours,
Anonymous

Artist Charges Modern Art Plot To Drive Entire World Insane

HOLLYWOOD,—(UP)—An artist charged recently that modern art is a vicious plot to drive the world insane.

T. H. Robs John-Gibbings said the modern art cult aimed to destroy "bourgeois civilization" and ruin the world its way.

"People will begin to doubt the reality of actual life," he said, "if they see enough surrealist paintings of three eyes and legs in the head.

Won't Know Reality

"They won't know which is the dream world--what they see in modern art or what they see around them."

Robs John-Gibbings, an interior decorator and furniture designer in New York, said the whole thing started with Marinetti, who established futurism, a frankly revolutionary school of painting in Italy in 1910. He said the school planned to set up a "government of experts"—the artists themselves.

"They looked for a way to break down bourgeois civilization and found it in art," he said. "Until they arrived, our civilization was based on rationality."

Since they arrived, he said, they've been furiously smearing paint into pancake-like clocks, heads with noses where the eyes should be, arms and legs floating here and there and undecipherable assortments of triangles.

Typical of the movement, Robs John-Gibbings said, is cubist Marcel Duchamp, who painted Mona Lisa with a mustache.

"The idea is to take the Mona Lisa, the Blue Boy and other paintings people have come to love and revere and make them absurd," he said.

Extends Into Homes

He added that the plot to run the world had extended even to people's homes.

"The original modernists were functional, trying to make the building fit the human use," he said. "But some of them now are saying—yes, some American architects are saying this—that the individual doesn't matter; the architecture should represent the state."

BPM Completes Rehabilitation of Fuel Storage Tanks

By Tom Richards

The rehabilitation of bomb blasted or corroded fuel storage tanks and the erection of new tanks on Guam has been a major undertaking. It has been a hard rough-tough job and the Brown—Pacific—Maxon orgainzation NOW—13931, tank crew who has completed this work is certainly to be commended on its splendid workmanship and efficiency.

The job assigned to the Tank Erection Department was especially rugged not only because of the rough and hard-to-get-at tank sites but also because much of the work had to be done with used materials. Some of the tanks listed here have been erected and knocked down several times and the iron was old, rusted, and distorted.

Idea of Size

Some idea can be had of the size of the job by the following list of materials and work involved in the erection of just one tank of 4,440,000-gallon capacity:

Steel	295,000 lbs.
Welds	3,800 L. F.
Welding Rod	8,000 lbs.
Hot Rivets	22,640
Cold Rivets	6,400
Work-Hour Units	8,320
Dimensions:
Diameter, I. D.	117' 8¼"
Height	47' 3 5-8"

This particluar tank was fabricated in 1918 and first erected in 1919; this is the fourth time it has been erected. When Blackie's men finished erecting the tank this time it looked like, and is, just as sturdy as a brand new tank.

Just Routine

Doing their share of jobs like the above is just routine for the Brown-Pacific-Maxon tank crew: the tougher they come the better they like it.

Blackie Acosta was the superintendent, Dutch Holford the general foreman, and George Chambers and Les Greer the foremen.

The Grading and Paving Department, under the supervision of C. S. Thaxton, excavated the tank sites and built the access roads.

The men, fighting mud and jungle in all kinds of weather, have had to walk narrow scaffolding high in the air where a slip would mean instant death. The job was completed with an excellent Safety record which depicts the kind of cooperation that Blackie's men have given the Brown-Pacific-Maxon Safety Department.

NO SWIMMING POOL IS THIS—The immensity of this fuel storage tank deep in the jungle gives one an inkling of just what work went into the BPM project of rehabilitating the old ones, or building new ones from the ground up. (Photo by Carey)

'TWEREN'T EASY MA!—No, fighting mud and jungle in all kinds of weather, having to walk narrow scaffolding high in the air, etc. makes the job these BPM workers do doubly appreciated. (Photo by Carey)

Masaryk's Death Ups Freedom's Price

FURTHIMWALD, Germany —(UP)— Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk's death has raised the price of freedom in this hilly village on the German-Czechoslovakia border, American officers in charge of the frontier area said recently.

There was a time, they said, when Germans smuggled Czechs into the American zone for a pack of cigarettes.

Whiskey Bribe

It cost more for Austrians who wanted to get to American occupied Germany. One Austrian said he bribed a Russian sentry on the Austro-Czechoslovakia border with a bottle of whiskey, made his way across Czechoslovakia and then into the United States zone here.

An American officer said refugees told him visas could be obtained in Prague for 10,000 crowns—$200 at the official rate.

These price tags were more or less set and about 60 Czechs took advantage of them every day, he said. After Masaryk's death, however, border security was tightened and illegal crossings dropped at least 50 per cent.

Tremendous Influx

A U. S. constabulary platoon which patrols the 50-mile border has taken about 100 Czechoslovak refugees, but many others have infiltrated deep into the American zone before being caught or turning themselves in. At least 650 have entered the zone from Czechoslovakia in recent weeks, U. S. headquarters said.

American patrols reported that Czech security police moved up to the border a few days before the Communists seized power, then withdrew a few miles. They were seen on several occasions patrolling the wooded borderland with police dogs.

None for 'Uncle Joe'

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Kazimir Skirvainis, 63, wanted a sister in Lithuania to share in his $10,000 estate, but he wanted to make sure that none of it went to "Uncle Joe Stalin."

Skirvainis' will, filed for probate here, directed that his estate be divided between his sister, Anna, in Lithuania, and a brother and another sister here. However, the will provided that if Anna "resides within any political subdivision of Soviet Russia," the estate would be divided between the brother and sister living here.

Charles C. Cheleden, attorney and executor, said that "so far as we have been able to ascertain, the sister, if alive, is now in Lithuania and under Russian control." He added that it would be up to the orphans court here to decide whether any of the money would go to her.

Marshall Plan Offers Hope to a World in Chaos

A Layman's View of the Marshall Plan

Many Americans are individualists, not easily led by the collar. In fashions, music or women....yes, but not foreign policy. What they know nothing of, they will hesitate to support. In compliance with this, are we to face the lack of support by 87 per cent of the American public in carrying out the urgency of the Marshall Plan? What will be it's chances of success under such internal pressure brought about by the ignorance of the mass?

The situation is far too critical to take risks.

If the Marshall Plan is to succeed, it will need the direct support of every American....of every individual on this strife-torn globe today who cherishes his freedom

Must Create an Impact

Before we can hope to attain this support we must show, simply and directly, how each individual can be, and will be, affected by the outcome of the current world crisis. Out of sheer necessity we must creat an impact with every word. Americans must be jarred realistically free from their complacent belief that democracy will always triumph regardless of odds. As each day progresses, the channels of action in the far corners of the globe have a more potential effect on Mr. John Q. Public ....but without Mr. Public realizing it. To survive as an individual, however, he must be made to see how the correlating results of every one of these distant efforts may someday suddenly jar him from his pedestal and engulf with sickening rapidity those ideals he thought impregnable.

To merely state that the Marshall Plan is the only hope left for the survival of freedom is not enough. The American public must know them. Though many people imagine the present world crisis as hopelessly intricate and beyond a layman's powers of conception, it is not. Actually the strategy on both sides is abnormally clear and simple. And similarly, our course of action is clearly defined.

Communism is moving towards the domination of the European continent. The iron curtain has already descended with paralyzing force on Eastern Europe, embracing Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Romania, and more recently, Czechoslovakia. The claws of the Red Bear are now busily scratching on the portals of Western Europe. Mainly Finland, Italy and France.

Not by war has she gained these satellites, but by sheer political pressure wrought in the solar plexus of countries facing starvation and moral and political degeneration. Man can fight mechanical oppression, but he finds himself powerless when moral agression seeps slowly and concretely into the foundation of his state, his law enforcement, educational structure, and in some instances, even his religion.

Opposition in The West

The Communists are meeting opposition in Western Europe. Though internally torn by political-strife, such large countries at Italy and France have not yet fallen in the path of Communistic ideology. But they are weakening fast. Their land lays black and barren, reminding of the last battleground. Acts of God such as the hard winter of 10-46-47, spring floods and following summer drought have brought the whole of Western Europe to her knees in economic chaos.

A series of vicious circles have further hindered any hope for resurrection from this state. For example, she needs fertilizer desperately. Without it she cannot produce sufficient food to feed her workers, who in turn cannot expend enough energy to revitalize the backbone industries—and without these industries, no fertilizer can be manufactured. Other examples are no fuels to run the machinery to produce fuel. No grain to feed the workers who would own half of the cognizable world and its resources, plus many that the United States is dependent on in foreign countries. Who could possibly parade fearlessness in the face of such a formidable Goliath?

Clearly then, you must see how the present plight of Western Europe holds the future of every individual in tedious balance.

Take a local example. What would happen to Guam if the world became immersed in another military struggle? Our present rehabilation would be for nought. How could Guam, a tiny island, hope to survive the engulfing suction of Communism which has succeeded in overrunning the entire world? Plainly....it couldn't.

In the face of these facts and the inevitable chain of events which will come about on our failure to act promptly and generously towards Western Europe, what should we do?

Twofold Plan

Secretary of State George C. Marshall led the way in his European Relief address at Harvard University on June 5, 1947. He proposed a plan that would basically do two things: check the tide of Communism throughout the world, thus insuring the retention of individual freedom, and secondly, lift Europe from its knees to a point where she could aid in gaining her pre-war position as an industrial leader in a prosperous world economy. In lighter terms, it would lend dollars to the destitute, food to the starving, homes to the homeless and work to the idle.

In essence, Marshall proposed that the United States, as the only power in existence today capable of granting such aid, should support any reasonable request for assistance from all European countries that would pledge themselves to cooperating in this solution of their own mutual problems. He added that this country would, on the other hand, oppose any government or group seeking to block European recovery.

In this momentous speech Marshall made it clear that he thought the time for piecemeal—or stopgap aid had come to an end, and that any efforts we now make must be long-range and enduring or Europe would completely collapse. Another main point stated that Europe must take the initative in the matter, as the U.S. was not going to extend aid to those unwilling to help themselves.

Russia showed her hand at the Paris European Recovery conference in July, 1947 when Molotov walked out on Bevin and Bedault in refusal to support the proposed aid program, citing it "American dollar imperialism" as he did Truman's aid to Greece. It was made clear by this action, and by nearly every Soviet move since then that Russia does not want European recovery to succeed because it would close the door to Communism's well-laid plans for the domination of that continent, and inevitably, the world.

A short time later, Bevin and Bedault invited all the nations of Europe, with the exception of Spain, to discuss the aid program. All Eastern satellites of Russia declined. Sixteen Western nations sent representatives.

In following months a report was drawn up by these countries in which they stated their financial and material needs for recovery, and what steps they themselves would take to expedite the success of this plan. They indicated they were willing to pull themselves up by their own boot-straps once the initial aid was granted.

Calling themselves the "Committee of European Economic Cooperation," they stated they would need from the American 22½ billion dollars more goods than they could now pay for. At that time the United States dispatched the "Herter Committee" to Europe to analyze these figures.

Meanwhile, three committee groups within our country were surveying America's ability to underwrite the Marshall Plan. Their final report showed that such a program could be undertaken without any serious commodity deficiencies or inflationary dangers to ourselves. In fact, the point was brought out that by spending money on foreign aid we would be in turn checking our own inflation trend. The bulk of the aid would have to come from the American people themselves in the form of taxes. Along this line these committee reports indicated that expenses for ERP could be met under a four-year plan with a tangible increase in individual taxes amounting to only 28 dollars a year. A small price for freedom!

Communism Would Shrivel

With our aid, Europe will be able to regain her place in a world economy as a major industrial center. Her exports, much demanded by the United States, could create a prosperous and stable foundation for lasting peace. The virus of communism would shrivel when the food of economic chaos was taken away. The threat of war would subside and once more the world could look towards the future with a hope for progressive civilization.

Too many Americans are losing sight of the importance of winning the peace. They are reeking in a post-war prosperity boom and might easily fail to grasp the imminence of doom if we fail. In order to support the Marshall Plan, taxes will have to stay in the high brackets. We must expect certain commodity curtailments. Moderate rationing of scarce items may go into effect. Things such as grain, steel, machinery and certain raw materials....desperately needed in Europe....will be scarce in the American market.

When these restrictions are imposed on the average American in the next four years, will he complain? You bet he will. But will he have the common sense to investigate the situation and find out that any efforts we now make must be long-range and enduring or Europe would completely collapse. Another main point stated that Europe must take the initative in the matter, as the U.S. was not going to extend aid to those unwilling to help themselves.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall "He offers us hope"

What Its Backers Say of ERP.....

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Here are the words with which Secretary of State George C. Marshall first described the "Marshall Plan."

"....The United States should do whatever it is able to do to assist in the return of normal economic health in the world, without which there can be no political stability and no assured peace.

"Our policy is directed not against any country or doctrine but against hunger, poverty, desperation and chaos.

"It's purpose should be the revival of a working economy in the world so as to permit the emergence of political and social conditions in which free institutions can exist.

"Such assistance....must be on a piece meal basis as various crises develop.

"Any assistance that this government may render in the future should provide a cure rather than a mere palliative.

"Any government which maneuvers to assist in the task of recovery will find full co-operation, I am sure, on the part of the United States government. soon.

"Any government which maneuvers to block the recovery of other countries cannot expect help from us....(they can expect) the opposition of the U. S.

"....There must be some agreements among the countries of Europe as to the requirements of the situation and the part those countries themselves will take.

"This is the business of Europeans. The initative must come from Europe.

"The role of this country should consist of friendly aid in drafting of a European program and of later support of such a program as it may be practical for us to do so.

"The program should be a joint one, agreed to by a number, if not all European nations."

Important Facts About The Marshall Plan

OFFICIAL NAME—European Recovery Program (ERP)

WHERE DID IT STRAT?—Secretary of State George C. Marshall, in a speech at Harvard University on June 5, 1947, suggested that the United States could help Europe recover if Europe itself would formulate a program and promise a maximum campaign of co-operative self help.

WHAT NATIONS ARE PARTICIPATING?—Great Britain, Eire, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Iceland, Italy, Switzerland, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Austria, plus the merged Anglo-American zone of Germany and the French zone of Germany. Sixteen nations plus Western Germany.

WHICH COUNTRIES REFUSED TO PARTICIPATE?—Soviet Russit, Poland, Czechoslovokia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Romania and Finland.

WHICH EUROPEAN COUNTRY WAS NOT INVITED?—Franco Spain.

Vandenberg's Analysis of ERP. . .

Here are the purposes of the Marshall Plan as conceived by Senator President Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R—Mich.) after two months of hearings:

"This legislation (the Marshall Plan)....seeks peace and stability for men in a free world.

"It seeks them by economic rather than military means.

"It proposes to help our friends to help themselves in the pursuit of sound and successful liberty in the democratic pattern.

"The quest can mean as much to us as it does to them.

"It aims to preserve the victory against aggression and dictatorship which we thought we won in World War II.

"It strives to help stop World War. III before it starts.

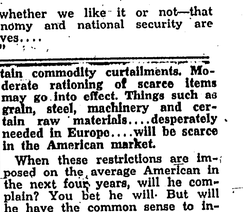
"It fights the economic chaos which would precipitate far-flung disintergration.

"It sustains Western civilization.

"It means to fake Western Europe completely off the American dole at the end of the adventure.

"It recognizes the grim truth—whether we like it or not—that American self-interest, national economy and national security are inseparably linked with these objectives....

"It faces the naked facts of life."



PARIS CONFERENCE LINEUP—Nations in the Russian sphere of Europe (black areas) rejected bids to attend the Paris conference on European Recovery in July, 1947. All other countries except Germany and Spain answered the call Secretary of State George C. Marshall, together with Bevin of England and Bedault of France, put forth to aid the freedom-loving nations of Europe rise above their economic chaos. Marshall claims his proposed program is the only course left to the whole of this continent from being blacked out by communism. (AP Wirephoto) future war. Our personal freedom, our future with all its ideals hangs in the balance, challenged by every current world happening. We must educate ourselves and act accordingly. It is imperative that we have that perception to see the facts and know what we must do. It is hoped we can meet with wisdom the standard set by Secretary Marshall in the final sentences of his speech last June!

"An esential part of any successful action on the part of the United States is an understanding on the part of the people of America of the character of the problem and the remedies to be applied. Political passion and prejudice should have no part. With foresight and willingness on the part of our people to face up to the vast responsibility which history has clearly placed upon this country, the difficulties I have outlined can and will be overcome."

Bernard (Duke) Docusen, flashy New Orleans welterweight has moved into the top contender spot for the 147 pound crown held by Sugar Ray Robinson in the National Boxing Association quarterly ratings just released. The likeable 20-year-old lad climbed into the no. 1 contender spot by virture of his onesided victory over Gene Burtin at Madison Square Garden last month, and is now in line for a crack at Robinson's title.

A Docusen-Robinson match for the welterweight crown is being talked about and it is possible than they may meet sometime this summer in an outdoor match, which would probably set some kind of an attendence record for a welterweight title bout. The classy Docusen will be matching himself against experience and wit in running into the dynamic punching suger boy, but despite his youth, he has a long line of fights behind him and will be no pushover for the Negro champ.

With the NavCommSta team idle today, the Naval Supply Center will have a chance to take over undisputed possession of first place in the Inter-Command baseball league with a victory over the strong NOB Industrial club. NSC and NavCommSta are at present sharing the top spot in the league with four wins and no defeats while the Fifth Service Depot is in third place with three wins and no losses. NOB Industrial, pre-season favorites to cop the league were upset last week by a good NAS-MAG team and will be out to hand NSC its initial loss in one of the day's best tilts.

The annual award of the Louisville Slugger Trophy, an engraved full-size sterling silver bat was awarded to James Prince, first baseman of the Midland, Texas club of the class D Longhorn League. George Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues said that Prince's .429 batting overage in 108 games represented the highest in the minor leagues for the 1947 season. The 25-year-old Prince who comes from Dallas, Tex., broke into pro ball in 1940 with Jacksonville and this was his third active year of professional ball.

Assault on Inactive Duty

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 30 —(UP)— Assault, the triple crown winner in 1946, was retired from stud today only two months after he was withdrawn from racing.

Robert J. Klebert of King Ranch, owner of the famed horse, said he acted on advice of Dr. Charles Hagyard, veterinarian, in retiring Assault from stud. He had been bred to two mares before he was retired.

Assault was retired from active racing after he was defeated in the Widener Handicap in Florida.

Five years old, Assault won the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes in 1946. That season his winnings totaled $425,195.

'Novice' Tandberg Surprises Experts With Impressive 10 Round Win

BOSTON, March 30 —(UP)— Blond Olle Tandberg, a heavyweight viking from Stockholm, ended his American visit tonight by decisively outpointing Duilio Spagnolo of Milan, Italy, in a 10-round boxing match at Boston Garden before 4,807 fans.

The dough-faced Swedish house painter displayed a surprising amount of speed and made every one of his 204-½ pounds play an important part in the victory over his younger but less skillful opponent.

At the end of the fight, which drew one of the smallest houses of the winter, Tandberg was scarcely puffing while Spagnolo's face and body were a deep shade of pink and a cut above his left eye seemed ready to spill blood.

Derided in pre-fight talk as a ponderous and slow-moving novice, Tandberg forced the fight most of the way and appeared to take seven of the 10 rounds. He was most effective in his hooking attack to the Italian's head and in the seventh round appeared as if he might drop the Italian.

Soccer Official Killed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 30 —(UP)— Soccer official Salvador Naredo was kicked and beaten to death today by players and fans who disagreed with a penatly he called during a game.

Naredo penalized the "Eleven Stars" soccer team, and players on that club began to hurl insults at him. When the official objected to the insults, he was mobbed by players and fans. Some people held him while the others kicked and punched at him.

Ed Huesser Goes To Phillies; Comeback Seen

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 30 —(UP)— The Philadelphia Phillies, whose pitching staff has proved a haven where old throwers find new talents, today purchased 39-year-old Ed Huesser from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Manager Ben Chapman said he hoped Heusser would be as successful at Emil (Dutch) Leonard and Schoolboy Rowe, two other castoff pitchers who were mainstays of the Phillies' staff last year.

The deal came as a surprise since Owner Branch Rickey of the Dodgers stated publicly that he was "high" on the veteran right-hander. Last season Rickey admitted he had made a mistake in sending Heusser to Montreal. Brooklyn needed Heusser in its stretch drive to the National League pennant but couldn't call him up because the Montreal Royals were headed for the International League championship playoffs.

Kentuckey, Phillips Repeat Victories in Olympic Meet

NEW YORK, March 30 —(UP)— Kentucky bowled over Baylor for the second time within a week tonight, repeating with a 77 to 59 victory in the Olympic basketball semi-finals the easy triumph it scored last Tuesday in the NCAA championships.

And, as it was in last week's equally breezy victory, Alex (The Shot) Goza again emerged as the hero, scoring 33 of his team's points and thereby proving that his selection as the NCAA tournament's most valuable player was a thoroughly earned accolade.

Groza, the six-foot, seven-inch "little brother" of Lou (The Toe) Groza, who earns his living by making place-kicks for the Cleveland football Browns, also was a brilliant floor and rebound man and with complete cooperation from his team-mates, made the game the rout it figured to be.

Workouts Ordered To Limber Marion's Injured Knee

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 30 —(UP)— Dr. Robert F. Hyland, St. Louis Cardinal's surgeon, said today that Shortstop Marty Marion's knee injury was not serious and ordered the veteran infielder to work out briefly in an effort to limber it.

Marion fell during a pre-game practice last Friday and it was feared he had aggravated an old injury.

Hyland said Marion had "torn some fibers in the external lateral ligament of his left knee" and that the injury "was not considered serious."

Manager Eddie Dyer has been using Al Schoendienst and Bernie Greger at short since Marion was injured.

"X-ray treatment and nature should heal the injury, I hope," said Dr. Hyland. "The injured ligaments are above the knee joint, caused I would say by an old injury. I would not recommend an operation."

Marion worked out for one hour, visibly favoring his knee and making no attempt to bend it. The shortstop said he would continue fielding drills and "await developments."

Ross Sides With Jews

NEW YORK, March 30 —(UP) Barney Ross, 38, former world welterweight boxing champion, revealed today that he had joined the George Washington legion, an American group being organized to fight the Jews in Palestine.

Ross, who fought with the Marines on Guadalcanal, said that although he stood "ready to leave immediately if ordered" he would for the present be chiefly occupied with recruiting duties in the United States and Canada.

Major Samuel Weires, an officer with the British Army during the war, is organizing the legion which hopes to recruit at least 15,000 volunteers in the United States.

Phillips advanced to the finals with a 69 to 40 victory over the Denver Nuggets in the opener and, despite Kentucky's repetitious superiority over the college field, the Oilers were expected to take the Wildcats by about th same margin Wednesday.

The bargin' beauties from the oil country derricked the Colorado club by an even greater margin than when they topped them in winning the National A.A.U. Tournament at Denver earlier this month.

It was the 61st victory for the Oilers in 64 starts this season giving them one of the most remarkable records of modern times, considering the caliber of their competition.

The teams let it be known from the start that this was no battle of brotherly love and at times the affair got a little beyond the gentlemanly bounds.

The Oilers, who make a career of glorifying the nation's filling station attendants, were led to their early triumph by Bob Kurland, the seven-foot red-head, who previously starred in Madison Square Garden in leading Oklahoma A. & M. to two consecutive N.C.A.A. championships in 1945 and 1946. Kurland, who ran things his own way under the offensive basket, had eight field goals and five free throws for 21 points.

100 Candidates Report For UCLA Spring Drills

LOS ANGELES, March 30 —(UP) The UCLA Bruins opened spring football drills today with 100 candidates, including 16 lettermen, reporting to Head Coach Bert Laburucherie.

On hand to greet the players were two new assistant coaches William (Dutch) Fehring, hired away from Oklahoma, and Ned Mathews, former UCLA backfield star and ex-San Francisco 49er.

The Bruins gridders went through a light ball-handling drill to start off their six weeks of training.

The quarterbacks were turned over to Bob Waterfield, ace quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, who is assistant coach during spring training.

Sports Greats Approach Ripe Old Age

NEW YORK —(UP)— The years are catching up at an alarming rate with some of the top hands in sports.

Some of the youngsters coming up must be wondering why these old gaffers don't drop dead.

By prewar standards, Joe Louis, 33, and Jersey Joe Walcott, generously estimated at 34, should be wheezing in their rocking chairs instead of looking forward to a June bout for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

Dixie Walker, 37, perhaps should be a candidate for a coaching job somewhere instead of starting a new career as a Pittsburgh outfielder "at the highest pay I ever got in my life."

The years lost during the war apparently have tossed the old ideas of competitive age completely out of kilter.

It's quite a shock to some to discover that Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees is 33 and Johnny Mize of the Giants is 35, a baseball age at which many an athlete might be considering the road back.

Bob Feller of the Indians was away so long during the war that a surprising amount of people set him doddering to the mound. Feller is only 29.

"People are asking me all the time how long I expect to keep going," Feller said the last time we saw him. "My gosh, am I washed up already?"

DiMaggio figures he has a few more years left and why not? Mize isn't even thinking about folding up. There are too many homeruns still to be hit.

2. Promotion of understanding, good will and cooperation in the armed services through interservice sports championship competition.

3. Development of spectator sports to "enchance the esprit de corps."

4. Establishment of uniform eligibility tests and uniform rules covering sports events.

5. Creation of interservice awards.

Among the sports events for 1948 will be an interservice golf tournament. The council also is arranging for Air Force competition in the Leech Tennis Trophy tournament. The event previously was confined to Army and Navy entries.

Phillies Build For Championship in '50

CLEARWATER, Fla. —(UP)— Four kids were throwing the ball around the infield when Ben Chapman of the Phillies came out of the dressing room.

His face lighted up in smiles as he watched the youngsters at work.

"There," he said, with a lot of conviction in his voice, "could be the National League's championship infield in 1950."

He made no bones about the fact that he isn't talking pennant for the Phillies until that time.

"But we're coming along in our building program and those four kids he was watching were Bill Glynn at first base, Charles Dykes, son of Jimmy, at second; Al Speranza at short and Jack Cusick at third.

None of the four will be with the Phillies this coming season.

"They all need another year in the minors," Chapman explained. "We aren't going to rush them and if necessary we will send them out again in 1949. But they should be ready about 1950. That's when all these kids we have out here really are going to start paying back all the time and money we have invested in them.

"That's about the year when we the Phillies are going to be one of the clubs to beat."

Chapman isn't even talking first division for his 1948 club, but he was definite on one thing.

"I'll bet you or any one that this club will win more than 62 games (the number the Phillies won last year). We are going to be tough.

Fifth Service, Orote In Today's Headliner

The Fifth Service Leathernecks, defending champions, will get a real test this afternoon as they tangle with the Orote Boondockers at Orote Field in the top game of the Inter-Command Baseball league.

Major Sergeant "Chuck" Dempsey, coach of the Leathernecks and last years Guam All Star Baseball team, stated, "I believe we have enough material to develop a better team than we had last season." However, Dempsey had to admit the teams this year look tougher than last year's competition.

The undefeated Naval Supply Center nine will play host to the NOB Industrial Miners in an attempt to prove to the Island fans that they are worthy of holding their present position in the league standing. A victory would provide thrilling to the Supply Center today, for it would enable them to take over first place by themselves since the NavComm-Sta men have an open date.

NBRS Seeks First Victory

The NBRS Dodgers are still seeking their first league victory and will travel to Stoney Stadium to meet the Gophers from Yards and Docks.

New Jockey Impresses Turfmen

by Ray Ayres
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK —(UP)— Although far removed from the scene of action, racing fans throughout the country have been impressed by the riding of Bill Cook whose name has appeared with monotonous regularity alongside winners since the start of the Florida season.

The 18-year-old youngster from the coal-mining region of Kentucky also has impressed the turfmen who saw him lead all the apprentices during the Gulfstream meeting with 25 winners, came right back with 24 at Hialeah and take a commanding lead at the current Tropical Park session.

Cook, who was named after the late President William McKinley, has been handling horses for three years. When he was 15, he decided he wasn't going to get very big and thought he would make a race rider. The idea isn't unusual for youngsters growing up only a stone's throw from the blue grass country but Cook followed it through seriously.

Many Baseball Greats Stars Comeback

NEW YORK—(UP)— It will be "Operation Comeback" for many of the brightest stars in baseball this season.

Some of these players underwent operations after the 1947 campaign and just how much good the surgery them will be revealed in their performances during the next few months.

DiMaggio Tests Arm

Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankee king-pin, currently is testing out his right arm from which bone chips were removed at Johns Hopkins hospital. In the same boat and on the same team is Pitcher Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, who also had several bone chips removed from his right arm. So dubious were Yankee officials on Spud's ability to come back, they gave him a conditional contract.

The third player essaying a comeback after an operation is Chunky Charley Keller, who underwent surgery for the removal of spinal discs.

Two of the Boston Red Sox "blue chips" pitchers also are seeking out the road back after having chips removed from their flippers. They are Southpaw Mickey (Himself) Harries and Right-Hander Cecil (Tex) Hughson.

Labor Department Cites Wage Increase Of Hundred Per Cent Since 1913

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The average factory worker earned $11 a week when President Taft created the Labor Department 35 years ago.

Since then his average weekly earnings have risen to $52.

That has meant a 100 per cent increase in "real wages" the Department said in a birthday review of its activities. In other words, although the $52 does not buy as much as $52 would have in 1913, it does buy more than $22 worth of goods at 1913 prices.

The reason weekly income does not buy more is because of current high prices, the department said.

The Labor Department doesn't claim the credit but it is the agency that keeps the records.

Actual weekly wages fluctuated considerably in the 35-year period. The rise in their purchasing power has been steady in contrast. The record spans World War I, the 1920 depression, 1928 boom, 1930 depression, 1935 recovery, World War II, and the current boom.

Major Fnuctions

Keeping statistics on earnings and employment has been one of the major functions of the department since its establishment.

President Taft signed the law creating the cabinet office as his last official act before putting on his high silk hat and driving to the capitol to turn over his office to Woodrow Wilson.

The new president named William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania, a member of the United Mine Workers was the first Secretary of Labor. James J. Davies, another Pennsylvanian and one-time member of the Amalgamated Steel, iron and tin employees union, filled the post under President Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

Since Davis' resignation in 1930, the position has been filled by William N. Doak of North Carolina, Frances Perkins of New York and Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington.

In 1913 the department consisted of four bureaus—immigration, naturalization, labor statistics and children's. Today its bureaus and divisions consist of labor statistics, labor standards, employment service, veterans' re-employment rights, women's wage, hour, and apprentice training.

Outside of its jurisdiction are the powerful National Labor Relations boards, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and the National Mediation Board. All of them handle various kinds of labor—management disputes.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—(UP)Burglar alarms from the Bank of Montreal rang in police headquarters twice in one evening. Squad cars sped to the scene but the bank was not being tampered with. Officers finally found the trouble. An electrician had connected part of the bank's burglar alarm system with a telephone circuit of a house across the street, and every time the telephone rang the alarm went off.

Jap Teen-Agers Resent Police Persecution

TOKYO—(UP)—Japanese high school girls like to dance, like the movies, just like to be in love and resent being questioned by the police "just for talking to men," a police survey showed recently.

The girls complained that they were forbidden to dance while college and university students were permitted to do so.

They said that even if they had good boy friends with whom they had "clean, friendly relations," many adults believed they were "committing sins."

"It is unpleasant to be questioned by the police just for men talking to me," one said.

The girls "confessed" they went to the movies once a week.

"All of them," the police report continued, "said that while in movie house, they were tempted by men on various occasions, holding their hands in the dark, etc. etc."

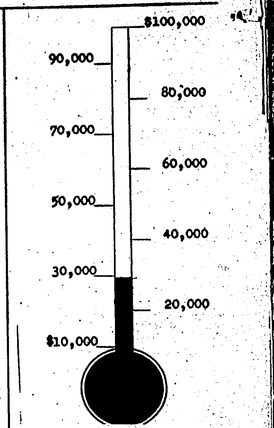
TOCOPILLA, Chile—(UP)—Jorge Mercado, 23, was despondent because his fiancee's father was opposed to their marriage.

Recently he went to the home of his sweetheart, Laura Marville, 23, carrying a stick of dynamite in his pocket.

A few minutes before entering the house, he lighted the fuse. Jorge smiled at the Narvill family and then went to Laura's bedroom.

He gave her a long embrace. The dynamite exploded. Both were killed instantly.



GOING UP—Since the last publication of this Guam Memorial Hospital Fund thermometer, donations from three prominent Island personages have boosted the mercury nearly fifteen hundred dollars. The major donations are as follows: Bill Lujan fight benefits, $1,021.95; Luzon Stevedoring Co., $121.65; and Mr. Pedro Ada of Agana, $300. With many more contributions as abundant as these, the hospital drive will meet its merciful goal.

New NCO Club Opens at Iwo Jima

IWO JIMA — Nearly 70 members consisting of 1st three graders and their wives, and civilians were present here recently to launch the activities of the new Iwo Jima Senior NCO.

Present also as guests of the members were Col. R. H. Macklin, air base commander, Mrs. Macklin, and Maj. W. R. Wade, commanding officer of the 335th Station Complement Squadron. Col. Macklin was very highly impressed with the tidy appearance of the club and the congenial atmosphere which it presented. To him, "this represents a long step forward towards our objective of high morale among the enlisted men."

Work on the club was begun early in January, with members devoting their evenings and weekends to accomplish the necessary remodeling and interior decorating, resulting in establishment of a place in which to relax during their off-duty hours that will rival many stateside clubs. The bar is nothing short of a work of art and the snack bar boasts a wide variety of short orders. Future plans include acquisition of a juke-box and additional furniture.

At a meeting held prior to the opening, members elected a board of governors and submitted for approval a rough draft of their proposed constitution and by-laws. Members of the board of governors are: S-Sgt. Harold R. Overholt, president; T-Sgt. Carl P. Melander, sec'y-treasurer; S-Sgt. Daniel Z. Pompa, S-Sgt. Frederick F. Dunsmoor, S-Sgt. William S. Prim, T-Sgt Chester A. Minor, T-Sgt. Clair R. Francisco, and Mr. Otis R. Clark, members. The club manager is S-Sgt. James W. Lamkin.

John L. Lewis Forced to Testify

WASHINGTON, March 31 —(UP)— John L. Lewis forced to testify under court order, told a presidential fact-finding board today that he had not "inspired" the soft coal strike.

The United Mine Workers chief testified for 50 minutes after bowing to a federal court decree and the threat of another contempt citation.

The government got the court order this morning after Lewis ignored a suopoena issued by the board directing him to appear before it yesterday.

Lewis' denial that he "inspired" the current strike of 400,000 soft coal miners came when Board Chairman Sherman Minton asked him if it wasn't a fact that the nation's coal supply had been interrupted as result of a letter Lewis sent to union members March 12.

Lewis said the letter was "a long-delayed, much overdue report on the (miners' welfare) fund under the contract." In that letter, Lewis charged that the operators had violated their contract by refusing to agree to his pension plan.

"Were there any further communications?" Minton asked.

"Not from my office," Lewis said.

Then he added that "you are trying to show by your questions that my letter inspired any action by the United Mine Workers of America you are entirely in error."

"But by March 16 all of the mines of your union were closed, do you know that is true?" Minton asked.

"I get my information from the main sources—the newspapers—like everyone else does," Lewis said "I think the miners may have come to the conclusion that they've been sold a gold brick. They have certainly been handed a gold brick."

Foreign Aid Bill Passes House Vote

WASHINGTON, March 31—(UP)—The $3,205,000,000 Global Foreign Aid Bill won its first test vote in the House today by a margin that foreshadowed easy passage when the measure faces a final decision later this week.

House leaders are driving for passage by Wednesday after which Senate and House conferees will meet to reconcile differences between their separate bills.

Still to be considered by the House are a hatful of proposed ammendments, including one by Rep. Alvine O'Konski, (R-Wis.) which would add Spain to the list of Marshall plan countries slated for American aid under the European Recovery Program.

Another key proposal would give the ERP administrator power to override the commerce department whenever he deems it necessary to halt exports of any product to Russia or her satellites. Rep. Karl E. Mundt, (R-S.D.) sponsored that amendment and won the backing of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The overall aid bill's first test came on a proposal by Rep. Ralph W. Gwinn, (R-N.Y.) to kill the measure and substitute one of his own which would provide $500,000,000 in world-wide direct relief to needy peoples and private industries abroad.

Dislikes Enlistment Policy

If the services really want to rebuild to their authorized strength through voluntary enlistments, Wallace said "an easy way to do it would be to:

1. Stop the war propaganda. Resume a peaceful, cooperative foreign policy.

2. Improve pay and conditions of enlisted men and improve relations between officers and men.

3. Abolish all forms of discrimination in the armed service which keep out thousands of negro recruits."

Wallace said President Truman's program would start an arms race leading to "unnecessary war."

Henry Wallace Blasts Gov'ts Conscription

WASHINGTON March 31—(UP)—Henry A. Wallace said today the administration wants to draft millions of men into the armed services and conscript all other men and women for "militarized labor."

He made the charge before the Senate Armed Services Committee in testimony opposing President Truman's call for Universal Military Training and a revival of selective service.

Audience of 300

Wallace spoke before an audience of about 300 which filled all the available seats in the marble-walled Senate Caucus Room.

Wallace added a page to the statement he had distributed in draft was a "screen for the much more sinister objective of militarizing America."

"The real intention is to draft not hundreds of thousands, but millions of men into the armed services," he said. "The real intention is to register not only young men but all men of potential military value for service in the armed forces. The real intention is to draft all men and women for militarized labor."

Chiang Kai-shek May Relinquish Presidency

NANKING, March 31 —(UP)— Chiang Kai-shek has been thinking about relinquishing the presidency of China in favor of the premiership but probably will stick to his original plan of taking the President's job, sources close to the Generalissimo said today.

They said Chiang has been weighing the possibility of seeking—and, of course, obtaining—the post of premier, which under the new constitution is potentially a more powerful post. It was reported he had been debating whether it might not be wiser to take that post instead of the presidency, from where he would have control the premier like a puppet.

However, qualified sources said Chiang had given up the ideas because he feared an even more bitter scramble for the presidency than has already developed for the vice-presidency.

$463 Million Asked For China Aid

WASHINGTON, March 31 —(UP)— Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg today asked immediate approval of a $463,000,000 China advance. In the new section, he charged the proposed "limited" Aid Bill to bolster "free peoples against conquest." He described the situation in China as "touch and go."

Opening debate on the bill, the Michigan Republican lauded the "seasoned and tested" integrity of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and blasted Chinese Communists.

Vandenberg also expressed strong hope that Congress will complete the European Recovery Program and aid to China, Greece and Turkey before this weekend. The House is expected to pass its "single package" Foreign Aid Bill today or tomorrow.

Vandenberg said final congressional action by this weekend would demonstrate how democracies can function when time is of the essence."

He filed with the Senate an amended version of a report on China by his foreign relations committee. The revised report deleted a stinging rebuke aimed at the Chiang regime. It hailed the Nationalist government as an important partner in "the common front against aggressive communism."

Greek Army Launches Spring Offensive Against Guerrillas

by United Press

The Greek Army started its heralded Spring offensive today.

The government forces hoped to strike a body blow against the strong Guerrilla detachments still clinging to their northern mountain strongholds.

The Greek operation was directed against 600 rebels in the mountains near Kilkis and an announcement was made that 15,000 new conscripts would be called up to strengthen the government Army.

The Greek attack came as more signs of war jitters were reported from Scandinavia. A "mystery riot" occured in South Stockholm. It was the third in four days. Some 56 persons have been hospitalized in the outbreaks. The exact cause was not known.

Simultaneously Radio Moscow charged that the United States had organized a spy ring of former German Officers which was engaged in anti-Russian operations in Germany, Austria and Sweden.

Snyder Refuses Job With Banking Family

WASHINGTON, March 31—(UP) Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder today refused to say whether the Giannini banking family of San Francisco has offered him a job.

But in reply to a question from Chairman Charles W. Tobey, (R-N.H.) of the Senate Banking Committee, Synder denied that he conferred recently with a member of the family "in a Florida hotel room."

Snyder also asserted that no job offer from any source would have any bearing on his official decisions.

Proposal Hoped to End Japanese Labor Strike

TOKYO, March 31 —(UP)— A compromise proposal covering the whole field of labor relations between the Japanese government and its employes was hammered out today in the office of James Killen, allied headquarters labor chief.

Allied sources expressed the hope that the agreement would end the rash of communications strikes which still kept 100,000 government telephone, telegraph and postal employes in eight prefectures away from their jobs despite a headquarters ban.

Police Battle Pickets At N. Y. Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, March 21 —(UP)— Club-swinging police fought a bloody 15-minute battle today with dozens of striking financial workers who piled themselves in a human barrier at the entrance of the New York Stock Exchange. The picketing strikers sought vainly to prevent brokers from reaching their offices for the start of trading in the world's largest financial institution.

Forty pickets, several of them bleeding from head wounds, were dragged fighting into patrol wagons and taken to the old slip police station, while emergency squads of police rushed into the area to wrestle with one of the worst traffic jams in the history of the congested Wall Street district.

Women fainted in the crush around the L-shaped stock exchange skyscraper as thousands of workers poured from subway entrances at the peak of the morning rush hour when the first violence in the two-day strike against the stock and curb exchanges broke out.

Fighting started when pickets resented the arrest of a girl picket for disorderly conduct in refusing to move away from the exchange entrance. As though at a signal some 60 other pickets of the Financial Employes Union (AFL), rushed to the entrance and lay down before it. Some lay on their stomacns, some on their backs, some on their sides.

Police began dragging the demonstrators away but as one was pulled out of position another took his place. Clubs began swinging. One woman was bleeding heavily as she was pushed into a patrol wagon. A detective suffered a head injury.

Meanwhile across the street from the exchange hundreds of non-striking employes were clustered wondering how to get into the building. Police cleared a lane for them, using their clubs to beat back pickets who kept pressing forward with screams, threats and epithets.

Navy Says Three Subs Reported 'Not Conclusive'

WASHINGTON, March 31—(UP)—The Navy officials acknowledged today that three recent reports of foreign submarines off American shores were not "conclusive."

The Navy, however, refused to comment on an official Soviet statement that no Russian subs have been plying the Pacific around American shores. The statement was broadcast yesterday by Moscow radio.

The Navy likewise refused to comment on reports from administration and congressional sources that at least five submarines as Russian.

Navy officials said submarines reports are taken with a grain of salt unless they are made by trained experts. They said none of the three recent reports, which spoke of foreign submarine activity off the west coast since Jan. 30, fell into that category.

The three reports were cited by Navy sources last week after Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan told a senate committee that "submarines not belonging to any nation west of the iron curtain" have been sighted off U. S. shores recently

The Moscow broadcast termed Sullivan's statement as "absurd and grossly slanderous invention calculated to deceive American public opinion."

The executive council of Guam Congress will meet with the Governor in his office at ComMar at 2:15 Thursday, 1 April, 1948.

'Ike' For President Movement Gains

NEW YORK, March 31 —(UP)— The draft Eisenhower for president movement gained ground today with the pledged support of the liberal party's 9,000 votes, despite a new Washington disaproval of the General's candidacy.

Daniel James, secretary of the draft movement, said plans would not be changed one bit by the statement in Washington by Army Information Chief Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower "has not changed his stand one to'a" about running for president.

"This is a people's draft, not a political maneuver," James said. "Gen. Eisenhower needs no spokesman to make statements for him. He can speak for himself and will at the proper time. We will not accept the statement made by Gen. Parks as representing anybody's point of view except his own."

UN May Reconsider

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 31 —(UP)— The United States proposed today that the United Nations Security Council call a special session of the General Assembly to reconsider the future of Palestine, and Russia immediately charged the United States with trying to convert the Holy Land into a "military-strategic base."

Russian Delegate Andrei Gromyko attacked American proposals for shelving partition after American Delegate Warren Austin introduced resolutions calling for the special assembly session and an immediate truce between Arabs and Jews.

Austin said that a truce in the Holy Land fighting must be arranged if international peace is to be kept.

Navy Asks Stop-order

WASHINGTON, March 31 —(UP) The Navy has asked Congressional authorization to halt construction indefinitely on 13 ships that would cost more than $300,000,000.

The Navy has agreed with the Budget Bureau to stop construction on these vessels so it can start building six experimental ships, including an 80,000 ton aircraft carrier, and converting three others.

Consul Refuses Protection

WINDSOR, Ont., March 31 —(UP)— U. S. Consul John Bankhead refused police protection today after a third attempt to assassinate him Sunday night.

Police quoted Bankhead as saying he "would not be scared out of Windsor." Two bullets were fired into Bankhead's car as he drove into the driveway of his home, but the Consul was not injured.

The attacks have been made since Bankhead testified secretly before the House Un-American Affairs Committee. He recently ordered a crackdown on visas for suspected Communists.

TOKYO, March 30 —(UP)— Premier Hitoshi Ashida told leading Japanese industrialists and businessmen today he believes Japan might be able to receive $7,000,008,900 of economic aid from the United States Government and in private loans in the next year.

Addressing the Cojunsha Club, Ashida said he based his estimate on reports that the United States Government aid will amount to $890,008,000 in various kinds of grants. The rest will come from private credits, he said.

Korean Elections

SEOUL, Korea, March 31 —(UP) The United Nations Commission on Korea today voted, 12 to 3, to hold south Korean elections May 9 despite a request by Korean and U. S. officials that they be postponed until May 24.

The Korean election committee and U.S. Occupation Commander Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge argued that it would be impossible to get ballots to remote sections of south Korea in time for the earlier election.

A commission spokesman said this difficulty could be overcome if U.S. and Korean authorities made the effort.

One commissioner abstained from voting on the issue.

White Russians Ask Help

SHANGHAI, March 31 —(UP)— White Russian residents today received letters smuggled to them from Dairen by relatives who begged for help to avert starvation.

The letters arrived in Shanghai through channels which must remain secret if further communication with non-Soviets in Dairen is to be maintained.

One of the letters was written by the parents of a 12-year-old girl who asked if it were possible to get her out of Dairen and send her to America. The father and mother feared the girl could not survive a further lack of food, clothes and fuel.

All of the letters described near-starvation conditions in Dairen for White Russians. The letters said there was no work for non-Soviets.

Getting G. I. Loans Becoming Difficult

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Veterans are finding it increasingly difficult to get G. I. home loans from their banks and many are being turned down flat, it was disclosed Monday.

The head of one of Washington's largest banks said that his institution "does not like G. I—type loans as such" and has adopted an "exceedingly" selective policy toward them.

A Veterans Administration spokesman said his agency was not in a position to comment, but its figures show that veterans loan applications as submitted by banks have declined steadily from 52,700 last September to only 32,600 in February.

The situation reportedly is nationwide. H. C. Becker, VA loan guaranty officer for the St. Louis region, told the United Press that G. I. loans are down 50 per cent from last year with inquiries from frustrated veterans increasing daily.

Reluctance of the banks to advance G. I. loans apparently is due to several things:

1—Other types of investments pay a higher rate of interest than the four per cent G. I. loans. The yield on government and corporate bonds is increasind steadily.

2—The loans, most of which are committed on a 20-year basis, are not readily negotiable. There has been no secondary market since the Reconstruction Finance Corp. stopped buying them last July 1.

3—Too many veterans fail to invest any of their own money in the first payment.

'Whooh' It Starts – 'Pfft' It Ends

TRONA, Cal. —(UP)— Rocket mail delivery started out with a 400 mph "whoosh" last week but ended as one of the slowest on record when the U. S. Post Office decided a postal regulation was being violated.

A group of young Glendale scientists loaded 4200 collectors' letters into a long stainless steel rocket and looped them 4,000 feet up and across the barren stretches of the American Potash and Chemical Corporation's dry lake bed on the edge of the Mojave Desert.

The letters were scooped up when the rocket landed and rushed to the Trona Post Office for mailing. The postmaster, John V. MacPherson, refused to accept them on the grounds that the covers, which resembled a three cent stamp, violated a postal regulation.

Left out on a limb because they had collected 50 cents apiece from stamp collectors all over the U. S. and foreign countries, the scientists, members of the Reaction Research Society, went to U. S. Attorney James Carter in Los Angeles.

Carter ruled that if they stamped their stickers not U. S. mail they would be acceptable.

Youth Held in Death Of Sweetheart

MARSHALL, Michigan —(UP)— A handsome, 20-year-old farm youth stubbornly denied Saturday that he shot to death the 16-year-old sweetheart he left in tears after a quarrel.

Dark-haired Earl Kent of Burlington, Mich., questioned for 24 hours, told state police and sheriff's officers only that he had visited his pretty neighbor, Flavian Watkins, Wednesday night and quarreled with her.

The youth said he kissed her good night and left her in tears. Shortly afterward she was found sprawled in the yard of her farm home with a 22 caliber bullet in her chest.

The girl died yesterday in a hospital at Coldwater while authorities searched for evidence of murder or suicide.

Soldier Saved From Tumon Whirlpool

HARMON AIR FORCE BASE — T-Sgt. Fred M. Smith rescued T-Sgt. Gustav Johnson from drowning at Tumon Bay Sunday March 21, it was learned here recently.

During an afternoon of swimming and recreation Johnson swam out to a nearby rock formation in what was considered the safe swimming area. After making several attempts to return to his friends who were on the shore, he made the discovery that there was a small whirlpool which was too strong for him to swim against. When he signaled for help, Smith arriving sized up the situation. Urging Johnson to enter the water ing Johnson to enter the water from the rock on which he was standing, Smith caught him as he swung around in the phenomenal whirlpool and helped him to safety.

Senator Says Mitchell Honors Inadequate

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) denounced military "brass hats" Sunday for not making more of the ceremony honoring the late Brig. Gen. William (Billy) Mitchell.

Wiley, who attended the Pentagon building ceremony at which a gold medal was presented to Mitchell's son, said it "missed the mark."

Japanese Spy Executed

Memorial Services to Be Held To Honor Memory of Guam Priest

Special services will be held Friday at 7:30 a. m. in the chapel at Tumon Bay to commemorate the death of Father Luis de San Vitores, who was killed on the shores of the bay early in the 17th century. Bishop Baumgartner will preside over the ceremonies.

Father de San Vitores came to Guam to spread the teachings of Christianity throughout the Island to natives who had had no previous religious instruction.

He was killed by an angered chieftain during a baptismal ceremony, and his body kas taken out to sea.

Legend has it that the first time his body was rowed out into the bay, the group of natives returned to shore only to find his body still on the beach. Again they rowed out, and again the same incident occured. Finally in desperation, the chieftain who had killed the priest put out to sea and disposed of the body

However, even though the body was not seen again, drops of blood, supposedly those of the priest, were reportedly seen on the shores of Tumon Bay.

A monument was erected by the Jesuits to the memory of Father de San Vitores. This monument, a fine plaque, was in the possession of Mons Oscar Calvo, who replaced it in the shrine after the American occupation.

OVER THE JOEPOT

BY BILL JURY

GOOD MORNING....Jimmy Conzelman, pilot of the champion Chicago Cardinals, has unraveled the sobbing towel....And who wouldn't? Jimmy and his football Cards have a date at Soldier's Field in Chi on August 20 with the College All-Stars.

You'll remember last year's tussle that saw the Professional Football Champion Chicago Bears tumble before the 1946 College All-Stars. Well, this year the school boys are as tough, and in spades! Imagine having to set up a pass defense against a backfield composed of Harry Gilmer, Johnny Lujack, Bobby Layne and Bob Chappuis. That's what Conzelman's got to do. The thought of it already has him worried They say he's pass-happy just thinking of it.

Charles H. McCoy, a member of the physical education staff at the University of Iowa, has developed some interesting theories on comparative muscular energy required per competitive day in various sports. The good doctor maintains that the mile run and the 440-yard swim burn up more energy than any other event. Behind these long pulls, McCoy ranks hockey, basketball, boxing (15 three-minute rounds), football, wrestling (college), tennis, handball, badminton, boxing (three two-minute rounds, baseball (pitchers and catchers only), gymnastics and golf. So the next time the old man comes in after shooting 18 holes of golf and begins crabbing about how tired he is, just refer him to these figures.

McCoy has a theory on how to beat the four-minute mile, too. "If someone makes the four-minute mile, he is going to do it at a steady pace and not as some present runners do, alternately spurting and coasting their laps," he says. "It uses up too much energy that way." The next thing to do is convince Gil Dodds, Gundar Hagg, or Arne Andersson that they can run four quarter-miles at 60 seconds each.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY. . . . The Washington Redskins are going into the movies. . . The flickers are going to produce Corinne Griffith's book, "My Lift With the Washington Redskins." The part of Sammy Baugh, the passing man, will be played by Sammy Baugh, the passing man......One Brooklyn Dodger rooter feels so strongly about "Dem Bums" that he has suggested naming the several hundred new trackless trolleys the city has ordered after past and present players of the team. . . Ding-a-ling. . . Hugh Casey substituting for Hank Berman on track 17.

Middlecoff, Heafner Invited to Masters; Locke's Participation Still Uncertain

AUGUSTA, Ga. March 31 —(UP)— Invitations were extended today to Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., and Clayton Heafner of Charlotte N.C., to participate in the Masters Golf Tournament here, April 8-11.

Middlecoff and Heafner were selectel as the professionals with the best stroke average on the winter tour who would otherwise not qualify for the tournament.

Middlecoff, a dentist who played in the Masters the past wo years but failed to finish higher than 12th, has an average of 70.03 strokes Heafner's average is 70.24.

Participation of Defending Champion Bobby Locke, South African shot master who set a new course record of 65 last year, is still uncertain. He "scratched" from two tournaments recently on doctors orders, but has scheluled an exhibition at Atlanta on April 4.

The invitation of Middlecoff and Heafner completed the list of bids for this year's tourney.

Only two days left.

Hurry, Mom and Pop, and little Junior, too. The hours remaining are all to few. For tomorrow night's the night for the American Red Cross benefit bouts being held at the Paseo de Susana. Tickets may still be purchased at your leading downtown dealers.

Kramer Takes Riggs

COLOMBUS, O., March 31 —(UP)— Jack Kramer continued his winning ways with ease here tonight by defeating Bobby Riggs 6-2, 6-4 to boost his lead to 41 out of 58 matches in their current nationwide professional tennis tour.

Kramer paired with Pancho Segura, the South American star, to defeat Riggs and Dinny Pails, the Australian ace, 9-7, 7-3, in the doubles event.

In the singles preliminary, Pails was victorious over the former national intercollegiate champ, 6-4, 6-4.

Murry Dickson Blanks Yanks, 7-0; First No-Hitter in Training History

NEW YORK, March 31 —(UP)) The National Hockey League playoff merry-go-round resumes tonight with the New York Rangers entertaining the Detroit Red Wings and the Boston Bruins playing host to the Toronto Maple Leafs.

New York will be striving to deadlock its series at two games each, while Boston still is looking for its first victory against the pennant winning Leafs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 31 —(UP)— Dinky Murry Dickson of the St. Louis Cardinals became the first pitcher to turn in a complete no-hit, no-run game in major league spring training history today and he did it the hard way, double-blanking the mighty World Champion New York Yankees, 7 to 0.

Dickson, getting off to a seven run lead in first inning when Cardinal hitters went wild, struck out six batters, walked five and hit one.

It was the first no-hitter involving major league teams since last Aug. 3 when Bill McCahan of the Philadelphia A's turned the trick against the Washington Senators. And it was the first time that the Yankees had been double-blanked since the great Bobby Feller did it in Yankee Stadium on April 30, 1946.

Ironically, the Cardinals got their big first inning off Bill Bevens, the big Yankee hurler who came within one out and one pitch of turning in the only no-hitter in World Series history against the Brooklyn Dodgers last fall.

Dickson

Big Bev had to sit by disconsolately today for he went out in the riotous opening inning in which he reinjured the pitching arm and ankle that he hurt in a game on March 12, his last mound appearance. Bevens said in the club house that his arm and shoulder had gone bad with the first hard pitch and that he wanted to take three weeks off to go either to John Hopkins hospital in Baltimore or to baseball's noted surgeon Dr. Robert F. Hyland in St. Louis

The Yankees got only one man to third, he in the second inning after Dickson walked Joe DiMaggio and George McQuinn

Never a fast ball specialist, Dickson appeared to be working at half-sp[illegible] most of the way and when-e[illegible] behind on the hitters he [illegible] with sharp breaking c[illegible] best pitch.

In the sixth he struck out all three batters and after he walked DiMaggio in the seventh, no other batter reached base.

Seals, Beavers; Stars, Angels Capture Openers as PCL Begins Grind

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 31 —(UP)— The pennant-favored San Francisco Seals slugged three Sacramento pitchers for 16 hits to whip the Solons, 7-4, in the 1948 Pacific Coast League opener here today before a record-breaking crowd of 14,000 fans.

With the Veteran Infielder Hugh Luby clouting a home run and two singles to lead the attack, the Seals pushed across three runs in the first stanza, added two in the fourth and one each in the sixth and eighth to clinch the contest.

The game got underway in a barrage of fireworks when, after Gov. Earl Warren had tossed out the first ball, Manager Lefty O'Doul of the Seals announced he would play the game under protest because of the overflow crowd standing in the outfield.

STARS 17 RANIERS 2

HOLLYWOOD, March 31 —(UP) The Hollywood Stars ran wild at Gilmore Field tonight, crushing Seattle 17 to 2 in a Pacific Coast League opener before 6,154 fans.

Top hitter for the stars was big rightfielder Gus Zernial, returned by the Chicago White Sox just in time to drive in five runs. He hit a two-run homer on the first pitch in the first inning, another two-run homer on the second pitch in the second inning, and a single on another for three trips to the plate.

NSC Takes Lead With Win Over NOB Industrial

The NSC baseball team took over undisputed lead in the Inter-Command baseball league with a thrilling, 7-4, victory over the NOB Industrial Miners. "Del" Delbridge gave up but five hits to the Miners as he turned in one of the best pitching performances of the season.

The Naval Supply Center blasted "Rog" Kroul for eight safeties which were highlighted by two NSC home runs. White was the first to score on a round-tripper with no one on the second and Dettinger followed with one in the third with two teammates aboard.

Fifth Service 11 Orote 2

The Fifth Service Leathernecks won their fourth straight victory yesterday, to tie NavCommSta, which was idle, for second place by downing the Orote Boondockers, 11-2, at Orote Field.

ComMar 11 NAD 6

Big "Lefty" Daugherty, power hitter for ComMar, banged out three hits including two doubles, to lead the ComMar Hilltoppers to an, 11-6, victory over the NAD Trojans at Geiger Field.

Bob Early struck out 17 Trojans and gave up five hits for his initial win of the season.

In other games played yesterday, Marine Barracks downed the 1507th CB's on the CB diamond, 11-2; the Triple A Marines won a slam-bang affair from NAS Agana, 17-11; and the Yards and Docks Gophers downed the NBRS Dodgers at Stoney Stadium, 7-5.

Because of lack of cooperation from the 103rd CB manager, the result of the Fasron-CB game was not received.

Rinty to Tour U. S.

BELFAST, Ireland, March 31 —(UP)— Rinty Monaghan, the crooning champion of the flyweight ranks, today planned a trip to the United States, maybe to sing, maybe to fight, maybe both.

His manager, Frank McAloran, said that Monaghan, who won the world's championship from Jackie Paterson last week, had received both theatrical and ring offers in the U.S.

Monaghan had agreed to fight Scottish Flyweight Norman Tennant in a non-title bout. The original date was set for June, but McAloran said it would have to be earlier since "Monaghan probably will be in the States by June."

SOVIETS SAY "PHONEY"

MOSCOW, March 31 —(UP)— Soviet Sports, official organ of the all-union sports committee, said today that the scheduled meeting of American and European boxing teams at Chicago April 28, was a phoney, designed to prove the "superiority" of American boxing.

Not interested in the prestige of European boxing but only in picking up a "few dollar crumbs from the master's table," the International Boxing Association selected second-rate European fighters who were bound to lose, the publication added.

Steelman, Lewis Meet to Settle Strike

WASHINGTON April 1 —(UP)— John R. Steelman, President Truman's economic advisor, was reported tonight to have talked to John L. Lewis and "captive" coal mine operators on the possibility of arranging a settlement of the 17-day-old mine strike.

The reports were circulated by industry sources. Neither Steelman nor Lewis would comment.

Steelman's reported intervention apparently explained Mr. Truman's unexpected delay in seeking a federal court injunction to halt the strike.

The President's fact-finding board heaped most of the blame for the walkout on Lewis, and Mr. Truman had been expected to invoke the injunction section of the Taft-Hartley Act immediately on receiving its report. But he stayed his hand—to the surprise of Lewis, the soft coal operators and his own fact-finders.

Mr. Truman had been expected to seek a strike-stopping injunction against the UMW president under the Taft-Hartley Act immediately after receiving the board's report. But he stayed his hand, much to the surprise of Lewis and soft coal producers.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said "consideration is being given to the next step." But he indicated the President's decision may not be reached before the week-end.

Russia May Withdraw Forces From Korean Occupation Zone

WASHINGTON, April 1 —(UP)— Diplomatic officials saw some reason to believe today that Russia is preparing to withdraw her forces from the Soviet-occupied zone of northern Korea.

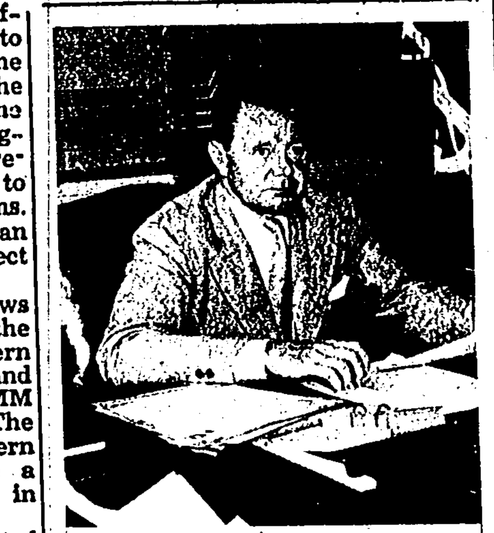
They said a withdrawal was suggested by the current trench digging and fortification work just inside the northern zone, obviously for the benefit of the Soviet-trained north Korean Army.

U. S. diplomatic and military officials have expected Russia to withdraw her forces for some time in an attempt to embarrass the United States. They predict the Russians will follow up with charges that the United States is remaining in the southern zone to further its "imperialistic" designs.

Officials here said a Russian withdrawal would "have no effect on the United States."

"We know and the world knows that the Russians have given the Korean Puppet Army modern equipment, including planes and mechanized artillery up to 120 MM cannon," one official said. "The Soviet-trained Army in northern Korea is also known to have a hard core of Koreans trained in Russia."

Russia proposed to the United States last September that occupation forces of both nations be withdrawn from Korea by Jan. 1, 1948. This was rejected by the United States pending creation of an independent, United Korean government.



John L. Sullivan (U. S. Navy Photo)

Navy May Enlarge Active Fleet

BOSTON, April 1 —(UP)— Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan said today that if military manpower is extended, the Navy will increase ships and planes of the active fleet.

Speaking to the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Sullivan urged "immediate increase" in the armed forces to preserve world peace. He called for quick passage of the draft and Universal Military Training.

These measures would "give our Navy more evident and convincing Naval power, including mobile striking air power," Sullivan said.

He said it would mean a "better balanced fleet in two critical areas of the world—Europe and the Far East" and would "increase our supporting forces on both coasts."

There are now about 470,000 officers and men in the Navy and Marine Corps and 271 combat ships in the active fleet. Defense Secretary James Forrestal has requested Congress to increase authorized strength by 63,000 men for the Navy and 10,691 for the Marine Corps.

Striking Japs Ignore Anti-Strike Ban

TOKYO, April 1 —(UP)— Ninety thousand striking Japanese government communications workers today ignored a sweeping Allied headquarters anti-strike ban and refused to return to work in four prefectures.

Seventeen hours after occupation officials issued their second order against the crippling walkouts, union headquarters here still had failed to call off a series of regional strikes.

Strike leaders instead continued to press the government for ratification of a compromise wage agreement drafted Wednesday.

The Allied orders, issued by Maj. Gen. William Marquat, chief of the economic and scientific section, outlawed "systematic" regional strikes, which have been staged by telephone, telegraph and postal employes.

Union leaders devised the regional strike system after headquarters banned nation-wide strikes. In this manner, workers in one section would strike for 24 hours, then return to work while workers in another section walked out.

Jews Capture 30 Arabs In Reprisal Raid

JERUSALEM, April 1 —(UP)— Unconfirmed reports said that Jewish forces captured a bus full of 30 Arabs today in a reprisal raid for the Solomon's Pool battle in which 18 Jews were killed and 55 wounded.

These reports said the bus was seized as it travelled north from Hebron toward Jerusalem. Its passengers were reported taken at Kafr Ezion, a Jewish settlement south of Jerusalem that has been under sporadic Arab attack.

The Arab higher committee said Arab representatives in Hebron denied that an Arab bus had been captured.

Reports from Tel Aviv said Irgunists seized a British police armored car yesterday, forced its crew to undress and drove off with the British uniforms.

The Jewish community of Jerusalem, meanwhile, rationed food to stretch out supplies cut short by the Arab blockade of food shipments from Tel Aviv.

Costa Rican Capital Bombed by Rebels

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 1 —(UP)— Rebel forces bombed this Costa Rican capital today for the first time.

The rebels used an American DC-3 transport plane captured from Taca Airlines to drop one bomb and shower leaflets promising more attacks.

Eyewitnesses said the bomb hit a wing of the Presidential Palace, causing a fire, and showered houses within a block with fragments. It was not believed that anyone was injured.

The plane used was one of three captured by the rebels at San Isidro airfield early in the fighting.

Czech-Red Coup Before UN Security Council

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 1 —(UP)— Charges that Russia engineered the Communist Coup in Czechoslovakia came up for debate in the United Nations today and sources close to the American delegation said the Security Council might vote for full investigation.

But no one ruled out the possibility of a Russian veto despite the charter provision that parties to a dispute may not vote on questions relating to peaceful settlement.

300 Guerrillas Escape Greek Army Trap

SALONIKA, April 1 —(UP)— Authoritative sources reported tonight that the Greek Army's "test offensive" had ended in failure as at least 300 and perhaps all guerrillas previously cornered in the Kroussia mountains slipped out of the Army's net around them.

The guerrillas were reported hurrying southeast toward Kalon Kastrop, where some elements of them were located by Greek planes. It was said the guerrillas faced only two army companies before reaching an area of comparative safety.

The Royal Hellenic Air Force flew at least a dozen missions today firing rockets and heavy machine-guns at the fleeing guerrillas who were said to have presented frequent "good targets."

The planes pinned down some of the guerrillas, and it was said that whether any success would be salvaged from the operation depended upon the speed of Army ground forces in reaching the scene.

Observers said the escape of the guerrillas indicated American mission members have not yet succeeded in teaching the Greek Army how to tighten the noose on a cornered foe.

Togliatti Booed At Communist Rally

ROME, April 1 —(UP)— A Communist rally turned into a pro-American demonstration today when Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's Communist chieftain, was booed and shouted down by cries of "long live the United States."

Togliatti was addressing 20,000 people at a Communist-left wing Socialist election rally at Lecce, in the heel of the Italian boot. He denounced American aid to Italy and exalted the possibility that Russia might send Italy wheat.

Boos and catcalls forced Togliatti to be silent for five minutes, during which anti-Communists shouted praise of the United States. Then the anti-Communists marched off in a body, continuing their cries of "long live America," leaving Togliatti to finish his speech to only a few remaining Communists and leftist Socialists.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi, addressing 50,000 people at Calgiaria, taunted Togliatti with the prospect of a government victory in the April 18 election.

Togliatti, Gasperi said, was asking what the government would do after a Communist front election victory.

"Let Togliatti be calm and not worry," the premier said, "Because we will have to be preoccupied with the result of a victory for the government bloc."

Six Billion For Marshall Plan; China Spain Inclusion in ERP Okayed

WASHINGTON, April 7 —(UP)— The House today passed its $6,205,0000,000 global foreign aid bill to provide American arms, money and reconstruction supplies for China and Communist-threatened Europe

The roll call vote was announced as 329 to 74. It came back after a motion by Rep. Glen D. Johnson, (D-Okla.), to send the bill back to the Committee.

The legislation was sent to the Senate where it faced almost certain rejection because that body handled the world-wide aid project that differs in some major respects from the "single passage" House version.

The House bill, labelled by its friends and foes as an anti-Communist "war measure," provides:

$5,300,000,000 for the first year of the four-year European Recovery Program in which the 16 Marshall Plan nations" House version also includes Franco Spain in ERP, but strong Senate opposition was expected to erase that added $570,000,000 for a 15-month aid program in China, including $150,000,000 for military supplies and $42,000,000 of economic aid and $175,000,000 for military assistance to Greece and Turkey.

$60,000,000 for the United Nations children's relief fund.

House action came as President Truman signed into law a bill carrying $55,000,000 of emergency relief funds to carry France, Italy, and Austria until ERP goes into operation.

Just before the bill passed, Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, (D-Calif.), demanded a new vote on the inclusion of Spain in ERP, which the House approved tentatively yesterday on a standing vote of 149 to 52.

It was okayed this time by a margin of 188 to 104.

A substitute bill offered by Rep. Vito Marcantonio, (A.L.P.-N.Y.), to authorize a $25,000,000,000 ERP administered by the United Nations was smothered under a 270 to 3 vote.

Opposed to ERP

Most of the opposition centered on the ERP phase of the four-part bill. When that section won tentative approval on a series of test votes resistance to the rest of the program faded.

Rep. Mike Mansfield, (D-Mont.), offered an amendment to strike out all military aid provisions. It was defeated by an overwhelming 152 to 18 margin and the House went on to reject by a 113 to 31 vote another proposal by Rep. Richards, (D-S.C.), to eliminate the $420,000,000 economic aid for China.

The ERP section, which administration leaders regard as the key issue in the entire program, provides for a single aid administration with broad powers, including authority to forbid shipments of any potentially valuable war materials to Russia and her satellites.

Like the Senate bill, it rules out an administration plan to charter 250 American merchant ships to the Marshall Plan countries.

Chairman John Taber, (R-N.Y.), of the House Appropriations Committee said there was a chance his committee could not produce a money bill appropriating the foreign aid funds before May 10. However, the measure authorizes the reconstruction finance corporation to advance $1,000,000,000 to get the global aid project started immediately on enactment.

Navy Still Trying To Free Marines Held by Reds

SHANGHAI, April 1 —(UP)— United States Navy sources assured today that every effort is being made to obtain the release of four U.S. Marines held prisoners by the Chinese Communists.

The Marines were on a hunting party Christmas Day when they disappeared. A Chinese Communist radio broadcast on Feb. 14 announced they had been captured and that a fifth Marine had died of wounds received in the fight.

Naval sources said nothing official about the Marines had been heard except the broadcast. Contacts have been made, however, with minor Red officials at Haiyang, on the east coast of the Shantung Peninsula, in an effort to have them released.

It was believed from these contacts that the Marines were well cared for. The Navy and Marine Corps had every hope that they eventually would be released, the Navy sources said.

The missing Marines are Cpl. William L. Pollard, Fort Worth, Tex.; Pfc. Carroll W. Dickerson, Olathe, Kans.; Pvt. Robert Hart, Pittsburgh; Pfc. Thomas Kapodistra, Buffalo, N.Y., and Pfc. Charles J. Brayton, Fort Jay, Governor's Island, New York. Brayton was the one who the Communist radio said was dead.

Attention of all Guam Congress members is called to the regular monthly joint session being held Saturday, April 3, 1948 at 8:30 a.m.

Guamanian Commits Suicide

AGANA — Joaquin Duenas Quichocho, 64, resident of Yona Village, was found Wednesday night in the outskirts of Yona Village hanging by the neck.

Quichocho was said to have left his home Wednesday morning to go out in the fields for the purpose of gathering herbs for medicine. He had been ill for some time in the past.

When he did not return that evening, his family notified Yona Police, who immediately assembled a searching party of policemen and Boy Scouts from Troop 1 at Yona.

Quichocho's body was found about 9:10 p.m. hanging from a Chupag tree southeast of the Yona Church. He was pronounced dead upon arrival of the medical commissioner.

Ship Holding Protested

LONDON, April 1 —(UP)— The Moscow radio reported today that Russia has protested the alleged detention of the Soviet ship Rossia in the United States.

The broadcast said U. S. authorities "put an embargo" on the departure of the 16,000-ton vessel from New York on March 18.

"According to available information," the protest said, "American authorities attempted to jusify their unlawful action on the grounds of a court claim by two passengers who had allegedly received injuries on the Rossia when it was buffeted by heavy seas."

A Jiji dispatch from Osaka said the mishap was due to defective air brakes. The first wooden coach of the express train crashed into the last steel coach of the electric train.

WASHINGTON, April 1 —(UP)— President Truman has asked governors of oil-producing states to increase production as much as possible, but with an eye to conservation for future needs, it was revealed today.

Mob Storms Home

COLUMBUS, O., April 1 —(UP) —An angry mob of 150 persons tonight stormed the house of Rank Hashmall, No. 1 Communist leader here, and witnesses said the house was "literally ripped apart."

Every available policeman and 13 cruisers were sent to the scene to break up the crowd that had gathered at Hashmall's house on the south side. Hashmall and his family were not believed home at the time, but officers said they did not know their whereabouts.

Police said the house was badly damaged. Windows were broken, furniture was ripped apart, and concrete blocks were torn from the house.

'Marshall Should Go,' Urges Knutson

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Rep. Harold Knutson (R-Minn.) Monday renewed his demand that Secretary of State George C. Marshall be ousted from office "without delay.".

Elaborating on an editorial published last week in his newspaper, the Wadena, Minn., Pioneer Journal, Knutson said Marshall's dismissal was necessary "if we would avert war."

"With the critical conditions existing all over the world today, it is imperative that the foreign affairs of this country be in the hands of trained, skilled diplomats," he said. "Based on his record of numerous failures, I don't believe Marshall meets those qualifications."

Knutson, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Marshall "may be a great soldier" but that he had found "nothing impressive anywhere in Marshall's record as Secretary of State."

He said he was particularly dissatisfied with the results of Marshall's diplomatic mission to China, the big four meeting in Moscow last year and the "about-face" on the Palestine issue."

Knutson's published editorial was entitled "Marshall Should Go." In it, the Congressman described the Secretary as "pompous and self-opinionated in the extreme."

Prospector Reports Rich Diamond Find

REGINA, Sask. —(UP)— A prospector has reported a diamond strike in the northern part of Saskatchewan, the Department of Mineral Resources said recently.

Asks Exclusive Rights

John G. Johnson, a prospector in the Flin Flon area, has asked for exclusive diamond prospecting rights in the province, reporting that he has found five diamonds, the largest as big as a marble.

If the diamond strike is proved it will be the first time any diamonds have been discovered in Canada.

"What would appear to back up his claim is that the stones were said to have been discovered in Kimberlite, a blue rock in which diamonds are usually found."

Women Outdo Men in Suicide Attempts

EVANSTON, Ill. —(UP)— More women attempt suicide than men, but more men actually kill themselves, a Northwestern University study shows.

A report, supervised by Alex J. Arieff, included 500 actual suicide attempts.

Arieff, associate in nervous and mental diseases in the university's medical school, said 52 per cent of the attempts in the age group below 20 were hysterical or fake. In the next age group, 20 to 30 slightly less than half were fake, but in the 50 to 70 age bracket, only one per cent were insincere.

Acute alcoholism was found to be a precipitating, but not causative factor, in from 40 to 50 per cent of the cases. "From this we can safely concluded that many suicidal attempts never would have been made if alcoholism did not enter into the picture," the report said.

Other points made by the researchers included: "There are more suicides in urban than in rural communities: fewer among Catholics and Jews than among followers of other faiths: and fewer among married persons than among single, widowed or divorced. The latter have highest suicide rate."

Eisenhower Accepts BSA Membership

General Dwight D. Eisenhower has accepted membership on the National Executive board of the Boy Scouts of America, it was announced Monday, March 29, by Amory Houghton, president of the organization.

An advocate of scouting over the years, General Eisenhower supported a drive for wastepaper conducted by the Boy Scouts throughout the nation during the last year of the war. By collecting 318,000 tons of paper in two months 299,936 Scouts qualified for the General Eisenhower boy scout watespaper campaign medal. A good replica of it was presented to him in Washington, December 1945.

"The Boy Scouts movement merits the unstinted support of every American who wants to make this country and his world a better place in which to live." General Eisenhower said when he received the medal. "Its emphasis on community service and tolerance and world friendship promotes a speedier attainment of the enduring peace among men for which we all strive.

"By developing among its members both a spirit of sturdiness, self-reliance and a realization of the need for cooperative effort in every major enterprise, the movement is a prime force in preparing tomorrow's men for their duty to themselves, their country and their world.

"Here in the United States the Boy Scouts of America has accomplished much in its years of service. But today, more than ever before, we need expansion of its membership and influence."

In May 1946, the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America conferred upon General Eisenhower the award of the Silver Buffalo "for distinguished service to boyhood." It is scouting's highest award for national or international service.

A BASEBALL PREDICTION . . . .It's easier to tear down a prediction than make one. The great Oddsmaker, J.J Carroll, is set on the Yanks and Red Sox in the American League and I see no harm in making a prediction of that sort but "lo and behold" the Cardinals are his favorite in the National.

The Cardinals have had some great teams in their past years and it looks as if Mr. Carroll seems to think the Cards can't make off with a bad season.

After looking over the Cardinal roster, I find several players that will never see thirty again and they happened to be the little "if's" needed to win this year's pennant according to Manager Eddie Dyer. The Cubs, God bless 'em, have been regarded as out of the race, according to most sports writers, because they are considered ready to use "walking canes". It so happens that the Cubs don't have as many "if's" as the Cardinals when it comes to a showdown.

Beazley Brecheen, Wilber, Marion, Musial, Moore and Slaughter have birth dates ranging between 1912 and 1919, with those in 1919 having celebrated their 30th birthday the first of this year. This shows baseball's "old age" has finally caught the Cardinal's all time greats

Most people having made predictions such as mine would quickly change them after seeing Mr. Carroll's but I still place the Cardinals in second division. Boston, Pittsburgh, Booklyn and New York are going to be red hot this season and just a little too hot for the Cards to handle. Everyone usually makes a prediction but no one really knowns until the last of the season rolls around. We'll take it from there. . . .

BASEBALL ON THE ROCK......A lot of compliments have been thrown this way about the little "specialties" added to the Island's baseball season. Most of them are about the fact that most commands have named their baseball teams. The NOB Industrial Command named their club the "Miners" and have called their field, "Miner Stadium". They were the first to really bring out the added attraction and most commands have obliged by naming their club and field. For those that wish to "take off their hats" to the command mostly responsible—tip them towards NOB Industrial.

High School, College Football Bigwigs Adopt New Rule Code; Effective '48

NEW YORK April 1, —(UP)— The rules of football were streamlined today into a single code for both colleges and high schools under a compromise agreement on nearly 150 differences existing previously in the two sets of rules.

The new code, adopted after a three day session by representatives of national collegiate and high school groups, will go into effect next season.

Although spectators will see few appreciable changes in the game, the work of coaches, game officials and even players will be highly simplified, said William J. Bingham of Harvard, chairman of the National Collegiate rules committee.

"This is a great step forward," Bingham said. "We have been trying for more than a year to straighten out the differences between high school and college football which have been present for 15 years.

Some six or eight differences, however, will remain. The colleges still will play 15 minute quarters ... for high schools, and col... ...ll permit only one ... ...ile the clock is running ... ...ad ball situations ... ...schools will continue ... ...ds.

All track managers and coaches are reminded to be present at the meeting at the Fifth Service Depot Monday afternoon to discuss plans for the Island track meet scheduled for April 17.

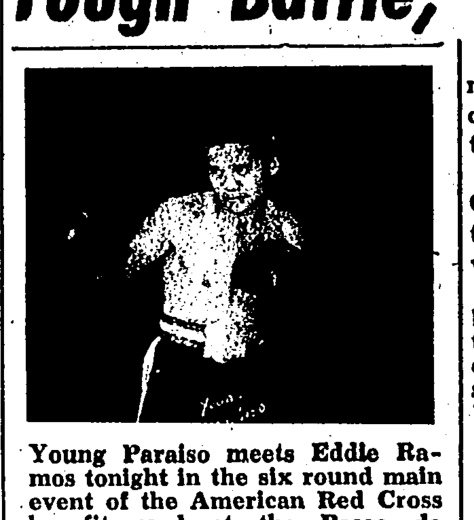
Wildcats Extend Oilers to Limit But Lose Tough Battle, 53-49 in Olympic Final



Young Paraiso meets Eddie Ramos tonight in the six round main event of the American Red Cross benefit card at the Paseo de Susana.

NEW YORK, April 1 —(UP)— Phillips' flying Oilers, playing like mad men because they had to, won the National Olympic basketball championship tonight with a 53 to 49 victory over a magnificent Kentucky team that lost no stature in defeat.

It was one of the most bitterly fought contests in Madison Square Garden annals and a thoroughly thrilled throng of 18,475 sat limp at the finish, too exhausted even to give a cheer to the superman-sized winner.

Phillips, winning its 62nd victory in 65 starts this season, never before had been extended in such a manner. And at the finish when the hulking green and orange clad lads from Bartlesville, Okla., walked off with the gleaming Olympic trophy, it was apparent that their superior height had turned the trick.

It was a game of many extremes For a time in the first half it looked as if Kentucky would walk away with it. The Riflin' Rebels, with their broad-beamed coach Adolph Rupp, shouting instructions from the side lines without hesitation, took a 20 to 13 lead at the 12 minute mark and there were those in the big house who thought they would roar on in.

But that was before the cowboy, Indian and petroleum country boys got good and warmed up. Hurriedly, the Oilers retaliated in a magnificent drive in which they scored 11 points in four minutes, going ahead at 21-20.

Play it Safe

From then on until the intermission whistle it was a succession of goal trading and absolutely nobody in the house was surprised when Ken Rollins of Kentucky hit a set-shot with five seconds to go to deadlock the count at 26-all.

At the intermission tip-off, the Oilers gave a quick tip-off on what their strategy would be from there out. Driving in, but waiting until they were reasonably sure of their shots, they rolled up goals with regularity as seven-foot Center Bob Kurland led the way by making three quick field goals and Jesse Renick contributed a timely follow shot and a free throw. That gave Bartlesville its biggest lead of the night, 37 to 27 at the five minute mark.

Everybody but Kentucky knew it was all over at that time but the blue bloods from the blue grass country thought everybody else was kidding. They hadn't lost a ball game on the Garden floor this year and losing comes hard to Rupp's Riflers wherever they play but particularly in the big Eighth Avenue pop-shot palace they have come a regard as their home floor.

'Cats Come Back

And so they drove. Maybe they were a little wild like women drivers, but like women drivers they were pretty good at hitting their target.

Ralph Beard, probably he most outstanding player to appear here this year, led the resurgence by hitting with his side shot specialties and with drive-ins while Ken Holland contributed a lay-up and a free throw and Wallace Jones also hit with a foul shot. That cut the lead of the Oilers to 40-37 at the 10-minute mark and from then on in there was a wild stretch of basket trading.

Phillips finally elected to freeze with two and a half minutes to go and with a lead of 51 to 47. Kurland, Gerald Tucker and Renick contributed baskets in the wild exchange while Beard was doing everything for Kentucky before the Oilers applied the ice treatment.

Paraiso-Ramos Headlsners in ARC Benefit

Twenty-eight rounds of fistic festivities with a hula dance thrown in for good measure will be offered on the American Red Cross benefit boxing card tonight at the Paseo de Susana.

A double main event, featuring Young Paraiso and Eddie Ramos, and Young Teddy against Sammy Diaz, headlines the fistfests.

Young Paraiso, tipping in at 118, belongs to the Gon Ladrazo-Little Campo fraternity and should keep Ramos occupied for the scheduled six rounds.

Youthful Teddy, Island-renown for holding Benny Fallica to a ten round draw, holds a slight edge over Sluggin' Sam, the Post Engineers man.

MKK's Tuffy Salcedo, 135 pounds, tangles with Vicky Unpingco in the five round semi-final clash, while Jesse Aguon, 112 pound pride and joy from Toto Village, meets Abbey Masamoc in a four round special bout.

In the preliminaries, Greg Acevido meets Shorty Domingco and Alfredo Guiterrez is slated to fight Slim Quezon.

Miss Laverne, hula dancer from Hawaii, will wiggle the grass for the pugilistic patrons as an added attraction during the benefit bouts.

Tickets, which include the dance routine, are on sale at Guam Commercial store. The preliminaries start at 1930.

Fraser Turns Pro

SUN VALLEY, Ida., April 1 —(UP)— The Sun Valley public relations office tonight confirmed the report that pigtailed Gretchen Fraser, Olympic ski champion, would turn professional here.

Jim Scanlan, publicity director, said Mrs. Fraser would return here April 15 to discuss terms of a contact to do pomotional films for this resort. However, Scanlan said that only Union Pacific Railroad President George F. Ashby would be authorized to sign the contract.

Scanlan denied that Mrs. Fraser had any connection with 20th Century Fox films but admitted she was a good friend of Darryl Zanuck.

Group Insurance Plan For Boxers In Penna.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1 —(UP) A group insurance plan covering all boxers performing in Pennsylvania rings in the event of injury was announced today by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

The plan, to cover every boxer in a Pennsylvania ring whether or not he is a Pennsylvanian, will provide for hospitalization, medical attention and surgery in the event of injury in the ring. It also includes a death benefit should a fatality occur.

Free to Boxer

The joint announcement by Chairman Leon Rains and Commissioners George Jones, Jr., and John Montgomery, said the plan, free of charge to the boxer "was formulated" and probably would be in operation within six weeks.

What is believed to be the nation's first insurance of boxers will be financed independent of state assistance through a disabled boxers' fund instituted by Rains and made possible through the cooperation of Pennsylvania promoters.

The fund was inaugurated nine years ago when Rains suggested that promoters collect 15-cents on every complimentary fight ticket to aid injured boxers.

Since the fund was established, scores of boxers injured in ring engagements were aided. It assumed much of the medical costs when fighters were hurt seriously, and on at least four occasions, was credited with saving a boxer's life when surgical aid beyond his means was undertaken.

Verducci to Coach Gaels

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1 —(UP)— Joe Verducci, brilliant young San Francisco high school coach, tonight was selected as head football coach at St. Mary's College to replace Irish Jimmy Phelan.

Verducci, 37, was the unanimous choice of St. Mary's athletic officials from a field of nearly 100 candidates "because of his outstanding record" as coach of Polytechnic high school here and of the U.S. Coast Guard eleven at Alameda, Calif., during the war.

RANGERS TOP RED WINGS

NEW YORK, April 1 —(UP)— The New York Rangers scored two times within 34 seconds during the second period and added another goal in the third tonight to defeat the Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 1, and even their Stanley Cup series before 15,772 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Charles - Ray Match Set For April 12

CHICAGO, April 1 —(UP)— Postponement of the Ezzard Charles-Elmer Ray fight from April 7 until April 12 was approved by the Illinois Athletic Commission today after receipt of a physical examination report on Charles.

Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun asked the postponement when Charles reported he suffered from a cold in his back which prevented him from training.

He was ordered to submit to an examination by the physician of the Cincinnati Boxing Commission, and when the Illinois Commission received his report they voted in a telephone poll to authorize the delay.

Charles and the promoters each were to contribute from their share of the Ray receipts to a $10,000 fund for the family of Sam Baroudi, who died Feb. 21 from injuries suffered in a fight with Charles.

Airborne Food Supplies Reach Berlin as Russia Keeps Blockade

BERLIN, April 3 —(UP)— Americans in Berlin were fed from airborne supplies today as a Russian authority asserted that the Soviet blockade against rail transport to the German capital would be maintained to keep "western spies" out of the Russian zone.

Seven U.S. Air Force transports carrying nearly four tons of food each already had landed at Tempelhof Airdrome in the American zone of Berlin. Ten more were expected today. Even the brief milk shortage resulting when two American trains were halted by the Russians Wednesday night appeared about to be ended by air shipments of milk.

British food trains carrying supplies for both German residents of the British zone of the city and the 10,000 British troops and civilians here passed into the city without difficulty.

The Russians served notice that the blockade would not be removed and in fact might be made stronger.

In an impassioned speech at Halle, 60 miles south of Berlin, the Soviet propaganda Chief Col. Serge Tulpanov asserted that the measures were necessary to keep western spies from using Berlin as a gateway into the Russian occupation zone.

"Many spies have been sent to Berlin and from there into the Soviet zone to carry out espionage orders," he charged.

Getting closer to what many here believed was the real point of the Russion blockade, Tulpanov also charged that the Americans and British have "plundered" Berlin by moving large quantities of machines and equipment to the west, and have thus created a serious unemployment situation.

The United States had hoped to obtain $2,300,000 in exports from Berlin in 1948. The Russian blockade appeared a possible bid to cut off these exports.

Tulpanov said spies had sought economic, military and political information from the Soviet zone of Germany.

"I cannot permit these activities to be continued," he said. "For this reason alone we should keep our controls to protect our orders."

Further indicating the blockade would not be relaxed due to American and British protests, he added:

"What we have decided will not be changed. We will keep the western German monopolists from exploiting the American and British occupation forces to secure their aims."

Tax-Cut Bill Becomes A Law Despite Veto

WASHINGTON, April 3 —(UP)— Congress today enacted the Republican $4,800,000,000 income tax reduction bill into law over a Presidential veto.

It gave 55,000,000 Americans their first major tax reduction in nearly 20 years. Some 7,400,000 of them were taken completely off federal tax rolls.

Both the House and Senate voted by better than the two-thirds majority to put he tax cut into effect despite the veto President Truman slapped on it today.

The Senate vote was 77 to 10—19 over the necessary two thirds.

The Senate vote followed the House vote of 311 to 88, or 45 more than the two-thirds majority.

Party Deserts

Members of Mr. Truman's own party deserted him in sufficient numbers to override the veto. Republicans did not have enough votes in either house to do it by themselves.

The veto was a stinging one. Mr. Truman said it would imperil world peace and prosperity at home. He said it would "undermine" government finances. He said it was inequitable by giving more relief to the wealthier than to the poor.

But both Houses—conscious of the election year—gave short shrift to Mr. Truman's arguments.

Less than an hour after the House heard the veto message it voted 311 to 88 to override the veto. That was 45 votes more than the necessary two-third majority.

The bill then was sped to the Senate. Action there was almost as swift.

Congress Expected To Expand Air Force

WASHINGTON, April 3 —(UP) A member of the House Armed Services Committee predicted today that Congress will vote funds for an expanded 70-group Air Force regardless of administration plans.

Sentiment Strong

Rep. Paul W. Shafer, (R-Mich.), said Congressional sentiment for increasing U.S. air power is so strong that "it won't even be necessary to take a roll call vote."

Shafer and other House members contemplated that the $14,000,000,000 revised National Budget which President Truman proposed yesterday discriminates against the Air Force. The President asked an additional $3,000,000,000 for the Armed Services, and $375,000,000 for the stockpiling of strategic war materials.

"He should have asked for $5,000,000,000 for the Armed Forces," said Shafer. "The request for the Air Force is less than one-third of what is necessary for a 70-group Force."

Major Provisions For Tax Cut Bill

WASHINGTON, April 3 —(UP) Here are the major provisions of the Republican tax-cut bill:

Increases personal exemptions from the present $500 to $600 for each taxpayer and dependent.

Provides special exemption of $600 for the blind and for persons over 65.

Permits Joint Income

Permits husbands and wives in all states to split their income for tax purposes, thus paying lower surtax rates. This privilege now is enjoyed only by married couples in the so-called community property states.

Provides a 12.6 per cent cut in income taxes of $400 and under; A 7.4 per cent cut on that part of income taxes between $400 and $100,000; and a 5 per cent cut on taxes over $100,000.

The bill's provisions are retroactive to Jan. 1. However, the first practical effects of the measure will not become apparent until May 1, when taxes withheld from payrolls will be reduced.

Refunds for overpayments in the first four months of this year will not be made until 1949—after taxpayers make out the returns for 1948.

Congress Puts Final O.K. on Global Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, April 3 —(UP) Congress will stamp a final okay on the $6,098,000,000 Global Aid Bill today and President Truman is expected to throw the vast program in gear by the weekend.

Quick House and Senate approval, in that order, was slated for the "single package" measure which includes the European Recovery Program and anti-Communist aid for Greece, Turkey and China.

President Truman is expected to sign the bill tomorrow. His aides already were drafting temporary orders for the State Department to start spending. The first shipments may move out of American ports by sundown tomorrow.

The final version of the bill was worked out last night by a 10-man Senate-House Conference committee. They beat a midnight deadline by minutes in compromising differences between the bills previously approved by the House and Senate.

Driving through the day and far into the night, the conferees, headed by Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg, acted with almost unprecedented speed in an atmosphere made tense by new Russian pressure in Berlin and the critical nature of the approaching Italian elections.

American Blood Used By Japs as Bedbug Bait

YOKOHAMA, April 3 —(UP)— A Japanese doctor testified before a War Crimes Commission today that the liver and blood taken from the body of an American airman killed in a fantastic medical experiment were used as bait for bedbugs.

The doctor was Tozo Maekawa, former medical advisor at Fukuoka prisoner of war camp near Kyushu Imperial University where this and similar operations were performed on eight American fliers.

Maekawa said he first saw the blood in a cloth-wrapped flask carried by a medical probation officer who said it had been extracted from an American flier on whom a lung, liver and heart operation had been performed.

Maekawa said he warned the officer, Taku Komori, not to go through with the experiments, but Komori "seemed not to be concerned."

Komori reportedly was killed in an air raid over Fukuoka July 10, 1945.

LATE BULLETIN

Shipment of Food Resumed To Americans in Berlin

BERLIN, April 3 —(UP)— Rail shipments of food for the 10,000 Americans in Berlin resumed tonight, and the Russians promptly gave assurance that the trains would pass unmolested through the Russian zone of Germany.

The crisis which resulted when the Soviet Union clamped new restrictions upon transport from and to the German capital Wednesday midnight eased noticeably. It had caused cancellation of all American train movements for some 48 hours, and had resulted in establishment of a shuttle plane transport service from Frankfurt to feed United States troops and civilians here.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American Military Commander, ordered a food train to leave Brunswick immediately, entering the Russian zone at the border point of Helmstedt, and proceeding from there to Berlin.

Truman to End Soft Coal Strike With Court Injunction

WASHINGTON, April 3 —(UP)— Government labor experts said today President Truman probably will order the Justice Department to seek a court injunction early next week to end the soft coal strike.

These sources said Mr. Truman has about concluded that a Taft-Hartley law injunction is the only way the walkout can be stopped. Such an order would be effective for about 80 days.

Mr. Truman is expected to make public tomorrow the report of a presidential fact-finding board which studied the 19-day-old soft coal walkout. The board reportedly advised him that the strike "endangers the national health and safety."

Meanwhile, James Boyd, director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, told a reporter that if the walkout continues into next week "a lot of the nation's basic industries will be forced to shut down, including some steel mills and railroads." He said coal supplies have reached a "dangerous low level" and something wil have to be done.

The soft coal dispute is over pensions for the miners. Lewis demanded $100 a month pensions for all miners over 60 with 20 years service. The mine industry trustee on the multi-million dollar health and welfare fund, which would pay the pensions, has rejected Lewis' plan.
