Dear Sirs:

I have just returned from my trip and want to thank you, the Delegates and the people of Micronesia again for everything. The whirlwind tour in one I shall never forget.

Yesterday I was with our Interagency Group to report on the trip. Mr. and Mrs. L. would very much like to have your Delegation's comments after you and your Delegation have had a chance to review our proposal. So I ask you to please study this document carefully, particularly those areas which define our view of what our basic relationships should be, and provide us with your views as soon as possible.

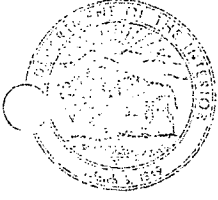

The Interagency Group does feel that expressing your reactions to our draft is very important, particularly in view of your expressed desire that this be the last meeting. With these comments at hand, the Interagency Group can then review our own position and suggest a date for another session.

Sincerely,

Harrison Luesch

Dear Laxarua:

I have just returned from my trip and want to thank you, the Congress and the people of Micronesia again for everything. The whirlwind tour is one I shall never forget.

Yesterday I met with our Interagency Group to report on the trip. They, and I, would very much like to have your Delegation's executive officer and your Delegation have had a chance to review our proposal. So I ask you to please study this document carefully, particularly those areas which define our views of what our basic relationships should be, and provide us with your views as soon as possible.

The Interagency Group does feel that receiving your reactions to our draft is very important, particularly in view of your expressed desire that this be the last meeting. With these comments at hand, the Interagency Group can then review our own position and suggest a date for another session.

Sincerely,
Sgt. Harrison Leesch
