DREAMS

By Joe Murphy

Drew Kay, upset with yesterday's news story about opposition in the U.S. Senate to the proposed Commonwealth of the Marianas, sat down and wrote some letters to some of the U.S. Senators, giving strong support to the Marianas.

He suggests that other people on Guam do the same, to back up the people of the Marianas in their battle. He said that we let them down before, but now we have a chance to make up for this by trying to smooth their waters.

Good point. If the Senate is worried about extending the defense perimeter to the Northern Marianas, somebody should tell them about the American citizens now living on Guam, a bare 40 miles away. We also assume that we are being protected.
